Delegates Devine, Engstrom, Fritzell, Griffin, Jestrab, Larsen, Litten, Meidinger, Poulson, Sanstead and Sullivan.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report of the majority be adopted.

Mr. President: A minority of your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-16, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Billey, Christensen, Knudson, Lander and Peterson.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Lander moves that the report of the minority be substituted for the report of the majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the motion to substitute the report of the minority for that of the majority on Committee Proposal No. 1-16.

Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

It's my turn. I am not an orator, but I hope I can communicate with you better than I did with the press when I tried to retract a statement and it came out worse than my original statement did.

Section 2 of Article VI I feel very strongly about. And I'll try to give you some reason why I feel this strongly.

Now we lifted Section 2 directly from the Illinois Constitution word for word. Now Illinois felt that this was on the same plane as the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. And they felt that the class action is needed to insure the standing in court for those who would not otherwise have this right.

Now I think there's been a lot of confusion on what we mean by "class action", and I hesitate some getting up and trying to describe what class action is amongst all these lawyers because I might have to have some corrections. So I wrote down the particular requirements from Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which I think will describe class action. And if you have any questions on it, I'll probably have some lawyer answer it rather than myself.

A class suit is a legal procedure which has been rapidly expanding in the last decade, so it's coming on fast. And I do have a lot of laws from the different states on the same type of thing. It allows an exception to the rule that everyone who is aggrieved must be named in the lawsuit papers as a suing party. It allows one or more persons to sue as representatives of a whole class of injured persons.

In the usual class suit, the court must first determine if there is a group of persons who have a common interest in some occurrence. It must then decide that the class is so numerous that naming all its members is impracticable. It must find that proceeding by a class action is better than other means for handling the dispute, and that the persons in whose name the suit is being brought will do a fair and adequate job of protecting the interests of the class.

Now, most states, or a lot of them, have similar provisions but not necessarily applying to the Environmental Protection Act. But some states do not have the class action rules and many courts are not willing to construe liberally the class action rules that are on the books.

Now, in fact, I picked up — I picked up my Grand Forks Herald, which they are kind enough to put on my desk, and it discusses this Duluth case. In reading it, it says: "The case also illustrates the discouragement and difficulty the government — meaning the EPA — and private citizens face as they try to clean up the nation's water." This is in regard to Reserve Mining's dumping of sixty-some thousand tons of tailings in Lake Superior.

But going on for reasons and some of the reasons why I so specifically would like to see Section 2 as a constitutional rather than a statutory thing, we have — we have good laws in — I don't mean perfect laws, but we have laws in North Dakota in regard to water and air pollution but they are not being enforced. There is such an overlap, and also they are not adequately funded or staffed. And you have on the different boards and commissions, you have a lot of people with vested interests that are so strong that the citizen doesn't or isn't able to take care of the things that upset him as far as the environmental situation things. So many people also have the relative connection of what we feel about environment. I mean they feel like you should leave the status quo. And I don't think — my feeling is that we've made a lot of studies on living things and their habitat. We know why certain species have become extinct. But we need a lot more study of man and his relation to organic and inorganic matter and how we as a species will survive on our planet earth.

There was — I don't know how many of you read this article by Professor Forester on this simulated computer study. And going the way we are going now, he doesn't give us much time; fifty years at the most until we have an environmental catastrophe.

Now as far as examples are concerned, I know there's a lot of fear of how this is working in other states. Constitutionally, we have Illinois, Virginia; and statutory laws are in Michigan, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Florida, Indiana; weaker laws, but a class action law nevertheless, in Minnesota. And there are about 25 in the coffers. I have quite a few of these laws here in case anyone is interested in seeing them.

Now in Michigan, which was the embryo where they first started class action suits specifically related to environmental protection, it started in the fall of 1970 but in one year they had less than two dozen suits, and half of those were made by governmental agencies because they found it a better tool than the laws they had. And very interestingly enough, they ranged all the way from drilling oil in forests to enforcement of the state agencies. And of course the Attorney General having to take the state's side in one case, ended up on both sides. First he'd be on one side and then on the other side. But as we would set it up, I don't think that the Legislature would have a lot of restrictions. Massachusetts, you have to file with the Attorney General, the legislative agency, you deposit $500, the case has to be accepted by the courts. No case has gotten any further than the circuit court in Michigan.

Now I'm going to yield to my — isn't Delegate Sanstead here this morning? Oh! Because Delegate Sanstead and myself were the original — the Committee accepted our proposal, but we were both originally very interested in this type of thing. And I am disturbed that he is not here, because many of the things that he was going to bring out I could have brought out if I had known that he wouldn't be here. Now I'm not sure what to do about it in this case. I'll let it go at that.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President. I move that this be put at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab, we do not have a calendar on the fifth order. However, you may move to lay over one Convention day if you would like to do that.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: May I lay it over until Delegate Sanstead is present, Mr. President?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You just so move, if you wish.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I move that this proposal — Proposal No. 1-16 — be laid over until Delegate Sanstead is present.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Meidinger. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. We who were in the minority do not object at all to laying this over for one day. We did want to point out, in case there was any confusion, that because of the excellent relationship which exists on our Committee we did allow the spokesmen for the Majority Report to go ahead first, although I guess traditionally in this kind of instance those who were in a minority position have spoken first. We will have our say tomorrow, however. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-116, that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be on the tenth order tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-117, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be returned without recommendation.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and this will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-17, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-23.

Delegate Haugen moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-17; that it be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. This Delegate Proposal was introduced by Delegate Tudor early in the Convention or even prior to the Convention itself. He submitted to us the wording of the model constitution regarding taxes. The Committee did consider it. And Dr. Tudor has agreed that it be indefinitely postponed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Proposal No. 2-17 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-54, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-54; that the proposal be indefinitely postponed. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President. This — this proposal was incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-20, isn't it? The one Delegate Fritzell was just speaking on.

DELEGATE LANDER: 16.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: 1-16.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the indefinite postponement of Proposal No. 2-54.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President. It's the same — same story here. This Delegate Proposal is substantially the same as Committee Proposal 1-16.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the indefinite postponement of Delegate Proposal No. 2-55.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-57, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-57, that the proposal be indefinitely postponed. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President. The Legislative Functions Committee had a hearing on this. Delegate Hubrig appeared before us and agreed that this was legislative and not the Constitution's function, and therefore agreed with us that it should be indefinitely postponed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Delegate Proposal No. 2-57 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-71, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President. The Proposal 2-71 substantially has been incorporated in Committee Proposal 1-114 and Committee Proposal 1-115.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the motion to indefinitely postpone Delegate Proposal No. 2-71.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Proposal 2-71 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-12, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended and when so amended recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-12; that the proposal be amended and then be given a do pass.

As many as are — is there any discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the Committee Report. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-12 will be on the eighth order of business tomorrow.

We'll be on the sixth order of business, Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Longmire has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-14, as recommended by the majority of the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions and appearing on pages 203 and 204 of the Journal be adopted. The amendments are:

"NAME, BOUNDARIES, SEAL

"Section 1. Name and Boundaries.

"The name of this state is 'North Dakota'. The state of North Dakota shall consist of all the territory included within the following boundary, to-wit: Commencing at a point in the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the forty-ninth degree of north latitude crosses the same; thence southward up the main channel of the Red River of the North and the Bois de Sioux River to a point where the Bois de Sioux intersects the seventh standard parallel north approximately forty-five degrees fifty-six minutes north latitude); thence westward along said parallel to a point where it intersects twenty-seven degrees of longitude west of Washington (approximately one hundred four degrees three minutes west longitude); thence northward on said longitude to a point where it intersects the forty-ninth degree of north latitude; thence eastward along said latitude to the place of beginning. The boundary on the ground is more exactly defined by astronomical measurements at points on the boundary and surveys between boundary markers."

On page 1 delete line 25 and insert in lieu thereof:

"Section 2. Seal.

"The following described seal is hereby declared to . . ."

Renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You heard the reading of the proposed amendments.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: We had a fair discussion on this proposal at the time we had the minority and the majority report, as you will recall, and you adopted the majority report.

These amendments merely change the old proposal as it came in to us to make it a little more exact, and to straighten out the border down in the southeastern corner of the state so that it was more accurate to present-day changes or present-day conditions in the boundary at that point.

We have taken no South Dakota land by these amendments, we've taken no Minnesota land, no Montana land, no Manitoba land. The boundaries by these amendments are still exactly the same as they were except that they are more accurate now and easier to understand and in modern-day language.

Our Committee hopes you adopt these amendments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-14.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the adoption of the amendments will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Delegate Hoffner has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-29 as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions appearing on page 246 of the Journal be adopted.

The amendments are:

On line 1 delete the word "section" and insert the word "sections" and after the numeral "29" insert "and 35" and after the words "Article II" insert the words "and Section 214 of Article XVIII."

On line 4 delete the word "both" and insert the word "all".

On line 6 delete the second word "Section" and insert the word "Sections" and after the numeral "29" insert the words "and 35" and after the words "Article II" insert the words "and section 214 of Article XVIII".

On line 7 delete the word "is" and insert the word "are".

On line 17 delete the word "electors" and insert in lieu thereof the word "persons".

On line 21 after the word "large" insert the words "in single or combined senatorial districts".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-29. Are there any — is there any discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: These amendments are largely noncontroversial; I believe we had 52 percent of the Committee vote for them.

The first amendments are rather technical. Then we get down to the deleting the word "electors" and insert in lieu thereof the word "persons". We had quite a discussion on whether to use "electors entitled to representation" or "persons". As of now we are using "persons".

The other amendment would simply allow the at-large election of two representatives in a single senatorial district.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendments, Committee Proposal No. 1-29.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." I believe the "noes" have it.

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: How many request division? Division will be granted. Those in favor of the adoption of the amendment will vote "yes;" and those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened. We will record the vote. Not necessarily record it. Has every delegate indicated his choice? Any delegate wish to change? The vote is closed. 73 "ayes," 16 "nays," nine delegates absent and not voting. My hearing is terrible this morning.

Go on the tenth order of business. We'll be on the tenth order of business.

First for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-55.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-55, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 212 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to blacklists, be repealed.

"(SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 212 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Section 212 of the Constitution is involved in Committee Proposal 1-55. This is another of the provisions found in the 1889 Constitution that deals with management - labor relations. The Committee took the position that management - labor relations had no place in the Constitution. And it is therefore the recommendation of the Committee that Section 212 be deleted. It deals with an exchange of blacklists between corporations. This we feel is strictly legislative and should not be in a constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, those in favor of the adoption will vote "yes;" those in favor of — opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened. We will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 89 "ayes," 2 "nays," seven delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-55 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-71.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-71, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 6 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to bail.

"(SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 6 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"(SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor shall cruel or unusual punishment be inflicted. Witnesses shall not be unreasonably detained, nor be confined in any room where criminals are actually imprisoned."

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: I would like to move an amendment from the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will you read the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Proposed amendment to 1-71 is as follows:

"On line 10, before the word 'Excessive', insert the following: "All persons shall be bailable.'"

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the amendment. Is there a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Who offered the second? Delegate Stanton.

Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President. This amendment, as you remember, about a week ago this proposal was put at the foot of the calendar. And it's been sitting there for quite awhile. And it was suggested that this amendment be put in to make it certain that there would be no chance somebody wouldn't be bailable. And that was the only objection to 1-71 at that time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I would like to inquire in case of very severe or very bad crimes if this is desirable?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: I believe that in those cases it can be handled with another section. The Committee Report, and the Committee felt that this is the way it should be. I think it's an understanding under our old Constitution the words were that they could be bailable. If you look at the old section that was repealed, Section 6, the first sentence starts out just to that effect, that all persons be bailable.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: The old Constitution did allow that you could deny bail in a case of capital offenses where the proof is evident and a presumption great. The problem you have with that is that it tends to conflict with our more fundamental constitutional principle that each person is — legal principle that each person is assumed innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. So you have a doubt there. I don't know how you could define it to say that all persons are entitled to bail. And then you understand that the court does have the power to set the bail. And in serious or very extreme cases they will tend to set the bail quite high, if they feel the person is a threat or danger, pending his trial.

Now it's possible that the way we are writing this now is the present custom of not allowing bail on a murder would not intend. I think that they would be entitled to bail even on murder. But I imagine in that case the court would set it so high that most people would be unable to raise it. And it would be hard to buy bail or purchase a bond in a murder case, I believe. But I don't know how else you can do it, really. I don't know the solution other than to do it the way we're doing it.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I'd like to inquire of Delegate Kelsch how you would determine excessive bail then.

DELEGATE KELSCH: The determination is a judicial question. And obviously if you were to require $50,000 on a speeding ticket that would be excessive. Again, it's a matter of judgment. The purpose of bail is to assure that the person or the person charged is present at the time of his trial. If I'm charged with murder in the first degree and face a potential sentence of life imprisonment, there might be good reason for me not to want to be around when the trial came up so a court might then reasonably set the bail fairly high. If you were to put it at a million dollars I'm sure that the appeal court would say that was excessive. Again, it's a matter of judgment. And anybody — we're saying that the bail shall not be excessive. I guess that's about all we can say without going further than that, without trying to spell it out. But the purpose of the bail is to assure appearance, not from preventing him going out and committing another crime. I suppose we just have to take that risk. Until a man is proven guilty and confined, we do have to take the risk he might go out and murder someone else or commit another crime while he is pending trial. It might encourage speedier public trials.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I don't think the problem of determining excessive bail would be any different than it is now since the Constitution now says, "excessive bail," but it doesn't define what "excessive bail" is. Now if you people hadn't wiped out habeas corpus a few days ago, and if you thought the bail was excessive, you could go to the Supreme Court and get a writ of habeas corpus.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: For the delegates' information, the first line is substantially the line that's contained in the Federal Constitution. And we added the word pertaining to "witnesses" only for their protection. So, therefore, we have all kinds of case law which would help our local judges make the decisions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Well, I'm satisfied with the explanation, Delegate Kelsch's especially. I point out, though, that after he practices law and makes money under this Constitution like he is now he could stand a fifty or a hundred thousand dollars bail and escape.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Decker. Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion to adopt — as many as are in favor of the motion to adopt will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I would like to move that the Rules be suspended, that Proposal 1-71 be properly re-engrossed and placed on the tenth order for final passage — for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Solberg.

The question is on Delegate Decker's motion that the Rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-71 be deemed properly re-engrossed, that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of the proposal will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-71 is again before the Convention as amended.

Is there any further discussion?

Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President. I think the issue as a whole has been discussed between a week ago and today. And I think I'll let the explanation go unless there are further questions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-71, as amended.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" and those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 92 "ayes," there were no "nays," there were six delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-71 has passed.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: The other day we passed Committee Proposal 1-78 which is one sentence that says: "Death shall not be prescribed as a penalty for any crime." And it seems to me that Style and Drafting should consider the incorporation of that one sentence into 1-71 after "cruel or unusual punishments be inflicted". Because it seems that that would be most appropriate if it were incorporated in there.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. May we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I now move that Proposal 1-71 be laid over two Convention days. And if I get a second, I'll explain.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-71?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: 1-76. I'm sorry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-76 be laid over one —

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Two.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — two Convention days. You've heard the motion —

DELEGATE CHASE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — seconded by Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I received a call from Delegate Paulson, John Paulson, from Fargo. And he's ill, has pneumonia. And he's been assigned this Proposal, and has very strong feelings about it. And I also notice that Delegate Butler is not here. And he's going to, I think, probably try to amend it. And so it's necessary that we have both of them here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the motion. As many as are in favor of the motion to lay over two Convention days will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the request is granted.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-77.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-77, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 183 and 184 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to political subdivision debt.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 183 and 184 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Any political subdivision of the state may incur indebtedness of eight percent upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein. By a sixty percent vote of the electorate such debt limit may be increased an additional seven percent on such assessed value. The debt limits in this section shall not apply to debt incurred through the issuance of revenue bonds, or bonds financed from sources other than property taxes. For purposes of this section 'assessed value' shall be determined by such method or factors as determined by the legislative assembly.

"Any political subdivision incurring indebtedness shall, at or before the time of so doing, provide for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest thereon, and all laws or ordinances providing for the payment of the principal or interest of any debt shall be irrevocable until such debt be paid."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage, Committee Proposal No. 1-77. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE KETCHUM: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Ketchum.

DELEGATE KETCHUM: Committee Proposal 1-77 has to do with the political debt of political — I mean the debt of political subdivisions. It changes from five to eight percent the amount of debt, and then it changes from two-thirds to sixty percent vote and an additional debt limit of seven percent. The reasons are primarily because of the loss of personal property valuation.

The sixty percent has been upheld by the Supreme Court of the United States as a vote for the debt limit increase.

The last paragraph which is substantially the same as 184, or is the same, that deals with the taxes not being repealable.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes, Mr. President. I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "The proposed amendment to Proposal 1-77 is as follows:

"On line 12 delete the word 'By' and insert in lieu thereof the following: 'A school district, by a majority vote, or any other political subdivision by'.

"And renumber the lines accordingly."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now do we have a second?

DELEGATE LARSEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Larsen.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. If you will refer to the existing Section 183 in the Constitution you will see that at the present time school districts have had this same provision of the majority vote. I see that the Committee has decided to recommend that with other subdivisions the majority be reduced from two-thirds to sixty percent, whereas they are asking for an increase in the difficulty as far as school districts are concerned. And I don't — I don't know of instances where this has been abused in the past. I would like to put it on a course as far as the approval of any particular bond issue is concerned that will always still be on whatever majority the Legislature may determine from time to time. The actual authority for increasing the indebtedness would then remain with the simple majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: The Committee considered this quite carefully. It is true that under the present Constitution a majority vote would allow indebtedness up to five percent. A two-thirds vote is required to get an additional five percent. Now this provision allows an eight percent indebtedness on a majority and only a sixty percent — or rather a sixty percent vote to get another seven percent. In other words, the total indebtedness of the school district could go from ten percent up to fifteen percent. Part of this is due to the — our school aids recognize that our school districts require more financing and maybe a little easier financing. And we feel that this accomplishes that. Actually, I think most school districts are bumping their head against the limit, and a majority vote may be sort of a moot problem on the lower debt limits.

Now I went over this with my own school board people, and they all felt that simple majority of any kind — of any kind of school indebtedness — was probably a good thing, particularly in view of the fact that we reduced the voting age and because of the situation in the university cities where there's quite a heavy population of young people around that might be induced to vote for heavy indebtedness but might not be around at the time to help pay this off. I personally feel that this is a very reasonable provision, and I would speak against the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

DELEGATE WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Over a period of about one year we compiled at the University the elections on bond issues and the simple majority problem. And we found that in the very small school districts its very easy to get as high as seventy-five and eighty percent of the people voting in favor of a bond issue, but when you get into the bigger districts it becomes very difficult. And these are the districts in most cases that need it the most or where it is the most justified. I think it would be a mistake for the Convention to impose a new burden on school financing and bonded indebtedness. Generally, I favor a simple majority for indebtedness and so forth as long as we rely so heavily on the property tax. But I think that it is true what Delegate Lander has said, that the simple majority that is now required in the Constitution has not been abused around the state. And I don't think that the new members of the electorate are going to be participating in bond elections in the future.

I don't think that the Committee has really given very much new bonding capacity to school districts or political subdivisions by raising the five percent to the eight percent, because there are many school districts where the removal of personal property tax had that much impact. And so they are going to be exactly where they were before the repeal of personal property tax.

I think that rather than locking our larger school district into a continuing problem, that it would be wise to adopt Delegate Lander's amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I want to point out that the remaining property is going to have to carry an additional load due to the exemption of personal property. And we haven't determined yet how wide that's going to be. Your remaining property will probably have to carry really an exceptional burden to pay off some of the bonds we already got. So I think that the whole thing should be defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Lander.

Would you read the amendment again, Mr. Clerk, so that we are aware of it?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "On line 12 delete the word 'By' and insert in lieu thereof the following: 'A school district, by a majority vote, or any other political subdivision by.'"

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the amendment. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost.

We are back on the Proposal 1-77. Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Is it too late to ask for division?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, it's not too late. If we have five people.

DELEGATE LANDER: I so request.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's a sufficient number.

Those in favor of the adoption of the amendment now will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will indicate your choice.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change? Hearing none, the key is closed.

The vote indicates 40 "ayes," 54 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. The amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-77 failed.

Now we are on the proposal. Any discussion on the proposal itself?

Hearing none, those in favor of adopting will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 89 "ayes," 5 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-77 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-79.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-79, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to right to keep and bear arms, be created.

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"No law shall abridge the right of the citizens to keep arms for self defense, for lawful hunting and recreational use and for other lawful purposes, but nothing herein shall be held to permit the unlawful carrying of concealed weapons."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

1-79 is an amended version of the right to bear arms section that had been proposed originally. The section you have before you now is an amended version of the New Mexico amendment which was just adopted by their constitution just recently. The main addition to that was in the last line we added the word "unlawful" to the New Mexico definition.

We have heard considerable testimony in our Committee at different times on the right to bear arms section. And a lot of people feel it's a right that they all have. But the right to bear arms as originally proposed was a collective right, it isn't an individual right. And the New Mexico proposal probably defines what it is and the restrictions on it and what they are for in a lot better manner than just a right to bear arms section.

One thing I would like to mention is on your desk awhile back we had a letter from the Wildlife Federation. The Committee Report had been prepared before the Wildlife Federation letter came out. And the reason I would like to mention that is because there has been kind of a threat, mail threat — maybe it wasn't mail too much — about support or nonsupport of the Constitution in regard to — I believe that referred more to the registration of firearms. But it also is talking about the New Mexico proposal. And we did not take that into consideration at the time we made up this report. We feel that it's a fair report on its own merits and the proposal is real good the way it stands.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Yes, I'd like to direct a question to Mr. Decker if he would yield. In our present Constitution there is nothing on this, and I'd like to know why we need something in the new Constitution.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: — and Delegate Nicholas: The proposal had been brought to us several times. And I think there was a proposal by several groups that this be put in as an amendment to the Constitution at other times. And I think there has been some talk of it. And we considered it after — oh, we had quite a bit of discussion and testimony from several sides on it. And we felt that this was a fair proposal in the Constitution.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: What groups were advocating?

DELEGATE DECKER: The people from the Wildlife Federation, the people from the National Rifle Association. On the other side we had Jim Sullivan, who is the Sports Editor of the Minot Daily News. And different things on gun registration and how it worked.

One thing I probably should have mentioned in this is that it does allow for the control of hand guns and registration, as far as having hand guns goes, and carrying concealed weapons. It would not prevent the law agencies from doing those things.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: I'd have to speak in opposition —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: I would have to speak in opposition to this proposal being an avid sportsman and hunter. I think this is just letting a foot in the door to eventually allow some type of gun registration, and it's a start. I think for this reason I think members of this body should oppose anything of this sort.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I believe the way our Constitution is now, and the way the Federal Constitution is, that we would have the right whether or not we include it in our new Constitution. However, as all of you know, the right to bear arms has been under an extreme attack lately. A legislature in the future could withdraw the right to bear arms from the citizens. And this could be possible, because the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that Article II of the U. S. Bill of Rights restricts the federal government but not the states. The greatest disagreement that we have on the right to bear arms seems to be whether or not it is collective. And this is a problem created by the Federal Constitution.

Both sides in this matter seem to quote from the same precedent and from the same constitution. I think right now that a majority of the citizens in the State of North Dakota feel that they have these rights, both for their individual defense, for hunting and for any other legitimate purpose.

There seems to be three reasons for this section in our Constitution:

One of them is that it's granted by the Federal Constitution without question, the maintenance of a militia.

The second one would be for the deterrence of oppression, which might seem far-fetched in our day and age because of the inability of the local people to have guns which would be adequate in nature to defend against any kind of an organized military unit. However, I think we must all agree that history is showing us now that some people who would be similar to the President of the United States are making bloodless coups in various countries. And it is the deciding factor I think throughout the world that I think the citizens of a state or a nation are armed does tend to divert this possibility.

The third reason, of course, is for self-defense. And I think we all agree that in our day and age self-defense is a matter that we all consider. And I think this is true of even the minorities. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, the way I read this — maybe I'm looking at it wrong, but I'd like for the Committee to answer it if I am reading it wrong — it would seem to me that under this provision if you were carrying arms for defense you could wear a sword on the outside or a hand gun or anything else as long as you didn't conceal it. And then if you said, well, you were afraid somebody was going to attack and you were using this for defense it would seem that this provision, the last part, is really no restriction much at all as far as the carrying of arms is concerned. Maybe the Committee considered that, but if so, I'd like to hear it.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: I think there is some misunderstanding of my explanation. It isn't a restrictive section at all, it's a right section. It's in the bill of rights for that reason. But it doesn't restrict the carrying of — having of arms. The only thing it leaves for the law to do is to restrict the carrying of concealed weapons. I think that — Delegate Nicholas was worried about it — I think it's just the opposite. I think it's stated in the Constitution the right that people will have so it cannot be taken away from them. I think that's probably one thing that was missed on that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will then recognize Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President: The second amendment to the U. S. Constitution provides "A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

The reason our founding fathers put that in the U. S. Constitution is because they were afraid of a large standing army in peace time, as well they should have been following the experience with King George. But the right to keep and bear arms there is conditioned on a well-regulated militia. Of course, the idea nowadays, all able-bodied men between 18 and 45 are subject to call, is a little obsolete. We now have standing armies.

When the 1889 North Dakota Constitution was written those delegates did not put in any language about the right to bear arms. They were probably aware of Supreme Court decisions in 1876 and 1886 holding that this was not an individual right.

Now what is a gun? Its a piece of personal property. It would make about as much sense to put a provision in our Bill of Rights guaranteeing everyone the right to own and ride horses.

Finally, Mr. President, I object to rummaging through the Constitutions of other states to find something to put in here. We are writing a North Dakota Constitution. And I object to borrowing from New Mexico.

Although I didn't vote for Delegate Burbidge's proposal the other day, I commend him for at least coming up with something original.

I urge a "no" vote on this proposition.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: I would like to ask Mr. Decker if I am correct in assuming that this is an effort to write and tag uncontrolled legislation into the Constitution?

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: I believe it could be construed that way, that would be — anti-gun? No, I'm wong. It's to protect the people so that they may have guns for uses that are listed there.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Then I would like to know what is to be done? This is an effort, then, to prevent any legislation which would attempt to control the illicit traffic in machineguns, cheap imported guns, any kind of arms? Is that correct?

DELEGATE DECKER: Delegate Vogel, I imagine you could read it that way. But I don't see it that way. I don't think it could be. Because I don't believe that those guns are allowed for any of these purposes.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell has asked for the floor, then Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: I think the significant portion of this proposal is the first phrase: "The law — no law shall abridge the right of citizens to keep arms." And that's what the Committee is getting at. That is to guarantee the right that people shall be able to have in their possession, for legitimate purposes, arms of the types mentioned.

There was a news item on the radio this morning that in Istanbul over the weekend over 250,000 homes were entered by government and army personnel for the purpose of confiscating all of the arms of the people and other contraband that they might find. And along with it were orders to shoot down anyone who resisted this action by the government. I think that the proposal here today is to prevent that kind of authoritarian action. And I urge that we approve it in its present language.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President: Last week I wrote to several of the gun clubs and wildlife organizations in my area. And I spoke to several of them over the weekend. And as of now I have not received any objection to this proposal as it now stands. I think it's a good thing. And I think Delegate Nicholas is a little bit apprehensive on the thing. I urge that the Convention adopt the proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President: I think one thing we're forgetting here, too, I think one reason why it's probably necessary to have something in the Constitution, is because the whole eastern part of the world have no conception of what we use guns for and how we train our people to use guns and how prevalent guns are in our state, where in the East the only knowledge they have of guns in the cities and in the congested areas is what they read about guns and the crime that is perpetrated by guns. So you have a large majority, I think, of the United States that would be tickled to death to do away with guns entirely. So in order to protect our use of guns in North Dakota, I think something must be in here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President: I had quite a number of calls on this particular section. Somehow a misinterpretation had gotten to the press, and I think through the wildlife people, too, that we were writing a registration law. And when I talked to these different people that called me and explained to them and read to them what we did have in our proposal, they were all in agreement that this was what they preferred to see if there was any need for anything at all. Because this would be more or less guaranteeing their right to keep these weapons.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President: The way I understand this law, it is not for reasons for trying to get a gun registration. I talked to some people over the week-end on this, I was concerned about it, and they thought also that we were trying to make a gun registration. And one of the people I talked to this week-end said that if we had a gun registration, what — and he had a good argument I think — he said if everybody had their guns registered — just a few months ago President Nixon put a price - wage order out — what would happen if all the guns were registered and he said, "Tomorrow morning at ten o'clock you turn in your guns." If you don't, then what do you do? Going to defy the chief executive of the United States? But this isn't what this bill is intended for. I believe that we should go and pass this proposal before the Convention now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President: I have perhaps more faith in the Legislature than justified, but I don't feel the Legislature is going to do anything that the citizens of North Dakota don't want. I think the Legislature is a good indicator of the public sentiment. But I want to express a couple things which I think may become problems if we adopt a section of this nature.

Pretend that you are a police officer in a patrol car driving around at night and you stop a car, for whatever reason, with three or four fellows in it, and you see several pistols and so forth laying on the back of it. And this is the way a lot of our burglars operate, of course. They are a little apprehensive about this. Or because you are called into a bar because a fellow just walked into the bar with a pistol in his belt, it is not concealed. Somebody asks him what he is doing with a pistol. He says, "I have a permit to carry it." You can see how the customers in that bar don't even bother to finish their drink before they leave. And the police officers are a little concerned about this, citizens that simply have a gun in their belt at all hours of the night for lawful recreational purposes. And I think the Legislature can adequately provide for some type of regulation in this area. I have no fear whatsoever that they are going to try to confiscate weapons and things of this nature. If the temper of our country is such that we are going to enact laws that totally abrogate the right of individuals I don't think a provision in the Constitution is going to be any guarantee at all if we have a total breakdown of law and order in any event. But I think there definitely is a need for some type of regulation to protect our citizens. And I think that this kind of language here would at least bring litigation over any regulation the Legislature might attempt to impose. And I have faith that the Legislature would provide reasonable legislation, not unreasonable regulation.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-79.

Those in favor of the adoption will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: My key doesn't want to say either "yea" or "nay" this morning, but I vote "yea". I hold it in place and it doesn't light up.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hartl, he's absent. He's not registering either.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Roll call discloses 76 "ayes," 18 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-79 has passed.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President: Would the record please show that Delegate Sanstead is present? I would like to add that I teach a 6:45 in the morning Monday morning class to enforcement officials in the Minot area. And the subject of our class today was gun registration and the legislation which is appearing — which just passed this body. We had a very hot and vociferous discussion between proponents and opponents. There was some mis-information, I would have to say at least, with regard to what we were doing here. The roads also were a little difficult, so I didn't come back at the normal speed. For Delegate Fritzell's information, I am here and ready to go.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will declare a recess until eleven o'clock.

(The Session recessed from 10:43 A.M. until 11:00 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order? Will the Convention please come to order?

We will be on the fifth order of business — Committee Reports.

Fellow Delegates, I think you will recall that this morning we postponed receiving a committee report until such time as Delegate Sanstead would be here. The gentleman has been here for some time. I'm sure he has had time to recuperate from his Paul Revere's ride this morning. And I think we will now proceed with receiving Committee Report No. 1-16. Did the delegates request that the report be re-read? Hearing no request, we will proceed then with the discussion.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I think that it has been adequately pointed out, at least we hope, that the entire Education and Natural Resources Committee is in support of the first paragraph of this proposal which is the one that is our concern for the environment. And I hope that you understand that the Minority Report then is for the deletion of the second paragraph, which expands that in connection with the constitutional right for individual action. And I think that our concern is largely one of degree. In the testimony which we have had before us it was evident, at least to some of us, that there have been more than ample opportunities to work with the Legislature and through the Legislature up to date and will continue to be some room for improvement in this area. As the majority spokesman has already pointed out, there are some states which have handled this matter completely by statute. In other words, it does not have to be in the Constitution. If it is in the Constitution, it obviously gives some extra emphasis, but it would not have to be there.

We are concerned that if we have in this new document that we are going to prepare here the first paragraph, we have spoken our concern for the environment. We have asked the Legislature to work on that. And then hopefully those people who are greatly concerned will then proceed to work through the Legislature in order to accomplish what they have — what they want to have done. And then in the meantime we will then not unleash the enthusiastic, but somewhat inconsistent, efforts of the more — several of the more hardened environmentalists, many of whom desire to have all of the benefits of our society, but recognize — refuse to recognize some of the things that we have to have in order to pay for them. Thus, we urge that you adopt the Minority Report and delete Section 2 of the proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the —

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Were you going to speak to the Minority Report? I would decide to yield if you were going to speak to that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: Well, I would certainly support Delegate Lander's position on this. I think this Section 2 expresses a complete lack of confidence in our law - making and law - enforcement abilities. I feel that this takes us back to some kind of a modern - day vigilante method of solving problems, and I'm opposed to this. Problems of the environment are they attract a great amount of emotion. And you can't solve these problems on an emotional basis. They take extremely scientific, careful analysis; otherwise we get some quickie solutions that may get us into worse trouble than we've been in before.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President: Speaking on behalf of the Majority Report as one of the sponsors of the original delegate proposal on this subject, I think of all the really crucial areas of public policy that we've dealt with. I think poverty, health, consumer protection, our Committee is still dealing certainly with education, that this issue is the most greatly influenced one by our time. And I think either the labor movement or the industrial people, the Federal Government or individual politicians, certainly anybody else that's concerned with the environment, would have to say that the hardest hitting element in our society today are those citizens that want to protect the environment and who want it placed on a high agenda in our nation.

I would submit that if we take Section 2 out of this proposal we are, in effect, doing what we accused the politicians of doing all the time; simply mouthing generalities and saying some nice platitudes about what we expect from people in regard to the environment. And the fact is that the appearance of action without substance would be here. And I think that would be a disgrace to this Convention. I think we are the ones who ought to write this kind of a proposal. And I again urge everybody to take a look at 1-16 and look at lines 17 and 18, the two most crucial lines. In fact, we've had three proposals before our Committee which have been much broader in scope, much more inconclusive, more liberal in the nature of what they would cover. And two of those, I understand Delegate Hubrig's 2-54 and 2-55, have already been killed by the Convention because of our proposal. And I know that Delegate Kelsch had a citizen suggestion about an expansion to historical sites and to other areas.

But our Committee here has acted, in my view, in a very conservative way by proposing in the Majority Report the adoption of the entire 1-16. And if you look at lines 17 and 18 in 1-16 you notice that it says, "to reasonable limitation and regulation as the legislative assembly may provide by law". We even thought about putting a "shall" in there "provide by law" just to make sure that everybody would be pleased. But I would suggest that certainly the legislative assembly in its discretion will make such regulations to make sure that the courts are not flooded by a host of cases, that a neighbor might not sue a neighbor and all of these kinds of things.

And I would suggest that in the present time I think we realize that pollution, environmental pollution, and conditions and circumstances are not uniform throughout this country. We're very fortunate here in North Dakota, and we know it, in that regard. But at the same time I think those of us in the majority believe that state government — state government should set the standard and the procedure appropriate to the local and state conditions which we face in protecting our environment. And so I'd say those people who are on the Majority Report are in effect states righters who are arguing in effect that the state's role in environmental protection is being superceded even now by federal action. And why is it being superceded? For the very reason that the federal government has seized the holding of so many other areas of our life, because of inaction, and because of platitudes at the state level.

We can today, I think, change that look toward Washington, D. C., that many of our environmentalists have. We can make the rules and the standards and the procedures here in North Dakota through legislative action that will protect our environment and at the same time realize that we're acting in an agricultural society in the State of North Dakota that needs reasonable limitations and reasonable protection.

If you read your North Dakota Law Review you know that on page 307 a whole section was devoted to constitutionalism and ecology; a masterpiece, in my view, of legal writing. And it takes every single element of our present law and dissects it in this constitutional law book and comes out saying, in effect, that we need more protection and that, in effect, that kind of protection — all the legal theories are not enough — that that kind of protection is now desired and needed by our citizens.

The author of this proposal — and I believe already that Delegate Fritzell has stated it is, in effect, an adoption of the Illinois document — Joseph Sax, the author, is the nation's leading authority on environmental rights, the two bills that have been talked about in statutes in other states, and he wrote the model article dealing with environmental protection.

And so I would simply argue that today we have a chance to put into the Constitution, and later then to allow the Legislature to decide what they want to do with it by statute, the kind of protections that our states need. And I would say that this is simply the best kind of state's rights movement, and it is the very best kind of a way to deal with any kind of environmental problem in North Dakota. And so if we are sincere, we will want to see both Section 1, with the nice platitudes, and with the wonderful statement of protection for the citizens of our state and our concern for the environment, but more importantly it will include Section 2 which will allow for — with legislative limitation and regulation — which will allow for going after some possible areas of legal entanglement by citizens in the state to protect their environment into the future.

And in that sense, I think this is a very defensible article after much hearing in our Committee, and after looking at all of the proposals presented to us in this area. I think we could do worse than to have the environmentalist protection people of the State of North Dakota really pleased with this Constitution, really pleased that we have taken step in action for them and for the future.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President: I'm speaking for the minority. In response to what Delegate Sanstead has just said, I would point out that lines 12 and 13 direct the Legislature to provide for implementation of Section 1. This proposal has had a rather interesting history. It was brought in as a delegate proposal by Delegates Sanstead and Fritzell. It is part of our Committee's recommendation in the interim report. You will notice in that report that there were only three in the Minority when we voted on it at one of our meetings last fall. I was one of those original three. During this Plenary Session the more environmental — environmentalists our Committee heard from, the faster the minority grew until it was a very near thing to bringing this committee proposal out with a Majority Report. I think it's the very thing that Delegate McElroy was mentioning, the vigilante - type activity, that might be encouraged by the language in line 15, particularly, "Each person may enforce this right," that gradually frightened away members of our Committee.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I've been led to believe all through life that we had a government of the people, by the people and for the people. And I'm bewildered to know how we could bring a lawsuit to sue ourselves.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I think all of us can acknowledge that the question of what affects our health and environment and what does not as it relates to business activity or to other persons' actions is quite emotional and a rather timely and exciting matter. Traditionally, people had the one outlet, when they got excited about something, which was to go to the government and to the legislature or to agencies or bureaus to get relief. Now what we'd be doing, if we accept the Majority Report, is to offer another outlet. And I feel that this is an important alternate or additional outlet to the concern of the people in a situation like this. Because sometimes bureaucracies or agencies do not function as fast or responsively as the people would like them to. And I think we do need outlets in these troubled times for legitimate, lawful use by the people when they feel aggrieved.

Now it's true when we do this we bring the courts into somewhat of an activist decision because the judges are then deciding in many cases or asked to decide policy things that really should be set by the Legislature through laws. But I'm afraid if we don't bring our state courts into these positions — this is happening in the federal courts — I'm afraid if we don't bring our state courts into this as Delegate Sanstead pointed out we will default this to the federal courts. Because they have taken this stand or this posture in this kind of area. So I would urge you to support the majority, to give the people a second outlet other than the Legislature, or agencies such as the health department, allow them to have the courts — the courts and the Legislature can put reasonable restrictions on the use of the class action. If we don't put them on it will be our own fault. I think we can use it, I think we can protect other persons. But I think it's good that we give this other outlet. I think that's exactly what Section 2 does. I urge you to vote for the Majority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I'm a member of the minority. And I realize as a farmer's wife that I've got about ten counts against me because of the fact that I'm a farmer's wife and am against this second section.

I do want you to consider this carefully. And I have. I have checked it out, I have talked to many people. And I'm not taking my position lightly. I feel that definitely that the second section is legislative, not constitutional. And I know that there are statutes on the books dealing with air pollution and the public health. And I want to call your attention to the statement just made by Delegate Kelsch referring to the way that we can bring this reasonable limitations on. And then he said, "And if we don't put them on . . ." Now this is — that's the crux of the matter right there; "If we don't." Well, all right, if we don't what's going to happen? Therefore, that means that there's leeway there. And I want to say again as a farmer's wife I don't feel that I'm being unreasonable. We love the land, we love the animals on it, and the birds and everything about it. And we want it preserved, we want it kept as pure as possible, as clean as possible. And we do not want to keep our neighbors or people from coming and enjoying that which we have which they may not have. But I do not feel that we should open this wide open to class suit and invite those who may wish to be aggressive to come in and make trouble. And I have heard on good authority just recently that when this was made public, this Article VI, that an organization in the state did make a statement, "That if any person wants to bring suit at any time they can depend upon us to support their stand." Now that to me is a frightening thing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President: May I ask a question of Mr. Sanstead?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead, will you yield to a question?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, I will.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Am I correct, Delegate Sanstead, in the fact that the last legislative session passed provisions for a basic study in this whole area and that it was turned over to the health department and is now divided up between four state institutions to make specific studies in this environmental and pollution and ecology areas from noise pollution to air pollution and so on and make a definite recommendation to the legislative assembly convening in 1973? I'm wondering if I'm right on that, or if I read something that I shouldn't be believing in.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Delegate Solberg, you're correct in the sense that there have been hearings on pollution, particularly noise pollution, some on air pollution, underway. However, if you have read your North Dakota Law Review section you will note that the health department, which has been in charge of doing something about the law, which was good air pollution law, which has been on the books two sessions in North Dakota, that that department has two individuals with which to operate. We seem to have a lack of aggressiveness on the part of all the state agencies to really get involved in the area. As a result of that, the mechanism to do something about it seems to be lacking here and there. There is a lot of study going on, but that's the usual kind of thing. I guess I don't need to tell you. And so as a result of that I think we are providing here a mechanism that goes beyond the studies phase and goes beyond any kind of state agency, which they all claim are under-funded and unable to deal with this kind of problem.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President: I appreciate that excellent answer. Now may I ask another question? If we do have in the Legislature the power to create a study, and out of it shall come recommendations for statutes or action by the Legislature, then do we not have the authority at the present time to deal with this thing instead of putting it into the Constitution and spelling out the areas that probably are more legislative than functional in the area of constitutional provision? Do we have the authority in the Legislature to go as far as needs to be done, and therefore we don't need this piece of creation in the Constitution at all? I'm merely asking a question, sir.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Delegate Solberg, and members of the assembly:

I think it's already been proven here time and time again that there are a great number of people who are very suspicious of the actions of the legislative assembly, and particularly in areas of this kind in which they feel the legislative assembly is stacked against any kind of action. And I have a feeling those are the kind of people who want to go to Washington and who will turn to that direction to be able to attempt to get something done in our present environmental problems. And so in that sense I think the Majority Report, and those of us who listened to all the testimony, recognize that fact and thought that just because they are the people they have some right because they are the public. And those rights go beyond the representation of their representative or senator.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: I appreciate those comments and the direct answer. But I again — and I am not against control of environment and these things, that is our obligation. But if we do have the power in the Legislature, I happen to be one of those individuals, then, may I steal a phrase from some of these other oldsters around here — a few of us, but not very many — I have followed every legislative session since 1933. And, golly, I think they are tremendous. And I have great hope in their future. And I think that they are going to do tremendous things and we don't have to spell it out in the Constitution for them. And so if I wanted to spell out something, you know, I would make the environmental laws so tremendously tough that I could pick the people who would live next to me because I wouldn't like their environment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: One of the interesting duties which falls on me is to represent the State in an inter-governmental relations committee connected with the National Legislative Conference. And for the past three years I've been going to meetings I suppose four or five times a year in Washington. And I happen to be in the natural resources subcommittee of that organ of government. At this point and time the National Congress has not decided how far they want to go on insisting on compliance by the states on pollution control. There are at least twelve bills before the Congress at this time; some tough, some more lenient. And one of the big questions is whether or not they will accept a state's plan, its program, its present legislation, or whether they are going to require a tightening up or go as far as Delegates Fritzell's and Sanstead's proposal to permit class suits. It's a big battle.

I at this time am inclined to support the Minority Report for this reason: I think we are being a little premature. If the Federal Congress decides in its wisdom that they can permit state plans to be accepted by the federal control, in other words, they can come and look at the North Dakota program on air pollution — we have good pollution law on both air and water — they can say fine. The state law might be agreeable. We will not impose additional federal restrictions on you. They don't know what they are going to do at this time. I doubt if they will find out until after the present congressional session is concluded, if then. And I think to write this into the Constitution at this point may be unwise. I do think that if they do come up with stricter requirements, that then it will be within the power of the Legislature to make this tightening. I think the Legislature could be embodied — could be authorized to pass legislation which would require action and would fund these present health agencies sufficiently so that they can do their job. I think we are jumping the gun a little bit. I'm not unsympathetic with the idea of class actions, but I think at this point we don't know if we are going to need them or not and I would therefore go along with the idea that we should not write into the Constitution the permission to bring a class action. I think it would be unadvisable.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President: I would differ, if I may, with Delegate Unruh. I don't believe we are being at all premature. I think if you will read the first line of Section 2 — and I want this right for my children and my grandchildren — that "Each person has the right to a healthful environment." I think it's imperative that we keep that statement in. And I would be perfectly willing to leave to the Legislature, which we strengthened the other day in one of our proposals, the right to control the situation. I would urge that you vote against the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President: As Delegate Sanstead stated, I did have two proposals in. I'm satisfied with the Majority Report as before us. I feel that they did a lot of work on it. I am satisfied with it. The argument about if we should put it in the Constitution or wait till the federal government does something, leave it to the Legislature, I think is pure argument.

A few years ago, a short time ago, I should say probably — time goes by in a hurry — there was a big explosion in the State of North Dakota about the federal meat inspection. What's the federal government going to tell the citizens of North Dakota to do something for? It's none of their business. We in North Dakota can take care of our own business. Now are we going to leave this proposition to the federal government and let them come in and tell us how to do it? Ask that question of ourselves. I think we ought to put it in the Constitution and not wait for the federal government to move in on us. We hear too many arguments the federal government's got no business telling North Dakota what to do. If this is our position, I would strongly urge you to vote for Proposal 1-16.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Well, I support the Minority Report. I'm going to agree with Delegate Peterson, who is a farmer's wife. I would like to point out that about two, maybe four years ago, a measure came into the Legislature that would have prohibited a rancher or farmer from allowing his cows to even go near the river. Now no one explained at that time how you stopped wild animals — most of which you can't fence out — and so they would not be near the river. And I'm not going to ask Delegate Sanstead a question because that gives him a chance to make another speech. But I will explain to him the same language was used in the Legislature at one time by some wild cowboy. I don't remember quite who it was. But I would like Delegate Sanstead to demonstrate some day to me how you put diapers on a couple hundred wild cows.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: I would like to speak — Fellow Delegates, I would like to speak in support of the Majority Report. As I read this, and as my Committee members know, I've had mixed thoughts as far as this particular section is concerned. I find the wording of this section to provide the necessary protection that I think almost anyone thinks it should have. It says that each person may enforce this right through appropriate legal proceedings, which tells me that if some wild-eyed environmentalist decides that this or that is wrong, they must proceed at law and have their day in court perhaps before a judge, perhaps before a jury. But if I were that wild-eyed environmentalist, or the defendant in that case, I would much rather have my hearing under the law and the Constitution of my state than some federally imposed regulations.

I urge the adoption of the Majority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: A few years ago I became aware of a situation when traveling in Washington State that may be of some interest to the delegates with reference to class actions and environmental matters. There was and has been for some time an extensive concord grape industry in the upper Columbia Basin; and industry had developed around there and so forth. A period came in which there was great decline in the vineyards, and finally many plants died. And it took awhile, but finally scientists determined the problem was the drift of 2-4-D which came from the wheat area of Washington about five miles away; much above them, too. Well, when this happened the grape growers were wondering what they could possibly do to protect themselves and there was no legal machinery in the State of Washington to do this. It finally got resolved, but after considerable time and considerable more loss to the grape people, by outlawing the use of a form of 2-4-D. But I think this is one of the illustrations of the need, perhaps, for some machinery for class action.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: It would seem to me, Mr. President, that this is covered in Section 1 with the words "The legislative assembly shall provide by law". I see no reason for this second section. I want to remind all of you, and in line with what Delegate Peterson has said, that — and I think I appear before you as an expert witness in this matter — that cow manure is the by-product of a T-bone steak. So let's keep these things in perspective.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President: It seems to me that we really ought to know exactly what we are doing when we adopt Section 2. And I am in favor of the Minority Report for this reason: The Section 2 deals with an individual; has nothing to do with class actions. Each person. You can have class actions, but this is an individual right. It relates only to a healthful environment. And each individual's health is a thing of its own. He may have an allergy; some people are allergic to sunlight, some people are allergic to various berries, vegetables, things of all kinds. The right which the second sentence of Section 2 is to enforce is the individual's right to a healthful environment. It has nothing to do with seeking damages. The right apparently is to stop whatever the situation is that he says is unhealthy to him. Not necessarily the public. If we put this section in the Constitution we have given each such individual — and we don't know what they would be now — a right of action. That's the right to bring a lawsuit and sustain it, to enforce his own individual health situation.

Now environment is a very broad word. It may — the environment in one sense for me is my neighbors right around here; Delegate Rundle behind me, and Delegate Maxwell in front of me, Delegate Peters at my side. Eliminate my environment to the right this morning. The environment is also this chamber, this city, this state. Now it's perfectly conceivable and anyone who has not been aware really has no realization how ridiculous people can be over anything and everything. If we give this right we're setting up an extremely broad thing.

Now the Committee apparently recognizes this, too, because they don't really give this absolute right. Because line 17 says, "subject to reasonable limitation." Now what did we give them? Are we giving them an unlimited right or aren't we? In line 17 the Legislature can limit. And we're back to that good old handy legal word "reasonable." Plaintiffs and defendants have been disagreeing over what's reasonable for the last thousand years. And "regulation." Bear in mind also that in this Constitution the things that we put in it limit the legislation, they do not grant power to the Legislature. The Legislature has in it no power that does violate some section of the Constitution. And for that reason to me Section 2 is unnecessary.

But we all know about Pandora's box. Very few people remember what was in the box. It was discord. And some people have said that's been the source of litigation ever since.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SULLIVAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sullivan.

DELEGATE SULLIVAN: Fellow Delegates: I rise to support the position of the Majority. I beg if you are not inclined to support the Majority you put the Majority Report on the floor and kill it then. The Minority proposes to put a beautiful platitude in the Constitution, nothing more. We have enough of them in this new document already.

Section 1 is ineffective without Section 2. If you can't buy Section 2, kill the whole thing and let the new Constitution remain silent on environment. In our committee work we received considerable criticism from ecologists who claimed that we didn't go far enough. Our reply to all of them was, "We have all we can sell right here." The debate this morning indicates that our position was correct.

Last week you heard a lot on this floor about the importance of youth vote. These votes are very much interested in our environment, and you should speak out on the subject in the manner that Section 2 does if you're interested in their approval.

We have also heard that farmers will be suing their neighbors. This is not true. North Dakota has a population that is second to none neighboring this. And I am certain that these two sections will not upset this fine tradition. We are leaving it up to the Legislature to set the ground rules for these class action suits, and I'm certain that they will come up with guidelines to make this work effectively for the welfare of the state.

I ask the Report of the Majority be accepted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the Committee Report of the Minority Report that on page 1 it would delete lines 14 through 18. No further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendment of the report — not of the adoption of the amendment, but on the adoption of the report.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The Chair is in doubt. We will open the key. Those in favor of adopting the Minority Report will vote "yes," and those opposing will vote "no". The key will be opened, you will record your choice.

Has every delegate indicated his preference? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The tally indicates there were 43 "ayes," there were 51 "nays," there were four delegates absent and not voting. The Minority Report failed.

Before the Convention at this time is the acceptance of the Majority Report. Is there any discussion on that?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion to accept the Majority Report will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is adopted. It will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: May we be on the eighth order, please, Communications?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the eighth order. Hearing no objection, we are on the eighth order.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Thank you. I have a communication from my son, James Simonson to tell the delegates: "I sure was glad that they excused you and let you come home." He had an emergency appendectomy about midnight on Tuesday shortly after I waltzed with George Longmire. He said the Lord might not look too kindly on that, but I didn't know that he would be so violently against it. However, James did come home Saturday. He's in great shape. I called him awhile ago and he made it to the phone on the second ring. So he's doing well.

However, yesterday we did put our sixteen-year-old daughter in the hospital with pneumonia. But I called this morning — and I didn't dance with George; you're clear on that one — but I did call the hospital this morning and she's coming along fine. And I thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: We are still on the eighth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the eighth order.

DELEGATE PEARCE: May I utilize this opportunity? On each of your desks this morning there is a letter which has the typed letterhead "Higher Education Facilities Commission." It is dated January 19, 1972. And I would like all the delegates to read the letter. Because in a day or so I am going to make a motion that the Convention approve the action of the Budget Committee in authorizing an expenditure of $5,000 as part of our statutory duty publicizing and explaining the new Constitution that we may come up with. The reason I'm not making the motion now is because Delegate Paulson, who is very familiar with this situation and has more information, is not here. I only ask that you don't discard this letter, and keep it in mind for the forthcoming motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: While we are on the eighth order, Committee Chairmen, I would like to bring to your attention that today is the last day for introduction of Committee Proposals. Now before we recess for noon, do any of the committees, substantive committees, wish to meet so that you can bring in a Committee Proposal prior to adjournment today? Are there any proposals?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any committees have any proposals they would like to bring?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Chairman Maxwell just informed me a little while ago that his committee was going to meet.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I'm extremely sorry, Mr. President, I wasn't paying attention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question from the Chair is does your committee or any other of the substantive committees feel that they want to bring in additional Committee Proposals? Today is the last day. So we have to have those in before we adjourn today, you see. Do you feel that your committee wishes to bring in additional Committee Proposals?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I regret to say that I'm a little unfamiliar with the procedure. Is this with some kind of a recommendation from the committee, you mean?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No. You see, we adopted a rule, Delegate Maxwell, last week limiting the introduction of Committee Proposals; the last ones have to come in today. And, of course, that means they'd have to come in before we recess or before we adjourn for today. So my question is do any of the committees that they are in the process of making an additional Committee Proposal that they would like to present to the Convention before we adjourn today? That's my question.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: My answer to that is yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You do have. Well, there is one then. And do we have any others, Delegate Hoffner or Chairman Hoffner, do you have any?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. No, we don't. And I was just going to say is it possible for the Convention in that case, if the committee is really bound and has no proposal and needs one after today, they could suspend the Rules and I think would?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is true.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: No, we don't. We have a couple extra that we could use.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President: I don't think, strictly speaking, we have a new proposal. But we do have a proposal to repeal another section. And we will have that in.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will you have that in before — before we adjourn today? Do you need some time to do that?

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: We would need some time; yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: How much time?

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Just enough for the secretary to prepare the report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then why don't we, when we adjourn this noon, which isn't very — recess this noon, why doesn't the Convention stand in recess until, say, two o'clock. That would give you an hour, if we take an hour for lunch and an hour for committee meetings, and then start again at two o'clock, reconvene, and then work on the calendar.

Now does any committee chairman have committee meetings scheduled for this afternoon?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Executive Functions expects to meet; yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: At what time are you scheduled?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, not two o'clock, apparently, because we are going into session again. But when can we meet.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, can you meet at one?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, we will need more time than that to do everything we want to do this afternoon. What time do you expect to adjourn or recess today?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, the only question, you see we're just in a little bit of a bind here, Gail, in that we have some committees that want to come in with some Committee Proposals and today's the last day, so we can't adjourn until after we get those in. And it's ten minutes to twelve now.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I would say that the Executive Functions Committee would probably meet at one-thirty. We could meet for half an hour then is about all that would be. And then we would like to meet again after —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: After we recessed today, after we adjourn?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fine.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I'll call a meeting of the Legislative Functions Committee at one o'clock, and it will meet until two. And then also about fifteen minutes after the adjournment. Because we've been grinding out reports.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger .

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: May we remain on the same order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: The Committee on Education then will meet at one o'clock in G-1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I will announce a meeting of the Bill of Rights Committee at one o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'd like to call a meeting of the Judicial Committee at one for about five minutes to determine the order of the procedure tomorrow on the discussion on 1-11.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. Might I suggest that you consider recessing until, say, three-thirty, and then the committees can work for a long enough time to get some things — I know our committee has a lot of work to do. Maybe all of them do. Maybe that would work better.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: What is the wish of the Convention?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I've heard a lot of comment that was favorable to Delegate Sinner's suggestion. So I will move that we recess until three-thirty, if it is appropriate to make that motion at this time.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that the Convention recess until three-thirty. Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, in that case I will shove up the Executive Functions Committee to one-fifteen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then we will be in recess until three-thirty.

(The Session recessed at 11:56 A.M. until 3:36 P.M., the same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

(The afternoon session of Monday, January 24, 1972, commenced as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

We'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The women's luncheon for Tuesday, January 25th, has been cancelled because of the weather. Would you please inform your wives?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Referral of Proposals to Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-120, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that two new sections to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, both of which pertain to the executive branch of government, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-120 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Any of the committees now have a further Committee Proposal that you would like to introduce?

The Chair would recognize Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President: Let the record show that Delegate Hartl is present.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The record will show Delegate Hartl as present.

We will be on the tenth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-86, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to making all persons over eighteen years of age adults for all purposes, be created."

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Persons eighteen years of age or older are declared to be adults for all purposes."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is —

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: This has been recommended by my committee from a proposal presented to them by myself. I wish I could remember all of the arguments that were advanced the other day when we were considering the age of people who hold office, but I have forgotten some of them.

I have three young men in my family; two of which fall into the never-never land of eighteen to twenty-one and one just twenty-one. They are old enough to be subject to the draft, but not old enough to be considered an adult for all purposes. Of course, they can vote now, and they can contract as was provided in the last session of the Legislature, Chapter 14-10. And for the delegates' information, those of you that don't know what this first section says, let me read it to you:

"All persons eighteen years of age or older are declared to be adults."

I added the words to it "for all purposes."

I'm sure that three young men don't — does not make me as much of an expert as Mr. Hardmeyer in this matter, but I've had some additional experience in seeing them — that's not for the record — as a state's attorney in seeing young men in court, women, too, on charges which would not have been brought had they not been under twenty-one and over eighteen. I feel that they are as much an adult at eighteen as they would be at twenty-one.

I feel somewhat like Mr. Pearce when he made his statement yesterday that if we don't adopt something like this which would communicate to the Legislature that we feel eighteen-year-olds are as much an adult as — for all purposes, that they won't consider it, because they did adopt such a statement at their last legislative session and they still restricted in many cases the adulthood of an eighteen-year-old. And there is a possibility that unless we do we would be class constitutionalizing, if there's such a word.

I feel very strongly that if we are going to allow them the right to vote, we should also give them the responsibilities of adults in all other areas as well. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

There's two areas of legislation the Legislature passed the last session which were not touched. And it would be my opinion that passage of this proposal now, and eventually by the public, would eliminate those two areas.

The first is the statute which requires that a male under twenty-one years of age have permission to marry. And it was felt at that time that since we have — many of our high school seniors are of the age of eighteen that they did not — since they're living at home and for all practical purposes, of course, their support comes from their — that they didn't want to take that permission away from the parents.

And the second area that I think we would be removing is that in our liquor law which prohibits a person under twenty-one years of age purchasing beer and alcoholic beverages.

And I think those were the only two that were left untouched by the Legislature. And probably as we look at this this would eliminate those sections. And they really, truly, would be treated as adults for all purposes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman. In Delegate — or Committee Proposal 1-86 we are actually being very arbitrary in setting the age of maturity. And I think if we address ourselves to maturity rather than many of these other arguments, pro and con, I think that we have really hit the nail on the head.

Now in my experience I have seen many eighteen-year-olds who have shown much more maturity than many of their elders, and I have seen those that have been forty-three and also have not shown much maturity. But I think it is maturity that we are talking about. In the past we have been arbitrary in setting maturity at age twenty-one. I feel that when these young people are — especially the males — are able to go and defend their country, and can vote at the present time, they should be considered adults for all purposes. Females, of course, eighteen years old it has been seemingly the age of maturity in the past.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-86.

Those in favor of its passage will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 73 "ayes," 20 "nays," five delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-86 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-89.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-89, I am going to move that it be moved back for tomorrow's action. By word of explanation, I have asked permission from the one that was preparing the Committee Proposal on the floor. Now this section is a real serious, important section in our Bill of Rights. And I'm sure that the amendment that I am going to offer — I want to be very sure that it is absolutely correct. And for that reason I won't have it ready until tomorrow morning. You have an amendment of that proposal on your desk. This will be discarded and there will be a new amendment on your desk tomorrow, and I hope you all look at it. So with that, Mr. President, I move that Committee Proposal No. 1-89 be laid over one Convention day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-89 be laid over one Convention day. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Saugstad.

You heard the motion. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Delegate — Proposal No. 1-89 will be laid over one Convention day.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-92.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-92, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 19 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to treason against the state, be retained.

"SECTION 1.) Section 19 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota is retained in its present form to read as follows:

"Treason against the state shall consist only in levying war against it, adhering to its enemies or giving them aid or comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the evidence of two witnesses to the same overt act, or confession in open court."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Bender.

DELEGATE BENDER: The Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, after duly reconsidering Section 19, which has to do with treason against the State of North Dakota, has brought back to the Convention floor the same wording of Section 19 as found in our present Constitution. Though it was the first thought of our committee that this section was no longer a necessary concern, we have bowed to the wishes of the Convention and asked that the original wording of Section 19 be approved and adopted by the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I had an amendment. I had hoped that it would be back from the secretaries so I could present it right now. But I might explain it to the Convention. What I propose to do would be delete the language of this section, repeal Section 19 as it presently exists, and then simply state the words: "There shall be no crime of treason against the state of North Dakota."

Now I'm suggesting this amendment for consideration because I think it gets at the problem. The Committee felt initially that we should not need a definition of treason in the Constitution — we should not need a definition of the crime of treason in the Constitution because — and I think this is true under our federal system — that it's hard for any of us to conceive of treason against the state. Treason against the state as an integral part of the Federal Union, as we learned in the Civil War, would be treason against the United States. We are all citizens of the United States.

Now the reason I think the original farmers put the reference to treason in the Constitution is because they did not want to leave such a political crime open to definition by the Legislature. Now you will note it not only defines the crime of treason, which is levying war against the state, which is a hard thing to conceive, but also refers to giving comfort to the enemies of the state. But the main part of the cause I think which was unique to me was the fact that it limited how the crime could be charged or proof of the crime; that is, that it required an overt act and it required two witnesses to prove that overt act.

So I think we've either got to stay with the old Section 19, which makes it a very difficult thing to prove, defines it and makes it a difficult thing to prove, or in the alternative simply state: "There shall be no crime of treason against the state of North Dakota."

Now I want to assure you as a suggested amendment I'm not advocating treason. But I do feel that by taking this approach we will remove the possibility of the Legislature of this state and future generations from ever defining political activity as treason against this state. Now it's certainly possible that persons in this state might engage in active anarchy or such that might be treasonous, but I think that if they did they would and could be prosecuted as treason against the United States rather than the State of North Dakota.

So I would move that amendment. And I think the Clerk now has the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Amendment has been moved by Delegate Kelsch. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE LAMB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Lamb.

The Clerk will read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "On page 1, delete all of lines 1 through 12 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"That section 19 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to treason against the state, be repealed, and that a new section be created.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 19 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) There shall be no crime of treason against the state of North Dakota."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the proposed amendment. Is there any further discussion?

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I can't see any reason for — if you're going to repeal this section, I can't see any reason for emphasizing the fact that we no longer have any crime of treason. I would certainly not object to repealing the whole section, but it seems to me you're just adding fuel to the fire by emphasizing the fact if there is a potential person who could create the crime of treason against the state, that there is no such crime in the state of North Dakota. I fail to see the need for pointing that out.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I recognize that I may be adding fuel to the fire in suggesting that, and that persons might misinterpret it. What I'm driving at, and if the Convention feels that way, I'd urge you to vote "no" on the proposed amendment and retain old Section 19 which is a limiting section. But I disagree that we — I feel we can't be silent to the subject, because if we're silent then the Legislature can define the crime of treason as a broader concept than is presently in our Constitution. And there's no guarantee that the Legislature would require that it constitute an overt act. It could be a thought or a statement or a conspiracy. If you don't have some restrictions in the Constitution, then they have a free hand to do as they will. And I am concerned about this particular type of crime, because it's a political crime.

Delegate Pearce mentioned in his conversation that more people have died for the crime of treason than probably any other crime. What we're doing, if we adopt this amendment, you're saying that this is one area the Legislature of this state, as a part of a union of fifty states, cannot speak to. In other words, we are just preempting to stay out of the field, treason will have to be dealt with on a national level.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President: I speak in favor of the amendment. I think it accomplishes both what the Committee intended to do and answers the objections raised on the floor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the amendment — adopting the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If no one requests division, I would move that the proposal be re-engrossed and be passed on tenth order, first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch moves that the Rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-92 be deemed properly engrossed, that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The Committee Proposal No. 1-92 is before the Convention as amended.

Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-92 as amended. As many as — those in favor will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll discloses 73 "ayes," 21 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-92 has been passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-95.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-95, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 135 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to cumulative voting in corporations, be repealed.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 135 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

DELEGATE BILLEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Fellow Delegates:

I would refer you to Committee Proposal 1-20 to start with. Committee Proposal 1-95 is a repeal of Section 135 which was originally included in our Committee Proposal 1-20. However, at the time we considered 1-20 the question was raised regarding this section. We took it back to Committee; held hearing. We had no one who came in and testified on it. And the Committee in their original interim report felt that this is a matter that should be left to the Legislature. Our Committee has re-inforced that feeling, and we again ask approval of repealing Section 135.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President and members:

I originally asked that this 135 be taken out. I have since checked the statutes and feel that we are adequately covered and I have withdrawn my opposition to this repeal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-95.

Those in favor of passage will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 94 "ayes," there were no "nays," there were four delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-95 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-97.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-97, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 176 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to tax uniformity and exemptions."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: This is the section dealing with exemptions which was discussed by the Committee at length the other day. And with the consent of the Committee — some of the Committee — I now move an amendment — pardon me. I don't mean to imply it wasn't the Committee, but I'm explaining why I'm speaking first. I move the amendment at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is the amendment at the desk, Delegate Sinner?

DELEGATE SINNER: Yes.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to Proposal 1-97 is as follows:

"In line 14, delete the following: 'Property used exclusively for school, cemetery or'.

"In line 15, delete the following: 'religious purposes shall be exempt from taxation.'

"And renumber the lines accordingly."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the proposed amendment. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE McELROY: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: The other day when we discussed this matter members of the Committee said that they had received a large number of letters. And I wondered from whom the letters came. And it seems that most of them, as nearly as can be ascertained, were triggered by objections filed by one group of people.

It's my contention, and I think it's really the feeling of the majority of the members of the Committee, that if we are to sincerely protect legitimate exemptions from property tax in future times we must leave the Legislature the room to stop abuses of legitimate exemption. If we attempt to legislate, to pass for all time words that will affect all legitimate exemptions, we almost without question build in forever abuses to those exemptions.

And after we allow these exemptions, how many more will want to get in? Will it be hospitals and nursing homes and day care centers, educational theaters, and doctors' clinics and farm buildings and hospital parking lots and on and on and on? And any one of us could make a good case for a legitimate exemption in the Constitution, I suppose, for any of these. I'm sure that someone is going to tell us that this is very unpopular. That we might jeopardize the passage of the Constitution if we take out these exemptions. But I ask you who pays the taxes anyway? Is it not those of us who support the churches, who support the hospitals, who support the nursing homes and the day care centers? We pay the taxes anyway. Why must we then build in abuses to build more taxes for the rest of us?

Someone jokingly asked me the other day if I would be able to get absolution by supporting this amendment. I was going to tell him that what I was really trying to prove was that the church's kingdom really wasn't of this world anyway.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President: I, too, have presented an amendment on this. I don't know, is the proper procedure in acting on this amendment first and then propose the next amendment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug, not unless your amendment is an amendment to this one. Otherwise you would have to wait. You would be out of order. If your amendment is an amendment to this amendment, then you would be in order. Otherwise you would not be in order.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President: It is probably unfortunate that Mr. Sinner — Delegate Sinner was not a member of our Finance Committee. I, too, had the same view as he. But I was converted to the cause of leaving these exemptions in the Constitution. In the Constitution making a provision such as this I agree is for cosmetic effect only. And if it will allay the fears of many thousands of people, it would be my view that we leave the provision in the Committee Proposal and vote against the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: Could we have the amendment read again, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes. The Clerk will read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to Proposal 1-97 is as follows:

"In line 14, delete the following: 'Property used exclusively for school, cemetery or'.

"In line 15, delete the following: 'religious purposes shall be exempt from taxation.'

"And renumber the lines accordingly."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the amendment as read from the desk. Those — as many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The Chair is in doubt. We will open the key. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye," will vote "yes;" those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change? The vote is closed.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: I was in error in voting. I want to change my vote from "nay" to "aye" on that measure.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: From "nay" to "aye"?

DELEGATE NETHING: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will so record.

Its about as close as they can get; 49 "ayes," 48 "nays," three absent. So the proposed amendment failed.

Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President: I have a proposed amendment to 1-97 at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-97 is as follows:

"In line 14, following the word 'for' insert: 'non-profit hospitals, non-profit nursing homes, non-profit rest or retirement homes,'

"And renumber the lines accordingly."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Haugen, Donnell Haugen.

Any discussion?

Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President, members of the assembly:

I have added "non-profit hospitals, non-profit nursing homes, non-profit rest or retirement homes." I think we've all had occasion to know the good work they are doing and how difficult it is for them to make both ends meet. I have personally served on the board of directors at a home at Devils Lake. It takes private solicitation and a lot of work to keep this home in the black. And I think they are serving a wonderful purpose. I think that the people that are dedicating so much of their time and effort to these worthwhile projects would feel encouraged to know that we have spoken that their work is recognized and it is appreciated and that they shall maintain the tax-exempt status.

A matter of welfare is involved in many of these homes. If these homes should have to pay taxes, then they'd have to turn around and we've have to increase the welfare load. And I believe that with these added provisions in 1-97 we will have very acceptable exemptions to the taxation problem.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

During the noon hour our Delegates Thompson and Tudor were listening and I was trying to call a man at Bowman. And they know I had a long, hard time getting him on the phone. It was the Sunset Home there. And he told me that sixteen of their 42 people living there were on welfare — pardon me — social services, we call them now. Sixteen of 42. They are having a hard time making it. I think he said eighteen churches are contributing now or they couldn't operate. And I very much support the amendment of Delegate Hoghaug.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, Delegates:

I would urge that you vote against the amendment and leave it up to the Legislature. I realize that these homes probably will never be taxed, but really are we talking about that or should we leave it to the Legislature? For instance, in a profit type home, who pays the tax? Doesn't a person living there or staying there or a person on welfare in that home pay a tax? I think we should leave it to the Legislature and let them decide.

I've been against tax exemptions whether it's non-profit or not. I always thought that tax exemptions should be according to the function performed. Any one, as far as I'm concerned, should have a tax exemption if they are operating a home for the aged and not because they are non-profit. Because the person staying in the home actually pays the tax.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I would agree in one sense with Delegate Decker, that the Legislature should have this authority. But I felt that way on a previous amendment and was on the losing end. I think it's got to be one or the other. They are either all in or all out. So I'm going to support the amendment.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I did not speak on Delegate Sinner's proposed amendment because of the standing the Committee had taken in agreeing to go along with the exemptions that are listed in the proposal. But I certainly would hope for myself, and I think for practically all the members of the Committee, that this new amendment is defeated.

Delegate Burke indicated to you that we put in the cemeteries and schools and the religious purposes in our proposal. As "cosmetic," I think at Delegate Burke called it, and any idea that we wanted to change our philosophy was that exemptions have no place in the Constitution. We do amend this section giving the Legislature broad authority to define and except any and all property. We believe that this is a job that can be well done by the Legislature as conditions may change in the years that are coming. I think it's a job that should be done by the Legislature. To say that if we don't put these words in this present amendment in there does not automatically say that they will be classed; it simply says that then the Legislature shall have the power of determining exemptions. And I do hope that this amendment is defeated. If it is passed, it is just like Delegate Sinner says, it adds and it adds and it adds and it adds. It's got to come sometime, and I think the time to stop it is now.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: May I ask Delegate Hoghaug a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Hoghaug yield to a question?

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Delegate Hoghaug, in your study as you drew up this amendment had you considered using the word "charitable" or did you feel it was too indefinite a term?

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: I really haven't given it that much thought, Delegate Unruh. But I think the word could very well be in there as long as they are a non-profit organization.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I would like to speak on behalf of Delegate Hoghaug's amendment. One of the old cliches that I am constantly spouting, of course, is John Marshall's retort: "The power of tax is the power to destroy." And while that doesn't apply in many instances, to me it applies very much in this situation.

We hear constantly about tax loopholes and that everybody should pay taxes. However, the reason why I think this exemption — these exemptions should be in the Constitution is because I want to see them embedded, firmly embedded, as much as possible — a person can always amend the Constitution — rather than to leave them to the areas of thought in the Legislature.

It seems to me that these are institutions that we have said to ourselves there are certain things that we do not believe properly need to contribute by taxes because they already contribute to enormous public good. As we by science prolong our lives, more and more of us will require first the hospital, and if we survive that, the rest home or the nursing home. Those institutions are struggling, and we know they are. If any such organization has the temerity to organize as a profit organization and they follow that line of the law, more power to them. If they can find enough patients to pay the bills, they can pay some taxes, too. We are seeking now — we are speaking now only of the non-profit. Now if any non-profit corporation is abusing its non-profit privilege, there are ways in the law, avenues in the law, to get rid of that.

The patients in so many hospitals, and particularly in nursing and rest homes, are now welfare patients. And if old enough, they will be called patients on relief. I have found some figures on these. The welfare patients in North Dakota nursing homes run all the way from 25 percent in a Fargo nursing home to 65 percent in a central Dakota nursing home. Most of the rest of them are around 45 to 50 percent welfare. By recent publicity I understand our welfare funds are in a precarious situation. So if we tax them we must increase the welfare budgets. We're certainly not going to allow these people not to have any care.

When these institutions are built, by modern costs, it represents an enormous investment. And these are not public investments, they are really, in a sense, charitable investments. They are not certainly profit-making investments. And we know where the money comes from. There isn't anyone in this room that hasn't probably been asked on some drive to contribute to the construction costs of these things. We all pay the taxes. If we have to have more taxes, how can we go out and tax these things, the prime purpose of which is welfare? They contribute far more to the public good and the welfare of all of us than some arbitrary dollars that might be levied against them for taxes. And I think we have a difficult situation enough as it is now trying to take care of these people and let's not add to the load.

As to the argument, as I say, why it should be in the Constitution, because in order to know where you're going to stand for the years ahead before the investments necessary to be made, I think you need to be sure. We have been.

I might, while I wasn't asked, address myself to Delegate Unruh's question about "charitable." Charity, I always thought, was absolutely free. And so there is a question whether hospitals, nursing homes, are charity. Because you do have to pay. And so rather than engage in the debate about whether something is actually, by the definition, charitable, I would rather not see that word in. I prefer the word "non-profit".

I fully support Delegate Hoghaug's amendment. I think the people of the State of North Dakota would do so likewise.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates: I'm against these words "non-profit" because I don't think there is any definition of these. And I don't think they should be allowed to remain in the Constitution. If the Legislature wants to so provide and has the opportunity to look at these things, then fine. But to weld them into the Constitution I would be against the word "charitable" in the Constitution as well. I think "non-profit" is particularly unfortunate, because I think we have an awful lot of businesses today, including an awful lot of farms, which we might categorize as "non-profit" according to the popular concept of whether it makes a profit or not.

And I submit to you that there are an awful lot of edifices being built in North Dakota, multi-million-dollar establishments, which, if they are locked into this word "non-profit" are going to have a lot of our citizens wondering when they pay several hundred dollars and maybe into the thousands a year for real estate taxes on their modest homes why these edifices, because they are locked in the Constitution, should not bear any part of government. And I think we have to recognize that all people, all companies, all organizations owe something to the governmental unit where they reside and not the least of these would be the large non-profit organizations. And so I would be against locking this into the Constitution.

You might say, well, if they are not non-profit there are ways to handle it. But I'm not so sure there are. I've had a solicitation within the last few weeks from one of these large organizations. Our family has contributed in the past. I wrote a letter asking for some financial information; this has been weeks and weeks ago. It's not forthcoming. And you find many of these organizations in which they are very selective about giving out any information on their financial affairs. And I submit to you that the Legislature should have the discretion to look at these operations, and if many of the average people and voters in North Dakota could be aware of some of the expenses, some of the salary costs and so on, I doubt whether they would consider them to be non-profit organizations.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I rise to oppose the amendment. Delegate Pearce gave us a good reason why we should leave it up to the Legislature when he said that they were in financial straits. I'm sure that the Legislature is not going to give us — rule out the exemption for these particular institutions. There's also the possibility at some later date these institutions may become quite financially well off. And at that time what profits they may have may be dribbled out to the employees or board of directors or people of this type.

I also would like you to look at an amendment that I proposed that I haven't had a chance to introduce yet which I think will probably clear up some of the problems that people are having with regard to these various institutions. And I hope that delegates oppose the amendment on the floor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Well, there are several arguments here that are not quite valid. For instance, the remark that the people in the homes pay taxes, this is not true. The welfare — whatever you want to call it, social services — has set a certain amount only that they will pay. Therefore the non-profit nursing homes that take in welfare patients have a monthly loss on the welfare patients. And this is true. You can check it anywhere that you please.

And, too, someone mentioned that you can't get an answer back. Now as far as non-profit homes are concerned, they have to have their books open at all times. And this is not — this is something you cannot change. Whereas a profit home you cannot go in and check their books. But a non-profit home the books are open at all times. I know this because I'm a director of St. Luke's and also the one at Bowman which is — they are a corporation. So those — those points are not valid.

And then I want to remind you again, at the risk of being called a Pollyanna, that there is one word we do not take into account enough in this Constitution; we cannot say the same for the people that wrote it the first time, but I am afraid that we are a little bit embarrassed by our own feelings at times and we do not have enough compassion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I speak in opposition to the amendment. I, like Delegate Lerberg, have been solicited. I did see some financial statements. And I am convinced that we're looking at a situation where there's ninety-nine shades of gray. This particular statement I looked at I was surprised to find out that there was a parent corporation from which they made a large number of purchases. And it was a corporation. So we have many shades of gray on how these things are handled. And I feel it's a situation that can be best handled by the Legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fiedler.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: I'd like to corroborate what Delegate Peterson says I'm on the board of the Pembina County Memorial Hospital. And I don't know whether you are aware or not, but all that welfare proposes to pay is costs, all the Medicare proposes to pay is costs. And, consequently, with our inflationary rise over the period of years at the end of each year you will find that you haven't charged enough. Then its another year before you get them. I don't know any other way to justify this than to remove the danger of them being taxed. But its almost impossible to operate under the present situation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I'm speaking in opposition to the amendment and also to the proposal. I think if you'd leave Section 176 strictly alone, which uses the word "exclusively" it gives the Legislature a chance then to check into these matters and set up proper statutes so that anything that is not operated as it should be can be put on the tax rolls.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: I don't know if my position is in opposition or not. I just wonder why we have used the word "non-profit" before hospitals, before nursing homes, before rest homes and retirement homes, but don't carry on to schools, cemetery or religious purposes?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels, I do not believe your question is pertinent to the amendment. You may raise the question when we have — when we have either adopted or disposed of the proposed amendment.

Any further discussion?

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. Chairman, just by way of helping me vote on this, I'd like to ask one of the Committee how many other such categories have been suggested and are apt to be brought up for amendment? Can one of the Committee answer that?

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: I believe that from what I have heard there will be others proposing that they reintroduce other categories of tax exemption into the proposal as it was in 176. I was going to speak on this but everybody got up with their amendments before me.

I would hope to talk about this for the Committee sometime later on, Mr. President, representing the Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, did you have anything further to add?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hoghaug.

Would the Clerk read the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-97:

"In line 14, following the word 'for insert; 'non-profit hospitals, non-profit nursing homes, non-profit rest or retirement homes,'"

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President: In the last couple of days I've been asked by three of these institutions from Fargo that they're — if their tax-exempt status will be assured in this new Constitution. And all of them had worked to build these organizations. We have collected and distributed a considerable amount of money to them, and I can't see why we would turn around and ask them to pay taxes.

Now people on this Committee, I've talked to the Tax Committee a couple of times, at least to a half a dozen members on it, and they assure me in the Legislature these things will never be taxed. But yet I've heard right here on the floor fellows saying, "Well, I think an institution that doesn't pay taxes or a non-profit institution should pay the same taxes as one that does make a profit." In some instances I agree, but not when you go out in the community and raise funds for these things, then turn right around and build the things and after it is built, why we have a difference of opinion which might open these for taxes.

Now I don't see why the Legislature can't decide what a non-profit organization is. It would seem to me that that would be almost a prerequisite for the tax-exempt status to which — for which these people would be eligible.

We happen to be on the border between Minnesota and North Dakota. And I know that these kinds of factors are big factors in a company's deciding where it's going to locate. We have seen what happens with Sunday opening. The consequence of Sunday opening is an entity in Moorhead across the river, which had no economic justification at all, is today a very profitable organization, a very profitable group of stores. When we had a sales tax here and they had none over there, we saw what happened then, too. A great share of the business which would have been done in North Dakota and on which income taxes and so forth would have been paid went to Minnesota. This is just another reason if you decide to leave this outside the tax-exempt status when these people really merit tax exemption and the only difference is you have to decide in the Legislature which is a non-profit and which is not a non-profit organization. Then I think you're just adding one more encouragement to firms to build in Minnesota. And I'll tell you that there aren't too many reasons to build in Minnesota. If we just keep these to a minimum, we'll have the economic development over here for which we are looking instead of just adding one more reason why they should go to Minnesota.

And I would encourage or ask for your support of Delegate Hoghaug's amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hoghaug. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost.

DELEGATE STANTON: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division has been requested. Those that are in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." The "ayes" have it — the key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed. There were 51 "ayes," 44 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. The amendment is adopted.

Now we are on the Committee Proposal No. 1-97 as amended.

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I have an amendment at the desk, but the problem is now it complicates the matter a little bit. So I move that we hold this over for one Convention day.

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb moves, and seconded by Delegate Lander, that the Committee Proposal No. 1-97 be laid over one Convention day. Any discussion?

Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman, might Delegate Lamb tell us what his amendment is? That might make some difference on how we vote on this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think the question is on his motion to lay it over one Convention day. If there is no discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and the motion lost.

We are back on the question. Committee Proposal 1-97 is before the Convention as amended.

Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Well, Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I hope most of the amendments are in by this time. And I don't know exactly what we can say for the Committee, because this has changed it somewhat. However, I might say that we've had a lot of controversy within our Committee on this section, and one of the areas of controversy comes up on the first sentence. There are those who feel that the statement "Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of property, including franchises within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax" is too restrictive because it does not provide for, as an example, a graduated land tax if one desires that. However, it was the Committee's nearly unanimous feeling that we should leave that sentence as it is.

The second sentence is one that we discussed in the Minority Report, and it involves the personal property tax repeal and the classification of buildings and improvements and real estate or personal property. It was the Committee's majority feeling that we should change this language somewhat to conform at least with the existing statutory law as relates to personal property tax repeal and to be sure that our real estate will include improvements as it relates to city property at least.

As far as the third sentence is concerned, we did exclude the other non-profit, or non-charitable, organizations now. And, of course, we have placed back in by amendment the hospitals and the nursing home type of institutions. So I suppose we could say that any of the other non-profit organizations are going to find it necessary to justify their exemptions and to justify it to the Legislature.

Section 57-02-08 of the North Dakota Code does adequately provide for tax exemption for all non-profit and charitable type of institutions. And there are a number of institutions that come within these categories, and there are a number of classifications which are not necessarily non-profit or charitable that are also included in that same section.

The Committee worked long and hard on Section 176, and there was one time we did come out 11 to 3 for total elimination of tax exemption. We did come back and decide that — well, we did come back with a "no recommendation" vote as to this section and we left the whole thing out of our original proposal.

There are a large number of states that do not have constitutional exemption for churches or any other tax-exempt organizations. There are only sixteen that have a mandatory tax exemption for churches; there are seventeen that have a permissive tax exemption for churches; thirteen make no mention; and two say the Legislature can exempt the churches if they choose; and others do not act for — there are two of them that I haven't accounted for in this category.

I might say that our neighbor state to the east has repealed their constitution limitation on tax exemption in all categories. They have not legislatively made any changes to this point.

The majority of the Committee feels that we should extend the tax exemption no further than we have at this point. I think there were some of them that had no objection to the removal or to the inclusion in the exemption of churches and — I mean of hospitals and the other health-related areas. I, myself, feel that the Legislature could have adequately taken care of this. But since it is the wish of the group here that we should exclude it, we will certainly hope that you can pass Section 1 — Committee Proposal 1-97 as we now have it. I think this will give us an opportunity to prevent discrimination in some of our organizations that now we know do discriminate in the State of North Dakota. Because if they are charitable or non-profit it will — and if they do not come under the categories which we have now profit it will — and if they do not come under the categories which we have now listed, they are going to have the necessity, I am sure somewhere down the road, to make an accounting to the people of North Dakota through legislative action.

We have finished it by including a provision in the last sentence that says that the tax exemptions in force shall remain in force until changed by the Legislature. We hope that you will accept the Committee's Report as it is now presented to you.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen. I'm sorry. Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I had intended to offer a further amendment to this proposal, but it has been on the calendar now for — since last Wednesday. It has received considerable discussion, both on the Committee Report and today. I think that my amendment would probably be futile, if offered. And in those days that have passed since last Wednesday I have done some thinking and have consulted some legal authorities. And I am of the opinion that the second sentence which authorizes the Legislature to define the exemptions, any and all classes of property, will do anything that is permitted by the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of our United States.

I was, of course, in respects myself opposed to the further amendment to the exemption statute. This seems to be the rule of the majority that we do enlarge upon it and keep it in the section, though the margin was paper thin. Yet I go along with that majority, and I hope that the Convention will see fit to adopt.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I think this will be the last time I'll get up and talk on this section. I hope so. But the way this has been worded you are going to increase the scope in which exemptions can be made. Because all property will be subject to classification and exemption. And we'll run into in the future more political turmoil over this very thing than we've ever seen in all the years gone by.

Now the present section is clear and specific on defining what is personal property and what is land. Land is the only thing that now is not subject to exemption. And I don't think we should use this Convention as a vehicle to correct errors made by the Legislature when they passed the exemption statute in 1969. So if you leave Section 176 alone, then you will have a clear, concise road to travel. And there would be no difficulty in understanding that language. It's clear and specific and mandatory and permissive in part. Only the permissive part is where they have the right to make exemptions or not. True, we have the constitutional exemptions which are to some degree going to be carried along with this.

So I hope that the proposal will fail.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, a point of inquiry. I was under the impression here we were on the sixth order, and that any discussion of the merits after that, except for amendment, was out of order at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, we're on the tenth order, final — first passage of Committee Proposals.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: If the Court — or if the President please, I understood the bill was amended or the proposal was amended on the floor. I heard no motion to suspend any rules or not. And if I understand correctly, that would carry it over until tomorrow for discussion on the tenth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, we are not voting on the bill. The bill is still open for amendment — or the proposal is still open for amendment and such discussion as the Convention may wish to make.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President: Everyone has had an opportunity to express themselves now. I think it's — it's almost unanimous, one vote over fifty percent. At this time, Mr. President, I move that the Rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 1-97 be properly re-engrossed, and put on the calendar for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug moves that the Rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-97 be deemed properly re-engrossed, be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Do I have a second?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Scheel.

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I don't think everybody's had a chance to be heard on this issue because I haven't had an opportunity to get my amendment in yet. So I would hope that the people will resist this so we can lay it over for the next day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: I speak against the motion, too, because there are some obvious loopholes I think that haven't been discussed this afternoon. For example, as someone just briefly mentioned, there is no delineation of non-profit, whether it be non-profit defined by statute or constitutional non-profit language. There's no provision for that relating to schools, cemeteries. The word "religious" seems to be to be as broad as it is long; needs to be refined. The word "cemetery," someone asked me does it include pet cemeteries. And he was being facetious, but there are pet cemeteries in many states. And I think that we have to — we have to do some more work on the language. And if we're going to be forced to vote on it now, we'll have to vote "no," that's all.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I rise to a point of inquiry. When a proposal is on the tenth order isn't it proper to hear the report of the Committee before you start voting on amendments? This rather upset me, because I would like to have heard the complete report from the Committee that has studied this before the amendments came to the floor for voting.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson, I believe we have had debate and had the Committee Report on this particular question a number of times in this Convention.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: About a week ago I had thought that since I hadn't ever submitted any delegate proposals that maybe I should submit one which would be about 25 pages of definitions, because we seem to be constantly worried about defining words. So I support the motion of Delegate Hoghaug to vote now. Certainly I don't believe that it should be laid over because of definitions, if we are to enlarge this so that we have to define everything. The statute takes care of now, or certainly could take care of, definitions.. We have very explicit definitions of non-profit corporations in our statutes. If the Legislature sees fit to change them, they can, and very much so. And there can be no confusion legally between a corporation for profit and one organized for non-profit.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President: Is it proper yet to ask a question in regards to the language in the Majority Report or do we have to speak just to the amendments?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may ask a question on the Majority Report.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Well, in line 14, "property used exclusively for school". There's one thing that really bothers me somewhat in regards to this because there is a school in North Dakota that has, I believe, served the people well and has been of tremendous help to many children that couldn't receive school or education any other place, and that is the Crippled Children's School at Jamestown, North Dakota. And I would want to be very definitely sure that when we say that this school, or schools, is exempt that this school would be included in that category. And I would like to direct that to some member of the Committee, whether this has been mentioned.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President: I don't think we've ever discussed specifically the Jamestown School. We haven't discussed specifically any school except the profit schools. I think there is a serious question in the mind of a good number of the delegates whether — a good number of the Committee members whether or not any school could be prevented from receiving tax exemption under the present Constitution or under the one that we have here before us. And as far as I know there was no discussion on that particular point.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think we will have the Clerk read the proposal as it now is before us.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: It should now read, starting with Tax Uniformity and Exemptions: "Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of property including franchises within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax. The legislative assembly may by law define and exempt all classes of property. Property used exclusively for non-profit hospitals, non-profit nursing homes, non-profit rest or retirement homes, school, cemetery or religious purposes shall be exempt from taxation."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on Delegate Hoghaug's motion.

Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: I may be mistaken, but I thought that Delegate Hoghaug put the amendments the non-profit, after the word "or" at the end of the sentence. I wonder if that could be cleared with Delegate Hoghaug, if that motion could be checked.

While it's being checked and I'm on the floor I have another question. I would urge that the Convention not suspend the Rules. I think this is significant enough. I think this is another reason we said to lay something over you have to have two-thirds vote to force it on. When we start to amend it is hard for other delegates who have other amendments to be considered to have the opportunity to bring them in. So if we let it go these amendments can be presented tomorrow. I think that's a fair circumstance.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: It seems to me it is a question for Style and Drafting and for a cleaner sentence. I would submit that the proposed amendment has too many words in it. I think we could do with one "non-profit" and list these other entities after that and eliminate about ten extra words. Now I suppose in Style and Drafting we could do this, because we are getting rid of redundant phrases and duplications. But I think the thing is in such condition that I would recommend that we vote against Hoghaug's amendment and lay it over for a day so we can look at it some more.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: His amendment has been adopted. The question is on the matter of suspending the Rules, deeming the proposal be properly re-engrossed, and placing it on the calendar for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it. The motion lost.

Committee Proposal No. 1-97 is still before the Convention.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I will soon be old enough to get in one of these homes, so I want to move that we lay it over one Convention day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-97 be laid over one Convention day.

Do I have a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten.

Any Discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be laid over one Convention day.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-98. 1-98.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-98, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 16 of the constitution of the state North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to bills of attainder and ex post facto laws.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 16 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"BILL OF ATTAINDER, EX POST FACTO. No law shall be passed which would pronounce a person guilty of an alleged crime without trial or conviction according to the recognized rules of procedure. No law shall be passed which makes an action, done before the passing of the law, and which was innocent when done, criminal, and punishes such action. No law shall be passed which would impair the obligations of contracts."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: I'm wondering if the Clerk read that correctly.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No, I didn't.

DELEGATE DANIELS: I think he read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No, I'm sorry, I didn't.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-98.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-98, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 16 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to bills of attainder, ex post facto laws and obligations of contracts, be retained.

"SECTION 1.) Section 16 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota is retained in its present form and reads as follows:

"No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligations of contracts shall ever be passed."

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: As you know, earlier we presented a proposal that defined these terms. And having been defeated on the floor, we have brought back to you the original language from the old Constitution — from the present Constitution.

Now, Mr. President, I would like to offer an amendment. And the Clerk has it on his desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-98 is as follows:

“Delete all of lines 1 through 9 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

“That section 16 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to bills of attainder and ex post facto laws.

“BILL OF ATTAINDER, EX POST FACTO. No law shall be passed which would pronounce a person guilty of an alleged crime without trial or conviction according to the recognized rules of procedure. No law shall be passed which makes an action, done before the passing of the law, and which was innocent when done, criminal, and punishes such action. No law shall be passed which would impair the obligations of contracts.’

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. Chairman, I have been attempting to write this section in the language of the average citizen. The language of the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee originally submitted has been changed only in the definition of “ex post facto”. And this now reads: “No shall shall be passed which makes an action, done before the passing of the law, and which was innocent when done, criminal, and punishes such action.” Although this still is not as clear as I would prefer, it represents a compromise with our lawyer friends who objected to our original definition. This definition also is from Black’s Law Dictionary.

I maintain that we are writing this Constitution for the average individual citizen, and therefore we must have language that they understand exactly what their rights are without referring to a dictionary. I have noticed that our Committee is apparently not the only one which has dealt with legal terms. If you will note Section 103 of the present Constitution and compare it with Judicial Functions Committee Proposal 1-11, Section 6, you will see that a number of these terms have been eliminated. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: As a member of the Style and Drafting Committee, I’m disturbed about the definition of the term “ex post facto” which may be legal, but it seems to me to be very little less confusing than the Latin originally. Therefore, I have proposed the amendment to the amendment which is on your desk and which defines “ex post facto” law. Wait a minute. I have it somewhere. The definition would substitute for that second section that has to do with ex post facto laws. It would insert in lieu thereof that sentence this: “No law shall be passed declaring an action to be a crime and punishing the person who committed it if that action was not a crime at the time it was committed.” I believe that this says essentially the same thing as the definition from the dictionary. And to me, at least, it seems considerably more understandable.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — do we have a second to Delegate Vogel’s amendment to the amendment?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten seconds.

Now any discussion? Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President: I may be the lawyer or may not be the lawyer friend Delegate Daniels referred to. But assuming that I am, I would like to say that while we think of ex post facto as relating to criminal acts, it does not necessarily relate to criminal laws and can in some circumstances apply to civil laws, too. I don't believe that we should try to substitute definitions now for legal principles which have had the interpretation and support of the courts for hundreds of years. If we were to write everything now in so-called layman's language, if we were to require the chemical components of things sold to be expressed in non-chemists' terms, it would take some very long labels to define what those things are. Some words to me, of course, speak for themselves. I admit that for many, many years I've been using certain terms that, like every other attorney or profession, has its own vocabulary. And I'm not hard-nosed on this except that I believe that unless there is some clear reason for abandoning a term that has been fixed in the law, for as long as it has, I see no compelling reason for changing that. And again already we have two amendments right now, one an amendment to an amendment, in order to make things clearer. I thought ex post facto was clear.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I just have a question on Delegate Vogel's amendment. You referred to the engrossed bill lines 13 and 14. And what have we before us? Now we don't have an engrossed bill with those numbers, do we? So I don't think we can accept that amendment at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe, Delegate Hernet, that the lady said it was an amendment to the amendment. I don't have the engrossed bill in front of me either.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, it refers to deleting all of lines 13 and 14 in the engrossed bill. And we don't have that kind of a bill before us, do we?

DELEGATE VOGEL: I think you are right, Delegate. It occurs to me, too, that there is something wrong with the description, which is why I indicated that it was a substitute for the sentence defining ex post facto on the original amendment.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Will Delegate Vogel yield to a question then?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Yes.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Is it true at this time then that line 15 you are still advocating deleting and punishing such action as in the original amendment before you?

DELEGATE VOGEL: If you have the original amendment of the Committee in front of you I would want it to read: "No law shall be passed which would pronounce a person guilty of an alleged crime without trial and conviction according to recognized rules of procedure. No law shall be passed declaring an action to be a crime and punishing a person who committed it if that action was not a crime at the time it was committed. No law shall be passed which would impair the obligation of contracts." I believe there is some error in the lines inasmuch as we are amending an amendment which is not engrossed.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: I certainly wouldn't want to see us take out those words "in punishing such action." In my own classroom I think the most vivid example I've always used of ex post facto law is the case of Hungarian students in the 1956 uprising. Remember, they could not be accused — they could not be executed under Hungarian law because capital punishment was not for those under eighteen years of age. Yet they had a maneuver in Hungary; they took these youngsters and kept them in prison until they were eighteen years old and then they were executed. And I would suggest that punishment for a crime was thus increased after the crime was committed as opposed to just the trial and the bringing of charges against them. And in that case I think that punishment very definitely remains a part of the ex post facto definition.

DELEGATE VOGEL: It is in the definition declaring an action to be a crime and punishing the person who committed it.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Two of our goals in constitution writing are brevity and legal preciseness. I oppose the amendment or the amendments as the case may be, because Delegate Daniels' amendment says in 65 somewhat unclear words what the Committee Proposal says in only 19 very precise words.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: In support of Delegate Dobson's desire for precision and terseness, I would suggest that we don't need this in the Constitution at all because I can't think of a bill of attainder or an ex post facto law or a law impairing the obligation of a contract which is not also contradictory to the equal protection clause which we have or the due process clause.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I wonder, Fellow Delegates, at this point if it wouldn't be a good thing to have the Clerk read the amendment as offered by Delegate Daniels, and then read it with the amendment to the amendment as offered by Delegate Vogel so we have some idea of just where we are.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I am confused. I wonder if we could hold this over until tomorrow and have it all in writing. I don't have the Daniels printing in front of me. I heard it read. There's another amendment to that. May we have it in writing before we vote on it as it's been amended?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab, if you so move and the Convention orders that, you will have it in writing before you vote on it.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I so move.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab moves that the amendment be prepared and placed in writing, and that it be placed before the delegates before they vote.

DELEGATE BINEK: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion was seconded by Delegate Binek.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: I had these placed on the desk yesterday. There should be a copy.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels informs the Chair that her amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-98 were placed on the desks as of yesterday.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President: I haven't had a great deal of luck with motions, but it seems to me that this situation is similar to the bill that came from my committee which just ran into trouble. We don't exactly understand what the amendment situation is. I wonder how much support I would get on a motion that we delay action for one Convention day. I so move.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE QUAM: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Quam that we delay action on Committee Proposal No. 1-98.

We did have Delegate Jestrab's motion in front of us.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I would withdraw my motion and hope that Delegate Haugen's motion would be accepted. That is agreeable.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab withdraws her motion.

Are you agreeable, Delegate Binek?

DELEGATE BINEK: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: He's agreeable.

The motion then before us is Delegate Haugen's motion that we delay further consideration of Committee Proposal No. 1-98; that it be laid over one Convention day.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-98 is before the Convention.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President: I think that we've had a pretty thorough discussion of the general idea here. Even though I am sure it is true that there is considerable confusion. The argument of Delegate Pearce appeals strongly to me. So, therefore, I move the previous question.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Second.

DELEGATE NETHING: Need some seconds?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is a sufficient number for seconds. We will take Kwako and Litten and Nething and Poulson and Stanton as the five-member Rule.

The question here we are on the amendment as offered by Delegate Vogel, the amendment to the amendment. The previous question has been moved, which is to vote immediately. Now it takes a two-thirds vote to adopt the previous question motion, so as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. We are on the question of adopting Delegate Vogel's motion to amend the amendment.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. Chairman or Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: I don't know if this question is in order at this time or not. But Delegate Omdahl did make some comments that led me to believe that perhaps this isn't necessary at all.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen, I'm afraid the Chair will have to rule you out of order. We are to vote immediately.

The question now is voting on the — adopting of the amendments of Delegate Vogel's, the amendment to the amendment.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." And the amendment to the amendment lost.

Now we are on Delegate Daniels' amendment. Now that is open for discussion.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: I hope this is a proper time. Delegate Omdahl's made some comments that indicated to me that perhaps the entire section was not necessary. And if I could I would like to have Delegate Pearce comment on the comments that Delegate Omdahl made, if he still recalls what they were.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Delegate Pearce wish to comment on the question raised by Delegate Omdahl?

DELEGATE PEARCE: I'd be glad to.

This may be the only time in this whole Convention somebody wanted me to talk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I recognize the basis for Delegate Omdahl's remarks. However, if we were to do that in every instance, why we might just adopt the Constitution of the United States by reference and eliminate all other guarantees. I feel that we are not doing that. As I understand it, we are preparing a document which we will submit to the people of North Dakota.

We've already left some things out of the Constitution that I didn't want left out; Section 1 of the Constitution, the right to acquire and possess and own property. I didn't want to leave that out. Because for one thing I can see people who do not want this new Constitution to pass going around reminding people of all the things that we left out. And this is one of the kinds of things that I don't want to leave out because I don't want that kind of criticism of the Constitution.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of Delegate Daniels' motion to amend.

As many as are in favor of its adoption will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the amendment failed.

We are now back on the amendment — or we are on the proposal, Committee Proposal No. 1-98 without any amendments as offered.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: We do have in the Bill of — in the Bill of Rights we do have an equal protection clause that will apply to North Dakota people in our own Constitution. It's an equal protection clause in reverse, but nevertheless it's been construed by our courts to be an equal protection clause. And we do have a due process clause coming through that I don't think has been acted on yet. So we do have those provisions to protect us from ex post facto laws, bills of attainder and laws impairing the obligations of contracts.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-98.

Those in favor of passage will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 79 "ayes," 14 "nays," five delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-98 has passed.

Fellow Delegates, how long do you want to work? Or do you want to call it a day? It's now a quarter after five.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I want to remind the people on the Style and Drafting that we're going to meet at eight tonight. I would appreciate it if we had time to eat.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Didn't we omit committee reports?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, we can still take committee reports.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I thought that was the idea. We've got a few, I think.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We can take committee reports or we can —

DELEGATE HERNETT: I mean these new proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We had but one; we took that.

DELEGATE HERNETT: That all you have?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's all we had.

DELEGATE HERNETT: What committee was it from?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Executive Functions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Executive Functions.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Okay. I missed it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Let the record show that Delegate Hernet missed the committee report.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, Mr. President, is it all right that I should move for a bill of attainder of some food?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No. I think we have to rule that out of order, Delegate Rundle.

Delegate Diehl moves, and Delegate Christensen seconds, the motion that the absent delegates be excused.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the absent delegates are excused.

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: In view of all of the problems that we have just had in going through the Latin terms that some people want and some don't, for your consideration, sir, I might offer at this time that we would consider the adoption of a motto for this convention which, according to my counsel, Mr. Pearce, reads: Nili illigitimati non carborendum. Roughly translated, it means "Don't let the bastards wear you down."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further committee reports on the order of that recently presented by Delegate Miller?

Hearing none — Delegate Hoffner, did you have something?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I was just going to announce to the membership that the Committee on Legislative Functions has ground out eleven committee reports this afternoon. And the calendar may look fairly short now, but I'm sure tomorrow it will look fairly long.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is a good report.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: The Calendar Committee will meet at 8:40 A.M. tomorrow morning. President's office.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? We have the calendar here?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I believe the sixth order has one on it, 1-12. Under the tenth order of business I have Committee Proposals 1-38, 1-44, 1-116, 1-117, 1-14, 1-29, 1-16, 1-97 and 1-76, plus all that on your calendar starting with Delegate Proposal 2-2 and all the rest of them on the calendar.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. Over here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: This is more for Delegate Miller. But would the Clerk tell Delegate Miller what 2-2 is for tomorrow morning?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-2?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: A new section to the Constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to bill of attainder and ex post facto law.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: By action of the Convention you decided to take both the amendments that were offered by Delegate Daniels and the delegate proposal at the same time. Could you rule that, by the vote that was had on the delegate — Committee Proposal 2-2, it has been killed permanently and definitely?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't believe I could.

Any further discussion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President: I move we adjourn.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle moves we do now adjourn until nine o'clock tomorrow morning. Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Pearce.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it. We are adjourned until tomorrow morning at nine.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 5:25 P.M., Monday, January 24, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Tuesday, January 25, 1972.)

VOLUME XVII
(January 25, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The seventeenth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:15 A.M., January 25, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is David Knecht with the McCabe United Methodist Church of Bismarck, North Dakota.

REV. DAVID KNECHT: Let us pray.

We seek Your face, Almighty Father, at the beginning of a new day's labor, lest in its busyness, its frustrations, and its confusions we lose the meaning of our lives.

You hold in Your hands our past, our present, and our future. Keep us from being so enamored with the romance of yesterday that we miss the urgent claims of today and tomorrow. But keep us also from being so enthralled with newness and change that we sell for pottage the hard-earned birthright of our fathers.

We both confess, and rejoice in our humanness, but acknowledge our need of Thee, that You might equip our minds with stringent honesty, our hearts with reckless courage, and our souls with fervent sensitivity that we might, this day, offer up our fitting service, and celebrate life. Amen."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — Roll Call. The Clerk will open the key, you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 93 present, five absent. A quorum is declared.

We will be on the fourth order — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 21st day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

On page 244, in line 16, delete the word "Minority" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Majority".

On page 247, following line 8, insert the following:

"Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage introduced;"

And when so corrected recommends the same be approved.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

Any questions? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion to adopt will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE KWAKO: I'd like to move at this time to return Proposal No. 2-77 to the Convention from the Legislative Functions Committee and request the unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako moves that Delegate Proposal No. 2-77 be returned to the Convention from the Committee on Executive Functions —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Legislative Functions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — Legislative Functions Committee. Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a second by Delegate Stanton.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Delegate Proposal No. 2-77 is before the Convention.

Delegate Kwako now requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-77. Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Delegate Geelan asks for unanimous consent to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-2.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan asks unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-2. Is there any objection? Hearing none, unanimous consent is granted.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President: I can't ask the unanimous consent. I'll explain why. But I would like to appear on a matter of personal privilege.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: State your privilege, Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I ask that my short remarks be put in the Journal.

I'm asking that individual Proposal No. 3-21 — and don't look for it anywhere because it never had the dignity of becoming a regular proposal — but the reason it was introduced, it concerns the Supreme Court was going to reapportion under my plan. In the last session of the Legislature the Political Subdivisions Committee of the House, of which I was Chairman, worked on legislative reapportionment and passed a bill to the Senate. The Senate committee with Senator and now Delegate Hernet as Chairman passed the bill out. These plans were both rejected by the other body, and the conference committee worked on the matter for many hours. When it became apparent that no reapportionment bill would pass, I promised my committee that I would introduce a proposal at this Constitutional Convention which would have the Supreme Court of the State doing the actual reapportionment. The Proposal 3-21 was the result.

I thought I fought a good fight, and got beat in the Judiciary Committee by a one-vote margin. And this was also sent to the Legislative Functions Committee, which the subcommittee rejected it apparently, and sent me the "standard letter," I believe were the words used.

It became apparent that it wouldn't pass when several Justices of the Supreme Court said they did not want the job. The reasons given were three:

(1) We do not have the time nor the staff;

(2) We do not want to get the courts involved in politics;

(3) In case of litigation we would not be in position to finally rule because we had drawn the plan.

In this case, as some others, I cannot help but wonder if we were being more solicitous of the rights and wishes of the judges than we were of the rights and wishes of the other citizens of the State. However, the fact that the Supreme Court Justices did not want to involve themselves in more work, nor in ordinary politics, should exclude the involvement of judges of any kind in any reapportionment plan. Therefore, I ask that the Proposal 3-21 be given a decent burial in file 13. And I thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further then under the twelfth order? If not, we will go on the sixth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Longmire has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-12 as recommended by the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions as printed on pages 255, 256 and 257 of the Journal be adopted.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: In view of the fact that these amendments are quite lengthy, and the fact that we will try and explain the changes that we've made, I move at this time we dispense with the reading of the amendments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire moves we dispense with the reading of the amendments. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Litten. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

We will dispense with the reading of the amendments.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: The delegates will notice in checking the report, that I hope is in all of your books at this time, that it would appear in the beginning that we are tearing Proposal 1-12 apart. That is not true, however. We felt that we could start with the main body of the Proposal and more or less rewrite it because it would be easier to understand and also it would all be before you as it will be in its final form if we pass it without minor amendments in some of the sections and rewriting of one or two sections.

The first five sections have little or no changes whatsoever from the old proposal or the original proposal that was introduced. We merely changed some words there; instead of referring to "general laws of the state" we used the phrase "provided by law" in order to make this uniform with other provisions or other statements in other sections of other proposals.

Going to Section 6, you will note that we have shortened that section considerably. We merely leave in one short sentence providing for home rule for counties and cities, and leave it to the Legislature to provide the details for providing for home rule and the procedures to be followed.

Going on to Section 7, optional forms of government, you will note in the amendments that beginning with the second sentence we have deleted all of that paragraph. We felt that that was not necessary, and that again the Legislature could provide the details without putting in too many guidelines on the operational form of government. As a matter of fact, in the laws at this time there are many statutes that provide for the optional forms of government for counties. The trouble is, of course, we aren't using them.

Then into Section 8. We do not list the county offices that we are referring to there by name; however, we shorten that and state that all elected county officials as of this time will continue to be elected until, of course, a change is made as we provide in another section, which is a new section, a referendum. You will note in there that we referred to the old review board, county review board. We didn't think it was necessary to have another board; that the county governing board could refer the matters to the people without having an additional board to do this. And we took that out and put in a new section, which is Section 9 of the amendments. I won't discuss the details of those at this time; they will be on tenth order. But Section 9 is a new section which pulled out some of the provisions out of the old Section 8 in the proposal. And those will be explained more in detail tomorrow.

Section 9 then in the old proposal became Section 10 without any change in the amendments. Section 10 became Section 11 in the amendments from the old proposal. And no changes were made there. You will note that throughout the amendments provided for putting a title to each section. We felt this would be of some benefit to the Style and Drafting Committee. So basically we have not changed radically by these amendments the original proposal. We have worked over our language many times, hoping to streamline it and cut out surplus language. We hope that the Convention will adopt these amendments, and then we will explain the proposal more in detail on tenth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendments.

DELEGATE WALLIN: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wallin.

DELEGATE WALLIN: I'll ask Delegate Longmire, did we include Section 150 in our repealing section?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: No, we did not, Delegate Wallin. We have a little problem on that. That section, as you know, was assigned to the Education Committee. However, as you know, yesterday in our discussion in our committee we felt that Section 150 should be repealed. And we were going to work that out with the other committee. And we cannot offer further amendments at this time. But when ours get to the tenth order, if the Education Committee hasn't taken care of 150, we will.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-12.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendments are adopted. Committee Proposal No. 1-12 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

We'll be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A majority of your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-83, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegates Maxwell, Bender, Daniels, Fiedler, Geelan, Hubrig, Huckle, Lamb, O'Toole, Schmit and Urdahl.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

MR. PRESIDENT: A minority of your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-83, has had the same under consideration and recommends that Committee Proposal 1-83 be amended as follows:

On line 11, after the comma and before the word "the" insert the following: "provide for no party registration of voters."

Delegates Burbidge, Decker, Thompson and Tudor.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Thompson moves the report of the minority be substituted for the majority.

The committee reports are on page 245 of your Journal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the Minority Report, the Minority Committee Report, that the Report of the Minority be an amendment to the Report of the Majority.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: In view of all my experiences of yesterday, I wanted to add something to the remarks I made again today relative to the amendment.

It is my opinion, at least, that if we amend it in this way and add "no party registration of voters" that we would then have a voter registration system which would increase uniformity in the conduct of our elections. It would prevent disqualified people from voting, it could and would discourage corruption in lawful voting, and it would insure qualified voters their right to vote. And again I urge the adoption of the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: This is the second time we've been up on this. And I would urge that the delegates support the Majority Report in this particular proposal. North Dakota is one of the top five states in the Union for voter participation. Registration by locking it into the Constitution is a form of restricting the voting of the people of this State. Under the present statutes right now the various political subdivisions, the municipalities, could establish a voter registration.

I think what the real question is is do we want to lock into the Constitution a deterrent to voting? I think that it's necessary that we, who in North Dakota have such a high participation, tell our people that they still can have an opportunity to vote. Now there is an argument that this would cut down the confusion that may result from the different residences of people. I don't think it will. I find it very hard to understand how any demanded registration is going to solve this problem.

Another thing is that this is referred to as a "no party" registration of voters. Maybe at some future time the people of this State may find that it is beneficial to have a party registration. There is no opportunity if this is put in the Constitution.

You have to go on the provision — the idea that people are basically honest and that you're going to give them an opportunity to show their honesty by participating in an election in the proper way. You're not going to, by putting in a registration, get rid of any of the problems that arose in Grand Forks the last election. This is a problem that is relative to the conduct of the election, not to the registration. And I hope that the delegates support the majority on this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: I think voter registration is an unnecessary inconvenience on an elector. In North Dakota we're unique among the fifty American States in not invoking such a requirement on our voters. Voter registration tends to be a vote block and deterrent to voting, and very often it becomes the greatest deterrent for those who already have the poorest voting record. People with the greatest stake in social change need to be encouraged to exercise their franchise rather than to make it more difficult for them. We cannot be proud of the large numbers of our people that now don't bother to vote even in a presidential election. It seems also that the non-voting population is ever increasing. Where we are now concerned about the small turnout of electors that will be voting in the coming election that will decide the fate of the work we are doing at this Convention, voter registration will surely be the greatest obstacle to those who work for employers where registration offices would be open only during working hours.

Transportation costs alone may be an obstacle for those who are less affluent in our society. I've heard it said that we need voter registration to prevent fraud. Surely this is not a problem facing us in North Dakota. Fraud has certainly been at a minimum. And there is no evidence but what fraud has taken place would have been avoided by a voter registration. Let us now not use voter registration like poll taxes have been used in the past to discourage certain groups from exercising their franchise. And I urge fellow delegates to support the Majority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

The Minority Report was put in primarily due to testimony that we had from the League of Women Voters. The testimony that they gave to us indicated that where voter registration — and they didn't divide whether it was no party or party — but where there was voter registration the participation was higher than states that didn't have it. Now that's one of the main reasons that the Minority Report is in. We feel that more voters should be out and should be given the chance. But voter registration kind of gives the people a chance to steam them up a couple times, get them ready for an election. That was the main reason I feel it would be advantageous to have it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE TUDOR: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I would like to rise to support the Minority Report — thank you — even though I am a little hoarse. It's surprising to me that the so-called liberal majority in our committee have now suddenly become very conservative and I believe the minority have become the liberals.

I do not believe that any of these arguments or suggestions advanced are valid. It seems to me, coming from a state, Minnesota, where we've always, to my knowledge, had voter registration, this is a simple way of establishing residence in the state. When you move to a state — when you move to our state now there is no actual formal way of establishing your residence. In my precinct — and I use this word "my" advisedly — when you have voters move in I call on you and in this way register them and help them to vote. But they don't actually go through a registration process.

If we had a registration when an individual became of voting age he would automatically go to register. This might be a year before an election or two years or four years. So that I actually can't believe that any of these arguments are valid. I don't believe it would prevent people from voting, I think it would encourage many of our people to vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I rise also to support the Minority Report. I know that voting is a privilege. But I feel that with every privilege we have also, though, some responsibility. It has been shown by the Municipal League Report in our last magazine that when there is voter registration the number that are registered comes out in larger percent. I would rather have a registration with knowledgeable voters, or at least voters that have followed the issues that will be at the polls, than to have last-minute emotions go to the polls to vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I saw this one coming so I dug out some of my political science books over the week-end to take a look at them and decide what I was going to do about my position. And I might say that Professor V. O. Key from Harvard, who has studied in detail I think voter registration more than any other political scientist, ends up concluding several things in his study. And I think they might be rather important to those of us who are about to make this decision.

He says: "Underlying a system of periodic registration is the assumption that it would produce a clean list of voters; those who died since the last registration, those who moved from the precinct and others disqualified in other ways will not be included then in the new voter lists. This is not priority assumption, however, and is unsupported by evidence and experience. In fact, most cities which are notorious for registration in election frauds are those cities which use voter registration systems. The decentralized election frauds, the less responsible conduct of registration officials in the polling places throughout often big city precincts particularly facilitate the padding of such lists. There has even been bi-partisan arrangements between registration officials so they can both falsify their list together.

I don't think we want to interject this kind of system on the State of North Dakota. I think under our present system we have a very good system in the sense that you know the person who lives in your area; the party poll watchers know these people. If they don't they can ask them to sign an affidavit that they do, in effect, meet the qualifications as a voter. And in that sense we have probably the most open voter registration system — and it's not a registration system, it's simply signing a poll book — in the United States. And I think we can be proud of it. And we can say that it is — as I have said around the country — that it is because we all know each other out here, because we all trust each other out here, and we know that a good citizen votes. We encourage him to come in under this kind of a procedure, rather than a rigid formula registration system which prevents people from voting if they are not already registered.

And I would address a question as to the status of the League's report on this to ask whether persons wouldn't really be kept away from the polls if they had not registered by a certain number of days? And I can't believe that that system would do anything but discourage voters who had not made the thirty, the sixty, the ninety-day prior registration requirement that is in existence in so many other states.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President: I would like to just clear up one thing about the facts that have been given here. In 1960 of the ten states with the best voter turn-out, North Dakota was one of the number. Of those ten that had the lowest turn-out, three — Alaska, Texas and Arkansas — did not have voter registration. And at the present time the only state remaining without voter registration is North Dakota, which I think stands in its own stead.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I can't let this opportunity go by to agree with Delegate Sanstead because it might not happen again. Furthermore, I can now go home and boast I knew a famous person.

I do not favor voter registration, never have. In widely-separated areas where people live a long ways apart they are simply not going to make another trip to register. I think our present system has worked well and the rules as applied in New York do not necessarily apply here. I support the majority position.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President: I think that Delegate Lamb made a statement that we should recall here. If we put this into the Constitution we are going to tie the hands of the Legislature on this thing in the future. Perhaps it will want party registration, perhaps they will want to change the registration form some way or other. I don't believe this belongs in the Constitution, even though I may be in favor of a registration of voters.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: Delegate Gipp wishes to announce his presence to the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp announces his presence.

Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I think that for ninety percent, at least, of the precincts in this state voter registration would be pure errant nonsense for the reason that in the local precincts everyone knows everyone else and it never is a problem. And this would just be additional burden on the voters of that precinct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: I am from one of those precincts that Delegate Maxwell is discussing. I have lived there all my life. And the thing that's convinced me that voter registration has merit is the simplicity that could be possible with it. Because at twenty-one years old I could have registered and would not have had to register again because I have never moved from the precinct. I think the delegates should be aware that this does not have to be a complicated procedure repeated unless someone changes residence.

But now we are faced with a more transitory population, and with the eighteen-year-old vote, and a problem of them voting in their school areas or choosing not to, whichever they prefer, I think to make the matter more orderly and to give them a better chance to qualify it would be wise to have voter registration. It's a simple procedure, and I think the changing times now require it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Minority Report.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: The Louisiana Reapportionment Plan was recently thrown out. And the court, as it is quoted in the National Civic Review, listed several reasons for throwing it out. And may I read:

"The plans which evolved from that session were patently defective on several counts, first, the population of the districts deviated considerably more than was necessary, to almost fifteen percent, with variances ranging to twenty-six percent; second, voter registration rather than population was used as a basis for districting in many areas, a procedure which tended to discriminate against black and sub-urban populations."

Mr. President, I think that in the cases that I have read this sort of evidence is becoming more and more clear and more and more classic in court pronouncements. And if anybody hasn't read "Boss", the story of what's happened in Chicago, with this sort of tactic used, as this article says, patently discriminates against people, I think you should. I don't see that this is going to happen in North Dakota necessarily in the foreseeable future, but with the courts time after time suggesting that this is not a basis for permission to vote, I don't think it's a time for us to be putting it in our Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Minority Report. Will the Clerk read the proposed amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Minority Report recommends that Committee Proposal 1-83 be amended as follows:

On line 11, after the "comma" and before the word "the" insert the following: "provide for no party registration of voters."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Again the question's on the adoption of the Minority Report.

As many as are in favor of its adoption will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it. The report lost. The Minority Report lost.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now we have division requested?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Yes.

DELEGATE STANTON: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Five. Sufficient number. Division is granted.

Those in favor of adopting the Minority Report will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will vote — record your vote.

Has every delegate indicated his choice? Any delegate wish to change? The vote is closed.

DELEGATE SULLIVAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sullivan.

DELEGATE SULLIVAN: Delegate Sullivan reports to the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The vote indicates 31 "yes" votes and 62 "no" votes, five delegates absent and not voting. So the Minority Report was not adopted.

And Delegate Sullivan reports present.

The question before the Convention now is the adoption of the Majority Report. Is there any discussion on that?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Majority — Majority Report is adopted.

Fellow Delegates, we are scheduled to hear a debate on Committee Proposal 1-11 at ten o'clock. It's two minutes to now. So we will be at ease for about two minutes.

(The Session was in recess from 9:58 A.M. to 10:02 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order. The Convention will come to order.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A majority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-11 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended, recommends that the same do pass.

Delegates Longmire, Roney, Engelter, Fallgatter, Gipp, Hartl, Hougen, Kessel, Kretschmar, Rundle, Wallin and Warner.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moved that the report be adopted.

Mr. President: A minority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-11 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the report of the minority be amended and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Aubol, Bassingthwaite and Hoghaug.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Aubol moves that the Report of the Minority be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the Minority Report.

Now, Fellow Delegates, I think you will all recall that when this was discussed just a few days ago I believe it was — in fact, it was on Friday, January 21st — that we did set up special, may I say, ground rules for hearing this particular proposal. So at this time if you will turn to page 248 of the Journals you will find the rules under which we will proceed at this time.

The Chair at this time would recognize the Chairman of the Committee, Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: I was planning to suggest that the Secretary read the motion to remind the delegates of the procedure. However, you have referred the delegates to the place in the Journal where the motion is stated and perhaps that won't be necessary.

There has been a little misunderstanding, however, of the motion. And I think that was eliminated in our committee yesterday when we discussed it.

Our committee has assigned to various members of our committee certain sections of the proposal, if the Majority Report prevails, to explain to the Convention. I would like to alert the members who have received those assignments at this time that after looking at the motion again I believe we interpreted wrong. I think I told you yesterday that you would be speaking or making your explanations tomorrow. However, in checking the motion it looks like that we asked that the Rules be suspended and the motion passed, of course, and that we have it on tenth order today. So I hope that you committee members who were assigned various sections will be ready today. If not, I will be glad to offer a motion to carry it over. But if you are ready we certainly would like to finish it today.

Now, Mr. President, by way of just a brief explanation, the only difference in these two reports, the majority and the minority, is the manner of selecting judges. In other words, they differ only in Sections 7, 8 and 9. The Majority Report recommends that we continue to elect our judges, Supreme Court Judges and District Judges, with some additional changes in the manner and with the adoption of what was known as a Utah Plan for selecting a judge if he does not have opposition and if he was an incumbent. The minority, on the other hand, feel that judges should be appointed and no doubt will state to you their position and explain to you the procedures that are to be followed in that connection.

We have selected four people to speak from our committee for five minutes each, as you will note in the motion, and then of course we invite open floor discussion from anyone who can offer any light on the subject as to how we should do it. This is an important matter to come before the Convention naturally; it was important enough to people who voted on this issue twice in recent years. And so the people then that have been assigned will be Delegates Bassingthwaite and Aubol who will speak for the Minority Report, and then Delegates Kessel and Roney will represent the committee in speaking for the Majority Report.

So, Mr. President, I ask you then to recognize at this time Delegate Bassingthwaite, who will speak in favor of the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Bassingthwaite.

DELEGATE BASSINGTHWAITE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

The reason for the Minority Report is to put forth the plan in consideration of this event with the hope that the plan will be submitted to the electorate for its approval at the special election. The Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions received testimony from the North Dakota League of Women Voters favoring the merit system in selecting the judges, one of the Judges of the Supreme Court also testified before the Committee in favor of the merit selection of judges, some members of the Bar Association testified in favor of the merit plan. It appeared to be the feeling of the members of the Bar Association testifying in favor of the merit selection plan that they could not risk their private law practice by running for the office of justice or judge. If they were selected by a nominating commission and were appointed, they seemed to feel that they would more seriously consider accepting a position of judge or justice.

The merit selection plan is often called the Missouri Plan because that was the state which first implemented it. It is not an idea which was exclusive property of the State of Missouri, as it was first put forth by the American Judicature Society in 1914 and since that time twenty-one states have adopted some form of the merit selection system.

The merit system has three basic components: First, nomination of qualified judicial candidates by a non-partisan commission composed of members of the legal profession and of laymen. Second, appointment by the governor from the names submitted by the nominating commission. Third, the electors voting by non-political ballot on the approval or disapproval of judges.

Of the three basic components, the non-political nominating commission is perhaps the most important feature for it insures that only the best qualified men will be selected for judicial office.

The second section of the Minority Report calls for the appointment of judges. The Justices of the Supreme Court and Judges of the District Courts are to be appointed and hold their office until their successors are duly qualified and are to receive compensation as provided by law.

The Minority Report calls for the creation of a judicial nominating commission which is to select three nominees for appointment by the governor. The commission is to consist of a Chief Justice of the Supreme Court acting as chairman, one member of the legal profession from each of the Judicial Districts, and one citizen from each Judicial District.

It is possible in this way to have a geographic distribution of members of the commission to select judges. The system of divisions of the judges will be selected on the basis of merit and not on the basis of political affiliation. To insure this, members of the commission are not allowed to hold an elective office in the state or federal government and are not to hold an office in a political party. The nominating commission is to present the governor with a list of three qualified candidates for each office and the governor is to make the final selection from these three candidates.

The people will have a voice in the vote — a vote in the choice of who is to be judge even though the best have already been selected by the committee; that is, at the next general election after the expiration of three years from the date of appointment, and every ten years thereafter, the Judges of the Supreme Court are submitted to a vote of the electorate. And if the electorate votes a man out of office, the judicial nominating commission will make another investigation and select three nominees for the office, with the governor appointing from the list again. The same system applies to District Court Judges who are voted on every six years rather than every ten years as for Supreme Court Justices.

The Minority Report envisions that by creating the judicial nominating commission and having it screen the candidates for office of judge, only the best qualified men will even be considered for the office of judge; that is, only the best legal men will be recommended by the commission. In this way, the people of the state are assured of a competent and fair judiciary. The people are not deprived of a voice deciding who the judges are to be, because they can vote a justice or a judge out of office if he has not been performing his duties.

Judges are presently elected in this state, and there is no screening of candidates to insure that the judges are well qualified to hold office for which they are elected. This system — this system we propose so that the citizens of the state will have some assurance that they shall have the best possible judiciary.

Mr. President, I now yield to Delegate Aubol.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

It's almost embarrassing for those of us in a Minority Report to oppose the Majority Report because we worked hard and long with the majority to present an article that is basically sound, a report that in many respects is a great improvement to the provisions of our present Constitution. We are in such general agreement, in fact, as Chairman Longmire pointed out, that our report is identical to that of the Majority Report on all points except one. And it is because we were in general agreement, it is for that reason, that the Minority Report which you received yesterday contains only those three sections which represent our exceptions to the Majority Report.

And, Delegate Pearce, we are certain that you will appreciate our respect for the budget by not using more Xerox paper than was necessary. We are sorry, in fact, that we had to use any at all.

But we do feel that the Majority Report does have one deficiency; that deficiency touches on the key to a good system of justice in North Dakota. The Majority Report, for all its merit, does not speak fully to the question of judicial competence at the time a person enters the judicial branch of government. As Delegate Bassingthwaite has pointed out, our report calls for a judicial nominating commission to look over prospective judges, to interview them, to inquire as to their qualifications and temperaments — temperament and then recommend three names to the governor for appointment. Three years after the appointment, and periodically thereafter, the people render their judgment as to the competence of the judge.

We are concerned about three things: The qualifications of a judge at the time of his entry into the system, the right of the people to periodically pass judgment as to his continuing competence, and the assurance that some non-qualified appointees will not be allowed to out-politick him and cause his defeat. The Report of the Majority unfortunately does not touch fully on this critical point of entry.

If you will look at the Majority Report, you will note that the majority still calls for competition at the end of a judge's term only. Only if there is no challenge are the people given the opportunity to say "yes" or "no" on the question of retention. The Majority Report also allows the governor to fill the vacancy through election rather than through appointment. Both of these provisions of the Majority Report have to do with the question of qualification at the entry level. There is no assurance to give — there is no assurance given that only the most qualified persons will be given the opportunity to serve.

The report perpetuates an unnecessary game of chance in that branch of government that is too critical to the lives and to the welfare of too many people to be left to chance. Our report does not guarantee success in every instance, but it does take some of the gamble out of it. All we're asking is that this Convention offer to the people of this State a system of justice that will provide them the most qualified judges available. We ask only that the chance factor in justice be reduced.

Arguments have been advanced, and perhaps will be advanced again, that our state has fared pretty well under its present system of non-political election of judges; that we haven't been abused by judicial corruption that is found in some states. In no way are we attempting to discredit our present judiciary. We have fared pretty well; and we have, as far as I know, been free from corruption. But in this area we are not gamblers. In this area we do not think it should be necessary for years before a campaign can be mounted to resist judicial incompetence. We do not think that the people of this state should rest on the possibility that maybe he will quit, maybe he will resign, maybe Joe will oppose him in the election. In this area of "maybes" we are not gamblers.

The argument has been advanced in the past, and will perhaps be advanced again, that we are a small neighborly state; that we know our judges and their qualifications and we don't need any nominating commissions telling us who is or who is not qualified. To a part of this argument, we will agree. We are small and we are neighborly. But as was pointed out at the Highway Auditorium the other night, we aren't always acquainted with our judges. For those of you who weren't there last week, perhaps the story is worth repeating. A delegate to this Convention, a member of our committee, had the opportunity recently to speak to a local civic group; a group that is generally recognized as being interested in public affairs, a group that is generally recognized as being informed on the workings of government. And yet when that group of young men was asked to name a single one of the five Justices of the North Dakota Supreme Court, that group did not name one. Nor could one member of that group identify one of the District Court Judges serving in that area. And only one member of that group could name the Judge of the County Court of Increased Jurisdiction.

We submit that this is not an isolated case in our state or in any state. A recent survey in another state revealed that nearly all the people interviewed could remember the name of the gubernatorial candidate immediately after the election, but that more than seventy-five percent of those who voted for a judge could not name one of the judicial candidates. And in one well-established rural area of that same state in this survey the percentage that could not remember the name of the judge shot up to ninety-five percent. Just how close are we to our judges?

Admittedly, our proposal will not cure this ill. It will, however, give some assurance that consideration will be given to the qualifications of an attorney before he is nominated, before he is appointed, before he gets a chance to enter the judicial system.

The argument has been advanced, and will perhaps be advanced again, that the proposal which we are offering has been submitted to the voters of this state in the past and has been defeated. There is no need to dispute this, for it's true. We suggest, however, that all of the decisions of this Convention cannot be based on the results of particular elections of the past; especially when the judicial question in those elections was not one of the primary issues on the ballot, especially when about one-fourth of the voters in those elections did not indicate their preference one way or the other on the question, especially when the abstracts of those elections show that in those areas where a concerted effort was made to explain the proposal, the proposal did, indeed, carry, and especially when in those same areas in 1968 more people voted on that question than voted for the incumbent Justice of the Supreme Court who was running on the polls. We have confidence that the people of this State will appreciate the merits of this plan, will appreciate the logic of the proposal if we are given the opportunity to hear the arguments pro and con, if a proportion of this Convention's publicity is put behind it, and if the choices are stated in a clear and a concise manner.

The argument has been advanced, and perhaps will be advanced again, that the merit system will take away from the people their voice in a branch of government. There might be some truth to that. It is true that we will not be able to run our favorite attorney for the office of District Court Judge; it is true that an incumbent judge will not be opposed by a candidate when his term is up. But it's also true that our present system has not been too successful in this effect, that of giving the people an effective choice. Of the nineteen judges now serving in District Courts, only one is there as a result of defeating an incumbent, and only two others have ever even been challenged as incumbents.

From what we gather, these three considerations will correct this situation: First, attorneys who would qualify as judges are generally reluctant to go to the expense and rigors of the campaign at a time they are establishing their law practice; secondly, an attorney's standing in court is often compromised if he opposes an incumbent judge and is not successful; and, thirdly, it does not appear to be the nature of those who are potentially qualified for judgeship to want to assume that office through the campaign trail. It has been said that a campaign is a test of strength, that it takes intestinal fortitude, stamina and courage. That might be true. It also seems that it might work to betray the system it professes to support.

The proposal we are offering does give the people a choice, and it does give the people a voice. It gives the people a voice when you get to the heart of the question; fair, competent, honest and responsive judges.

We have, Mr. President, talked for the good of many delegates of this Convention. With very few exceptions we have heard that the greatest competence can be had through the merit system. We feel that it is the responsibility of this Convention to offer the people of this State a system that will assure them the justice they expect and to which they are entitled. We hazard the opportunity to exercise the leadership and the foresight that the voters of this State expected and requested when they authorized the Convention in 1970.

Mr. President, I yield at this time to Delegate Kessel for the majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

When our committee met the first time in the early summer we all detected a slight leaning, I believe, toward the appointive system. However, as we got into the work and we studied the initial delegate proposal submitted by one of the delegates not a member of our committee, referring to the appointive system, we thought we better go into the merits of this particular proposal and have hearings from the public.

As we examined the proposal that was submitted to the electors in 1968, and also the one that was submitted in 1966, we immediately began to think a little bit seriously about the fact that the people had this explained to them on several occasions and that maybe we just better — we better at least consider the choice of the people. In November of 1966 82,000 voted against such a plan and 73,000 voted in favor of it.

Then much work was put in, mostly by the State Bar Association, trying to educate the people and more in favor of the Missouri Plan than the original. Again after a great amount of publicity, and after many of the lawyers all over the State went to their own communities and attempted to educate the people, they came back out and defeated the Missouri Plan proposal 58,230 to 45,926.

Our hearings continued. We had the members of the Supreme Court appear before us. Four of them appeared; three of them very strongly favored the election system, one of them favored the appointive system. The one that did not appear was contacted and he also very strongly supported the appointive system.

Then we had regional hearings all over the State. The question was presented to the people. How do you feel about the selection or appointing of judges? Approximately seventy percent of the people favored the elective system.

Newspaper polls were conducted all over the State, and many of the weekly newspapers carried these polls. And wherever they were carried approximately sixty-seven percent of the people wanted to continue the elective system.

We had a plan submitted to us by the State Bar Association. And, strange as it seemed to us, this plan provided for the election of judges.

We had several delegate proposals that came out of committee. These provided for the election system. This all up to this time sort of presented a mandate to our committee, at least the majority of it, that we do have to sell what we are going to propose to the people. And we did not have too many arguments what the people have felt should be considered.

We considered the make-up of the present courts. We found that from the nineteen District Court Judges eleven of them have already been appointed, eight of them have been elected. This again dimmed our view on this matter of forcing the appointment. We checked the Supreme Court Justices; we found that two of them were appointed and eight elected — two of them were appointed and three elected.

We discussed this quite thoroughly amongst our members, and we felt that there was some room for compromise. We therefore did, under our present section on the Majority Report, Section 14, provide that a judge who runs unopposed must run against his record. If the majority of the people feel that he has not qualified as a judge, then a vacancy occurs and the method of selecting a judge under the vacancy would then occur. We felt this is good; that any judge who is on the bench, if he cannot obtain the majority of the electors' votes in an election, that there should be a vacancy. We are satisfied, as I know you all are, that if the judge is so incompetent in his duties that the press of our state and the people of our state will bring this out and he will receive a "no" vote.

We then also compromised further in this matter and in the matter of the vacancy. Our Section 13 of the majority provides for the appointment by the governor from a nominating committee selected by the Legislature. The governor then must select a judge for the balance of the — not for the balance — up until the next election, and then the election system goes into effect again. Or the governor may, in his discretion, call a special election. We feel this is an improvement over the present section.

But, at any rate, after giving this all this thought and consideration it is quite interesting to find that of the fifteen members of our committee, seven of them were attorneys, eight of them were laymen, and that all but three are in favor of the elective system. This cannot speak too badly about our present system, and we urge your support of the Majority Report. Thank you.

I now yield to Delegate Roney.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roney.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President and members of this Convention.

I'd like to digress for a moment. I have been here for fifteen days sitting next to Chairman Longmire in committee meetings, and now on the seventeenth day of Plenary Session, and I'd like to have him know that my name is Roney, it's not Rooney for you people who are in doubt. This Irishman came to Ireland by way of Scotland, and my Scotch ancestors took one of those "O's" out of there.

Mr. President, we are talking about something not so controversial; it's almost like having a cake and everyone wants a part of it except that some of us like chocolate cake and some of us like a light-colored cake.

When we talk about the appointment system or the merit system as proposed by the minority and that report submitted by the majority, we are really not too far apart. The only change that we have made in there is that in the event of a vacancy, in the event that the governor fills the vacancy, he is now given two choices; either he must appoint someone to fill this vacancy either to the Supreme Court or to the District Court from a list furnished to him by a nominating committee — this nominating committee we have left to the Legislature to provide, the Minority Report sets up how the nominating commission will perform — or under the present Constitution the governor may make an appointment from anyone in the District, in the case of a District Judge, or anyone to the Supreme Court to fill that vacancy. As a matter of course he has asked for a submission of names, and he may use those names or he may reject them. We are now saying that he must accept the list of names submitted to him or in the alternative he may call a special election.

We have found that the courts, because of illness of judges, the illness of justices, and the cases of affidavits of prejudice being filed against judges where they could not sit, have been adequately been able to take care of their caseloads even for prolonged periods of time in the event of a vacancy.

One of the things that we object to in the Minority Report is the submission of the negative vote to retain a man in office. Because he does not — the people do not know who they are voting for even though they are rejecting someone and they do create a vacancy. I know that this is true in part of the Majority Report, but we are hoping that someone will find opposition to the candidate.

Now, everyone has alluded to the last two elections whereby the people have rejected the so-called merit system. Now the first time they did it by a fifty-four percent of the vote and the second time by a fifty-six percent of the vote. The polls that were referred to, sixty-seven and a half percent of the people who answered the poll in eight county newspapers favored the election of judges. The two polls that were conducted in those regional meetings that we had, one of those favored the election of judges by seventy-seven percent and the other by seventy-eight percent.

Now there's one other thing that I think that we should look at. There are three branches to our government. And we are not proposing, nor have I heard anyone say, that we might get a better governor if we got a commission to appoint him. The people want to elect three things; they want to elect the people who represent them in the executive branch, in the judicial branch and in the legislative branch. They have expressed this desire time and time again. Why should we deprive them of the right to vote for the judiciary when we have not deprived them of that right under any other branch? I think that true democracy means that we will let the people elect our judges. And, therefore, I ask you to oppose the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

We are now down to Item C on the Rules adopted, and that reads: "There be open discussion of both Minority and Majority Reports following the explanations under Section A and B hereof."

So if there is any discussion to be offered by the delegates of the Convention, now is your time to take the floor.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I want to say a few words in support of the Majority Report. Having lived in this State a long, long time and seeing its activities, I can only recall one instance where a District Judge was called to account for any conduct and that was not because of inability or any inefficiency except alcohol. That happened many, many years ago. And I was well acquainted with the presiding officer of that impeachment proceedings, and discussed this situation with him on several occasions. With that exception North Dakota has had one of the most outstanding judicial systems in this Nation. And I would certainly very much regret to see that right taken away from the people to elect these judicial officers the same as all of the other officers.

You want to recall that our National Constitution, Article IV, Section 4, guarantees to every state in this Union a republican form of government or representative form of government. And when you start taking the right to elect away from your voters, you are taking away part of that right guaranteed by our National Constitution. So I urge the Minority — the Majority Report be sustained.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: I speak in opposition to the Minority Report. In Section 9 of the Minority Report provision is made after the expiration of three years for the election of the Supreme Court and District Court Judges. It would appear to me that an electorate that is competent enough to make the decision to retain a judge in office is competent enough to make the initial selection of what judge they want in office. The electorate has repeatedly and emphatically expressed their desire to select and elect their officials in office in preference to the appointive system. It would seem prudent to me to leave this wish of the people.

Progress does not necessarily come about by changing our ways. Let us not be hasty about relinquishing a judicial system that has proven workable and effective for many years.

I would urge the delegates of this Convention to defeat the Minority Report and support the Majority Report on Proposal No. 1-11.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I don't think I really need to say anything; everything has been said. But as a lawyer I would feel that I were remiss as a delegate to this Constitutional Convention to not speak something in defense of our judicial system.

I would like to remind all the delegates, and I'm sure they have it in mind, that the judiciary is one of the three great branches of our government. It is one of the most necessary branches. And it is one of the real tests as to the success of our government, whether it can set up and maintain a system for the disputes not only between the citizens but between the citizens and its own government. And there are many. The test of any government is to provide an orderly means of settling all kinds of problems; civil disputes as well as criminal matters.

For a great many centuries in most parts of the world the judges were a part of the overall government which the people regarded as oppressive, and like many serious things, it becomes the subject of humor. As the man who said, "What's the use of suing the federal government; they've got their own judges?" There's a feeling in that. The federal system has been pointed to as an example of the appointment of judges being a feasible thing. I think it's the only way it could happen for a government as big as the United States of America. If we were to elect judges we would either have to elect them on a regional basis, in which situation at least they would not be truly federal, or we'd have to elect them nationwide, which would for all intents and purposes be an impossibility.

I have practiced law in North Dakota for almost thirty-eight years. And in that time I have known every Judge of the Supreme Court and every Judge of the District Court in North Dakota and some of the first ones I knew were survivors from much longer back than that. And I have known a great many of the Judges of the County Courts, and I've known Justices of the Peace. And I think I'm quite familiar with the judicial system of North Dakota. I have known the men who were appointed in the first instance or reelected, and I've known the men who were elected in the first instance. There has never been, as Delegate Cart said, a corrupt District Judge or a corrupt Supreme Court Judge in this state. Judge Cowan, who was the subject of the impeachment proceedings for imbibing perhaps too freely in the wrong circumstances, was acquitted. So I presume that he's innocent.

I feel that to remove this election of the judges from the people would add to what I think is a sad distrust of government that seems to be growing. The people are not trusting so many people in whom they have had no choice of selection.

They don't feel that they are theirs. I can recall one time when there was a proposal which went on the ballot in North Dakota that the governor of North Dakota shall appoint all the officials of all the cities and villages. And I can tell you the reason why that was proposed. It had nothing to do with this. But what a horrible situation that someone had given the powers and the wisdom of Solomon to take away from the people the right to appoint their own governors. I'm not even sure that Solomon was as wise as his reputation. My recollection is in the Bible his reputation for wisdom was based on one case in which he was to decide who was the real mother of a child. And I would suggest that that decision was based on psychology than it was based on law.

I feel quite strongly as a lawyer, as one who is experienced in dealing with the judiciary that we should continue to elect judges. I'm not surprised that many people can't name the judges. I would suspect we could find a great many people who couldn't name the delegates to this Constitutional Convention from our own districts. I want to keep on electing judges.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman, I feel that I am indeed a brave woman to rise at this particular time to oppose so articulate a defense of our present system. But, nevertheless, I do feel that there are points with which I would like to take issue.

I think that one of the most widely held misconceptions today is that the people of the State of North Dakota play a very important part in deciding who their judges shall be. In the last twenty years only two of the District — of the Supreme Court Judges have been opposed when they ran for reelection as incumbents. And in one of those cases the incumbent had been in office for only a couple of months, so that he had not really achieved the status of an incumbent. In the years between 1960 and 1970 eighty percent of the District Court Judges ran without opposition. And I think that in an election in which there is no opposition, in which the voter has no choice except to vote for the one name in front of him or else not vote at all, is not really very much of a choice.

And it's understandable why there are so many unopposed cases. Because for a lawyer to run against an incumbent judge is, to some degree, to impugn the ability or the qualifications or the honesty of that judge. A judge is not like another candidate for office; he cannot say, "My policy is a different policy. I will administer justice in a different way from my predecessor." The case is a different one; and it is this very fact which perhaps results in our having so few candidates for judge. Because in many cases the very qualities which make a man a good judge are those qualities which make him a poor campaigner. A judge should not have to go out and ask for support; he should not have to go out and ask for money for his campaign; because these, in a sense, are opposed to the judicial code of ethics. He should not be responsible to some people or groups of people for his support. I think that since there is so rarely any opposition to an incumbent judge and the public is given no choice there, the crucial point is the selection of candidates. At the present time if there is a contest, the voter is faced by two people about whom he knows nothing and then he does not have the means to investigate the qualifications of those two people.

I think that one of the reasons people polled have opposed the appointive system is because they haven't been asked: "Do you support the election of judges or the appointment of judges?" The Missouri Plan which we have — are considering, the merit plan, is not an appointive system. It is an appointive-elective system under which the people would have more say in the selection of judges than they do at the present time. Because they would have the opportunity to vote "no" which they do not have at the present time.

Also at the present time the public has nothing at all to say about who shall be a candidate for judge; which is the crucial point. If, under a nominating system commission, when a vacancy exists, the nominating commission would so announce and it would be able to receive the names of those people who could be and would be good judges. And North Dakota has dozens of very highly qualified lawyers who would make fine judges and who would accept an appointment where they would not go out and campaign. A nominating commission has the opportunity to call upon these candidates rather than upon anyone who might chance to offer himself without any screening process, without any recommendations, and all too frequently without any qualifications.

I would like to point out one more thing, that is the statistics which tell us that this plan has been twice defeated; first by 9,000, than by 13,000. It was defeated by 9,000 out of 150,000 voters. The next time the plan was submitted — and I think it had far less publicity than you have been told — it was defeated by 13,000, but the number of voters had fallen to about a hundred thousand. It was an election in which there was very little interest. And as someone else has said, in that area of the state where there has been considerable discussion of the merits, not of the appointing judges, but of an elective-appointive system, it carried. I think that with the explanation people are very interested in having a little bit more to say about their selection of judges than they have at the present time. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President: I find myself in a rather peculiar situation. Some years ago the State Bar Association approved the merit plan as being the way to get the best judges for North Dakota. And they convinced me that it was a good plan. I also at that time heard former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Tom C. Clark speak to that plan. He travels all over the country — he's a very respected judge — and he travels all over the country explaining and speaking for an appointive system for the judiciary.

The remarks made by the lawyers this morning indicate that it might still be the best system, but that it is not acceptable to the people. Twenty-one states have adopted this plan. I suspect it will come to North Dakota; that we will join the twenty-one states. We will probably have to do it by constitutional amendment if we don't take some action now. If it gets us the best judges, then I am for it and I speak for the Minority Report.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

The main crux of the separation between the minority and the majority is with regard to the entrance of judges into the judicial system. Both systems can have, in essence, bad judges. North Dakota has been with the electorate system since statehood, and, in essence, our Constitution has been the same since that time. In our committee discussion, our committee proposals, in Section 8 we are proposing that the Legislature have extended powers in the area of qualifications of judges. This is one step forward in improvement of our elective system.

One argument that has been used extensively here is the question with regard to retaining or removal of a judge that has been in and served in office. Again our committee has stepped forward and proved our system. We provide Section 11 for removal of incompetent judges; those because of "physical or mental disability, for misconduct in office, for the willful failure to perform his duties or for incompetence in office."

One argument that hasn't been stressed very much is the argument with regard to the political nature involved in either the appointment or election of judges. Our State has had a non-partisan basis for the election of judges; non-partisan in the sense that the people have the choice. The appointive system, which the minority urges us to adopt, will put this power of selection in the hands of a few, a few numbers. Now they state that none of the members of this commission shall be involved in politics. But I dare to say that when you have such a small group that the political influence is much greater.

Now the states that have adopted the Missouri Plan in essence have been very densely populated states. In North Dakota we don't have the dense population that the other states have. One of the advantages to the appointive system is where the population is so dense that those attorneys running for an elective position would not be able to know the people. I think in our state this has not come about.

There is one thought that goes along with the entrance of judges in either an appointment or elective system to improve the quality of the individuals that will serve as our judges. There are three areas that we should be really concerned about, and I think is relevant to any attorney who would either accept an appointment or run for election; and that is in the area of retirement, the length of term in the sense that if any attorney has to run or be appointed for a short term he has to give up his business practice and if he isn't accepted by the people or again re-elected he would have to go back into private practice, and the last area is the area of compensation. I think many attorneys in the state that would be duly qualified to act under either system are probably making more money in private practice and would not wish to run or either be appointed to serve as judges if the compensation doesn't satisfy his — his activity and his manner of living. Thank you.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I signed the Minority Report. It takes courage to be in the minority in a committee that has seven attorneys in it. They had committee meetings all summer long. The majority — and I state this to the committee, they are all here — the majority of the committee favored in some form or other the appointive system. But the election group kept saying, "The people want to elect. The people want to elect." So I went along with the election theory. And the committee remembers we did have a No. 12 parked in our proposal at that time which called for strictly election; no appointing provided for at all. Then the judges really got excited. "There are going to be vacancies and then — there will be these terrible vacancies and the judges will have to be shifted around." And one judge even said, "Well, supposing three of the Supreme Court Justices are in a car accident and they are all killed?" Well, we provided for that. We had the governor — gave the governor power to call a special election.

But it seemed that the judges wanted an election when convenient, and appointment when convenient. So I couldn't help but go along with the minority and have one system — not two that we have at the present time. The courts, like the legislative branch and the executive branch, are here to serve the people. And our committee should not write a judicial proposal to please one justice, but try our best to give the people a choice. Give them the choice and they can pick the best system possible.

The League of Women Voters — and I support them — they have given more time and consideration to the items in the Constitution than any other group of people. And they are still in favor of an appointive system.

Now I'll bore you just a moment with a few figures on voting or lack of voting for judges:

In 1959 two judges of the Supreme Court assumed office by appointment. In 1960 they ran for election and there were at that election 78,300 people that did not vote at all. Twenty-eight percent of the people did not vote.

In 1962 two people ran for the office of the Supreme Court. 42,075 people didn't take time to mark their ballot.

In 1964 there were again two candidates. And again 41,348 people didn't bother to vote.

In 1966 there were two candidates for the office of Justice of the Supreme Court. Out of 204,000 votes cast, 28,400 voters did not vote.

In 1968 no contest. 67,900 people did not vote.

Again in 1970 only one candidate for office. And 65,000 or twenty-nine percent did not take the time or bother to vote.

Two of the present judges, including the Supreme Court's — the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, first assumed his office by appointment and he has never run opposed since that time.

Just a few more figures on a local basis.

I pick three counties; Adams County because it's first on the official abstract of votes, Williams County because it's last, and Ramsey County because that's my county. In 1964 there were 1980 votes cast in Adams County; the Supreme Court Justice received 1661, District Judge only received 1486. Ramsey County, my county, 6328 votes were cast; 5421 voted for a Supreme Court Justice, 5239 for District Court Judge. Over a thousand people out of 6300 didn't take time to bother to cast a ballot. Williams County, 8699; 6500 voted.

In 1966 there was no contest in the Supreme Court. In Adams County out of 1684, 1418 voted. So that 270 people didn't bother to vote out of 1600. Ramsey County, the story is about the same; 49 to 4400 voted.

One of the interesting things was in 1968 in Williams County. For District Judge they had two offices available. There were 8,052 people voted in that election. And if they had each voted, if every voter had voted for two judges to which he was entitled to vote for, there would have been 16,000 votes cast. But the two candidates together only received 8433 votes, just slightly over half.

And in my own county of Ramsey County, 1970, when there was a hotly contested election, that is amongst the attorneys they thought it was, there were 5,467 people voted but in this hot contest for judge 4,890 people voted. 569 people didn't take time to vote in what was a real hot contested election.

Members of the assembly, I hope that the minority position will be given some real consideration in this proposal and that this important item can be put up to the voters as an alternate.

And at this time if the governor should want someone to serve on that commission I'll volunteer my services.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Schmit.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President: Will Delegate Aubol yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Aubol yield to a question?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: He yields.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: In the remarks given by Delegate Kessler and Delegate Rooney and during their traveling hearing committees, they have said that from seventy up to seventy-seven percent of those polled favored the election of judges. Now in your travel throughout the state on these hearing committees is this substantially what you found?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Delegate Schmit, I think you were referring to Delegate Roney, not Rooney.

No, Delegate Schmit, that is not right. Although we did not poll the hearings, but I did attend three of these traveling hearings, and in each — each one we explained the present system, we explained the merit system for selection of judges, we talked about the deficiencies of both. And in each of the three hearings that I attended the people were very receptive to a merit system for judicial selection.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: I don't want to frighten any of you delegates. And I really don't think that I have the power to read minds, although I would strongly suspect that when I say the few short things that I intend to say that my fellow Delegate Hoghaug will say, "You don't even dare stand up for what you think is right." And maybe there's a certain amount of truth in this.

It might be a little bit shaky, but I would like to impress on Delegate Hoghaug that I also feel that I am realistic. I came down here feeling that the appointive system, if we could find a commission that would be non-political and completely fair, would be the best way of selecting our judges. I think I still feel much the same way. But I do have to keep in mind what I feel the voters of our state are ready to accept. And I don't think that they are ready for the appointive system. We are putting many new things before them; these things are good. But I think we should keep in mind that we don't want to change too much for fear of losing the entire package.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am not going to repeat one thing that's been said. At least I'm trying not to. No figures. First, I think the four members that were appointed to do the job did an excellent job, all four of them; they covered everything.

And there are a couple of things that may have been missed. In the first place, I am not from Missouri. I see no reason to find that Missouri has a system any better than ours. I never have been able to.

In the second place, I want to tell you that the people that say this is a modern thing in the last few years should look back in the book that Delegate Knudson has, a historical book, and you will find that the vote was eight to seven in 1889 in the committee. Eight to seven in favor of electing them. Now it is twelve to three. So it's going backwards instead of improving.

One other thing, you cut your ballot down, I always thought the less choice, the less people you have to vote for, the fewer votes you may have. You get down to voting for no state officials, no judges, what's going to interest the people? Who's going to be out campaigning getting them to vote? This is one other thing. And we're urging everyone every election to vote; "Get out and vote." Well, we should leave them something to vote for, is the way I look at it.

One thing other I would like to point out, that the lawyers — this committee had seven attorneys on it, this is true. They didn't overpower us at all. If they did, I haven't discovered it. And I think you may have heard that I don't always agree with all the attorneys and all the judges. But the attorneys spoke on this majority side. I just want you to know that I wasn't overpowered by their arguments whatsoever. And they didn't name the — they didn't run the committee in an overpowering fashion whatsoever. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President: I came to the floor today on the fence, and I got knocked off a little while ago. This is a minor speech in support of the majority proposal. I think one of the important points to consider is the majority is not in here, it's really the rest of the people out there in the State of North Dakota. And I think it is to the credit of the majority proposal, both members of that committee, that they considered that already two votes had been taken on the Missouri Plan. This is not only our Constitution that we're talking about, this is the Constitution for all of the people in North Dakota. The people in North Dakota like voting for candidates, and so do I.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Will Delegate Aubol yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol yield to a question?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Yes, Mr. President.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Having served on the Executive Functions Committee, we heard often about the fears of the electors putting too much power possibly in the hands of the government. Has your Minority Report or your committee faced that problem, that perhaps we are giving too much power to the governor?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Delegate Simonson, I feel that our Minority Report gives far less power to the governor in appointment than does our present system. Of the thirty-six Supreme Court Judges we've had in this state, sixteen assumed office by appointment by the governor. Eleven of the nineteen District Court Judges we now have assumed office by appointment by the governor. In this case the governor was all alone, he had no nominating commission to go to, there was no one screening candidates, screening potential judges. All the power was in the governor to appoint.

I think that our present system leaves far more power to the governor than should be — than the judicial branch should have to rely on. And it opens up the way for far more political favoritism than the nominating commission screening idea.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I'll yield.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Larsen.

DELEGATE LARSEN: There just is one thing that sort of bothers me as far as this Majority or Minority Report. And I'm more or less concerned about the lawyer or attorney who as a candidate runs against an incumbent judge. The vote is very close, he loses by only a few votes. Then one of his clients comes up to him and has him plead a case for him against that judge. I was just wondering, now, where there's been this very hot campaign race, whether or not there might be just a little bit of discrimination when it comes up to issuing a just and fair verdict. Now I don't know, I don't know whether that would affect it or not. But I am just a little bit skeptical. And for that way — matter and because that there may be, I'm going to go along and support the Minority Report. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President and delegates to the Convention:

I suppose as chairman of this committee I ought to state briefly something of my position and more so to explain to about three other delegates who are seated on this floor as to why I join the majority in the committee.

Now, as Delegate Trenbeath knows, he and I have debated the merits and demerits of the appointment and elective systems for many sessions of the Legislature. It was my privilege back in '62 and '64 and '66 to serve as Chairman of the Legislative Research Committee. And back in '62 we did start a study consisting of legislators and laymen to revise our Constitution. You know now the outcome of the revision that was made or recommended when these revisions were submitted to the people. I, of course, at that time carried on the floor of the Senate the resolution for the appointment method of judges. It went to the people; you know the result. And then again in '68 when we referred it again to the people it was my privilege and duty at that time to carry the resolution on the floor of the Senate. And I know Senator Trenbeath spoke very much against the provisions of appointing judges. Again it went to the people; and you saw what happened.

Now I want to clear up the fact that no work or little work was done at that time to acquaint the people with the provisions of the appointment method. We had a citizens committee headed by Mr. Baldwin from Fargo who raised a certain amount of money; we put out publicity pamphlets. The Bar Association was split at the time. And, Delegate Jestrab, the Bar Association has never been able to get together on this. The Executive Committee of the Bar Association voted to support the appointive method the first time around, but the second time there they were split, although the Executive Committee did recommend. So we have never had a unanimity of opinion even among the judges and the attorneys with respect to this. And a lot of work was done by the Bar Association in an attempt to acquaint the people with the merits and demerits of the appointment method.

And I want to say that even at this time I am ready to agree that those who have proposed the appointment method their position has a great deal of merit. But, on the other hand, there is now and has always been a great deal of merit on the elective system, too. Those reasons have been pointed out here time and time again and I won't repeat them.

But as Delegate Pearce has said, we have been fortunate in having a good judiciary in our state. We are different from some of the larger states of the East and other places in that respect. Many people feel, and they vote that way because they feel, that if you have a good system and it's working, why change it and try a new system for something you don't know whether it will work properly or not? And I do not agree with those who say that the people are completely uninformed on the judges who are running or on their qualifications. Every election when judges are up I have numerous people call me to find out about some of the judges that are running or the judges that are on the ballot; their qualifications, how I feel in connection with them. I am sure that every attorney has the same experience. Because the attorneys are in a better position to know the qualifications of the judges. And I am sure they do not hesitate to tell people what their thinking is when they call them.

So leading up then to the deliberations of our committee, I felt that there was a great deal of merit on both sides. But in weighing the situation of the attitude of the people who had acted so recently in this respect twice, and in considering the polls and the other contacts that we had with the people when we were out having our hearings and so forth, it became obvious to me that at this time the people would not accept the appointive system as had been recommended or has been put to them before. And until that time comes, we can argue logic or anything else we want to here, as we did then. We are not going to be able to change that, in my opinion, in the near future. There may come a time when the attitude of the people will change and maybe they will be convinced that there is more merit in the appointive system. But at this time our committee felt certainly that they had not reached that stage. And for that reason you have the Majority Report before you at this time.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I did want to point out that it was only a few years ago —and Delegate Longmire pointed that out — that the Legislative Research Committee did such an excellent job of convincing those of us who are members of the League of Women Voters that this appointive-elective system called the merit system was the system we should have; that it was the best system. I am not sure I can buy that the vote has shown us enough to make me give up the convincing that I had at that time. And I must support the Minority Report.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. Chairman and members of the assembly:

I rise to support as a member of the committee the Majority Report. Granted, we are this morning discussing the merits of the appointive versus the elective system — a system which in our Federal Government and in our State government we recognize is a judicial system separate, distinct and therefore apart from the executive and the legislative branches; each a separate function of government. I submit that in the Majority Report we have done exactly this: We have left the choice to the people, first, by the election; second, if we need an appointment we have provided a fair, unbiased appointive procedure. If you will refer to the Majority Report, Section 13, the Judicial Committee is provided by the legislature. I submit that in the Minority Report, if you will refer to the same, Section 8 provides a lengthy, detailed nominating commission consisting first of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court as chairman; admitting the fact that he may have been involved in the car accident and therefore not available to act as chairman. Second, one member of the legal profession from each judicial district. This is fine. This is the system we have used under the current system which a review made by a majority of the committee has indicated has worked satisfactorily under the appointment system we have used previously. Thus, I now call your attention to the third point of the judicial nominating commission proposed by the minority. One citizen not a member of the bar appointed by the governor. Delegate Aubol so aptly pointed out that no one perhaps other than lawyers and judges are knowledgeable about the candidacy and qualifications of those available for the judicial position. I would simply ask the delegates in the body to consider how well this member, not a member of the bar, knows the candidate.

Further, I would point out to you that we have six Districts at this time. Each District under the Minority Report would require a member not of the bar appointed by the governor. Whether it is one political party or another I would submit that under this system we would have a definite one-man political situation available on the board. The system, when the majority plan after careful review provided for by the Legislature, would hopefully prevent from occurring the same type of system in one unwritten plebescite which we currently use which has provided when the need for appointment existed a satisfactory judicial candidate.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Will Delegate Aubol yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol yield?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Yes, Mr. President.

DELEGATE LAMB: Delegate Aubol, what is the difference between your proposal's provision that calls for the confirmation by the people and the majority's proposal of voter approval?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Delegate Lamb, on the surface it doesn't appear that there is too much difference. But there is a difference in the two plans. We feel that the difference is very important. The Minority Report allows for the people always — allows for the people always to say "yes" or "no" on the question of retention. The Majority Report, however, does not answer that question when it arises — when this question arises: “What will happen if we have an unqualified judge being opposed by an unqualified opponent?” When there is opposition there is no chance for the people to say “yes” or “no”. In those cases I wonder what our choice really is.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Fortunately for the delegates I have scratched out most of the comments that I had because at this stage of the game they have all usually been said. But I think that we need to back up and take a look at the forest a little bit and ask ourselves what the function of the courts is in a democratic society.

Yesterday we insisted upon adopting double protection against abuses of our rights. Not only do we want equal protection of the law, which we adopted, not only do we want due process of the law, which we are going to adopt, but we also like to have double indemnity by providing that they shall have no ex post facto laws and no bills of attainder and so forth. And so we are very jealous and worried about our rights. And as Delegate Pearce has reminded us on occasion, history tells us that there are plenty of reasons for concern over our rights. But it seems to me that it's the function of the courts to protect our rights. And that on many occasions we've seen where the only thing that has stood between an individual and the overwhelming majority in relation to a question of rights have been the courts. And so when Delegate Rundle asked over at the Highway Department the other night, “What is a good judge?” I say that a good judge is a person who is independent and whose devotion and dedication is solely to the law and the Constitution. Now how do we get independent judges who are able to adjudicate disputes and protect our rights? Because after all, our rights are only as safe as the courts will permit them to be. And if we do — if we have judges who must always have one ear to the electorate or must be concerned about what is popular, then we do not have an independent judiciary whose primary concern is the protection of our rights.

I suggest that we cannot vote on justice, we cannot vote on rights. And if we are electing judges who are going to determine what your rights are, our rights, I say, are in jeopardy.

Now as to the quality. I think the present electoral system, without a doubt, reduces the number of candidates that are available for consideration for appointment to the bench. Some do not have a fair chance on the ballot because if they have a funny political name they probably won't get on the bench unless they get there by default or without opposition. So maybe your son wants to be an attorney, but if you happen to have a funny name and you don't care to have it changed by one of your ancestors, as Mr. Rooney did, you are going to be stuck with a bad malady and you will never be a Justice of the Supreme Court of North Dakota. And some do not have a fair chance even though they may be qualified. They will never get to serve on the bench.

Then, as has been said, the political qualities are not necessarily good judicial qualities. And so the means of getting there are not necessarily the qualities you want on the bench. And I say that a reputable lawyer does not care to risk his professional reputation by putting his name on the ballot and being defeated and then having his clients go to some other attorney because their attorney has been rejected by the public. And the cost of a campaign also reduces the number of candidates who are able or willing to put out the money that it takes to risk the possibility of election. And then, of course, the office itself is very tenuous under election, because you never know what the whims of the public may be.

Now it has been said that there has been no scandal in our courts and I'll have to concur. But I think that what is in the past may not always be true in the future. I can just say generally speaking that the state courts have been — have been less than desirable in their ability to protect the rights of the people. And a good many of our rights have now been protected by the federal courts where the state courts have looked aside while our rights have been trampled upon.

A lot has been made of the fact that we have had two statewide elections on this question. And it has been pointed out that the margin was fifty-four percent and fifty-six percent. It is interesting that today this is a substantial margin, whereas yesterday we thought it would require sixty percent to float a bond issue in a school district that was over a certain level.

I was involved in campaigning for the Missouri System in 1966 and 1968. And I can say that troops were decimated. There were very few around to carry the crusade to the public and explain. There was very little information. And I'll bet that if you walked down the streets of Bismarck this morning, you'd find very few people that ever knew what they had voted on such a question that was on the ballot. And I suggest that the legislators did not want to become involved in the campaign; I know that a few of them did. I know Senator Longmire made himself available and did some work on it. We hardly scratched the surface in either one of those cases. So I say what is an independent court worth? What are your rights worth? Are they worth going out and trying to change public opinion if that is required? I think that a Constitutional Convention is no place for timid people who are worried about some future election or who are worried that they are not going to be able to do what is popular. I think it is a leadership responsibility that every one of us, all 98, must assume. And we should do what is right and go out and convince the people that we did what is right. And I know that if the people are properly informed that they will support what we do if we were right.

We sort of think we're in a unique situation. This is no rare situation dealing with controversial questions day after day. You ought to go back and read Madison's notes on the original Constitutional Convention, which produced a document to which we all will give acclaim. But we are very timid about emulating, I might say. In the midst of the Constitutional Convention this same kind of discussion was coming up. And finally George Washington said: "It is, too, probable that no plan proposed will be adopted." See! How often have we thought that? "If to please the people we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we afterwards defend our work? Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair." And now I cannot — I cannot help but add one little scriptural quotation from my fellow Baptist — of which there is only one — Luke 11:52 — and note the fact that the seven attorneys on the committee have turned tail on this matter — "Woe unto you lawyers for ye have taken away the key of knowledge. Ye entered not in yourselves, and them that were entering in ye hinder."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, the question. We have arrived at Rule 7 or Rule F. It says: "At the conclusion of the debate a vote be taken on the Minority Report."

The Minority Report is that the Report of the Majority — Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority. As many as are in favor of adopting the Minority Report will say "aye;" those opposed will say "no." The "noes" have it.

DELEGATE STANTON: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is sufficient number to have division. Again the question is on the adoption of the Minority Report. Those in favor of adoption will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no". The key will be opened, you will record your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The vote indicates that there were 44 "yes" votes, there were 50 "no" votes, there were four delegates absent and not voting. The Minority Report did not pass.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: Do I understand now that we have before us on the tenth order the Majority Report of Proposal 1-11?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, we have a set of rules here that we are running by, and we are down to sixth. It says: "If the Minority Report receives less than a majority vote of the delegates the Majority Report is deemed properly engrossed and placed on tenth order for first passage." And that is the rule you adopted. You have suspended the Rules to adopt this rule.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I have an amendment at the desk. I would like to offer this amendment. Copies are being distributed to the members of the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner offered an amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-11. The Clerk will read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-11.

Delete Section 13 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

“Section 13. Whenever a vacancy occurs in the office of judge of any court of this state and whenever such office is open to election according to the intervals established in this article, such vacancy or office shall be filled in the following manner: the governor shall appoint, as candidate for the particular office of judge in question, one of three persons possessing the qualifications for such office, which three shall be nominated and whose names shall be submitted to the governor by a non-partisan judicial commission established and organized as provided by law. The name of the nominee appointed pursuant to this selection process shall be placed on the ballot and submitted at the next succeeding general election to the electors eligible to vote within the geographic jurisdictional limit of the court in question. Other candidates for the same office of judge may file declarations of candidacy for election thereto as provided by law, and their names shall be placed on the same ballot as that of the nominee.”

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Scheel.

Any discussion?

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President and members of the Convention:

The debate has been very good this morning. And I believe that this is a compromise that all the members of the committee and the members of this Convention can live with. What we're asking in this amendment is that a nominating commission — non-partisan nominating commission be set up by law, — and, incidentally, this commission could be different for District and Supreme Court Judges — and three names be submitted, and that the governor then pick one name to go on a ballot — to go on the ballot at the next general election. And that any other name, any other individual, that's qualified to serve as a judge could also file in the normal manner and be on the same ballot for election. What we're saying there is the nominating commission, name picked from three, that person go on the ballot, and anyone else, and the people will make the confirmation. We've had debate on both sides and everyone agrees that the people should have a chance. And the minority had asked for a three-year delay; this makes the election immediately. The governor does not appoint, he just puts the name on the ballot. I hope that — we agree to this, and I hope the Convention approves this amendment.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I rise only for a question. I don't have the engrossed bill. I am assuming that the proposal is as printed on pages 200 and 201 of the Journal. And Section 12 on page 201 is retirement, and Section 13 is in relation to vacancies. And I wondered if there was a confusion there.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I have had amendments prepared for both a Minority and a Majority Report. And had the Minority Report been adopted the amendments would have been different. But we include the vacancy in the amendment and go on to say “whenever a vacancy occurs”. I thought that was taken care of. Now maybe it doesn't, I don't know.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, I think the question that Delegate Pearce has is that possibly Section 12 has been eliminated on previous debate on this subject.

DELEGATE PEARCE: The question I had was if Delegate Hoffner's proposal is to delete Section 12 and insert a new one. Now on page 201 of the Journal Section 12 has to do with retirement and Section 13 has to do with vacancies. I assumed that the amendment should be to delete Section 13.

And while I'm on my feet, also on page 201, the title of Section 11 says, "Renewal." I thought it ought to be "Removal".

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: In reply to Delegate Pearce, the report of our committee is "Removal". And if there is any misspelling, it's in the Journal. And I hope the Committee on the Journal will correct it.

I believe that Delegate Hoffner may have overlooked the fact that even the Majority Report amended the original proposal. And we put Section 13 in instead of 12 to cover vacancies. That was a new section that we wrote. Now if Delegate Hoffner wants to still put that in for 13, that's perfectly agreeable with us. However, I believe that the majority of our committee would oppose his motion even if it did refer to the proper section because on Section 13 of our report we worked on this, oh, for several hours to try to come up with something that we thought would cover every situation with respect to the vacancy. And if you will check our Section 13, Delegate Hoffner, you will see that it does somewhat similar to what yours does. Ours goes further, however, than yours and says that the governor will fill the vacancy immediately. We, on our old proposal, that vacancy would remain until the next election. But testimony to our committee convinced us that we should not leave that office vacant until the next election; it might go as long as two years. Or if we go to the four-year election of most of our officials, it could go that long. So we felt that we should have some means in the meantime to fill that vacancy, which we did by a nominating commission. And our nominating commission, however, nominating committee, we left it to the Legislature to work out the details of that because we felt that we should lengthen the Constitution or this article by determining the details of how this commission would be set up and appointed.

And then, of course, if no one but the incumbent, in another section of the report, was on the ballot, then the question would be placed on the ballot: "Shall you accept Judge Smith? Yes or no." And if the majority voted "no", then you would start all over again and fill the vacancy in the same manner. So I believe, Delegate Hoffner, that most of what you were trying to get — add here is covered in our proposal and that it does — it is broader in that it will fill the vacancy immediately if one should develop.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: As I read Delegate Hoffner's proposed amendment it would be a special nomination by the governor on the ballot initially which differs, I think, from the way the Majority Report presents the matter. But I would like to inquire of Delegate Hoffner whether he contemplates that the nominee for judgeship who is nominated by the governor, whether that — that standing or that fact will show on the ballot? In other words, we did this in the case of election of delegates to this Constitutional Convention; they were designated as nominated delegates versus delegates running at large.

And the second question is under our present process you may recall placing the name in the general election, in other words, the candidate nominated by the governor at the general election — our present process calls for a primary election in which the two high judges, if there were more than running, would go on the ballot. And I wonder if you are going to do that would you contemplate just one other name would end up on the general election ballot? If that were the case, I think we would have to do a little further amending to eliminate the two high as you have it now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: The main philosophy of the amendment is to use the merit system for the appointment to get a name on the ballot and then — and then go the regular election process. The delegates to this Convention, a number of them, were selected in this manner. And Delegate Kelsch brings up a very important point about the primary election. And the vacancy that Delegate

Longmire speaks of certainly could be taken care of in the same manner as the Majority Report. But I think the test here would be whether you agree with the philosophy of having a commission nominate and then placed on the ballot and the people approve that nominee or any other individual that is qualified to run for that office. And I see now there are quite a few things that need to be changed here. But I think at this time the delegates should have a test here of whether they like the philosophy of making this type of selection. And if they do, I'm sure that the committee, Judiciary Committee, as capable as they are, could take this back and put it in the proper form.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, would you — in order that we get on the right section, would you request unanimous consent of the Convention to change — delete Section 13 and then insert — you want to delete Section 12, you want to change that to 13? Section 12, change that to 13?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I ask unanimous consent to do that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any objection? Hearing none, then the record will show that we delete Section 13 and insert in lieu thereof the following Section 13 is the way the amendment will read.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now someone requested the floor. I believe it was Engelter. Delegate Engelter, did you request the floor?

DELEGATE ENGELTER: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I only wanted to bring to the attention of Mr. Hoffner that — and I realize that predominantly this section deals with just the Supreme Court and the District Courts — however, in his amendment he refers to "any court of this state". And I wonder if that's what he wants.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: The intent was the Supreme Court and the District Courts.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

In the space of the last twenty-five years North Dakota has had fourteen Supreme Court Justices; three of these died in office and two resigned. Over the same period we've had fifty District Judges; twelve of these died in office, eight resigned for various reasons, and two resigned to accept Supreme Court appointments. In addition we've had a District Judge-elect die before taking office.

I cite those statistics so that you can see what our North Dakota judiciary would have been literally riddled with vacancies over the past quarter century if we had had in effect a provision such as the amendment we are now considering.

The Hoffner amendment would not allow the appointment of a judge to fill a vacancy; it would merely nominate a candidate to go on the ballot. I think the Judicial Functions Committee should be commended for coming up with its proposal on vacancies whereunder an appointee will occupy the office immediately and serve until the first general election when the office shall be filled by election. This will insure that our judiciary isn't riddled by vacancies.

I think that we have a good judiciary in North Dakota. It can perhaps be argued it is as a result of a blending of the appointive and elective system. I urge the Convention to stand by the Committee Proposal and reject the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Our Committee discussed this question of vacancy extensively. One question that arises — arose in our minds was a question with regard to cost of holding special elections to fill vacancies. This is one of the reasons why we took a reverse stand from our interim report filling vacancies by election.

And the second reason, and I think a more important reason, is that we felt as a committee that a vacancy should not occur in a District Judge position or a Supreme Court Justice position where in essence the public needs the services. And

I think this is the most important fact. If a judge — or a vacancy occurs the services are lost to the people. And this is why we step backwards and try to fill that vacancy by appointment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President: Maybe I'm the only one confused here on this thing, but it seems to me that Delegate Hoffner's Section 12, as has been pointed out, deals with Section 13, but also speaks to Section 5, the original selection of a judge. I think his idea has a certain amount of merit, and I'd like to see it discussed some more, although we've talked about this for almost two hours now. And I think that his idea again should be brought up to this — to this group properly molded in so we can see exactly what the deal is on it. So I reluctantly move that this be laid over for one day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that further consideration of Proposal No. 1-11 and the amendment be laid over for one Convention day. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Jestrab.

Now Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I was going to second it in light of the vote that was just taken on the earlier question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill, did you want to comment on this or do you want to speak on the prior?

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President: I think the motion will take care of the proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the motion to defer further consideration of Committee Proposal No. 1-11 for one Convention day. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "noes" have it. The motion lost.

Now Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President: I think the basic idea set forth by Delegate Hoffner is to allow a nominating commission to put a qualified candidate on the ballot. And there's no doubt the past experience in North Dakota shows that a qualified candidate doesn't dare run against an incumbent judge, whether he's doing a good job or not. A nominating commission would have the ability to evaluate the performance of the District Judge, and if they didn't feel it was a superior performance, they then, of course, could put up a candidate. I think this is a compromise which would be accepted by the voters of North Dakota. It does not — the biggest objection to the Minority Plan, I think, by the committee — is that simply it does not provide an alternative satisfactory to the elector. They simply can vote "yes" or "no" on an appointed judge. This proposal allows any other candidate to be — who wishes to run against a person who is appointed by the governor from a list of nominees provided by the nominating commission. And I think this is essentially similar to what was known as the Simpson Plan which was advocated back in New York about 1915.

And I would like to ask a question of Delegate Longmire if he would provide an answer.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes.

DELEGATE HILL: I like the idea that they have set forth in Section 13 here. But did you consider using that same procedure for the regular election, not only the vacancies?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'm sure that at one time or another we considered every angle that could possibly come out of this — grinding this vacancy section. However, we felt that we should not deprive anyone from running for this office if he chose to do so. Now you can readily see if you have some kind of — well, I answered your question. I'll speak on that later. I am taking your time. My apologies.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Well, my point is right now that we simply have no way of getting a qualified opposition on the ballot because the facts of the matter are when you have an incumbent who is reasonably popular there is no way to beat him usually. And a nominating commission would be an excellent way to provide the voters with a choice. Now everyone here has said they want to give the voters a choice. Well, if we really look at the past history the voters haven't had that choice. A nominating commission to put the decent opposition on the ballot against an incumbent judge or against anyone else who wants to run for the position certainly would give the voters a choice. And if we feel the voters of North Dakota like to make a choice, I think we should devise a way in the Constitution that they can have a choice in more than name only. And if there are no amendments that are going to be adopted to this provision, I simply am going to vote "no" against the Majority Report. I do believe that Delegate Hoffner's idea is excellent, and I also believe it's not in shape to be adopted. I will vote "no" on his amendment also. I will defer the question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I'll yield to the question.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: I would like to ask Mr. Longmire a question. I'm unclear about one thing. Does a vacancy occur if at the end of a term a judge decides not to run for reelection? If a vacancy would occur would this nominating commission provide a candidate for this type of natural vacancy or is it only a vacancy which occurs due to death or resignation during a term?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: As I understand our proposal, it would — it does provide for a nominating commission for the governor either way for names to be presented to him. However, this particular section would relate more to a vacancy occurring while the person was in office. Now I assume if the judge did not plan to run again he would announce that long in advance so that other candidates who would be interested would be able to qualify and get on the ballot.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Thank you.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: If I may, while I'm up, I have just one further comment on Delegate Hill's question.

The committee did study very thoroughly what you have in mind, Delegate Hill, and what Delegate Hoffner does. We felt, however, that it was putting another candidate who was not named by the commission in jeopardy to have some kind of preliminary committee put somebody on the ballot that would give any other candidate who wanted to run at that election an unfair advantage. As a matter of fact, that's why we left the old section the way it was at the beginning of just electing rather than having the governor appoint. Because certainly if the governor appointed somebody and then he came up at the next election to run before the people, the mere fact that the governor had appointed him would give him a disadvantage over any other qualified person who wanted to become a candidate. And I think this commission idea that you have would even go further than that. It might name one or more. And the people would get the idea, "Well, all the rest of these fellows who are running are not qualified because they haven't been screened." And it would give those an unfair advantage. I think it might work more in the opposite way from what you have in mind than it would if you left it as we have it.

I think the main weakness, however, of the amendment is the fact that you have no provision in there for filling this vacancy in the interim until you come to an election. And it was on the suggestion of Delegate Dobson that we reconsidered our old section and did provide for this vacancy which is included in our Section 13. So we hope this amendment does not pass.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Just one more comment, Mr. President. I hope the amendment does pass. I think by passing this amendment you will express the views of this commission idea and it can be placed in the proper position. I realize it's not in proper form right now. But I think the committee will want a consensus of feeling here, and I think by passing this amendment you will do that and then the time will be to send it back to committee. And I am sure the committee will put it in the right form.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: In response to Chairman Longmire's remarks, the committee did consider a proposal similar to this early in the game. However, the committee came out in favor of this report in standing. And that vote indicated in the committee — it was 12 to 3. Now, the vote here this morning was not quite that one-sided. And I do think that the Hoffner amendment has some merit to it. I do think the delegates to this Convention should have a chance to have those amendments placed in proper form.

Mr. Chairman, at this time I would move that this Convention recess until two o'clock.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry, Delegate Aubol, did you make a motion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: I would move that this Convention stand in recess until two o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Does that cut me off?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Normally it would, but I'm going to take whatever you have to say.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Well, this is argumentative. I was sitting here thinking that this procedure sounded very familiar. That's the way that nominees were appointed to run for office of delegates to the Constitutional Convention, by a commission which appointed nominees, and others could file if they wished.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Aubol's motion, that the Convention be now recessed until two o'clock. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE MILLER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I wonder why we are recessing until two o'clock. Are committees going to meet at one? It's only twelve o'clock; that's a two-hour lunch hour. I don't think we can afford a two-hour lunch hour.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I really have no objection to reconvening at one o'clock if Delegate Hoffner can put his proposal in final form by that time.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: It would seem an appropriate time to comment that Style and Drafting is going to give up its nightly attempts due to weather and many conditions: It's just a little too hard on the body to drag yourself in and out of these cold chambers and so forth. So it would be appreciated if our lunch hour was at least an hour and a half, then we'd get a chance to have about a one-hour meeting. Then we'll try to have one at the end of the session, too. So we'll try to work during the day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, the Chair will ask your indulgence in making an announcement here prior to voting on this question.

THE DESK REPORTER: What's the time of the motion?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's still two o'clock.

Before we vote on this, I'd like to have you read that announcement. Read that announcement, will you, Mr. Clerk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The Committee on Alternate Proposals will be: From Legislative Functions: Jeannette Stanton, District 21, J. K. Benson, District 6; Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage: Joseph S. Lamb, District 17, H. Jackson Fiedler, District 11; Executive Functions: Earl W. Chase, District 8, James R. Dawson, District 21; Finance and Taxation: Gary L. Lerberg, District 4, and John McElroy, District 29; Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions: Theodore F. Kessel, District

27, Fred Hoghaug, District 15; Education, Resources and Public Lands: James O. Billey, District 28, Edward K. Lander, District 18; the Presidential Appointments are Allen McIntyre, District 39; Sylvan Hubrig, District 5, and LeRoy Erickson, District 26.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now the people, the delegates, who were just named to this committee will bear in mind that Rule 18.1 requires that you meet and organize yourselves. And due to the fact that speed and time are in the essence — of the essence, if you do wish to meet during the noon hour my office will be available to you. So if you wish to meet during the noon hour, why, my office will be available.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now I believe we are still on the motion of Delegate Aubol that we recess until two o'clock.

Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President: May I rise to a point of personal privilege?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may state your privilege.

DELEGATE STANTON: As long as you've mentioned a ballot committee, I would like to remind everyone here, and I'm sure there isn't anyone here who hasn't lost a few, — by that I mean you have lost a committee proposal, minority report, maybe a majority report — the purpose of the ballot committee is, of course, to undertake what alternates will appear on the ballot. And I would like to remind everyone here that it is his right, and that this is really his court of last resort, if he wants to get nineteen other people to sign with him he can ask us to consider any proposal to be placed as an alternate. And don't forget you still have this court of last resort even though you think you've gone down the drain. And I'm sure every committee here must have a couple proposals they would really like to see presented to the people. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question then is on the recess by — Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Mr. President: Maybe I missed part of your announcement with regard to the Committee on Alternate Proposals. In that section you named the ones from each committee. Were there also to be under that Rule 3 appointments of the body present?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, those have been named.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Would it be in order to offer an amendment to the motion to recess for two hours, until two o'clock?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I took it from Delegate Aubol that he had no particular reason for saying two o'clock.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would offer the amendment, then, of one-thirty, that we recess until one-thirty. I noticed a number of hands second the motion; Delegate Roney as one. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

And the question now is on recessing until one-thirty. As many as are in favor of the motion to recess until one-thirty will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And we are in recess until one-thirty.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Style and Drafting at twelve-thirty, G-7.

(The Session recessed at 12:12 P.M. until 1:30 P.M., the same day.)

(The Plenary Session continued at 1:40 P.M., Tuesday, January 25, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

We'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: For the information of the delegates, on page 229 of the Journal under Revision and Correction of the Journal, the title of Section 11 has been corrected to be "Removal".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will continue on the tenth order of business. Delegate Hoffner's motion, his amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-11, is still before the Convention.

Delegate Longmire:

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: Before we recessed Delegate Vogel asked me a question and I don't believe I understood her question. I understood her question to say would the provisions we made in Section 13 cover any vacancy. By "any vacancy" I thought we meant one that occurred during the term. Our provision would not cover the situation where a judge is running — or I mean is in office and does not plan to run at that time. My apologies for the wrong answer to the question, but I think we were talking about two different things.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: Are we now discussing the amendment to 1-11?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir. Your amendment, Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I would like to withdraw my amendment with the consent of the Convention. And I have a corrected version that I would like to introduce.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, my record does not indicate who made the second.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel agrees. So if it is agreeable with the Convention, we will grant Delegate Hoffner permission to withdraw the proposed amendment that was before the Convention at the time we recessed.

Delegate Hoffner, you may proceed.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I'd like to now move an amendment to 1-11. I believe the Clerk has a copy.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-11. Delegate Section 14 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 14. Nomination for election to the office of justice of the Supreme Court or judge of the District Court of this state shall be made as follows: The governor shall nominate one of three persons submitted to the governor by a non-partisan judicial nominating commission established by law. If the commission recommends retention of the incumbent, the governor shall nominate such incumbent. The name of the governor's nominee shall automatically be placed on the ballot at the next succeeding general election with appropriate designation. At the general election the name of the nominee named by the governor and not more than one candidate nominated by law shall be placed on the ballot."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE HARTL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Hartl.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: The copies that are on your desk have one sentence deleted; the second to the last sentence of the amendment.

Now I was just advised by Delegate Hartl, and I recognize, we should have been working on the Majority Report which is complete. What we're doing here is we're saying that the nominating commission submit three names to the governor, the governor then pick one name and that person's name will be placed on the November general election ballot. Any other candidate who wishes to run against this nominee will go through the regular process; primary election or any other method provided by law.

I feel this is a compromise between the Majority and the Minority Report. In the debate this morning I felt that this was definitely in the area of disagreement. And I think the vote, as close as it was, indicated that a compromise would be in order. I hope the Convention goes along with this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: I see some merit in what Delegate Hoffner is attempting to arrive at in connection with this amendment; however, it seems to me mechanically that part of the last part of it would raise some difficulties in the limiting of the people who would be on the ballot to the nominee for the governor and one other person. I can see that if two people have qualified in the primary, in the primary election, both of them of course would expect to go on the ballot. And which one of these or how are you going to get rid of the other one if you limit the number to two that would be on the general election ballot?

Now, offhand I don't know how you could do it. I know what Delegate Hoffner is trying to do is to try and be assured that at least one person on that ballot is going to be qualified as well as he can through this commission and through the governor's appointment. But it seems to me that would raise a great deal of confusion. And I don't just see from the practical standpoint how you can limit someone from being on there and running in the primary election. Our committee would be very glad to take this proposal and give it some further thought, but on the brief time that we had of checking it since it was handed to me about five minutes ago and since I checked with Delegate Hoffner, I don't see how mechanically it could work at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman, Fellow Delegates:

I cannot conceive of anything happening, as it could be by this, that a man would be nominated by the governor and that would place him automatically on the general election. At the minimum he should be sent into the primary election, and if two other delegates — two other candidates would receive the majority of the vote they certainly should go to the general election. Can you imagine anybody running against this nominee if they were forced to run in the primary and then face someone who has been designated and placed on the general ballot without the opportunity of having been exposed or otherwise before the electorate? I move the defeat of this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hougen, Jim Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. Chairman: I can't see too much wrong with the old section. But one thing bothers me a great deal; and that is that the governor's nominee shall receive this "appropriate designation" on the ballot. I would feel this to be a tremendously unfair advantage for the nominee of the governor. I don't believe he should have the advantage of this, of this kind.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

If you will turn to Delegate — or Committee Proposal 1-18, you can see why some of the people who are supporting 1-118 wouldn't want to have this amendment. I believe this came from Delegate Omdahl's delegate proposal. And it would be a prejudicial part of the candidacy of someone running who wasn't nominated, 118, 118.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: 1-18?

DELEGATE DECKER: 118, 1-118. I'm sorry.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I have a question as to the — Mr. President: I have a question as to the amendment. There's a sentence that reads: "If the commission recommends retention of the incumbent, the governor shall nominate such incumbent." I'd like to know what this means. We have a review board on acting judges; do we have a commission that's going to put a stamp of approval or disapproval of someone sitting on the bench?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson. Excuse me. Delegate Devine, did you direct a question to Delegate — did you direct —

DELEGATE DEVINE: I asked a question without directing it to — I'll direct it to Mr. Hoffner, Delegate Hoffner.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: My view of the language there is say a judge has been in office for six years and is up for reelection. That commission then would recommend — he is an incumbent — recommend his naming on the ballot. And then anyone else could go on the same — in the same manner as provided by law.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Would that be an automatic recommendation?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Excuse me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: The commission would submit one name to the governor, and that name would be on the ballot.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President: I'm still not clear. If there is an incumbent would it be an automatic recommendation?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, can you answer the question?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: There is a possibility that if an incumbent has been in office for quite some length of time that the commission may want to submit three names to the governor and may want to leave out the incumbent.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I think that clears up my point. And basically what we are doing is providing the review board appointed by the governor, as I understand the proposal. And I would speak against the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President: What the amendment is seeking to do is give an advantage to one candidate in a judicial election. I'm not sure it would give an advantage to the candidate. The sponsors of this amendment apparently concede that it would. For example, the governor's candidate would not appear on the primary ballot; all of his opposition would. This would give them a head start in voter identification.

Secondly, the governor's candidate might be saddled with a rather unpopular governor. People may vote against the governor's candidate simply because he was nominated by the governor. This could even work to knock out good incumbents.

I oppose the amendment mainly because it's an attempt to rig the electoral system.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: Again, if the Convention adopts this amendment, there is nothing wrong with those of you who disagree with this method of the primary selection amending it further. And certainly I have no objections. But I feel that this is one method on selecting good judges; giving the people an opportunity to approve by a vote of the people. And by a nominating commission, three names, and the governor picking one name, I certainly have no objection that this name be placed on the primary ballot.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

In case 23 of you wondered what this sheet is, I have just for fun made a list of the names of the delegates here who did not have the blessing of the governor. It pertains to this issue because the same thing is mentioned, same scheme is mentioned in this amendment, which I am opposing strongly.

Now I don't claim that anyone of these 24 is any better or any worse than any of the other delegates. I don't even say in some cases it was an advantage or disadvantage. But it does pertain, and it's experience how it works. In my case I thought it was a definite advantage not to have the nomination.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question? The question before the Convention is on the proposed amendment as offered by —

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — by Delegate Hoffner. Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: Would someone — would Delegate Hoffner, I presume, explain to me the way you could justify having these words “with appropriate designation”? Would you give some remarks on the justification of this as well as the constitutionality of it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I don't know what the Legislature would put on the ballot. I'm sure they wouldn't put on the ballot that Governor So-and-so recommended this name. I suppose they would put on the ballot that this commission had shown the process that this nominee has gone through to get that designation. And personally I see nothing wrong with it. This morning we heard all the arguments, and I think everyone agrees that we want to pick good judges. We want to use the best possible method to get good judges. Because these judges make decisions every day that affect people's lives. And this is all we're trying to do here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: Delegate Hoffner didn't answer the whole question of Delegate Miller. The constitutionality of it, I believe, would be assured by virtue of its being in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the proposed amendment as offered by Delegate Hoffner. Those in favor of the adoption of the amendment will say “aye;” those opposed “no.” The “noes” have it, and the amendment lost.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Some of the delegates during the noon hour have talked with me about further amendments. And I think some of these amendments may be covered in some of the sections that we have brought forward in our report. I would suggest at this time that we proceed with the explanation of our five sections and then if there are further amendments to be offered, that we consider them at that time. I believe we'd save some time by that, because some of the amendments that are being proposed are already covered in some of the sections that we have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will proceed, Delegate Longmire, in the manner that you have suggested with the explanation of Committee Proposal No. 1-11.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I believe Delegate Hartl was assigned the first four sections. I'd like for you to recognize him at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Thank you, Mr. President. Ladies and gentlemen of this assembly:

Section 1 entitled “Judicial Power” I would refer you either to the Minority Report for following or to your Journal, not what is printed in your daily book. I believe the Journal numbers would be pages 200 and 201, et cetera.

Commencing with Section 1, this is replacing sections in part 8 by 110, 112, 113 and 114. Section 85 of the Constitution as originally enacted deals with the judicial power of the State of North Dakota, establishing a Supreme Court, District Court, County Court, Justice of the Peace — which incidentally have been by constitutional amendment replaced — and such other courts as might be necessary in towns and villages.

Our proposal is to vest the power in —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl, excuse me just one second. But you made reference to a place in the Journal; is that correct? However, I believe that this copy of the proposed amendments and as it is in the Journal is also on the desk of the delegates. So this is easier to follow. I think you have this. Now you may proceed.

DELEGATE HARTL: That is correct, Mr. President. That's what I originally referred to.

We referred to a unified judicial system consisting of a Supreme Court, District Court and such other courts as provided by law. It is anticipated that our Supreme Court as we currently know and recognize it to be would remain in substantially the same form as it presently operates. Our District Court, which we recognize on a local basis in each District, would also remain with virtually identical powers as it originally and currently operates under. The last phrase "and such other courts as provided by law" anticipates the legislative body providing for such courts as might be necessary; which, incidentally, under our Political Subdivisions article, would refer to the County Court system, which is the probate and guardianship court, so to speak, or court of increased jurisdiction handling items wherein the penalty can be up to $1,000. This is lower than a felony. This particular provision would provide for the current court system as we now have it under the Legislature would provide a replacement or substitute court for the police magistrate court which we have in the larger towns, the county court which we have in each county, except where we have courts of increased jurisdiction — I believe there are twelve courts of increased jurisdiction — and a county justice system which we have in the counties which do not have increased jurisdiction.

For distinction of those who may be somewhat unfamiliar with the three lower court systems, I would just simply say that the police magistrate court normally would take care of the traffic violation and parking violation type situations as in my case in the City of Rugby. Most cases in the Cities of Grand Forks and Fargo, the County Court of Increased Jurisdiction in Benson County, for instance, would take care of the probate matters and the driving violations committed on the highway. Whereas in Pierce County, my county, the county court system would take care of only the probate and guardianship type matters, the county justice court system would take care of the highway violations and the lower misdemeanors of the court system.

Under Section 2 the "Supreme Court Jurisdiction", we cover Sections 86, 87, 89 and 88, 92 and 95 of the old Constitution. Primarily these sections dealt with jurisdiction, units of court, terms of court, the increase under Section 95 to five judges when our population attained 600,000 people, for terms of the Supreme Court at Grand Forks and Burleigh County which you will be aware of we now have Supreme Court Justices only at Bismarck, and for constitutionality of the five judges on the Supreme Court.

The Section 2 as proposed simply consolidates the articles into a concise jurisdictional statement as to the type of court; namely, the Supreme Court is to be the highest court, the type of jurisdiction it is to have. And, incidentally, in this particular portion on lines 3 and 4 the court has "the authority to issue, hear, determine and enforce such writs as may be necessary". We deleted the original writs as we referred to those earlier in the thing, such as habeas corpus, mandamus and quo warranto, believing that the original writs, as it is stated here, which they will still be interpreted as with the Latin terminology as far as court procedure, will be considered and it was not necessary to maintain their Latin terminology within the new Constitution.

The Supreme Court would continue to consist of five justices. We felt, after proper deliberation, that we had adequate reference to the workings of our court system, and that it would not be necessary at any time in the future to increase the staff to seven. We also, in accordance with procedure, designate one as Chief Justice. The Chief Justice then shall exercise general superintending control over all courts. The reason that we determined the Chief Justice should have this authority was the fact that we had to place the responsibility somewhere and it is logical that the Chief Justice should have this power.

With reference to the rules of government of all courts, again the Supreme Court having the general control of the court system, it was felt that it was proper to have the court make the rules.

With reference to Section 3, "Decisions in Writing," the current section which controls this is Section 101. For those of you who have your Constitution before you, the original Section 101 recites that when a judgment and decree is reversed or confirmed the Supreme Court shall fairly decide every point arising upon the record of the case and the reasons therefor shall be concisely stated in writing, signed by the judges, and filed. And any judges dissenting could give the reason in writing.

The system of publication of the Supreme Court decisions which we use makes reference to the important cases — excuse me — the important points brought up in the case. And we felt after review of the particular article where the Supreme Court members and members of the committee that we had a repetitious and somewhat outmoded requirement in the Constitution at this point, since the Northwest Reporter issued by West Publishing Company does the work of the Supreme Court in this particular instance. We, therefore, deleted the specific requirement of the judge to discuss each concise point, and have indicated in Section 3 that the points “shall be concisely stated in writing, signed by the justices”.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kretschmar.

DELEGATE KRETSCHMAR: Mr. President and Convention Delegates:

Section 4 of the Majority Report deals with “Appeals” to the Supreme Court, and is generally a rewritten version of Section 109 of the present Constitution; it allows appeals from the lower courts. We’ve changed the wording “district” in the old provision to “lower” so that appeals may be allowed to the Supreme Court from decisions of County Courts of Increased Jurisdiction, as presently is the case, and from any other courts that would be so provided by law or by Rules of the Supreme Court. The appeals would be set up under the statutes as they presently are, or under the Rules of the Supreme Court as Section 2 gives the Supreme Court power to promulgate.

Section 5 of the Majority Report is basically a rewritten version of Section 90 of the present Constitution as provides for ten-year terms as is currently the case for Justices of the Supreme Court. We have designated the Justices of the Supreme Court as “justices” rather than “judges” throughout the article, and use the term “judges” for the judges on the District Court. This is one slight change from the present Constitution.

Section 6 gets into the District Court Jurisdiction, and is basically a version of Section 103 of the present Constitution. We have made some changes in this section because we are designating the District Court as the court of original jurisdiction in all cases except as otherwise provided by law so that the Legislature could, in the future, providing the District Court would have jurisdiction to just about every case that would arise in this state, — right now some of the other courts have jurisdiction such as the probate courts and the justice courts and so forth — this would, I imagine, continue. But the Constitution now would allow it to be changed in the future if the Legislature saw fit.

Also the District Courts are given such power of jurisdiction as they would have under the Rules of the Supreme Court. And then again the Judges of the District Court would be — would have authority to issue these various writs which they have authority to issue now. And we have taken the Latin names out of this provision again as these writs are set up under the statute; most of them in Title 32 of the Century Code.

I believe that completes the explanation of Section 4, 5 and 6. And I would yield to Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Fellow Delegates:

Section 7 of the proposal pretty much takes care of Section 104 and Section 105 of our old Constitution wherein it was provided that we shall have six judicial districts, and the names of the counties in each district are designated. We have taken these districts out and have provided that the district shall, in the future, be set up by the order of the Supreme Court. There was much discussion on that, whether that should be left with the Legislature, or whether that should be done by the Supreme Court. It was felt that the Supreme Court is in a better position to know the work load of the various districts, and that they are the ones that can determine how the districts should be altered in the future.

We left the same term of office for the District Court Judges at six. And they hold their offices as was provided under the old law.

Section 8 sets up the qualifications. And in this we have pretty much deleted Section 94 and Section 107 of the old Constitution so far as the age limit is concerned, in that it provided that they shall — the Supreme Court Justice shall be at least thirty years of age and have been in the state at least three years. In our present Section 8 we leave that up to the Legislature. The same is true so far as District Court Judges are concerned; we changed the words "learned in the law" to be member of the bar and we again took out the age limit, leaving that up to the Legislature. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roney.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President and members of the Convention:

We will now talk about Section 10, which is labeled "Disqualifications". This is old Section 100 in the old Constitution. And I'd like to tell you that this Committee Proposal 1-11 covers 34 sections of the old Constitution. And this happens to be the only one that we added anything to. We added and made it a little bit stronger because the old Section 100 only disqualified a judge in case he was interested in a cause that appeared before him. But now we have enlarged that that if he is unable to sit because he is "physically or mentally incapacitated", then the Supreme Court may "assign a judge or retired justice or judge to sit" in on the matter. And, of course, this also ties in with Section 2. We are hoping that the rules will allow for this to be set up.

I yield, Mr. President, to Delegate Engelter.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Section 11 is a section on "Removal". It is a new section in our Constitution. Our committee felt that in the areas of impeachment with regard to judges that something additional should be provided. I think the section itself is self-explanatory. There is one point here that I want to point out. In the areas that we have covered we look at the question of service of a judge in the area that he's serving, whether or not he is doing the service, and whether or not some type of either temporary suspension or complete removal should take place and not allow him to sit and is disqualified for any of these reasons.

Section 12 is a new section; it refers to "Retirement." I think it's more a directive in nature to the Legislature to provide for retirement. Retirement, I think, is important because it's going to bring better qualified attorneys to seeking the position of judgeship. The area of retirement includes both age and retirement pension.

Section 13 is an area on "Vacancies." I think we discussed this a little bit earlier this morning. I want to point out that we felt that if a vacancy does occur, the vacancy should be filled as soon as possible.

Now in our provision it provides that a nominating commission can submit to the governor a list of nominees and the governor shall appoint — and I emphasize that point — he shall appoint from one of the nominees or he has an option that he might call a special election to fill that vacancy.

Section 14 is a new section that was introduced in our committee by Delegate Vogel in the early part of our studies. It wasn't given much consideration until late in our deliberations. It provides for the case where the incumbent is running or has no competition. And I think history will tell us that most judges when they rerun for election that they run unopposed. And, therefore, our committee felt that if this is the case that the public should be able to decide not by not voting at all, but by voting not to retain the judge.

At this time I'll yield to Delegate Kessel to discuss Section 10 — or 9, I think.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: I'm sorry, I didn't think 9 was discussed.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: — 9 is a very short section. I thought I had that assigned to someone.

But this prevents, of course, a Judge of the — a Justice of the Supreme Court or a Judge of the District Court from engaging in the practice of law or holding any other public office, elective or appointive, other than the one that is judicial in nature. And this, again, was of course a similar provision carried in one of the older sections.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BAKER: Question.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I am referring to Section 2, the third sentence — I'm looking at page 200 of the Journal — which says: "The chief justice shall exercise general superintending control over all courts." We do not have in either the Constitution or our statutes a definition of what is "general superintending control". And it is my feeling, and I believe the feeling of present members of the Supreme Court, that that exercise of general superintending control should be by the Supreme Court and not by the individual who happens to be Chief Justice. And for that reason I have an amendment at the desk. But don't read it just this instant.

The only other remark I would like to make is on Section 8, the qualifications, which applies both to Supreme Court and District Court. They must be "citizens of the United States and of this state, shall be admitted to the bar in this state, and shall possess any additional qualifications provided by law." Of course this is, as far as the Constitution is concerned, is carte blanche to a legislature to tailor qualifications which would not permit anyone to become a judge. And I'm worried about the broadness of that. It may be that the committee felt they were referring to age. But who knows what they referred to when they used the word "any"?

However, I am not proposing an amendment to Section 8. But I do propose, in essence, that the word "Chief Justice" in the sentence I referred to in Section 2 be replaced by the words "the Supreme Court". And I have such a motion at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-11 is as follows:

In Section 2 of the Majority Committee amendments after the words "provided by law. The" delete the words "chief justice" and insert in lieu thereof the words "supreme court".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

Now do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: — I'll tell you why the committee put it the "Chief Justice". You can decide the merit both ways. We discussed this at length, of course, and at first had in the whole Supreme Court. But the committee, after its deliberation, decided that spreading the authority around to generally supervise the courts, their activities and their procedures was really not placing responsibility at all, and that if we wanted to get the job done best we ought to place it in one person; namely, the Chief Justice. We felt in doing this that there would be closer supervision, we would be able to establish responsibility and authority for it, and with five different people working on it we felt that probably none of them would do it or would do it properly. And for that reason we designated the Chief Justice as the general supervising officer. Now, we felt that it had merit, and I think our committee still feels that it has merit. I think as a practical matter obviously the Chief Justice would be consulting with the other justices, and certainly with the District Judges, in following forth his duties in this supervision. It does not mean that he could make the rules or anything of that kind; that would still be left to the court. He would be responsible for carrying out the rules of the court as they were established, and in generally supervising the courts. For those reasons we designated him and not the court.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Since I made the motion, I think I should explain it. When you place the general supervising control of all of these lower courts, it seems to me the logical place for it is not in any individual but in the higher court. Each individual who may be Chief Justice may vary the way he felt that he should exercise this rather undefined power that is placed in him. If he felt not, one man out of the Supreme Court might find himself in a position to do nothing although four other Justices of the Supreme Court felt something should be done. And since the Supreme Court is not individuals but it is a collective body and their actions always have to be by at least a majority, and on constitutional issues by simple majority, four out of five, that's the reason why I feel that that kind of power should not be placed or foisted upon one man and rather should be in the court itself.

And as Delegate Longmire said, he doesn't — the committee didn't mean that he should make the rules, but if he's the only one that has that power who else is going to make any rules for him? That's why I believe it should be the court itself.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Ladies and gentlemen:

I would resist this amendment. Facts have been stated the Supreme Court has the rules to make — power to make the rules. We thought there should be one individual in charge just as Chairman Longmire said. And at this point we may come to a little division where we are not going to stand to have the judges tell us everything. Maybe some judges didn't like this. And you might know that you learn something about courts, I'll bet I did around here. The Supreme Court sometimes has five good members, and sometimes about three, some inactive ones. And it seems quite unlikely the Chief Justice would be the lazy one. And I think that the original proposition we have — we had quite a fight over this, and I'm not going to agree easily anyway that we should turn around now because maybe one judge didn't like it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I, too — I also resist the amendment and would urge its defeat. We feel that we do have enough confidence in the Supreme Court Justices and in the Chief Justice that we can count on him to enforce the rules of the court.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Pearce.

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye," those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it. The amendment lost.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I have a question on procedure. I wonder where we've been jumping around on these sections with various amendment attempts, and I'm wondering if we might not proceed section by section unless the delegates do not want to divide the question. Of course, one of us can demand that and it's going to be divided. I think we might save some time going 1, 2, 3, 4 right on down the line and taking amendments as we get to them. I wonder if the Chair would care to inquire whether or not there will be a demand to divide the question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would hate to make a request like that when I don't know what the amendments are going to be that are going to be offered. And I wouldn't want anyone to commit himself until the time that we were going to do the voting.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: A point of information to Delegate Longmire. Will you point out to me where did Section 116 in the old Constitution go having to do with "Judges of the District Courts may hold court in other districts . . ."? I can't find it.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: 116 is not specifically covered in any of the other sections. It is being repealed, however. You want to know why, I'll have to get the copy of the Constitution here. Off-hand I'll have to check it here and see. Maybe one of the other members of the committee can answer it without checking it.

Okay. Section 116, as you will note in checking your Constitution, "Judges of the district courts may hold court in other districts than their own under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law." The thinking of the committee was that the court should have the privilege, the Supreme Court, of setting up these rules and so forth, and that we no longer needed that particular provision. I believe we do have some statutes on when this can be done. But we just didn't feel it was sufficiently necessary. We thought it would properly be covered without specifically including that in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wallin you asked for the floor a long time ago. Do you still wish to have it?

DELEGATE WALLIN: I was — Mr. President: I was going to discuss the repealing section. But I probably will delay that for the time being. But I can answer Mrs. Simonson's — Delegate Simonson's question probably that old Section 116 is covered by the unified court concept and new Sections 1 and 2.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President: I would like to ask one of the members of the Committee a question. I had been intrigued with the alternate idea of length of terms in the multiples of four in the original 1-11, and I would appreciate some explanation as to why you dropped that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: I suppose the main reason that we dropped that was because the District Judges and the Supreme Court Justices and all that appeared before us were vitally opposed to it. They thought their terms had been set by tradition and the Constitution and statute for so many years that they violently opposed any change in changing it from eight to four or four to eight or something of that kind.

I might then state that the reason in our original proposal for putting them in was to take care of the situation if we should go to four years on our other elective officers. And we thought it was pretty good, but they let us know in a hurry that they didn't like the tampering of the length of their terms as they were expressed at the time.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: I am concerned with Section 11, as long as we're discussing the whole proposal. Section 11 provides for removal of judges. And it states, it is written: "The legislature shall provide by law for the removal of supreme court justices and district judges . . ." then goes on to set the grounds of physical or mental disability, misconduct, et cetera, and incompetence. And what concerns me about this is it's not clear from the wording whether the committee intends that the Legislature itself should be able to remove judges. And if they have that kind of power, I'd be concerned about separation of power between the judicial and legislative branches of the government. I think the committee's idea — and I talked to several of the members about it — they wanted the Legislature to at least spell out procedures for this to be done rather than actually doing the removing. However, I'm not certain that it states that as clearly as it should be said in this important area.

Now what we're attempting to do here is to set up another procedure for removing judges over and above the impeachment route, which of course is the one area where the Legislature is given the power by Constitution to remove judges. And so to more clearly state it, I'd like to suggest an amendment. And I think it's at the desk. And if the Clerk would read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment, Committee Proposal 1-11, is as follows:

Delete all of Section 11 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 11. The legislature shall establish by law a procedure for removal of judges for misconduct in office, or inability to perform the duties of office, whether willful or because of physical or mental disability, or incompetency. The supreme court shall have original, exclusive and final jurisdiction in judicial removal proceedings. A supreme court justice proceeded against shall be disqualified from acting in such proceedings and a district judge selected by the remaining judges shall act in his stead."

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, may I have a second to this amendment?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Omdahl.

Now you may proceed.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Thank you, Mr. President. My original impulse was to feel that the whole question of removal by the judiciary should be handled by the judiciary itself. And I was going to suggest an amendment and simply say, "The courts shall provide by rule for the removal of judges." But I can see that the committee's thinking that they felt that if they left it strictly to the judiciary they may not do it. And this proposed amendment, what it does is it allows the Legislature to establish by law for a procedure whereby judges may be removed. It sets out the specific grounds which are both willfulness, willful misconduct or willful to perform which would be the same grounds as you would have in impeachment proceedings, but it also sets out the grounds of inability to perform duties because of disability, mental or physical. It then requires that these proceedings be had, and the Supreme Court be the sole judge and with exclusive jurisdiction, so we do not have the Legislature itself determining the question finally.

And then it provides that if one of the Supreme Court Justices themselves are being proceeded against they couldn't act and shouldn't act. In that case the district judge would act.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Would the judicial removal, the way the amendment is worded, might not that be considered the impeachment proceedings also? And by no left-handed method do you want to cut that out.

DELEGATE KELSCH: We already have, I believe, passed the impeachment section. I am quite sure that covers judges; it's our intention that it did. Because that's a traditional way of removing judges through impeachment. Of course, that is strictly a legislative process. I think the Legislature should have that. It's very cumbersome and quite expensive. I think that should be had. This is an alternate or additional route. The Legislature could provide removal despite of impeachment.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Of course I haven't the amendment here, but I think your language is a little broad in that one if it says "all judicial removals".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, I believe you stated that you didn't have the amendment?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I'm sorry. I see someone else looking at it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It is my understanding that this amendment has been distributed; is that right?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I have not had time to have it distributed. It has not been distributed. If the delegates would like to have it read before they vote on it, maybe we could go on to other sections until it could be distributed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry. I think it would be well that we did distribute it so all the delegates knew. This is quite lengthy to be talking about without having it distributed.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: Maybe I could speak briefly on the amendment while we're distributing it. Would you prefer to wait until they get it before I say anything?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would prefer, Delegate Longmire, to move on to another section and come back to this section —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Okay.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — after the delegates have had time to read this.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Very well.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: While we are marking time here, I'd like to ask a question, if I could. Are you still figuring on recessing or adjourning at three-thirty?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: At three-thirty? No. I don't know that I ever did say we would recess at three-thirty.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, are we going to keep going this afternoon then?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: If I can keep the delegates together and no one has a prior commitment I intend to stay here until six o'clock.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I thought this morning we talked once about having committee meetings this afternoon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, if it's the will of the Convention that they recess and have committee meetings, why that's what we'll do. However, I think, Fellow Delegates, that you have to realize that we've spent this much of this day on practically one piece of — on one proposal. And let's never forget that we continuously work closer to the twenty-fourth hour of the thirtieth day.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, Mr. President, I asked a question. Are you going to accept the committee reports before we adjourn?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: This one?

DELEGATE HERNETT: No, all of them. I mean the ones that —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I sincerely hope we will. But again we've been on this one since a few minutes after nine this morning — we started on this one at ten. And it's been committee reports. This is the first day in my time — we ever stayed on the fifth order this long.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I was just thinking maybe — I would suggest that we interrupt this one and take the other committee reports. I have a few that I would like to see get on the calendar for action on Thursday. In fact, I think you know the one I'm talking about. We discussed it this morning.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet, I'm not correct in my statement that we've been on the fifth — the fifth order of business all day; we haven't. But we have been — spent a considerable amount of time on the fifth order, and we immediately switched to the tenth order, which was on the same proposal. So it has been a long time on one proposal.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: It's true that we've been on this all this time. But our committee chose rather than to break our proposal down to bring it all to you in a bunch because these section are — most of them are all related to each other. So really if you compare it with some of these proposals that are broken down, we have considered fourteen proposals today and not just one. I think by way of explanation our committee would like that to be known.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: I know that we've been on — this is a terribly important issue. I have served on this committee as well. But may we be on the eighth order for just a moment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I would like to have recognized Senator Francis Barth, State Senator of North Dakota from District 35. In addition, we have some other guests in the gallery; Mrs. Eugene Martin and her group of students from Grand Forks, North Dakota. May I have them recognized, Mr. President?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Senator Barth, will you advance to the rail? And will the delegates in the balcony please rise and be recognized by the Convention?

(Applause)

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: In our book here it says that by the eighteenth day — that's tomorrow — that all proposals have to be out of committee.

DELEGATE LANDER: And so I would — I'm happy to stay here until midnight if we want to. I was just concerned about what is the plan for those of our committees that have proposals which we will have to report sometime before we adjourn tomorrow?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander, there isn't any question but what the committees are going to have to meet sometime between now and tomorrow. And if the committees want to meet at three o'clock, why of course the motion is in order for them to do that. If they want to meet at four, that's fine.

Has this proposal been presented now?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: They are doing it right now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: They are doing it now.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: I've had an opportunity to look at Delegate Kelsch's motion, and I think it's a good amendment. I think that the committee had in mind that some similar procedure would be established by the Legislature as recommended or as proposed in this amendment. Certainly I think the Supreme Court would have final jurisdiction, naturally, without specifically saying so here. But it certainly would not necessarily have original or exclusive jurisdiction without saying so here. I haven't, obviously, had an opportunity to discuss it with the other members of the committee. But as far as I personally am concerned, I would have no objection to the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Delegate Kelsch, in line — about line 6 I still would like to have the words "in judicial removal proceedings" tied down to this section so that some future decision won't say this covers all judicial proceedings, such as impeachment. I want it tied down that it pertains to this section only and doesn't pertain to impeachment. Because the way — one famous writer said that, "We have constitutions; but the judges say what they mean."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: I've been seized with a number of technical amendments. I don't think that response to Delegate — in response to Delegate Rundle's question, I don't think there is any problem because these two sections will stand by themselves; Committee Proposal 1-32, which has already been passed, provides for removal by impeachment of judicial officers and sets forth the grounds, and then this section, I have no objection to adding the word "judicial" in there, "judicial proceedings". Is that what you're asking, Delegate Rundle?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Delegate Kelsch, "judicial removal proceedings as set forth in this section." Something to that effect. So they can in no way, shape, form or manner be used to limit impeachment.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: In reply to my very competent, dedicated member of the Judiciary Committee, I see no problem with this section as limiting in any way the impeachment section which, of course, is a procedure for the Legislature itself to impeach a judge. And certainly this section here was not designed to limit in any way the proceedings under that section of the Constitution which has been passed, and I don't think it would ever be interpreted to do that even as it stands at the present time. We merely thought that in the judiciary article we should have a further method because impeachment is not always positively — politics enters into that a little, too, depending who is in control of the Legislature, what party and so forth. We felt that there should be an independent method of removing that judge — judges who should be removed for these reasons we've indicated here. And, Delegate Rundle, I know I'm not your attorney, but I can see no problem that there would be any restriction in that impeachment section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment —

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — of the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch. Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President: In reply to Delegate Longmire, I — he may not see any problem but I don't want to have it come to the point where there will ever be a problem. And I've seen some decisions that go around and around quite a ways what I thought about a straight line. And I insist that — I'm one vote, of course, I recognize that — but I would like to see this tied down so that no one can go to the other section and say that the Supreme Court shall have original, exclusive and final jurisdiction in all judicial removal proceedings. The "all" isn't in there, but they could rule it meant that. And I think, Delegate Longmire, if you'd go into your experience and join me in this argument, you'd find dozens of cases where they've used more than one section of the Constitution. And one of the recent — one of the recent judgments — decisions concerning wages of various people, and they used about six sections in this one. Now I don't think this is a very unreasonable request, two or three little words would do it, and then you'd never have a chance to prove that you were right and I was wrong.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I may be able to solve the problem by moving this additional — this amendment to the amendment on the fourth line after the word "incompetency." Insert the words "Except for impeachment proceedings" and then strike the capital "T" on the article "the".

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

DELEGATE KELSCH: It would then read, "Except for impeachment proceedings the supreme court would have original . . ." Would that clear the problem, Delegate Rundle?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Thank you very much. I'm very happy.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: This amendment to the amendment was seconded by Delegate Stanton.

Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

Now we are back on the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch with the amendment. Is there any discussion on that? Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the amendment is adopted.

Now we are back on Proposal — Committee Proposal No. 1-11 with Section 11 amended. Now do we have further amendments to this particular proposal?

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: I have a proposed amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-11 creating a new section, Section 15. I believe a copy is at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill has a further amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-11.

Create new Section 15 as follows:

"Section 15. When the incumbent judge is not a candidate for re-election, nomination for election to the office of justice of the Supreme Court or judge of the District Court of this state shall be made as follows: the governor shall nominate one of three persons submitted to the governor by a nonpartisan judicial nominating commission established by law. The name of the governor's nominee shall automatically be placed on the ballot at the primary election with appropriate designation, with the consent of the nominee."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Aubol.

Do we have any discussion?

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

This is basically the proposal which was advanced by Delegate Hoffner with the changes made which were, I believe, the most objected to by some of the delegates.

It still provides an opportunity to get the qualified candidates on the ballot who would not appear there under our present circumstances. I have left in the provisions that the name of the governor's nominee shall have the "appropriate designation" on the ballot for the reason that a non-Nordic name does not stand a decent chance against a Nordic name in North Dakota. And if you don't have any extra advantage on the ballot there is really no reason for having a nominating committee to make a nomination if the people are going to vote "no" such as has been done. And I think we've seen this in the case of our Supreme Court elections the last ten years two or three times. And I think it's true all over the state, of course. And I really feel nothing's wrong with letting people know that a commission that has been appointed by the governor as provided by law feels that this particular fellow is qualified. I know myself if I have no idea who the candidates are for a particular office, I would like to know who the governor or the nominating commission would feel to be the most qualified of the two if I had to make a choice. A blind choice has never enthralled me of something which I'm proud to have. I'd much rather have some direction whether I chose to follow that direction or not. And I think this is something that provides somewhat of a compromise between the elective and appointive systems.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: I don't mean this as a joke, but I would like to have Delegate Hill yield to a question. What if the governor's nominee was a man named Benson and a man named Hill was going to run against him without the governor's designation?

DELEGATE HILL: I suppose that's the problem that I would have in not being able to secure the nomination. But the point is right now the best qualified candidate for judge simply does not run for election in most cases. We can say all the good things we want about our present judiciary, and I think they have been good, but they are never so good that they couldn't be better. And I think that this basic proposal has been advanced by very distinguished commissions all over the country in various forms, and I simply am submitting it for the consideration of the delegates here again.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE WARNER: Well, I just want to remind Delegate Hill although I'm only half Norwegian, but that in a very recent election a man by the name of O'Keefe beat an incumbent judge by the name of Swanson.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: It also took about seven or eight years before they could muster up their second election and so forth where they could beat him. And I'm a hundred percent Norwegian but I've been thinking about changing my name to a little more Norwegian-sounding name, however.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Longmire if he wants the floor.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: I haven't talked with other members of the Minority Report, but as far as I am concerned this does satisfy one of the big problems that we saw in the judicial system as we have now. And it does speak to the problem of getting qualified candidates at the entry level. And at this point I would support the introduction of the amendment of Section 15.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I'm not speaking for or against this amendment. But I think it's my duty to explain to the delegates that while we did not consider this particular proposal, we did consider many similar ideas about this. We finally concluded that it would be a disadvantage one way or the other to have anyone get on that ballot except through the regular channels of petition as is now provided by law. We felt that an appointment putting it on against someone who had not gotten an appointment would obviously give the person getting the appointment an advantage because right off people would interpret that as being the governor's candidate. And it would discourage other candidates, other qualified candidates, from becoming a candidate if they knew they had to run or if he knew he had to run under a disadvantage such as that.

Now Delegate Warner pointed out the advantage in reverse during the noon hour. He mentioned that all you'd have to do to beat that governor's candidate is to say, "Well, he's a candidate of the Bar Association and the governor and I am the people's candidate. And he's being pushed down your throat whether you like it or not. And if you want the people to have the voice, elect me." That was the thinking of the committee. We felt we ought to let them both go on that ballot with equal opportunity and without one having an advantage of any kind over the other.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President: Could I ask Delegate Hill a question? I notice in Section 13 we've used the words "judicial nominating committee" and in your amendment you used the words "nonpartisan judicial nominating commission". Now how can you find anyone that's nonpartisan politically?

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Well, this is the language that has been used in a number of states that have this type of commission. It's a question of fact whether you can do it or not, I suppose. But this indicates an attempt shall be made.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I have a matter of information. It's not pertaining to the issue, but I think of interest in regard to names. I would assume that Delegate Hills knows that his grandfather's name was Roykes Haugen when he came from the Old Country. Roykes Haugen means they came from the Smoky Hill. And his grandfather thought that was too long a name, so he changed it to Hill.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

The third line he states that nominations shall be made as follows: "the governor shall nominate . . ." Nothing is said in this amendment at all about how anybody else is to get on the ballot. It seems very exclusive and it couldn't work. I urge the defeat of this amendment.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: I think it's clearly obvious from the other sections of this provision that candidates for election to the office of judge shall be as provided by law. And there are simply other nominating provisions as they are applicable. If you say nothing about it, the other sections are controlling.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: It seems to me that this merely extends to the occasion when the incumbent is not a candidate the same procedure which is used for filling a vacancy. You will recall that the Majority Report provides for a nominating commission to provide nominees for filling a nomination. And that the man selected serves as judge until the next election, at which time he might be opposed, his name will go on the ballot and he will be opposed by anyone choosing to run against him. It seems to me that this extends the same practice to the situation in which the incumbent judge has chosen not to run; a nominee will be provided for the primary election and anyone else choosing to run may do so. I think that many people who are anxious to know something about the qualifications of people running for a judgeship would be very happy to have this information.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: How do we know when an incumbent judge is not a candidate for reelection? Presumably the incumbent judge could remain silent and simply not file. That would bring you up forty days before the primary election. Then the nominating commission would have quite a scramble to get some names to the governor. His nomination presumably would go on the ballot, but everyone else would be foreclosed from filing, it would be too late after the deadline.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention —

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: It seems to me that we're engaged in sort of a game of nitpicking here and have been for the last couple of hours. It seems to me that what Delegate Hill and Delegate Hoffner are trying to do is get the idea before the group that we have some rational basis for nominating judges. And it doesn't deprive anyone of the opportunity of running. It seems to me that it's a good proposal. It's a worthy proposal. We're talking about adopting a constitution that might last for fifty or sixty years. And it seems to me that we ought to consider every worthy idea that comes by. I don't like this language in here about "with appropriate designation". I don't think that there ought to be any designation on the ballot. But at least the voters ought to have a chance to vote for one qualified candidate for judge.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the proposal to create a new section, a Section 15, on Committee Proposal No. 1-11. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed will say "no." Let's do that over. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment failed.

Looks like we have division. Those that are in favor of adopting the amendment now are going to vote "aye," are going to vote "yes," and those that are opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened and you will record your vote, your choice.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change? Hearing none, the key is closed.

The vote indicates 46 "ayes" and 48 "nays," with four delegates absent. So the proposed amendment failed.

We're back on the Committee Proposal No. 1-11.

Any further discussion? Hearing none —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Since we've had several amendments here, at least one that was passed, I suppose we should again suspend the rules. So for that purpose I move that the Rules be temporarily suspended, that this proposal be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first reading and passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Longmire that the Rules be suspended, that the Proposal No. 1-11 as amended be deemed properly re-engrossed, and it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: The purpose of the Rules, of course, was to provide un-complicated bills such as this — where there have been amendments and proposed amendments — is that the delegates have a day to think about them before they vote. And I would suggest that we follow the rules in this procedure, and I would resist the motion of Delegate Longmire.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I suppose I should have a second to that motion.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh seconded the motion. Any further discussion?

The question is on the suspension of the Rules.

Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President: I would also like to throw my two bits worth in here for resistance of the motion so we can think this over for another day. I think I heard a lot of discussion yesterday. We have gone pretty fast through one here on eighteen-year-olds, and now this is a lot more complicated than that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the suspension of the Rules, that the Proposal No. 1-11 be deemed properly re-engrossed, placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Those in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it. The motion prevailed.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President: Doesn't that motion meet a two-thirds?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, it does.

DELEGATE HILL: You ruled it had two-thirds?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I ruled it had two-thirds.

DELEGATE HILL: I request a division, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division is requested. Those in favor of adopting the motion to suspend the Rules will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

And as you will recall, we extended discussion on the matter of conflict of interest among legislators, so I'm not going to rehash it all over again. Except just to say that my opinion of this proposal has not changed any. I still think it's a problem, still think we need it. And I guess that's all we can say for it when we bury it.

DELEGATE HERNETT: This Committee Report was kind of incorporated in our other proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It is indefinitely postponed.

Fellow Delegates, we have arrived at this point in our deliberations for the day. What do you choose to do? Do you wish to — we have two committees, I believe, that would like to have committee meetings, or do we have three?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I don't want to interfere with the normal process here, but I would like the permission of the Convention to withdraw 2-38, have it returned to the floor and withdraw it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl, do you know what committee it is in?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: It is in Bill of Rights and Preamble.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-38?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

Delegate Omdahl has moved that Delegate Proposal No. 2-38 be returned to the Convention floor. Do we have a second?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The proposal is now before the Convention.

Delegate Maxwell? Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Since the content of this proposal — it came out of Committee as a Committee Proposal without recommendation and will be on the tenth order; there is no need to have a duplication here. And 2-38 is exactly the same. Therefore, I request unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw 2-38.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-38.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: I would now yield to Delegate Lamb.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the Delegate Proposal 2-40 is now before the Convention.

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I request permission to withdraw this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-40.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: Is this proposal incorporated somewhere else?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Well, this is incorporated in a committee proposal.

Mr. President, I have a series of these, if I may, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: If we have no objection from the floor, then we will grant permission to Delegate Lamb to withdraw Committee Proposal No. 2-40.

Delegate Maxwell, you say you have a series of these, a number?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then may I — now a little further; have each of these been incorporated in some other proposal?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Not in every instance; in some of them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Not in every instance. Then if you'd give me — give us the numbers, and then we'll take them all back at one time.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: 2-39.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-39.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: 2-24.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-24.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: 2-6.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-6.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: 2-61.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-61. Now those you'd like returned to the Convention Floor?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell moves that Delegate Proposal No. 39, 24, 6 and 61 be returned to the Convention floor. Do I have a second?

Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: I would now yield to Delegate Trenbeath with reference to his Proposal 2-61.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President: Although I'd like to see 1-89 be considered before I would withdraw this, it apparently isn't going to be possible. So I'll be working under a handicap; and I've been used to that over the years. So I notice on this proposal there are four other delegates signers but it's all right with me if it's withdrawn if it's all right with them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-61. Hearing no objection, permission is granted.

Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President. I would now like to yield to Delegate Rundle. It was here that I had intended to move to bring back his Delegate Proposal 2-14 and he had previously informed me that he had a statement to make in connection with it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President: I didn't want to leave the impression that I didn't think it was a good proposal or I wouldn't have introduced it. I still think it's a good proposal. But the committee treated me very fairly, and I have no objection.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Which proposal is it, Delegate Rundle? Have we already taken care of the proposal?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Yes.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, it has been disposed of.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: We have four delegate proposals that deal on initiative and referendum. And today, just a little while ago, the report that went in on initiative and referendum will be on the calendar. But it's not likely that we will complete the calendar tomorrow, and so I'm in sort of a peculiar situation where these proposals have all been indefinitely postponed. But we are in agreement to hold them until the subject matter has been dealt with. And so I would like to serve notice with Delegate Paulson on 2-71 — he isn't here, I guess — Delegate Rundle 2-51, and Delegate Cart 2-52, Delegate Hill 2-73. And when these reports go in tomorrow, if they want to hold them I suppose the motion will be to lay over the report. Would that be part of the committee action then?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Correct.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: And at this time could we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I'd like to move that Committee Proposal 1-29 be re-referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Where is it?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: It's on the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, 1-29?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: 1-29. If I get a second, I'll explain it.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a second? Delegate Kwako seconds the motion.

The question then is on Delegate Hoffner's motion that Proposal No. 1-29 be referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Now any further discussion?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: A couple of the members have asked that that be returned. They have some information that would be helpful to the committee, and I have granted this permission. And I hope the delegation goes along with it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Let's see, that is on the calendar at the present time; is that right?

The question is on the motion to refer Committee Proposal No. 1-29 to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. 1-29 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

We are still on the twelfth order. We will be on the eighth order — Communications and Announcements.

Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Is it your intention to recess or adjourn?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Thank you, Mr. President. In that case I would like to announce that the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands will meet at four o'clock in G-1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: Committee on Legislative Functions will meet at four o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President: The Executive Functions Committee will meet at four o'clock or a little earlier if the committee gets there.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further announcements?

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: While I realize there are some members on Style and Drafting on these committees, I don't think there are very many involved, So I'm going to call a meeting of Style and Drafting at four o'clock for about an hour.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman: I believe there's a note at the desk for the meeting right after this one for the Ballot Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct. I have it.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: May we be on the thirteenth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the thirteenth order of business.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I'd just like to call the attention of the delegates that we have, I believe, fifty-nine proposals left to act on within a six-day period; which means that on an average we'll have to dispose of not less than about ten proposals per day. We have acted on or disposed of sixty-one committee proposals. So numerically we're slightly over halfway home. But as you saw what happened today, I don't believe we made any progress on the calendar. So just a reminder that we have fifty-nine proposals left to act upon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be back on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

Thank you, Delegate Hubrig, for calling it to my attention. But the members of the Committee on Ballot or on Alternate Proposals, I think they can meet in my office. Or would you rather meet in some other office somewhere else?

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would you rather meet in the balcony?

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Dean Bard is here. He said the meeting is arranged for the east balcony — west balcony. West balcony.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fine. So the Committee on Alternate Proposals or the Ballot Committee, whichever you prefer, will meet in the west balcony immediately following the adjournment here.

Now is the desk clear?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Want me to read the calendar?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, read the calendar.

DELEGATE BINEK: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Binek.

DELEGATE BINEK: I'll move that the absent delegates be excused.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Binek moves that the absent delegates be excused. Anyone second?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Knudson.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the absent delegates are excused.

Now we will have the calendar for tomorrow read from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I have on the sixth order Delegate Proposal 1-60, 1-80, 2-12 and 1-102.

On the tenth order in addition to today's calendar I have Committee Proposals 1-12, 1-83, 1-11, 1-93, 1-104, 1-105, 1-106, 1-107, 1-108, 1-109, 1-110, 1-111, 1-112, 1-113, 1-99, 1-118, 1-119, 2-64, 1-91 and 1-100. Bingo.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Is the desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, at the time that we adopted those Committee Reports you recall I said they would be on the tenth order of business tomorrow. However, I did not say that they would be taken off the tenth order tomorrow.

The desk is clear, Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would now move that we adjourn until nine A.M., January 26th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that the Convention be now adjourned until nine A.M., January 26th. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

Everyone in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And we will be adjourned until tomorrow morning at nine.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 3:50 o'clock P.M., Tuesday, January 25, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Wednesday, January 26, 1972.)

V O L U M E XVIII

(The eighteenth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:14 A.M., Wednesday, January 26, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is Father Mervin J. Klemmer of the Diocese of Bismarck, right here in Bismarck, North Dakota.

REV. F. MERVIN KLEMMER: O heavenly Father, the possessor of all wisdom and the maker of all law, we thank You for allowing us to see the beginning of another day. In Your goodness, please, may it be a good day in service of You.

We ask this favor in the name of Jesus, Your Son, who lives and reigns with You, Father, in union with the Holy Spirit, forever and ever. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — calling the roll.

The Clerk will open the key, you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed. Roll call discloses 95 present, three absent. A quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order — Revision of the Journal and Correction of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 24th day of January, 1972, and recommends the same be corrected as follows:

On Page 262, following line 13, insert the following: "which motion prevailed."

And when so corrected, recommends the same be approved.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted.

We'll be on the sixth order of business — Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-60, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage and as printed on page 275 of the Journal, be adopted. The amendments are:

"INDICTMENT OR INFORMATION. No person shall for a felony, be proceeded against criminally, otherwise than by indictment, or by information, except in cases arising in the military forces, when in actual service in time of war or public danger. In all other cases, offenses shall be prosecuted criminally by indictment or information. The legislative assembly may change, regulate or abolish the grand jury system."

Renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President: The amendment was to clean up the wording. It is the same content, however.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-60.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-80, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage and as printed on page 276 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are: In line 2 of the Title, following the word "repealed" delete the "semi-colon" and insert in lieu thereof a "period" and delete the remainder of the line.

Delete all of lines 3 and 4.

Delete all of lines 8 through 18 of the proposal.

Renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-80. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: I'm not a member of this committee, but I was hoping that somebody from the committee would get up and tell us what is going on.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any member of the committee wish to comment on the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-80?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: I'm not on the committee either, Mr. President. Is it possible to move this to the bottom of the sixth order so the committee could get a subject to speak to this?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It is possible.

DELEGATE LITTEN: I'll so move.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that Committee Proposal No. 1-80 be placed at the foot of the sixth order. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Knudson.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. 1-80 is moved to the foot of the order.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hernettt has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-102, as recommended by the Committee on Executive Functions and as printed on page 279 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are: In line 11 after the word "governor" delete the comma. In line 22 after the comma delete "with" and insert in lieu thereof "within".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-102.

Delegate Hernettt.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President: We deleted a "comma" and added an "in". Tomorrow we'll explain the bill when it is on the tenth order of business.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

As many as are in favor of the motion to adopt the amendments will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendments are adopted. It will be on the tenth order tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Delegate Proposal 2-12, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage and as printed on page 278 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are: In line 7 delete the word "All" and insert in lieu thereof "The" and after "of" delete "public or" and insert in lieu thereof "all" and following the word "governmental" insert the words "and executive".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Delegate Proposal No. 2-12. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: I believe I explained these amendments rather in detail when they came in on the Committee Report. And unless there are further questions about the amendments, why we hope the Convention will adopt them so we can get them — well, no. Are you on 1-12 or 2-12?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on 2-12.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'm out of order, Mr. President. I'm talking about 1-12.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: We have not changed anything in the substance of this proposal; it is merely a change in language. We had some discussions with Delegate Rundle in our committee meeting, and we've made what we think are some agreeable changes. And, as I say, the substance has not been affected by the changes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Should we ask someone of the committee to explain how the word "executive" is being interpreted by them?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would a member of the committee answer Delegate Lander's question?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I'm not on the committee, but I met with them and it was my proposal. And the changes met with my approval. The word "executive" was put in there to exclude the courts really. Now it doesn't include the judiciary or the courts, it includes other bodies, governmental bodies. But the courts are not in this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee — to Delegate Proposal No. 2-12.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted. It will be on the tenth order tomorrow.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-80.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-80, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage and as printed on page 276 of the Journal be adopted.

Delete all of lines 3 and 4.

Delete all of lines 8 through 18 of the proposal.

Renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman: I guess I'm supposed to have this one. I didn't realize at first we started this morning. Sorry. Actually it was found in Section 208 of the 1889 Constitution which set forth the right to allow all debtors and also homestead exemptions for the heads of families. The committee has rewritten the language of 208 and has retained the substantive content of the section. So this was our reason for submitting it the way it is. It simply clarifies the question somebody raised here a few minutes ago. It was a matter of clarification of that section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I think probably Delegate Aubol is going to ask the same question. But here, of course, in the amendment we delete the whole content of the proposal, we do not, when we delete lines 8 through 18? Now how do we carry forward then the basic content of the old one by deleting all the new one?

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: I think Delegate Scheel is right. In fact, I know he is. We are taking out all the language of old Section 208 because it was the feeling of the committee, after a great deal of discussion, that this was a legislative matter. And it has already been set down by the Code defining what heads of households are for the purposes of exemption from forced sale.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, did you have a question?

DELEGATE BAKER: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-80.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the report is adopted, and it will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

We'll be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Substantive Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-74, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Haugen moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report of Proposal 1-74; that it be amended, and when amended that it do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted. It will be on the sixth order tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-75 has had the same under consideration; recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-75; that it do pass. Is there any discussion?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be on the tenth order tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A Majority of your Committee on Finance and Taxation to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-87 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate McElroy, Aas, Haugen, Burke, Binek, Ketchum, Lerberg, Miller, Nicholas, Quam and Saugstad.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate McElroy moved that the Majority Report be adopted.

Mr. President: A Minority of your Committee on Finance and Taxation to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-87 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends that the same do pass.

Delegates Trenbeath, Unruh, Erickson and Cart.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Trenbeath moves the Report of the Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Minority Report —

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — of Committee Proposal No. 1-87; that the Report of the Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority.

Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

This you have in your book, or your proposal book. Turn to the page of Proposal 1-87. All the Minority Report is deleting is the last sentence in that section.

Now there are three main points I believe that should be brought forward in just why a user's tax should not be considered in the ordinary light of being a dedicated fund. And this is what I wish to pertain my remarks to. And I think probably the three main points could be listed thusly:

Number one, we have to establish clearly in our mind just what a user's tax is.

Two, it is really an illusion that a two-thirds vote of the Legislature will be a barrier in preventing higher user's funds being used for other purposes.

And, three, just really the role, a good role to play in North Dakota, and why the funds should be dedicated towards these benefits.

Now in regard to point No. 1 — and I wish to start my remarks out by saying I want to quote from a study reference that was before our committee — and it reads thusly: "Justification for earmarking makes it possible to require those who receive the benefits of governmental service to pay for it. When the beneficiaries of a certain public service are a distinct group and one that pays a particular tax or a set of taxes, these taxes should be tied to the special use. Such application of the benefit principle appeals on grounds of fairness. Those who receive the special benefits should bear the costs, but they should not be required to pay for other services through that special tax."

Now I believe when you think about this for awhile, delegates, you can easily understand why these funds should be dedicated or you destroy the whole concept of the meaning of just what a user's tax is. The big cost of running state and local government, of course, is in the areas of education and welfare. We use property taxes and income taxes and sales taxes primarily to pay these costs. We do so because it is the responsibility of all the citizens of the state to pay these costs. Although students and welfare recipients are the beneficiaries of funds we couldn't expect students to absorb a user's tax — in other words a tuition fee — to pay for all costs of education. Nor could we expect welfare recipients to pay for all welfare costs, because this is just impossible. But when it comes to building and improving, maintaining roads, and providing for the safety thereon, we do have an opportunity to let the users pay for that facility that benefits him. The more he uses the facilities, the more he pays. If he doesn't use it, he pays nothing. The more gas you use, the more gas tax you pay. The heavier the vehicle or truck, the greater the license fee. This is the concept of a user's tax. The users themselves bear the burden of the tax; therefore, it should go to improve the facility used. It doesn't pass the burden on to anyone else. Thus the fund should be pledged, earmarked or dedicated, whatever label you wish to give it. It's a pay-as-you-go proposition, pay-as-you-use tax.

I suppose probably this concept got started thousands of years ago beginning with toll bridges, and that's on the toll highways. By the way, some of our better highways in the United States today are toll turnpike roads. There are many other use taxes in use today, both state and federal. For example, the Game and Fish Department user tax; buy hunting equipment and it is dedicated to be spent for the benefit of the user. Revenue bonds probably are another example. Your beef promoter-eater tax, the wheat commission, all these are in essence all dedicated user funds. It is the most equitable type of tax we have going for us, and it draws the least complaint from the taxpayers in avocation. It is unfortunate that we cannot apply the same kind of user's tax theory to all forms of taxes; however, it just cannot be applied in that way in the areas of taxation.

Now for point No. 2. We are just fooling when we say the Legislature is limited to any extent by the two-thirds vote. In the last two days of every session the Legislature is confronted with finding a few extra million dollars. So it just must be asked here and now, are you going to raise taxes or are you going to enact a new tax or will it dip into the fifty-odd million dollar highway fund? The answer is certainly obvious. Our citizens do not want gas tax money spent or used for education or welfare or for any other stated purpose. When the time comes that our people think roads are getting too gold-plated in this state, they will as quickly see to it that the gas tax is lowered. But don't destroy the theory of the user's tax by tapping these money sources for other purposes. Remember the Legislature does have the full control of the money appropriation for the administration of the Highway Department presently. The North Dakota League of Cities, the county commissioners, the Township Officers Association and many other organizations came before our committee asking that these funds remain dedicated. Our counties and cities have pledged, elected representatives and they too, have made requests before them for the people in their areas to improve the road system. They are also trying to do their job. And good road planning must be done by looking ahead five to ten years. And this is dependent on the dedicated source of funds over the years for that planning.

And the last point, number 3. We can't discount the role good roads have played in North Dakota since the people adopted the constitutional amendment back in 1940 which dedicated these highway users funds. We were the eighth state in the Nation to do this at that time. Since then twenty more states have done the same, with Utah doing it as recently as 1963. We, in North Dakota, have a good road system. We can be proud of it. Our tourist industry has grown from practically nothing just ten short years ago to one of the biggest industries in the state; it's due to good roads. As an agricultural state, North Dakota is tremendously dependent upon good roads for truck transportation of our agricultural products at both the state and the county and local and city level. And we can be thankful that the expanding truck industry feels this way. This has been created every year by boxcar shortage and railroad strikes. This revolution has been a miracle and a lifesaver for our economy. All because of the good road system that developed from a dedicated user tax. For the good of North Dakota I certainly urge you to vote for the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I rise to speak for the Majority Report. And this is somewhat unusual in that the Majority Report and the Minority Report agree on every detail except the very last sentence of the Majority Report.

Frankly, the Majority Report was definitely the result of a compromise in the Finance and Taxation Committee. A few members of the committee initially reflected the views and opinions of constitution makers, students of government, that dedicated funds should not exist.

The committee also took into consideration a statement which Delegate Aubol made the other day that constitutions should not be made on a letter count sent in to any particular committee. However, as Delegate Trenbeath has pointed out, these various groups that appeared before our committee, such as the Association of County Commissioners, the Township Supervisors Association, the motor carriers, general contractors, Stockmen's Association, and many, many others, convinced the committee that this users tax provision was of great benefit to the State of North Dakota. And the Majority Report and the Minority Report both agree that it should be kept as a dedicated fund.

As Delegate Trenbeath has pointed out, this is a classic example of a user's tax. And as he has pointed out, too, twenty-eight states in the Nation have a similar fund. Now the provision that we're talking about is Article 56 in the old Constitution. And if you have your books handy, you can refer to Article 56 in the Constitution. Now certain slight changes were made in the language of Article 56 by the committee with the full approval of the Highway Department and other groups. You will notice that in 1-87 we have changed the language somewhat to specify that taxation, revenue from "gasoline, fuel and other energy sources derived as a result of the propulsion of vehicles on public highways," you'll notice that language in particular. And this was put in with the full approval of the Highway Department to eliminate the revenue from gasoline, fuels and the unclaimed gasoline refund. And this has met the approval, as I have stated, of the Highway Department and the Aeronautical Commission of North Dakota.

The uses for which the funds were established in old Article 56 were also expanded by providing that these funds should also be used for "enforcement of highway safety, drivers education, and tourist promotion". Some of these items are already being followed by the Highway Department and the dedicated fund.

The highway fund under Article 56 derives in the neighborhood of $20 to $30 million per year. And the Finance and Taxation Committee believed that we should not have the State of North Dakota face the future with such a large part of its revenue dedicated forever to a special purpose. Dedicated funds, as students of government will tell you, hampers the effective budgetary control. The Legislature should be able to review all programs in view of the terms of total sums available in the State of North Dakota. Dedicated funds often lead to a misallocation of funds, when it's dedicated for a long period of time, creating more money in one activity and a shortage in another.

Dedicated funds also do not permit adjustment to changing conditions of the future of North Dakota. Dedicated funds also tend to remain dedicated forever. The activities of the dedicated fund cannot be reviewed periodically by the governor and the Legislature. And dedicated funds, as we all know, tend to build a self-perpetuating lobby. And it was for this reason and so that this program could be reviewed in the future that the majority put on the provision at the end of the 1-87 that "By a two-thirds vote of the members-elect in each house of the legislative assembly such dedicated funds may be appropriated for other purposes." And I would call your attention particularly to the word "appropriated". Now this provision does not mean that these funds would be permanently undedicated. It merely means that any session of the Legislature could appropriate such amount as they determine from the fund. And this would be a one-session provision only. So we believe that this provision is wise for the future of North Dakota. It protects this very worthy fund. And we hope that the delegates here adopt the Majority Report and reject the Minority Report for that reason.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I rise to support the Majority Report which we have before us.

At one time the State of North Dakota had mostly dedicated funds with which to operate. That was shortly after World War II or during the period in which we passed our dedicated funds for state highway purposes. As you will recall, the sales tax was divided on the seven-twelfths/five-twelfths basis for education and for welfare purposes. And, as you will recall, our first World War II bonus was paid by a cigarette dedicated fund. And we did have a one-mill levy for the Medical School.

We are now at the crossroads of changing the North Dakota Constitution by updating it. And certainly we should not have dedicated funds in a new Constitution. The philosophy of dedication is wrong because it does not give the Legislature or the current government an opportunity to operate in the manner in which they need to. Our dedicated funds in North Dakota for highway purposes have served us well. And they have been — provided us with an ability to build good roads. But how good do our roads need to be? Do we need gold paved highways? Do we need four-lane highways across the state from one end to the other in all directions? And I think that we should justify this in each instance when they are developed. We need to justify our four-lane roads if we develop them. We need to justify the high quality roads that we have. Dedicated funds tend to mean that we have expenditures unnecessarily. The Highway Department during the current biennium has approximately $110 million dollars to spend and with which to build its programs. The North Dakota Legislature, after the pay-back formula for the sales tax, appropriated about $190 million for the current biennium. They are almost as big a department, and they are almost as autocratic as the entire rest of the government of North Dakota. They are well over half beyond that. And it seems impossible for me to believe, or the majority of our committee, that we should be able to have one phase of government or one department of the executive with so much free hand and so much power that they can control a $110 million dollar annual budget, or biennial budget, rather, when others do not have that. Certainly someplace down the road we might need these funds for other purposes, we might need them for education, we might need them for welfare, or we might be able to reduce the tax. But if the Highway Department going to reduce the taxes if they have an opportunity, it's going to have to be taken away from them one way or the other by some other fashion before we are going to win this battle. And it seems to me that if we continue to let them have their empire, they are going to keep spending the money which they have. You know that if they get $180 million dollars, three, four five bienniums down the road, they are going to spend it. And what are they going to spend it for? They'll spend it for overhead, they'll spend it for highways, for highways whether we need it or not, and certainly we should not let this continue in view of the fact that we are having trouble raising money for other — for other state support. We are going to need these funds for improvement of education, if the case may be, or improvement in other areas if the money becomes needed.

And I think that we should take a look at why we dedicate only for highway building. Our cars, our automobiles, and our vehicles are causing us many other problems. They are an ecology problem. Then we should also be dedicating funds to these ecology problems which we have. We have air problems that are developing out of our automobile fumes, we have noise problems, we have solid waste problems which are developing, and certainly some of these dedicated funds should be used in that direction. We have driver education; and so why not use some of it for education purposes? We have initial law enforcement costs, and we have additional court costs which come out of dedicated — or should come out of these dedicated funds. Because our vehicles are causing many of these problems.

We are bringing in many people into this state for recreational purposes and for various activities of that kind. Perhaps our highway fund should be used in a greater degree if they are dedicated for these purposes. We have numerous water activities and outboard motor vehicles and inboards and various other gas vehicles used on our waters. If these are dedicated funds, they should be used in that area. I know that in my own case I have numerous little small engines that are run by gasoline; I have an outboard motor, a small one, and snowmobile, power mower. I do not get my refunds. I suppose I'm entitled to them; but most people don't get them back. And certainly these are dedicated funds going to the Highway Department. Why should the Highway Department use these when they are not used on the highway in the first place if they are dedicated funds?

It seems that if we are going to dedicate these funds this way that there should be diversion made for the other purposes. And it's rather difficult when highway funds are constitutionally dedicated. Therefore, I would urge that we support the Majority Report so that we can have a realistic appraisal of what we are going with the gas tax money.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Thank you, Mr. President.

I guess I'm a dedicated highway user. I drive probably 50,000 miles a year all over the United States. I've seen what the user tax can do to build up the highways.

I'll admit that we are dealing with a large sum of money here. And it's very attractive. I can see the hot hands of the Legislature just delighted to pierce this entity at the end of the session when they need some money. It seems that every session we have this problem. Not too many years ago we forced the Highway Department expenditures on the Highway Department — I mean the Highway Patrol expenditures on the Highway Department. There are other things that we can do in this way. That department needs beefing up tremendously. How many of you have driven from here to Fargo and never have seen a patrol car, particularly in the evening? Most of you have. What happens if you break down? You are dependent on a Good Samaritan to help you out. There are all kinds of ways that we can increase the services to our people and benefit their safety without having to, by two-thirds vote, take money away from a department which is really developed out of the user; the person that drives the car and drives the truck. I think the whole attitude toward dedicated funds must be turned around to a point where you realize where that money is coming from. It is coming from the person that buys gasoline, diesel fuel, pays road taxes. I think this two-thirds vote would be not always easy to get, but I think it could be attained. And I certainly support the Minority opinion. I think we are playing with a fire here if we leave this last sentence on.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I'd like to take you a little closer to home and talk about the county road program, the farm-to-market roads. Now it hasn't been said yet how these funds are divided up, but 63 percent of these are retained by the state and 37 percent go to the counties. Now the number of registered vehicles, of course, determines how much each county gets. And now in the cities they receive 27 percent out of the 37 percent that goes to the counties. And this is divided up on a per capita basis. Now to give you a little idea of what county roads we're talking about, the counties right now have 11,668 miles of farm and market roads, and there's about 1,793 that are hard surface. Now the counties received from state funds $18 million dollars plus during the 70-71 state biennium. And then they received roughly about 5,000 — or $5,347,000 of federal funds for matching funds. Now the cities received almost $7 million dollars for the last two years and about $710,000 of federal funds.

Now getting back to the county level. We have about 6600 miles that are not under federal program at all. But the county has seen fit to hard surface about 300 miles of these roads. Now 38 counties out of the 53 in this state do have a grading a bituminous program that ranges all the way from three mills up to ten mills. The total miles that the county has to consider and what they are maintaining is about 17,870 miles. I attended last December the southeastern five county commission district meeting, and they were asking about what the Constitutional Convention was going to do about dedicated funds. And I told them I hoped they retained it as they did in Article 56; although we did put in a few things like driver education and so forth. But their plans ranged from two to ten years, and they are hoping to have this retained so that they can be assured that their funds will be continuing to come in.

I think I might point out also on the state level that the Highway Patrol program, or the two-year program, cost the Highway Department roughly two and a half million dollars. And this comes out of our highway user's tax. Another thing that the general fund receives, and that's your driver's license, which amounts to probably, oh, a million and three-quarters, something like that. But they have got to pay the expenses of that, which is about — a little over three-quarters of a million dollars. So they are not receiving anything out of that.

So I'd urge you to support the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President: I want to support the Minority Report with the viewpoint of the local governments who are vitally interested in this matter. Not only the counties, but the cities, and particularly the counties of slight population and low valuation in the cities of small population and low valuation. This segment of our government organization has made very good use of the funds available through the dedication of the road users taxes over a number of years. And it's been pointed out they have plans that run far into the future, up to ten years at least, and in many cases farther into the future than that, for the improvement of local roads and streets and have built a structure of roads support through property taxation in many cases to fit into the program that can develop — be developed from the distribution of these funds back to the local subdivision.

The opinion among the local government officials is, I believe, unanimous; this is one section of the North Dakota Constitution which should not be disturbed in its practical application. And I do not believe, and no one has told me, that the changes that the committee has made would disturb the practical application except for that last sentence which the Minority Report would remove.

Remember, the Legislature by a simple majority and with approval from — by the governor can change the distribution. It can, if it wishes, if it decides that the State Highway Department has gotten all out of hand in building four-lane roads, the Legislature can by law, and with the governor's approval, change that distribution so to provide a larger amount for local subdivisions where I can assure you it can be very well used for non-gold-plated highways. Or it can change the distribution between counties and cities. And almost every session of the Legislature sees some effort to alter this distribution to some degree. There is competition for these funds from the local subdivisions, and between the local subdivisions and the State Highway Department. So there's very little likelihood that there's going to be a disproportionate sharing that does not have the careful review of the legislative assembly every time it meets.

Furthermore, if this gets to be such a great, swollen slush fund that it cannot be borne any more by the people, the Legislature can, by a simple majority, and the governor's approval, reduce the taxes, as has been pointed out. I think there is no danger to us from the continued operation of this dedicated fund in the way that it has gone and ample remedy if there should be any share of it. I hope the Minority Report will prevail.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President: I am attempting not to rise very often in this assembly, but today I find myself rising. And I think that most people that know me recognize the fact that I must speak in regard to highway development and highway programs and economic analyses that go with it.

I have yet to find, except in this assembly, any person in North Dakota who finds that the four-lane highways a detriment to our safety, a detriment to our progress, and a development of tourism in all of those things in the State of North Dakota.

I had the privilege in 1971 to speak for nine separate conventions in the City of Minot. At one of them I had 600 farmers. And I raised the question with them — among other things — how many of you could use better highways? And I didn't find a dissenting vote. Then I drove by the various places and the parking areas, and you know I didn't find any other convenience in the medium of transportation except that of the automobile being parked in those parking lots. I have made several surveys in the State of North Dakota, and I have found that the thing that that has caused the center city to deteriorate when we have such — I hate the word "deterioration" because I don't think we are — but the great problem is parking space for the automobiles.

Now if you want to solve the problem of the city, and you want to solve the parking problem, why then empty the stores of merchandise. Don't allow anyone to unload anything on the shelves of any of those stores and you've solved your parking problem and you can go on your merry way. But somebody else is going to find a media of transportation to move into other areas and find the things that they need.

And so some interesting things have been developed. I want to ask this question of all of the delegates here: What is a special tax? And the economic analysis of a special tax is one that is applied to a particular segment of the economy, the revenue of which shall be used for the development of the facility that shall serve the balance of the economy and all segments tied thereto. And so if the highway fund, the highway taxes, highway users taxes, are a special tax, then you see this is the way that they must be analyzed.

And then I raised the question also in North Dakota, I made a survey at Medora Park in Medora two years ago, three years ago this summer — maybe it's longer than that because at my age you have nothing in prospect and you have it all in retrospect and as a result you forget it — but it was the year of the World's Fair in Seattle and I made a survey, and I spent several days and nights there, and the question I asked was: "Why did you come through North Dakota on your way to the World's Fair in Seattle?" And every last one of them said: "In studying the thoroughfares and the highways that move from Chicago, Minneapolis and other cities to the east of us we found that the Interstate 94 gave us an uninterrupted media of travel, one that was safe and secure, where the highway traffic death was the least in the nation. We wanted to travel there for the sake of safety, and also convenience and the mobility that we secured there, too."

And as a result they traveled through, you see.

I spoke at the convocation at Bloomington, Indiana, very recently a couple of years ago. And I followed a lecture on ecology and pollution. And the fellow who met me at the gate there to let me into the parking lot — because I had to rent a car at the airport and go to the university — said, "You should have been here last night, was this place filled! We had 110 cars parked in here, and this morning you can have all the room you want." What was the meeting? It was on pollution and ecology. I said, "How many people attended?" He said, "About 150." "How many cars did you have parked in here?" "110." So it took 110 cars to bring 150 people? Where is the convenience of transportation in America and what does it do to the economy?

Let me call to your attention a study that I just completed a year ago, 1970, shows that 25 percent of every retail dollar spent in North Dakota goes — is spent because of highway transportation. Look at your cities, your towns and your communities and you will find that the retail gasoline place, the motels, and all of them are dependent upon these highways. So the economic results are there, the economic benefits are there. We need to recognize them.

Here is a fact that I found: It's not very long ago that virtually all industry was located in a town by a rail siding. This is no longer the case. Today new industry is moving out to the suburbs, to the small towns and to the rural areas and is using highway transportation as a media; fast and efficient transportation.

Not too long ago I made a survey, this was in 1968, I made a survey here in North Dakota and the findings of these studies — this study is available to you should you want it because I have copies of it, I have about ten left because in mimeographing we don't have much of a budget — the findings of this study demonstrate the great reliance that has been placed upon efficient and flexible service provided by highway transportation in North Dakota. Here is a fact: Proximity to good highways was listed as one of the five most important location factors by 66.7 percent of the plants now established in North Dakota. Another 16.6 percent of the firms responding, while not considering good highways as the most important factor, indicated that it was given prime consideration. Therefore, over 83 percent of the plants established in North Dakota in the last eight years have found that highway transportation and location to all-weather highways has been a primary factor in their location and one of the reasons why they located here.

Fact No. 2: Confirming the importance of highways in the location of these new factories in North Dakota, 60.7 percent are in small towns in North Dakota. And you look at them and you evaluate them and you determine their locations, and you'll find that highway transportation is the cause for them being there. These new plants in North Dakota use highway transportation extensively. This group, in total, said — and this is 91.7 percent of all new facilities established in North Dakota — showed that 91.7 percent of all of their inborn, inbound traffic came by highway transportation, and 71.7 percent used highways for all of their outbound type of transportation.

And so, you see, we are not talking about peanuts here, we are talking about the great industry in North Dakota. And when you stop and think of the cities and the small communities and these factories being located here, the highway transportation story is all evident.

Yes, we pay taxes into it. Let me show you what we did pay. In registration fees in 1970 we paid some over a hundred — some over $15 million dollars; in miscellaneous fees we paid over $2 million dollars; in motor fuel taxes we paid $21 million; and in special taxes that we paid in North Dakota of other types it was a total of $39,100 — $39, — my gosh, I should be in Congress where I could say million $39,199,000 paid in North Dakota in highway users taxes. Plus that, don't forget this, that you paid $16,238,000 that went to the federal government. And the only way you can get that $17,000,000 back is to have money in the treasury here in North Dakota to match it. And if you don't have the funds to match it from the other taxes that we levy against the highway users here, you lose that $17 million that you paid in anyway. And so you think then that we want to lose these $17 million dollars? Oh, I'm loaded this morning! Motor fuel tax, you see, over $4 million dollars; excise taxes over $3 million dollars; tires, tubes and retreads, over $1 million dollars. They stayed here in North Dakota. Now don't kid yourselves, they weren't purchased in South Dakota, because if they had been, why Bosch over here at the registration department would go and collect the use tax on them and bring it back to North Dakota. And so all of these things are important.

Oh, then another thing that I think I should say; personal transportation in North Dakota amounts to 21,081 separate vehicles. Agriculture in North Dakota has registered to them 106,629 units that they use for delivery of their products to and from the farm. Every visible market in America is available to — through highway transportation to the farm industry of the State of North Dakota. And if you don't think it's important, we have in farms alone 75,000 panel trucks, we have 64,000 cattle trucks, we have 3,000 dump trucks, we have a thousand — 3,000 tank trucks, and we have all other kinds in the tune of 152,000 farm units registered in North Dakota, not counting one single automobile. And we use that strictly for churches. And when I think of that, you see, this tax application, why here was the fellow who was brought before the judge for beating his wife. And the judge was mad at him and he fined him $110. And he said, "I can understand the hundred, but what's the ten for?" And the judge said, "That's the amusement tax." And so we are dealing with amusement tax in the highway trust fund. We are dealing with actually use funds.

Now let's take a look at some of these other things. When you pay taxes upon your automobile — and that's what I'm talking about, because we pay $29.49 average and that's from Cadillacs to those that blow off the highways that we call Volkswagens, all of them are included — we pay on an average of $115.30 just to register the danged things in the State of North Dakota, you see, average. While on bigger units the average is $3,364. And those are five-axle units. The passenger car in North Dakota pays $115,000 — $115 average, the farm pickup $103 average, the single-unit truck $416, three-axle combination $1500, the four-axle combination $2800, and the five-axle combination $3664. And so Delegate Trenbeath has brought that out to the floor very well. And that is that they pay according to their use. And when we are going to talk about a use tax, we are talking about a special tax. And in all of the annals of economics in the field of analysis of the economics of taxation you must apply them in such a way that they return to the economy the amount that has been taken out of it and returned. And when you can multiply that, when you take out the tax that is spent for highway user taxes in North Dakota, and you put it back into the economy and it produces 25 percent of every retail dollar spent in North Dakota, I think we better take a good second look at it.

I didn't mean to bother you people with a talk of this type, but I give a hundred of them a year and I enjoy every bit of it. But I caution you, don't destroy North Dakota because here's the economic unit and here's the heart and the core of it. And not to belabor it any longer, lest we get into a session that we had on 1-11 yesterday, let's pass this Minority Report right now and get it over with, shall we?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Hardmeyer.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I rise to support the Report of the Minority. I thought that perhaps this Convention could share — I'd like to share with you my feelings in this matter of highway funds. The last few years the municipalities have been allowed to share in this revenue as Delegate Cart — not Delegate Cart — Baker mentioned. And it has meant a great deal to municipalities. We have been able to maintain our streets, purchase equipment, and actually build up our towns in good shape. And I don't know how we could do without these funds now. And besides this money we still have to take money from the general fund to maintain our streets. And we are also paid an eight-mill farm-to-market levy, plus a road and bridge levy in our county. So as long as the people from the municipalities still must assess their property to build roads I think that we have no concern to be thinking here about using highway money for other concerns. Because we have not yet been able to do all the things that we need to do to our roads with the money that we take from them now. So I certainly support the Report here of the Minority and hope that these funds remain intact and be used for our roads.

Municipalities are doing very well with them. We are now able to reseal some of our streets without going back to the special assessment and assessing our poor people and our retired farmers and widows who live in the towns, who very rarely use the streets but yet we make them pay for this kind of use which they should not. So I certainly hope that the Minority Report prevails. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President: It's probably about time that the Majority Report have a little support again. I want to speak for the majority of the committee. We have no quarrel with the administration of the Highway Department, of the work that it's doing. The Highway Commissioner is a personal friend of mine, and I think that he will be even after my position on this matter is known.

We have no quarrel with the trucking industry. They've done a tremendous job in North Dakota. Farmers of North Dakota are indebted to them. But this is not a matter of support of the Highway Department or a matter of supporting the trucking industry. It's a matter of whether we should draw a constitution that's consistent with present practices, with good constitutional procedures. I want to enlarge on that a little later on, but I want to say this; we have users tax that are certainly not — we have users tax that certainly is not used for the benefit of the people who paid them. I refer you, of course, to the cigarette tax. I think Delegate Hardmeyer's City of Mott gets a considerable revenue from that. It does not go back to the users of the cigarettes, but probably could find a good deal of use in trying to correct the health problems that are caused by excessive smoking. Yet it goes largely to the cities of our State and is used to help their financial situation. Liquor taxes and users tax, to which I contribute something — I don't contribute to cigarette tax — is not used particularly for my benefit. There are purposes for which it could be very well used for settling the damages that are caused by accidents from the use of liquor, for curing the people who are over excessive users of liquor. Maybe we should use this for those purposes, yet we don't. We use it for general state purposes. So there are, as I say, users taxes that are not used for the people who paid them.

Now I want to point out in this matter a couple of things that have come before our Convention. Our committee is trying to be consistent. In the matter of property tax, property taxes for state purposes, we are basically opposed to the state use of property tax, and we did believe and do believe that there are occasions that might arise when the state would need a property tax and we wanted to provide for that in that particular section. And you will recall that that was attacked from various aisles, it was too liberal and also too restrictive. And the matter of exemptions, basically in philosophy the committee did not feel that exemptions for charitable and other such property had any part in the new Constitution, yet we did provide the basic exemptions to school and religious purposes, and that was attacked from both sides, that was too much and not enough.

Now this matter of this tax I believe we are also being consistent. I think we will find before this question is settled that there are people who feel that there should be absolutely no dedication of highway funds. And in the matter of theory and constitutional philosophy this is right. There should be no dedication of any funds in the new Constitution. Yet we think it is necessary for approval of this Constitution that it be in there. Yet we believe also that here the legislative assembly should have a right of review. They have no right to presently review the program. The only thing they can approve or deal with is the administrative appropriation for the Highway Department. And this is basic. The Legislature should have the right to review any program that involves this much money. And we think that this is one way that it can be done consistent with what we have proposed in other matters. And I do hope that this Convention will seriously consider supporting the Majority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President: I've had serious reservations about dedicated funds. And I think I could have supported the Majority Report if they had said very clearly, very honestly, "There will be no such a thing as dedicated funds. All money from these sources shall go into the general fund and shall be appropriated in the judgment of the legislative assembly for the Highway Department." I honestly think I could have supported it, but for this bill which seems to me to say, "We really don't believe in dedicated funds, but we're going to leave it in there and then we're going to make a sure decision that will get our hands on it by saying two-thirds of the assembly can then get it appropriated." I cannot support this kind of a bill. I will have to support the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: I wish to report present and compliment the Highway Commissioner, the Legislature and the Report of the Majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

I quickly am going to support the majority. There have been several from small communities speaking on the other side. I defy one here to show where you have worse roads than I have in my area. A car lasts me just half as many miles as it should; all gravel roads and gumbo and so on, except for I-94. And we're not going to take the money away from the Highway Department. Now all through here we've gone and put so much confidence in the Legislature. I think personally we're giving the Legislature far too much power. But here we say we're scared to give them a chance even with a two-thirds vote. And to show you how powerful a department can get — and I sincerely hope that the little ten miles of road I've been trying to get paved out our way for the last fifteen years — I hope this doesn't jeopardize my chances. Because they had a lot of power. And the Commissioner's a friend of mine at the moment, too, although I have fought the building very strongly. Now a two and a half story, two and a half million dollar Highway Buildings sits over here, the only department really that has such fine facilities. And this I didn't think was using dedicated funds for the purpose for which they were intended.

I don't think that between here and Dickinson we need rest stops or rest stations in which very few people rest, and this cold weather very few people stop. They are fancier than most houses. I happened to check one time, and the wiring of one of these rest stations cost more money than the average house. Now I'm not talking about — I think the figure was $28,000, some such thing. I'm not talking about fancy houses. But there are a lot of houses in the state that didn't cost as much as wiring a couple of rest stations. And I think this might be a little guarantee that they would be a little more careful. I don't think the Legislature is going to cut down on good roads even with a majority vote. And I support the majority position.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. President: My remarks will be very short. But I feel as a farmer I must rise in support of the Minority Report. I think this has caused more stir in my district than any other issue that has come up thus far. And the general consensus is, "Don't tamper with our highway fund." And so I strongly support the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the Minority Report, that the Minority Report be substituted for the Report of the Majority. Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of adopting the report will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is adopted.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Can we have a division, Mr. President?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, you may have a division, one, two — that's sufficient number.

Those now that favor the adoption of the Minority Report will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no". The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote. Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

There were 63 "aye" votes, 32 "nay", three delegates absent and not voting. The Minority Report is adopted and will go on the sixth order for tomorrow.

Fellow Delegates, we're about to take a recess. But before we go into recess I would like to read this announcement. I think you're all aware, I'm sure you are, that we had photographs taken of the Convention on the opening day. And also, of course, at the start of the organizational session. Now it's still possible to order those pictures. But today is the last day that we will be taking orders here. Now if there are any of you that would like to order those pictures, will you contact my secretary before four o'clock today?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: I would like to announce a short subcommittee hearing, a joint subcommittee hearing of the Legislative Functions and Executive Functions, behind the rail in the Senate. The committee members know who they are.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: May we be on the eighth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President: I would like to say to the Convention that the President and I had a short conversation this morning. So far no arrangements have been made to take a picture of the Convention, that is with each delegate having his picture taken and arranged in a panorama such as used to hang on the eighteenth floor of the Capitol for every legislative session. We are in the process of finding out how much it would cost. And I just rise to say that when we have determined what it would cost we will probably be asking whether the delegates wish the budget committee to approve the expenditure to do that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing, how long will your committee need?

DELEGATE NOTHING: About fifteen minutes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will be in recess until 10:45. It's now 10:30.

(The Session recessed at 10:32 A.M. until 10:55 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President. Could we be on the eighth order for a second?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE TUDOR: With the indulgence of the Convention, I'd like to read this communication:

"Dear Dr. Tudor,

"We have received the two reprints of the proceedings of the Plenary Session of the North Dakota Constitutional Convention for January 5, 1972, which included your very lovely tribute to Professor James Bradley Thayer, the position he has held in American legal education, and his broader concerns as a constitutional lawyer and as a responsible citizen.

"Thank you for sending us these two copies of the Journal of your Convention. According with your wishes, I have placed one copy in the box with Mr. Thayer's original draft; the other copy will be mailed to Mr. Thayer's descendants. Several members of our faculty are assisting me in locating such descendants of J. B. Thayer.

"Thank you again for your courtesy."

And then this is signed by the Curator of Manuscripts and Archives at the Harvard Law School Library. Thank you.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: May we be on the twelfth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I now move that the following proposals be returned to the Convention floor to be held at the desk. And I will name these proposals, and then I'd like to explain my reason. The proposals are: 1-31 — I believe the desk has a copy of this — 1-35, 1-41, 1-42, and 1-69.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to Delegate Hoffner's motion?

DELEGATE POULSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: The committee asked that I do this. These all deal with unicameral. And there is a proposal in the Ballot Committee right now asking that the alternate proposal be considered on unicameral. And we felt this was the best method of holding these, at the desk, and therefore disposing of them in our committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner's motion is to the effect that Committee Proposals — these are Committee Proposals, right — No. 1-31, 35, 41, 42 and 69 be returned to the Convention floor and be held at the desk awaiting further action at some later date.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye"; opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and we will receive them at the desk.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, did you have something further on this?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: May we continue on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection —

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Unless Delegate Longmire had another motion on withdrawal.

I want to move that the following Delegate Proposals be returned to the Convention floor and be held at the desk. And I'll mention the proposals, and then I have an explanation for that after it has been seconded. It would be Delegate Proposal 2-7, 16, 51, 52, 73, 58, 59, 72, 2-8, 2-13 and 2-76. And if I get a second, I'll explain.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May we have a second?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: We felt as a committee — excuse me — as a committee that this would be a way of not indefinitely postponing the proposals. And since all the proposals that I've just mentioned the subject matter has not been dealt with; 2-7, 16, 51, 52 and 73 all deal in initiative and referendum. And 105, 113 are on the calendar, and I'm sure will not be heard today. And so after this matter has been disposed of I'm sure that these delegates will probably withdraw these proposals. Then 1-58 — 2-58, 2-59, 2-72 all deal in reapportionment. And that is the Committee Proposal 1-29 that has not been disposed of. And 2-8 is incorporated in 1-58 and has not been disposed of. 2-13 is incorporated in 1-76 and is the open meeting one and has not been disposed of. And 2-76 is the one on unicameral to put it on a ten-year ballot. And that has not been disposed of. And so to be fair to the individual delegates I thought it would be a good idea to hold those at the desk and since we have other Committee Proposals to be dealt with.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any question? The question is on Delegate Hoffner's motion that Delegate Proposals No. 2-7, 16, 51, 52, 73, 58, 59, 72, 8, 13 and 76 be returned to the Convention floor and be held at the desk.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and these will be returned to the desk and held at the desk.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: One more motion. I would like to now move that 1-8 be returned to the Convention floor. And the reason we would like to withdraw is we've incorporated or split that one up on people's power.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-8 be returned to the Convention floor. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Delegate Proposal No. 1-8 is now before the Convention.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I now move that we get unanimous consent to withdraw Committee Proposal 1-8.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Committee Proposal No. 1-8. Hearing no objection, permission is granted.

Now Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: May I inquire from the desk if the following Delegate Proposals are there on the committee report: 2-18, 2-37, 2-46 and 2-75?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes, they are here with the committee report.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: I ask you to recognize Delegate Tudor at this time with respect to Proposal 2-18.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President: I would like the Convention's approval to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-18.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-18. Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Will you please recognize Delegate Hubrig in connection with 2-37?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President: I request that 2-37 be withdrawn.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-37. Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Will you recognize Delegate Dobson in connection with 2-46?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President: Delegate Proposal 2-46 has served its purpose. The time now arrives to lay it to rest, but this proposal should not be dispatched to its Valhalla without a eulogy. For this occasion I have chosen Matthew 25:23, "Well done, good and faithful servant." I now request unanimous consent to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-46.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-46.

Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President: May I suggest that that particular eulogy be transcribed, and also that the transferral of this particular document and the burial be made on the second fjord north of Trondheim, Norway.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing no objection to the withdrawal of the proposal, permission is granted.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: Will you recognize Delegate Omdahl in connection with 2-75? I assume he'll quote from Luke.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I have a quote here from Luke, but I am saving it for the lawyers at a later date.

2-75 was a proposal for a Missouri selection system. And I think it's served its purpose. And I would like unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw 2-75.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl requests unanimous consent of the Senate — of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-75. Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Is Delegate Proposal 2-22 at the desk? Educational bill.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-22?

DELEGATE HILL: Yes. If not, I move that it be returned to the floor.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: From the Committee on Education?

DELEGATE HILL: Yes.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill has moved, and it has been seconded by Delegate Litten, that Delegate Proposal No. 2-22 be returned to the Convention floor from the Committee on Education, Public Lands and Natural Resources.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the proposal is before the Convention.

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President: This proposal relates to a suggestion I made last summer to the committee to have a single department of education. And this matter will be discussed further as a Minority Report to a Committee Proposal coming up later. So at this time I request unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw that Delegate Proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-22. Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

We will be on the fifth order of business — Committee Reports.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-88, has had the same under consideration; recommends the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-88; that it be amended.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 1-88.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry. The Committee Proposal No. 1-88; that the proposal be amended. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be on the sixth order for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-96 has had the same under consideration; recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Haugen moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-96; that it be given a "do pass".

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-28 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-11.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-28; —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — that the proposal be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: We have discussed this with the delegate, Delegate Warner, who introduced the proposal. He knows that our committee has made very good use of his proposal in our consideration of 1-11. And I understand he has no objections to the report of the committee.

DELEGATE WARNER: No objection.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: As many as are in favor of the motion to indefinitely postpone Proposal No. 2-28 will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report's adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-41 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-36.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-41; that the proposal be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion? Is there any discussion? The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report that Proposal No. 2-41 be indefinitely postponed. As many as are in — Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: I'm sorry, I was sleeping at the switch. I have a statement that I would like put in the Journal. Delegate Proposal 2-41 has been — the substance of it has been included in Committee Proposal 1-36.

And may the Journal of the Convention show that the Legislative Functions Committee hereby expresses its gratitude to Delegate Lamb for the ideas presented in Delegate Proposal 2-41. We regret the final expression of this idea cannot bear his name, but the extensive implications in other areas made it imperative to place the idea in Committee Proposal 1-36.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-41; that the proposal be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the proposal is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-56 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-56; that it be indefinitely postponed. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: This proposal was introduced, as indicated, by Delegate Burke. He made a very elegant appeal to our — to the committee in connection with it. While we felt his proposal had a great deal of merit, we felt that to limit state officials or legislators or any of our officials to the service of twelve years and no more might be a disadvantage to the State of North Dakota. For that reason we are recommending indefinite postponement. The proposal would have put a twelve-year limit on service for elected officials.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report that Delegate Proposal No. 2-56 be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-21 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposals No. 1-23, 1-74, 1-77, 1-87, and 1-96.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Haugen moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question of the adoption — the question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-22; that it be — 21; that it be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President: As indicated by the report itself, the subject matter of this proposal has been included in several other proposals in order to break them down and expedite the work of the Convention. They are all in proposals that are now either approved or before the Convention. And I hope that the Convention will indefinitely postpone it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the report; that Proposal No. 1-21 be indefinitely postponed. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. 1-21 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-103 has had the same under consideration; recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-103; that it be given a "do pass."

Is there any discussion? As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-103 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-63 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-63; that it be indefinitely postponed. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President: This proposal has not been incorporated in any other proposal. I think at this time maybe Delegate Baker would like to say a few words.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President: I have no objection to the body indefinitely postponing Delegate Proposal 2-63 at this time. For those few number of this body who are interested in this idea yet, as I am, I can explain that a way has been found to condense the idea into an amendment which, if it seems like a good idea at the time, can be offered to one of the Committee Proposals dealing with the same subject.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question then is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-63; that it be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. 2-63 is indefinitely postponed.

We will be on the tenth order of business. First for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-101.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I move that Committee Proposals 1-11 and 1-12 be placed at the head of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire moves that Committee Proposal 1-11 and Committee Proposal 1-12 be placed at the head of the calendar. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Fallgatter. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And Proposals 1-11 and 1-12 are now at the head of the calendar.

For first consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-11.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: The committee has nothing further to offer on this proposal. We had a five or ten-minute discussion yesterday, as the delegates will remember. Unless someone else has something, the committee is ready to vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the passage of —

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I would really like to inquire how many times Section 25 and 202 are going to be repealed? I've got about a dozen or more times counted up here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart, how many did you say you have?

DELEGATE CART: About a dozen or more times it's been repealed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, "about" is rather indefinite, but I —

DELEGATE CART: Well, at least twelve.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Will the delegate state what sections you're referring to again, please?

DELEGATE CART: 25 and 202.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman, Mr. President. I'm sorry.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, as far as Section 102 that section has been assigned to us throughout the Convention. If somebody else is repealing it, why they are helping us out. But we are repealing 102. We are not interested in 25.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I think Delegate Cart is on the wrong proposal, because 25 is an initiative and referendum and legislative one. We are not discussing that at this point.

DELEGATE CART: I confess error. I have 111 instead of 1-11.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question then — Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: We are now about to vote on 1-11. I would like at this time to state my vote. And I do intend to vote "no" against a very fine proposal only so that the record might indicate that there is substantial strength in this Convention for another system of selecting judges. And I would urge those who supported the Minority Report yesterday also vote "no".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-11.

Those in favor of the adoption will vote "yes" and those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will vote — record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 72 "ayes," 22 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-11 has passed.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I move that 1-12 be moved to the foot of the calendar. We just received this yesterday, the report, and there are a number of amendments that I would like to make. But I looked at the calendar and so I didn't bother to prepare those last night because I thought we'd be at least three days before getting there. And so I think that we really need to take a good look at this article, and that we ought to have an opportunity to prepare the amendments that we think are necessary.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-12 be placed at the foot of the calendar. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'll second his motion, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: By way of explanation of my previous motion, I felt that in the year's time that we've been studying this that Delegate Omdahl and others would have had an opportunity to look at it. But since he hasn't we certainly do not want to cut off anybody in offering amendments to the proposal. And for that reason we certainly would not oppose his motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is that Committee Proposal No. 1-12 be placed at the foot of the calendar.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be — 1-12 will go to the foot of the calendar.

Next for consideration of the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-101.

Is there any discussion? Just a moment, the Clerk will read it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-101, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 139 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that Article XVII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, both of which pertain to public utilities.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 139 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Article XVII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XVII
"PUBLIC UTILITIES

"Section 1. No law shall be passed by the legislative assembly granting the right to construct or operate any public utility or similar service within a city without requiring the consent of the governing body of that city."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Committee Proposal 1-101 is the committee's version of an updated Section 139. And it is the same as Section 2 of Committee Proposal No. 1-20 prior to amendment. Committee Proposal No. 1-20 was the one dealing with corporations. And we amended it to remove any sections on which there were questions. And we have done so.

Basically Section 139 provides now that: "No law shall be passed by the legislative assembly pertaining to right to construct and operate a street railroad, telegraph, telephone or electric light plant within any city, town or incorporated village, without requiring the consent of the local authorities having the control of the street or highway proposed to be occupied for such purposes." And a street railroad isn't too big of an issue any more. The committee decided to bring this section up to date and recognize modern technology. We have made several changes which I do not feel have changed the basic intent of the section. We have changed the enumerated public utilities to the general term "public utilities or similar service". It was our intent that this term would not only include telephone and telegraph but would include such things as natural gas systems, water systems, cable TV and other things that may not even be dealt with at this time.

We included the term "or similar service" so that the Legislature could not evade this section by calling the horse a different name.

We have also changed the term "local authority" having control of the street or highway which will be occupied for such purposes to the "governing body of that city". The intent of this change would be to clear up any problems pertaining to a section. What would be the significance when you have a street that runs through the city that is always a state highway or part of it, a county highway or farm-to-market road for part of it and the city street? To avoid this problem we have just amended the reference to local authority.

We also amended the reference to occupying streets and highways and just made reference to "within any city". At this time to occupy — to operate a public utility within a city you would ordinarily have to put poles on the streets. In the years ahead we don't know if this will necessarily be true; as witness a demonstration of a telephone in use on a TV show. Basically the committee looked at this section as one that reserves the power to local cities, one that will give them the veto power over the operation of utilities within a city. We feel that this is an important right that should be reserved to them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I have an amendment which I believe is at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-101.

On page 1, delete lines 12 through 15, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 1. No law shall be passed by the legislative assembly granting the right to construct and operate a street railroad, telegraph, telephone or electric light plant within any city, town or incorporated village, without requiring the consent of the local authorities having the control of the street or highway proposed to be occupied for such purposes."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Meidinger.

Any discussion?

DELEGATE PETERSON: I want to — Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: As you can see, the amendment is the original Section 139. And in order to bring this to the attention of the delegates, where they stand, of the Rural Electric Cooperatives to the attention of the delegates, I brought it in as an amendment. And I would like to read their position. They firmly believe that Proposal 1-101 does not belong to any state constitution and certainly not in the new constitution for North Dakota.

"We believe, and has so testified before the Committee on Land, Resources and Education, that the proposed language constitutes unnecessary and restrictive legislation. And delegates to this most important convention, legislation simply has no place in our new constitution. No significant reason has been offered to us why this language should be included. Conversely, if included, it would seem only to clutter and confuse our governing document and place a further burden upon our citizenry by virtue of a potential flood of litigation. Statute law now exists covering the concerns which were expressed by members of the committee. We all share in a common concern for the people's rights. It's our sincere belief that the proposal is not in the best interests of the people."

And then one more point, I want to call your attention to the LRC study of 1965 regarding 139. And they say:

"This is a needless restriction on the legislature because the legislature could not grant any right to utilities to build and operate in a city."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes. I would rise to speak in opposition to the amendment, which then too, as you know, has been explained to replace the existing section with the one proposed here. I am a bit confused because we debated the whole issue for hours on end all through the summer and fall and again since we've been here as to whether there ought to be any in there at all. And one of the main reasons that we have anything in here was because Delegate Peterson's concern was shared by some of the rest of us that we really ought to maintain the veto power of the city.

We tried in reworking this to have a statement which would at least be relevant and relate to what is true today. It would seem to me that the most important choice here is between adopting 101 as proposed or simply repealing 139. If you do not desire to have any statement at all, please do not go back to the archaic old wording.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I wonder if Delegate Peterson, who is suggesting the return of the old language, could point out where they differ?

DELEGATE PETERSON: Well, actually, as far as the REC's are concerned, they prefer deletion. And probably there is — in my estimation the only difference as far as I was concerned at the time that we worked on this was that I wanted the words "local authority" retained. And other than that I — I myself am not taking a specific position. I'm speaking mostly for the REC position.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: One more question. Do I understand that the Rural Electric Co-ops are opposed to cities having the power to decide whether or not — when and how their streets may be used?

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I read the statement that they gave. And I can give a copy to you if you want what I read.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: To answer Delegate Kelsch's question, I believe her statement was prepared before or without the realization that Section 139 was even in the constitution. Because when they came in with a prepared statement and we pointed out that Section 139 was there, they couldn't understand why we were addressing ourselves to this subject. They were seemingly unaware of Section 139.

To answer your specific question, I asked them that. They said, "No." They said the cities should have the franchise power.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Well, Mr. President, as a member of the committee also, I was a little dubious about this. And I would say that the REC's came back after the initial submission of this twice on occasion and said they were still opposed to the inclusion of this specific article, particularly from a point of view that the consent of the governing body in that city could well extend far beyond the streets and highways operation as the language was now worded. And I would just agree and say that the entire franchise thing — I disagree with Delegate Devine in the sense that I believe that we have extended over into the entire franchising possibilities in cities. And I realize that was the intent of the committee. But at the same time I think it might be leading to a great deal of struggle, and a great deal of difficulty outside of the realm of courts and maybe within the courts, particularly in regard to the fact that the governing body of that city shall make these decisions. And when you get into this kind of a struggle, which might be a struggle between a private utility and a cooperative, you know, of course, what could happen to that governing body. I can imagine all the luncheons, dinners, meals, trips and everything that could well be involved in the decision of a city governing body making this kind of a decision. And I think really legislating has been indicated in the Constitution by changing just the provisions proposed and cites to the franchise provision. And I, while not wanting to return certainly, Delegate Lander, to the archaic language which the committee dealt with, I am going to vote "no". Because I don't think we ought to interject ourselves into this kind of situation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: This is kind of a unique question before the assembly. All that I can see that this new proposal by the committee does is to broaden the area from the few that were enumerated in the original Constitution. It takes in all public utilities.

I would like to comment further, though, in regard to what Delegate Peterson has said, that the REA or the Rural Electric Association or REC's are not public utilities. They have a right under the statute as passed in 1937 to serve those who desire their services in the rural areas. And they have also the right by the management of the REC's to refuse service whenever they so desire. That has all been tested out in court in the Williams County v. The Board of Railroad Commissioners, Public Service Commission, way back in 1954-55, where the District Court pointed these things out. And it was affirmed on appeal to the Supreme Court. So you have a unique situation here where they are wanting to stop the cities from having control over their own streets and alleys, and the franchising of a public utility within the city. For what purpose, I'm just at a loss to understand.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, I think that the proposal before us would include REC's. It says "public utility or similar service". Now I didn't appear before this committee and I haven't heard their arguments. But I think that one of the objections that the REC's have to this provision is that they think it is statutory to a certain degree. And also because in a recent court decision that has affected their operation in North Dakota. If I recall correctly this — what they are afraid of is that they can work in a rural area or around a town, outskirts, put up their lines and serve the area and this provision leaves it wide open for the city to go out and include them within the city limits by extending the city limits and then telling the REC that they cannot operate in that area that they have developed. And I think there was an occasion just recently that stemmed a concern of this section. But somebody on the committee knows more about this than I.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President: I don't know if I can clarify some of this a little. I was on the committee. And I certainly — I don't feel to strongly about including this one way or the other. But we were trying to rework 139. And I certainly hope you don't — I am against the amendment of going back to the archaic language. But we did have some legal advice on this, and they told us that there was nothing that would prevent the city from giving two franchises under this particular proposal. But the REC's definitely did come in and were definitely against the proposal. And as I see it now they would prefer to work under 139 which they didn't know was in the Constitution until — until during our committee meetings and then they would work under our present proposal 101. But, as I said, I have no strong feelings about leaving either one of them in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is —

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Peterson.

Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Just a short statement. The League of Municipalities did appear. They are in favor of this. I feel that there is a basic right here. This is why I would like to see it personally included in the Constitution. Should we reserve this power to the cities? I believe that we should reserve as many powers to local government as is possible.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Peterson.

Those that will favor it will vote "aye," and those that will oppose it will vote "no." As many as are in favor of the motion to adopt the amendment will say "aye," those opposed vote "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost.

Now we are back on Committee Proposal No. 1-101.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I decided I'd be in order because I really want to address the thing before us rather than talk previously. I think we should understand the history of why this kind of a section is in a constitution written in 1889.

It was a custom back at that time in the latter part of the eighteen hundreds for legislatures to be wined and dined and sold on the idea of legalizing franchises for different public utilities within specific cities. And so we had a lot of special and local legislation.

Now we have before us the Report of the Constitutional Revision Commission that met in the sixties. And it recommended that 139 be repealed. And because, as Delegate Peterson said, this is a restriction on the Legislature. And it pointed out that in the legislative article there is language prohibiting special and local legislation. And this language is in Proposal 1-85, which if we have not passed already we will be passing in the near future. And so we will carry forward the prohibition against local and special laws.

Now since the REC's have decided that this is a matter of concern, and since the questions of territorial status of the private utilities and the REC's is in flux, I think that in view of the recommendation that this section be deleted by previous study, and in view of the fact that the REC's will feel that this is a legislative matter, and they feel it is a matter of concern to them now, I think the subject really should be left to the Legislature and let them fight out the battles between the private utilities and the REC's rather than us try to be the Legislature here. So I would urge the Convention to vote "no" and defeat this proposal.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If I could understand the reason for the concern I would go along with Delegate Omdahl. What bothered me about his argument is that he's urged on the one hand that the Legislature does not have the power to pass local or special laws relating to the city affairs, and yet you're urging that the matter should be left to the Legislature. Now either this is a question, it seems to me, of home rule of the cities or it isn't. Now I might want to agree with Delegate Omdahl it doesn't need to be in the Constitution if we have a home rule provision in our Constitution that does leave the matter of home rule to the cities. But I think the issue at stake here, as I think we've all probably decided, if we adopt the later section which we will come to, the Legislature shall not grant franchises to municipalities, the Legislature cannot pass local laws, then we are saying this is not a matter that should be left to the city. So if I could see a real reason — now it seems to me that either this — there is territorial rights or dual franchises or single franchises be granted, this is a problem that anybody that wants — has that problem is going to have to face in dealing with the city. And I don't think it should be a legislative question. I agree it shouldn't be a legislative question. But if I could see any real reason why I think it should be in the Constitution — I don't think it should be in there — if I could see any reason they fear its presence in the Constitution. I'm really at a loss to understand what their reasoning is.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: I think the real answer to the question raised by Delegate Kelsch is the fact that the recent Crosby case, which was a serious case as far as the REC's were concerned and which will be appealed very shortly as their spokesman told us, that very case left the decision more to the cities. And as a result of that the REC's would rather take their chances in the courts rather than have something like this specified within the framework of the Constitution. And I think that's very understandable from their point of view.

The whole question, as my colleague here has said, putting 76 is dynamite into the Constitution at this point. It reminds me a little bit of a recent play I saw in Chicago called "Hair". There's something in it to insult everybody. And I think we are getting pretty close to that in some of these kinds of decisions when, in effect, we could just as well leave it alone and do as other people recommended, leave this section out of the Constitution. Because it is not a serious question at the present time except the courts work a decision between the REC's who have worked into some city areas and who do have poles sticking into places like Bonanza here in Bismarck and other places. I think those places are essentially that kind of decision. And we ought not to specify it by including this new wording in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Diehl.

DELEGATE DIEHL: Mr. President, members of this assembly:

I have conferred with the REC's on this matter. But I am a little bit confused or a little bit concerned about the language here changing "to construct or operate". Originally it was "construct and operate". I'm concerned about those Rural Electric who are already in the cities. And this, as I understand it, would not allow them to continue to operate. So it puts them in kind of a precarious position. Maybe we wouldn't have any trouble, but in my particular co-op around Grand Forks we're in the city in areas. And we would run into some problems. Presently we're trying to get a franchise to continue to operate, which of course we will do, I believe. And this is not unusual to have more than one utility of one kind or another operating within one city. Twin Cities, I think, has at least six franchises to different utilities — the same kind of electric utilities. And that is my only concern about this. I really think it is a legislative matter myself and probably shouldn't be in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President: I would like to attempt to ask — answer a couple questions that have been raised on the floor.

First of all, I do not view this section as an REC versus public power proposition. I happen to be a member of a law firm that represents an REC, and I certainly don't view it as that type of situation.

The second proposition is a reference that's been made a couple times to a Williston case. The case I think that they are referring to is a proposition where the REC's were serving some people that were later annexed into the city. The court initially at this point and time has said that the city then has the right to control the service after the annexation. This particular case was not decided on Section 139. The case, as I understand it, did not refer to 139 as it now exists. It was decided on statutory law.

So I would like to see that particular case or particular problem held outside of the discussion of this section. Plain and simple question before the body is should the city have the right to control utility or similar type services within their boundaries.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: Mr. President. It seems to me that most of the discussion has dealt in line with the REC position and that it should either be repealed or new language, as stated in 101, be adopted. Now we voted down the amendment to go back to the old section. But I don't understand why, if this is the question, why an amendment hasn't been made to repeal this section. Overtures from both the committee and from the floor here this morning have told us this. Now if we vote "no" on 101, we — and that prevails — we go back to the old language. So I have no alternative but to vote "yes".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: I have to confess that I'm confused, I think with a lot of other people, but as I read this section what it really says is that the Legislature does not have power over the political subdivisions, particularly cities. In 1965, when we had the bitter, bitter territory fight in the Legislature, part of the language of that legislation granted electric cooperatives the right to continue to serve customers that they were serving in territory that was annexed to a city. For example: If a farmsite alongside of Grand Forks was served by an electric cooperative and industrial development developed along that area, all of which was served by a cooperative, this territory would be subsequently annexed to Grand Forks and the City of Grand Forks, the commission, voted to not allow that electric cooperative to continue to serve those customers and would force them to abandon all of their facilities because the City Commission voted that way, the Legislature by this language would be unable to protect that cooperative from that sort of action.

And, Mr. President, the political subdivisions are creatures of the state and they are to be governed by the policy board of the state. And are we to disinvolve the state with this kind of language and not let them govern the political subdivisions? I think, Mr. President, I think we should move, and I do move, that this be moved to the bottom of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-101 be placed at the foot of the calendar.

Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Kwako.

The question is on Delegate Sinner's motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-101 be placed at the foot of the calendar.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the motion lost.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: May I inquire of possibly one of the committee members if they considered any amendment that might — it appears that the REC's have expressed their situation, and I'm sure it would also be expressed by a private utility if it were placed in the same situation that the REC's have found themselves in up in Crosby.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will one of the committee members answer Delegate Aubol's question?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Delegate Aubol, one question raised was this particular problem. And I am referring to my notes at the time they appeared. And my question to them is what to do when the city annexes territory concerning an REC, because I was concerned that this may be an unfair type situation. Their answer was that they are protected. I don't know what the nature of the protection is. This was their plain and simple — their people, their attorney was there, and they told me they are protected. Because I was thinking of putting in a specific provision to protect REC's and this type of thing. So that they don't lose something that they have, their investment if nothing else, in serving an area that later was annexed. And they came back plain and simple with their explanation that they were protected.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: We may have a tempest in a teapot, I don't know. But I do think that in response to Delegate Sinner's question, the Legislature will always retain the power, and it does exercise the power, to specify how territory will be annexed to cities. It is a rather controversial problem in the Legislature, but they do have that power. I don't know if the present annexation laws govern that to protect a utility that's now serving an area. I think they should be. I don't think that their property should be forfeited. But I think that the basic issue is are we prepared to say that cities — that this is a question for cities to decide who will use their streets or not or should the Legislature get in the act? And I don't imagine the Legislature really cares to get in this act. But I do think that they have the power. I think all the Supreme Court said in that case, if I'm not mistaken, is the cities have the power to decide who should use the streets. It didn't say it couldn't grant 55 franchises if they want to. It is up to the city. You have got a problem of new territory if someone's already there. No reason why the city couldn't say you could stay in the new territory.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President: In partial answer to Delegate Aubol, these people did appear before us and objected to the language that we had. We then put off further consideration for four or five or six days and they again appeared before us. They offered no satisfactory amendments to the committee. And that was the result of it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: After Delegate Kelsch's statement, I think that we prohibit the granting of franchises to electric cooperative in cities over 2500. And by that sort of combination of circumstances and combination of laws, the city could not grant that franchise. And this is all new to me, this whole discussion. But I was deeply involved in that other issue in '65 and I know that it's a very complex question. And I'd hate to see us by sheer oversight here do something that we didn't intend to do at all.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I have to agree with Delegate Kelsch. I think we do have a tempest in a teapot. And I don't think it was the intent of the committee to change the meaning of 139. I arrived at the conclusion that 139 was extraneous language without regard to the REC's. And I still think Section 139 is extraneous language. And I have an amendment at the desk which would leave the language in 1 and 2 that Section 139 of the Constitution of the State of North Dakota be repealed. And which would strike the rest of that title and leave Sections 6 and 7, which would merely repeal Section 139. I would like to move that amendment at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved — Delegate Omdahl moves an amendment to Committee Proposal 1-101.

Would you read it from the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-101. In line 2, following the word "repealed" delete the balance of the line.

Delete lines 3 and 4.

Delete lines 8 through 15, inclusive.

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now do we have a second?

DELEGATE PETERSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Peterson.

Now any discussion? Any discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Omdahl. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," those opposed "no." The Chair is in doubt. Those that are in favor will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your preference.

Has every delegate indicated his choice? Any wish to change? Hearing none, the vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 50 "ayes," 43 "nays," five delegates absent and not voting. The amendment is adopted.

Now we are back on Committee Proposal No. 1-101 as amended.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Question.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Suspend the rules and deem it properly engrossed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can't do it.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: If there is no further discussion — Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I believe a motion to suspend the rule and consider it properly engrossed is in order, and I do so move.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen moves that the rules be suspended; that Committee Proposal No. 1-101 be deemed properly re-engrossed; that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Longmire.

Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I resist the motion to suspend the rules on the grounds that now we have a whole new ballgame. And I think we better check it out a little more.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the suspension of the rules; that the proposal be deemed properly re-engrossed; that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," those opposed "no." The "noes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-101 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

We will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Is it your intention to recess until approximately one-thirty?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It is.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to announce then that the Committee on Finance and Taxation will meet at one o'clock in the regular meeting room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President: The Executive Functions Committee will meet immediately upon recess. And bring your lunch with you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: There will be a picnic lunch in G-1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: The Legislative Functions Committee will meet at one o'clock in the Large Hearing Room. We have one proposal to dispose of.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Final drafting will have a picnic lunch in G-7.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: At the Calendar Committee this morning it was pointed out that we have 43 items on the calendar. We now have 42 items disposed of. We have five days in which to clear the calendar. We have still a number of committee reports to be read from the desk this afternoon. There will be some controversial committee reports coming up; therefore, it is felt that it will be necessary, beginning today, to have an evening meeting. And because we have — we will have a tremendous amount of calendar work to get rid of. Are you ready for the motion?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would only wish to remind the delegates once more that at four o'clock today there will be no further opportunities to order pictures in the event you want them.

That clears the desk.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I then move we recess until one-thirty P.M.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that we — the Convention is still in session — it has been moved and seconded that we do now recess until one-thirty. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And we will be in recess until one-thirty.

(The Session recessed at 12:07 P.M. until 1:30 P.M., the same day.)

DELEGATE THOMPSON: May I ask for a personal privilege?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may state your privilege.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I would like the Convention to recognize Past State Senator Milt Kelly and Sybil Kelly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are they in the assembly?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Yes. They are in the back of the room back behind me.

Delegate Fiedler would like to acknowledge the presence of William McIntyre, Harley Kingsbury, Oscar Knutson, Jack Bannerman from Grafton. (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

We'll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I sent a note to the desk yesterday. As I understood that was the way we were making introductions. We do have a representative from Grand Forks, Grace Stone, with us today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Mrs. Stone, approach the rail and be recognized by the Convention. (Applause)

Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President, may we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the twelfth order, Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I should have done this this morning. But I would like to move that the letter from the Harvard Law School addressed to Dr. Tudor be inserted in the minutes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Knudson. It's been moved and seconded that the letter that was read to the Convention this morning by Dr. Tudor be placed in the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the letter will be incorporated in the Journal.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to move that Delegate Proposals 2-35, 2-42, 2-50, 2-60, 2-62, 2-66, 2-67 and 2-70 be returned to the floor of the Convention from the Committee on Finance and Taxation to be held at the desk for later action.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the motion of Delegate Haugen. Does someone have the numbers? That Delegate Proposal 2-35, 42, 47, 50, 60, 62, 66, 67 and 70 be returned to the Convention floor and held at the desk awaiting final disposal or use of the proposals. We need a second.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Erickson.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the proposals, Delegate Proposals, will be returned to the floor and held at the desk.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Thompson. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Delegate Proposal No. 2-69 is returned to the Convention floor and will be held at the desk.

We're still on the twelfth order.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Resolution No. D introduced by Committee on Resolutions, a resolution expressing sympathy to the family of Delegate Binek.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I move the rules be suspended, that Resolution D be read in its entirety, placed in the Journal as a printed proposal, and placed as a final passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel moves the rules be suspended, — what is the number?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: D.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — that Resolution No. D be printed in the Journal, that it not be printed as a proposal, that it be placed on the calendar for final passage. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Resolution D is before the Convention, and the Clerk will read the resolution.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Resolution No. D, introduced by Committee on Resolutions.

"A resolution expressing sympathy to the family of Delegate Binek.

"WHEREAS, God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to summon from our midst Steve Binek, the brother of our colleague, Delegate A. L. Binek; and

"WHEREAS, Delegate Binek is held in high esteem by all members of this Constitutional Convention, who share with him his sorrow;

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE NORTH DAKOTA CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION:

"That we express our sorrow and extend our sincere sympathy and condolences to Delegate Binek and all members of his family; and

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this resolution be entered in the Journal and the Clerk is hereby directed to present an enrolled copy to Delegate Binek and members of his family."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the resolution. In adopting this resolution will the members of the Convention please rise. The resolution is adopted.

DELEGATE BINEK: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Binek.

DELEGATE BINEK: Fellow Delegates: Thank you for your recognition and your kind words of sympathy. On behalf of my brother's wife and family, all of my brothers and sisters, your expressions are appreciated and they shall never be forgotten. Thank you so much.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Binek.

We will be on the tenth order of business. First for consideration is Delegate Proposal No. 2-23 as amended.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-23, introduced by Delegate Thompson:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section be created to the constitution of the state of North Dakota pertaining to a recognition of veterans' contributions to the state.

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The people of North Dakota do herein declare that North Dakota service men and women may be given special considerations as determined by the legislative assembly."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I don't intend to speak long on this because we did discuss it some time ago. And if the Convention looks at it, you will see that we have reduced the size and removed all of the flowery words. When we had this last hearing on this matter Marvin Conrad from the DAV appeared as did Fred Jordan from the Veterans and Vernon Usseldinger from the American Legion. And they also agreed that we could reduce the size of this matter. And I earnestly support your consideration on that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of Delegate Proposal No. 2-23. Those in favor of its adoption will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will communicate your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 85 "ayes," 9 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting.

Delegate Proposal No. 2-23 has been passed.

Next for consideration is Delegate Proposal No. 2-26.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-26, introduced by Delegate O'Toole:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new article to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the establishment of an independent government agency which shall receive complaints against state agencies and officials, be created.

"SECTION 1.) A new article to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created as follows:

"There shall be established by the legislature an independent government agency which shall receive complaints against state agencies and officials from aggrieved persons, investigate the same, and in cases of justified complaints, to offer recommendations for remedy."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. President, fellow delegates:

I feel in a very different position today for a couple of reasons; one is that the bill finally got to the top of the calendar, and the other one is that much of my time is spent in counseling and guidance of people who have somewhat uncomfortable and unhappy experiences and many of these experiences come with governmental agencies, governmental subdivisions and this sort of thing. And, of course, the only way I can help them is in some way teach them and help them how to live with and adapt to the problems. Now I'm in a different position. I am in a position to help to change some of these stresses that are on the many individuals. And hopefully to help them from becoming emotionally upset.

Now this was brought out to me recently in a letter from my father who indicated in turning out many of his farm papers, he felt that the government was just trying to confuse everyone.

The purpose of this proposal is to create a "People's Advocate," an "Ombudsman," a "Citizen's Defender," "Citizen's Champion," "Defender of Civil Liberty" or whatever other name you might wish to call it. This proposal creates someone to whom any citizen may take complaints about actions of the people in the government service. He will listen, examine and try to obtain redress of an injustice, an apparent injustice, or amends for a grievance.

This is not a new and original idea. At least four states — Nebraska, Iowa, Oregon and Hawaii — have established just such an official. Other states and political subdivisions have also made use of this concept. Recently in an article in the Fargo Forum, I read where the federal government is trying to make use of the idea through the use of the government's service agencies. Many foreign countries have set up machinery for an ombudsman. First in Sweden in 1809, now in Great Britain and Australia.

I feel that we need this man for a number of reasons. Government and government services reach into almost every area of our lives from health, welfare employment, water control, farm subsidies, and I can go on and on and on. We have so little recourse to decisions of the government and most often do not even know where to turn or to whom to go to have our complaints heard. Most important, we are often shuttled to the very government agency with whom we have our complaint.

The post World War II growth of the welfare state in government grew in size and was given extensive powers. Protection is needed against the executive and administrative oversights or abuse of power. This goes hand in hand with President Nixon's call for curbing and putting controls on services. But not only that, it also establishes a man who will oversee that these agencies are truly helping the people.

The activities of the public administration have become so comprehensive and the power of the bureaucracy so great, that the legal status of an individual needs additional protection. This goes hand in hand with our Supreme Court in trying to guard our fundamental rights of freedom and individual liberty. Our government machine has become so great, so big, that bureaucracy seldom has time to help the common man. The common man, the man whom the government was set up to work for, to protect, is not protected and is not any longer in control of the government.

Thirdly, existing mechanisms, courts, legislatures, executive administrative courts, and administrative agencies, are not sufficient to cope with the grievances of the aggrieved and there is need for a supplementary institution. The ombudsman or the people's advocate will fill this need of the supplementary institution. He will be the defender of people's rights, this being his primary and only job.

The presence of the ombudsman has a psychological value. His office gives the citizens confidence that there exists a watchdog for the people who will hold the government accountable. Again, the ombudsman can be seen as the man that the people can go to in time of need to have their rights exercised. He gives the people a shortcut. He will no longer have to deal with the red tape and the bureaucracy of the government, because the government has put within itself a safety valve in the form of the People's Advocate.

The Legislature, traditionally concerned with the observance of laws and rulings of public officials, has at the same time extensively delegated powers to administrative authorities. The ombudsman can serve to aid the legislator in his function of supervising the executive and the administrator. The ombudsman can serve as a check and a balance, a safety valve, for the Legislature seeing to it that other agencies are carrying out the laws to the intent for which they were written by the Legislature.

The People's Advocate gives citizens an expert, an impartial agent without personal cost to the complainant, without delay, without attention of the adversary litigation, without requirements of counsel or the intervention of those highly placed. Thus he is everybody's defender. But more than anything, he is the representative of the poor, the people who cannot afford litigation in our courts because of lack of money. It is a quick step forward to getting their rights exercised without the delay of courts and the delay of administrative agencies. It will help to prevent the terrible conditions that Orwell described in his book "1984".

He is not a person bound by legalities, seeking to win a case, but an arbitrator who seeks to dispell erroneous notions on one side or the other by setting forth the truth.

Many people who have had grievances would find it difficult to go through procedures required in the regulations. They may not know where to start; they may not be able to pay the legal expenses, or their emergency may be of such a nature as to demand quick action. Then, too, a request for review addressed to a government department that may be referred to the officer originally involved, this is not in the nature of a real appeal.

Some of the strongest objections in states and Great Britain has come from legislators who feel that they are ombudsmen. I say they certainly are, but to a limited extent. The average legislator does not have the time to do much more than put in a phone call or write a letter on behalf of the complaining constituent.

To handle a complaint in the detailed way of the ombudsman's office requires an expenditure of time, and if the legislators spend time in following up complaints they are necessarily absent from their legislating duties that may demand their presence. It may even cause them to be absent from their primary occupation.

There is another point, one of great importance. When individual legislators handle complaints, the administration is deprived of the enlightenment given by the accumulation of information about similar cases. What may appear to be a solitary complaint may be one of a large pattern which it would be important to recognize. A number of complaints of the same nature passing through the ombudsman's office would ring a warning bell, calling attention to a condition that needed investigation.

Under the pressures of new services and policies, the work of agencies expands, not only in volume but in new areas. Governmental administrators have become greatly concerned. I've had a number of them support the idea of the People's Advocate. Complaints are not always of some fault by a civil servant, but result from the confusion a citizen feels when caught up in the complexity of governmental structure necessary to supply services. In fact, Mr. Doi in Hawaii found that in 64 percent of the complaints the government was right. While making sure that the government agencies do not exceed their power or exercise it in an unreasonable way, the People's Advocate findings protect the agencies against unjustified complaints. In New Zealand, the civil service has come to regard the ombudsman as a defense against unjustified criticism rather than as an enemy.

If the People's Advocate makes a finding that is unfavorable to an agency, he does not then become a prosecutor or judge. He has no authority to reverse, alter or annul a decision. He cannot take any disciplinary action. He uses admonition and suggestion. He may recommend an appropriate change in the rule or laws that caused the complaint to be made. His weapons are in his report to the Legislature in which he brings the grievance to attention and recommends that it be redressed. Further, he may use the press or other news media to gain public support and hopefully correction of the difficulty.

As you can see in this proposal, I have left the machinery and the name for setting up the office of the People's Advocate entirely to the Legislature. There are many articles and suggestions by which the Legislature can proceed. They will need to define his independence, his responsibility, his status, investigative power, need for impartiality, the powers of recommendation, and notice to the complainant. Hawaii's system is outlined in the summer issue of the 1970 State Government Magazine.

What kind of a person is he, must he be? Dr. Randy Hamilton defined the ombudsman at a conference in San Francisco in May 1969 in this way:

"An ombudsman can be characterized briefly as a high level officer with adequate salary and status, free and independent of both the agencies he may criticize and the power that appoints him, with long tenure of office sufficient to immunize him from the natural pressures of seeking reappointment, with the power to investigate administrative practices on his own motion, and this, of course, is the most important. He is a unique officer, whose sole job is to receive and act upon complaints without charge to the complainant. He should have power to subpoena records. He operates informally and expeditiously. His principal weapons are publicity and persuasion, criticism and reporting. He does not have the power to punish maladministration or to reverse administrative decisions."

I see that his qualifications for his personal ability much like that of any other official for whom I vote. Some have suggested a respected, but retired, legislative leader, others have said young lawyers, others older administrators who are about to retire. I leave this to the Legislature. Some suggest a legislative appointment some executive appointment, some judicial appointment. I leave this to the Legislature.

In conclusion, the ombudsman's duty is not merely to act as a buffer between the individual and authority, but to be actively employed in promoting justice.

The welfare of the people is the supreme purpose of government. Grievance-handling machinery should be designed so as to provide easily accessible judicial review, flexible disposition of cases, and speedy judgment. But the ombudsman must not be so just that he forgets to be humane, nor can he be so generous that he neglects to be just. Those who appear to him should remember that he is not there to dispense favors, but to safeguard rights. He gives the feeling of security. He is a friend at court who will see that attention is given the complaint. He may advise the deletion of certain offices or the reduplication of offices in the government. The people will find it less necessary to parade and demonstrate to call attention to their grievances, instead they will come to the ombudsman.

The People's Advocate helps to keep the balance between the increasing encroachment of governmental administration and the citizen's rights.

I feel that this is so greatly important that it should be firmly in our Constitution. I strongly urge its support for this much needed office. Those of us that are close to government hear hundreds of complaints and searches for justice and/or misinterpretation of administrative decisions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE WARNER: Mr. President, my fellow delegates:

I rise in support of the ombudsman, something I have read about, studied for years.

Not so long ago a political columnist said: "Instead of two political parties in this great nation we have three; we have the Republicans, we have the Democrats, and we have the Bureaucrats. And the Bureaucrats are the most popular."

As one who has served both in and out of bureaucracy, I have seen the Macedonian cry in the wilderness by the poor and the oppressed. And I have seen the form letters mimeographed and sent out to those that are brushed off so easily when they try to bring their complaints to the proper department. I sincerely believe that this could be one of the greatest steps forward that this Convention could make is to give the common people, the poor people, the people who have no other place to go, some office to go to and seek redress against their government.

I am going to be brief. The American Bar Association Administrative Law Section says in one brief paragraph exactly what I believe:

"The ombudsman system is one of the institutions essential to a society under the rule of law, a society in which fundamental rights and human dignities are affected. Human rights are not protected simply by a constitution or by legislation, by guarantees or by speeches, by proclamations or declarations, but primarily by the availability of remedies. The ombudsman system is one of the remedies which seeks to preserve human rights."

I sincerely and respectfully urge every delegate in this Convention to support the ombudsman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President: I, too, rise in support of the principle embodied in Delegate Proposal 2-26. I do so for two reasons; one, having served as a state legislator for a number of years I found that very frequently I had citizens call on me to intercede on their behalf for some problem that we had with some state agency. Very often, of course, their problem — or the state agency I found was technically correct. It had been correct in their ruling. But these people found a great deal of satisfaction in the mere fact that they had someone that they could talk to, that there was someone that was sufficiently interested in their problem to intercede on their behalf.

The other part of the problem was simply this; that as a legislator, and like so many other people that served in the Legislature, I found it necessary to make a living. And I did not have the time to devote to this sort of thing that I would have liked to have given. In some instances I discovered that it would have — it did require a considerable amount of time pursuing these matters to some conclusion.

Therefore, I do believe that we have here a principle which I believe is good and one that I heartily endorse. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: We've heard how this Delegate Proposal is idealistic, and it is great in theory, and I agree. And certainly nobody should be without ideals. But I also, as I listen to the proponents of this proposal, envision that one man could not possibly handle the jobs we have outlined for him here. I see another bureau, and I see another layer of government. And we certainly don't need either one of them.

I still regard my elected Representatives, my Senators, my City Commissioners, my County Commissioners, State's Attorneys, State Auditors, whoever has been elected or appointed in the State, as my ombudsman. If I have a problem, if I have a question, they better well answer me and they better well answer anyone else in the State of North Dakota.

We talk about justified complaints in this proposal. I wonder who is going to determine what a justified complaint is. What determines that? I wonder how much power this man is going to have. Certainly the Legislature is not going to give him more power than they have.

I would also be very interested to know how great the need is. I would like to know how much it is going to cost the people of the State of North Dakota. Once again we are talking about that blank check we are willing to sign and the people of North Dakota are going to have to pay for it. I just cannot imagine that this is a matter for the Constitution, and I would urge that you defeat the proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Schmit.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President:

I want to rise in support of 2-26. I think I'm right in saying that our committee unanimously endorsed this for a "do pass".

Mr. President, I believe by now it's common knowledge that the electorate has been searching for some political vehicle under either of the two national, the two major parties, to turn to. The ombudsman may be the answer to some of the shortcomings of both of our national political parties. I know you are going to say, as Mrs. Stanton did, that we don't need another government agency. But I think we are considering eliminating some — getting rid of some of the less effective ones and put one in that will really — really help the people, it will help bring the government back to the people. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

I'm going to talk for this and vote against it. I think it's a wonderful scheme. I'm not too hardhearted, and I congratulate Delegate O'Toole for the way he's handled it. I wish that I could vote for it. And I might consider it if the word was "may" instead of "shall". But I agree with Delegate Stanton and I have to be a little consistent, we're not going to establish another level of government. I shall have to vote "no" and rather hope it passes.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Government of all kinds, including state government, is constantly growing. And the larger it grows the more endangered the individual becomes. Eric Sevareid recently said: "Sophocles was right. Nothing that is vast enters into the affairs of mortals without a curse." And the curse of big government is the tendency to the abuse of power by large bureaus and agencies and services. The rights of the little guy are often abridged for the sake of official convenience. The ombudsman, as the "People's Advocate," is the answer to this. The ombudsman would help to rescue the individual from the red tape and the frustrations of government bureaucracy. I ask that you support the action of the committee and vote in favor of this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Fellow delegates, the differences in the Bill of Rights Committee have been exposed to you, and on many things we differ. But on one concept I think there was almost unanimous agreement, and that's the concept of equal justice under law. I must confess when my friend Delegate O'Toole came in with this proposal I might have rejected out of habit had it not been for some personal attachment to Delegate O'Toole. I didn't think it was practical, and I wondered sometimes if we had always to be practical. And on that basis I've changed my mind. Sometimes my head tells me that we don't want an extension of government, but my heart tells me that somehow, as Delegate Peterson said the other day, that constitutions must also have a heart. And so I would urge the delegates to give favorable consideration to Delegate Proposal 2-26.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President: I don't suppose we should ever measure services to people in terms of money. But I can see where it might be possible for an office like this to save money in some instances. I wonder if I can give you some figures from the Workmen's Compensation Bureau. The Bureau handles, receives, about, oh, all the way from twelve thousand to fifteen thousand new claims a year. And I think you can understand that out of those twelve to fifteen thousand we're going to have to deny some of them because they don't come under Workmen's Compensation. Then you can also understand of the thousands of claims we do accept some time or other there's going to come a point in most of the cases where we are going to have to tell them that benefits have to be stopped based on medical evidence. Now most claimants will accept our decision, but many of them don't like to take a decision from a bureau that's both judge and jury. So they don't feel that they've been given an honest hearing, they don't — they think sometimes, if I can use the expression, that maybe they've been given a run-around. So that if we cannot solve it, then we have to hold a formal hearing. Now formal hearings are expensive. Many of you lawyers here know, because you have at many times represented the claimants. We have to go to the county where the injury occurred, so that means the expense of a commissioner and the attorney. Then in most cases, if we can get a court reporter, we hire one. And usually the claimant has hired his own lawyer. Now we've had a debate the other day on whether you should pay for legal services for indigent persons. And it may be a surprise to you that the Workmen's Compensation pays for all attorneys' costs. We don't ask if the claimant is indigent, we pay for the attorney who represents him. So you can see these costs add up.

Now I can see if we had an ombudsman, if the ombudsman found out that the bureau isn't right, I can't conceive of a situation where the bureau wouldn't accept his findings. Many times when an attorney calls and says, "We think the claim is just," and he tells us, we accept it without a hearing. Again, on the other hand, if he finds that the bureau is right — and I noted from Delegate O'Toole's facts that in most cases they are right — I think in that case the claimant would be satisfied and a hearing wouldn't be necessary. Now if this is the case with one agency, I can really see where an ombudsman would create a better image for the bureau or the administrative agencies and we might save — take some money, maybe not too much — but we might save a lot of litigation. So I hope you support the principle of ombudsman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: I, too, would like to rise in support of this proposal. I can see this ombudsman being a vehicle by which some of our citizens who are not particularly acquainted with the channels of government to turn to for help, particularly perhaps among our older people who are limited in funds and are perhaps seeking help in various areas and not knowing just which way to go, and amongst our younger citizens that are not yet acquainted with such things.

They can go to this ombudsman, telling him what they need, or perhaps writing to him, and he could direct them in whichever channels and perhaps advise them on various things.

I think also the agencies would be helped in this way in that many times complaints come in because of misunderstandings, and I think that an ombudsman could be a sort of a clearing house for this. I don't think that there would be a great deal of concentration of power in this office as I believe it would be an office to advise and to go about in this way in anything that it did. Even in seeing something wrong in an agency, it would have no more power than just to advise someone to take steps here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President. Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I would also like to rise to support Delegate O'Toole's Proposal No. 2-26.

I'd like to congratulate Delegate O'Toole's enthusiasm, his research, and the talk that he gave. Because he really has said it all.

I believe that this would be — that this "People's Advocate" would be a compassionate addition to our Declaration of Rights.

It's very easy for me or for others of you in this room to call any state official because most of us know all of them. And we have easy access to them. But there are hundreds of thousands of people in our state who cannot do this. And I feel very strongly, as does Delegate O'Toole, that the ombudsman concept would add a lot to our state government.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the — Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: Mr. President: This particular section, and Proposal No. 2-26, disturbs me somewhat in that first line when it says that, "There shall be established by the legislature an independent government agency . . ." And I'm wondering just how independent this ombudsman will be. His office is created by the Legislature, yet who is he really responsible to? He has essentially limited powers. And just what action is going to be taken and what follow-up will be taken by this particular man to alleviate a particular grievance? And isn't it possible that an ombudsman would fall into the same bureaucracy as the agencies themselves?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Delegate Proposal No. 2-26.

Those in favor will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 69 "ayes," 26 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. Delegate Proposal No. 2-26 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-84.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-84, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to right to counsel for indigents in civil proceedings in which the state or its subdivisions are adverse parties, be created.

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"An indigent person shall have the right to counsel at public expense in administrative or court proceedings in which the state, its agency or subdivision is an adverse party."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I have an amendment at the desk I would move the Clerk would read.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendments to Committee Proposal 1-84.

Delete all of lines 8 through 10 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Where a substantial personal right of an indigent person is involved, such person shall have the right to counsel at public expense in all court proceedings in which the state, its agency or subdivision is an adverse party."

Renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the amendment?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

This particular proposal has been down the drain once and back up again. And we are hoping that by this particular amended language we can answer some of the objections that were raised on the floor on January 20th. As you will notice, we have put in a sub — “where a substantial personal right of an indigent person . . .” — I’m sorry — and we have also taken out the “administrative . . .” proceedings.

This coming right after the debate on the ombudsman would carry the theory a little bit further. As you realize from the discussion on the ombudsman, it is just in regard to the administrative procedures. This is at the time where an individual is — has the possibility of losing a substantial amount of money in his particular worldly goods or things of this nature. He can then have the right to counsel at a court proceedings being brought by him or by the state in the particular question.

Now I’m going to ask Delegate Kelsch if he will define for you “substantial personal right”.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Frankly, I’d have to say that I could not state to you exactly what “substantial personal right” is. But I want to assure you that I have no fear with those words in this particular proposal. I think we have advanced a long ways. This proposal as originally written had no limiting words and it almost passed. I think the Committee on Preamble has improved the proposal substantially, and I think that now as it is presented to you it should be accepted.

The reason I have no fear on the — what we are saying, first of all, is substantial — first of all, we are saying it is not an unimportant or frivolous right, it must be substantial. Secondly, we are asking it must be a personal right, that we take out questions involving property. I believe someone raised the point in an earlier debate that if the county was proceeding to take your land for taxes or there was a zoning ordinance dispute, that it — would this provide counsel for the indigent. We are eliminating the areas of property. So we are limiting it to “substantial personal rights”. Now exactly what those words may mean today or tomorrow or fifty years from now will be determined by what a court interprets them to mean. And they will be the final arbiters on what those words mean or when an indigent will be entitled to counsel. I don’t think we should have fear of words like that. I think they are defining words. When our founding fathers put “due process” in the Federal Constitution, what it meant to them at that time and what it means to us today certainly are different things; or the words “equal protection”. And I see nothing wrong or I don’t think we should be afraid of the words “substantial personal rights”. I think they are limiting words. And I have no fear that the courts in applying this will not — will not grant this unreasonably or frivolously in cases unless — unless something substantial is involved, unless it’s personal. And I would urge that you would adopt this as a far-reaching and broad concept in which we are stating that where substantial rights of indigents are involved in court actions where the state is an adversary, they shall have counsel, they shall be represented.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

I’m used to losing blood at these sessions, but I have never been in such a wonderful atmosphere as we have today. We just got through — and I know that the correct pronunciation is ombudsman — with that other one and now we’re going to help the poor people in every respect. But how about the poor taxpayer? Also this poor person pays taxes in this state. He pays, if nothing else, sales tax on every item he buys. And we are going to help him on one hand and raise his taxes on the other. I think it’s a little bit funny at the moment. We haven’t got our feet on the ground this afternoon, as I see it. And this coming on the heels of the other one may make it look worse, but we protect the poor person who’s criminally accused, he has free legal counsel. Or rather the state pays for it, forgive me for saying it is free, and the Legislature several different years lately has raised the rate per day for the attorneys on these cases. I don’t know exactly what it is now, but I know it was doubled a few years ago. And now we’re going to have them come in and get an attorney for any substantial right that’s being threatened.

And one delegate made the remark — I don’t think he meant it — but he said something about a “substantial amount.” If he’s broke, how could he be hurt for a substantial amount? I realize the difference in the wording. But let's not just get so wild and pass everything that comes along. There are poor people who are making their own living and they can get lawyers if they have a pretty good case. Furthermore, we wouldn't want to take all the work away from the poor legislator. I wouldn't have the chance to represent some of the widows, for instance, in my area and things like this. I get about the same number of calls as the other members of the Legislature, and it doesn't keep me from making a living. And the calls to the state agency I might add just before appropriation time is probably more effective than a state paid attorney who is in the legislature. I hope we throw this one in the creek, so to speak.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President: I would like to ask the advocates of this proposal for two or three for-instances. I'm just a little confused as to what we are talking about. And I think if we're all for it it would help me at least if we could have at least a couple of examples of how this might work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'll be happy to give you the example. However, I was not going to speak in favor of the proposal. I think Mr. Lander would find that where a person appeals from an appeal hearing in welfare this would be an instance, and that an appeal would be court, or — well, one instance that is going to be used in the event, as my committee is also proposing, we remove governmental immunity and the state starts having actions brought against it, the state is also going to have to provide the attorney for those actions. And I would be very remiss, as the only practicing attorney on this committee, if I didn't rise in protest. Because I don't want to be a part of setting up a situation where I can earn a living. The way this sets now, if they take out governmental immunity every time that someone runs into a bridge or breaks an axle or anything else and has a substantial whiplash, the state is going to have to provide an attorney to sue themselves. And I am very much against it. I do agree, incidentally, that there should be some privilege made somewhere for instance like the welfare department where you have a person that cannot possibly come up with the money to sue, because they are already on welfare.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President: I might say that I was the advocate of this proposal originally. It's been getting overhauled several times. We might run out of mechanics. But I still firmly believe that something should be done in here. I was advocating from the beginning, as I still advocate, that a person shall have the right to legal counsel if he cannot afford it. I was not talking about the appeals cases with the Welfare Board, I was talking about the state when it would go to the District Court on a dispute with an agency. I was not talking about the appeals part. And I still am strongly in favor of this type of proposal to be passed in some form. And I cannot answer, I'm not an attorney, but some of the words or questions that have arisen here now would amount to, how far reaching it would be the way it's been amended. But I absolutely want something, if at all possible, for the people that cannot afford to argue with a governmental agency when it comes to court.

And, Mr. President, could I further request the remarks of this discussion be entered in the Journal?

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, your remarks will be recorded in the Journal. Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President and delegates:

I address this question to anyone that has the answer as a proponent. I recognize it is the state, its agency or subdivision. I am wondering whether this goes down to school districts and cities, if this is the intent? I do not believe that cities are subdivisions of the state, nor do I believe school districts are. But I'm wondering what the intent of this is so we can bring that out on the floor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will someone answer Delegate Kessel's question?

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, Delegate Kessel: It was intended that it would include political subdivisions. And if that — we are in error, maybe we could move it back to amend it again.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Thank you, Delegate Lamb. In that event, I can see thousands of litigations thundering right down on the small school districts and the small cities. And I certainly must speak against this proposal now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

When this amendment was first brought to my desk I thought everything was just fine, I would have no problem at all supporting it. But I do feel that Delegate Thompson has raised an excellent question that really concerns me. I think the basic premise is good, but I'm concerned that we stay out of this civil area. I don't think there's any concern — there's no concern on my part of the criminal basis or even appeal basis from an administrative proceedings. But as Delegate Thompson proposed, that if this gets into the civil area I am very much concerned and would suggest that there be further amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: I think we should keep in mind that the limiting words are this will have to be "court proceedings in which the state, its agency or subdivision is an adverse party" and there must be a "substantial personal right" involved.

Now someone asked for some examples. If I was a dependent mother, had dependent children, and there was a question of sufficiency of survival or support, I think that's a "substantial personal right".

Now I am speculating here, I'm speculating what a court would be doing if we pass this. So I can't tell you for sure what they would say. We are putting qualified words in the proposal, and I have trust in the judiciary in this state they are not going to be frivolous in the granting of counsel to the indigents.

Also remember we're talking just about indigents. If I were — if my driver's license were taken on an administrative proceeding and I wanted to go to court on it, if we have the concept at this particular time that driving's a privilege in this state, then I think a court would be sound in saying, "You will not be furnished counsel at state expense." If, on the other hand, at some later time we view the right to drive — driving as a right, it might well then say, "If your license has been taken you have a right to counsel in court on that question."

I would agree with Delegate Thompson if we do remove governmental immunity, a subject we have not come to, that it might well be contended in the case of the indigents, the indigent person, that the state would provide as additional damages, if it would be found liable, the attorneys' fees for that person. What we had been doing is taking attorneys' fees on top of the award for damages instead of having attorney's fees come out of the award for damages. I don't know if that's particularly bad or evil.

I would — I think that there are enough limiting words in here to allow courts in the future to define, as we go along with this, where and when an indigent will be provided counsel. I sympathize, as Delegate Rundle pointed out, the taxpayer, the fellow who is not indigent. We can't backtrack on that. We have a lot of other concepts that we have established and are important to those of us who are able to earn money to pay taxes so at least the indigent will stand on somewhat of an equal footing as the rest of us.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Could I ask Delegate Kelsch a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch yield to a question?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Yes.

DELEGATE STANTON: Would you define an "indigent person" for me?

DELEGATE KELSCH: This would be — the definition would have to be determined through the Legislature or through the courts. And that's a fact question.

And I can see that we might decide today that indigency is one thing, ten years from now it may be another thing, depending upon general prosperity. And I am not worried that the Legislature is going to be over generous in defining it, because there's taxpayer dollars involved. Unless the Legislature was unreasonable to make an indigent so poor that it didn't cover any class of people, I think their definition would stand. I don't think we can define a word "indigent" in the Constitution. I think the word has a meaning, and the people in the state at the time, at any particular future year, will apply a definition to it I would hope to be reasonable at that time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton, do you have a further question?

DELEGATE STANTON: Yes, I do. I would like to ask Delegate Kelsch if this excludes the word "poor"? Is that a fact?

DELEGATE KELSCH: I think the committee when it first debated this indicated they were thinking of the word "poor" as they mentioned it. They thought "indigent" was a more limiting word than "poor". "Poor" has a general, broader meaning than "indigent". "Indigent" meaning, I would presume, that you just couldn't — there was no way that you could come up with the money to pay counsel.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President: Now I would like to say something else. I didn't get all the amendment. Is it presumed that the Legislature is going to set this whole system up? Is it in the amendment? I don't see it. I don't believe it's there. I just wondered who was going to —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would you read the amendment?

We'll read the amendment again.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-84.

Delete all of lines 8 through 10 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Where a substantial personal right of an indigent person is involved, such person shall have the right to counsel at public expense in all court proceedings in which the state, its agency or subdivision in an adverse party."

DELEGATE STANTON: Then we really don't know who is to set this up according to this proposal.

Well, I would just like to say that I would like to see this proposal rejected as it was last Thursday by a substantial majority. The federal government has various agencies which do furnish poor people and indigent people with legal counsel. And I think it's up to the governor of the state to either recommend or adopt, or recommend and adoption. And there are many avenues, and this is just much too loosely written for me to accept.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I rise to speak against the amendment. As a constitution maker I speak against the amendment because I believe that it promises a substantial benefit without any promise of performance. And I would dislike to have in the Constitution the words unless they mean something. And I do not believe the amendment means much legally. As a practicing attorney I also speak against the amendment.

Now the amendment states that these expenses would be paid in court proceedings. Well, if any of you have had administrative procedure work you will know that when an appeal is taken from a board it is conducted strictly according to the Administrative Procedures Act. And the rights of the people are usually not protected in the appeal because the appeal is made on very narrow grounds; whether the board has exceeded its authority, whether it's been arbitrary. And actually the place for protection is in the original board hearing itself; which, of course, we rejected the other day. For those reasons I am against the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I would like to speak for the amendment. I believe it is a much better proposal than the original proposal. And I think at this time, while we are talking about the amendment, I would urge you that you support the amendment for that reason.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: When this proposal was before this body the other day it suffered defeat by an 83 to 54 vote. And then the Convention sent it back to the committee, presumably for another look. We certainly didn't view the action of the body as a rebuke at that time, but rather a suggestion that we take a further look at it. And the debate at that time was principally directed against that portion of the proposal which would provide counsel in administrative hearings. So to accommodate what we thought the wishes of the Convention were, we deleted that and we made it far more restrictive.

Now maybe I misinterpreted the action the other day; perhaps it is the objective of the Convention to deny poor people access to courts because they cannot afford a lawyer to get in there. I don't think so. I think this body has a heart, as Delegate Burbidge a little while ago pointed out, and I think that this body will see to it that access to the courts of this State are not denied to people who can't get there because they cannot come up with the fee to pay a lawyer to get them there.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I have a question for the committee, and it's been touched on by Delegate Burke, and that is the record. Now where you take a transcript, bring it up for an administrative hearing, you sometimes have hundreds of pages. I'm wondering if the state is going to be put to the expense of the transcripts and court costs. You say here "right to counsel"; now does that mean also costs, bringing the record forward? It could be in many cases as much as what you'd pay a lawyer.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I didn't speak on the original proposal because I thought it was quite well covered. And I have a fear that some may think that the amendment cures all of the objections. It was said to me awhile ago that we lawyers are not particularly smart to talk against this because of the potential revenue it will create. And I guess if that was our main concern we probably would vote for it. However, I would like to point out something that a couple of days ago we passed a provision which says that eighteen-year-olds and over are now adults. And it occurs to me from the eighteen-year, nineteen-year, twenty-one-year-old people that I know, and merely college students or those right out of high school just getting started, would certainly fall in the category of being indigent. Because they no longer are going — parents will not be responsible to them since they are adults.

In our county one of the big problems that is there, as in other counties that have a number of small towns, are the traffic problems within these smaller communities and the law enforcement that exists. As you know, they are all cities now and they all have their own court system. However, there are no lawyers that live in these cities. And consequently when these people are brought into court they are either taken into the County Court or they have to have their city attorney come out from whichever town he's located in. In addition to that, we're asking — because I believe the "substantial personal right" would cover the potential jail sentence that goes along with most traffic violations, and what we would be doing in this particular case is forcing these cities to not only have a city attorney on their payroll at all times, but also to defend these indigent teenage drivers over eighteen because of the — they are certainly going to want to have this matter defended because the city will probably say, "Well, we can't afford both so we're going to drop it," and the situation is not going to improve.

The matter of school districts brought out an interesting example to mind. Recently in South Dakota there was a case brought on behalf of the individual's right to wear his hair as long as he wanted to. And the school district had a policy against this. And I know that in North Dakota we've had some of these particular problems. I don't think any of them have gotten to court yet. But I recall an incident up at the public school system in Williston where the matter of the length of hair came up. And the question then is do you want the school district to pay for the lawyer that represents the student that objects to the policy of his wearing his hair the way he wants to? I'm afraid that the provision itself is mandatory, and that the Legislature must act inasmuch as they have got to set up the same procedures to defend a personal right as they do other things. And we are saying that we will provide — force the political subdivisions to provide legal counsel without giving any consideration to the subdivision's ability to pay. And I think all of you are aware that most of these funds for running our subdivisions come from the property owners there. And you have to resolve this question yourself as to how much more of a burden you want to place on these people in return for the good that's intended to come out of this provision. I'm going to have to vote against it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President: I think we can all agree with the concept expressed by Delegate Burbidge that we're in favor of equal justice for all. And I don't think this proposal does that. It only speaks to a part of it. I'm not aware of any specific proposal we have that speaks about the right of indigents to have counsel in all cases where they need it. This is only for the state party. And I think a number of delegates have expressed some of the real problems involved here. I think that without help our Legislature in the next several sessions will be considering some kind of legal aid society. Because we would kill this proposal does not mean that we are opposed to poor people having full rights along with other citizens. But I see some problems with this particular proposal. And I hope if we kill it that the Legislature will in the future make appropriate provisions for legal aid to indigents.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If I may ask the indulgence of the Convention once more to stand on this, then I'll be quiet. But it seems to me that the hesitancy on the delegates is a concern or fear of the expense or cost this may involve. And I appreciate that as a very real thing. But for some time in our history we have had no concern when it comes to property rights.

Someone asked about the costs of proceedings or attorney's fees. If you will look at our present law, and I think it's been a law for some time, Section 32-15-32 — and this is in eminent domain where the state — I remind you that we are talking about the state in this matter, where the state proceeds to take your property, the court may award reasonable and actual — reasonable, actual or statutory costs, or both, which may include reasonable attorney's fees. So we have well accepted in this state, and no one questions the fact, that we will allow to a man where property is being taken by the state that the state shall also provide for the costs and the attorney's fees. Is it too much to ask then that where personal rights, which are considerably much more important than property rights, are involved and only in the case of indigents — is it too much to ask the state also bear that burden?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question —

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: I think on the question of this kind we have many, many reactions. I think the real issue that I have had to decide is do I believe that a person that has been declared an indigent has a right to be represented by counsel in court when the state is an adverse party? And I firmly believe that he has. And, therefore, I urge your support of this amendment.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question has been requested.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, would Delegate Lamb yield to a question, please?

Delegate Kessel brought up the point awhile ago and you mentioned something about subdivisions. Now does this proposal include subdivisions, and does this proposal include all state agencies or just agencies, and are you going to offer amendments to it?

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: I see that there is a couple of omissions in the language. And if this amendment passes, then I will offer the appropriate amendments.

DELEGATE STANTON: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Lamb. Is there any further discussion?

Those in favor of the adoption will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." As many as are in favor of the adoption of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The amendment lost.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on division. Division will be granted. Those in favor —

DELEGATE WARNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE WARNER: I also ask that the division be recorded.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will we have ten delegates stand? That is sufficient number.

Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "yes," those opposed to the amendment will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key. You will record your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 41 "ayes," 55 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. The amendment as offered to Committee Proposal No. 1-84 has failed.

We are now on Committee Proposal No. 1-84 as it was at the start of the day. The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-84.

Those in favor of its passage will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll discloses 28 "ayes," 68 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-84 has been lost.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: May we be on the eighth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE HERNETT: At this time I would like to announce that I expect sometime before we adjourn tonight to move Delegate — or Committee Proposal 1-100 and 1-102 to the head of the calendar to be considered tomorrow morning. I thought I'd announce this now so that in case anybody wants to look at them why you'll have a chance to look at them this afternoon and this evening.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The numbers again, Delegate Hernet?

DELEGATE HERNETT: 1-100 and 1-102. I'm not moving them now, but I will before we adjourn tonight.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Any further discussion? Anything further on the eighth order?

Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: I don't know, Mr. President, if this is on the eighth order or not. Being we are going to work tonight, could we know in advance when we are going to recess and when we are going to come back this evening?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, the Chair will rule that we will recess at five-thirty, we will come back at eight o'clock and go to work.

And while we're on the subject of recess, it's now a few minutes after three. Let's take a ten-minute break. And when we take a ten-minute break, let's try to make it for ten minutes and not make it for twenty minutes or half an hour.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: I'd like to announce there's going to be a meeting right over by Delegate Kelsch's desk of the subcommittee from the Legislative and Executive Functions Committees.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: A number of delegates have been talking about going straight through until six-thirty or seven and having no evening session and having a fairly long, probably a fifteen or twenty-minute break about four o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Hoffner, I don't know whether you're trying to embarrass the Chair or what you are trying to do. But why didn't you make that announcement prior to my calling the time?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I talked to Delegate Saugstad about it. And I thought maybe he was going to make the suggestion and get the feeling of the delegates.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair rules that the Convention will be in recess until three-fifteen.

(The Session recessed from 3:05 P.M. until 3:18 P.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order. The Convention will please come to order.

We'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Representative and Mrs. Robert Grant of District Four are in the chambers.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Grant, Mrs. Grant, approach the rail and be recognized. (Applause)

Was there anything further under the eighth order?

We'll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Are we on the twelfth order, Mr. President?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the twelfth.

DELEGATE LITTEN: I would like to move that Delegate Proposals 2-49, 2-44 and 2-65 be returned to the Convention from the Committee on Education.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-44?

DELEGATE LITTEN: 2-49, 2-44 and 2-65. For the purpose of withdrawal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten moves that Delegate Proposals No. 2-44, 2-49 and 2-65 be returned to the Convention floor. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Motion seconded by Delegate Meidinger.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the proposals are before the Convention.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Fellow Delegates:

The first one is Proposal 2-49, which was introduced by Delegate Peterson. The contents of this particular proposal have been incorporated in another committee proposal. We ask unanimous permission to withdraw it.

However, before that's done, Mr. President, and members of the Convention, I'd like to yield to Mrs. Peterson who would like to make a short statement for the record.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President:

The first part of this is not for the record, the second part is. I just want to say that both of my proposals were dealing with the same subject matter. And since I'm on the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands, I was particularly concerned about education, children, and I had attempted to place the Schools for the Blind and the Deaf under the Department of Public Instruction rather than under the unrelated department where they are now. And this was the intent of my proposal. However, through the work in the committee we have arrived at a consensus, and that is what I wish to have put in the record. And I want to say, too, before we come to the consensus, I am aware there are two classes of people in this world; the appointed and the disappointed. And in this instance I am disappointed, but I hope that by entering this in the record I may clarify at least part of my stand.

The following represents the consensus of the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

It is the clear intent of the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands that the phrase "to provide for special education" of Committee Proposal 1-15, Part One, shall include the following:

1. Education of the handicapped.
2. Education of all visually impaired and audibly impaired educable residents of North Dakota.
3. Education of "all persons" who in future years may be classified as a type of handicapped, or impaired educable person.
4. Education of the gifted.

In other words, "special education" shall include everyone who cannot be educated in the normal classroom under the normal procedure of education.

It is also the consensus of the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands that the phrase "to prevent illiteracy" of Committee Proposal 1-15 shall be a directive for the Legislature to provide for library services.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President: I move the remarks of Delegate Peterson be printed in the Journal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The lady has requested that.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Fine.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: So that will be taken care of.

Then the unanimous consent request to withdraw 2-49, —

DELEGATE LITTEN: Right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — the unanimous consent of the Senate — of the Convention is requested to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-49. Hearing no objection, permission is granted.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey.

DELEGATE BILLEY: I ask unanimous consent to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-44.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-44.

DELEGATE BILLEY: This proposal has been used as an idea for drafting a minority report which will be introduced today, and it serves no purpose at all.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: I would move unanimous consent to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-65. That material has also been incorporated in the educational Proposal 1-15. I respectfully request that it be withdrawn.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Unanimous consent for the Convention is requested to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-65. Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

We'll be on the tenth order of business. First for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-36.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-36, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 202 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 25 and 26 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the manner in which the constitution may be altered.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 202 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Sections 25 and 26 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 25. Any constitutional amendment may be proposed by the legislative assembly and, if the same shall be agreed upon by a roll call vote of two-thirds of the members elected to each house, it shall be submitted to the electors at the next general election. If a majority of votes cast thereon are affirmative, the amendment shall be effective thirty days after the election.

"Section 26. The legislative assembly may by law at any time submit for a vote of the people the question: 'Shall a constitutional convention be called?' If the question has not been submitted once in any thirty-year period, the secretary of state shall place it on the ballot at the next general election."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President: There is an amendment at the desk to this.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to Proposal 1-36 is as follows:

In line 25 of the engrossed proposal following the word "election" add the following: If a majority of the votes cast thereon are affirmative, the legislative assembly shall provide for the election of delegates to, and the holding of, such convention."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now is there a second? Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: You'll find those same words on the copy in your book on lines 21 through 24. They were omitted when the amendments were made.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question — Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman. I wonder about where we state after a "thirty-year period", I myself personally feel that thirty years is too long; that the time limit should probably be twenty years instead of thirty years.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: The committee's choice of thirty years obviously was arbitrary. But the point of the bill is that the Legislature could submit a call at any time. But if nothing else has been done and thirty years have gone by, nothing has happened through the Legislature, then that there's an automatic call for an election, people can have one or not as they please, for a convention.

DELEGATE HENRDICKSON: I rise to a point of order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow delegates, this question of time, I'm wondering, that isn't in the amendment, is it? I believe that's in the substance of the proposal itself.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Question.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Question.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: The question before the body at this time is primarily — is only the amendment as now offered?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct. The proposal as amended.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: And this language was inadvertently left off the amendment as adopted on the sixth order or when we had it on sixth order and so we are trying to put this sentence back on where it belongs. And I don't think that any other matter is before the Convention at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct. When we were talking about the years and so forth, that is not included in the amendment as I read it. The question before the Convention then is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Hendrickson.

As many as are in favor of the motion to adopt will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

Now we are on the Proposal 1-36 as amended.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I move that the rules be temporarily suspended and that Proposal No. 1-36 be deemed properly engrossed and placed on the calendar for first reading and first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson moves the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-36 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and it be placed on the calendar for first — for first passage as amended. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" —

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry. Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I want to resist that motion, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I have an amendment, and I think there is an important part of this thing that we should consider. Or am I out of order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, you are not out of order if you want to resist the motion.

DELEGATE CHASE: That's what I intended to do.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I move to withdraw this proposal — motion. My motion to suspend I'm withdrawing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton seconded. Do you agree to withdraw the second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And Mrs. — Delegate Hendrickson wishes to withdraw her motion to suspend the rules and deem the proposal properly re-engrossed. So we are back on the Proposal 1-36 as amended.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Now to explain the bill as amended. Section 25 of Bill 1-36, this section — first to mention what Delegate Cart brought up earlier in the day about Sections 202 and 25; these two sections of the old Constitution do refer to more than one proposal that we have brought to the Convention floor because 25 has to do with initiative and referendum. So you will see this reference to repeal 25 quite often because it is referred to.

Section 25 deals with the matter of future amendments to the Constitution and has been revised in certain respects and subdivided. The portion we recommend amendment that may be proposed by initiative of election has been taken from this and has been put into the powers of the people. This particular part of constitutional amending has to do with the Legislature. And it has been changed from a majority vote to a two-thirds vote of the members elected to the house. This was changed to two-thirds with the idea that amendments to the Constitution should be given a little more thought and carry a little more weight in the voting assembly than those laws that we put into the statutes.

The second section, 26, as Delegate Sinner told you this morning, we give our thanks to Delegate Lamb for proposing the assurance we would have another election to decide whether or not there should be a constitutional convention. And it provides for the possibility of this being submitted to the electors.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I have an amendment. I don't know whether it's at the desk yet or not.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Not quite.

DELEGATE CHASE: Well, it's a very simple amendment. Maybe I could explain it, Mr. Chairman, if I may.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may proceed while they are preparing it.

DELEGATE CHASE: Article II, Section 25, down on the third line where it says "if the same shall be" — no — "if the same shall be agreed upon by a roll call vote of two-thirds of the members elected", I would like to have that "two-thirds" deleted and made "three-fifths" or sixty percent. If I get a second, I'll explain.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE CHASE: I rather think, fellow delegates, that a two-thirds vote of the legislative assembly to amend this document is too restrictive. Now I have the confidence that this body is going to write a good, acceptable document but not a perfect one. The rule of amendment by the Legislature should be left more open; perhaps restricted by more than a majority vote, but not restricted by a simple majority vote of two-thirds of both houses. I respectfully ask the delegates to consider this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: As you know, it now takes a simple majority vote in both houses to submit a constitutional amendment. Does anyone know how many constitutional amendments the Legislature has submitted since statehood? The figure is 126. That's an average of three every biennial election. 71 one of those were adopted.

Now perhaps it all right to make it easy to amend a constitution when it is largely a statutory document. But we're writing a constitution in which we're endeavoring and largely succeeding, I think to keep statutory matter out of it. Therefore, we thought it should be a little more difficult to amend the Constitution. That's why the committee settled on the two-thirds figure, so we don't have a pouring in of amendments in the next few years, unnecessary amendments, by the way.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I'm certainly opposed to any increase from a simple majority to submit a constitutional amendment to the public. After all, they have the veto power whether the amendment should be adopted or not. And if we proceed along this line and make it more difficult, we are inviting the defeat of the entire work that we have done.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I'd like to support the amendment as offered by Delegate Chase. I wish I had my Scripture in hand, because of some vanity, you know, and I don't think we want to be so vain that we're going to write a perfect document. And I think the Legislature is going to have quite a job in keeping the Constitution relevant. And it doesn't bother me at all that the Legislature is able to propose amendments. I think that the Legislature ought to propose amendments. Perhaps if the Legislature had been able to present more amendments in the past we might not have had to have a Constitutional Convention.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: For the benefit of Delegate Omdahl, as the prophet said, "I have examined everything under the sun, and all that is vanity and vexation be stricken."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman, I rise to support Delegate Chase. A great number of those amendments which the Legislature submitted during the half days two years ago, 126, were necessitated by all of the legislative material that was written into the Constitution. I think there were a dozen or more on public lands. And there were several other vexing, poorly written articles in the Constitution which necessitated all these technical amendments that we have to vote on so often. I think by taking this legislative material out of the Constitution will necessitate fewer amendments being submitted to us. But I see no reason for making it almost impossible to submit an amendment. And again and again we have been told that a two-thirds vote is so restrictive that it can seldom be obtained. I would therefore submit — support Delegate Chase's compromise of a reduction to sixty percent, which is still a super majority but not quite so super super.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the amendment to Committee Proposal 1-36 as offered by Delegate Chase whereby the "two-thirds vote" would be changed to a "three-fifths" or "sixty percent". Any further discussion?

All in favor of the adoption of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment carried.

Now we have Committee Proposal 1-36 before the Convention again as amended.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Further amendment to that.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-36 is as follows:

In line 23 of the engrossed proposal, following the words "called?" delete the balance of the line, and delete lines 24 and 25.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

Any discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Over the summer and fall months we heard quite a bit of discussion among the delegates, largely criticism, of officials, institutions and agencies trying to perpetuate their own institution. The elected officials want to stay elected, the appointed officials want to stay appointed, county officials wanted their designation frozen into the Constitution, the folks in Kickapoo Township wanted to assure the constituents of their supervisory system, everybody that had a special provision or advantage in the Constitution wanted to keep it.

Now we see here with this provision an attempt by the Constitutional Convention to perpetuate itself as an institution. I don't think it's necessary or wise. The Legislature can call a Constitutional Convention at any time, submit the question to the people by statutory action. Simple majority vote, it's not necessary to submit a constitutional amendment. In Committee Proposal 1-105 the people can put the question on the ballot by initiative measure.

This thirty-year figure in the proposal is arbitrary, probably completely unrelated to any need for a future constitutional convention. As it now stands we would have a call on the ballot in the year 2002. Might be a few of us still left around to run for reelection. But I think one of these things in a lifetime is quite enough.

One final point, Mr. President, this Constitution we are writing may not be the greatest document ever struck off by the hand of man, but I think it might be good enough to last longer than thirty years.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Dobson. Hearing no further discussion — Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: Delegate Dobson is a member of the committee that considered this and placed the language that's before you in a proposal. This is the language, the idea that we talked about this morning in Delegate Lamb's proposal No. 2-41. The thinking of the committee was that it's quite obvious, we think, that the time lapse between the last Constitutional Convention and this one was far too long. And, secondly, that for the people to have a chance to vote on the matter in thirty years is not asking a great deal. And if the times change in the next thirty years as drastically as they have in the last ten, thirty years may not be any too soon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I suppose I better get up because my name is being used in vain on several occasions with regard to this particular proposal.

Section 26 is quite a bit shorter than my proposal was; took out quite a bit of the things that I thought were important in this matter. But one thing I think should be said is that we hear so much about the right of the people to decide this and the right of the people to decide that, that we should always give the people the opportunity. What is our fear of letting the people have an opportunity to call a constitutional convention through a noncomplicated method?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: By fortuitous circumstance a quotation has just come to hand in a letter from Thomas Jefferson to Samuel Kercheval dated July 12, 1816, when he was discussing the advisability of revising the then forty-year-old Constitution of Virginia. And he said this:

"Each generation is as independent of the one preceding as that was of all which has gone before it. It has then, like them, a right to choose for itself the form of government it believes most promotive of its own habitants. Subsequently, to accommodate the circumstances in which it finds itself that receive from its predecessors, and it is but peace and good mankind that a solemn opportunity of doing this every nineteen or twenty years should be provided by the constitution so that it may be handed on with periodical repairs from generation to generation to the end of time, if anything human can so long endure."

With the greater longevity of life now I would say that thirty years would probably be about equivalent to nineteen or twenty years in Thomas Jefferson's day. I would support the thirty years.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Fellow delegates, I am not at all sure that the Legislature will be too eager to put the question before the people inasmuch as we — for one reason we just give them an easier opportunity to put forth constitutional amendments themselves. Secondly, I'm not all that sure, as many of us are not, that the people will be accepting our work here. And I think that with these things in mind that we should defeat Delegate Dobson's amendment. I support the thirty years.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Dobson.

Those that are in favor will vote "aye," those opposed will vote "no." As many as are in favor of the adoption of the amendment will say "aye," those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I have an amendment at the desk. I'd like to — now that Delegate Chase has got this down to sixty percent, I'd like to get the "majority" back in there. I don't think that the Legislature has abused this opportunity in the past with a simple majority, and I really feel that it's going to be more important in the future than it has been in the past that we have a constitution that can stay relevant in one way to avoid expensive conventions to have it easy for the Legislature to propose amendments to the constitution. After all, the people in the final analysis will vote whether or not they want to add or subtract from the basic document. My amendment is at the desk, and I move it at this time.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl moves the amendment, it's been seconded by Delegate Hernet.

You will read it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to 1-36 is as follows:

In line 17 of the engrossed bill, after the words "vote of" delete the words "three-fifths" and insert in lieu thereof the words "a majority".

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: At the risk of having Delegate Omdahl quit reading Scriptures to me late in the evening, I am going to oppose this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: One of the reasons the U. S. Constitution has survived in good shape over the years with only 26 amendments, including the original ten in the Bill of Rights, is it requires a two-thirds vote in both houses of Congress to submit ratification to the states. On the other hand, our state constitutions, which you can amend by a majority of the Legislature, are full of statutory, long, wordy superfluous amendments. I resist the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Omdahl, that the figure of "three-fifths" be stricken and — what is the phrase he used —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "A majority."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — and "a majority" be inserted in lieu thereof.

Those in favor of the adopting the amendment will vote "yes" and those opposed will vote "no." Those in favor of adopting the amendment say "aye," those opposed "no." The "noes" have it. The amendment lost.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. I do not have an amendment at the desk, but I do have a question for the committee. I'm not sure what line it is, but it's the last sentence of Section 25. It now states that, "The amendment shall be effective thirty days after the election." I would like to know why the committee proposed this instead of just leaving it up to the amendment? The reason I made my inquiry is I don't have anything in mind but possibly they wouldn't want an amendment to take effect for six months or something like that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can anyone answer the question as raised by Delegate Devine?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I can't — I'm not sure I can give the answer to satisfy him. We did add the amendment in order for the machinery that it takes to put amendments into effect to start working instead of having it immediately. Now I don't know about the six months question you asked. I'd rather refer that to my committee chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President: Possibly to make my inquiry more clear, I thought maybe certain amendments would want to carry a delay in the provision. And I suspect this would be part of this proposal.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman, I have to yield to one of my committee members.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner, can you answer the question?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: In a case like that I think the drafters of the amendment would do what the Legislature often does, they say right in the language of the amendment after such and such a date. And then technically the language goes into effect as required here. But the language in the amendment itself makes it clear when it becomes effective.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I think Delegate Devine has a real pertinent question. I don't think that should be in there. I can see where we might amend — have a constitutional amendment change a general election. And we would like to have the effective date probably the following July simply because it might require another legislative or statutory change to make the thing more effective. And I think it should be left open.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would agree with Delegate Sinner. We tried to set an effective date of thirty days after the adoption so we would avoid the confusion that occurs when an amendment is adopted at the election time. That's the way the old Constitution read. I would think that in most cases if it was important enough to amend the Constitution would want it to become effective immediately if it was that important. At least within thirty days. I think your change of election, that could be provided in the constitutional amendment itself that it would be effective due to a later election. I don't think it's necessary to add any further words.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: To throw a little further confusion, many of these sections that we will be passing need supplementary legislation. And if it's hanging in the balance for some time before then, why it could cause some confusion. I think a good time would be to become effective at the commencement of the following session of the Legislature, but I'm not going to offer any amendment to that effect.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I see no reason why situations like this cannot be handled in the same way that an emergency measure is in the Legislature where you can tie it right down in the amendment itself. And therefore I would support the section as it is.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Now I don't think we should have this thirty days in here either. I don't have an amendment but we could consider an amendment which would say, "The amendment shall bear an effective date." Now I'm not sure whether somebody's going to shoot that down or whether it's that good. But it's an idea. I do think that we should delete this thirty days.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: If this proposal as has been amended and if the rules are suspended, it lays over one day; is that right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's right.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I think it might at this point be a good thing, and we can further check. I think, however, that the amendments could state the effective date, the constitutional amendments could state the effective date. But since there is a question, I think it might be a good idea to have this take its normal process.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, Committee Proposal No. 1-36 will be on the tenth order tomorrow.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-45.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-45, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 28 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 3 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to qualifications for legislative office.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 28 and 34 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Section 3 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 3. Each member of the legislative assembly shall, on the day of his election, be a qualified elector from the district in which he may be chosen."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman: The sections that are being repealed are 28, which refers to the age requirement for a senator, Section 34 which pertains to the age of a legislator in our present Constitution.

This Section 3 which we are proposing simply says that each person we elect to the Legislature must be on the day of his election a qualified elector in the district from which he may be chosen. In effect, this means that anybody who is eighteen years or older will be considered qualified to sit in the legislative assembly.

The committee feels that we have to consider our young people, and that we simply cannot rule them out from political office simply because of age. We know that if we can get them interested in the legislative process and politics at this age that they very likely will maintain this interest and become, as a result, much better citizens.

We also feel that when you're electing people to the legislative assembly that if you feel that you have say a nineteen-year-old person who you think will make a good and effective legislator, that it should be your prerogative to elect this person to the Legislature. In other words, because the rest of us live in a different district we cannot, in effect, tell you that this nineteen-year-old just won't do. If you feel this is the kind of representation you want, we feel that you should be able to have it.

This question of age was discussed very thoroughly last Friday. And I urge the Convention to support this proposal as we have it. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman: There is an amendment before the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-45 is as follows:

"On line 14 of the engrossed proposal after the period insert the following language: "Each person shall at that time be at least twenty-one years old if a candidate for the house of representatives and at least twenty-one years old if a candidate for the senate.'"

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

Delegate Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: This came in as an amendment but it was originally a minority report. On this minority report we did have six signers, and I know there was one absent that day that would have signed it also. So there were seven in our committee that I know were definitely in favor of the twenty-one years of age. Although last week, if you will recall, we did have an amendment on this section leaving it exactly as it was in our old Constitution, twenty-one years of age for the house and twenty-five years of age for the senate. But since that time there have been some drastic changes made from this body of delegates lowering the age to twenty-one on state elected officials and making eighteen years old adults. After some consideration we decided to change this, amend it ourselves to twenty-one years of age. We definitely feel that they should have some knowledge and experience in this particular field to help make the right laws that we need. I don't think we are going to have to go through all this eighteen-year-old business as we did last week and the earlier part of this week, but I did check on some statistics from some other states which I have. But I might add this before I give you the quotations of these other states. I suppose if the federal government told the State of North Dakota or all the other states that you could age — that you could vote at an age of sixteen we would then qualify these people also to become eligible for our legislators. This seems to be the pattern that we're taking on this particular section.

But in some other states that I have reference to we have 23 states that are using the ages of twenty-one for the House of Representatives, three states using twenty-four and five states using twenty-five. We have 22 states using twenty-five for the Senate, one state using twenty-six, one state using twenty-seven, and seven states using thirty. At that time your adult was twenty-one years of age.

Now throughout this Convention all of our responsibilities and additional powers are being given to the legislators. That's all we're doing, we're passing the buck; we give them to the legislators or as prescribed by law. I think it's time to take a look at this document and think of the people that we will be electing to our Legislature. We, in our committee, are not opposed in any way to young people being interested in governmental affairs, I think it's good. But we do think that they should have some experience in this type of work. An eighteen-year-old will be campaigning at the age of seventeen years of age. What about your colleges? You can't kid me that a bunch of students at the universities, state colleges, whatever we have, if they unite they will carry a tremendous impact on any vote that they want to come out and really do it right and they can elect — I'm sure they can elect some of their own people in their own age limits. And I'm afraid they'll do so. We have seen that in two instances now already, we do have a couple of nineteen-year-old mayors. But I'm sure that if we look at this document, we want to give our people something good, the State of North Dakota, yet we have to have the right type of people in here to administer our laws. I therefore ask you people to support our amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Mr. Chairman. Mr. President. Right here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Thank you. Fellow delegates:

At this time I would like to speak on behalf of this amendment. But I will not belabor you on the merits of this amendment. These past few weeks we have been increasing the work load of the legislative assembly. Therefore, in my opinion, we must set standards and guidelines for the individuals who are seeking membership in the legislative assembly. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: I stand on the same-based argument that I gave the other day with respect to lowering the ages from twenty-three to twenty-one, except this time I am saying let us retain the article of the majority — the proposed article 1-45 — Proposal 1-45 before us. And let us leave it as it is. I speak against the amendment and again for the same basic reasons I gave the other day.

I think I at least tried to explain my views at that time. I do feel with respect to the comment on the fears of college youth overrunning and taking over local government, running for these offices, is in my opinion not a very good argument. I don't mean to demean that argument at all, but I don't agree with it. And I simply cannot see the reason in it. And I do believe it's a reflection of a fear. I don't think that it is a fear that is so based on all the rational arguments that they are always so necessary. I think that I will just fall back on my argument the other day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I merely wanted to call the attention of the Convention to the simple fact that when the Federal Constitution was amended here recently lowering the voting age to eighteen years they did not lower the voting requirements — the eligibility requirements for a senator from thirty years or being a member of the lower house of Congress, the House of Representatives, from twenty-five. I do think that it's reasonable to have some little maturity to hold these offices.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: Let's not confuse the issue here with the age of an elected official or the age of a legislator. We are talking about two different things here. And I feel that the legislator, be he eighteen or be he fifty, has a right to run in a certain legislative district. The citizen in that political subdivision has the right to choose who he wishes. And I want to remind you, too, that we several days ago did agree for the most part that an adult — an eighteen-year-old would be classified as an adult for all purposes. And I think this purpose is one of the very most important ones. It may very well be that any of us in our own area would wish to elect an eighteen-year-old.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I had occasion to spend a lot of time with a group of nineteen-year-olds this summer, and they were creative, innovative. At my age you tend to become stereotyped, you tend to become rather much of a conformist. And I feel that a little of this blood in the legislative assembly would be an excellent thing if they could get the party to support them and run for the legislative assembly.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I dislike people who vote against eighteen-year-olds; this is not what we are talking about at all. I think we all think a great deal of the young people in the State of North Dakota. All we are asking here is a little responsibility. At eighteen most people have just gotten out of high school. They really haven't even gotten out of the nest, and I don't think their responsibility starts to grow and mature. And you will find a great difference in your youngsters between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one. And all we are asking here is a little responsibility. And, as I have said before, I don't think the eighteen-year-old would resent this either. I realize we are on a youth kick here, but I think that we owe the people out there in the State of North Dakota a little more responsible action here. I think the other day we opened the door of all the bars in the state to eighteen-year-olds and we're going to have some repercussions there. And I think there would also be some repercussions here. All we are asking is that in order to run for the State Legislature that you be twenty-one years old. It's simple.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

I like the amendment for a couple of reasons; one, that there is no reason why the senators should be older than the house members. I like that part of it. The idea of qualifications is now. And I would like to ask a staff member, perhaps the Chief Clerk quickly can answer me one little question — and I support the amendment that's been offered — what is the average age of this assembly?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 51.9.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — it's been used here on the Convention floor. However, I do not recall the figure.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: 51.9.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 51.9 years.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I would support the amendment. It should not be unreasonable to establish a minimum qualification for holding office. And I think that the college community could have some problems. Maybe we're being a little bit worried about it, but there is a chance that we could have some real problem when we let that eighteen-year-old vote and if we are also going to let him run for office. There is a lot of responsibility being transferred to the Legislature. And we should consider that.

I did receive a letter this summer that's relating to our ages. And we're talking about the age of 51.9 years for the delegates here. This is the average. And I just would like to read part of this letter to you. This is from a young person who was writing to express her opinion on the Constitution.

"Dear Delegate Aas: I think a person should be a governor when he is eighteen years of age because if they can vote and they are eighteen years of age they should be able to be a governor. If you are responsible enough and the people want to vote for you, I think you should be able to run."

Then here is the real kicker: "I also think that the age should stop when they are fifty years of age because they can't think as well as before. And we want North Dakota to be the best."

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May we have order in the Convention?

DELEGATE AAS: There is a P.S., a postscript, on here. And I would like to read that, too. It says: "P.S. I started a petition and gave a speech and a lot of people are for it."

And so I think that the average age here is beyond the age of the idea of some people. And as Rundle said earlier, he thought at one time they should shoot them at age fifty. But we are going to stop them at age fifty. Well, my point is that we have all kinds of persons and all kinds of prejudices, but should we not establish a reasonable age at which we can hold office? And if twenty-one is compatible with the executive, why not the legislative?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President: Before moving here to Bismarck for this Constitutional Convention most of my time was spent, and will be as soon as the Convention is over, with the college students as I work with the national office of one of the sororities. I spend a great deal of time on college campuses and I could speak at length for my admiration of college students. But I don't think that's the point. I think the point is that we want the responsibility, and where the responsibility should be. And I think we should give this to the people who are electing the delegates. And that's not those of us sitting here, but it's the delegates that live in the districts from which these — these legislators will come. And I speak in support of the majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: I just wanted to clarify a misunderstanding that I think came up on the floor the other day and was repeated here now. I thought the same thing was true. But when we made eighteen-year-olds adults for all purposes, Representative Hilleboe told me last night we didn't really let them into the bars because it's the statute that's controlling that specifies age. It says nothing about whether they are adults or not. I just wanted to correct that misapprehension.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question — Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President: In our district by selection we were, I think, proud in both political parties to have twenty-one-year-olds nominated by both of the major parties in the legislative house race. And I think it was a compliment to our political district that it happened, it was a compliment to both of the major political parties in our district that it happened. Neither one of them was elected, needless to say. But I might suggest that I think the right of those people to seek that office at that age and the fact young people have a say in both of the major political parties in our district had an impact in participation of young people and the attitude of young people toward the Minot community. And I think that that's all we're saying here. And as Delegate Hendrickson said it so well, the voters will make that ultimate decision but that the majority of the floor here which supports the right of the individual to seek the office at that age is the correct position for this kind of convention to take.

I came into this House of Representatives at a rather young age. I distinctly remember my first day in here because three of us under the age of thirty were elected. We sat right in the first three seats in this row. I sat in the seat now occupied by Delegate Rosendahl. And I can still remember the fellow coming up to the rail that had been in here many years, he had a $150 hand-tooled cowboy leather outfit on and some cowboy boots, and he looked over the rail at us three and his face was the picture of disgust as he looked at us and said, "Would you guys like to know how to stay out of trouble when you're down here?" And we said, "Yes, sir." And he said, "Vote no on everything."

Now I might say that that is the philosophy reflected all too often by some of the legislators in this house and, indeed, across the aisle. And I think the fact of the matter is that we maybe do need, as somebody else has suggested, a little young blood to temper that once in awhile and maybe some progressive philosophy of that kind wouldn't exactly damage the State of North Dakota. That is provided the voter would elect that person at age eighteen in his own district. And that's the real serious question that we are facing here. And I think that should be left for that voter.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Diehl.

DELEGATE DIEHL: Mr. President, members of this Convention:

There has been a lot said, and perhaps it's a little late to come in on this, I hesitate to rise and talk on this subject lest I be misunderstood by the young people. And I love the young people. I've been a 4-H Club leader for fifteen years, served in Boy Scout work, and I've taught Sunday School a number of years. I know that the youth of today are very knowledgeable, but have they any more experience to draw from than the youth of yesteryear? I maintain that the place for young folks in the late teens and early twenties is in school preparing themselves for future leadership. I don't think they should be anxious in these things. Should we deny them the excitement of anticipation of what's coming? We've probably been a little too permissive in other things. As parents I know we have. Now we want to be permissive in this area. I think we are — we ought to take a second look at these things.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: I rise to support the amendment. And I hate to bring things always down to sub-basic issues. But we normally devote a great deal of time and money to campaigns. And I don't really think that I want to underwrite the expenses of an indigent candidate.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

A comment was made regarding the effect of the eighteen-year-old decision that was made earlier. And I do want to advise the Convention I have been in conference with the Attorney General's office. The distinction between regulating age groups under our current Constitution and under the proposal as passed is that our current Constitution does not state that any particular age group classifies people as an adult. That's the reason that we have different ages established throughout the Constitution. Under the bill that we now have, the proposal that we have passed, then it is the feeling that all of these distinctions that have been made on an age over eighteen will be abolished; that including the liquor one.

There was a time we used to talk about if they are old enough to vote they are old enough to drink. And maybe if they are old enough to drink they are old enough to serve.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: I was not going to speak on this, but I think we missed a very important point; and that is what is the attitude of the eighteen and nineteen-year-old toward these things? Last year I had the privilege to be invited to speak at convocations in twenty-seven universities and colleges in this country. And the question always arose, "What about the eighteen-year-old?" And I came away at the conclusion of the season feeling that the eighteen-year-old first wanted to be a youth. We're taking away from him an enjoyment and the fun of being young and saddling him with an adult responsibility perhaps before he may want to be. And I also find that in my twenty-eight years in the college classroom that the eighteen-year-old was not always the one who sought distinction; but when they get to twenty, yes, twenty-one, they were ready. And I felt that they were ready. I feel that probably we are being concerned about something here that we haven't counseled with the youth on across the board. Maybe we are like the mother who had her eighteen-year-old freshman enter college. And when he had gotten started nicely why one of the neighbors asked her, "Is your son studying to be a doctor?" And she immediately answered, "Right now I hope he is studying to be a sophomore." And maybe this has a little bit of correlation here. Let us let them be sophomores before we give them this tremendous responsibility of creating law and establishing the citizenry with all of the regulations and orders that we have to live by. And I have just read the rule on length of debate, and so help me I'm going to quit.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I wasn't going to get into this, but just a short comment. We'll have to remember that the Legislature more than any institution in our society reflects the people. And when we say twenty-one, we're leaving out the eighteen, nineteen and twenty-year-olds. These people have a right to also participate in the represented form of government. I hope the amendment is defeated.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. President: I only want to say ready or not, we have a problem in the northern part of our state in regards to eighteen-year-olds. Remember they allow them to go into Canada and drink beer. And I live on Highway 83 and I see a lot of them going over. And I see them coming from miles. I only thought it might be of interest to the delegates.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'd like to yield to the expert, Mr. Hardmeyer.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any comments from the expert?

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hardmeyer.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: In answer to Delegate Thompson, there is some difference in teenagers, those that are eighteen. But I would not be afraid to send one. I would make my judgment on each individual. But I have had some that I thought were qualified and I have some that I have my doubts about. But maybe I wasn't the right father in the right place all the time. But by and large I would certainly think we would be doing the State of North Dakota the right thing by adopting the proposal to allow the eighteen-year-olds to serve in the Legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: I started this out and I thought "Boy, here is something we don't have to spend much time on." I have learned so much I would like to be real brief and I hope wind us up. All our proposal does, it doesn't say we are going to have a Legislature composed of eighteen-year-olds or nineteen-year-olds or twenty-year-olds; it says let's make the eighteen and the nineteen and the twenty-year-olds eligible to serve. That's all it says. And I hope that the amendment is defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol, you wish the floor?

The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Berg. Those in favor of the adoption of the amendment vote "aye," those opposed vote "no." The Chair is in doubt. We will open the key. Those in favor of adoption of the amendment will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will indicate your choice. Is the key open?

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Maybe some of you don't know —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just wait until the vote is announced.

DELEGATE BERG: I'm sorry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Unless you are going to change your vote or something.

DELEGATE BERG: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The vote indicates 41 "yes" votes, 54 "no," three delegates absent and not voting. The amendment failed.

Now Delegate Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Most of you probably don't know, but I happen to be a mortician. I was going to just announce a short funeral service for my amendment to 1-45. And the services will be conducted in Room 327 at the Town House Motel with burial in a non-profit cemetery.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are still on the Delegate Proposal No. 1-45. The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Delegate Proposal No. 1-45. Hearing no further discussion, those that are in favor of first passage will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 84 "ayes," 11 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-45 has passed.

We will be on the —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Fifth.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — fifth order of business — committee reports.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A Majority of your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-15 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Devine, Engstrom, Fritzell, Jestrab, Lander, Larsen, Litten, Meidinger, Sanstead and Sullivan.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the Majority Report be adopted.

Mr. President: A Minority of your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-15 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the Majority Report be amended, and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Billey, Christensen, Griffin, Knudson, Peterson and Poulson.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Billey moves that the Report of the Minority be adopted.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the Minority Report.

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President: I would like to move that Proposal 1-15 be held at the desk for consideration until after the time of consideration of Committee Proposals 1-100 and 1-102 and that copies of the Majority and Minority Reports be placed on the delegates' desks.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The second number was 1-

DELEGATE LANDER: 1-102. Has it been seconded?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Lander that the two reports — or that the Minority and Majority Reports of Proposal 1-15 be held at the desk until after such time as Committee Proposals 1-100 and 1-102 have been acted upon. The motion was seconded by Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: I would like to explain that we are doing this with the consent and approval of our entire committee. And the reason for it, hopefully, although we don't say too hopefully any more, that it will be saving of the Convention's time. Our proposal, both Majority and Minority, relate to the organization of education on a statewide level. We feel that although there is a little bit of chicken and egg involved, that it would be more helpful for the Convention if it could have its deliberations on the executive department first, and those are the ones which we are talking about, 1-100 and 1-102, those are the reports of the Executive Functions Committee, and we feel that you will be able to discuss our proposals more intelligently in the light of whatever you decide as a result of 1-100 and 1-102, and thus we ask that you do not ask us to defend our respective positions until after that time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on Delegate Lander's motion that Committee Majority and Minority Reports on Committee Proposal No. 1-5 be held at the desk until after Convention action on Committee Proposal No. 1-100 and 1-102 have been given consideration.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey.

DELEGATE BILLEY: I am a part of the minority, and I just want to say that as far as we are concerned this procedure is perfectly acceptable.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question before the Convention —

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — is on the motion — Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I have no — this is fine with us. The only thing is I think you in your motion said Committee Reports 100 and 102. It's the proposals which are on the calendar.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: It's all right. It's okay.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

As many then as are in favor of adopting the motion as stated by Delegate Lander will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and these reports will be held at the desk until after Proposals No. 1-100 and 1-102 have been considered by the Convention.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-25 has had the same under consideration; recommends the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal 1-25, that it be given a "do pass". Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-25 will be placed on the sixth order.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-26 has had the same under consideration; recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal 1-26 that it be amended and then given a "do pass". Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. This will be on the sixth order tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-29 has had the same under consideration; recommends the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report of Proposal No. 1-29, that it be amended and then given a "do pass." As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report's adopted, and this will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-81 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-81, that the proposal be indefinitely postponed. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: This is the proposal which would provide for cumulative voting for legislative candidates in multi members districts. The committee is recommending in its reapportionment proposal that no district elect more than two senators. And, therefore, we see no need for including this particular proposal in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-81; that it be indefinitely postponed. As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-120 has had the same under consideration; recommends the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-120, that it be amended and then given a "do pass". Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. This will be on the sixth order tomorrow.

Fellow delegates, we are happy to report that all proposals are out of committee.

We will proceed — we will be back on the tenth order of business. Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-53.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-53, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 23 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to freedom to obtain employment.

“SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 23 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

“SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“There shall be no discrimination against a qualified person’s right to practice a trade or profession or to obtain or hold employment because of race, color, sex, creed, or membership or nonmembership in a trade or labor organization or professional group.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: I doubt that there is a proposal before the Convention to receive such extensive discussion and debate. A week ago we talked at length on this, and you came to a conclusion that as a group you approve the concept. It then went on the sixth order, and last Friday some amendments were made and some discussion was held at that time as to the reason for the new language and so forth. I have no reason to belabor the thing further. I believe it’s been quite adequately pointed out to us, and I think our memories are good. If there are some questions involved that you would be interested in, I’m sure that members of the committee would be glad to answer them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman: I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-53.

Delete everything after line 9 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

“All citizens of this state shall have the right not to work.”

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Hougen, Jim Hougen.

Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman, I feel that this amendment is legislative as well as the Burbidge amendment or proposal. But I put it in for one reason, that the final end of discussion will be this as far as I’m concerned. We talk about the right to work in North Dakota. Certainly a few years ago when the court ordered the people, the workers in the City of Minot back to work, they didn’t have a right to work, they were ordered back by the court, denied a right to work. They were forced to work. I say they should have the right not to have to go back to work. The school teachers in the City of Minot were forced back to work by a court order, tried to be forced back to work by court order. Some of them went to jail to defy going back to work. Some of these people spent twenty-five years in that school system, they lost their jobs out of it, 122 of them. Were we worried about those 122 people? No, not very much. Then we are worried about somebody having the right to work in North Dakota under a false name, I say. I believe, myself, that this is wrong. Under the Burbidge proposal actually what we are talking about here is this:

In my estimation this is what would happen; all we do is — do is favor the big corporations from out of state and give them an opportunity to use cheap labor in North Dakota, at the same time making the big corporations bigger and eliminate the small corporations. I personally know how the big corporations operate as I deal with several of them. Through my efforts, I have cost the large corporations doing business in North Dakota millions of dollars which they would have taken out of the State of North Dakota. But, through the efforts of organized labor, millions of dollars are returned to the workers and spent in the State of North Dakota.

The Burbidge proposal would only drain the millions of dollars out of the State of North Dakota into other states by the big corporations.

There were only two non-business people appearing before our committee in favor of the right-to-work provision. All other testimony came from the business world. The two that testified that were not business people may not have understood the law completely. I noticed in the press that GNDA favored the right-to-work. The GNDA is made up of businessmen, what else could you expect them to say? If labor would take a poll I am sure we could get the same type of poll in the reverse.

The press said a few days ago that the Republican Party favored the right-to-work. This may be the opinion of the press, but I do not believe that the complete Republican Party favors the right-to-work. I have talked to some Republicans high in office who feel that the Constitution should not contain the right-to-work provision. They feel this is legislative.

I know that there's a big majority of Republicans in this Convention who are supposed to be nonpartisan, and I would hope that the party politics would stay out of the Convention as well as favoritism.

The right-to-work law has never covered the employees working for the railroads or airlines as they are under federal law even living in North Dakota. The right-to-work is misleading. My own daughter graduated from Minot State College in May of 1970 with a BA Degree in sociology. She attempted to get a job as a social worker in the State of North Dakota. She was told she had to take the merit test. She attempted to take the merit test but was refused until December 1970. Therefore, she was technically denied a right-to-work because of the merit system in North Dakota.

We are not asking for a union shop; all we are asking for is the delegates to leave legislation in the Legislature and not include it in the Constitution.

Just a few years ago the employees of the City of Minot went on strike to try and better their working conditions and wages. They were ordered by the court to return to work. It is the right — is this a right to work or not to work? A few years ago the schoolteachers in Minot, North Dakota, went on strike to better their working conditions and wages. They were ordered to return to work. Some of them were jailed, 122 were fired because of the strike, not because they were not qualified to teach. Some of the teachers had worked in that school system for over twenty-five years.

I ask myself why were they denied the right to work? In the past private employers and public employers have used the courts as a vehicle, and the Constitution of the State of North Dakota, to deny their workers their rights to better working conditions and wages.

In closing, it is not too late for some of you to change your minds and vote against the Burbidge proposal.

I want to thank you for indulging on the time, and, Mr. Chairman, could I have my remarks, which are at the desk, printed in the Journal?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, they will be printed in the Journal.

The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I think that the majority in this Convention has very clearly made its will known. And I don't think it makes any sense to continue contesting an issue. However, I think when we vote on this — I thought about something as I was driving home last week-end — that I think the labor people probably feel that the new language is more restrictive than the old language. And so I am more concerned now about passing the Constitution which includes all the decisions of the Convention. And it seems to me that we're leaving them with a motive to vote against the new Constitution because the language that's particularly of concern to them is more restrictive than the old Constitution; therefore, they would benefit from a defeat of the new Constitution and saving the old Constitution. And I think we ought to be aware of this. And I would hope that sometime before the Convention is over we might be able to resolve this problem in some manner.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Hubrig.

Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. President: I think the newspapers said at the time of the first discussion that some forty-three delegates talked on this issue. And I think when it was up the next time there must have been another twenty. So there have been thirty of us, something like that, that haven't said anything up to this point. I've been sitting here debating whether I should. But I do feel that it is important, it's really important. I was home — well, I go home each week-end. But last week-end this right-to-work section was on my mind, and I visited with some of my neighbors about it. And they are all farmers. And I find that not all farmers want this right to work in the Constitution. Some of them feel pretty strongly about it. I visited with three young fellows; they felt that the Legislature was contradicting what I had told them should be the purpose of a new Constitution, that was to keep legislation out of it and not to let the prejudices and the pressure of the present interfere with the document that's going to govern us in the future. They — and these were progressive young farmers. And I really think that on the basis of this one issue itself they might vote against it. They feel that — they feel — whether it's right or wrong — that the prosperity and welfare of farmers is bound up to the prosperity of labor in this state. And after that discussion I didn't feel too bad about the future of North Dakota, but I do feel that if we pass this section in its present form that I'm not very optimistic about the future of our new Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hubrig. Those that are in favor of its adoption will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." As many as are in favor of the — of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" — those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" and those opposed will vote "no." The "noes" have it. And the amendment lost.

Now we are back on the proposal as before the Convention, 1-53.

Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I have a simple amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-53 is as follows:

On page 1 of the engrossed proposal delete lines 10 through 14 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Every citizen of this state shall be free to obtain employment wherever possible."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Hardmeyer.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Last Friday I offered an amendment to retain present Section 23. And criticism was directed against the wording of the present section, and particularly the words "maliciously interfering or hindering" and the words "shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor". Nonetheless, many delegates and numerous citizens across the state have expressed a desire to retain the pertinent parts of present section 23 rather than adopt the proposal before us embodied in CP 1-53. This amendment is brief, simple, concise. It applies to everyone. It says simply, taking the words from old Section 23: "Every citizen of this state shall be free to obtain employment wherever possible . . ." Mr. President, this is the amendment that will save the new Constitution. I urge a favorable consideration. I request a record vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? A record vote has been requested. It requires ten delegates to rise. That is sufficient number.

Now those favoring the adoption of this amendment will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 39 "ayes," 56 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. The amendment as offered failed.

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-53. Those in favor will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 66 "yes" votes, 28 "no" votes, four delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-53 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal 1-57.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-57, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to equal enjoyment of public accommodations, be created.

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"All persons shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages and accommodations of any public accommodation, without discrimination or segregation on the ground of race, sex, color, religion or national origin."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: I have an amendment to 1-57 at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-57.

On page 1, line 12, insert the following words:

"No public funds may be expended in support of any organization which unjustly discriminates solely on the basis of race, color or national origin."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Aubol.

Any discussion?

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: If I may explain the amendment, it is similar to the one that was proposed by the committee the other day. It differs in that some of the words were deleted out of that former committee amendment. And I have, instead, I have deleted the words out of that former amendment that was proposed in the selection of its membership. And I have included the words "unjustly" and "solely" in this amendment.

The language suggested here provides that unjust discriminations are illegal if based on race, color or national origin. The language strongly suggests to the use of the word "solely" that distinctions based on race, color or national origin are to be examined closely to determine whether they are unjust; and, if they are, they would thus violate this section.

The reasons for suggesting this amendment is that — are that the organizations which are based on race, color or national origin which are of cultural interest should not be harmed by a section such as this. And talk about such organizations as perhaps the Sons of Norway, whatnot, which are, in fact, organizations devoted to the preservation and development of the heritage, language and social aspects of those people of our ancestors from those — from that country of Norway. It is not meant to detract or infer in any way to hinder these organizations. Yet I felt it was important to delineate some language with respect to the use of public funds, of how they shall be expended, expended on organizations which do, in fact, discriminate on the basis of race or color or in some cases in respect to national origin. Thus, I have stated or intend to state that public funds should not be used in a contributory way to those organizations that would solely distinguish along the lines of race or color or national origin. The public funds should not be donated or used in any manner for these kinds of organizations. Nor that payment in such, as far as my interpretation goes, should be used with respect to agencies, state officials, should not be — funds should not be expended along these lines to be used — to organizations that do discriminate unjustly, that do discriminate solely on the basis of national origin. That is why I have submitted the following amendment to you. I believe that the word “unjustly” and the word “solely” are extremely important to the proposed amendment here. I believe that they do — the word “justly” for example as far as I’m concerned does point out the fact that there is discrimination — that there is discrimination and that it can be unjust indeed. And it does make the distinction that there can be just discrimination in this country and in this state and among the organizations throughout this state.

I think that’s a very important distinction to remember, because I, myself, do believe in discrimination and I do say that along the lines of just discrimination that it can and should be held. And yet I think it is important to point it out here in the words that I have provided. I believe that the intent is to limit the use of public funds, to limit the use of public agencies, to limit the use of public officials from participating or to avoid delaying any fears that public funds would be used along these lines in support or in direct support of such organizations.

I am in no way proposing that state officials or state agencies, state officials, members of the state organizations, be restricted in belonging to any one or any kind of an organization, nor am I proposing in this amendment that any person be allowed into a particular organization merely because he exists. As I mentioned before, I think there is and there are forms of just discrimination. I think this is very important to remember as you consider this article or this amendment. So that is the basis on which I have provided this amendment. I also believe that it does provide some boundaries, very broad as they may be, for the previous paragraph that we have before us with respect to the use of public accommodations and equal enjoyment of these things.

I have, as you have noted or you may have noted, I have excluded the word “sex” and I have excluded the word “religion” because I believe these two words, whatnot, I think are going to be questions or would be questioned very seriously by a number of the delegates as well as by a good number of the people throughout the State of North Dakota if we were to include them in here. There are some who have recommended that I do include these in the amendment, but I felt that it would be not appropriate to include them here at this point in this amendment.

But, as I said, this article, this amendment, does not get totally at those organizations that do, indeed, discriminate solely on the basis of race. I think it only provides an indirect question to this kind of problem that we face. That is all that I have to say. Thank you.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I have a question in mind as to just who this particular amendment would affect. Now I happen to belong to the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. And in order to belong to that association it’s necessary that I be a male, that I be over twenty-one, that I believe in God, and that I be white. Now as I read this amendment it seems to me that unless this organization discriminates and requires me to be only white that they would not be affected; is the correct?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is the question directed to Delegate Gipp?

DELEGATE NETHING: I guess I would have to do that. I think it is his proposal alone.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: Excuse me. I didn’t quite follow all of the question. May I request —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would you rephrase the question, Delegate Nothing?

DELEGATE NOTHING: Could have the Court Reporter read it back.

My question is to who this affects, and I pointed out that the organization — one organization I belong to has four requirements, and then I enumerated the four. And then my question is if I understand this right so long as they don't discriminate — we have four discriminations in effect — now as long as we have more than one mentioned here apparently it would not apply to that organization.

DELEGATE GIPP: My interpretation would not be the same, I would say. But I would say you would have a point and it would be a point for the courts to settle. I don't know whether I could specifically answer your question. I will say that I have consulted with legal counsel and an official with the Attorney General's office. And I think that the base of this amendment does get at some of the questions that you just mentioned. And I think that it does bring it into light. That is my opinion.

DELEGATE NOTHING: It is my thought that the word "solely" as long as you discriminate on some basis in addition to what's here that it is satisfactory. I'm going to vote against the amendment for the reason that I think this very issue is going to be decided in the United States Supreme Court. There is a question there now regarding an organization — I don't happen to belong to that one, but they have similar requirements — as to whether or not these organizations may be licensed. And a decision is expected quite soon. And it would seem to me that this probably is a place where this decision should come from. And for that reason I'm going to vote against the amendment.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President: My instinct has told me all along that somehow or other we're trying to shoot at somebody in here. And at this point I think I have got it, by the process of elimination, figured out who we aren't shooting at any more. And I'd like someone to check me out to see if I've got that right and then maybe fill me in on who we are shooting at, if we are. I guess now that we're not shooting at the Norwegians, and we're not shooting at the Knights of Columbus, and we're not shooting at the YMCA or the YWCA, and maybe not at the Masons, and I take it for granted that we're no longer shooting at the Indians. Is there anybody else left that we're shooting at?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I haven't the answer for that one but I would have a question for the desk. In my book there is an amendment that is after line 11 it says, "No public funds". It's a little different one than the one now. Has that been repealed or is it still in there?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Defeated that.

DELEGATE BUTLER: All right. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes. Mr. President: I don't know for sure, but it seems to me that there are a few members here that are trying to circumvent the question. I want to say that I second what Delegate Gipp has moved, and I don't want state funds, tax funds, ever to be used for an organization that would discriminate on the basis of race, color, or national origin. And I can't help but think everybody in this room should support this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: I think that Delegate Nothing brought up a good point. And I'm not sure that an amendment would help. But just to test it out, I will move that the word "solely" be stricken and the word "primarily" inserted in lieu thereof.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol moves an amendment to the amendment. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE SONDRREAL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Sondreal.

Did the desk get the amendment?

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Sometimes I have the feeling that some of the amendments we make are like water falling upon a stone; so often the drips sometimes wear a hole in the complete thought. And I think this is what we have done in this case by proposing a substitute word. And I would ask the delegates to defeat the amendment to the amendment. Delegate Gipp himself and others did review the revised proposition or proposal before this Convention floor and we believe it stands on its own merits.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The Clerk will read the amendment to the amendment as offered.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to the amendment to 1-57. Following the word "discriminates" delete the word "solely" and insert in lieu thereof the word "primarily."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: "Primarily"?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The delegates are aware of the amendment to the amendment? No further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendment to the amendment. As many as are in favor of this adoption will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the amendment lost.

Now we are back on the amendment as offered by Delegate Gipp.

Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President: Will Delegate Gipp yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Gipp yield to a question?

DELEGATE GIPP: Yes, Mr. President.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Delegate Gipp, does the term "no public funds" imply that this may be indirect funds such as police protection or fire protection, this type of thing?

DELEGATE GIPP: As far as I know, I really couldn't answer your question on that. But I would interpret that it would not be. What I'm referring to is the use — the direct use of public funds in some manner, either contributory in nature or the use in terms of support of public officials in respect to these. I'm not referring to service oriented contracts, for example. And this would be the opinion.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I wonder if anyone of the other supporters would care to address themselves to this point. Because before I could vote for this I would want the record to be clear that we are not implying anything other than the direct expenditure of funds to the organization.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does anyone wish to add further to Delegate Devine's question or answer it?

Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: My point of resources again unofficially is unofficial word from consultation with the Attorney General's office that we were not referring to services or service contracts.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: I'm in deep sympathy with what is trying to be accomplished here, but I'm bothered by the words "unjust discrimination". And I think if we would put the word in as a modifier to discrimination then we are saying there is just discrimination and unjust discrimination. And I really have a hard time to determine when one would be just and one unjust. And I — I just don't get that.

I wonder if, Delegate Gipp, you could expand that further? Isn't discrimination always obnoxious in public affairs? Of course we are progressing this to private affairs. I don't know how you get to the problem. On one hand you are saying the people have a right to organize and discriminate because of religious, race, cultural reasons, we want that, and again we don't want other organizations to exclude people. But I don't know how you can do both with this language because it serves no point.

I don't know what you would define as just discrimination in one case and unjust in the next.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President: I wonder who the Solomon is who is going to determine what organizations discriminate unjustly? The fact is that every private organization, every private club, every private fraternal order is perfectly justified in discriminating. It is not against the law. These are private clubs. The right of association is as old as this country. Now we may disagree with the basis on which to discriminate, but they are certainly justified in discriminating in these private clubs.

I don't know what this means about "No public funds may be expended in support". The Legislature doesn't appropriate funds in support of any private organization. I don't know of any state agency that expends private funds in support of any clubs downtown here. It was pointed out by Delegate Nething one rather large club or fraternal order, rather, in this state discriminates on the basis of race, that you have to be a male, twenty-one, believe in God, be caucasian and be a citizen. It does not discriminate solely on the basis of race. So with all due respect to our very good colleague, Delegate Gipp, I have to submit that this amendment is largely meaningless. I think if the Convention is of a mind to try to penalize any private organization under the Constitution, there are many paths they could follow to do that. This amendment, Mr. President, is meaningless. I urge its rejection.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Fellow delegates: I can give us just a couple examples; Girl Scout organizations, for one thing, Boy Scout organizations for another thing. And I do believe there are private groups that do have the right to discriminate if they so please. And I might belong to some of these, and maybe I will want to in the future. But all this amendment says is simply that no public funds shall be used in support of any organization which discriminates because of basis of race, color or national origin. I think we are trying to make more of this than what it actually is.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and fellow delegates:

I would like to support this measure. And as I keep reading it I am finding some questions popping up here. And one question that I would have in mind is if we receive a per diem when we are here and we eat at the Elks Club, are we violating this constitutional privilege? And I think it's kind of a serious question. It seems to me that the idea originally was that we would not be spending any funds in any way in a public — any public funds in an institution that discriminates. And I'd like to eat an occasional meal at the Elks Club, and it seems to me that if I am reimbursed by the government I would be in violation of this constitutional right.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. Chairman, I think if we pass this amendment the City of Grand Forks Fire Department could not go and put out a fire in the Elks Club.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: I think that some of the — some of the questions that have been brought up here are well taken. I do think, though, that everyone in this assembly understands the heart of the matter. And I don't think we should reject an amendment because we on this floor at this point do not have all the answers to the deficiencies of the amendment. I would urge that all of you who do understand what the amendment is all about vote "yes". It will then be on the tenth order tomorrow for final passage. And in the meantime some of the objections and loopholes can be taken care of.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Just for information, where does the amendment come from that is in our bill books? What is that one?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: It was defeated.

DELEGATE HERNETT: It was withdrawn, somebody said.

DELEGATE SINNER: No, it was defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: That amendment was on the — was the committee report, and it was defeated by the body about four or five days ago, I think.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: January 21.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. Chairman — Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Delegate Gipp and various other members of the state staff worked diligently on this amendment. It was passed around to a number of us prior to its being introduced on the floor here. And we scraped over some of the questions which you fellow delegates have proposed at this time. We missed some of these. As a lawyer, as I look at this, as I previously looked at it in the original amendment, asking for its defeat, seeing now additional items I would recommend that we defeat the amendment due to the magnitude of the unanswered questions which we have developed at this time.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Yes, I also would go along with Delegate Hartl in defeat of this amendment. I think that we should let common sense prevail here. As far as putting out fires at the Elks Club goes, I think we are getting a little carried away. And I would hope that this amendment be defeated.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: I would just like to add some final words to this; whether it's defeated or not, so be it. That's fine. But I do think that this statement does have some merit. I do think that it addresses itself to a basic question. I do think that the example has been towards the Elks here. And let me quote their Section 144 of their constitution, at least the beginning words of that, which says: "No person shall be accepted as a member of this order unless he be a white male citizen of the United States of America, of sound mind, body," et cetera, et cetera. Now I do not address myself to that question, to that very direct question. But I do address myself to the question with respect to the use of public funds perhaps in that organization as it may have happened or as it might happen in the future. And my question really is that I think that there will always be Elks organizations with maybe these kinds of rules. Whether this rule is overturned by the courts themselves, whatever, I think the question that I have here is a basic one. I believe it has merit. And, as I say, I think there will always be organizations which discriminate along some of these lines. And I don't think we should always be questioned. And I think now is a chance, an opportunity, to provide at least a basic question with respect to our state itself and the use of public funds. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-57 as offered by Delegate Gipp. Hearing no further discussion, those in favor of its adoption will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "yes;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it. The amendment lost.

Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: May we have division?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division has been requested. That is sufficient. Division will be granted.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: May it be a recorded division?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Recorded division has been requested. Will ten delegates requesting a recorded division please rise? That is one, two, three, four — that's sufficient. The recorded vote will be on the adoption of the amendment or the rejection. Those now in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 43 "yes" votes, 51 "no" votes, four delegates absent and not voting. The amendment has failed.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would like the record to show that I voted "no" on that amendment because I do not understand the concept of "just" and "unjust" discrimination; distinction between the two.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I voted "no" on that for the reason that I just am not sure whether the question brought on by George Unruh, a public service, such as funds for fire protection and police protection, can be spent on these areas.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. Chairman. I voted "no" likewise at this time with the express intention that perhaps Delegate Gipp and others can obtain additional information for us. I would move that Committee Proposal No. 1-57 be laid over one additional day and placed on the bottom of the calendar on tenth order.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Hartl and seconded by Delegate Trenbeath that Committee Proposal No. 1-57 be laid over one Convention day, and that it be placed at the foot of the calendar. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it. The motion lost.

We are back on — Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I would request a division on this. I don't think this chamber has ever denied a delegate an opportunity to take another look.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division has been requested. That is sufficient number. The motion was on Delegate Hartl's — the question is on Delegate Hartl's motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-57 be placed — be laid over one Convention day, and be placed at the foot of the calendar. Those in favor of that motion will vote "yes;" those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Any delegate wish to change? The key is closed.

Roll call indicates there were 78 "aye" votes, there were 16 "nay," there were four delegates absent and not voting. So the Proposal 1-57 will be laid over one Convention day, and it will be placed at the foot of the calendar.

Delegates, it is now five-thirty. Are there any announcements —

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — on eighth order.

Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: In talking at coffee break time at three there were a number of delegates who expressed an interest in going on through until about seven, six-thirty, and not coming back later. I wonder if any of them would care to have a reconsideration of this issue. I submit, sir, that if we come back here at eight and work until say ten that we could accomplish as much in another hour now as we could at that time. I would move we reconsider this action and come back here at —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller, might I interrupt and say that it is not necessary to move to reconsider. The fact that we were going to meet at eight o'clock is because of former or other complications a number of delegates to the Convention have themselves in. And it's not solely my idea that we have to postpone or wait till eight o'clock this evening. I am in full accord with your idea that we would continue if that would be the rule and wish of the Convention. However, because of previous commitments there would be about twenty of the delegates to my knowledge that wouldn't be here. And I hate to set a schedule so that they couldn't be here and participate in this assembly.

Does anyone wish to add or enlighten us further on the desire of the Convention?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I am — I am extremely sorry if my committee placed the President and some of the members at a disadvantage here or are embarrassed in any way. It happens that our committee has planned a party for tonight, and we had — we did this over a week ago with the idea that most of the wives would be here this week because of the doings. So then on Tuesday it was canceled. There are still most of them here. I suggested — I mentioned this to the committee chairman of the Calendar Committee when they met this morning. It was of a gentlemen's agreement that we would recess at about five-thirty and then come back at eight. It would give us time to have our little get-together and our supper. I'm not so sure, maybe we wouldn't be better off if we went and had a little refreshment and something to eat and came back for a couple hours. It's cold. But there's going to be cars that are going to have to be started out here now and they will probably run a couple hours again and come back. I hope that the members will bear with the committee. And we are the ones that caused the trouble. And I think that maybe Kelly over there is kind of a Benedict Arnold, because we discussed this at noon, Kelly, at our meeting right after dinner.

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: Well, I was going to rise a moment ago when our fearless leader, Delegate Haugen, apologized for some members of his committee. And I was wondering if he was aiming at me. You see, I think if we get right down to the nitty-gritty of this, Mr. President, our fearless leader has volunteered to purchase the refreshments. And if he could cut us off about a quarter to eight it would be more money left in his pocket, you see. So I kind of question his motives.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe, Fellow Delegates, that it was Shakespeare sometime in his writings said, "The truth will out."

Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President: I hope too many delegates aren't disappointed with a break. Frankly, I don't think we are writing the Church by-laws. And we ought to take a little time and we ought to be deliberative in our process. And I don't think we ought to start pushing stuff through to get done. I think we ought to take our time and move deliberately, and I think it's good to have a break every couple hours.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Omdahl.

Any further comments?

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I should like to reiterate what I said earlier on the floor today, that we have approximately — we did have as of this morning approximately 60 committee proposals left to consider. We have taken, I believe, five — we have acted on five today. And we must dispose of them at the rate of about twelve per day. We have, I believe, five more days besides today. And that means that we will have to get rid of these proposals, some of which will be lengthy and will create a great deal of debate. And I think it will be good for us to see what happens. I think it will be good experience for us to come back here this evening and work for a couple of hours.

And I now then would move that we recess until eight P.M.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved that we now recess until eight P.M. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE DAWSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. We will be in recess until eight P.M.

(The Session recessed at 5:34 P.M. until 8:00 P.M., the same day.)

EVENING SESSION

(The Plenary Session continued at 8:02 P.M., Wednesday, January 26, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order. The Convention will please come to order.

First for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-70. 1-70.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-70, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 31, 46, 47, 48, 49, 58, 63, 64 and 66 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that new sections 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18 and 19 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to matters of legislative procedure.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 31, 46, 47, 48, 49, 58, 63, 64 and 66 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Sections 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18 and 19 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 6. The senate and the house of representatives, at the beginning of each regular session, shall each elect one of its members presiding officer.

"Section 11. A majority of the members of each house shall constitute a quorum, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members, in such a manner, and under such a penalty, as may be prescribed by law.

"Section 12. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and the qualifications of its own members.

"Section 13. Each house shall have the power to determine the rules of procedure and punish its members or other persons for contempt or disorderly behavior in its presence and, with the concurrence of two-thirds of its members, to expel a member.

"Section 14. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and the yeas and nays on any question shall be taken and entered on the journal at the request of one-sixth of those present. No bill shall become a law except by a vote of a majority of all the members-elect in each house, nor unless, on its final passage, the vote be taken of yeas and nays, and the names of those voting be entered on the journal.

"Section 16. No law shall be passed, except by a bill adopted by both houses, and no bill shall be so altered and amended on its passage through either house as to change its general subject matter. No bill shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title; but a bill which violates this provision shall be invalidated thereby only as to so much thereof as shall not be so expressed.

"Section 17. Every bill shall be read two separate times, but the first and second readings may not be upon the same day, and such readings may be by title of the bill only unless a reading at length is demanded by one-fifth of the members.

"Section 18. No bill shall be revised or amended nor the provisions thereof extended or incorporated in any other bill by reference to its title only, except in the case of definitions and procedural provisions, but so much thereof as is revised, amended or extended or so incorporated shall be reenacted and published at length.

"Section 19. The presiding officer of each house shall sign all bills and resolutions passed by the legislative assembly, and the fact of signing shall be entered at once on the journal."

Delegate Pearce: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: As a member of the Legislative Functions Committee I have been directed by our chairman to explain 1-70.

Also I have computed that if each of 95 delegates takes three minutes it takes four hours forty-five minutes to get around the horn. I will be very brief.

If you will look at the proposal in your book, Section — the new Section 6 combines old Sections 31 and 36. The marked change is that the lieutenant governor would not be the presiding officer of the Senate; the Senate would elect its own presiding officer as the House now does.

Section 11 is substantially the same as Section 46 of the Constitution, providing for a quorum and when they may recess.

Section 12 is the same as Section 47 of the present Constitution; that each house should be the judge of their qualifications of their own members.

Section 13 is Section 48 of the present Constitution; that each house may set up its own rules, may punish its members. It does leave out what we thought was a superfluous sentence.

Section 14 is a combination of old Sections 49 and 65 providing that each house shall keep a journal and the vote shall be requested.

Section 16 is a combination of Section 58 and 61; that no law shall be passed except by a bill adopted by both houses, that no bill shall be altered, amended on its passage as to change its general matter — something that we want to keep in mind — no bill shall embrace more than one subject or shall be expressed in the title.

Section 17 is a slight modification of Section 63. And it does make some change; provides that every bill shall be read two separate times but the first and second readings may not be upon the same day and such readings may be by title of the bill only unless a reading at length is demanded by one-fifth of the members. I'm sure you realize the Legislature would want a reading like we just had to keep them advised.

Section 18 is Section 64 of the old Constitution which provides that no bills shall be revised or amended, nor the provision thereof extended or incorporated in any other bill by reference to its title only. We have added the next phrase "except in case of definitions and procedural provisions". That's the only change.

Section 19 is Section 66 of the present Constitution. It makes one change only, and that is the necessity of reading the title before it is signed by the presiding officer.

So, in essence, there are some very slight procedural changes. The only one which might produce more than three minutes for everybody is that the lieutenant governor would no longer be the presiding officer of the Senate. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Excuse me, Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: This fell on the floor. It's necessary that I propose some minor amendments solely for the purpose of inserting some additional sections of the old Constitution which we overlooked when this was drawn in the title. I can just as well read them. We are adding on line 1 after the numeral "31" insert the numeral "36", after the numeral "58" insert the numeral "61", and after the numeral "64" insert the numeral "65". In line 8 you insert those same numerals; "36" after "31", "61" after "58", and "65" after "64". And renumber the lines accordingly. And I do move such amendments.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce moves the amendment, and the motion has been seconded by Delegate Litten.

Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Pearce. Being no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the amendments are adopted.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. Chairman: May I now move a suspension of the rules, the proper re-engrossment of 1-70 and placing on the calendar?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-70 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended. Now do I have a second?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kelsch.

Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-70 is before the Convention as amended.

Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I have one question here. I suppose it's obvious, but in line 17 of page 2 it says, "Every bill shall be read two separate times . . ." I presume that's in each house, right, if we have a bicameral house?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I certainly appreciate the relaxed atmosphere the assembly is now in. I'm sure that the two-hour break has had its benefits. And I hate to speak against such a detailed and lengthy proposal, but I myself think it is far from being enlightening and I don't think the Constitution has to set out every step that the Legislature takes and I do intend to vote "no" on this motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-70 as amended. Those in favor of its passage will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 89 "ayes," two "nays", and seven delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-70 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-72.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Committee Proposal No. 1-72, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 22 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to courts being open as suits being brought against the state.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 22 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"All courts shall be open, and every man for any injury done him in his lands, goods, person or reputation shall have remedy by due process of law, and right and justice administered without denial or delay."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal 1-72 is before the Convention. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I have an amendment at the desk. The amendment calls for the placing of the word "privacy" after the word "person" on line 11. I would ask that the delegates favorably consider this request. I think that the matter of privacy is an important right that should be protected as well as goods, lands, persons and reputations.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You move the adoption of the amendment?

DELEGATE KELSCH: I move the adoption of that amendment; yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I have a second?

DELEGATE LAMB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Lamb. Any further discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: The one sentence proposal that we have submitted is merely the first sentence of old Section 22 with, I think, one word deleted. As to the amendment, speaking for myself, I have no particular objection to the inclusion of the word "privacy". I don't believe that members of the committee, either, would object too strenuously to that. And I would suggest that we approve the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

Any further discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Question.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: I would move that 1-72 be properly re-engrossed and placed on first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 1-72 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President: I have a slip in my book that says that all of lines 14 and 15 are deleted. And I would ask the question, is this correct?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: That is correct. Lines 14 and 15 have been deleted, and they are the subject of a brand new proposal which we'll be getting to later on this evening.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: What about the title? It says "as suits being brought against the state?"

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I think that that should be correct. I believe that point it well taken.

Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I would move an amendment to delete that portion of the title which indicates that "suits may be brought against the state".

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: There's a semicolon after which says "both of which pertain to courts being open and suits being brought against the state."

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes. If we may have just a second we will take care of that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: I move an amendment. On line 3 delete the words "both of which" and substitute — no, just delete the words "both of", delete the word "pertain" and substitute the word "pertains".

And on line 4 a period after "open" and delete the balance of the line.

It would now read: "which pertain to courts being open."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will read the amendment as offered by Delegate Maxwell.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to Proposal 1-72 is as follows:

In line 3 of the engrossed proposal after the "semicolon" delete the words "both of which pertain to" and insert in lieu thereof "which pertains to".

In line 4, delete "as suits being brought against the state."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is that correct now, Delegate Maxwell?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, it is.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

Any further discussion on the amendment?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Maxwell. Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the adoption of the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: I now move that the rules be suspended and that Proposal 1-72 be deemed to be properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first reading and passage as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 1-72 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Do I have a second?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Kelsch.

Is there any further discussion? As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Proposal 1-72 is before the Convention for passage as amended.

Any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the first passage. Committee Proposal 1-72, as amended. Those in favor of the passage will vote "yes;" those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 94 "ayes," no "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-72 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-85. 1-85.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-85, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126 and 128 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota and Articles 36 and 40 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that three new sections to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the elective franchise.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126 and 128 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota and Articles 36 and 40 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Every citizen of the United States who has attained the age of eighteen and who shall have resided in the state ninety days and in the precinct thirty days preceding an election shall be a qualified elector at such election. Provided that where a qualified elector moves from one precinct to another within the state he shall be entitled to vote in the precinct from which he moved until he establishes residence in the precinct to which he moved.

"SECTION 3.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The general election of the state shall be held biennially as established by law.

"SECTION 4.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"No elector shall be deemed to have lost his residency in this state solely by reason of his absence."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman, Fellow Delegates:

This is the first of a series of suffrage articles. The committee has proceeded with the belief that board participation is essential to the proper working of our democracy; that only the most necessary requirements for limiting that participation can be justified, and that the burden of proof granting limitations rests heavily on those advocating them.

The committee's proposal is premised on the right to free and equal election. It specifies certain elements — elemental voting qualifications and disqualifications designed to insure the responsible exercise of that right. It calls for the enactment of laws designed to encourage the full and effective participation by all persons meeting these qualifications.

Now this amendment deals with all the suffrage articles and deletes the old suffrage articles 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 128 and then Articles 36 and 40 which were forgotten to be deleted when the Constitution was undated. But we happened to find that in our exploratory work on suffrage.

Section 127 and Section 129 are taken care of independently by independent articles. We used — we put these together because we felt these three sections dealt with essentially the same thing.

Now a little bit about the Section 2 and then I will yield to Delegate Fiedler.

Section 2 insures a person must be a citizen of the United States. This is presented in the present Constitution as it did in 1889. This follows the tradition of all the states except West Virginia which speaks of state citizenship. The voting age was set back — set, of course, by Article 26 of the U. S. Constitution, and we were very happy about this when it occurred in the Senate.

Residence: The Committee Proposal concerning residence departs significantly from the requirements of the 1889 Constitution. The committee recommends that a required period of state residence be reduced from one year to ninety days, that the ninety-day residence requirement be eliminated and the precinct requirement be thirty days.

In view of the decreased voter participation throughout the United States, the committee believes that the existing one-year state residence requirement is too long and had much discussion and debate on this. And the committee has settled for the ninety-day amendment.

The committee proposes that there be no mandatory county requirements for two reasons; first, a review of relevant political divisions in the state significant for voting purposes shows that the county is only one, perhaps not even the most significant subdivisions. Many senatorial districts are within the single county while there are counties or other parts of counties in other districts. Constitutional county residency requirements can serve the disenfranchised voters who move between counties even though they remain within the same political subdivision.

Second, insofar as the county is relevant to the county's officers in other elections, they are only relevant to those offices. The committee feels that the local residence requirement related to the election district serves the legitimate end of insuring the objectives of voter interest and the subject matter of local elections. Rigid constitutional election district requirements can also serve to disenfranchise unnecessarily these voters who move but nonetheless remain within the same political subdivision.

The committee proposes the maximum period of local residency to be thirty days. This is in line with the recommendation of the report of the President's Commission. Such a period has the advantage of the tested time being expressed in the Constitution since 1889. And the test of practice having been integrated into all the registration machinery in the state since that date.

It should be noted that the Commission on Uniform State Laws has proposed that new residents be permitted to vote in the presidential elections with no residency qualifications as such. As long as there is a time for election officials to process the administrative details and protect against fraudulent voting. Congress has also considered several proposals for amending the national Constitution to suspend state residence requirements for presidential elections and to provide voter qualifications for voting in all federal elections.

We, however, felt that under the present status and the way we have it written at the present time that it would be appropriate for our state and for the time.

And now I yield to Delegate Fiedler for the explanation of the rest of the deletions and additions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Fiedler.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fiedler.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: Delegates:

We have the following sections under consideration: 122, 23, 24, 25, 26 and 128.

And we made the following — proposed the following changes:

The Section 122, which deals with the further extension of suffrage, we deemed the language unnecessary and superfluous. We therefore deleted that section.

Section 123, which furthers the privilege from arrest while going to and from elections, we deleted that for the same reason.

124 I shall read to you: "The general election of the state shall be biennial, and shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November; provided, that the first general election under this constitution shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A.D. 1890." We deleted that section and simply stated that, "The general election of the state shall be held biennially . . ." Our idea being that the time and date was a prerogative of the Legislature.

Section 125 we —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fiedler, I'm sorry to interrupt you but would you keep it a little closer to your mouth? I'm afraid the delegates aren't hearing you.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: Section 125 deals with electors who are deemed to have lost their residency. We deemed this language unnecessary and extraneous and we deleted that section.

128 deals with woman suffrage. We felt that women have been granted full suffrage, so we deleted that section also.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I have an amendment at the desk, and I'd like to have it read.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-85 is as follows:

On line 15 delete the words "ninety days" and insert in lieu thereof the words "six months".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Dr. O'Toole said "we"; of course that didn't include me. I consider the right to vote a very serious right. I also consider it a privilege. And I feel that it's one that should in some way be generated. At least there must be some proof of residence for these smaller localities where we are having a tremendous fluctuation of population. These people must at least admit or indicate in some way that they are willing to accept some of the problems that they are going to create in these small localities.

Mr. Berg may refer to the students in college, and I agree to a certain extent with him on this problem. I do also agree that these communities accept from those students all of the income that they are going to get. And I agree that if they live there for a period of time they should have the right to vote. But I think at least they should be somewhat permanent in that.

I'm sure you realize that this is a compromise with me, because I felt very strongly that it should remain one year, ninety days and thirty days. And I still feel that way. I agree also that the President's election should be voted on by everybody. I do not agree, however, that the reduction to ninety days from one year should be one that should be accepted by those areas in the State of North Dakota that are going to be involved. And I hope that those of you who represent those areas think about it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Fiedler.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: Mr. President: I'm sorry. Before —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fiedler, either you have a poor mike or you don't have the switch on or something. Try one of the others. The recorder — the Court Reporter here can't hear you.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's better.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: I erred in my presentation. In Section 25 we deleted it and we have added a new section which will read as follows:

"No elector shall be deemed to have lost his residency in this state solely by reason of his absence."

I'm sorry for the error.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Thompson.

Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President: I'd like to speak for the amendment. There's two kinds of voting we sometimes get mixed up on, I think; we vote for candidates for office, we also vote for issues, and particularly bond issues.

The other day we passed a provision that allows — provides for bonding your city, for example, up to fifteen percent of its — of its assessed valuation. You can put another fifteen percent of its assessed valuation on top of that for school purposes. Now where you do have a community with a rapidly fluctuating population, you're going to have people coming in who want a lot of services fast and they might not be around at a later date to help pay for them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

The — I wish to support the amendment. I think perhaps there are some things we didn't figure here; the jumping around that would be possible with the low limit and no county — no county requirement. For instance, you may or may not have run into it, but there has been a lot of it, where people vote in town and in the country within the same county. And this has been the case in school elections a few times; they want to vote in town and also in the country. And for you flaming young people I might tell you that they did this to hold down the school elections where they were spending money. This was some of the older people once in a while moving around, now they can go thirty days, no registration, they can vote in town, move to the country, prove the day they got there, got their telephone hooked up, and vote in the country. And there are quite a few people that have shacks in the country and houses in town or vice versa. So this would make it very nice for the person who wanted to vote in various places.

Now I don't think that our requirements at the moment are too tough. But there may be a few of you — but there aren't too many — that have voted. I have voted in every general and primary election in the State of North Dakota since I was twenty-one. I can't remember whether it was the day — the day of the first election. So I've either voted in 86 or 88 general and primary elections. And I'm rather proud of this. And now under our rules a person my age would have voted in one more. So they can be proud. So I can't see that if we are going to make it wide open completely you don't have to live anywhere more than thirty days really if you're within the state. And I would support this amendment as helping some.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would the Clerk read the amendment?

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: I may be considered, Mr. President, one of those "flaming liberals," but I think tonight my flame has gone out. But I think that what you have to consider has nothing to do — the six months has nothing to do with the period in the precinct or the county of your residency in the state. I am not resisting the amendment, though.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: As Chairman of this committee I feel urged to rise and support the language suggested by the committee, although I am inclined to admit that my humor is somewhat tainted by the mellow mood that prevails here tonight. And I do it in a very tepid fashion. I am not particularly opposed to this amendment; however, I think it should be pointed out, Mr. President, that in these days when we have rapid communication and mobility that three months is a long enough time for people to acquaint themselves with issues that may be presented at any election. It's during the campaign that issues are aired, and of course that rarely exceeds a three-month period. It's difficult enough, Mr. President, to get people to vote without disenfranchising them and hampering them in their elective process with long residence requirements. I think that too many people probably agree with Poet William Butler Yeats who said:

"A statesman is an easy man,
"He tells his lies by rote;
"A journalist makes up his lies,
"And takes you by the throat.
"So stay at home and drink your beer,
"And let the neighbors vote."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman: I, too, support the amendment. In our own particular district we have the McClusky Canal. And I think that these people that come in on construction work, are there for only three months — and many of them are there only three months, four months — then they move on to another job, should not have the right to vote in our particular district or county, I should say, or city. Therefore, I support the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I'm sympathetic to the idea of the six-month period, because I, too, share the feeling that our voters ought to be here for awhile and become informed and responsible. I think, however, we don't have complete jurisdiction over the problem. A three-judge court in Minnesota held that a six-months residence requirement in the State of Minnesota was a violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment on the groups that there was no compelling stated reason for such discrimination in residence. And I'm even hesitant to let this go through at ninety days as long as this is in flux. Now, I don't know if that case is being appealed or not, but this is one of the reasons that when they had the municipal elections in Minnesota earlier this year or earlier in '71 that there was no contesting the people who appeared to vote.

I know that this is basic — the voting right should be basic and in the Constitution. But we are dealing with a subject that is changing right now. And I would feel a lot better under the circumstances if this were left in the hands of the Legislature. If they want to have six months or a year, that would be fine with me. I hate to see us put something in the Constitution that's going to have to be changed by a federal court or amended out in the next couple of years. Because even though I don't have the confidence in this document that Delegate Dobson has where he doesn't want to amend it at all, I'm afraid we might be putting ourselves in the position where we are going to have to amend it.

One other consideration we have to deal with and that is the U. S. Congress. They are not done fooling around with this yet. And in the 1970 or '71 Voting Rights Act they provided that you can vote for President if you're in the state for thirty days. And this has required a special act of the Legislature in the last session to set up machinery by which we are going to let people vote for President but nothing else. I understand that Congress now wants to extend this privilege to the U. S. Senate and the U. S. Congressional races. And this is only thirty days. So you can see here that we are faced with another dilemma that's somewhat similar to the problem we have with the court cases relating to property taxes and education.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: As I recall, although I wasn't around, one of the rallying cries of the American Revolution was, "No taxation without representation."

Now the fellow that moves into North Dakota, he starts paying taxes the first day's groceries that he buys.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I would like to rise to support what Delegate Omdahl has said, though I never thought I would be able to do this. When my daughter was at the University she said she believed everything they told her. But actually this Committee Proposal is a compromise between men and a few others who felt that the minute you moved to this state you should be able to vote. And I have always felt that you are disenfranchised for the same reason as has been mentioned by Delegate Pearce, that there is no reason, no valid reason, that you could not vote the minute you move here. So this was a compromise between my side and the side who felt that because the people had moved into the area to work on a missile base or for some other reason, that they should stay there a year before they were able to vote. I felt that this was a satisfactory compromise. But it may be better to allow the Legislature to make the final decision; because I — I'm not only afraid, but I — I feel that the handwriting is on the wall that with our small population and with the way welfare recipients are moving around, and the way the federal courts have decided on their eligibility, that people will be allowed to vote no matter where they live the day that they establish residence.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Clerk read the amendments? Will you read the amendments?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: While you are waiting for that, Mr. President, —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: — apparently there were three compromises in my committee; this one I didn't know about. I still don't quite understand how these people that are paying sales tax, apparently is what Mr. Pearce is referring to, would immediately upon moving to the area be held to support the park district or drainage district or any other district that's in that area. And the special taxes that they can vote in become an extreme problem. And whether they pay sales tax or not is not the answer.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would the Clerk read the proposed amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendments to Proposal 1-85:

On line 15 delete the words "ninety days" and insert in lieu thereof the words "six months".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the amendment. Is there any further discussion? The question — Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President: I rise to support the amendment. I, too, feel that anyone cannot familiarize himself sufficiently to the issues of the state in that short a time. And I'm reminded a bit of a joke that goes like this; tells about the fellow that went to the polls and voted for slum clearance and when he got home his house was gone.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Thompson and was just read at the desk.

Those in favor of the motion — those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "yes" and those opposed will vote "no." As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

Any further discussion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: I have an amendment at the desk. Would the Clerk read it, please?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-85 is as follows:

In line 20, following the word "moved" insert the following: "Provided further, that nothing in this section shall prohibit any person who has resided in this state for ninety days from voting in a general election on the presidential question."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second?

DELEGATE CHASE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Chase.
Any discussion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Apparently a part of the exception to the committee's report was on having strangers come into an area and vote on a local question. I think as Delegate Thompson pointed out, he had no objection to people coming into the state and voting on a presidential question, on the office of President. And I think that this is part of the — was a part of the attempt of the committee in liberalizing — in liberalizing the residency requirements.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman: As I understand that is already a federal law and it wouldn't necessarily need be in our Constitution.

One of the lawyers, if I'm wrong, please correct me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Lamb, did you have —

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. Chairman: I'm not a lawyer, so I'm not going to correct him. But Mr. — Delegate Aubol, the federal law requires that every state let every person who has been a resident for thirty days in the state vote in elections as I understand it.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: The 1965 Legislature referred to the people a statutory measure on extension of elective franchise. This was not approved in November 1966. It permits new residents not qualified to vote in state — not yet qualified to vote in state elections to vote in presidential elections. Therefore, I would question the necessity of this amendment in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: With all these explanations I would have no objection to the amendment being defeated. In fact, I might not vote for it myself. I would request it be — that it be withdrawn.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase, will you yield? Delegate Chase, as the seconder of the proposed amendment, would you yield to the withdrawing of the motion — of the amendment?

DELEGATE CHASE: I'll take him off the hook.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You'll yield.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Reluctantly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol has requested that his proposed amendment be withdrawn and his second has agreed. The Chair will rule that the proposed amendment is withdrawn.

Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates, and particularly the delegates on Preamble and Bill of Rights Committee:

I note that on page 2, at the bottom of page 1 and page 2, you have created a new section by reason of deleting some language. The old language was in Section 125 that said: "No elector shall be deemed to have lost his residence in this state by reason of his absence on business of the United States or of this state, or in the military or naval service of the United States." As I read the old provision it was to protect people in those four categories. And now it eliminates that. And the thing that bothers me, and I presume you've probably discussed it, is that in our statutes regarding the subject of residence there are seven rules recited, one of which, the last of which, says: "The residence can be changed only by the union of act and intent." And I'm somewhat at a loss to determine why you created the new section as you did. I wonder if somebody could explain to me the reasons.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

Delegate Nething, it was during the discussion it was brought up that many of these things have taken place and that they were all very well protected as far as we can understand or ferret out under federal statutes. And state statutes also. I can't quote them. But we felt that a broad statement would cover primarily what we — what the other two sections actually were trying to get at.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President: I'd like to offer an amendment. I think it's at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-85 is as follows:

In line 15 following the word "months" insert ", county ninety days".

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Second.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Ladies and gentlemen:

I believe this is the first amendment I have offered. Maybe I'm getting forgetful, but there haven't been many. I'm not doing it for the purpose of taking time —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, may I interrupt just long enough to say the motion was seconded by Delegate Thompson.

Now you may proceed.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Sorry. To get back, I was a little bit off a while back in jumping inside the county. Now probably this is the time to mention that. But it is still true that we can vote within a county in different precincts each election. You could hop around. And as long as it's been cut down in the state six months, thirty days remains in the precinct, I think the county requirements should remain in there. And I would point out that this doesn't affect reorganized school districts because you can always vote in your school district. For instance, my school district has parts of one, two, three counties. So you have to go to a different place to vote in the school election anyway. You're always eligible there if you live in the district. I would ask your support in this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'm sure Mr. Rundle will welcome my support as an attorney. And I again want to urge upon this convention that one of the most important things in voting in a small community or any community in the State of North Dakota is some sentiments of permanency as far as residency is concerned and the acceptance of responsibility. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I think we have spent a lot of time talking about permanency. But the question is how about these people who come in here, buy a home, and still have to wait the six months, or in this case ninety days, and plan on permanency? You're disenfranchising them just as well.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: The question of residency as applied here is only one way in which people have been disenfranchised. We used to have a law in North Dakota that prohibited students from getting into our colleges and universities on in-state resident's fee until they had been here a year. And before the last session a family moved into my town, he was a minister from Minnesota, and his son wanted to study horticulture. And he thought, "How natural. Be right near NDSU." So he went to the University and applied. And he was told at the Registrar's office that he couldn't get in-state tuition because he hadn't been here long enough. And they suggested that under the tri-college arrangement he go over to Moorhead State and take his freshman courses over there. So he went to Moorhead State and they said, "Where do you live?" He said, "I live in Casselton." They said, "I'm sorry, you are not a resident. You have to pay out-of-state residency tuition." And it was all very legal. He was a man without a state. And we do this time after time, after time, after time with people in one way after another. And for a state like North Dakota that welcomes people who come here to live, we must provide every kind of consideration that is in any way legitimate. And this certainly is a legitimate consideration.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman: Listening to the conversation here about voting rights, I wonder how many people stop to think about the amount of money spent in the State of North Dakota, the federal government, on the various federal projects we've had from the time of the Garrison Diversion, Garrison Dam, up through the Air Bases, the missile sites, now the Garrison Diversion going across North Dakota. I just wonder how many people would tell these people that come in who work on these projects to send their money back to Oklahoma or Tennessee, to spend it there and not in North Dakota, or bring their groceries from Tennessee up here to eat.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Rundle. Any further discussion.

Hearing none, those that are in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "yes," those opposed will vote "no." As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment vote "aye;" those opposed "no." The Chair is in doubt. We will open the — the Clerk will open the key. Now those that favor adopting the amendment will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your choice.

Has every delegate indicated his preference? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The vote indicates 51 "ayes," 44 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. The amendment has been adopted.

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President: I would like to go back to Section 4 and ask for a further explanation as to what we are trying to accomplish as it was asked by Delegate Nething. I did not understand the question. I'm sorry. I would like to ask someone to explain to me, please, what are we trying to do?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: In Section 4.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: I'm not sure that I can explain it either. But I do understand it. I think what we're saying in this — and I'm not sure if this is quite what the question is about — but what we're trying to say here is just because someone has gone out of the state on election day does not make him lose his residency. Now this doesn't mean just election day, naturally, but if he has gone out of the state for some reason he doesn't lose his residency because of this. It goes just a little bit farther than the old section which stated that his absence on business of the United States or this state or military or naval service. And because this elector was not in state to vote for some reason or other, whether it was moving away for a very short time or whatever, he does not lose his residency.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President: I, too, am confused by Section 4. I've read it several times, and each time I read it I'm a little more confused. I wonder, we worked hard on the rest of this section, now if it wouldn't be a good idea to divide the issue. I'd hate to have to vote "no." But I'd hate to vote "yes" on the whole package not understanding what Section 4 says. Therefore, Mr. President, I move we divide the vote to vote separately on Section 4.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been requested that we vote separately on Section 4. The request is granted.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Now, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: — I noticed — I don't recall that anybody explained the reason in Section 3. I thought that the general election was — this should be pretty well stabilized and established. And I just wonder if there's anybody in the committee can answer why it is left up to the legislative assembly. I for one certainly wasn't satisfied completely with what the Legislature did in moving our primary election around. I just wonder what the discussion of the committee was and the reason for their not stabilizing this general election date.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: I'll try to answer Delegate Trenbeath's question because I think I know a little bit more about what he wants to know than I did on the other one. I was unsure of what the question was.

On this section it was similar to the Section 124 of the 1889 Constitution except that it's considerably shortened in providing the general elections in this state shall be held biennially as established by law. Now the 1889 Constitution went into much greater detail as to where and when the elections should be held. We did not feel that this was necessary. We felt that should times change, and which they do quite frequently, that the Legislature should be able to have the right to change that. We're perfectly willing — in fact, in one of our earlier drafts we left it that way — but we felt that it was extraneous material.

And the second half of the section, Section 124, it was — it was felt — the committee felt again it was extraneous and that it wasn't necessary.

Now I — I'm sorry, but I think that the Legislature, we've given them considerably more power recently, and I think they can establish when we have elections and change with the times as need be.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I share Delegate Trenbeath's concern on this. And I have an amendment prepared at the desk to put back in the language that existed in the 1889 Constitution at the desk. I'd move that at this time the desk read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-85 is as follows:

In line 24, page 1, delete "as established by law." and insert in lieu thereof the following: "On the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of each even-numbered year."

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I have a second? Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: The date of the elections in this country are about as fixed as the Ten Commandments, if they are fixed. And there is just no possibility that they are ever going to change this day. And I just feel that a constitution ought to say specifically, when there is no chance of ever changing it for the next hundred years, that we ought to state specifically what we mean.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: I don't think the Ten Commandments are that absolute in this case. Because if you recall there are several other states that have elections on odd-numbered years. And even though in the last few years we seem to be having elections on both odd and even-numbered years, I think that we may have this possibility where at some time in the future, the Legislature should have this opportunity to put the general election on an even-numbered year.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I'm a little shocked at the boys from the Bible and poetry bill, they are writing so much legislation in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Omdahl. Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of adopting the motion of the amendment — the amendment, will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." Let's do it over. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The Chair will not make a commitment. We will use the key. Those that are in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, and you will indicate your preference.

Has every delegate indicated his preference? Any delegate wish to change? The vote is closed.

Roll call indicates that there were 45 "ayes," there were 49 "nays," there were four delegates absent. The amendment failed.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I would like to inquire from any member of the committee why Section 126 is being recommended for repeal. It seems to me that this section may be more useful in the current situation than it was in 1889.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does a member of the committee wish to answer Delegate Dobson's inquiry?

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: I think that the reasoning behind the committee's action in regard to this is that first of all this person who is stationed here in the military service would then have to declare his residency in North Dakota. And most of the present members of the military service that are stationed in this state do not wish to declare their residency in North Dakota primarily because they want to be residents in another state for the purpose of getting a cheaper automobile license and other reasons.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I am not familiar, of course, with the work of the committee. I'm trying to find — I was trying to find someplace in the proposal, anything dealing with secret ballots in Section 129 which is being repealed.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: That's in another proposal that will be heard later.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke? Burbidge.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: We often are asked a question of why we need a new Constitution and why we should take this one. For your information, I'm going to read Section 128 which is being repealed here:

"Any woman having the qualifications enumerated in Section 121 of this article as to age, residence and citizenship, and including those now qualified by the laws of the territory, may vote for all school officers, and upon all questions pertaining solely to school matters, and be eligible to any school office."

Should anyone ask you about updating the Constitution, I think perhaps you have an answer. Should be fifty percent of the votes.

Now on Section 4, many questions have been asked about this, and perhaps I can shed a bit of light on it. You notice in Section 2 it says: "Provided that where a qualified elector moves from one precinct to another within the state he shall be entitled to vote in the precinct from which he moved until he establishes residence in the precinct to which he moved." Essentially, we are giving the same rights then to a person who is moving outside of the state. And until he establishes residency it will be the same as if he moved within the state. So I think this perhaps is additional explanation.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

That's what bothers me. Because that's what the law is currently. Until someone acquires a new residence he retains his old. When somebody moves out, until he has a new one acquired, why he keeps it. Now this language — I suppose we could save it until we get to Section 4 — but the language that we had protected the people from the four classifications there that left the state by reasons of absence on business of the United States, on business of the state, the military service or in the naval service. That was the whole intent of that particular article was to protect those four classifications of people. Now Section 4, the matter of residency is not only important in voting, it's also important in many other things such as acquiring a fishing license or acquiring a right to run for office, or a marriage license, or obtaining a divorce. All of these things are — there's much case law on the subject as to what's necessary in residence. There's two things: You've got to have an intent to have a new residence, and it must be accompanied by an act to have a new residence. This is what our case law says, and this is what the Attorney General has ruled in many, many isolated occasions and whenever they get to court. Therefore, I can't at this point, see why we are keeping any part of 125 or deleting any part of it. If we are going to do anything, let's keep it all.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I see no problem with Section 4. All we're saying is the mere absence from the state. In other words, that by itself does not disenfranchise the elector.

Now the old Constitution gave several reasons; business of the United States, this state, and military and naval service. We are broadening it. You may go out on business other than the United States. But we are saying someone can leave the state without the intention of fixing his residence somewhere will not lose his residency here simply by reason of his absence. If he elects to buy a fishing license in Minnesota, then he'll lose his residency. If he votes in the other state, he will lose his residency. We are simply saying that mere absence is not intent to make residence elsewhere and will not deprive him of his residency in North Dakota. And for a state that's concerned about people I think it's a fair provision.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: I would urge a "no" vote on Section 4. And as Delegate Nething said, simply on the basis of this comparison I have a question as to the amount of revenue the state or the separate states may lose on the basis of taxation. If I attend to personal items in the State of South Dakota for the next year, that state having no current income tax, I therefore pay no tax to the State of North Dakota taxwise, yet I would then come back and vote in North Dakota. It doesn't quite add up at this point and time. And for that reason I urge a "no" vote until a better explanation is given.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President: Mrs. Hendrickson has found for me a section of the proposal that provides secrecy in voting; 1-83. And I'm very serious. I wonder why we need 1-85 in lieu of the language in 1-83 which says that: "The legislature shall by law define residency for voting . . ." And we are here — here we have said the Legislature shall define residency, and in 1-85 we're setting up the residency. I think there's a basic conflict.

I did not vote for the amendments limiting the right to vote. I think it's a mistake in this Constitution. I actually, and I cannot see, as I actually can see no need for 1-85 if we pass 1-83.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing no further discussion, I understand that Delegate Hoghaug has requested that we divide the question and that we vote on Section 4 separately. Right?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I believe that there was an amendment adopted to — yes — Committee Proposal 1-85 some time ago. I am not — or maybe two amendments. I am not aware that the motion was ever made that the rules be suspended and it be considered properly re-engrossed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: There has not been.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Well, then to speed matters up, then I at this point, I shall move that the rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal 1-85 be deemed properly re-engrossed so that it may be placed at the head of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that the rules be suspended, that Delegate Proposal No. 1-85 be deemed properly re-engrossed, that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion is seconded by Delegate Rundle. Any discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I think Delegate Haugen has a good point. And it would solve the problem of residency that the Legislature could adjust it as the Supreme Court ruled on the matter. And I don't think we need any of 1-85 except for the repealers.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the motion as offered by Delegate Saugstad.

Do you have a question?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would like to speak on the motion. That I would ask that the assembly approve the motion so that we can have it on the calendar, and then I believe that a motion would be in order to move it down so that we could act on 83 prior to acting on 1-85.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are you ready for the question? The question is on the motion that the rules be suspended, that Delegate — Committee Proposal No. 1-85 be deemed properly re-engrossed and be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it. And the proposal is now before you for passage.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Now I do not recall specifically where Committee Proposal 1-83 is on the calendar, but I would now move at this time that Committee Proposal 1-85 be moved to a point just below — immediately below Committee Proposal 1-83.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-85 be now moved to a position on the calendar directly below Committee Proposal No. 1-83. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Haugen.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Might I suggest we move 1-83 up ahead of 1-85?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: That was going to be my next motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the motion.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I would — I would support the motion of Delegate Saugstad, but I would hope we do not have a motion to move 1-83 back up. Because I think that the committee might want to take some time to look at leaving it out.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the motion offered by Delegate Saugstad that 1-85 be placed immediately below 1-83.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and 85 — 1-85 is moved down.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Now I would certainly defer to the Chairman of the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage as to whether or not we should move Committee Proposal 1-83 and Committee Proposal 1-85 to the head of the calendar. I will offer that as a motion, but only if it meets with the approval of the Chairman of that committee. All right. Then I so move. I now move that Committee Proposal 1-83 and 1-85 be moved to the head of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that Committee Proposal No. 1-83 and 1-85 be placed at the head of the calendar. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE BINEK: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Binek. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the two proposals, 1-83 being first — 1-83 and then 1-85 at the head of the calendar.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-83.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-83 proposed by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 129 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to duties of the legislature with regard to elections.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 129 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The legislature shall by law define residency for voting, insure secrecy in voting, provide for absentee voting, the administration of elections and the nomination of candidates."

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Section 1-83 deals with the provisions that the Legislature can establish the methods of voting, and includes absentee voting and things of this nature. And we discussed prior 1-85 which had to do with residency and various other measures regarding the elective franchise.

I think one of the things you should consider when you're discussing this is when you're talking about residency for voting it does not necessarily mean that if Section 1-83 is passed that you can eliminate Section 1-85 except for the repealers. Because there is, as you recall, Section 3 which sets up: "The general election of the state shall be held biennially as established by law." So this is relatively a different proposal altogether. The residency for voting, the Legislature will set that up; what it requires to be a resident. And at that point when you are — fulfill the obligations of what it is to be a resident, then you have to be there six months, ninety days and thirty days. Insures secrecy in voting so that everybody has the opportunity of a secret ballot.

The Legislature can also establish what an absentee ballot is and the method in which absentee ballots are to be handled and the administration of elections. They will set up the laws for how the election is to be handled, and also how the nomination of candidates is to be placed on the primary ballot.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, the question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-83.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, it seems to me that we could amend on 1-83 which would take care of 1-85 if we wanted to do it. We could, after the "voting" or after "the" on line 11 put the word "the holding and administration of elections" and then I think we would have everything after — or in that that we would need and we could get rid of 1-85.

Since we do have these here together, I think it might be in order to discuss them both together. My colleague, Delegate Nething, stated the law a little wrong, I think, on this residence business. The law previously and the interpretation of the Supreme Court of this state has been to the effect that you do hold your residence in the State of North Dakota as long as you stay in the state until you establish your residence or your voting right in the new place where you move. But our Supreme Court has held that if you do leave the State of North Dakota even for one day with the intent to establish a residence elsewhere you lose your voting right. And that affects that Section 4 that we have, and it would seem to me that the Legislature could do a better job with a little more time to give study to this if we did leave all of these problems to them and put the amendment on 1-83 which would take care of everything that is covered in 1-85.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I just can't quite go along on the fact that the last four letters on line 10 — or the last four words on line 10 which say "define residency for voting" would not be in direct conflict with 1-85, Section 2. And if the delegates want what we have been discussing the last hour under Section 2 of 1-85, a passage of 1-83 would definitely repeal that thinking. And I don't think it means something altogether different if I read that the way it looks. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: I don't believe these two are necessarily in conflict. 1-83 is for the most part establishing procedures; 1-85 is the rights of voters. It would seem to me that the rights of voters would be a constitutional right. It should not be materially changed by the Legislature. But that the procedure for determining this sort of thing would, of course, be a legislative matter. So I don't think they are necessarily in conflict.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I just ask the delegates to read that just in good common, ordinary English and see if you define the residency for voting if you're not knocking out the next section on 1-85. There can hardly be any other interpretation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Well, Mr. President, I sort of hesitate to pursue this further. But I do believe that there is a basic conflict. And the questions that have been raised here should have a better answer, a better determination. I would certainly hope that we can defer this action — action on this until we do understand just what we are doing. I would — I would like to move that it be re-referred to the committee. But I don't suppose the committee wants it. But I think we should take another look at it. I would move that it be re-referred to the committee, both of them, yes, 1-83 and 1-85.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Haugen, and a second by Delegate Hernet, that Committee Proposals No. 1-83 and 1-85 be re-referred to the committee of origination. Is there any discussion?

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the two proposals will go back to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: Now when we give consideration to these proposals that have been re-referred to us I would appreciate it that if those who do have some confusion in their minds as to what is meant here would appear before the committee, and we'd be glad to discuss it with them. Sometimes I find that what appears crystal clear to me is vague to others, and vice versa.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Next for discussion — next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-82.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: May I ask the Convention's permission to have Delegate Proposal 2-69 considered at the same time?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-59, Delegate Thompson?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: 69.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 69? I don't believe, Delegate Thompson, that that 2-69 is on the calendar, is it?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: It was on the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President, if I remember Mr. Lander's motion at the time I asked that it be considered at the same time. And I believe he so moved. But I might be wrong. That's some days ago.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The only question I have is I was only checking to see whose requests we are holding at the desk. We just don't want to — question, Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: We moved it out of committee to be held at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Until such time as the committee wished to consider it. So if the committee doesn't object, we will consider the question. Delegate Maxwell is on 69, 2-69 and 1-82. Delegate Thompson has requested that they both be considered at the same time.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: What would you like me to do, Mr. President?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, you have no objection? If you have no objection, I'm sure that's what we can do.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: No, certainly not. No objection. Did you wish me to move to have them —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, you need not move. My only question is if there is objection to it.

Now, Delegate Thompson, is there some particular phase of 1 — or 2-69 that you wish to consider at the same time?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Well, very simply I want the Convention to adopt the Delegate Proposal and defeat the Committee Proposal 1-82.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Thompson, I'm afraid that we can't do that and that the Convention body has never actually received this. This is in safe-keeping with us. The only way we could do it would be to adopt it on the committee report and then suspend the rules and then have it before us.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: On page 175 of the Journal, about halfway down, the following motion was made: "Delegate Kelsch moved that the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal 2-69 be laid over until such time as the Committee Proposal dealing with the same subject be acted upon, which motion prevailed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge, what page?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: 175.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: There seems to be a mis-interpretation or a difference of interpretation of what this motion at the time we received 2 — was it 69 — 2-69 at the desk. And our interpretation of the motion was that 2-69 was to be held at the desk until such time as Delegate Proposal No. 1-82 was acted upon. And then in the event 1-82 was passed, there would be no further need for Delegate Proposal 2-69 and at that time this would be indefinitely postponed or it would be asked to be withdrawn. Now that was the interpretation of the motion at the desk. If we misinterpreted the intention, then we have to stand to be corrected.

Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: If I understand you correctly, Mr. President, I agree with your interpretation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, then I think the procedure then, Delegate Thompson, that we'd have to follow would be to continue to act on Delegate — or Committee Proposal No. 1-82, and then in the event that this is adopted or if it is defeated then I presume we would have to go back and take your Proposal.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Could I suggest to Delegate Thompson if he wishes consideration of his proposal he could offer it as an amendment now to 1-82?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-82 is before the Convention. And if he wishes to amend it, why he certainly can amend it.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Thank you for the help.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I now move to amend 1-82 and substitute therefor 2-69.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson moves an amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-82.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Want me to read it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, I wonder, do you just want to substitute or strike everything after — what is your amendment?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: The amendment is just as it reads, Mr. President. I set out the fact that Section 27 would be repealed and that a new section would be established.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-82.

Delete lines 1 through 13, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

“That section 127 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to voting disqualifications.

“SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 127 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

“SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“No person who is incompetent, or insane shall be qualified to vote in any election; nor shall any person convicted of a felony unless restored to civil rights.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now may I have a second to the motion — second to the amendment?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: If the delegates would refer to both Section 127 and the Constitution, you will find that there are a number of words deleted in my amendment, such as “guardianship,” “non compos mentis” and then you jump down to again “the legislature shall by law establish an educational test as a qualification, and may prescribe penalties for failing, neglecting or refusing to vote at any general election.”

I violently disagreed with Committee Proposal No. 1-82 during its inception and creation. I feel that if our founding fathers back when this original Constitution was established could interpret the word “incompetent” “insane”, we certainly ought to be able to do so now. And if it is indicated that we can't, apparently then all of our sciences have taken a step backward.

Secondly, I'm very firm in my belief that people who have been convicted of felonies, even though they are going through a method or a process of rehabilitation, should bear this one cross because, as I said before, it's not only a right but it is a privilege.

If you will look at the committee proposal you will see that even though I have been sentenced to life imprisonment and was released after, say, ten years, the minute I walked out I would be entitled to vote, I'd be a qualified elector, and be entitled to hold office without my civil rights being restored. Now what I'm asking is what is presently on the books now and the present way civil rights are restored and all it takes is that an application be made by the criminal that he be somewhat investigated, and that a decision be made as to whether or not this person has now rehabilitated himself enough so that he is capable of being returned to civil life and capable of becoming a member of our society. And that is the reason for my amendment to the committee proposal.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman: In the first place, I disagree very violently with Delegate Thompson that — that it is a privilege to vote. I think it's a duty. And in our Declaration of Independence it states: "Governments are instituted among men deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." And that is a mandate to the people — for the people to vote.

And I would try to explain some of the thinking of the committee when they drew up this voter disqualification. And I'm talking about Committee Proposal No. 1-82. The committee's proposal mandates the Legislature to exclude the right of voting from certain convicted criminals. This section is different from Section 127 and Article V of the 1889 Constitution. This concept does not hold for those people who wish to hold office. The committee felt that those qualifications of disqualifications would be better handled in other articles dealing with the offices. However, unlike the 1889 Constitution, the committee's proposal also contains self-executing language which implies the right to vote shall be restored automatically upon the completion of the confinement.

It is true that the perpetrators of certain crimes have by their criminal acts exhibited disrespect for the law, and a lack of responsibility which should become a right to vote. In addition, which incarcerated they are potentially susceptible to undue influences in coercion, and their physical confinement itself creates difficult problems if they were permitted to vote.

I like to think that we are working on rehabilitation in helping these people. I like to feel that we are encouraging these people to fight in the streets — or right in the ballot box and not in the streets; just on the floors of conventions and places like that. And we want them in the ballot box, and we want them to vote as soon as they can.

Restoration of this right is subject to petition at the current time. Restoration of the right to vote is a very complicated, cumbersome procedure. The committee found that in almost all cases, or a great percentage of cases discharged from parole, petitions for restoration of rights are granted. However, in many instances such positions — petitions were never filed. These people may unwittingly vote or even run or get elected to office without formally having any restoration. And this has occurred periodically to our knowledge. At the present time they have to make an affidavit to the Pardon Board. The Pardon Board then has — they have to have three other affidavits of people in the community, they have to have an investigation by a parole agent, the Pardon Board sits in council and reviews the matters and then restores their rights.

The committee addressed itself to the irregularity, of having — of voting when they had not been granted this right. It took notice of the opinions of the criminologists that restoration of rights was extremely important to the rehabilitation of criminals in the belief that once a person has completed his sentence he has paid in full his debt to society. It also took notice of the recommendations of the Model Penal Code which withdraws the right only so long as a person is committed under a sentence of imprisonment and the uniform active status of convicted persons which withdraws the right during a term of sentence but allows voting during the period of suspension of the sentence and parole.

Based on the information before it, the committee felt that insofar as the restoration of rights is concerned, the effective date should be the completion of confinement. And at such time restoration should be automatic. This would preclude the Legislature from providing any earlier restorations or allowing voting while in confinement. The committee considered but rejected as inadvisable any constitutional language excluding the right of voting by persons who are mentally incapacitated.

Now let — let me present to you some facts. One out of seven people in the United States at the present time has been under some shape of mental illness. This affects one out of every three families. I can see in our old Constitution a very ambiguous word with varying interpretations, it involves an area in which the law and medicine overlap. Insanity is likewise another Latin word meaning “non sanus” and it means mad, foolish or wild. Now that could include many of us at times.

North Dakota law has specifically avoided defining the term “incompetency”. But the term is used occasionally in the Century Code. In 29-20-02 incompetency to stand trial in North Dakota is defined as a person who “is unable to understand the proceedings against him or to assist in his defense.” While using the term incompetency, the Code in 14-01-03 uses the synonym “incapacity,” which it states that an insane person cannot contract. “After his incapacity has been determined judicially upon application for the appointment of a guardian, a person of unsound mind can make no conveyance or other contract, nor delegate any power, nor waive any right until his restoration to capacity is determined judicially.”

It seems that the appointment of a guardian is tantamount to a declaration of incompetency or incapacity. For guardianship is closely related to incompetency. The North Dakota Constitution, the old Constitution, refers to it in Section 3, Article IV. The North Dakota Century Code in 30-10-02 defines a guardian: “The county court may appoint a guardian, if the jurisdictional facts exist, of the person or estate, or both of a person residing in this state who is: (1) A minor who has no guardian legally appointed by will or deed; (2) an habitual drunkard who is incompetent to manage his own property — here it’s using that word “incompetent again — (3) a spendthrift; or (4) a person who is of unsound mind, or from any cause mentally or otherwise incompetent to manage his own property.”

Now in getting declarations of incompetency a petition has to be filed by a relative or person asking the court for appointment of a guardian. And such petitions must have jurisdictional facts and circumstances making the appointment of a guardian necessary. Then there’s a citation that’s served, and then there’s a big hearing. And at this time it’s found that — the court has found it necessary that a guardian be appointed.

It has been evident from reports that many physicians and lawyers believe that commitment to the State Hospital is the same as declaration of incompetency and necessitates the appointment of a guardian. This impression is completely erroneous. North Dakota State Law 25-03-20 states: It preserves all civil rights of a hospital patient unless adjudicated — we are going back to “incompetent” again — incompetent by the court.

So in coming to some of these conclusions and looking over the things, it seems that you’re placing a nondeterminable, unanswerable burden on the physicians and the psychiatrists. The test — and other states have seemed to use it — would probably be about the same as that of the validity of a will on the grounds that the testator is not of sound mind when it is executed. And on that, if he knew enough to understand the nature of his acts, and if he understood what he was doing, that was probably sufficient.

Now I have no question in my mind that there are certain people that are not competent to vote. How to define it is a problem that I’m presenting to you. And I don’t think it has been presented in Delegate Proposal 2-69, nor has it been proposed in the old Constitution, for I couldn’t find any case law relating to that.

Now the burden of proof is on the person who would declare another person incompetent. He must be shown that the subject has a mental disorder, that the mental disorder must be the cause of his impairment of judgment, and it must be shown that the defect in judgment causes specific incapacity in reference to the question — the matter in question.

Now what I say to you, ladies and gentlemen, is that if we leave that type of wording in there without any definitions anyplace else, we're asking for trouble. We're asking for the elected judges to make all sorts of decisions and run the elections to their own way by saying a person is a spendthrift, he's incompetent for some reason or another. Incompetent for what? There's many different — I'm incompetent to walk if I have my leg in a cast, a broken leg.

I say to you that the very act of voting and giving your name as you walk into the voting booth and tell the individual who you are, where you are from, that falls in the first criterion under the validity of wills. Secondly, if you can go into the voting booth with the paper, read the paper, understand what it is and put your mark in that square without getting it kicked out, I say that you have passed the laws of defining your competency to vote.

Further, in going into the election machines, into the booths, these are very complicated and very difficult, and they have taken many hours of teaching. If the individual cannot do this he certainly is incompetent. And you're asking me as a psychiatrist and a physician some day maybe to say whether a person is incompetent to vote or not or you're going to leave it up to some vagary so that anybody can say that there's an incompetency. I think we can run around hunting witches if we want to. That's all. Thank you.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I'm going to leave the question of incompetency, insanity to Delegate O'Toole. But I think one issue in Delegate Proposal 2-69 that should be covered — two issues, in fact — that should be covered more thoroughly is the point of the restoration of the voting right of the convicted felon. We had in testimony before the committee the state parole officer who testified that there was an individual who had been convicted to the North Dakota Penitentiary — sentenced to the North Dakota Penitentiary back in the days of prohibition for doing something that I don't understand what it is, but anyway it was revolving around prohibition, and recently he was appointed by the Governor of Florida to a position in Florida. He could not take that position because of the fact that his civil rights were not restored in North Dakota. And they were not automatically restored upon the completion of his sentence. And so they had to go through this long and complicated process before Florida could have this fellow serve them, this former citizen of North Dakota. And this is the same thing that happens to many of the convicted felons in the state now, but unfortunately very few of the election officials know that these people are convicted felons. So they go right on merrily voting. What we are doing in committee proposal — the Committee Proposal 1-82 is saying that upon the completion of their sentence these people then be eligible to vote.

There is another point in Committee Proposal 1-82 that is not covered in Delegate Proposal 2-69; and that is that if an individual is convicted of any crime and is serving in a jail or penitentiary in this state he cannot vote at that time. And under the present Constitution, and under Delegate Proposal 2-69, all the people at the State Farm, everybody that is in the county jail for thirty days or more, can vote. They have the opportunity to vote. And what we are saying here is that if you have been convicted of this crime you cannot vote while you are in jail. And so this is why — one of the reasons why I think that we should defeat the amendment and pass Committee Proposal 1-82.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President: I would like to speak to Delegate Thompson's proposal. I am in favor of half of it, and I'm opposed to half of it. And if it's proper, I would like to divide the question. Is that possible at this time?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't have the proposal before me. But one of the rules of dividing the question is that the section which you are taking out must make sense. It has to be something that can be interpreted.

DELEGATE DEVINE: The point that I want to divide the question on is line 11 at the semicolon. The one section would read: "No person who is incompetent or insane shall be qualified to vote at any election." The second section, which I feel is separate: "Nor shall any person convicted of a felony, unless restored to civil rights."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You would like in line 11 to take the "nor shall any person convicted of a felony, unless restored to civil rights," you would like to have that out of there?

DELEGATE DEVINE: That's correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm afraid — I'm afraid that that does not leave a section that would be intelligible by itself; and, therefore, I would have to rule that it could not be separated. Excuse me one moment, Delegate Devine.

Stan, I'm afraid you're going to have to take over.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Devine, I believe you have the floor.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President: I would like to move an amendment to the amendment that's before the Convention. On line 11 delete the semicolon following the word "election". In lieu thereof insert a period. Delete the remainder of line 11 and all of line 12.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Speaking to the amendment to the amendment as I proposed it, I feel that these are two distinct and separate questions and I would like them further to be limited in this way. Personally, I feel that the amendment as it is before the Convention now is a good amendment. Section 127 of the present Constitution provides: "No person who is under guardianship, non compos mentis, or insane, shall be qualified to vote in any election . . ."

Section 16-01-04 of the North Dakota Century Code essentially provides the same thing.

I would eventually prefer to stay with the existing language, but I thought we would run into too much flak on the Latin term "non compos mentis". I feel that the provision is good. We heard the long discussion on this by Delegate O'Toole and why it shouldn't be there. In Nelson County, North Dakota — and this is for the purpose of illustration — we have four rest homes. Anywhere from 25 to 50 percent of the residents of these homes would be under guardianship, non compos mentis, or insane. A fair percentage of these people are former inmates of the State Hospital at Jamestown or from the school at Grafton.

Now Delegate O'Toole suggested that if these people can go and tell their name and make a mark on paper they should be entitled to vote. We don't have voting machines in Nelson County.

However, there is another provision that sometimes is abused, and I know has been abused in the past, and that's the absent voter ballot. Somebody loads up with these things, takes them around, gets the signatures and proceeds to help them vote. Now whether this is right or wrong, it's done. I know what the provision is on an absent voter; they can get around this thing without too much difficulty.

So I suggest that a large number of these people, 25, 50 percent, are not competent to vote. But by leaving this section in we are going to discourage any organized effort to get out the vote of this type of person.

Now I don't believe anybody has been prosecuted or I'm certain that there's no Supreme Court cases on individual efforts, but if this section is retained in the constitution I am convinced that it will discourage the organized effort. And that's the purpose of the amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: At this time the Clerk will read the proposed amendment to the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: In Section 2 of the amendment, following the words "vote at any election" delete the following: "; nor shall any person convicted of a felony, unless restored to civil rights."

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Delegate Devine yield to a question?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Devine, will you yield to a question?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Yes, Mr. President.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Did you indicate then that you want to delete the rest of it, or do you want to divide the question?

DELEGATE DEVINE: I am in effect dividing the question. They wouldn't let me do it the other way. To vote on these issues separately I had to amend.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: And of course you must understand then we have reached the point now in the rules as I understand it that there is no possible way to put the rest of it back in if your amendment passes. There can be no committee proposals or no delegate proposals at this point.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Thompson, I believe that you are getting slightly out of order. The first proposition is that we must vote on Delegate Devine's amendment to your amendment. Following either the adoption or the rejection of that amendment, then it is open to further amendment.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Thank you, Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any further discussion? All right. The question now is on the adoption of Delegate Devine's amendment to the original amendment. All in favor signify by saying "aye," opposed "no." The Chair will rule that the "noes" prevailed, and that the motion loses.

So that now we are back on the motion, the original motion, of Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Just so there isn't any misconception in the minds of the delegates that have been listening, if you look at Committee Proposal No. 1-82 it does not say "completion of sentence," it indicates "release from incarceration". And as I tried to indicate through my original proposal, I can still have ninety years left of my sentence, the minute I walk out of jail my civil rights would be restored. And I don't think that's anywhere near reasonable.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman: In this day and age in the prisons we've been fighting a tough battle. We have to be very rigid in many ways, and we want to be. We want to rehabilitate these people. And we want to have them developed. But we've got to make them some promises to help them look forward to something. And if they have nothing to look forward to, they have no reason for rehabilitation. And we're just giving them one little area of voting, which really was their right in the first place. And if you remember the reasons for imprisonment and punishment, it was because of punishment, detention, and to rectify what is done wrong. How can we promise people in a prison that they are going to have something to look forward to without some complicated mess and going to all the people that have put them in there in the first place?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any further discussion?

We are now on the main motion of Delegate Thompson that Delegate Proposal 2-69 — in essence what it amounts to is that the material in Delegate Proposal 2-69 be substituted for that in Committee Proposal 1-82.

All those in favor signify by saying "aye," opposed "no." The Chair rules that the "ayes" have it unless a division is called for.

All right. Division is granted. Now you're voting on the main motion. If you vote "aye" you're voting for Delegate Thompson's proposal. The board will be opened and you may signify your vote. Saugstad votes "ayes".

Has everyone voted? Does anyone wish to change their vote? If not, the board will be closed, and the Clerk will take the record.

The roll call discloses 52 "ayes," 42 "nays," four absent and not voting. Therefore, Committee Proposal 1-82 as amended has passed. The amendment has been adopted.

Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Question.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I move that the rules be suspended, and that the proposal be properly re-engrossed and placed at the head of the calendar.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Second by Delegate Solberg.

We are now on the motion of Delegate Thompson that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 1-82 be deemed properly re-engrossed and be placed on first passage. All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay." I believe because this will require a two-thirds vote that we will open the board. If you vote "aye" you're voting to suspend the rules so that we may take an immediate vote on 1-82. The board will be opened, you may record your vote.

Has everyone voted? Saugstad votes "aye". Has everyone voted?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I vote "aye".

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Does anyone wish to change their vote? If not, the board will be closed. The Clerk will take the record.

The record shows 68 "ayes," 26 "nays," four absent and not voting. Therefore, the motion to suspend the rules has passed, and Committee Proposal 1-82 is now at the head of the calendar as amended.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: I have an amendment to this. I think it probably will be a compromise amendment. Now I don't have it completely written up right at the present time. But after "felony" on line 12 strike "unless restored to civil rights" and include "which rights shall be restored not later than upon completion of his sentence".

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a copy of this amendment at the desk?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: No, I haven't got that written yet.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: Speaking indirectly on this motion, I personally feel that some amendments need to be made to 1-82 now. I think it's in a mess the way it is. I have an amendment that I wanted to offer, but I don't have it written down. It will take time. I would move that we lay this over one Convention day so that Delegate O'Toole can get his amendment ready; so that I could get one ready. Because I am very unhappy to vote on 1-82 as it is before us at this time.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Second by Delegate Kelsch. Is there any further discussion? Hearing none, then we are on the main motion of Delegate Longmire that further consideration to Committee Proposal 1-82 be held over one Convention day. All those in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The motion carries, and further consideration of Committee — on Committee Proposal 1-82 will be held over one Convention day.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Apparently now that Delegate Proposal 2-69 lays up there on the desk, I would like the Convention's unanimous approval to withdraw it so I can be its pallbearer to its resting place.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Thompson has requested unanimous approval to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-69. Is there any objection?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Delegate Berg said this afternoon that he was going to have a burial for his, but he didn't say what time. Now, Delegate Thompson, I'd like to know where and what time.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Hearing no objection, Delegate Thompson's request is granted, and Delegate Proposal 2-69 is withdrawn.

We'll be on the eighth order for announcements.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: May we be on the twelfth order?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We are on the twelfth order without objection.

DELEGATE HERNETT: At this time I would like to move that Committee Proposal No. 1-100 be placed at the head of the calendar, and 1-102 immediately following it on the calendar for tomorrow's business on the tenth order.

DELEGATE NETHING: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. It has been moved by Delegate Hernet that Committee Proposals 1-100 and 1-102 be placed at the head of the calendar. Any discussion? Delegate Nething seconds the motion. Hearing none, all in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion carries. Committee Proposals 1-100 and 1-102 are now at the head of the calendar.

We are now back on the eighth order. Any further announcements?

Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I move we adjourn until nine o'clock. Ready for that?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Not quite.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I move the absent members be excused.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kelsch moves that the absent members be excused.

DELEGATE DECKER: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Decker seconds the motion. All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." Motion carried.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Personal privilege please.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: May I suggest that everyone now before they go to bed read carefully the first two paragraphs of Rule 27.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Is the desk clear?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The desk is clear.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I move we adjourn until nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Second by Nicholas.

You heard the motion. All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." We are now adjourned.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 10:27 P.M., Wednesday, January 26, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Thursday, January 27, 1972.)

VOLUME XIX

(January 27, 1972)

(The nineteenth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:12 A.M., Thursday, January 27, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

We'll be on the second order of business, the invocation. Our Chaplain for this morning is David P. Kremmer with the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Bismarck.

REV. DAVID P. KREMMER: Let us pray.

Heavenly Father, we come to You asking the gift of Your Holy Spirit and Your grace upon this body. We are constantly and painfully aware that without those gifts and guidance no woman or man present here is qualified or worthy to make the decisions they have been called upon to make. As imperfect representatives of an imperfect people, they are called upon to decide issues which require perfect judgment and much courage. We ask that judgment, wisdom and courage of You, Lord. Make us all humble as we face the tasks You have assigned to us, and keep all those in this body constantly aware that You would have them write a constitution which provides for the good of all — the poor as well as the rich, the minority as well as the majority, the uninfluential as well as the influential. This is no simple task, Father, but You are no ordinary God. You make possible the impossible, and it is for that that we call upon You. Work through our consciences, our abilities, and our faith and lead us to pray with King Solomon, "And thy servant is in the midst of thy people whom thou hast chosen, a great people, that cannot be numbered or counted for multitudes. Give thy servant therefore an understanding mind to govern thy people, that I may discern between good and evil; for who is able to govern this thy great people?" Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — Roll Call. The Clerk will open the key, you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 97 present, one absent. A quorum is declared.

I surely want to welcome Delegate Benz back to our group. When I glanced at the board here, Delegate Benz, and I saw that little square I have all lighted up why I could hardly believe what I was seeing. But we are very, very happy that you are back with us. (Applause)

We'll be on the fourth order of business.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President: You probably note that the famous man from Fargo, Delegate Paulson, is back. I don't know that I'm glad to see him or not today, but I guess we'll get along.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson, we are — we are happy to see you back with our, shall I say, august body. And we do hope that you do not become overly ambitious and find that you have to leave us again, because as I understand it you've been playing around with pneumonia and that's not the best thing in the world to play with. So use a little caution.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I'll do that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And thank you, Delegate Rundle, for bringing it to my attention.

We will be on the fourth order of business — approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 25th day of January, 1972, and finds the same to be correct.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Revision and Correction of the Journal. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted.

We will go to the sixth order of business. Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: May we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President: I should like at this time to propose an amendment to Convention Rule 27, that section that deals with the rules of debate. And there is a copy of the proposed amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Constitutional Convention Rule 27.

On page 33, in the second paragraph, in the first line after the word "once" insert the following: "nor for longer than five minutes."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — or Clerk Roy, would you wait just long enough to let us find the place in the book? Where was the amendment again?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On page 33 in the second paragraph, in the first line, after the word "once" insert the following: "nor for longer than five minutes".

Said paragraph will read as follows with the amendment in it:

"Times Delegates May Speak. No delegate may speak more than once nor for longer than five minutes without leave of the President or a majority of those present and voting unless he be the mover of the matter pending or chairman of the committee that reported it, said chairman's designee or unless another delegate has yielded his time to speak or he is asked a question on the matter by another delegate. By majority vote, limits on times delegates may speak shall be suspended and shall remain suspended until the suspension is removed by majority vote."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have an amendment — second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Knudson.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I think that the rule change is self-explanatory; quite simple. It does not impair the full exposition of a proposition that we have before us by the committee chairman, his designee or the mover of any main motion, but will place an arbitrary limit of five minutes on others speaking on the subject per member.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of an amendment to Rule 27 as read from the desk and offered by Delegate Baker.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of adopting the Rule will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it and the Rule is adopted.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I rise to make an announcement relative to our present workload that is facing us. We have 51 committee proposals and 23 delegate proposals left to be acted upon. However, of the delegate proposals 21 of those are being held at the desk for withdrawal or indefinite postponement. There are five committee proposals that are at the desk for indefinite postponement. So we have actually to take positive action on the adoption or rejection of 46 committee proposals, two delegate proposals, for a total of 48 proposals. We have five working days remaining in which to clear our calendar. To give you some perspective as to what that entails, in the last two days we have disposed of seven committee proposals. The day before yesterday we did not clear any committee proposals from the calendar; yesterday we cleared seven. We actually worked on more, but either help them over or re-referred them to committee. That means then that we have to act on an average of ten, we have to clear ten, proposals per day from the calendar in order to get our work done on time. And, incidentally, we do have some very complex and controversial proposals to act upon.

The Calendar Committee has discussed this problem at length. And the Calendar Committee has asked that I convey this message to you: That (1) because of the size of this body and the number of amendments that are being offered from the floor, tends to slow down the work of this body to a very great degree, that some thought must be given to either curtailing or using more restraint in offering amendments from the floor. Consequently, this committee is recommending that we adhere strictly to our present rule which requires that any amendment offered from the floor that is at all substantive in nature be presented in writing to the desk prior to the time that it is offered as an amendment. This means then that unless you have had your amendment prepared in advance, that the only recourse then is to ask that the proposal be moved down the calendar or held back for a time certain.

The other suggestion — and this is in the form of a suggestion only — is that if your amendment makes a substantive change, then it should be examined and approved by a member of the staff so that it will be properly worded.

Now in the event your amendment is, say, just to correct defects such as a defect in the spelling, a simple word change or something of that nature, then it should not and will not be necessary, of course, to submit the amendment or have the amendment submitted in writing prior to the time that it is offered from the floor.

Because of the tremendous workload that is facing us, the plan for our Plenary Session at this time goes something like this: That today we will work until rather late this evening but not plan to have an evening session; however, tomorrow morning we are going to — we are planning to begin at eight A.M. In other words, we will work late this evening and we will begin our session at eight o'clock tomorrow morning.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: May we be on the eighth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I would like to announce my presence. My seat mate announced that had I been here we would for once all been here. If I thought it was in order I would move that we return to the third order of business.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce announces his presence.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: We are about to go into the sixth order of business. We have quite a number of amendments to adopt. And I believe that in the main these are non-controversial items. Therefore, I am going to move that the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage be excused so that they may begin consideration of Committee Proposals 1-83 and 1-85. Also that any of the delegates on the floor that have opinions that they — and amendments that they would like to have considered by this committee may excuse themselves to attend the meeting of this committee so that they may be heard. In the event that anything controversial comes up on the floor in the sixth order we will hold that in abeyance until these excused members return. We will also notify this committee when we have completed the sixth order and will begin work on the tenth order on the calendar. Thank you. I have made a motion. I need a second.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded, seconded by Delegate Litten, that the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage be excused in order that they might attend a committee hearing. As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

I have only one suggestion, one perhaps comment, and that is relative to the delegates that wish to appear before the Committee on Bill of Rights, Preamble and Suffrage; and that is don't — please don't all go at once.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: May we be on the twelfth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just hold up one second while the committee meets.

Now Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I have a motion that I would like to make at the desk. And if I could have the Clerk read it and get a second, I'd like to explain.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — would the Clerk read the motion?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hoffner moves:

1. That Proposals 1-105 through 1-113 which deal with initiative and referendum be presented as follows:

a. Each will be read in numerical order.

b. After each is read a committee member will explain the proposal.

c. Following the reading and explanation of Proposal 1-105 through 1-113, each will then be separately open for general discussion and amendment on Tenth Order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the motion. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Hendrickson.

Now do we have any further discussion?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: The committee unanimously felt that since these were all tied together so closely and if we were to consider the one without the explanation of the other there would be questions asked and we'd be referring back and forth, we thought that this method would save a lot of time for the Convention. And the committee also has some amendments to offer. Rather than go through the sixth order, they felt that this would be the best method to use.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Did Chairman Hoffner deliberately leave out 1-99 on that list?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: 1-99 could be considered afterwards. I thought the committee felt that 1-99 was not that closely related and could be considered afterwards, but that the Style and Drafting Committee include 1-99 which is recalled in the people's section in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe the Clerk neglected to read that this is to be held at a time certain. It reads "at 10:00 a.m., Friday, January 26," is the time that this is to come before the Convention. Is that right, Delegate Hoffner?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: February 28th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 28th. That's correct. 28th.

You've heard the motion. As many as are in favor of the motion will say

"aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and these proposals will then be given consideration at ten a.m. on Friday, January 28th.

We'll be on the sixth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hernet has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-25, as recommended by the Committee on Executive Functions, and as printed on Page 296 of the Journal be adopted.

The amendments are:

In line 15 after "may" delete ", by" and after "veto" delete ", strike" and insert in lieu thereof "or reduce" and after "bills" delete the comma and insert in lieu thereof a period.

Delete all of lines 16 and 17.

In line 18 delete "agencies." and after "vetoed" insert "or reduced".

In line 19 after "vetoed" delete "bill or item" and insert in lieu thereof "item or bill".

In line 23 after "passes" delete "the" and insert in lieu thereof "a vetoed item or".

On page 2 in line 1 after the period insert the following: "Any reduced item shall follow the same procedure as a vetoed item or bill, except if it is passed by a record vote of a majority of the elected members of both houses it shall become law."

Renumber the lines accordingly.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

The subcommittee from the Executive Functions Committee and a subcommittee from the Legislative Functions Committee met and worked out the functions of 1-25 which basically restored the governor's right to veto. However, the Legislature may override that reduction by a majority of the members. And in addition thereto the amendments removed from 1-25 the provision which gave the legislative appropriation immunity from the governor's veto. The discussion on the theory behind these amendments will be made tomorrow when it's on the tenth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President: I would like to ask if at all possible sometime today to have the new 1-25 reproduced and placed on our desks. All this leaves reference to lines. It's almost impossible to tell what we ended up with. Would that be possible?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It is possible.

Will you make a note so that we don't forget?

The question — Delegate Hoghaug, did you have a question?

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: No, Mr. President. I agree with Delegate Lander that it is confusing. I think if we could get even a mimeographed sheet it would be much easier to follow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

The question then is on the adoption of the Committee Report — adoption of the amendments on Committee Proposal 1-25. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendments are adopted.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President: I wonder if we could be on the twelfth order for just a minute. I'd like to move on the sixth order 1-120 to come up right behind 1-26 because they both relate to each other. I think I can explain them; save some time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething moves that 1-20 —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 1-120.

DELEGATE NETHING: 1-120. Excuse me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: —1-120 — you mean on the sixth order, Delegate Nething?

DELEGATE NETHING: Yes, I'd like to explain the amendments to that at the same time. I notice here I don't have them in my book, but I know what they are.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, the permission is granted to move Committee Proposal 1-120 immediately below 1-26. That's your request? Permission is granted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hernet has moved —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We did adopt the amendments on 1-25.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: He just explained it. We haven't adopted it yet.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Didn't we adopt those amendments? Didn't we vote on them?

DELEGATES: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Okay.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hernet has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-26, as recommended by the Committee on Executive Functions and as printed on Page 296 of the Journal be adopted.

The amendments are:

On page 1, line 19, after "or" delete "is disqualified" and insert in lieu thereof "fails to qualify".

On page 2, line 4, after the period delete the remainder of the line.

Delete all of lines 5 through 7 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"The supreme court shall have original, exclusive and final jurisdiction to determine absence and disability of the governor or governor-elect and to determine the existence of a vacancy in the office of governor and all questions concerning succession to the office or to its powers and duties."

Renumber the lines accordingly.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

The amendment to 1-26 is an outgrowth of the same subcommittee meeting as I explained earlier. The language relates to Page 2 where there was a question regarding the Supreme Court's involvement. And we believe the language offered will cure that objection. The gubernatorial succession, as you will recall we discussed earlier, and the subject came up about removal. And this is what we're talking to. And while we don't have 1-120 in front of us right now, I'd like to just let you know that 1-26 will be tied into what we've done on 1-120. So after we have approved these amendments I'll explain 120. And the further effect of 1-26 will be explained tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendment of Committee Proposal 1-26. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendments are adopted.

Next 1-120.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hernet has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-120, as recommended by the Committee on Executive Functions and as printed on Page 297 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

In line 1 of the title after "that" delete "two" and insert in lieu thereof "a" and after "new" delete "sections" and insert in lieu thereof "section".

In line 2 after the comma delete "both of" and after "which" delete "pertain" and insert in lieu thereof "pertains".

In line 5 after the parentheses delete "Two" and insert in lieu thereof "A" and after "new" delete "sections" and insert in lieu thereof "section".

In line 6 after "Dakota" delete "are" and insert in lieu thereof "is".

Delete all of lines 7 through 17 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 1. Removal from Office.

"All elected and appointed officers of the state and its political subdivisions other than judicial officers shall be subject to removal from office as may be provided by law for crime, corrupt conduct, malfeasance, or because of chronic and continuing inability to perform the duties of office.

"Proceedings for removal of state executive officers shall be commenced as provided by law in the Supreme Court of the state, which court shall have original, exclusive, and final jurisdiction."

Renumber the lines.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

As you can see, there's quite a bit of change in the amendments on 1-120. And what the amendments are doing there is we are setting forth the procedure for removal from office for all elected and appointed officers, except judicial, in the State of North Dakota.

The last paragraph provides that the removal for state executive officers — that is any elected or appointed officer in the state — shall be under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. This then will permit the Legislature to prescribe who will have jurisdiction of the removal proceedings in the political subdivisions.

I might mention that earlier we passed 1-33. This was back on the 11th of January. That had a provision which related to appointed officers insofar as removal is concerned. If these amendments are adopted, and if tomorrow 1-120 is approved, we will then move an amendment on 1-33, which the effect will be that we will have all of our removal proceedings in one section. And the joint subcommittee felt that this was in our best interests.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-120. As many as are in favor of the motion to adopt will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: What was the page number of those amendments in the Journal?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Page 297.

DELEGATE LANDER: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: May we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President: At this time I would like to move that due to the fact that there were quite involved amendments in 1-25, 1-26 and 1-120 that we have them — not a new proposal printed, but just to have a distribution made of each of those three proposals as amended at the desk for tomorrow's reading so they can be made on the tenth order.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Engrossed copies on all the desks? I mean a copy of it?

DELEGATE NETHING: Just a copy of all three of them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that we have copies of 1-25, 1-26 and 1-120 prepared and distributed to the desks prior to the opening of tomorrow's session.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Point of inquiry. Could these also be punched so that they could be inserted in the bill books?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: They will be too long, because they are on legal — yes, I think we can. I think we can reduce them. Yeah, I think so.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: That would be very good.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the motion. As many as are in favor will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the copies of the proposals will be on the desks in the morning.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hoffner has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-29, as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions and as printed on Pages 296 and 297 of the Journal be adopted.

The amendments are:

On page 1, line 15, of the engrossed proposal delete the words "a majority vote of".

On line 18 delete the comma after the word "senators" and insert a period and delete the remainder of the line and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"The commission shall guarantee that, as nearly as practicable, every voter is equal to every other voter in this state in the casting of ballots for legislative offices. One senator and at least two representatives shall be apportioned to each senatorial district and be elected at large or from subdistricts thereof."

Delete all of lines 19, 20 and 21.

On line 22 insert the word "The" before the word "commission".

On line 23 delete the words "in single or" and insert in lieu thereof the words "or from subdistricts thereof".

On line 24 delete everything before the period.

On page 2, line 9, after the period insert the following: "No member of the legislative assembly shall be eligible for appointment to the commission."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: This is the reapportionment proposal. These amendments are largely of a perfecting nature. They received 85 percent support of the committee. There will be discussion of this on tenth order. I understand from talking to delegates that there will be numerous amendments and extended discussion on tenth order. Should be a lot of fun.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: Maybe in this case the amendment — the proposal should be reprinted for the use of the members because there are extensive amendments. Do we need a motion to do that or just a request?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No. Any further discussion on the proposed amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-29? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of adopting the amendments will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Haugen has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-74, as recommended by the Committee on Finance and Taxation and as printed on page 282 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

On page 1 delete lines 10 through 12 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"STATE DEBT: The state may issue bonds and make loans, and guarantee the payment of such bonds and loans and interest thereon. A statewide property tax based on value shall not be used to retire or guarantee such bonds or loans."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

This amendment just makes it a little easier to understand. And I'll certainly try my best to explain this better on the tenth order tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendment to Committee Proposal 1-74. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendments will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and it will be on the tenth order tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Haugen has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-87, as recommended by the Committee on Finance and Taxation, as printed on Page 283 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

On line 20 after the period delete the remainder of the line and delete all of lines 21 and 22.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the proposed amendments. Is there any discussion? Is there any discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-87. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendments will say "aye." those opposed "no."

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think the amendments lost. I don't think we adopted the amendments. The Chair will rule that the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-87 failed.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I suggest that somebody give us some information here as to what these amendments are because it's very difficult to pick up and look at an amendment with about five seconds' notice and know what you are intelligently voting on. I would suggest that somebody be prepared to explain the amendments when they come onto the floor.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: May I explain the amendment at this point?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Pardon?

DELEGATE UNRUH: May I explain the amendments at this point?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, you may explain the amendments.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I wasn't assigned to do it, but I concur with Senator Longmire.

The amendment merely removes the last sentence of Proposal 1-87. And as you recall, yesterday we voted to accept the Minority Report which provides that the highway dedicated users fund remains intact without giving authority to the Legislature to pierce this by a two-thirds vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, Fellow Delegates, do you wish to go through the procedure of reconsidering your action whereby the amendment failed?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I move we reconsider our action by which the amendment to this Proposal 1-87 failed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I have a second?

DELEGATE BAKER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been seconded by Delegate Baker.

As many as are in favor — Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I wonder if we're still doing the right thing here. The Committee Chairman isn't here, many of the others are not here. This was a very controversial subject the other day. I think we should hold this up until we have — have our members back here. I will oppose the motion to reconsider.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I'm confused, too. I thought when we adopted the Minority Report this was all taken care of.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No. We have the amendments. We go on sixth order. And the situation, just so we understand where we are, that we did have Committee Proposal 1-87 before the Convention. And there was no discussion on the amendments. And I think you will agree that the Chair called three times for some discussion and we didn't get any, so I put the question and the amendments failed. And the Chair ruled that the amendments to the proposal lost. So now if we are going to do anything with them we have to reconsider the action as Delegate Longmire has suggested and Delegate Longmire has so moved. We have a second over here. So the question before the Convention at this time is whether we are going to pick this up and have it before the Convention.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President: May I suggest that we vote on the motion to reconsider and reconsider our — reconsider our action, and then a motion could be made to defer action until we have a larger body here in the adoption of the amendment, if that will be the will, which I think it will, of the Convention.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would urge that we reconsider this matter and take the amendments. Yesterday we spent several hours arguing to delete lines — the last sentence on this thing. The majority of this body said we should leave it. All we are doing is going through the formality of accomplishing what we said we would do yesterday. I see no reason to hold this up. They want to try to amend it again, it will come up on the tenth order. But let's get the amendments out of the way.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question right now, though, Delegate Kelsch, is to reconsider the action of defeating the amendments.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: You recall this was not an amendment, this was a Minority Report. And I thought all Minority Reports if they prevailed they went right on the tenth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Minority Report was to amend, Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I'm sorry. Is that the way the report read, Roy? Okay.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And the question again before the Convention is that we reconsider the action whereby we defeated the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-87.

As many as are in favor of the motion to reconsider will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal is again before the Convention.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: I believe that the chairman who presented this for sixth order has been absent for committee readings downstairs and as a result no one was assigned to this. But I do hope that we now will consciously vote to sustain this in the sixth order so that it may go onto the tenth order tomorrow morning for final disposition.

DELEGATE LANDER: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question now —

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: This is utterly noncontroversial. And as the speaker for the Majority Report yesterday, I certainly hope the delegates will approve the amendment so it may go on the tenth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: We are on the amendment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Pardon?

DELEGATE AUBOL: The amendment will be read before we vote again?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It can be read.

Would the Clerk read the amendments again?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On line 20 after the word "period" delete the remainder of the line and delete all of lines 21 and 22.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the question is on the adoption of the amendments of Committee Proposal No. 1-87.

As many as are in favor of the adoption will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hoffner has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-88, as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions and as printed on Page 284 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

On line 1 before the numeral "44" insert the numerals "38, 40, 43," and also in line 5 delete the numeral "53".

On line 5 before the numeral "44" insert the numerals "38, 40, 43," and also in line 5 delete the numeral "53".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I believe I assigned this to Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: 1-88?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-88. Committee Proposal No. 1-88.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President: I was involved in other amendments and forgot my assignment, and I apologize.

Proposal — Committee Proposal No. 1-88 is for the purpose of deleting the numbers indicated of the old Constitution so that they can be taken out because they have been involved or made a part of new sections in the new Constitution, such as 44, 51, 53, 54, 57, 59, 60 and 62 in Section 199 and Article 75. They will be incorporated, and in some instances some will be completely deleted because they are of no consequence at the — at this time, they being inherent to the new Constitution. So this is for the purpose of deleting those, and because they have been incorporated in new proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the proposed amendments, Committee Proposal No. 1-88. As many as are in favor of the adoption will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendments are adopted.

Proceed with the sixth order.

We have nothing further then but the tenth.

The Convention will be at ease until the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage is returned to the Convention floor.

(The Session recessed at 10:00 A.M. until 10:16 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

We will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Solberg announces that the twelfth grade of the Bismarck High School of Bismarck, North Dakota, and their teacher and the government teachers, which are Rudy Steidle, John Helgerson, Bob Otto, Loran Guenthen, and Sieg Winger, are in the gallery with us today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would the students and their instructors and those visiting in the balcony please rise and be recognized by the Convention?
(Applause)

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Could I please ask the delegates for the benefit of the verbatim Court Reporter down here when they are discussing their different proposals to use the "1-120". If you use just "120" it makes it a little harder for him to transcribe.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further?

We'll be on the tenth order of business. First for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-100.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-100, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that two new sections to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, both of which pertain to the executive branch of government, be created.

"SECTION 1.) Two new sections to the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby created to read as follows:

"Section 1. Executive Organization.

"(a) The legislative assembly shall allocate the executive powers among not more than fifteen principal state departments which shall be organized along broad functional lines. The head of each department shall be a single executive unless otherwise provided by this constitution or by statute. The legislative assembly shall prescribe the duties for each executive department and shall also provide for the periodic reorganization of such department.

"(b) The governor may, by executive order, provide for the reorganization of the executive departments, other than constitutionally elective offices. If this executive order contravenes law it shall be submitted within the first twenty days of the legislative session and shall have the force of law provided it is not disapproved by the legislative assembly before the close of the session. Such changes shall take effect at the date provided in the executive order.

"Section 2. State Planning Council.

"The chief executive officers of the principal state departments shall constitute the state planning council. The governor shall be chairman of the council and the lieutenant governor shall be vice chairman. The council shall prepare a comprehensive state plan based on the comprehensive plan for each department."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-100.

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President: I suppose if most people had to register their objections to our present Constitution in one sentence I think it would be that our current Constitution fails to provide an adequate framework of government. I think we have noticed in the major proposals presented this past week by the Judiciary Committee and the Legislative Committee that they have done a creditable job in strengthening the framework of the legislative and judicial branches of government.

Committee Proposal 1-100 is an attempt to provide a strong framework of the executive branch of government. The ancestors who wrote this present Constitution didn't have the problem, of course, that we have today in government that has been caused by the uncontrolled growth of our agencies. And this proposal is an attempt to limit the number of state agencies and provide for some orderly planning. All of us, whether we are participating in the management of our families, our business, our governmental affairs, engage in planning. And I think it's obvious in many cases of government, the federal government in the last few years, have been attempting to do so. Here we are setting it forth as a requirement in the Constitution.

I suppose if we ask ourselves what is the goal of the executive branch of state government we have to say that it is to effectively achieve the mandates given the executive branch by our Constitution and by the Legislature. And the question then is what is the reason that the executive branch has failed to effectively achieve these goals, if they have, in fact, failed? I think the two main reasons are that we have numerous independent agencies producing fragmented efforts in the delivery of governmental services. And the second reason would be that we have had no or very little comprehensive planning to assist in determining and coordinating the duties and establishing the priorities of our agencies.

I think that the solutions to these problems are that we can reduce the number of agencies by consolidating related functions into single departments. And the underlying concept of our proposal is that government should be organized — the departments of government should be organized along — around basic goals rather than narrow subjects or very limited constituencies. I think if we look at the sprawling mass of agencies that we have in North Dakota today we can safely say that our related functions are not consolidated and that we are not organizing our departments around basic goals or organizing them along broad functional lines.

Section 1(a) provides that: The legislative assembly shall allocate the executive powers among not more than fifteen principal state departments . . .” and that the Legislature “shall prescribe the duties” for these departments and “provide for the periodic reorganization”. This provides the limited number of state agencies and is somewhat consistent with the federal plan for reorganization of the federal government for the last forty years. And it’s also consistent with the idea of sound management advanced by many private organizations over the last period of years.

Section 1(b) is new to North Dakota. That is it is not in our present Constitution. But it is not new to North Dakota in that the Legislative Research Committee five or six years ago had proposed this as a constitutional provision. It’s also a provision that has been adopted by a number of our other states and is currently under consideration by other states that are engaged in constitutional revision.

This provision simply allows the governor by executive order to reorganize the departments which are not constitutionally elected offices whereby he can keep an updated system going where legislative functions are in the same agency. The operations of these agencies change from time to time; they are given new duties by the Legislature. And for passage of time and other reasons it’s sometimes best to transfer functions from one department to another. This is a way of doing so.

Section 2 is the requirement for the State Planning Council. Currently we have a State Planning Council that’s been implemented by executive order, but the problem is who do you decide sits on the State Planning Council when we have anywhere from fifty to a hundred and fifty state agencies depending upon how you count. If we are going to have effective planning you simply must have a limited number of agencies before you can engage in planning. Right now every agency that gets a separate appropriation consults the Legislature with the sole idea of gaining the largest increase for its department as possible. The department heads never sit down together and decide which of the programs of the state executive agencies are carrying out or are of the highest priority. This is an attempt of having the executives decide amongst themselves which are priority programs and propose a necessary proposed budget to the Legislature. And this provision puts the governor as the chairman of the Planning Council and the lieutenant governor as the vice chairman. We intend that the lieutenant governor shall be out of the legislative process and be a full-time assistant governor.

And I believe, in summation, that the two major cruxes of this proposal are to provide for a limited number of state agencies, and require that they engage in comprehensive planning. I urge your support of this proposal. It had the almost unanimous support of our committee on Sections 1(a) and in Section 2, that is the limited number of agencies and the State Planning Council. And on Section 1(b) there was some discussion as to exactly the procedure that should be followed, but there was substantial agreement that the idea of governor — of gubernatorial reorganization of the executive branch be provided. And I think that when we look at our current fragmentation of government, I think it's obvious that neither the executive nor legislative branches of government have really been effective in reorganization of that government. And I think this proposal will accomplish that effectively. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President: Proposal 1-100 is apparently an attempt to concentrate political power and remove it away from the people. I'm opposed to any such move as that. And if this goes through in conjunction with 102, it will lose voter control over a lot of the state government.

Now it's been mentioned here frequently that the governor lacked a lot of power. Now apparently under this proposal you are going to have a lieutenant governor act as an assistant governor to relieve him of a workload. I think this whole thing is completely out of line with a free government of, by and for the people.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Rude.

DELEGATE RUDE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Many persons seem to believe that the President of the United States and the governor in each of the states can be approximately likened to one another in the nature and extent of their powers of office. This is by no means true. We can say that the governor is the captain of a ship of state navigated by a crew which he does not select and over which he has few powers of command. Despite this, however, the governor is the one whom the voters hold responsible for the conduct of state affairs.

And the next — what I'm going to say is taken from the LRC recommendation. "Because of this division of authority and responsibility the governor cannot establish the program upon which he ran for election, nor can duplication be prevented, or adequate coordination obtained. The governor is unable to create an effective integrated executive branch, with the result that state government is weak and unable to effectively cope with problems facing it. The governor, as a responsible head of the executive branch, should have considerable latitude to design an organizational pattern in keeping with his leadership style and program priorities."

Amongst experts in public administration there is near universal agreement that the approach represented in our Section (b) is a desirable means of providing this flexibility. The Legislature in the exercise of its general law-making power can reorganize the executive branch at any time. But the governor is also unable to initiate reorganization by statute orders automatically unless rejected by both houses of the Legislature.

Thus, without removing legislative checks, the prospects of obtaining administrative restructuring within a reasonable time, and especially within the term of a proposing governor, are greatly enhanced.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I wonder if a member of the committee would explain Section (b) in a little more detail to describe how the governor by executive order could reorganize the executive department. I don't think there is any problem giving the governor that power except where it would contravene law. Now as I read the section it indicates that the order would have to be submitted to the Legislature within twenty days and then if it is not objected to by the Legislature it would go into effect. But then later on the last sentence says it will be effective at the time of the order. I wonder if there isn't some inconsistency there. I also wonder what an executive order is. Now is this a new type of law or is this filed someplace, is this an official document of state that exists some place? I'm also concerned about how this might fit in with the legislative article that we have adopted that calls for — or allows the Legislature to meet and recess at different times. Are we going to have problems with twenty days and then adjourning the session? Now maybe they won't adjourn, I think, until — they might not adjourn until the end of the second year. And does the executive order go in effect — when does it go in effect?

DELEGATE HILL: Since this isn't the language for that section that I wanted, I'll ask Delegate Vogel to explain that.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: This is based very largely on provisions which were adopted recently in Illinois, also in Alaska and in most of the other states that have been considering constitutional revision. Some have done it by statute. It is also the recommendation essentially that was made by the LRC study commission in 1963.

As Mr. Hill has said, one of the greatest problems facing all state governments is the enormous conglomeration of state boards, agencies, committees and commissions that has grown up. And governmental reorganization has been a problem in practically every state in the union. This is the method that has been used generally to try to create some order out of the chaos that most executive departments in most states are today. New York was one of the first which adopted a governmental reorganization program something on this order.

To answer Mr. Kelsch, the process is this: — and this was what was done in both Illinois and Alaska — the Legislature is directed to reorganize state government along broadly functional lines. We toyed with the idea of no ceiling, then with twenty departments, with twelve departments, and fifteen seemed a compromise figure.

The legislative branch is given primary authority to reorganize state government into this number of departments. Then after that has been done the governor can from time to time make rearrangements, reallocate the functions and the duties of the executive department within these fifteen departments. If this would require a change in the law, then it is put in the form of an executive order and presented to the Legislature. Only the Legislature can make laws, and no change in the laws can be made unless the Legislature gives its permission. It's an effort to cut through the red tape but still give the Legislature the final authority. No reorganization which is in conflict with an existing legislative provision can go into effect without the approval of the Legislature. But it does save the time of the Legislature and red tape. This is primarily an executive department function, rearranging the powers and duties.

I think there is some problem probably with the twenty-day figure. This is one of the problems when you have one committee working on something and another committee working on something else. And we didn't know what the legislative term would be. But this would put — this would permit the rearrangement to go into effect at the time specified in the executive order, and it would give the Legislature the number of days between the time it was submitted and whenever the end of the session is and this possibly could have some rearrangement to disapprove it, if not disapproved it would go into effect with the force of law.

Does that answer your question to any extent?

DELEGATE KELSCH: I think it answers the question, although I don't know that the wording says exactly that. I think maybe it is unclear. And maybe after the last sentence that it should take effect at the time stated in the executive order. If it contravenes law, in that case it would only take effect after the Legislature had a chance to consider it. If it didn't contravene law, it would take effect whenever the Legislature said it should.

DELEGATE VOGEL: That is not what we mean. That unless it is disapproved by the Legislature it would go into effect, but in no case if the Legislature disapproves it. As I say, this is the path taken by Michigan, by Alaska, and it's under consideration in almost half of the states of the Union today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I think Delegate Kelsch has put his finger on what's wrong with the picture. Committee Proposal 1-100, in my opinion, is a bold, new approach to the problem — or I'm not so sure it's a problem — but anyway the proposition of executive reorganization. And in the operation of such a structure the executive order in the hands of the governor could be an important tool. However, the way that the committee chose to put the executive order into our Constitution I feel has many faults; those that Delegate Kelsch has mentioned, the question of the days that we write into the Constitution, the detailed time lapse for certain functions and that sort of thing, which I think if we think about it we all know is bad Constitution writing. And at one time the committee had under consideration what I think would be the cure for this problem. But it — that idea got snowed under the blizzard of words from other states' constitutions and so forth.

Maybe I can make the idea a little more clear now in the hope that this assembly will approve the idea and then will direct the committee or somebody else to go about setting this matter right. I think that the way to handle the executive order is to provide in the Constitution that one of the powers of the governor is the executive order under detailed application as prescribed by law. Now the section that deals with the — or the particular proposal that deals with the power of the governor has gone by us now and it is in Style and Drafting. So if you agree that this power of the governor, which the governor now in North Dakota does not have, we're silent on the subject of the executive order, the executive order that you read about in the newspapers once in awhile is no more than a polite letter from the governor. That's what it is. If we were to provide in the Constitution that one of the powers of the governor is the executive order, and to provide that the Legislature shall write the rules of the application of that executive order, then that could be an important new function in the executive department and I believe it would fit in well with the other theory as expounded here in 1-100.

The remedy, I believe, would be to divide the question so as to separate Part (b) under Section 1 and to vote that down while approving the balance and then by motion direct a return of the other proposal, the number of which I have forgotten now, and bring it out on the floor for amendment as a provision for the executive order.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I'd like to speak a little bit more to the matter of the executive order. And I think the committee felt that inasmuch as it really does deal with reorganization that it should be presented to you as a body as part of the executive organization, and it also affects the matter of the Planning Council. And I also think that the committee did agree somewhat that probably it should be prescribed in duties of the governor. But rather than — since we reached that decision after the other measure passed we thought we had to bring it to you this way.

The matter of executive order in North Dakota state government is relatively new. We had but one expert appear on the subject, that being the governor himself. And he explained to us how at times he has used it and how really in using it the only thing that is behind it is the prestige of the office and the influence that the governor personally has with the people to whom he directs the order. There are times, primarily now, where we have many federal programs that are administered through the governor's office. Now this is something that ten years ago we did not have much of. Well, when it comes to his office he has to find a place, an agency — unless the Legislature will create a new one for him — where to have these matters handled. And the executive order has been a good way for him to work at this even though it did not have the effect of law. There may be times when he wants to reorganize some of the departments because of the federal picture and the programs that they have that must be administered in North Dakota. It was our feeling that when this does come about that the office of governor should have this authority so that the necessary reorganization of a particular department under his jurisdiction, so to speak, that he could do this.

Now there are also times when this might contravene existing law. And we by no means are giving him authority to contravene existing law unless he has the permission from the Legislature, which comes about only if the Legislature disapproves of the order that he issues. In other words, it's not something that they have to — to pass themselves; it's a matter of approving or disapproving the order. We think it would be a very handy tool for the governor to have, and I don't think the committee would have any particular objection to placing this under the powers and duties of the governor as opposed to having it here. We felt in talking about the concept of office, reorganization, state planning, it all fit together and this was the place to discuss it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

I feel that we need this proposition exactly like Custer needed more Indians. It's so full of holes, they have started pointing them out, I'm not even going to worry about the holes it has in it. But it's so full of holes it probably would wind up being amended fifty-two times. Just to start out on the very second line, "more than fifteen principal departments; what's a principal department"? The governor, if he so felt like it, could name fifty of them. They wouldn't be principal departments. They might soon grow to be principal departments, but they weren't when they started. I think we have one department now that started out with a legislative appropriation of 68,000, now I think it costs 800,000 to run. This is a small example. It's legislation in reverse. Sure, you give the Legislature the chance. But within twenty days I believe it says if they haven't acted it "shall have the force of law provided it is not disapproved", and so on.

And many people here have argued about legislation in the Constitution. I don't think that there is such a thing, really. But this is legislation in reverse; it is law if the Legislature doesn't act. I am not going to worry any further. I want to be on the record as opposing this absolutely, positively and I'm not going to worry about the details. You people want to amend it many times, why it will be fine with me.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel. I'm sorry. I'm sorry, Delegate Scheel, Delegate Meidinger asked for the floor.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: All right.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President: Like Delegate Rundle, I'm not going to be too concerned about the details. However, I would like to speak in behalf of Proposal 1-100. I have long felt and worked for governmental reorganization. I think the need is clear and that this is the time to get with it. State governments occupy the middle ground between the national government and local governments — that level of government that bears the primary responsibility for domestic government in these United States.

Outmoded constitutions and the outdated organization and structure of most state governments obstruct effective state and local action. Problems remain unsolved despite attempts by the federal government to fill the void with over 400 grant-in-aid programs — at a current annual cost that has reached over $20 billion and continues to grow each year.

I think the challenge is clear: to so structure and finance state governments that they can be responsive to the important public needs for which the constitution makes them responsible. To be responsive, states must be able to act. This is one of those vehicles that I think makes it more possible. Responsive state and local governments and private enterprise are essential to the solution of social and economic problems and to restoring constitutional balance to federal-state relationships. I do believe that there are some holes in these proposals, but this is one step on the way. I'm sure there will be some pain, but I believe it's a step in the right direction. Thank you.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

We appreciate this report of Delegate Meidinger. We have given a lot of thought to this, and it hasn't been completely inexperienced thought. We are getting the idea that the thing is shot full of holes. It is not shot full of holes at all. It's "shall allocate the executive powers among not more than fifteen principal state departments". This was an idea of making the government responsible, with making them consolidate when they start to fragment.

We talk about twenty days down there. We are asking that the governor have his report, if it contravenes a law, submitted to the Legislature within twenty days of the start of the session so that the Legislature has plenty of time to consider it.

Now we understand, of course, the legislative sessions under this new proposal may end up at say thirty days, in which case this thing will have to be amended. But we're not putting this forward — the structure has been thought out, the structure is good. It's the way a structure operates in a good business. And government isn't that much different than business, it isn't that — when you talk about business you're talking about farming, you're talking about the operation of a school system, you're talking about anything; good management, good administration. And the proposal we have here isn't just off the top of our hats, it's the result of a lot of stirring, and a lot of consideration, consideration how the voters will feel about this out in — when we get back and try to sell this thing as we are going to have to do between now and May or June and also the consideration of how we'll function. Thank you.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. President:

I would like to call — when I have a chance — to the attention of the delegates a letter that was brought to the attention of the committee from the Governor of Delaware. Now of course Delaware went to a complete cabinet form of government. Now we are not proposing that by any means. The governor — Governor Peterson moves on to tell of the changes Delaware has made. He says — and my remarks are going to be very brief, but I just wanted to make some quotes from him — "By the time I took office in January of 1969 the use of commissions in Delaware — in the Delaware government had grown to approximately 140 commissions and agencies, all theoretically reporting to the governor. In less than two years we have switched to a cabinet structure with ten departments, each headed by a secretary responsible to and serving at the pleasure of the governor. Today the government — the Governor of Delaware can gather around one table all the decision makers in the executive branch of state government. These people are full-time employees of the people of Delaware. Working twelve or more hours a day, try bring to bear on our problems, talents and expertise, that simply were not available before the full-time basis."

"This does not mean that the cabinet form is a bed of roses, because now the thorns of responsibility are larger and sharper. There is no longer the luxury of referring a problem to a commission or agency for decision. The buck stops where the responsibility is; first in the cabinet secretary's lap and then on the governor's desk."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I would merely wish to move to have the remarks of Delegate Meidinger recorded in the Journal. I understand there is a copy at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Delegate Meidinger have a copy of his remarks? Then the request is granted.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President:

Would Delegate Scheel yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would Delegate Scheel yield to a question?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Yes, Mr. President.

DELEGATE KESSEL: In 1(b) of your proposal you mention that the executive order shall take effect at a date provided therein.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Yes.

DELEGATE KESSEL: And, secondly, if it contravenes law it shall be submitted to the Legislature. Now who is to determine when it contravenes law?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Well, I would think the same person that determines it right now. Because executive orders can be given now. We're not setting this up as a new provision. An executive order is just an administrative order. For instance, in your office if you put out an order people shall not park near the building, they are to leave room for your customers, that's really an executive order. Now if that contravenes law — and the governor can put out executive orders now — the same thing would prevail then. Who decides now if it contravenes law?

DELEGATE KESSEL: The point is that when you provide that the executive order shall take effect at the date provided therein, then you will have that in effect, do you not, even if it does contravene law until the legislative assembly acts on it?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: This has to — Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: This has to be clarified, of course, with an amendment. Because our intention was that ordinarily an executive order would be given the Legislature with the idea it's going to take effect July 1st or next October 1st if it had to do with something like that, and that only after it has been approved by the Legislature then at some later date it would take effect.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Thank you.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President:

I just have one question. In Section (a), last sentence: "The legislative assembly shall prescribe the duties for each executive department and shall also provide for the periodic reorganization of such department." Could this then — that sentence gives the Legislature the authority to, once they have established the department, after two or three years, could they then remove that department?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, to whom do you direct the question, to Delegate Hill?

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President. Yes, that's correct, Delegate Hoffner. The Legislature will have several constitutional offices which will be discussed in Committee Proposal 1-102. But there are eleven other agencies which the Legislature, if they so desire, can totally rearrange if they wish. I think the history of the Legislature has been that they are unable to reorganize the government. They have been no more effective in government reorganization than they have been in reapportionment. And I think a directive of this nature would limit to a total number of agencies and will encourage them to reorganize. And I think this will do so. And since reorganization is so important, and it's so difficult to engage in, this is why we've also tried to get the executive branch or the governor to promote governmental reorganization also.

But I think one more word on the executive order. In effect, the way this is proposed we're saying, as regards reorganization, the governor can make law by executive order if the Legislature does not disapprove it after they've had the opportunity to consider it. But I think it's essential that we get reorganization, and we're trying to encourage it both from the governor's point of view and from the Legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I would like to rise in support of Committee Proposal 1-100. I don't think there's any question but what we need reorganization. And as far as control is concerned, I think that this not only gives the governor closer control of some of this reorganization, but it also gives the Legislature a closer contact and closer control of these departments. I think right now that they are all working in their own different directions. I think they are all responsible to themselves only. And I think this plan, the plan that we really need to bring all of these functions and all of these problems into focus under these fifteen departments, is good. I suppose that the basic plan does need amendment, and perhaps we've reached a point here where some of these amendments could be discussed. I don't have one, but I would again support this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Thank you, Mr. President.

It seems to me that under Section (a) where it says "the legislative assembly shall prescribe the duties and provide for reorganization" is the point at which the Legislature could say, "This is the way we want it." And if it's to be changed by executive order it shall follow the certain procedures that are set out. In other words, if the governor wants to change this by executive order he would have to submit it to the Legislature when in session, not in recess, so they wouldn't have to call a special session back in to approve the authority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President:

I'm in favor of Proposal 1-100. But I think there are problems in Section (b) that certainly need amending. I'm wondering, Mr. President, if we should divide the question. I think there are three separate matters we're dealing with; (a), (b) and (c).

If we were to divide the question to vote on them, could we refer (b) back to committee for amendment? I realize the whole proposal will have to go back, but couldn't we let the vote on (a) and (c) stand if it carried? Even though the proposal goes back? I know the whole proposal has to go back. But if we could consider the vote as binding that those two pass, the committee would then know that all they had to do was rework (b) to more clearly state what they are trying to get at.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, I believe that we could vote on those two and then refer the other one back to committee if that would be the will of the Convention.

Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President. If this is going to go back why then maybe I shouldn't take the time. But may I ask a couple of questions? It will only take a minute. Has the committee given any consideration to the reorganization procedure here in case we evolve with a permanent civil service in each one of these administrative areas? So that with the change of administration, change of party probably in the future, that this might cause a great problem in reorganization.

My second question is, if I may, and that is what about the overlapping? Because we have one or two yet to consider, and here are elected positions and elected officers. Will they be a part of the planning commission? I do not see it in line 23 and 24 of this bill if they are to be.

And then my other question is also that we have approved a legislative auditor. And as a result he's going to be a legislative administrative officer, and here we're going to have these others that are going to be elected, and then we are going to have not more than fifteen appointed positions. What kind of a conglomerate might result if some of these pressures were to result in the future?

I'm reminded of the president — the chairman of the board of a corporation who called his board of directors together and then he said, "Now, fellows, I have a suggestion to make. And I don't think that you need to be so concerned about it, but don't ever forget who made it." And so maybe our direction here is to centralization.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: I believe many of Delegate Solberg's answers will be provided when we get to discuss 1-102.

I would like to make some comments on this proposal. The proposal gives the legislative and the executive branches joint responsibility to reorganize the executive department of government. There is no harm in considering innovation and creativity. Admittedly, this Committee Proposal is innovative, it is creative; however, it does provide the tools and the powers for our executive branch of government to function more effectively and plan for the future of North Dakota with adequate but not restrictive means of checks and balances. I believe our Constitution can survive a certain amount of error and stupidity providing our decisions are based on right principles. I do not believe this proposal is stupid, nor do I believe it is an error. And believe me, it is based on right principles, and it can survive.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

In response to the questions that have been asked, I'll try to answer them briefly. Regarding the matter of the effect of reorganization on those that might be under a merit system, I might — the only knowledge that I have would come from information provided as a legislator wherein there have been discussions and promises made combining our Social Services Department with the State Training School, Health Department. We did some combining there. And some of these departments are under a merit system, some are not. And the information — when we were asked the question at the legislative hearings, well, does this not create a problem? Whether it will in the future, of course, I couldn't say.

It is the intent that the elected state officials will head a principal department. I can't conceive of a Legislature that would have elected state officials and then not provide them with the department to head. And the heads of these departments as provided will be part of the Planning Council. So I think that could be taken care of.

Regarding Section (b), I think maybe one thing that's bothering me is the fact that the governor has twenty days after the Legislature convenes with which to present his plan for reorganization and the Legislature has until the end of the session to act on it.

Fellow Delegates, I would submit to you that a few days ago we took a very bold step in the procedures under which our Legislature should function. And at that time there was a problem raised whereby it was pointed out that the Legislature could meet on Friday in plenary session and have committee meetings the rest of the time. And it was answered that we think the Legislature would be responsible and would not act in that fashion. Well, I think that same argument can be applied to this section. I think when the governor does submit an executive order, that they will act on it. They are not going to waste their time, and they are either going to disapprove of it or they are going to accept it.

Now we can't say what's going to happen because of the difference of the executive branch held by one party and the legislative by another. The only people that can really say what's going to happen in this instance, if they do not function in the best interests of the State of North Dakota, is the voter. And that's really probably the best check that we would have in this situation.

I would like to see all three sections passed. And then if you would prefer to have Section (b) placed under the governor's powers and duties, I'm sure we could make arrangements for moving it and placing it there.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President:

My only concern on 1-100, considering separately 1-102, is the second sentence of paragraph (b). This sentence says that if the executive order is against the law — that's what contravene means — that it shall nevertheless have the force of law — might as well say "be a law" — unless the Legislature within a certain period of time disapproves it. I would only like to point out that this is a radical departure from the other sections of the Constitution that provide how laws should be made, which states that they shall receive affirmative vote by both houses of the Legislature.

Now I am very bothered by the new method of laws being enacted. The section is broad, the powers are broad, and I do not believe that we should create a new method of enacting laws, whatever they may be, other than by an affirmative passage by a majority of the members elected to the Legislature. Now from this it may very well be that it will be amended. And I think Delegate Scheel used the words "approval by the Legislature". If it's affirmatively approved, all right. All we've done then is provide a new method for the introduction of a bill; instead of being introduced by a member of the Legislature it would in effect be introduced by the governor. But, nevertheless, to me nothing should be the law in any event unless it is positively approved by a vote of the Legislature. And perhaps an amendment would take away my fears on that proposition.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

I agree with Delegate Pearce, and I think that we can accomplish what the committee wants to accomplish by giving the governor the power to reorganize executive departments by executive order where the order does not conflict with law and then provide that by filing the order with the Secretary of State or something like that that it then becomes effective. And then give the governor the power where he wants to reorganize that we present statutes that allow him to introduce that reorganization plan to the Legislature. Then it would go through the regular course of a bill. I don't think this makes any substantial changes. I think it makes it work, and we wouldn't be creating a new method of passing laws.

I would therefore move, Mr. President, that we divide the question on 1-100 with the thought that Subsection (b) could be re-referred to the committee so they could consider that route.

DELEGATE Lander: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, just as a point of information, then you would recommend that we do vote on Section 1(a) and then dropping down to line 22 of the engrossed bill when we come to Section 2 you would be agreeable to vote on those two parts at one time?

DELEGATE KELSCH: That's agreeable unless someone wants — I have no objection to that, Mr. President, unless someone else wants to further divide it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Maybe I'm not following everything as close as I should, but I wonder if we couldn't accomplish what we want to by amending 1-100 to take out Section — Part (b) of Section 1 and then call back to the floor Committee Proposal 1-27 and put in there that the governor shall have certain powers to reorganize if they do not conflict with law. I would direct this question to Delegate Hill. Could not this be done?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Yes, I think it could. And I think the suggestion of Delegate Kelsch for voting on 1(a) and Section 2 as a package is fine, and Section (b) separately.

I want to emphasize again that this is the power of the governor — the Congress has given the President the power that the Legislative Council, Constitutional Revision Committee, recommended in 1965. And what we are trying to do is encourage the reorganization, of course.

In corporations the executive — chief executive officer of the corporation can usually reorganize his agency. This is what we're trying to encourage here. I think the concept is a good one, and if the language wants to be changed, that's fine. But I certainly support 1(b) also. But I'm sure our committee has no objection as to voting on that amendment as suggested by Delegate Kelsch.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Just a brief moment, Mr. President. I can understand Delegate Pearce and Delegate Kelsch when you talk about contravening a law, being apprehensive and so forth. But most of the time we're talking about a particular law that says this particular office shall be in this particular department. And that's the law you want to contravene. And if we have to send it through the bill route and so forth then you're defeating the purpose of reorganization. The Legislature still has the power of disapproving this thing.

One other point, it has been said to be a new item, and it is not exactly that new. I think it was in '65 this was brought out in almost exactly the same language. In fact, I have it here now where the commission at that time said: "Where these changes require the force of law, they shall be set forth in executive order." I don't think it's that big a deal. I think we're getting a little bit too concerned. I think the section is good as it stands. However, if you want to refer it to committee, fine; I'll let it go at that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: The world's greatest despot described certain laws as "trivial".

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I just think that it should be pointed out, too, that there is constitutional law. And this is what we're talking about here. And it does have some lasting effect.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: I'm supporting the language the way it came in.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry.

The question —

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I'm assuming now that what we are voting on is the question has been asked to divide the proposal, is that right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE HERNETT: We'll be voting on Section 1(a) and Section 2?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I have no objections. And I'm sure the committee can get their sandwiches early today and we can have a luncheon meeting again. So if that is the wish of the assembly, that's fine.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Section 1(a) and Section 2 of Committee Proposal No. 1-100. Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, those in favor of passage of the sections as stated will vote "aye;" and those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 94 "ayes," 3 "nays," one delegate absent and not voting. Section 1(a) and Section 2 of Committee Proposal 1-100 have passed.

Now what are the wishes on Section (b) — Part (b) of Section 1?

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Would it be in order to move Committee Proposal 1-100 back to committee so over the noon hour our committee can reconsider Section 1(b)?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will accept that motion.

DELEGATE HILL: I so move.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Hill, and seconded by Delegate Larsen, that Section (b) be re-referred to Committee. Is there any further discussion?

Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Well, Mr. President, I would hope that when that committee meets all those who might have some ideas now to improve the section and make amendments would appear before that committee so that they can handle them in committee and that we would not spend all afternoon with amendments here on that particular bill.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I hope that the committee doesn't construe resistance on the floor as consensus to the fact that they ought to severely emasculate the powers that have been presented herein. After ten years of being on the inside executive branch of the government, I can tell you stories about duplication that will make your hair stand up. Now that was probably an inappropriate statement.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I get a better reaction out of that than quoting Scripture.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think it is well you have a little humor interjected into the seriousness of the work we are doing; however, I do think that we have to maintain decorum and keep things under control.

Delegate Sinner, did you have any words of wisdom?

DELEGATE SINNER: I just wondered if that referred to singular.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the motion to re-refer Section (b) to the committee. As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the committee will give consideration to Section (b) of Committee Proposal No. 1-100.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President:

I would move at this time, if we might be on the twelfth order, to return Proposal 1-27 from the Style and Drafting Committee to the floor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing, we amended the Rules so that motions are no longer necessary. It is deemed to be in possession of the Convention.

DELEGATE NETHING: Then I would move that the Executive Functions — that 1-27 be referred to the Committee on Executive Functions for the purpose of determining whether or not Section (b) might better be amended onto that and we can take it all in one hearing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-27 be referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Scheel.

Is there any discussion?

Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President:

I just call to the attention of the body you wouldn't believe what we have done with 1-27. We have completely rewritten it and put it in a series of short paragraphs, not changing the substance of it, you understand. This is just for grammatical style. I'm wondering now, I assume under the present circumstances since we haven't returned it for amendment you will take it back in its existing form. But I just want to call your attention to the fact that whatever you produce may fall in a slightly different area than you thought.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Isn't it possible that the Style and Drafting has the authority to take Section (b) and place it where they like without our committee having 1-27 back to amend it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And place it where they like?

DELEGATE HILL: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, they do have that authority. But they do not have the authority to amend the substance matter.

DELEGATE HILL: They wouldn't amend the substance, but whether it should be under the section under organization or whether it should be under the section on governor's powers is a question that the Style and Drafting Committee can settle without any action by the floor; isn't that correct?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I doubt that very much. I think they have the power to place definite sections in the final document in the position they think they should be, but I do not believe that they have the authority to move one section from one proposal to another. I do not believe they are empowered with that authority. The Chair may be in error, but that's the way I would interpret it.

Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President:

I'm wondering about the status of 1-27 if it is simply re-referred to the Committee on Executive Functions. In case the Executive Functions Committee might then want to amend that, would it perhaps be better if we were to reconsider our action in having passed it so that it would then be open for further amendment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You are very correct, Delegate Baker. In the event that the committee was going to amend 1-27, then we would have to reconsider our action and bring that proposal back before the Convention if there was going to be anything done to it.

DELEGATE BAKER: Ordinarily I'd make a substitute motion, but I don't think I'm supposed to do that. So I'm wondering if the motion that was made might possibly be amended so as to provide for reconsideration of our action.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Have to reconsider if he's going to amend it.

DELEGATE NETHING: Well, Mr. President, the only reason I didn't want to reconsider our action is it may be determined that it shouldn't, after — I think the reason we have to take it back to committee is so we have it there so we can look at it and talk about it and be a proper subject for the committee to have. And then if we deem that it's best to amend it, then it would be my thought we bring it back and then reconsider our action and amend it at that point.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing, the Chair has a question. Would it be adequate for your purpose to have an engrossed copy of 1-27 — if you had an engrossed copy of the Proposal 1-27 to use at your committee?

DELEGATE NETHING: I'm sure that's fine.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sure that that would be a simple way to handle it. And then if you deem that it should go into 1-27, then you can make your recommendation to the Convention.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Did we vote on my motion to refer it to the committee?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe we did.

DELEGATE SINNER: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Didn't we vote? I thought we did.

DESK REPORTER KING: I have it prevailing.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I have it back in there, too.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Maybe the desk is ahead of the Convention, but they say that we did vote.

We will next take under consideration Committee Proposal 1-102.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Is there any thought that maybe we shouldn't start it now or what is the wish of the assembly? This is going to take some time. Let it go? All right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow delegates, just a point of information. In the discussions that we had pertaining to Committee Proposal No. 1-100 there were 29 delegates that entered into the discussion on what particular proposal, and the amount of time that was consumed, we started at ten-thirty on that question and I think we voted on it — about the last time that any delegate requested time was at eleven-thirteen. And I am happy to report to the delegates that no one exceeded his limit of five minutes.

We will proceed with Committee Proposal No. 1-102.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-102, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 71 and 72 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the executive branch of government.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 71 and 72 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Executive Officers.

"(a) The elected state officials shall be the governor, and lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, and three public service commissioners.

"(b) The governor and lieutenant governor shall be elected on a joint ballot. One vote shall be cast jointly for the candidates nominated by the same party or petition. The governor shall prescribe the duties of the lieutenant governor.

"(c) The chief executive officers of the principal departments, other than those elected, shall be appointed by the governor and shall serve at his pleasure. They shall be confirmed by the senate with a majority of the members concurring by record vote. Any nomination not acted on by the senate, within twenty days after receipt thereof, shall be deemed to be confirmed by the senate.

"(d) The legislative assembly upon periodic review of executive departments, may by law, change and prescribe the manner of selecting those executive officers not provided for in this constitution.

"(e) If, during a recess of the senate, there is a vacancy in any office filled by appointment where confirmation is required by the senate, the governor shall make a temporary appointment until the next meeting of the senate, when he shall make a nomination to fill such office. No person rejected by the senate shall, except at the senate request, be nominated again for that office at the same session, or be appointed to that office during a recess of that senate."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Committee Proposal No. 1-102 is what deals, of course, with the reorganization of the executive department. It's probably one of the things, as Delegate Hill said earlier today, that people think of first when they think about constitutional revision.

Now your committee spent many hours on this proposal, and as usual when anything is as complicated as executive reorganization is, the committee ended up by compromising. This bill is full of compromises, as you will soon see. Now these five subsections that are in this 102 — 1-102 today will be explained by different members of the committee. And I have assigned these to the members of the committee. And I would hope that you would allow us to complete the explanation of the whole bill before we open it up for discussion. So at this time I'm going to yield to Delegate Chase to explain Subsection 1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman.

Well, here goes.

Before I go to the explanation of Section (a), I call the delegates' attention to a resolution passed by the Executive Functions Committee. This resolution is directed to the Committee on Coordination and Transition.

And the main part of the resolution is as follows: Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Executive Functions Committee of this North Dakota Constitutional Convention that the elected officials of the executive department elected in the year of the ratification of this constitution shall continue in office and complete the terms of office for which they were elected.

It is the committee's sincere hope that the Coordination and Transition Committee and the delegates of this Convention will adopt this Spirit of '76, thereby soothing any apprehension that the legislators may have in wondering whether or not they'll have ample time to pass the necessary laws to implement this article, and more importantly, to clearly indicate to the candidates that will be campaigning for these offices that they will not be in — there will not be any curtailment of the term of the office they are running for. We ask the delegates to consider this Spirit of '76 not as a part of this proposal, but as an idea that may smooth out the wrinkles of the transition period.

Section (a) is a brief one, and I intend to keep my remarks on it as brief as possible. I ask only as Chairman Hernet has asked, that you hold off getting your amendments typed up until — until we've finished the discussion on these sections. I do want to call your attention to Section (d) as it refers to Section (a) very closely in this. And it will be explained to you later.

The first two officials mentioned are the governor and lieutenant governor. I imagine that almost everyone wants to elect them. The next official is the attorney general. Here we have had two opposite points of view. One side — and this has been recommended by many — is that the attorney general should be the legal counsel for the executive branch of the government, and particularly the governor, such as in our national system. Now you can make a good case for this side of the argument. However, the other side of the coin recognized that the attorney general should be the legal counsel for the executive branch, but also for the legislative branch. In fact, he should be the chief law officer for all the people of North Dakota. The latter argument has prevailed and for this reason and the reason that this elective office does provide a powerful check and balance within the executive branch, we have recommended that this be an elective office.

Now the secretary of state is the chief keeper of the records of this state, and historically has been associated in protecting the rights reserved for the people in his certification of initiative and referral petitions, petitions for amendments to the constitution, preparing of ballots, certification of elections, and so forth. It is also beneficial to have this office as an elective one, to serve again as an internal check and balance within the executive department. Also it may be desirable to have a majority of, well, we'll say the industrial commission, Delegate Decker, as elected. So we recommend the office of secretary of state be elective.

Now the three Public Service Commissioners by the nature of their duties in regulating rates and dealing with public utilities have a specific obligation to the public and should therefore be elective. This would also provide additional elective officers to serve on various boards and commissions.

Now as Chairman Hernetts has told you, we have gone back and forth and back and forth again and again on the whole gamut of elective versus appointment of each of the present offices, and we have talked again and again about the acceptability or the nonacceptability of certain offices. And I think we have listened to all of the major elective offices that we now have, and most all of the appointive. We recognize that the model constitution and various authors' studies, and commissions and so forth, on executive reorganization recommend that the governor and lieutenant governor be elected and all other officials should be appointed.

We think we have made a proposal here that understands that the people of this state do not want a pure cabinet system, but would accept a system whereby there is a proper check and balance within this branch and whereby all the elected officials, and especially the governor, would be far more visible and accountable to the public.

The present system sets up independent departments that are free from any gubernatorial authority and in effect does create small government within our state government. I think it has been said before, and I will say again, that the governor cannot begin to establish his program that he ran for election on because of these, nor can duplication be prevented. This is evident in many ways, but especially in the meshing of state programs to the many federal grants and programs. Whether we like it or not, this has become a way of life and in order to get the most efficient use of the dollars we spend, it is almost imperative that we have careful planning and coordinated sound management at the executive level.

Now in summary, there is one main objection to reducing the number of elective officials. And it is that the governor may become too powerful and build a vast political machine. It is true under this proposal that the governor is more powerful; he will have more responsibility. However, we think we've effectively dealt with this objection in Proposal 1-102 by keeping some key state officials as elective, and also by previous action of this Convention when we made the auditor a part of the legislative system. Here is another check and balance. Another important check that has been agreed upon by this Convention is the passage of the legislative section where the Legislature during a biennium may recess and call itself back into session, and would very likely do this if there were anything that far wrong in the executive branch of government.

So, in the checks and balances all over the place, there still is in this proposal a step in the right direction of sound and efficient government, visible to the people in the spending of the tax dollars and in the performance of their duties.

Before I came down to this Convention, I asked quite a few people the broad general question: "What should we revise in our present Constitution?" And most of the answers were somewhat along this line: "I don't know what should be done. That's really what I am paying you for. You go down there and take a good hard look at our Constitution. I do not want you to make a change purely for the purpose of making a change, but after you've made a careful study and you think there should be changes or revision, then I expect you to make them."

Fellow delegates, I think that this is what the Executive Committee has done, not necessarily made a change for the sake of change, but have taken a good hard, careful look, and we respectfully ask the delegates to this Convention to take a good hard, careful look and adopt Proposal 1-102.

And, Mr. President, I'd like to yield to Delegate Sondreal.

DELEGATE SONDREAL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sondreal.

DELEGATE SONDREAL: Our committee has assigned to me the duty of explaining Committee Proposal No. 1-102, which, as you've already heard, calls for the governor and lieutenant governor to be elected jointly, with each elector casting one vote for them together, as a kind of "executive team," on the same ballot.

I think that perhaps one of the most important things that can be said about the Committee on Executive Functions is that it recognized a need throughout its interim meetings to fix in the new Constitution a framework for accountability in executive performance. We felt that the governor ought to be answerable to the people of North Dakota for his actions as the State's chief administrative officer. We also recognized, however, that accountability is a far-fetched goal, and an empty, high-sounding word, unless it can be applied to men in office who have been given a commensurate authority effectively to meet the needs of the State by implementation of a long-range and coordinated administrative programming.

Though the heart of the committee's report has to do with the creation of a comprehensive state plan and a reduction in the number of constitutionally elected executive officials, the reasoning behind the report is linked directly to a recognized need to simplify and facilitate the overall control of state administration — to assure, or try to assure, that the executive branch does not any longer become frustrated with self-limiting divisions of power.

Committee Proposal 1-102 is consistent with this reasoning, as it will automatically help to reduce the possibilities of politically motivated conflicts within the executive team. It should also enable the man holding the office of lieutenant governor to become a full-time executive officer, in the nature of an administrative assistant to the governor, rather than a kind of "outcast on Capitol Hill" and a stranger to affairs of state, presiding over the Senate and having little responsibility and less authority in the management and control of executive government.

The lieutenant governor as next in the line of succession could logically be of value to the governor in this role as administrative assistant. As a main force in the executive branch, he ought to be directly and personally responsible to the governor.

Further, the committee's action is consistent with that taken by the Committee on Legislative Functions in Committee Proposal 1-70, which was adopted last night, which has seen fit to remove the lieutenant governor from the Legislature altogether in the thought that he could, and would, become a full-time executive officer.

It has always seemed sensible to me that the President and Vice President of the United States are elected on the same ticket. Is it not just as logical that the two potentially most important members of the executive branch on the state level seek election together and work together in the preparation and execution of an administrative program? The entire membership of your Committee on Executive Functions feels that it is.

The major thrust of its report, as I've tried to indicate, is to grant the executive and legislative branches coordinate authority to organize the executive department along broad functional lines, and to give the chief executive officer of North Dakota the power to apportion administrative authority and responsibility in a way in which bureaucratic inaction at the state level can be reduced to a minimum.

In this way as well, the governor would inevitably become more accountable to the people for the organization and implementation of a comprehensive administrative program. Such an objective was basic to the committee's thinking in the preparation of its entire report.

I do not believe that there is any persuasive argument today in favor of unnecessarily fractionalizing the administration of state government in this area, and thereby undoing the work and the philosophy of your committee.

The governor and lieutenant governor, Mr. President, ought to be elected jointly.

I yield to Delegate Scheel.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President:

We will refer you to Subsection (c) under Section 2. This is the report of the Executive Functions Committee and in our old Constitution it is Sections 82 and 83. That's of the 1889 Constitution. It says: "The chief executive officer — our new section says — the chief executive offices and the principal departments, other than those elected, should be appointed by the governor and shall serve at his pleasure."

Now of what did the old section consist? It consists of a secretary of state whom we are to continue to elect, and an auditor who is to be appointed as auditor general by the Legislature; a treasurer who can, if the Legislature so desires, be one of the fifteen maximum — maximum of fifteen new departments; superintendent of public instruction — this will probably come out of our present Constitution's Education Committee, and this of course could be set up as one of the departments under reorganization of the Legislature — commissioner of insurance, the same applies, he can be one of the fifteen departments which are set up under the reorganization by the Legislature; the attorney general is to continue to be elected — I'm taking these in the order now they appear in the old Constitution — the commissioner of agriculture will be up to the Legislature as one of the fifteen departments; commissioner of labor, the same; the tax commissioner, the same; the three Public Service Commissioners are to be elective, and of course the additional four principal appointed offices, highway, social service, health and fish and game department.

Now what we propose to do is elect these. As you can see, the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, and the three Public Service Commissioners. Half of the slate that we now elect. We propose the Legislature set up a maximum of fifteen total departments including these organized along broad functional lines as an executive department. These have to be approved by the Senate by majority vote when they are appointed in those instances where they are not elected.

Now we have had testimony from every one of the heads of the executive departments in our state government. Those who are elected testified pretty well that they should be reelected with the three exceptions; one of the Public Service Commissioners felt appointment is all right; the tax commissioner thought the appointment was all right; and the governor advocated appointment. And we had, of course, the others that are now appointed, and they all preferred that they be reappointed. Each one of the arguments on reelection was that we should continue to have a system of checks and balances. And we agree this is a valid argument. But, at the same time, the checks and balances should be principally between the departments, not within the departments. In other words, we feel that the executive department has or shall have its checks and balances in the legislative and in the judicial system, although we do advocate the attorney general will ride herd on behalf of the people in anything that might have a question of law in the executive branch.

Now the basic questions are — people ask us is this a long or short ballot? Well, the committee ran the gamut of the spectrum on all sides, from the short ballot, which is the election of just the governor who would then appoint an entire cabinet, as Delegate Chase pointed out, to the other end of the gamut, which is the long ballot in which everyone is elected. And we came out somewhat in the middle for two reasons: One, this thing has to be approved by the voters, and, two, this will work the way we have set it up. Now, basically, the deliberative process of government in the Legislature, whether it is unicameral or bicameral, it still is the process of deliberation. But when you hand this job to the executive department, it is there you expect to get the job done.

Now we can observe our government here in North Dakota, and despite what they may say this is basically a good government. You can look at the way these various departments operate, and they do a good job, especially if you compare them with other states that are big and unwieldy. But there is a better way to have this government operate, and that is the way we propose. The proposal and the program will be solved by concert between the Legislature and the executive branch. The Legislature can propose reorganization, have control of the reorganization, but the executive branch can also do so. And I think that is the wish of many people. I feel this is perfectly feasible, but in every case the Legislature holds the power. First, they have to finance it; and, second, they have to approve every reorganizational move that the executive department wishes to make. This structure will work better. The executive can then execute the program that the Legislature lays out for it to do. This is one case where the whole is greater than the sum of the parts. And this is the case in a good football team. This is the case anyplace where all the individuals work together. They have the sum of their individual capabilities, but when you put those together as a team and they go to work they become a whole greater team — greater than the sum of the individuals.

In this you have to have autonomy within the departments. These departments have to have autonomy or there is no way of measuring how they are doing. Now they have the autonomy to an extent. This is good, but beyond this we have to have coordination between the departments and among the departments, and this is where it comes in — when the governor appoints a half a dozen individuals, they sit down and plan, counsel and start to work, you can — I can see this and I'm sure the rest of the committee can see this, too — you can see as this thing progresses in the course of an administration these people become part of a team. They will have elected members on there who don't always agree with them, they will have appointed members on there who don't always agree with them, but they have one commitment, and that is to make the thing work. And as it works, it engenders a fever which is like a winning team or a winning administration of anything. With this structure, you will get your money's worth and more, and we ask you to accept this committee proposal.

And now I yield to Delegate Birkeland to explain Subsection (d) under Section 2.

DELEGATE BIRKELAND: Thank you, Delegate Scheel.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Birkeland.

DELEGATE BIRKELAND: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I would like to now refer to Subsection (d) which reads as follows: "The legislative assembly upon periodic review of executive departments, may by law, change and prescribe the manner of selecting those executive officers not provided for in this constitution."

This is an entirely new concept in planning and revising state constitutions. You will not find such a provision in our present Constitution, nor will you find such a provision in any other state constitution to my knowledge. It is truly a North Dakota born and reared provision designed specifically for North Dakota and our newly revised, modern, up-to-date Constitution.

However, because it is a new concept, I would ask my fellow delegates not to condemn or to cast adverse judgment upon it until each and every delegate here has thoroughly considered it in its entirety. I would also ask that you consider the fact that this new proposal is so very fundamental to our new proposed modified short ballot for North Dakota. It ties in directly with this new feature.

Why do we need this proposal? I'm sure this question is on our mind right now. Let me explain. In our executive article, as has been mentioned by the other delegates, we have gone from the old long ballot to the new modern short ballot. We are now proposing to elect seven state officials instead of the present fourteen. This is an effort to strengthen the executive department of our state government, and I am sure that most of us here today are in agreement with this basic principle.

However, when you do this, when you give any department more power, then it also seems advisable to provide a check on this additional power granted that department. This is one of the features and the functions of Subsection (d).

It will provide the Legislature with more flexibility, it will also give the Legislature authority to make changes which may seem desirable in the future, authority which it does not have at the present time. Also this is a safety valve allowing for change and leaving the final authority in the hands of the Legislature. We have heard throughout this Convention that we should place our trust and our confidence in our Legislature, and I so really believe that that is true. We must give them power, must give them flexibility.

And so in an effort in this effect we have given the executive branch more power — the power to appoint the officials. However, we have also implied that with this additional power the governor has the responsibility of choosing top-notch men, honest men with expertise, knowledge and responsibility to the citizens of our state. This responsibility of the governor, should it ever be violated by him, then and only then the Legislature shall have the power to take the necessary action by the powers given the Legislature in this subsection.

Further explanation of this section — let us now look at two words, “periodic review” in the first line. The intended purpose of these two words is an effort to remind the Legislature to only make a periodic review of the appointed offices, not necessarily change each office at each session. The committee felt strongly that changes should be made only when deemed necessary to insure continued good government and not make haphazard changes from time to time.

Another area of importance in this subsection reads: “The legislature may change and prescribe the manner of selecting appointees.” And here I wish to emphasize the word “prescribe”. It gives the power to the Legislature to change. They may appoint by governor, they may provide election by the people, election by a board or commission, or even appointment by the Legislature themselves, and there may be other ways that they will come up with at some future time.

Also, let's take a look at another portion of this subsection, the last six words, which I believe are quite important to this new document, which says simply: “not provided for in this constitution”. This simply insures that the seven constitutionally elected offices — those of the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state and the three Public Service Commissioners — can never be changed by the Legislature from election by the people in any other form. This is a protective clause in there which will insure the voters of North Dakota that they should be guaranteed that they will be voting on at least seven individuals.

In summary of this subsection, I wish to make the following points: — and, by the way, our entire committee, the entire majority of our Executive Functions Committee, feels this section is very important and must go along with our entire new section.

Let me summarize Subsection (d).

1. Subsection (d) strengthens the executive branch of our state government.
2. Subsection (d) strengthens the legislative branch.
3. Subsection (d) adds flexibility to the executive branch.
4. Subsection (d) protects the electorate.
5. Subsection (d) will increase the salability of this new product to the people of North Dakota.

With that, I yield to Delegate Rude.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rude.

DELEGATE RUDE: Mr. President. Thank you, Delegate Birkeland.

Fellow Delegates: Section (e) of Committee Proposal 1-102 refers in part to Section 78 of the executive department in our present Constitution: “When any office shall from any cause become vacant, and no mode is provided by the constitution or law for filling such vacancy, the Governor shall have power to fill such vacancy by appointment.”

In this section of our proposal we give the governor power to make a recess or interim appointment “if, during a recess of the senate, there is a vacancy in any office filled by appointment where confirmation is required by the senate . . .”, which somewhat follows along the provision in Article 54 providing for appointments to the Board of Higher Education during the interim.

In our proposal this is a temporary appointment until the next meeting of the senate, when the governor shall make a nomination to fill such office. So limited, the section is substantially self-explanatory. It is, in short, simply a means of preventing the governor from getting around the requirement for confirmation of his appointees. It is worth emphasizing that the last sentence in this section, Section (e), precludes reappointment of a nominee only if the senate rejects him. However, he may be nominated again at the request of the senate. The operation of this section appears to be basic and appropriate in the matter of interim appointments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow delegates, it is now one minute to twelve. And I think this would be a good time to have a recess.

Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Mr. President: Before recessing, we have completed the presentation of 102. I would like to make one statement to the delegates. This afternoon in presenting your comments it is the fervent hope of the committee that your premise, as ours, is that based on first knowledge, but on a group of facts cannot in the future develop government and reorganization and efficiency unless present Constitution restrictions are for the great extent improved. This has been a matter of sincere analysis within the committee. And I personally want to congratulate the members of the committee for viewing this thing as an abstract, and I believe in a very fine manner. But I do feel that this is the one premise that is very necessary for you to consider. I know it will not be possible to completely understand the circumstances. But would you please give that a little thought during the recess?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President. I believe that these people have done a very commendable job, and would move that their — that the remarks of Delegates Chase, Sondreal, Scheel, Birkeland and Rude be placed in the Journal as I believe that this issue is one of the key issues to the approval of our new Constitution.

DELEGATE NETHING: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second to the motion? Second by Delegate Nothing.

Is there any discussion? I hate to put a motion like that without the Chairman of the Budget Committee on the floor, but I will. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and it will be in the record.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: As a member of the committee, may I just make one very brief statement? All states which are small in population have a golden opportunity to be model states. North Dakota has far fewer physical, economical and social encumbrances than are found in many of the more densely populated states. We should have a state government which is clean and strong and responsive in its position within the federal system. Fellow delegates, I believe that we have presented you under Proposal 1-100 and 1-102 the necessary tools to accomplish this for North Dakota.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any announcements at the desk? Are there any announcements?

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: If I could indulge the group a moment. May I have a show of hands from the Style and Drafting Committee of those members who are free to meet during the lunch hour? Please hold your hands up. Apparently we will not have a quorum, so we will not be able to meet. Sorry.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I was about to move to recess; however, I think there were two announcements to be made that were going to be made by the Committee Chairmen of the Executive Functions and Preamble, Bill of Rights to have a meeting this noon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President: Our Executive Functions Committee will meet down in the usual room. And, as I said before, bring your lunch with you. And anybody who has any interest in that section of 1-100, why there is your chance to come down and be heard.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President: The Education Committee will meet in G-1. We have a complete and interesting menu for the members of the committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President: The Bill of Rights Committee will meet at noon. I would say that to those who I didn't get to before, that there will be sandwiches there and you won't have to stand in line and bring them with you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? Further announcements?

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Hearing none, I now move that we recess until one-thirty P.M.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that we do recess until one-thirty P.M. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. We will be in recess until one-thirty.

(The Session recessed at 12:05 P.M. until 1:38 P.M., the same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

(The Plenary Session continued at 1:38 P.M., Thursday, January 27, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

We will continue with the discussion of Committee Proposal No. 1-102. At the time of the recess we had just concluded the statements of the five that spoke for the adoption of the proposal.

Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: As the Chair said, and I want to say the same thing, that concludes our presentation. Now it is open for discussion by delegates.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President:

I agree with Chairman Hernet that the presentation was very fine this morning. But there was one or two things that I think the delegates should be brought up to date on in the way of the shift of position that occurred in the brochure and then taken back and broken down into the pieces that we have before us now.

You will recall that at that time there was a minority report. The minority has been subjected to some fragmentation, as well as the committee proposal. And while the committee was able to reassemble enough so as to produce a document for you, there is some difference of opinion still in the committee. One has to do with the question of length of the ballot, as you might expect. And the statement has been made that we made a compromise which would just eliminate half of the elected officials. And so far as that goes, I guess that's true. But in so doing Committee Proposal 101 — 1-102, as we have it before us, reduces the number of positions that the citizen may vote for from twelve to four. The reason for that, of course, is that the committee proposal combines the office of governor and lieutenant governor so as to call for a casting of one vote for both offices, whereas we vote separately on those offices now. And then only one of the three Public Service Commissions come up for election at each election. So, you see, while you would technically be able to vote for seven of our governmental officials, the most that you would be able to vote for at any one time as far as ballot position is concerned are four; governor and lieutenant governor together, attorney general, secretary of state and one Public Service Commissioner. So I think that those of you who have an interest in the philosophy of the short ballot versus the long ballot should understand that's the case rather than simply cutting in half the ballot. It's been reduced quite a bit more than that.

Then another subject of considerable fate, and which we had the most to do with the minority report at an earlier date, concerned itself with the ability of the Legislature to have some say at a future date in whether or not to have an executive officer of a department of the state government elected by the people appointed by the governor, or provided for so far as selection is concerned in some other way — like be elected by a board or commission. And the minority report was thrown in the wastebasket after the revision of Section (d) under 1 by the committee as a whole on the theory that this, for all practical purposes, answered the arguments of the original minority report which would have provided that the Legislature have some future say at some time as to election, appointment or selection by some other means. And I think even yet some of the committee members feel that this is a fact, but it is not a fact. If you will read that you will find that that section says that: "The legislature may by law — or legislative assembly upon periodic review of the executive department, may by law, change and prescribe the manner of selecting those executive officers not provided for in this constitution." And the elective officers are provided for, of course, in Section (a).

And the chief executive officers of the present principal departments other than those elected are provided for by appointment in Section (c). So the only practical effect of Section (d) now would be that the Legislature could provide for the election or the selection by board, or any other way, some departments heads presumable, or something like that. So that objection still exists so far as I'm concerned, and I think some other members of this assembly.

There is also an objection on my part, and a few others, to the combining of the governor and of the lieutenant governor on a joint ballot. And for the purpose of seeking a possible remedy for that, I have an amendment at the desk which I would like to read now and will move, if seconded.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-102 is as follows:

On page 1 of the engrossed proposal delete lines 14 through 17, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"b) All officers provided in this article shall be separate and distinct, except that the legislature may provide by law for the election of the governor and the lieutenant governor on a joint ballot. Until there may be provided by law for such joint ballot, the governor and lieutenant governor shall be elected by the qualified electors of the state. The persons having the highest number of votes for governor and lieutenant governor respectively shall be declared elected. The duties of the lieutenant governor shall be prescribed by law."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have an amendment to the amendment — a second to the amendment?

DELEGATE CART: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: This amendment would provide, as is quite clearly stated, that the situation so far as the election of the governor and lieutenant governor would remain just the way it is now; elect the secretary, and it could be of different parties, just as the case today, or would be elected from the same party as has been the case on numerous occasions in the past; but that the Legislature could provide by law for a joint ballot just as is suggested by the committee report. And I think it is self-explanatory, and I don't suppose there should have to be a lot of debate on it, I hope not. I think everybody who's interested in this understands the implications. And that's all I have to say on the subject.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Baker.

Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I rise with mixed emotions to oppose this amendment for the simple reason that I don't know what the reaction is going to be to Section (b) of 102 which would, in effect, lock in the selection of the lieutenant governor and governor together which at this time I believe would be, in my opinion, more favorable than the amendment. However, if Section (b) were to fail then I would have to stand and support the amendment. But at least at this time I'm going to oppose the amendment until we find out what the assembly feels about Section (b). I just want to reserve the right to speak in favor of the amendment at that time if (b) is not approved.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on the amendment?

Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Like Mr. Nething, I would like to support (b) under 1-102. But as I was thinking — I rise to oppose the amendment. I think this would put me in order; is that correct?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct. If you wish to speak in opposition to the amendment, why that would be correct.

DELEGATE VOGEL: I wish to speak in opposition to the amendment because I believe that it's a good and necessary thing that we elect the governor and the lieutenant governor on a single ballot as is done at the national level and as ten states have done since — during the last decade or so; Illinois being the last one. At the present time the lieutenant governor has exactly no duties. We just took away from him the duty of presiding over the Senate. So that that leaves him with no duties other than to step into the shoes of the governor should something happen to the governor. The purpose of having a lieutenant governor, of course, is to have someone who will step into the shoes of the governor and continue his program should something happen to the governor. We discussed the possibility of eliminating the lieutenant governor and making another elected officer second in line, as has been done in Alaska and I think maybe in another state or two. But we decided that better than that we should make the lieutenant governor a full-time officer of the executive department who would be trained in government and ready to take over should the occasion necessitate that. And to that end we have said in Section (b) that the governor shall prescribe the duties of the lieutenant governor. We've also said that he shall hold office at the seat of government. At the present time he is the only executive officer who is not directed to hold office at the seat of government. And we have also made him the vice chairman of the Planning Council, which I believe we passed earlier this morning. So I rise to urge you to support the original proposition, that the governor and lieutenant governor be elected on the same ticket, casting a single vote for the two of them and in opposition to the amendment that you have before you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Even though this is rather a small state population-wise, the governor on his last testimony before the committee about a week or ten days ago read his calendar to us of what he had been doing during the last year. I don't know if it was after that somebody said, "Well, he must be just a ceremonial governor." Because there was hardly any time after he'd done all that to actually function as a governor. And if this were the case, then he could prescribe to the lieutenant governor some of these social functions given to King or Queen Elizabeth so the Prime Minister won't have to carry them in England. If it were possible for the governor to have the lieutenant governor both help him in assigned administrative duties and social duties, it would make the job of governor worth just about twice to three times as much. And, therefore, I would advocate that we leave the proposal as it's now written to make effective the whole plan of reorganization as we have outlined it here. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: A brief statement, Mr. President. I think it's understood that these offices should be a working and fairly harmonious team. This is just good management. And I don't think we're going to insure harmony necessarily by having them both from the same political party or on a joint ballot. But you would erase one of the great barriers that cause a lot of bickering and so forth and division and what-have-you if you have both of these people elected on the same ballot. I think it's a concept that we ought to keep in mind in good management.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: This has brought up a question in my mind. If the governor is to prescribe the duties of a lieutenant governor and you have a lieutenant governor who is politically ambitious to the point where the governor and he come to a parting of the ways, the governor could therefore prescribe him actually nothing to do. I would really rather see the Legislature prescribe his duties, even if we do elect him on the same ballot.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Baker. Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost.

We are back on Committee Proposal No. 1-102.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: There's one question I would like to ask, Mr. President, to one of the committee members. I notice in the language of the proposal, Committee Proposal 1-102, that they have prescribed the selection of the nominations shall be prescribed by law, but nowhere do I see where — who prescribes actually what a vacancy is. They provide that a vacancy — if a vacancy occurs in a recess. They have provided if a vacancy occurs while the legislative chamber is in session. Now, maybe — maybe it's open for debate whether the Legislature could prescribe actually what a vacancy is. In other words, what I'm thinking about, say, for instance, one of these officers died right early in the session and a vacancy supposedly occurs naturally. But who declares it is vacant? You wouldn't have to submit the nomination to the session while the Legislature was in session at that point. Would some member of the committee explain just exactly who determines a vacancy and what it is?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rude.

DELEGATE RUDE: Mr. President: I believe that if you refer back to Section (c) in Proposal No. 1-102 they are appointed by the governor and shall be confirmed by the Senate. It's intended that if there is a vacancy when the Legislature is in session, that these appointments would be made and would have the confirmation of the Senate.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I realize that the — that it does provide by law in Section (d). It stipulates that by law how they can be selected for nomination. But really I see nowhere where it actually states that by law just what constitutes a vacancy.

DELEGATE VOGEL: I don't believe there is any provision in our present office — in our present Constitution for the finding of vacancy, is there? I think that there is much vague language — there is no definition of vacancy in the present Constitution. And the question simply didn't arise in the committee.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Of course I think we should start thinking about providing for vacancies. In all these executive offices we have got a completely different situation now.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Earlier this morning we were talking about a couple of proposals that related to removal from office, and we also had a proposal that relates to impeachment. And of course these would create vacancies in the office. And of course that would create a provision here, I believe, which would come into play. And if there were a definite office then there also automatically would be deemed a vacant office. So I think the vacancy we're talking about would be one of the three ways plus, of course, a resignation. Because a resignation would automatically leave the office vacant. So I think when taken in context with the other provisions that are there, I think it probably would be covered while we do not enumerate a specific vacancy.

In 1-20, as a matter of fact, which we'll be discussing tomorrow, the amendment we adopted this morning did away with that particular language regarding what a vacancy was, because we felt that these things would automatically come about; death being a vacancy, impeachment being a vacancy, removal being a vacancy, resignation being a vacancy or failure to qualify being one. We felt that we didn't really need to have a provision on that because it would take care of itself. However, if there is some strong feeling that the language should be there it is found in 1-20. And tomorrow, if the feeling exists that we should speak to that particular thing in the Constitution, I'm sure the committee would not have any objection to it. It was taken out because we felt it was superfluous.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: If the committee feels that way, I certainly am not one to decide that it is wrong. But I was just thinking that probably it should be spelled out; death, impeachment, resignation or the inability to serve. But if this is the feeling of the committee that we're safe in this regard, that's fine.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President: I would like to compliment the committee —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug, your mike is not working.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Thank you. Now I think I have it. I'd like to compliment the committee on the fine work they've done on this proposal, and I endorse it. But I have one question that I'm not sure about on the repeal portion. We're repealing Sections 71 and 72, I understand that. But also reference is being made to Sections 82 and 83, and there's also kind of a connection with Article 80. Is it necessary that these repeal —

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Is it necessary that these repeals be listed there or not? I'm not an expert on that, I'm just inquiring.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can someone answer that question?

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Yes, those are covered under repeals in other articles. 82 and 83 are covered in 1-91 in the repeal for that proposal because there was an overlapping in the subject material. They will be covered.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Thank you.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: I have a very short amendment at the desk. If it can be read, I'll explain it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-102.

On page 2 of the engrossed proposal, in line 2, after the word "of" delete "selecting" and insert in lieu thereof "the appointment of".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second is by Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: The Legislative Functions Committee went through the same word in the auditor general proposal and we belabored it at length and decided that the word "selecting" was too broad in that it may put the Legislature right back in the business of electing the people that we are trying to get appointed. And we feared that almost before this procedure could get started the heat would come on the Legislature to instigate an elective process again. And even though the day may come when there is an earnest wish by some groups to go back to an elective process, the process of constitutional revision is not that difficult. And we want it in the article, general article, and I think we want it here, too. We want to prevent the Legislature in these first years of this new process not to be under the terrible duress of groups of people and political parties putting pressure on them to immediately instigate the elective process. And we chose the word "appointment" so that the Legislature could devise different ways for the appointment of these people but that that procedure would not include election. That's my — I don't know the exact reasoning for the committee's choosing the word, but I suspect it didn't occur to them that this might cause this kind of effect.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President: I will speak directly to the word and the reason. And it can be answered in one word, and that word is "compromise". We were fully aware that leaving the word "selecting" as it is gave to the Legislature the authority to determine whether or not other state — heads of executive departments should be elected, appointed, or be appointed by a board. There are three options available. And it was the general consensus of the committee, after working on this for some six months — and that one particular area probably was as large a hangup as the committee had — we finally felt here that this could be one part of the Constitution that would either make it successful or unsuccessful. And we felt that for those that are reluctant to reduce the size of the ballot as we have done that they can see that the matter of reducing the ballot will be left up to the Legislature. And we think this is a fair option to have. We think it will be acceptable by the public. And, after all, if whatever we do is not successful it's going to be somewhat in vain. So I would urge the disapproval of the amendment. This has had considerable thought from the committee. I don't think we've met once that we didn't think about it. We thought about it so much that sometimes we would just say, "Don't even talk about it again," because it caused us so many problems. And I strongly urge the defeat of the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase. Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I want to speak against the proposal. Now if there's an amendment maybe I should wait.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then, Delegate Cart, you should wait.

The question before the Convention — Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: Delegate Baker mentioned something about the fifteen chief officers in his remarks, and now at this point would Delegate Nething yield to a question?

DELEGATE NETHING: Yes, I will.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol, now is your question on the amendment?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Yes, it is.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Okay, you may proceed.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Is it the feeling of the committee that the — let's see, what does it say here? Talks about fifteen officers up here someplace. But those officers it talks about in Subsection (c), is it your feeling that the Legislature could choose their method of being named under the provision of Subsection (d), that the Legislature could say — instead of appointing these chief officers that the Legislature could say, okay, these fifteen we will elect?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Delegate Aubol, that is exactly right. As a matter of fact, I think that there is some speculation as to all the way through this what the various intent has been of this body. And that's one of the reasons that we've been recording all of the proceedings here. Not only in the committee, but here in the chamber itself. And when a question of intent comes up, they are going to have to look back for interpretation on this.

And I can tell you as a body, Mr. President, fellow delegates, that it has been our intent in the committee that the Legislature shall be permitted to select the other officers other than those outlined in Section (a) in any way that they see fit. Now we are not at all attempting to imply in any way, shape or form that Section (d) would limit the selection of the chief executive officers and not permit them to be elected if the Legislature so chose.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President: This looks like an ordinary piece of legislation where the advocates compromise to a degree where they feel they've accomplished something and the opponents feel that nothing is going to be accomplished so everybody's happy. I rise to support the amendment because I think we're under the impression here that we're going to reduce the number of elected officials in this state from our present number to about seven, whereas if we don't change the language here we might end up with fifteen or twenty.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I suppose as long as we have to get intent on a verbatim record we'd probably better do it. Now I'm not in agreement with Delegate Nothing on his interpretation of this thing. This article says, Article (a), that these particular officials shall be elected. And as you go on down to (c) the balance of the officers under the executive department shall be appointive. This is constitutional direction. And this is what it says. Now when you get to (d), "The legislative assembly upon periodic review," as you look further down the road, as this thing goes on, if we have not been all wise in our choice and maybe an appointive official should be chosen some other way, that's what that particular Section (d) means. To me it does not mean in the organization process, because we have pointed out in (a) and (c) what that shall be. But if we are wrong, or if situations should change, then we voted (d), "The legislative assembly upon periodic review of the executive departments, may by law, change . . ."

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I, too, oppose the amendment. I agree with Delegate Nothing. I think I would hate to see the word "appointive" in this because then that would indicate, too, that that is the only method of selecting these executive officers. Now the word "compromise" has been mentioned here several times, and this is probably true. But I think that no matter even if the Legislature does at some future date take another look at these departments and decides that they should be selected by some other method, I think we still have taken a great step forward. Because these offices that we are talking about by adopting this measure, this proposal as it was written, are unlocking these people from the Constitution. And I think this is — this is the great step forward that we are taking here.

I feel that by doing this as we are doing it, it gives the Legislature a chance over a period of years; and there is no time set in here, it might take years in some offices; some of them it might not take so long. Now sometimes it has been said the Legislature does not ever do any of these things. This is not so. We did it with the Labor Department. And I think if you give the Legislature time they will accomplish this.

There is another area here where it may take some time where they may decide to take a second look and it is because of all the boards and commissions that these officers do serve on. You've all seen that chart, I think, it was around here all summer, showing the interlocking directorate, or whatever you want to call it, of all these officers and offices and commissions in the state. And this will take some doing. It will take some time. And I think by adopting this proposal as it is written with the word "selecting" on line 2, I think we will accomplish it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any other discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Sinner. Those in favor of the adoption will vote "aye" and those opposed will vote "no." As many as are in favor of the motion to amend will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost.

We are back on the question of Committee Proposal No. 1-102.

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President: I oppose this entire proceedings or procedure the same as I opposed that in 100 — 1-100. This is taking away from the people their basic rights to elect their public officers. And I certainly think if we should ever pass out anything like that it would invite defeat of the entire proposals that come out of this Convention, and it properly should. The people should not surrender their right lightly. It's the one protection they have against consolidated autocratic government. If we get this power concentrated in one or two places then you can build up a political machine that will endure and last for a long, long time. And your public will be largely frozen out of their operation of this state's affairs.

Now as far as shortening a ballot, why that's no handicap to a person to go to the polls and vote for ten or twelve or fourteen any more than it is to vote for seven. The problem is going to the polls. And as far as all this publicity of boards that has been talked about and bantered around, they are all, with the exception of four, created by the Legislature. And they can be abolished by the Legislature just as well. You have only four boards that are enumerated in the Constitution; that is the Board of Equalization, the Board of Pardons, the Board of University and School Lands, and the Board of Higher Education. Those are constitutionally provided for boards. The rest of them are all legislative.

Now I think that this whole proposal ought to be voted down and leave the public, the voting public, the right to select their officers.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, will Delegate Vogel yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Vogel yield?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Yes.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Delegate Vogel, do you intend to offer your amendment?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Yes. That was what I was rising for. I don't know if I'm in order or not, having spoken before, but if I may offer this amendment I'll tell you why.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is your amendment at the desk?

DELEGATE VOGEL: It was printed yesterday afternoon. I had hoped it would not come out until this morning. But maybe you can find it. It is a short one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is it at the desk? Do you have the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Want me to read it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes. We will read it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-102.

In line 19 of the engrossed proposal following the word "elected" insert the following: "or those chosen in a manner provided for in another section of this constitution."

DELEGATE VOGEL: The reason for offering this amendment is to bring our proposal in line with the proposal of the Education — excuse me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just one moment. May we have a second?

DELEGATE DAWSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Dawson.

Now you may proceed, Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: The reason for offering this amendment is to bring this proposal in line with the proposal of the Education Committee which was not available to us before then. It would allow one or more of these heads of departments to be chosen in some other fashion than election by the general public or appointment by the governor at the consent of the Senate. And I believe that the Education Committee has a proposal which would have the Superintendent of Public Instruction selected by a board. And it is in order to make this proposal compatible with what is being proposed and to allow without further changes for such proposals that this amendment is being proposed. I don't believe that it greatly changes the intent of the proposal in any way.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Speaking briefly, I favor the amendment because as with the Board of Higher Education they select their own executive officer. And I think that this situation should continue if it's provided in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

The question before the Convention, the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Vogel as read from the desk. Any further discussion?

Hearing none, those that are in favor of its adoption will vote "aye" and those opposed will vote "nay." As many as are in favor of the motion of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposed "no." The amendment is adopted.

The question before the Convention, Committee Proposal No. 1-102 as amended. Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President: I would like to move that the rules be suspended, and that the Proposal 1-102 be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed before us for first reading and first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-102 be deemed properly re-engrossed that it be placed before the Convention for first passage.

DELEGATE BIRKELAND: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion is seconded by Delegate Birkeland.

Is there any discussion on the motion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I would join Governor Cart or Delegate Cart in opposing the entire thing, although I'll agree that the amendment, second from the last amendment, made it a little more palatable. However, from my area I think maybe the people are a little more inclined to be independent in nature and they do not want their officials appointed. Either they want their —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, I think the question before the Convention at the moment is whether we should suspend the rules and consider the proposal properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar. I have to rule you out of order.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I'm sorry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question as stated is on the motion to deem — to suspend the rules, deem the Committee Proposal No. 1-102 properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-102 is now before the Convention as amended.

Now, Delegate Rundle, if you wish to comment.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I'm sorry I beat the gun. But I have found in this business that if you pass up too many opportunities you may find yourself completely beaten without knowing it. I don't want to take that chance.

The people in my area want to elect their officials. I appeared in front of the committee and said I didn't object if they consolidated some offices. But the people in my area, including myself, want to elect them. We want to elect the judges. And these are two of the more important issues. And I would point out that I had a list made yesterday here and I found that the people in my area voted 1,500 to a thousand, which is one and a half times, in favor of voting this Convention. So they didn't come in prejudiced or anything of the sort. Now I hope this entire proposal fails.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman. I would like to ask Delegate Nothing a couple of questions.

Mr. Nothing, as I understand this proposal now, let us take it down to specifics, if the Constitution is approved then the commissioner of insurance would become an appointive officer, presuming the office is continued, for the first term under the new Constitution; is that correct?

DELEGATE NOTHING: Yes.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Then let us assume that the Legislature could start a periodic review two years later and transform that office back into an elective status if it so desired; is that correct?

DELEGATE NOTHING: I believe that's correct, Delegate Paulson. That would take effect after his term. It would be the next time, that's correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I just want to say I'm going to vote for the proposal with some reservations. And I think that what Delegates Cart and Rundle have had to say is pretty important. We were discussing judges the other day, and how people are very jealous about keeping their right to vote for judges. I think this would also apply in areas in which they are much more familiar with their elected officers. I think that this might well be a very good matter to put on an alternate proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Birkeland.

DELEGATE BIRKELAND: I would just like to make one clarification regarding the comments from Mr. Rundle and Mr. Cart. It would be possible under this new proposal that in the future we could actually elect as many as seventeen different state officials. In the beginning it is seven, but we have given the flexibility to the Legislature that they may in the future change and prescribe as Section (d) stands for. So it is possible we could be electing seventeen state officials. I don't think they have anything to fear.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President: Would Delegate Baker yield to a question, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker?

DELEGATE BAKER: Yes.

DELEGATE LANDER: On the basis of what you were saying earlier this afternoon would you agree with the conclusions that Delegates Nething and Birkeland have just expressed?

DELEGATE BAKER: No, I do not. The language is quite plain to me.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: I just want to remind the delegates that this morning we acted on Proposal 1-100. And this proposal provides methods for giving dignity and responsibility to both elected and appointed state officials and department heads. And I think that when it's said and done there is not going to be a lot of vacillating back and forth as to who is going to be appointed and who is elected.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Peters.

DELEGATE PETERS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I want to oppose this measure. I don't think it is a democratic way of doing things. I think it changes to put too much power into the hands of too few people. An aggressive and politically minded governor could build up a powerful political machine. And I'm not very anxious to go home and tell the people in my district that the Convention didn't feel that they were capable of electing their state officials. I don't think appointed officials are the answer to any of the problem. And I'd just like to point out that the head of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has been an appointed official for quite sometime. Now I think that should settle the matter.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President: I think the delegates that have some fears about appointing too many officials raise a very valid point, and that is no matter how specific a proposal we adopt here, it cannot be effective unless it's adopted by our citizens. And I think as Delegate Stanton has pointed out, this perhaps is one of the key issues of the Convention. And I think it's essential that we give the voters of North Dakota a choice on this in the form of an alternative question on the ballot; one question basically provides for an appointive system with flexibility of the Legislature to change, and another system basically providing for an elective system with flexibility given to the Legislature. But I think it essential at this time that we support this proposal and that those who may be interested in the alternative question of the Rules Committee, Ballot Committee, to take care of that problem.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Mr. Chairman. Thank you.

Teacher 2,300 years ago made this following statement: "When power lies only in the hands of the people and their government is restricted, then that people flourisheth and no man or group of men can conquer them."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-102 as amended. No further discussion, those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 75 "ayes," 23 "nays," all delegates present and voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-102 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-114.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-114, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that Article XIX to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to adverse possession of public lands, be created.

"SECTION 1.) Article XIX to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“ARTICLE XIX “ADVERSE POSSESSION

“Section 1. No interest in public lands may be created by adverse possession or by occupation in the nature of adverse possession.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You’ve heard the reading.

Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President: I’ve been assigned by the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to report both Proposals 1-114 and 1-115. I’ve been ready to report ever since last Monday. I hope I can remember what I’ve planned to tell the Convention.

These two proposals are really on the calendar somewhat in reverse order, but I’ll try not to talk on both of them at one time. These proposals came from our consideration of Article IX of the present Constitution which is entitled “School and Public Lands”.

This particular proposal, 1-114, is a result of our consideration of Section 163 of the present Constitution. Section 163 is not mentioned in the title because it is listed among the repealers in the other proposal.

In our work we decided that we should have an article separately and only about the trust lands, so we designed such a section. It was remodeled and rewritten I believe somewhere in the neighborhood of a dozen times. And recently during the Plenary Session the attorneys for the State Highway Department discovered that we had removed any general adverse possession recommendation from our draft. Our draft applied only to trust lands. So they came down and said, “What are you doing to us?” And they recommended very strongly that we put in such a general proposal as you find here in 1-114.

The original Section 163 states: “No law shall ever be passed by the legislative assembly granting to any person, corporation or association any privileges by reason of the occupation, cultivation or improvement of any public lands by said person, corporation or association . . .” and so forth. We boiled this down into this one simple sentence: “No interest in public lands may be created by adverse possession or by occupation in the nature of adverse possession.”

I have been told by some delegates that this is statutory material; probably doesn’t need to be in the Constitution. And perhaps that is true. But it was recommended very strongly to our committee, both by the Highway Department and the Game and Fish Department, that we continue to have an adverse possession clause in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President: I speak in opposition to Committee Proposal 1-114. And I’m on the committee. This is separate and apart from the following provision on trust lands which will be discussed later. Plain and simple, this is a piece of legislation. Adverse possession is a creature of statute, and any limitations on it should be dealt with in the statutes. I feel that the provision is good and necessary and think it’s, in effect, included in the present law. And if they need it that’s where this reservation should be. It’s just an unnecessary provision for a constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President: I’d like to ask Delegate Knudson a question, if I may.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Knudson yield?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE CART: Delegate Knudson, why wouldn’t it be simpler just to insert the words in line 18 of 1-115 the words “or other public lands” and not have to have this separate section?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President and Delegate Cart:

Perhaps it would be simpler from the Constitution drafting standpoint, but I believe it would produce at least a certain amount of confusion. We wanted the article on trust lands to apply only to the trust lands and nothing else. And we didn't want anybody — any other agency of the state government to be able to read anything in it referring to their department. We didn't even realize to begin with that Section 163 applied to any other public lands. This is about the only section that we're recommending for retention that has clause "any public lands". The rest of them which we are continuing in 1-115 say "these lands granted for these purposes" or other similar words.

If I may respond to what Delegate Devine said, I certainly don't feel qualified to get into any kind of a legal quarrel with a delegate who's been functioning as the Attorney General for the Education, Resources and Public Lands Committee ever since last April. But I'll simply repeat that these departments of state government recommended very strongly that we keep this provision and apply it to their departments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President: I agree with Delegate Devine that it has no place in the Constitution; that its consequences might be a problem. Statutes of adverse possession have always been called statutes of repose. The meaning of the term being that they are for the purpose of settling claims, particularly on boundaries. We have no absolute assurance that all of our surveys are completely accurate. We have even monkeyed with a survey of the boundary of the State of North Dakota here. My recollection, although I haven't had time to check, and I don't have access to one of the Codes around here, is at present it takes forty years to establish an adverse possession against the state. Now that means forty years of open, notorious adverse possession under a claim of ownership. Now if the survey line on some piece of state property was incorrect and a farmer or any other occupant of land has for forty years claimed, paid taxes on, and thought he owned a certain strip of land, and then it was found that the boundary was in error, and even after forty years has gone by you take that land away from the man without any recompense at all. There can be no possible harm for such a provision not being in the Constitution. The matter is entirely statutory. And if the statute — if all of the statutes on adverse possession were repealed we simply wouldn't have any, and then nobody could make any claims. And for that reason I think it's definitely wrong to have it in the Constitution. And it could be the source of many ills that we were trying to cure sometime in the future.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-114. Those in favor of its passage will vote "yes;" those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened, the delegates will record their vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote. The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 25 "ayes," 67 "nays," six delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-114 failed to pass.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-115.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-115, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 160, 161, 163, 164 and 165 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article VII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to trust lands.

SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 160, 161, 163, 164 and 165 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Article VII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE VII
"TRUST LANDS

"Section 1. All lands granted by the United States for the support of elementary and secondary public schools of this state, and the proceeds from the sale thereof, the proceeds of property that shall fall to the state by escheat, and all other property acquired for the schools, except gifts and donations otherwise appropriated or qualified, shall be and remain a perpetual trust fund for the maintenance of the elementary and secondary public schools of the state.

"The principal of this fund shall be retained and devoted to the trust purpose. The interest and income of this fund shall be used and applied each year for the benefit of the elementary and secondary public schools, apportioned as prescribed by law.

"Section 2. All lands granted by the United States for the support of educational or other public institutions of this state, and the proceeds from the sale thereof, shall be and remain a perpetual trust fund for the maintenance of each institution, and may be commingled with similar funds for the same institution only in a manner prescribed by law. If any institution shall cease to operate, its trust fund shall be apportioned among the other existing educational or public institutions within the provisions of the enabling act.

"The principal of these funds shall be retained and devoted to the trust purpose. The interest and income of each institutional trust fund held by the state shall be appropriated by the legislative assembly to the exclusive use of the institution for which the funds were given.

"Section 3. The legislative assembly shall provide for the sale or lease at public auction of all properties held by the state in the school or other institutional trust funds, except that lands needed for public use may be sold at public sale for their fair market value. No interest in trust lands may be created by adverse possession or by occupation in the nature of adverse possession. In the sale of trust lands, the minerals, including but not limited to oil, gas, coal, cement materials, sodium sulphate, sand and gravel, road material, building stone, chemical substances, metallic ores, uranium ore, and colloidal or other clays, shall be reserved and excepted to the state of North Dakota. Leases may be executed by the state for the extraction and sale of such materials in the manner and upon conditions which the legislative assembly may provide. The proceeds of all sales and mineral leases shall be credited to the trust fund from which the property was removed for sale purposes. Any trust lands may be exchanged for lands of the United States, the state of North Dakota, or political subdivision thereof, as the legislature may provide.

"Section 4. The legislative assembly shall provide for the investment, safe-keeping, transfer and disbursement of the foregoing trust funds."

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: I assured my constituents when I came down here I would not be run by a machine. Would you please turn off my light?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I don't want to lose this one. This article is one that I have become very concerned with. It's been the major thrust of my efforts in the committee ever since we began working last summer.

Committee Proposal 1-115 is the result of the deliberations of your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands on Article IX of our present Constitution. Article IX is long and involved. In your blue constitution book it runs from page 153 through page 166, including all the amendments and court cases that are listed. It contains a great deal of material that might be considered statutory in nature, but that was required in our 1889 Constitution both by the provisions of the enabling act in regard to these lands and by the determination of the delegates at the 1889 Convention that the lands with which the state had been endowed by the federal government should not be dissipated.

I would like to read you a paragraph from a speech which is reprinted in the July 1964 edition of the North Dakota History magazine. This was a speech made by the Honorable Burley S. Spalding, I believe was his name. Mr. Spalding was a delegate at that original convention. He later was a Justice, and finally a Chief Justice of the North Dakota Supreme Court. I quote from page 159, quoting Mr. Spalding:

"I have the honor to serve on the Committee on the Judicial Department and on the Committee on Public and School Lands. On the latter committee were several old men who had pioneered from the East to our state. They had seen some of the funds in the other states entirely dissipated by the extravagance and waste, if not worse, of legislatures and public officials and they were determined to so hedge around this fund that it should forever remain inviolate."

And one of the most salutary provisions in the Constitution adopted was included at the behest of these men. Among other things, it provides in substance that these funds shall forever remain inviolate, and that any loss or diminution shall be made good from the general fund of the state. Now we have taken this long Article IX, have shortened it up into four sections. We've deleted material made obsolete by the passage of time. We've deleted material that doesn't fit in with what appeared to our committee to be the decisions being made by other committees. But we have attempted to preserve the intent of the original.

Now you may maintain that this one, like the last one, is statutory. I believe we'll be causing trouble if we do not maintain at least these provisions which we have in these four sections of Committee Proposal 1-115.

I'll attempt to explain this proposal and refer to the sections of the old Constitution. I hope you will ask questions because, as I said before, I'm afraid I've forgotten some of the things I intended to tell you.

Let me begin on line 12 with the title. You notice we have changed the title from "School and Public Lands" to "Trust Lands". I suppose in all the Ten Commandments the one that we farmers break the most often is the one about coveting your neighbor's land. And during our deliberations I, at least, if not the whole committee, got the impression that this then also extends to public agencies. I suppose there's not one of us farmers who hasn't said, "If that quarter was mine I'd run the strips in a different direction. I'd lay them across the wind, or I'd put it into contours, or I'd put it into grass and raise cattle, or I'd plow it up and raise wheat." The general idea being that if it was mine I sure would do a better job of it than the present owner. And this also extends to public agencies.

Now I think that one of the reasons that these public agencies have been tempted by these public lands, by these school lands, is simply the title. Because these lands are not public lands, have not been public lands since they were granted to North Dakota. They were public lands of the United States. They were granted to North Dakota as an endowment, as a trust. Some of them as a trust for the common schools, some of them for the colleges and other state institutions.

In Section 1 we deal with the land grant to the United States for the support of elementary and secondary public schools. We have continued the provision from the old Constitution referring to property which may fall to the state by escheat. I would guess that that property is not very extensive, but it would presumably include some real estate. And we felt that this is the best way to handle any real estate which might fall to the state by this way.

We have continued the language of a perpetual trust fund. And in line 21 the following: "The principal of this fund shall be retained and devoted to the trust purpose. The interest and income of this fund shall be used and applied each year for the benefit of elementary and secondary public schools, apportioned as provided by law." We found this language or the basic ideas for this language in Sections 153 and 154 of our present Constitution.

In Section 2, beginning at the bottom of page 1, we deal with the lands granted by the United States for the support of educational and other public institutions. This section is parallel to Section 1, but slightly different because it deals not with one single fund but with a number of funds for the maintenance of all the various institutions which were mentioned in our enabling act. You'll notice a new sentence beginning on line 5: "If any institution shall cease to operate, its trust fund shall be apportioned among the other existing educational or public institutions within the provisions of the enabling act." This is to deal with the situations similar to the one caused by the closing of the institution at Ellendale.

The second paragraph, on line 9, is exactly parallel with the second paragraph of Section 1, except that it has to be in the plural because it's dealing with several funds. This language of the second paragraph came from Section 160 which dealt with the educational public institutions.

Section 3, we found the material in several of the present sections, mainly from 155 and 158. Here again we have an adverse possession clause, that's on lines 18, 19 and 20, which came from Section 163. And the sentence about the mineral reservation is from Section 155 as amended in 1960.

We have continued the language about public auction. This is one of the things required by our enabling act, those exact words. In our draft that we brought here to the Plenary Session we referred only to fair market value. It was pointed out to us by the attorneys for the State Land Department that we must have this public auction; that we were allowed to use other than public auction for sales to other public agencies. This comes — this second part of the first sentence comes from Section 158; the section that lands needed for public use may be sold at public sale for their fair market value. This is the way this matter is handled at present.

The adverse possession clause I spoke on in regard to the last proposal. I wonder if this is statutory. If it could cause problems because it is statutory, why it has not caused any problems since 1889. The long specific list of mineral reservation we considered simply mentioning reserving all minerals. We found that that wouldn't really work out because some of these materials probably aren't exactly minerals. We decided that we had best continue the exact wording used in the 1960 version of Section 155.

On line 27 and following: "The proceeds of all sales and mineral leases shall be credited to the trust fund . . ." Our committee had a question as to how royalties from coal and oil leases are handled. We were assured by the attorneys of the State Land Department that that money goes into the permanent fund, it is not part of the income that is disbursed every year.

Finally Section 4 we entrust to the legislative assembly provision for the investment, safekeeping, transfer and disbursement of the foregoing trust funds. Here we included the provisions that are dealt with specifically in Sections 155, 156, 164 and 165. We felt that we could not deal with them specifically because of questions raised by the possible deletion of some of the state officers and some of the county officers from the final Constitution that this Convention may come up with.

Section 155 establishes — I believe that's the one — Section 156 as amended in 1970 establishes the Board of University and School Lands which includes the governor, the attorney general, secretary of state and state auditor — Superintendent of Public Instruction, Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State and State Auditor. Well, we did not know at the time we drafted this article, and we do not know now, if all of those offices will still be elective offices. Section 155 — Section 157 establishes a county board of appraisal which okays the prospective sale of any parcel of school land. This board consists of the County Superintendent, the Chairman of the County Board of Commissioners and the County Auditor. We did not know, and we do not know now, if all of these offices will still continue. So we have left — left it up to the Legislature to decide how these lands and these funds shall be administered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President: I have — I have an amendment at the desk. I would like to ask Representative Knudson two questions before it's introduced. Is that okay?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Knudson yield?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may proceed.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Do you believe that the funds at the present time or the way your proposal reads is properly protected for the future?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Well, Delegate Rundle, I hope it is. I'm very —

I'm very jealous of this fund that it shall be protected and continue in the future to produce income for the elementary and educational schools. Our committee felt that by calling it a perpetual trust fund as we do on line 18 in Section 1 and line 3 in Section 2, and by saying that the principal of this fund shall be retained as we do in line 21 of Section 1 and line 9 of Section 2, that we were — that we were protecting the fund.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, thank you. I shall pass the other question.

Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Could I ask that the amendment be read?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The amendment — proposed amendment will be read from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-115 is as follows:

On page 2, line 35, following the word "funds" insert the following: "and the state shall make good all losses in such fund".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now do we have a second to the amendment?

DELEGATE CART: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Cart.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The school fund last July, the trust fund, had $73,541,402.92. It went up something over two million, I believe it was, the last year. Now this is quite a sum of money. And as Delegate Knudson said, he and many others have been very zealous in the past in protecting this fund. I would like to mention that the governor is the head of the land board or handles this money. The governor is also head of the Industrial Commission. And in the future some of these — we may have some appointed officers we don't know quite how they will work.

Now I'd like to mention a few things that the school fund includes, but I point out that the Industrial Commission which now consists of three state officers hasn't done too well with their investments. And I feel that this proposal is a little wide open, and I think that the people that want to play with the money perhaps if they had to make it up from the general fund would be a little more careful. I'll admit that the state would lose the money, but the school fund wouldn't lose it. I have taken the words out — my original proposal had the words "shall never be diminished", and I took that out to give it more freedom. But I'd like to give you a few little things I got from the Attorney General. The State of North Dakota, maybe the Bank of North Dakota, the Industrial Commission, anyway the taxpayers, lost $335,000 recently in the Cass County Industrial Development Corporation at Mapleton. The same deal cost the bank $75,000. And the Wishek Bank, incidentally, to this moment feels that they were double-crossed by the state because they got into it and they sued and the court ruled that they couldn't collect. So the state only lost $335,000, the Wishek Bank $75,000. The Dickinson Clay Products Company, of which I am quite familiar — I didn't have any stock in it, I knew better — went broke. The Industrial Commission lost $25,000 in it. This came as a surprise to me. I didn't know they were in that one. The Industrial Commission just recently okayed the loan — the expenditure of $1,300,000 for a building, the plans of which the Attorney General hasn't seen yet, as of three days ago. And he's on this commission. He said he voted against it because he didn't — he'd like to see the plans, he'd like to know how big the building was for a million three hundred thousand. Another state agency under this control lost — finally lost $400,000 when the Cox Bakeries got into the State Mill for $529,000 just a few years ago. And they finally lost $400,000.

Now I only want to bring you these figures to show you that things can happen to state investments. And I would like to protect the school fund as much as possible. And I would add this little amendment: "That all money, any losses, shall be made up by the state." Which would mean the state general fund. And my only thought is that it might make them a little more careful about investing the money.

Thank you.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President: I certainly wouldn't resist this amendment. I think it might add something to our proposal. I had all these facts and figures about all these school lands, how much they were, where they came from and all that. That's one of the things I forgot to mention. But perhaps that isn't exactly germane to what we are trying to do. I do not oppose the proposal, the proposed amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Poulson, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE POULSON: I would yield to Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President: I think that Delegate Knudson speaks for the committee when he says that we do not necessarily oppose the amendment. I would like to show, however, that I have been listening to Delegate Rundle for the last nineteen days. The old Section 153 of the Constitution had in its last sentence, "The state shall make good all losses thereof." The new Section 156 of the Constitution says that "All this money shall be invested as provided by law." As in our Section 4. The reason for that is because the people in North Dakota in 1970 by a vote of 48,552 to 43,435 approved that change.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President: I recognize this. But also in the amendment were the words "The funds shall never be diminished". These were the words that many officials objected to because they couldn't sell the United States Bonds they had at a low rate of interest at the time. And I have been told by some that favor that change that is the real reason they wanted the words "shall never be diminished" out of there. And they are not in the new amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President: I think it's well that we would include this amendment because while this sum that I am going to mention was very small, it does occur that you can get dishonest officials and they like to dip into public funds. Well, this incident occurred prior to World War I, I think in either 1914 or '15. The Attorney General at that time, being attorney for the Board of University and School Lands, approved fictitious mortgages and got the money for his own personal use out of this fund. Then time went on and apparently he got into adverse circumstances and couldn't keep up the interest payments. This came to light in about 1921 because in 1923 that session of the Legislature had to appropriate approximately $4,000 to reimburse the fund and bring it back — bring back the loss that had occurred through this transaction. So I think it's well that we include in this bill that's now before us the requirement that the state make good these losses if they do occur.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I speak in opposition to the amendment. I know that Delegate Knudson has been a good shepherd on this and has carefully tended his flock. I also realize that he and Delegate Rundle were on the same side of this exact issue when it was before the Legislature apparently prior to 1969 when the proposed amendment was recommended by the Legislature and later adopted by the people in 1969.

We discussed this at some length, gave it careful consideration. We visited with Delegate Rundle I believe a couple times on this and kicked it around. And there's lots of pro's and con's. I don't feel strongly on this, but we get into a situation I think all of us want to see this fund remain intact. There is no question about that. But what would the situation be in the event that times got tough, they sustained certain losses, the state was hard pressed for funds, and besides meeting the general obligations would also have to meet the obligations of making up any losses to this fund? It could put the state in a real awkward position. Like I say, I don't feel strongly about it. We gave it careful consideration and we thought Section 4 as it stands would probably be the best all-around manner in which to handle this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman: I would suggest that the delegates go slow in putting some window dressing on such an important matter as this. There is no way that the state can guarantee a multimillion dollar fund against incurring losses. Unfortunately, not many of us remember the depression years. The university was one of those funds which took losses. They were low on school lands, the losses were established, and the state had to foreclose. If you have — if you would invest in good government bonds the bond market goes up and down. So if you have to sell at a loss, does the state have to come in and fork in two or three hundred thousand dollars every time there is a transfer to get something out of a low interest into a high interest? This is a true banking procedure. And when you try to sit here and just simply say that all losses must be made good by the state, you may be having the state making good for a land property value drop statewide that would simply put the state out of business. I think we're — we're trying to window dress something up against the economic facts of life.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President: It seems to me this might have the opposite effect of what Delegate Rundle has in mind for it because it seems to me that instead of making them more careful about investments, it might say, in effect, that you have a carte blanche appropriation on the general fund and that fund will never go below a certain figure so you can make any investment you want. I have some questions about the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President: I was going to speak in reference to what Delegate Paulson said about the foreclosures during the depression years. The Land Department has always carried their lands on their books at a value of $10 per acre because that was the minimum selling price established by the enabling act. No doubt many of these lands which they were forced to foreclose during the thirties, which they were still forced to carry at a book value of $10 an acre, had an actual money value at the time of less than $1 per acre. In 1940 the State Land Department had more acres than they started out with in 1889. But during the forties, fifties and sixties they have sold these lands that they foreclosed, plus other lands, from the endowment which they still have at prices which were twice or three times the going market value in North Dakota at the time. So in the long run they do not lose on the lands they were forced to foreclose on.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Rundle. Those in favor of the adoption of the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." the "noes" have it. And the amendment lost.

The question before the Convention: First passage of Committee Proposal 1-115. Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, those that are in favor will vote "aye" and those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote. We have two delegates, Delegate Pearce, Delegate Hubrig, how do you vote?

DELEGATE PEARCE: "Aye."

DELEGATE HUBRIG: I'll vote "aye," too.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: I would publicly like to compliment Delegate Knudson for his fine job today and the able committee that turned out a perfect document without amendment. (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Roll call discloses 98 "ayes," no "nays," no delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-115 has passed.

It's terrific what Delegate Knudson can do once he gets warmed up.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal 1-14.

Fellow delegates, we'll be in recess for ten minutes.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, could I be on the eighth order for a minute?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I'd like to ask the members of the Finance and Tax Committee to come down to the Blue Room immediately. Coffee is available there. Please come down to the Blue Room, all Tax and Finance Committee members.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Inasmuch as the Tax Committee is going to go down and meet we will take a fifteen-minute break.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President: Would the Executive Functions Committee report to the meeting room? The Executive Functions Committee will have a short meeting.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Executive Functions Committee is scheduled for a short meeting in the regularly scheduled meeting room.

(The Session recessed at 3:12 P.M. until 3:38 P.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order? Will the Convention please come to order?

We'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: There are sixteen girls from Junior Troop No. 84 Girl Scouts, Northridge School and their leader, Mrs. Robert Zentner in the gallery.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the visitors please rise and be recognized by the Convention? (Applause)

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Binek would like to announce that Trinity High School of Dickinson, North Dakota, social problems class with instructor, Bill Henkins, and fifteen students are in the balcony today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the students please rise and be recognized by the Convention? Possibly they have left us.

We will be on the tenth order of business. Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-14.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-14, introduced by Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 206 and 207 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that Article XV of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to state boundaries and the state seal.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 206 and 207 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Article XV to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XV "BOUNDARIES; SEAL

"Section 1. The name of this state is 'North Dakota.' The state of North Dakota shall consist of all the territory included within the following boundary, to-wit: Commencing at a point in the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the forty-ninth degree of north latitude crosses the same; thence southward up the main channel of the same and along the boundary line of the state of Minnesota to a point where the seventh standard parallel intersects the same; thence west along said seventh standard parallel produced due west to a point where it intersects the twenty-seventh meridian of longitude west from Washington; thence north on said meridian to a point where it intersects the forty-ninth degree of north latitude; thence east along said line to place of beginning.

"Section 2. The following described seal is hereby declared to be and hereby constituted the Great Seal of the state of North Dakota, to-wit: A tree in the open field, the trunk of which is surrounded by three bundles of wheat; on the right a plow, anvil and sledge; on the left, a bow crossed with three arrows, and an Indian on horseback pursuing a buffalo toward the setting sun; the foliage of the tree arched by a half circle of forty-two stars, surrounded by the motto 'Liberty and Union Now and Forever, One and Inseparable'; the words 'Great Seal' at the top; the words 'State of North Dakota' at the bottom; 'October 1st' on the left and '1889' on the right. The seal to be two and one-half inches in diameter."

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I do not intend to spend any more time on this unless some delegate has a question. We updated the description of the boundaries of our state; we took no land, we gave none. And we brought this up to date as recommended by a modern-day engineer, and we cleared it through the Bureau of Land Management in Washington, and it was approved as we have it.

We made only one change in the description of the seal to make a complete sentence. We added the word "shall" in the last part of it there to make that a complete sentence. Otherwise it's verbatim the way it was in the old Constitution. We hope you approve this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Will Delegate Longmire yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Longmire yield?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes, Delegate Longmire yields.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I wonder why it's necessary way back in Article XV of the Constitution, almost as an after-thought, it seems, to say "The name of this state is North Dakota". Now this is declared in the preamble and all through the Constitution.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, we felt that there shouldn't be any doubt about it, when you cross that Minnesota line, that you were in the great State of North Dakota. And we just left that in the way it was in the old description that we had.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Thank you. It seems to be superfluous, to me, but I won't pursue it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention —

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman, I hesitated making an amendment on this —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: — and so we will leave it. But I thought on page 2, line 5, a "Indian on horseback pursuing a buffalo toward the setting sun," I felt this has been true over a period of years. But this year the Sioux caught the buffalo in football and again in basketball, and I thought possibly it was no longer necessary.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-14.

Any further discussion? Hearing none, those in favor of adoption will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 92 "ayes," 2 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-14 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-16.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-16, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article VI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota which pertains to environmental degradation be created.

"SECTION 1.) Article VI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE VI
"ENVIRONMENT

"Section 1. The public policy of the state and the duty of each person is to conserve, develop and utilize its natural resources and public lands in order to provide a pleasant and healthful environment for the benefit of this and future generations. The legislative assembly shall provide by law for the implementation and enforcement of this policy.

"Section 2. Each person has the right to a healthful environment and may enforce this right against any party, governmental or private, through appropriate legal proceedings, subject to reasonable limitation and regulation as the legislative assembly may provide by law."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Thank you, Mr. President, and Fellow Delegates:

I know you've been bombarded by words, and we've had plenty of discussion on this, so I don't think I should go any further. You know how I feel about it. And there's just one statement I'd like to make. You must admit that special interest has been defeating common interest in the control of environment. And in the future I think possibly we might welcome some public action to get some new evidence on how the threats as are now coming forward might endanger man. And I would ask you to support both sections of this proposal. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to 1-16 is as follows: Delete lines 14 through 18.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Motion is seconded by Delegate Pearce.

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I also would hope that there is not a great deal of discussion on this today. However, the vote on the Minority — Majority Report was so close, and it was a first time through for so many people on Monday, that I felt that this body ought to have a chance to re-vote on that particular issue. If you recall, the substance of the amendment is exactly the same as the substance of the Minority Report, which was defeated some days ago on a 43-51 vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Larsen.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Mr. Chairman, Fellow Delegates:

In our committee we spent considerable time on this section and this article. And it was my motion, I believe, that we adopted this section.

I feel that we must have certain laws, certain teeth in certain articles, in order to preserve much of our environment for future generations. And so I hope that the amendment fails. Thank you.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I want to call your attention to an article in a letter from the League of Women Voters which was put on your desk a few days ago. You probably have thrown it away because it did come at a time when we were discussing it. Do notice that they say, "Section 2 is important because it gives the citizens of this state the most important tool of all, the opportunity and right to their day in court when it comes to environmental matters."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion on the amendment?
Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, members of the assembly:
I had hoped that we had this round finished the other day. But I would simply call your attention again to the North Dakota Law Review conclusions on this subject in which the two authors summarize that the incorporation of the recommended constitutional provision would accomplish several ends. And I think we ought to think of those ends again just in review: (1) it would demonstrate an active dedication by the people of this state to abatement of pollution in all forms; (2) it would facilitate enforcement to the inclusion of the private sectors of plaintiffs and anti-pollution actions; and (3) it would also insure that such litigants could not transcend legitimate problems prescribed by legislative mandate. And that's the most important part of that whole section 2, restrictions and limitations which the people's representatives in the Senate and the House of this body in the future legislative sessions could place in the way of anybody who would use this indiscriminately or in a wrong way. I think it's proper inclusion in the Constitution that we should write this in at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?
Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. Chairman — or Mr. President: We dislike taking the time of the Convention with further discussion, but I didn't like this Section 2 a couple of days ago and I like it even worse — even less now. Like most farmers, I'm extremely conscious of the environment around me. I'm particularly conscious of the environment that I pay taxes on. And I've gotten quite sensitive in the last year or so in reading various publications, sporting magazines and newspapers and so on, which seem to condemn the farmer unnecessarily for pollution, fertilizing, pesticides and so forth. And they don't seem to take into account the thousands of trees that the farmers are planting, the water holes they are developing, a lot of wildlife habitat and things like that, and this bothers me. I'm not worried about my neighbors suing me, but I am very concerned about some of these self-appointed environmental protectionists. When I talked about the vigilantes the other day, I wasn't kidding. Some of these people are extremely dedicated. And after listening to Bill Pearce mentioning that any individual can start proceedings, it scares me even more. We've seen the activities of some of these people, and they appear to want to take us back to the days of buffalo. I'm not sure they'll like buffalo meat when they get there.

Now one of the reasons for this proposal, I'm guessing, is that it presumes fast action on environmental matters through court action. And I wonder if this is — if this is really true. There are a lot of court actions that take a considerable amount of time. I'm wondering also — I think that court action is qualified to stop certain procedures, but I'm not sure that it's the proper place to decide on proper corrective matters.

There are many economic factors here. And while we maybe snare the economics of the situation, it's still a poor consideration. You can look down in Minnesota at the discharge of radioactive materials in the Mississippi River by Northern States Power. Now they apparently meet federal standards. There's some argument as to whether they meet the state standards. Which set of standards is proper, I don't know. But think a little bit. None of us feel very sorry for Northern States Power. But think of the cost that it must take to protect themselves and defend themselves against the large amount of legal activity that's going on. Eventually you and I pay for it. Now it's easy, perhaps, to sue them and put a complete stop to it. But then how do you turn on the light switch?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President: Again I would like to warn this Convention against window dressing in this Constitution which serves no good purpose. I speak against — I speak for the amendment and for the elimination of the last paragraph. The proposal as it stands only opens a Pandora's box of troubles. The sponsors cannot tell what will happen, we cannot tell the public what will happen. They say they are giving the citizens a right to sue. What they are doing is giving the peculiar limited interest people a chance to go into court and raise trouble and stop the state from carrying on programs which the state has already deemed to be in the public interest. You'll find that the water control programs that are the major project within the state from one border to the next would be under court attack from — no matter how limited they were in preference or in scope. There are people who don't like a dam no matter what its purpose. I think that a smokestack would be an automatic target for anyone of these special interest or class action suits, but the sponsors can't tell whether it is or not. They say that's up to the Legislature. But as long as we've put it into the Constitution we are inviting all kinds of actions. We don't know where it will stop. And all of the overkill on pollution would be multiplied. I hope that the amendment is approved.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg — Delegate Butler. Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I was home this past weekend and we had quite a snowstorm there. There was the City of Fargo motor vehicle going down the street trying to open the street so we could get out. Makes a little noise. I sell that kind of equipment. I know that manufacturers are doing everything possible to reduce the amount of noise these machines make. But there is still going to be people, well, I'll say two-thirds, occasionally want to get rid of the noise altogether; which is impossible. And I think I'd rather have my streets plowed than to be faced with a court suit against the City of Fargo to stop them because of the noise that's being made. And I certainly stand for the deletion of this part of the proposal.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I might remind you on this matter — and I support the amendment — just recently at the federal level, at the very highest level, we've seen what happens with premature crusading on this environmental thing. The federal government, maybe not in official language, but it has indicated to the soap companies that phosphates are very bad things. Now just within a year and a half of the time they came out with this thing, they have decided that the substitute for phosphates which they have suggested are even a worse thing. And I think if we allow this to go through without this amendment there is no end to the litigation that may arise, and most of it very unwarranted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

We voted on this issue the other day. The situation is still very much the same. Then was raised the question of would cows pollute our waters if they were able to cross a stream. That's a natural process for North Dakota. We — I urge that you defeat the amendment as you did the other day.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I support the amendment. The thing that bothers me the most about Section 2 is that each case that is brought by an individual relates solely to himself under the provisions of Section 2. We will have, over a period of years, I'm sure, hundreds of individual lawsuits in which the courts will have made hundreds of individual decisions. That would be a complete fragmentation of the public's right to control pollution. This is a public right. Ecology is a two-way street. Mankind is still involved in ecology. If we, instead of putting the control in a public agency, would put it in the hands of any individual who wishes to go to court, we will have such a confused set of decisions, rules and regulations that it would be impossible after a period of time to determine what are the rules. That is the reason for my concern against the individuals. Certainly I am not against Paragraph 1. I believe that it's a good public policy. We, from time to time, in fact quite a few times each day, put a great deal of faith and credit in the Legislature. I think they can do what's necessary; I think they have been moving, but certainly not through Paragraph 2.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President: Not to argue the point, but because I am a member of the task force headed up by Dr. Peterson at the University of North Dakota, on some of this pollution thing, I've done some research into some of the areas that perhaps this assembly might like to hear. It will only take me one minute. This is from the Health, Education and Welfare study that they completed on natural areas and pollutants that come from our sources of that type. And this is their report:

"Air chemistry experts of this department estimate that the terpene emissions of one square mile of forest are equivalent to the annual hydrocarbon output of 625 cars with current air pollution control equipment. Terpene is from growing trees and causes a blue haze of the Great Smokies. As a matter of scientific fact, 75 to 85 percent of all global hydrocarbon emissions come from natural sources. Besides hydrocarbons, the other ingredients of photochemical smog, automobile-caused air pollution, are oxides of nitrogen, carbon monoxide, and particulate matter. Again nature puts 95 percent of all oxides of nitrogen into the air and 22 percent of the carbon monoxide. And technological advances are winning the battle to reduce particulate matter as a pollutant. So let's put all manmade pollutants into their proper perspective."

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President: I've learned long ago that there's only one way to fight a woman — with due respect, Mrs. Fritzell — and that's with your hat. You take it and run. But I want to remind you that everything should be taken care of in the first section. I see no reason for the second. In the first section it says, "The legislative assembly shall provide by law for the implementation and enforcement of this policy." I agree with Mr. Paulson that the second section is window dressing. It's extraneous speech. I see no need for it. If we are merely trying to coddle the people who are extremists in this sort of line, I see no reason why we should do this. Anything they should wish to do that's reasonable should be taken care of in the first section.

I would remind you that all change is not bad. It was the God of Nature who put the apple — the worm in the apple. Man took it out. And there's nothing so frustrating as to find a half an apple. So I think that we ought to be thankful that man has done something to change some of these things. Now I may be reaching a little, but this is an extreme that could be reached if this thing is allowed to go unchecked. I am not afraid of having the legislative assembly provide for the laws to implement this. I have faith in the legislators that they will take care of this. So I urge the acceptance of this amendment to delete the second section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Fellow Delegates:

I didn't mean to speak again but there are a few things that have been brought up that I have to, I think, rebut. We in the regulatory agencies of our state are aware the legislation is here. It's good legislation. But the reason it's been ineffective is not — is because of a lack of personnel and no funding. And the people know this, and so they are concerned about it.

Now as far as the interpretation of Section 2 as an individual, now we've thought of amending this to "people have". But as you know, I must remind you, that this was taken word for word from the Illinois Constitution. And Illinois, looking up Illinois, Michigan, Connecticut, the courts have interpreted this very wording as class action. And I'm not going to go into the definition of "class action" that I did yesterday.

And as far as somebody mentioning about the soap deal, it's true they reversed themselves because they found out the substitutes were worse. And yet they are trying very hard now to find a substitute for phosphates. But that doesn't make any difference, because I am concerned about man as I have emphasized so many times.

And I also would want to remind you that the U. S. Senate passed a strong water pollution bill only recently 86 to nothing. And in this bill was the citizen's right to sue class action. And the House has got a bill before it that is much stronger than the Senate, but the administration right now is trying to soft pedal it a little because you know we've got an economic thing to get going here. And as long as the gross national production is the god to industry, labor and to government, we as citizens need to have some right to see that we are — we're not asking — I'm not — I'm emotional now, I admit I'm emotional now. But actually, I am quite a pragmatic optimistic person. Yet I am concerned about the human race. And all the citizen wants is the right to bring out evidence as it comes to us how it affects us as a species. Thank you.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I'm not going to go into a long dialogue on this, thanks to Mr. Baker's amendment, if nothing else. I think that we should really be aware of what we're doing here in spite of what we are being told. Section 2 is the teeth in this particular section, and that's why it is being opposed.

Section 1 is the window dressing that does nothing, and that is why it is being supported. So if we delete Section 2 we might as well delete Section 1, because it will do nothing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question — Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. Chairman: There is something that has been brought to my attention since the last time we voted on this. And you all recall the Minot Daily News and the adverse publicity that was given to the association at that time. It seems that some gentleman from Minot had made some statement to the committee that Lake Metigoshe was about to become an environmental disaster. Lake Metigoshe, we have a group of people up there, the owners of about 700 cabins around Lake Metigoshe, of which I am a member and a property owner. I was in contact with the president of that organization, Mr. Otto Corbin from Bottineau, just the other day and he tells me to vote against this in its entirety. He says Mr. Olson from Minot did not speak for the organization. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: I think everyone's — the ones that are supporting this amendment fear court actions. Now you must all stop to realize the courts are open to anybody and all kinds of matters. I can be charged tomorrow with any number of crimes, I can be sued tomorrow by any number of people, and in any conduct that I am involved in. I face the risk of someone suing me frivolously or with grounds. And the court is the place where the merits of the action are decided. I have no great fear that our courts are going to be frivolous. If frivolous suits are brought, they will throw them out of court.

Now our Legislature has given strong direction in this state for both water and air pollution. They've declared polluted streams to be unlawful. If you delete Section 2, then the only ones that can enforce that will be the administrative agency. All we are asking is that the people themselves individually, if they want to bring actions, can enforce it. And I would urge you to defeat the amendment and, as Delegate Omdahl said, "Leave the teeth in the proposal."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: When you call the question, Mr. President, I would like to ask for a recorded roll call vote, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will ten —

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would ten of the delegates that wish a recorded roll call vote please stand? That's a sufficient number.

Are you ready for the question? The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Baker. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call indicates there were 44 "ayes," there were 53 "nays," with one delegate absent and not voting. The amendment failed.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: May I change my vote?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry, Delegate Scheel, the vote has been declared closed.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: All right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-16.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander?

DELEGATE LANDER: No.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question?

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I'm just going to explain to Delegate Scheel that he could explain his vote for the record.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry. I thought he said to change his vote.

DELEGATE SINNER: He did, Mr. President. But I thought he should realize he could explain it if he wanted to.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Did I misinterpret your request, Delegate Scheel? I thought you wanted to change your vote. If you wish to explain your vote, you sure can do that.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I might as well explain my vote. I just voted in error. I intended to vote against the amendment and in favor of the proposal as listed here in the book.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question then before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-16. Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 66 "ayes," 30 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-16 is passed.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-38.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-38, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 37 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 7 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to restrictions on the office-holding capabilities of state legislators.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 37 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Section 7 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 7. No member while serving in the legislative assembly shall hold any other elective office of the state or any of its political subdivisions, nor any appointive state office which shall be deemed to be an office established by this constitution or by law. During the term of office for which he was elected, no legislator shall be appointed to any office which has been created, or for which the compensation has been increased by the legislative assembly during that term."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hardmeyer.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: We have a technical amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-38.

On line 1 delete the word "section" and insert the word "sections". After the numeral "37" insert the words "and 39". After the words "Article II" insert the words "and Article 51 of the amendments to".

On line 4 delete the word "both" and insert the word "all".

On line 7 delete the word "Section" and insert the word "Sections". After the numeral "37" insert the words "and 39". And after the words "Article II" insert the words "and Article 51 of the amendments to".

On line 8 delete the word "is" and insert the word "are".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hardmeyer.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: This is a technical amendment; some deletions that we forgot to insert in the original document in the committee. And I ask its adoption.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I wonder if it might be a little harsh. I don't believe anyone in this assembly could ever be appointed ombudsman under this section. It says, "Any office —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, I think we're on the proposed amendment. Are you talking — you must be talking on the main subject. You aren't talking on the amendment, are you, as offered by Delegate Hardmeyer?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: No. Sorry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hardmeyer. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendments are adopted.

Now Delegate Hardmeyer.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Proposal 1-38 is new language expressing the ideas found in the present Constitution in Section 37 and Article 39. Under this section, this new section, that we are proposing here, certain prohibitions are placed upon members of the legislative assembly. The first prohibition is against holding any other elective or appointive office while serving in the assembly; and the second prohibition is against accepting appointments during the term from which one is elected to an office which has been created, or for which compensation has been increased by the assembly during that term. And there is some new language that was not found in any of the others, and that is "or any of its political subdivisions". This is new language; prohibits mayors and county commissioners from serving in the Legislature. The committee felt that members of the Legislature should not wear too many hats; that they should represent all the people and not just those of any minor office on which the Legislature might vote. So we urge your adoption of Committee Proposal 1-38.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: If I read this language in this section correctly, I cannot believe that the Legislative Functions Committee intends to do what the language says. It says that: "No member while serving in the legislative assembly shall hold any other elective office of the state or any of its political subdivisions, nor any appointive office which shall be deemed to be any office established by this Constitution or by law." Now I have a list here of the members of this body who could not have served as a legislator at some time in their governmental experience: Aubol, Baker, Bassingthwaite, Berg, Binek, Burke, Butler, Cart, Chase, Christensen, Daniels, Decker, Diehl, Fiedler, Fritzell, Geelan, Gipp, Hartl, Haugen, Hernet, Hill, Hoghaug, Hougen, Jestrab, Kelsch, Kessel, Kretschmar, Lamb, Lander, Lerberg, Longmire, Maxwell, Nething, Omdahl, Pearce, Peterson, Paulson, Quam, Roney, Rosendahl, Saugstad, Scheel, Simonson, Sinner, Thompson, Trenbeath, Warner and Wicks. Now most of these — there are some cases where some of these people should not have served; they are State's Attorney or something like that. But you're talking about a township supervisor, you're talking about a member of a local board, you're talking about a member of the local irrigation board of directors, you're talking about a member of a dental — what do you call your dental board, Mrs. Wicks, back there — park boards. I don't know about precinct committeemen. I guess so, it's created by law. Yes, right. I just can't believe that you want to do this. These people who hold these offices in these townships and these school districts and these irrigation districts are the leaders of the community. They are the people that should be elected to serve in this Legislature. They are the people whose experience qualifies them to become members of the Legislature. I certainly hope that this thing would be sent back and amended so it does not do what it says it's going to do.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: There was rather strong division in the committee, and a Minority Report is in the offing. The committee on this issue, and on several others that will be coming up, decided that rather than belabor these things two and three times and go the route of Minority Reports, that we would say quite frankly on the floor that there was a difference of opinion and that amendments that a minority held, believed in, would be submitted. And, therefore, I submit in behalf of several members of the committee an amendment which is at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-38 is as follows:

In line 1 — in line 13, delete "any of its".

In line 14 delete the words "political subdivision, nor".

And renumber the lines.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Who seconded that? Who seconded the motion? Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention now is the amendment offered by Delegate Sinner.

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: I don't wish to belabor this very long. There were three reasons that we felt that this cause should not — or this phrase should not be in the language. First, we think it is the right of the electorate to pick their representatives. And if they think it should be their township supervisor or it should be a school board member, we think that should be their choice. Secondly, we think that the expertise of these people in the Legislature is an expertise that's an advantage to the Legislature. Thirdly, if the criticism is that these people are prejudicial in their acts in the Legislature, aren't teachers prejudicial and aren't farmers prejudicial and aren't lawyers and doctors and housewives also prejudicial? We think that the advantages to be gained by letting these people run are far in excess of those disadvantages that might be encountered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: It was the committee's intent to exclude persons holding elected — holding other elected offices in this state or its political subdivisions. I do not agree with the list that Delegate Haugen read. My name was on there. It was true I was a State's Attorney. I was also a legislator. But I was not doing both at the same time.

Now present Constitution Section 37 says that: "No judge or clerk of any court, secretary of state, attorney general, register of deeds, sheriff or person holding any office of profit under this state — and they exclude the militia or notary publics — . . . shall hold any office in either branch of the legislative assembly or become a member thereof."

Now that's the present Constitution. And what the Majority Report does is say that we — I fail to see why the register of deeds couldn't be on the Legislature but the clerk of court could or the auditor or the treasurer. I don't know what the basis of the original distinction was. But the majority of the Committee on Legislative Functions felt that if you want to be in the Legislature while you are serving in the Legislature you should not have an allegiance and elect an individual to another subdivision. Now if you don't, if you want to be president of your school board, if you want to be sheriff or State's Attorney, then don't run for the Legislature. If you want to be in the Legislature and get elected, then resign those other offices. While you are in the Legislature then for your district you will be representing the district, you will not be representing the school board or the township or the county, you'll be representing the people of that district. Is it so much to ask?

We are not saying that if you were once a township supervisor you can never run for the Legislature. All we are saying is don't wear two hats. If you want to be in the Legislature, resign the other position. After you've been in awhile and been defeated or something, you can go back and serve on the school board. We don't lose the experience and the expertise of these people. Many people brought to the Legislature have brought their experience from other positions. We are just saying don't ask to hold two positions, because we believe it causes conflict and you don't give the best service.

I would urge that you support the majority position of the committee on this.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman: I should just want to point out in support of the original proposal, and against the amendment, that the proposal does not bar anybody from running for the Legislature. It's only if you win do you have to make a choice. At that point you have to decide whether you are going to serve in the Legislature or remain as governor of Mott or Fargo — I mean as mayor of Mott or Fargo. The prohibition is on the member of the Legislative Assembly. He can serve here, but he can't serve here and on the Cass County Commission or what-have-you. So the prohibition doesn't come in until he wins. He can run for it and be on the school board. If he's on the Convention he must resign the other elected position if he decides to serve in the Legislature.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President: I'd like to ask a question of the Legislative Functions Committee. How did you happen to differentiate between someone that's elected to a position of government or somebody that's employed in a position of government? It seems to me that your theory of wearing two hats and having two masters would have to carry over to someone that works for a political subdivision or a department, state agency. Did the subject come up? And, if so, how did you treat it?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: We did consider the problem of teachers, persons employed. We considered saying that anybody who was paid a salary could not run in the Legislature if the salary was appropriated by the Legislature. But we felt that this was too broad a disenfranchisement of too many people. And so we limited to persons appointed at a state level, being those that are either named in the Constitution or established by law. If the Legislature establishes a position to say that there shall be a President of the University of North Dakota, then he could not do both. He could not be President of the University of North Dakota and also a legislator. But a teacher at the University would not be disenfranchised merely because his salary is paid through legislative appropriations.

Now I know you can bring argument that there is also a conflict. I will agree that all of us have biases and prejudices and things that we favor or don't favor. I think there is a difference between the elected local official who is running on his record locally, who is also in the Legislature. And we felt this is the very distinction.

Now you must also remember the elected sheriff; there is no law that says he's got to work two hours a day, any hours a day. He can put his feet up on the desk and never work, as long as he is around the courthouse every six months. And he can run for the Legislature, he can hold that office, he can hold sheriff's office. Is there any limit to how many offices he can hold? We felt that this is not too much to ask of a citizen. If he wants to serve in the Legislature, he should represent the state and not be a representative of a subdivision as an elected official of that subdivision.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: I would like to ask Delegate Kelsch two questions, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Kelsch yield?

DELEGATE MILLER: Sir, does this in fact go down — if I'm not being derogatory — go down as low as a township officer? Would this include a township officer?

DELEGATE KELSCH: If a township is a political subdivision of the state, it would, and I think it is. The answer is yes.

DELEGATE NETHING: You know it is.

DELEGATE MILLER: Okay. Well, secondly, I find it a little hard to believe but do you concur that merely by resigning you are going to change a conflict of interest, you're going to alter prejudices or bias?

DELEGATE KELSCH: No, you would not. But if I'm a county commissioner and if the question comes up on the division of the state gas tax you know where I'm going to stand; raising the mill levy for counties, you know where I'm going to stand. I can hardly go back as both a legislator and an elected official who also wants to be elected in that position. Now if I resign the position I'm released free of the pressure of worrying about whether my actions over here in this body might reflect whether I will be reelected or not in that race.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

It's difficult enough for the political parties in this state to come up with highly qualified candidates for the Legislature without writing restrictions in the Constitution such as this. If the Mayor of Washburn, for example, wants to run for the State Senate he should be able to do so without having to resign as Mayor if he's elected a Senator. The adoption of this provision before us I fear would have a long-term adverse effect on the quality of our State Legislature. I urge you to support Delegate Sinner's amendment.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I didn't intend to get into this argument. But if I can't serve as a township supervisor, recreation board or some of these things back home and my people decide that I should wear two hats, then they should make that decision. And if they make that decision I don't know why I can't wear the two hats. I think like Delegate Rundle, let's kick this one in the creek.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. Since I am the Chairman of the Legislative Functions Committee I hesitate to get into these quarrels. We still haven't had our party, you see. In answer to Delegate Dobson's question about finding members to run for the Legislature, after we've taken all of the restrictions off the Constitution that we have now, and this afternoon we had one coming up for a four-year term with salaries, with annual salaries, and if the Legislature spreads out the load to annual sessions I'm sure we're going to find a lot of people who will be interested. And they will not have to be mayors or county commissioners or township supervisors. We have enough people in the State of North Dakota. I'm opposed to the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel has asked for the floor. I'm sorry.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I was just going to say that if we have a good argument for 1-38 as it stands, I think it should go further and disqualify everybody that has ever held one of those lowly offices. I speak against — I speak in favor of the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I'd like to speak in favor of the committee proposal, being on that committee. I think that it's a difficult situation for a man to wear two hats and come to the Legislature and work for two individual entities. And really, that's what he's doing. He's going to have a conflict of interest, if not in fact, with himself. I think that Committee Proposal 1-38 is solid as it stands.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hardmeyer — no — as offered by Delegate Sinner. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment's adopted.

Division has been requested. That's sufficient number. Those that are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call indicates 63 "ayes," 35 "nays," no delegates absent and not voting. The amendment has been adopted.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch. Someone asked for Mr. President?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would move an amendment after the word "or" on line 13 insert the words "its counties, nor".

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have the amendment at the desk now?

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be with you in a minute, Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Procedural question I have, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: What is your question?

DELEGATE BAKER: Will this be a substantive amendment, would you say?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, this will be further amendment. This will be a further amendment. It's not an amendment to an amendment.

The proposal is before the Convention. On the tenth order you can amend, so I'd have to rule it's an amendment.

The Clerk will read the proposed amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendments to Proposal No. 1-38 are as follows:

In line 13 of the amended proposal after the word "or" insert the words "its county, nor".

DELEGATE KELSCH: "Counties."

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Counties."

DELEGATE KELSCH: ", nor."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: What the amendment will simply do now, it will read: "No member while serving in the legislative assembly shall hold any other elected office of the state or its counties, nor any appointed state office shall be . . ." et cetera. So this would allow the township supervisor, school board member, park board member, the water district member to run for the Legislature but would keep out sheriff, treasurer, state's attorney, county commissioners, many which are presently named in the present Constitution, being judge, clerk of court, register of deeds, sheriff.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on the proposed amendment?

Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Well, Mr. President, I put forth a question. What good sense does it make to exclude county commissioners without mayors?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is the question directed to any person, any individual?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, that's simply a rhetorical question.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I agree.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question is on the amendment.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President: A question for Delegate Kelsch. I serve as legal counsel for the Area Mental Health Association which is part of the County of Grand Forks. Would that bar me from serving further in the Legislature?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Delegate Longmire, if that's an elected position it would.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, it's an appointive position. Don't you still have the "appointive" in the proposal?

DELEGATE KELSCH: I think it reads "any other elective office of the state" or its counties. I would assume that "elective office" would modify "county".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: We agree with the amendment, and I appreciate the good vote by which it was adopted. In my opinion, it does not go far enough. Because the wording "appointive state office which shall be deemed to be any office established by this constitution or by law," it goes a long, long ways. And I'm not sure whether it applies here, but it does apply to a lot of advisory committees, and we've got hundreds of them. I think we have got scores of them at least.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, I wonder if that is involved in the question before the Convention.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe that we're on the motion as offered — the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe that matters that you've referred to are lower in the proposal and are not being affected by the question before the Convention.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes, that is right, Mr. President. My comments were occasioned, of course, by Delegate Longmire's question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I see. The question, then, before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch.

Delegate Engstrom.

DELEGATE ENGSTROM: Mr. President: I would like to ask Delegate Kelsch if his amendment would bar members of the Legislature from running for the next — for the next Constitutional Convention?

DELEGATE KELSCH: I don't know if that's to the amendment. I would — I would presume yes. I think that under our present Constitution there is a serious question they could run anyway. But I don't think we are changing it. They are here.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The Chair will rule that the amendment was adopted.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Division.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division has been requested. That's sufficient number. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye" and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your choice.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The vote indicates 59 "ayes," 39 "nays," all delegates present. The amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-38 has been adopted.

Again we are on the question of first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-38. Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President: I might point out one other thing that I think is a problem under this bill. And this goes into the old statute, too. You take the last two sentences there it says: "During the term of office for which he was elected . . ." and so on about appointments there. You have already been appointed to some state office or some board — in fact, this happened to me years ago, I was serving on the State Banking Board and then I ran for the Legislature. We secured at the time an Attorney General's opinion, and I continued to serve on the Banking Board and the Legislature. Because this says just the opposite. So you're not getting at that person who is presently serving on a board and then runs for the Legislature.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: I wonder if Delegate Hernet would yield to a question? Is it correct, Delegate Hernet, at the same time you were Mayor of Ashley?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Yes, I was. That has nothing to do with what I see wrong with this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President: Article 51 which is being repealed speaks to a certain category of appointment. I don't recall it, unless I didn't listen properly, the explanation as to why those restrictions were removed if I interpret it correctly from the present article proposed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Someone enlighten Delegate Lander on this question? Why Article 51 — Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: It's been some time since I've looked at 51. But I believe that we covered that in the last paragraph which says: "During the term of office for which he was elected, no legislator shall be appointed to any office . . ." I guess it would be another office. I think that — I think that we were concerned — I think our thinking was this, if I recall; we saw nothing wrong with the governor appointing a legislator he felt would do a good job on the state board. The evil we wanted to remove was the raising of the salary on it. The present Constitution should prohibit the appointment of any legislator. This would allow the appointment unless the legislator voted for the salary or voted to create the position.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President: Article 51 was an outgrowth of the Langer heyday in the 1930's, and at that time in those years it wasn't too uncommon for a legislator to get a state job right after a legislative session provided he voted right throughout the session. And we trust that those days are gone forever. And we believe that the Legislature does have the men who can probably serve the state good or serve the state well in some appointive position which appointee would have to resign, like say they serve on the Board of Higher Education or any of the other appointive offices that are being established; if they did — if such appointments did become a payoff we trust that the electorate would take the action similar to what they did in 1939.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President: I would move an additional amendment at this time. On line 13 behind the word "state" insert a comma and the words "its cities". So that the line would read: "shall hold any other elective office of the state, its cities or its counties". And if I can have a second I will explain.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE HARTL: The reason I have moved this amendment is due to the fact that we have now excluded my lowly rural area of county commissioners who have the great power to take home the dollar from the Legislature for their county interests. I am concerned about the city mayor and councilmen from our other areas who at this time can still sit in the Legislature and bring home that dollar which we have been attempting to divide equally. I think my point is clear.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Do we have the amendment now at the desk? The Clerk will read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-38 is as follows:

In line 13 of the amended proposal after the word "state" insert the following: " , its cities,".

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the amendment.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I agree in principle with the proposal of Delegate Kelsch to eliminate counties. But again I think when you go down to the cities you're going a little too far. This Convention actually is impugning the judgments and motives of a good many citizens of North Dakota, including members of park boards in the cities, members of zoning commissions, I believe, and a lot of other such things. And I think that we've got to have judgment in these people that come — that come to the Legislature to serve their constituents. Surely, I know that every legislator is influenced by his own personal background and his own occupation. I have a son that is a lawyer, and I can't help but believe that every lawyer is influenced in his legislative decisions by clients that he has worked for at some time or another, but their interests, and especially if he's on a retainer, and there's a lot of them are, and I'm not impugning their motives. But I'm saying that there's a conflict of interest there also. And I think when we knock out the counties we've gone far enough. Let's stop there.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President: It's kind of a losing game anyway, fellows. You haven't got all the rascals around the courthouse and city hall here anyway. Because at the county level there is the director of tax equalization, he's appointed, he can run; got some of the Christian legislation, no doubt; county highway superintendent, he's got some interest in the money, that sort of thing; the city manager, if the city has a manager for them; the city attorney and so on and on and on.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: This amendment would put us back, Mr. President, about 80 percent of the way to the original language. Let's not bar competent local government leaders from serving in the Legislature. I urge its rejection. Let's not approve this amendment.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I voted for the Sinner amendment, and I voted for the Kelsch amendment. And in order to keep my voting record in balance I intend to vote for the Hartl amendment and for the very reason that Delegate Hartl said. We have taken away the vote — the voice of the county commissioners. I don't think that we should leave the cities represented if counties can't be represented in the Legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hartl which was read from the desk. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed vote "no." The Chair is in doubt. We will open the key. Those in favor of adoption will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no."

Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman: Could I refuse to vote? I think I have a vested interest in this thing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: A question on Delegate Chase voting. He has asked to be excused from voting.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I move that we permit Delegate Chase to vote, knowing of his present position.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Haugen. It is moved and seconded that the Convention do permit Delegate Chase to vote. As many as are in favor of the proposal say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Your permission to vote is granted.

DELEGATE CHASE: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question now before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Hartl. I believe we did vote on that, didn't we? I have failed to decide which way it went and asked that we use the key. Those in favor will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened, you will indicate your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call indicates 50 "ayes," 47 "nays," one delegate absent. The amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-38 has been adopted.

DELEGATE NETHING: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question? Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I believe that this — being Proposal 1-27 has been amended —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 38.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I beg your pardon. — 1-38 and that the Convention wishes to act upon it immediately, then I would move to suspend the rules and that we consider it properly re-engrossed and placed on tenth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-38 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and be placed on the calendar for passage as amended.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab seconds the motion.

As many as are in favor — Delegate Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to have that 1-38 read back to us with the amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Can't do it. There are four amendments alone in line 13.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman. Could I suspend the rules then and have it read back to us?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No. The question is not on whether it can be read back; the question is whether the desk can get it properly listed here.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: If I may make a suggestion, the thing to do is to vote down the motion to suspend the rules and then it will be over tomorrow, I guess, and by that time maybe the amendments will be in the Journal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct. The bill will also be engrossed then.

The question before the Convention is on the motion to suspend the rules.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: May I ask permission to withdraw the motion?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab yield to the request to withdraw the motion?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I suppose.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then we will proceed to consideration of Committee Proposal No. 1-44, and Committee Proposal 1-38 will be on the tenth order tomorrow.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I think while we're thinking about 1-38 overnight, if we get to think tonight, that there were a couple of things brought up that weren't mentioned that we should be aware of, and that is that a state office is a position of the government where you exercise a part of the sovereignty of the state government. And it just isn't any old position or job. And so we are talking about primarily the executive.

Another thing that you should be aware of in this article is — in this proposal is that this will prohibit a member of the Legislature from running for an executive position during the term of office if the salary for the governor or lieutenant governor or one of the other elective offices has been increased while he was a member of the legislative assembly. Just so you know that this is what it does.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman: I just want to say that Mr. Om-dahl is in error. There is no prohibition on running for an office. The prohibition is on being appointed to one which has been created during the term; "no legislator shall be appointed to any office which has been created, or for which the compensation has been increased . . ." In other words, it's an office — an appointive office which has been created or in which the compensation has been increased during that term.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will next consider Committee Proposal No. 1-44.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-44, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 27 and 30 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that sections 2 and 5 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all pertaining to legislative terms of office.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 27 and 30 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Sections 2 and 5 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 2. Members of the legislative assembly shall be elected for terms of four years.

"Section 5. The legislative seats shall be numbered consecutively, and be divided into two classes, even-numbered seats constituting one class and odd-numbered seats constituting the other class, so that one-half of the legislators, as nearly as practicable, may be elected biennially; provided, however, that when the legislative assembly is redistricted the legislators elected prior thereto shall continue in office until the expiration of the terms for which they were elected, and the act providing for such redistricting shall specify, where necessary, the newly established seats they shall hold for the balance of their terms."

DELEGATE KWAKO: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE KWAKO: There's a few minor amendments at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendments to Proposal No. 1-44:

On line 1 after the numeral "27" delete the word "and" and insert in lieu thereof a comma and after the numeral "30" insert "and 33".

On line 6 after the numeral "27" delete the word "and" and insert in lieu thereof a comma and after the numeral "30" insert "and 33".

DELEGATE KWAKO: Mr. Chairman — Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE KWAKO: I move that these — that we adopt these amendments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako moves the adoption of the amendments.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Hendrickson.

Is there any discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendments as offered by Delegate Kwako. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendments are adopted.

Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Mr. President: If you will note on this proposal the few changes that were made. Now the committee — the chairman has assigned me this proposal. Now it is stated that Section 27 and 30 in Article II are repealed and Sections 2 and 5 are created. Now most of these workings may be seen in Sections 27 and 30. As you'll note in Section 2 the term of office for the House of Representatives has been increased to four years. And we felt that due to all the work that the Legislature will be having we felt that a four-year term would be more appropriate. And I find after serving here just a few weeks that four years would make a Representative more accountable to the people.

And now Section 5, as it's written: "The legislative seats shall be numbered consecutively, and be divided into two classes, even-numbered seats constituting one class and odd-numbered seats constituting the other class, so that one-half of the legislators, as nearly as practicable, may be elected biennially; provided, however, that when the legislative assembly is redistricted the legislators elected prior thereto shall continue in office until the expiration of the terms for which they were elected . . ."

I would like to turn this over to Delegate Dobson. He sponsored the proposal, and I think it's a very important proposal. And I was very happy to be assigned this one. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I would like to make or address this inquiry to someone on the committee. And that is whether the candidate's name would appear on the ballot by seat number or by name?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: This matter of numbering seats doesn't mean that someone's going to get a paint brush and go through this chamber and start numbering the blue chairs. This is simply an administrative duty for the reapportionment commission. The language is drafted in such a way that it applies to either the unicameral - bicameral multi-member of single-member districts. The object, of course, is to assure that one-half of the legislators in each house as nearly as practicable will stand for election every two years. If you have a two-senator district, one of those senators will be up one year, the next will be up two years later. They both — they will not both run in the same year.

What it amounts to, the first half of Section 5 there, is an update of old Section 30. The last half of Section 5 simply provides that the legislator will not be redistricted out of office at mid-term. I think this is a good provision.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

At the risk of being in trouble for talking again after nineteen days, I feel that I have to say that I oppose this measure because two years — the legislators that are elected for two years are far more responsive to the people than they would be elected for four. I know from experience. You go home after one session and you better have been somewhat good or you don't come back. And why should you come back for an extra years if you haven't been a good representative? And I think two houses, if we continue to have them, there should be a difference. The House is supposed to represent changes more quickly than the Senate. The Senators are supposed to be a little more dignified and slower to act perhaps. And there's one other thing, too. If you are interested, the elections are about half the fun of being in politics. I see no real reason to change the thing to four years.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Just the other day Delegate Sanstead made a very good remark. He said when he was elected as a representative he sat back in those three seats back there, three young fellows, and he said when he was undecided every time something came up he voted "no" due to the fact that he was inexperienced.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President: I think I should direct this question to Delegate Dobson. Just supposing now they do reapportion or redistrict, oh, say the first part of next year. For instance, a Senator or a Representative elected for four years, in other words, the redistricting couldn't take place for four years; is that right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Someone answer the question? Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: No, the redistricting would take effect immediately. However, in case the legislator — say a Senator — had a four-year term, he could not be knocked out of office after two years. And the redistricting act would simply specify the seat he would hold for the balance of his term. I'll have to frankly admit that this provision was found in rummaging through the Nebraska Constitution. And it seemed to work pretty well there, and I think it will work here. Because we don't have any more — any great changes. We had a big change in '65 when we had reapportionment, but now it's mainly because nothing has happened for 35 years. In the future we're not really looking to such great population changes as would create a problem in this regard.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I think I see what you're trying to get at. But I am — for instance, in my district, and if it is redistricted next year, one house member would be on a two-year basis and the other house member would be on a four-year basis. And then the redistricting came along and reapportioning this, how would — one house member would be representing one district of a certain size and the other would be representing something entirely different, it seems to me. Especially if he had to take in some of your neighbor's district which is what is going to happen. I just don't see how it's going to work with somebody with a four-year term.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President: I'm going to speak to the same thing. I can see where a member can live fifty miles or a hundred miles from the new district that he represents. And I think this would concern me a little bit if you got a guy locked in for four years, we have a redistricting, he may not live within fifty or a hundred miles of the district that he represents.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: We have that very problem now in the Senate. I don't know how you'd avoid it. Either you've got to say the Senator in that four-year term or two years left when the redistricting board met, you would have to boot him out of office because he was redistricted out or you would have to let him serve even though it may be true he would not be serving in the district — district lines would be changed so he would live outside them. How else could you do it where you've got staggering four-year terms? Now that's true of the Senate. Of course this proposal would make it apply equally true in the House by giving the House members four-year terms.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President: Going back to the first part of Section 5 and using the example that Delegate Hernet gave, is it then the idea that this redistricting system would have no geographical continuity, the system the way it is today? I think possibly when you folks divided this up in order for us to get in these little pieces, you're handing us something which in your mind fits together but in our minds are a bunch of disconnected things. It's real hard to follow.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Here is the way it would work: Right now District 1 is Williston. Instead of renumbering the Senate districts would continue about the same, while the two House seats in District 1 would be numbered 1 and 2; the two House seats in District 2 would be numbered 3 and 4; the District 3, 5 and 6; District 4, 7 and 8; and then you come to a multimember district, Minot, and there the numbering for the six house members would be 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14. And, you see, the odd-numbered ones would be up one year, and the even-numbered ones would be up the next year.

Now if that covers that, I would like to address myself to Delegate Hernet's inquiry. It's possible that that — it's hard to give an example of how this would really work. But say an area or a district lost population and was going to lose one of its House seats, but that member — well, presumably the one that would go out is the one whose term expires. Because one House member would be up the one year and the other one would be up two years later. So there would always be someone there to eliminate.

As far as the Senate seats go, if a Senator had a four-year term and he was due to be redistricted out of office, it's possible there would be a two-year delay in the transfer of that seat to another district because of this provision.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President: I've been trying to follow the example given. And it would seem that if there is the two-year delay, then some district would have two senators and the other would have none, because then in the redistricting that takes place you're moving boundary lines as opposed to just having the numbers shifted to arrive at the total serving the Legislature. And I'm wondering if that — you might not leave a district say for two years without a Senator or the comparable number of Representatives by shifting the line.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Well, Mr. President, there are two things that I think affect the committee's — affected the committee's decision here; number one is that we, in fact, have a situation like that right now, in the multi-member districts where whole parts of cities have no elected representative. And I don't think that we can say that it's been a clear case of misrepresentation or lack of representation. In some of the court cases they are finding that. But if the — if the other alternative of going to four-year or twelve-year reapportionment were taken, you could solve this problem. But you either have to go to partial terms or else you have to recognize the fact that these people don't change that much. The districts aren't going to change that much, and their point of view isn't going to change that much. They are still going to represent the people.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President: I think I've found an example here. The 1970 census disclosed very little population shift. If you exclude the Air Force Bases — and I don't think anyone wants to give the Air Force Bases a Senator each — so if we exclude them the only net change which would have taken place in the Senate would have been a shift of one rural seat to the Fargo area as the result of the 1970 census.

Now some of the district boundaries would have changed out in the rural areas. Many of the plans which went through the last Legislature in effect broke up the old Thirteenth District, I guess, which is Eddy-Foster; those two counties have lost population, didn't have enough to sustain a Senator. So let's say that the Eddy-Foster District was dissolved and that seat shifted into Fargo. Now if a Senator from Eddy-Foster, if his term was up there was no problem, the seat would shift immediately. If he had two years remaining, the reapportionment commission would arbitrarily give him a numbered seat which would be in the Fargo district. He would, in effect, be a Senator from Fargo for two years, then he would be out and the Fargo district would then elect a Senator to fill that seat.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I have yet — I'm confused here — I have yet to see what kind of black magic there is on numbering these seats. It would seem to me that it's much better to number the district that a Senator or a Representative represents rather than trying to number the seats. Because if I understand this proposal correctly, you're going to have Representatives running at different times in the wrong district that they represent. And I can't see any advantage to that. It may be causing that much more expense to the election districts. I would like to see it go back to the numbered districts. I can see no advantage to numbering seats.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Well, of course, in the original 1889 Constitution Section 30 went by numbered districts. Now the reason we went to numbered seats was because of the advent of multi-member districts. We couldn't see any good reason why all four Senators from Fargo should come up in one year. It would seem to make more sense to have two come up one year and then two two years later. So that's why we went to numbering seats. The whole purpose of this really is to try and get away from a situation that developed in 1966 when the whole Senate had to run for reelection and half of those Senators had to run at mid-term. We don't think that we should put the whole Senate and the House on the ballot after every redistricting.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: One other advantage in numbering the seats is that where you have two representatives from one district, if we changed them to four-year terms and they were numbered districts, you'd only get to vote for representatives every four years. By numbering the seats, the even-numbered one would run — you'd have one even two years, odd two years, even two years, odd two years. So you'd be able to vote every two years rather than to wait for four years like you do for Senators in your district.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Fellow Delegates: It would seem the example that was given I think describes quite adequately that the problem I was trying to get at is that the people from a district that were to have additional representation based on population could conceivably wait two years before they get that. And I am just wondering — and perhaps your committee discussed the matter of what the federal law — what the application would do to that situation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Yes. I'd like to speak in favor of this. I can see in rural districts, and there's many of them in North Dakota, and many times you have one strong representative and you have a poor one, and many times the stronger one carries the poorer one in. And I think at least every couple years you'd get a shot at that poor one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President: This program is necessarily involved, but it isn't quite as far-reaching as taking a seat from Eddy-Foster and moving it down to Fargo. What would have happened in 1972 if the Legislature had reapportioned? For instance, the 21st District boundaries would have shrunk and West Fargo would have been eliminated from the 21st. That would have meant on a four-year term basis that the representative from West Fargo, there's only one of them, Leroy Larson, would no longer have qualified in the 21st under normal procedure. If he were serving on the two-year balance of the two-year term, he would have continued to serve those two years and then when his term normally expired in 1974 the seat would have been filled by Fargo election and he would have to contend with the people in the 22nd for a return to the House if he so desired. It isn't a long-range move, but it's simply a neighborhood proposition in most cases, and you're moving the boundary a few miles, or it might be ten or twenty. But that holdover isn't going to be that far removed from his home base; he's going to be right next door. And I'm sure you would want him to take care of the people who elected him even though his home happens to be a few miles away under the new district situation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, members of the Convention, I would just like to suggest after all this discussion that there's a plain simple remedy awaiting to be heard, and that's Delegate Proposal 2-52.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: If there are no further amendments and discussion are we ready for a motion?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I'll move that Proposal 1-44 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and placed on the calendar for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 1-44 be deemed properly re-engrossed, that it be placed on first passage as amended. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Kwako. As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-44 is now before the Convention.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: In all the concern about the mechanics here, I have missed a very good — again I haven't been in this committee for the last six months — I missed a real good selling job as to why the people in the House of Representatives should serve for four years, and since I haven't heard it I'm going to vote "no" on the whole thing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I think it was the feeling of the committee here that we could see no real valid reason for the distinction between the four-year term for the Senate and the two-year term for the House. What reasons that used to exist we felt were certainly nonexistent at this point and that both the House and Senate should be put on an even keel.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: The four-year term — let's just assume that you're all legislators for the first time. Now you can see how long it takes to just get acquainted with the procedure part of this assembly. Now it takes a legislator almost half his term to understand the procedure; thinking nothing of the substance of the material, fourteen or thirteen hundred bills. A legislator for the first time in his first term does not have the confidence he needs. He is continually looking over his shoulder, worried about his election. He becomes a candidate immediately after his election. Now a four-year term gives him that confidence, gets his feet on the ground, and then he's prepared to run for that next four-year term. I really feel very strongly about the four-year term, and I think that is a legitimate argument for the four-year term.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President: I know that many of the members would like to get this over with. But I feel as strongly as Representative — or as Delegate Hoffner does the other way. And I am an ex-member of the House. I think that we should have one body of this Legislature of ours that is immediately responsible to the people. And if they are completely dissatisfied with the actions of the Legislature, they have a place where they can make a change. And if you would have a divided membership where only half can be voted out at one time, you don't have that situation. I worked for a couple years for S. L. Burdick, I campaigned for him. I heard him say this so many times in regard to the United States Government: "As long as we have a Congress in which one house is elected every two years, we are never going to have a danger of a dictatorship in the United States." I think that applies somewhat also on the state level.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Well, I've been listening for some time. And I want to speak on both the bills that we have been considering. I can see nothing in either one of them that would change my mind, because I think definitely you are heading toward a professional Legislature. In the first place, you are eliminating all the people from the lower level on up who have had the opportunity to learn about people on every level of life. And you are speaking of the type of people who work in offices or whatever they are doing and working people in every possible way and you may be tending to cut all of those people with the experiences out and put in types that might move right directly from school and into a legislative position having had no experience at all in the business of making a living, which I think is a very important thing. And I think a Legislature that has a House and elects them every two years is keeping itself in close contact and has its hands on the pulse, knows what's going on in its own district, in its own area. And if you elect them, the House and the Senate, for four years apiece, what else are you encouraging but a professional Legislature?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President: I think that just the contrary is going to happen or is assured. We have indicated a great concern in this body for what we call a citizen legislator. Yet we must recognize that these legislators are to deal with a wide array of complicated and complex social, economic and political problems every time they gather. And so we've given them a few more days, but not so many more days that they could become professional legislators. Now the only way that a legislator can build up the confidence and the background and the knowledge and the information that's necessary to solve these complex problems is to serve more terms if he is not going to put in more time in any short period of a year or two years. So I think that if we are going to make it possible for our legislators to keep on top of the complex problems of the future, it's going to be necessary that we build up a little background, a little experience in each one of them. And the only way you can do this is by assuring them that the knowledge and experience they get the first year or two is going to continue to be useful for the State of North Dakota.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: This is the vital, I think, improvement to our Legislature; whether it be bicameral or unicameral. Look at the body here. Look at the legislators in here. Every one of them is here because they did develop some quasi professional understanding of the problems of the state. Delegate Hernet and Litten and Rundle, and you can go all around the chamber, that's why they are here, because the people trusted them and they knew they had learned something about the problems of the state. And our Legislature has been blessed, fortunately, with some long-term people who were willing to run and to learn and to work at the problems of the state. And we want to help these people that come here, stay here long enough so that they can learn and be better qualified legislators. I think the committee acted wisely, and I'm sure that to all the committee members this is one of the most fundamental changes that they are recommending.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-44. Those in favor of the adoption will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 70 "ayes," 26 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-44 has passed.

Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, may we be on the twelfth order of business for a minute?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE PAULSON: During my absence Committee Proposal 1-76 was moved to the bottom of the calendar, and my opponent on that particular proposal now has had to leave, Mr. Butler, and he requests that Committee Proposal 1-76 be inserted in the calendar between Committee Proposal 93 and Committee Proposal 1-104, both to come up first thing tomorrow morning.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-93 and 1-104. Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that Committee Proposal 1-76 be placed between Committee Proposal 1-93 and Committee Proposal No. 1-104. The motion has been seconded. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-76 will be at that place on the calendar.

Fellow delegates, I think we should take a recess for a few minutes. And I believe that our agenda as discussed this morning when the Committee on the Calendar met was that we would work until six-thirty, and we will not come back this evening. Now I'm going to declare a recess of ten minutes where you can stretch. But before we do that, I want to divulge to the Convention the other part of the statement so ably expressed by Delegate Kwako relative to at this point I'll say Senator Sanstead. It was my privilege to observe his work in the Senate. And I also have to go along with the statement as stated by Delegate Kwako that he did have a large callous on the inside of his right thumb from consistently voting "no."

We will be in recess for ten minutes.

(The Session recessed at 5:34 P.M. until 5:58 P.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

We'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: You'll notice we have two new pages with us today; they are Mr. Ernie Johnson and Mr. Mark Ulness of Bismarck. They are getting the necessary experience to apply against their obtaining an Eagle Scout badge, and this is some of their experience in government. (Applause)

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: On Committee Proposal 1-89, which is next on the calendar, I'd like to say that debate on this will take considerably longer than is left for the session today, and that Delegate Geelan and I have commitments that will require us to leave a little bit early. And we both intend to engage in the debate. I would therefore move to have this proposal placed four positions down on the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's 1-89?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You'd like to have it down below 1-117?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: 105, 106, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112 are on for tomorrow at ten o'clock, just for your information and he is attempting to place a proposal between them. I just want to give you that information.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, I think his request was to place his proposal below 117, Committee Proposal 1-117.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: 1-97 then would be the next proposal on the calendar. This is the proposal dealing with tax exemptions. I anticipate that there will be considerable discussion on this. And I think the committee would appreciate it if it could be completed in one setting instead of starting on it and breaking it. The same is true of 116 and 117. I would wish to move that they be placed on the calendar immediately following 1-89.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Immediately below 1-89?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: 1-89; yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, maybe we should — maybe we should just reverse the calendar and start working from the bottom.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I think I could make a motion that might help some here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, now we do have Delegate Maxwell's motion before the Convention; and that was to move Committee Proposal No. 1-89 and place it between 1-91 and 117. We'd better dispose of that one. As many as are in favor of adopting his motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." Now we have Proposal No. 1-89 placed below 117.

Now Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President: In all seriousness, I can always be mistaken, and I have been, but we do anticipate considerable time will be required on these next three bills or proposals from our committee. And I do feel that they are important enough so that we would like to have a debate and a decision concluded when they are once taken up.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have Proposal 76, is that yours?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: 1-97.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 97.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: 1-97, 116 and 117.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And you'd like to hold those together?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes, I would.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, the next suggestion then would be that Committee Proposal No. 1-91 be moved to the head of the calendar.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President: I was going to say that I think that if 1-91 were moved to the head of the calendar, that the time might be just about right. I anticipate around a half hour discussion of that particular one. It's not ultra controversial, but there may be some questions about it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anyone object? Then Delegate Baker moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-91 be moved to the head of the calendar.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Hernet.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The question before the Convention is consideration of Committee Proposal No. 1-91.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker. Delegate Baker, we'll read it from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-91, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 74, 82 and 83 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota pertaining to elections and terms, be created.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 74, 82 and 83 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Elections and Terms.

"(a) The elected officers shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the state at a time to be designated by the legislative assembly. The terms of elective officers shall be four years except that the public service commissioners shall serve staggered six-year terms. All elected officers shall serve until their successors are elected and qualified.

"(b) Elected officers and the heads of all principal departments shall hold office at the seat of government.

"(c) If two or more candidates for any executive office shall have an equal and highest number of votes, the legislative assembly, in joint session, shall choose the successful candidate or candidates."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

Committee Proposal 1-91 deals with part of the organization of the executive department of the state government as has been explained in the reading. And it occurred to me that some of you may be a little confused by the reference to repeal and the subject matter which seems to cover only part of the material in the repealed sections that we have before us. This, I think, was partly explained awhile ago when it was noted during the discussion of 1-102 that the — that the committee has chosen to rearrange some of the material in the executive articles so that it is in a little bit more logical order, according to the judgment of the committee, at least.

Anyway, so far as Section (a), the election and terms, there is no substantive change from the present situation except that considerable words have been eliminated. It still provides that the elected officers now, who number quite fewer than have been elected, shall be elected by the state as now and that the terms shall be for four years, except that the Public Service Commissioners will serve six-year terms, just as they do now and staggered terms, just as they do now, so that one of the three is elected each two years.

The language in that section also provides the same as material in the present Constitution does; that the elected officers shall serve until their successors are elected and qualified. There may be a question in this regard about the limitation on the terms. The committee did have considerable discussion on limitation. And some of that discussion has come here to the floor on other sections of the Constitution. I think that the reasons that were given here on the floor on limitation was turned down whenever it was here a few days ago. It was about the same reasoning that the committee applied. In any event, they chose not to write into this section or any of the recommendations any limitation of terms.

The Section (b) provides that elected officers and the heads of all principal departments — that would include those who would be appointed under the new system which has been approved here, if it is approved by the people — that all of the elected and appointed officers will have their office — their office here at the seat of government in Bismarck, which you will remember we have designated in another proposal that has passed the Senate — the assembly.

Then Section (c) deals with the question of settling ties. This has nothing to do with election contests where there is a recount necessary or whenever — wherever any of the other machinery provided for settling disputes about the real outcome of an election, but only where the vote as certified shows an official tie. The present Constitution provides only that ties in the Constitution — the Constitution provides that only ties shall be settled in the case of governor and lieutenant governor. The committee felt this should be broadened and applied to all elected officials. That's what Section (c) is all about. The legislative assembly meeting in joint session would settle the tie.

If I have missed anything, or if there are any other questions, I'll be glad to try to answer them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-91.

Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President: There is a very significant change that was not mentioned under (a); it says, "Elected officers shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the state at a time to be designated by the legislative assembly." Is it not true at this time that the election of the four-year term people as specified be in a presidential year?

DELEGATE BAKER: Yes, I am sorry. I missed that. And you are perfectly right, Delegate Omdahl. There was considerable discussion about this aspect. The suggestion was made that we write into the constitution, in fact, an off-year election of North Dakota officials. And this had considerable discussion and debate. The conclusion of the committee was that this question of when the election should be was best left with the Legislature, and that's the reason why that particular change was made. It is a significant change, I agree.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Well, I don't think that something as basic as this is best left to the Legislature. I do believe we need to give the Legislature more responsibility, and we've been doing it throughout this Convention. But I think it's getting to the point where we're letting them decide all kinds of things. And this happens to be one that I think is basic enough so that it ought to be mentioned. I don't have a preference for presidential years or off years. There are political disadvantages for one party in one year, and there are political disadvantages for the other years. But it rotates so much that I don't think any one particular party would benefit from it being on a presidential year over a long period of time any more than it would benefit the other political party to have it in the odd year. So I don't have a preference. But it just seems that something as basic as this should have been included in the draft.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: I yield to Delegate Hill.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Our recommendation to the coordinating and transition committee which would be voted on by the entire group here is to the effect that the executive article shall take effect in 1976. This then provides that the terms of elected officers who were elected in 1976 shall have a four-year term. If the Constitution requires that these people continue to have a four-year term, this guarantees that they will always have an election in a presidential year unless they change the time of the election of the President. I was initially in favor of a presidential year election, then I changed my mind to one to allow the Legislature to provide an off year election. However, that lost in committee. And it is my understanding right now this article would become effective in 1976 and will lock in an election for state officials in the presidential years.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: I may add that in the present Constitution all that is said is that the governor and lieutenant governor shall be elected at a time and place of the choosing of the members of the legislative assembly. We felt that the four-year term could not be altered by the Legislature, and possibly the statement that "They shall be chosen at the time designated to meet by the legislative assembly" as we have said in this Constitution is unnecessary to support the present cycle as locked in by the four-year term. The legislative assembly could not change that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: May I ask a question of Delegate Baker? Are there any electors that are not qualified?

DELEGATE BAKER: I think that's standard language in the Constitution myself. I think it means all the people who are qualified to vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Delegate Baker, could I ask a question? I notice that the reference is made — I guess this whole section is supposed to deal with executive officers, is it not?

DELEGATE BAKER: Correct.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Except that in the repeal section you are talking about legislative members also. In Section (a) and (b) you use the word "elected state officers". Should you?

DELEGATE BAKER: This is part —

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Or "elected officers".

DELEGATE BAKER: This is a part of the executive section. The reference is that it is — that these are state officers. I don't know whether additional language is necessary to further indicate that what we're talking about are those officers named in the material in 1-102. I think it's clear enough and definite enough and there won't be any trouble. But if that's not right, why I suppose it should be corrected. I don't think that Sections 74, 82 and 83 have anything to do with anything but the executive department, though there is language in there, of course, about the election being at the time and place of the election of the legislative assembly just for, I presume, reference purposes in the present Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: I would like to ask Delegate Baker another question, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker yield?

DELEGATE BAKER: Yup.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: On your Proposal 1-91(b), "the heads of all principal departments shall hold office at the seat of government;" what do you mean by "principal departments"? Are these the fifteen that were established earlier, or does it go further than this?

DELEGATE BAKER: This would, Delegate Burbidge, include the elected officers. Those named in 1-103 as well as the heads of the principal departments also outlined, I guess, at least the fifteen departments that are provided for and the appointment of the heads of those departments provided for in that same division. Yes, those are the ones we are talking of.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-91. Hearing no further discussion, those in favor of its passage will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 88 "ayes," one "nay," one delegate absent and not voting. Committee proposal No. 1-91 has passed.

DESK REPORTER KING: Nine delegates absent.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: What did I say?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: One.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry. I will re-read the vote. There were 88 "yeas" and one "nay," there were nine delegates absent and not voting. So Committee Proposal No. 1-91 has passed.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker:

DELEGATE BAKER: I got another one in here. I underestimated the time a little on that last one. Got another one here we might have some fun with and we could wind up on. I will move that 1-103 be moved to the head of the calendar.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker moves that 1-103 —

DELEGATE BAKER: Right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — 1-103 be moved to the head of the calendar. And the motion has been seconded by Delegate Litten.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The question before the Convention, first passage, Committee Proposal 1-103.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-103, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 81 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to ethics, be created.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 81 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Ethics.

"The governor shall not use his official influence in exchange for a legislator's official vote."

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President: Section 81 of the present Constitution of the State of North Dakota is my favorite section; it's about the longest sentence I've ever seen. And in my opinion, it's a good one. So it was with considerable pain that I finally agreed to the reduction of the language in Section 81, that magnificent thing, to one short sentence as it stands before you in 1-103.

Now there are some subversive elements among us who would do away with the thing entirely, you understand. So even getting it this far in this shape represents some kind of a minor triumph.

On the serious side, though, Section 81, the way it is, is the attempt of the constitution writers at that time to put a kind of a constitutional safeguard against the practice of influence by the governor of the legislative action. And I don't know how often this section has anything to do with the relationship between the governor and the Legislature. But I do know from personal experience that the relationship between the governor and the Legislature has been almost always, all that I know about, correct. And so I believe that that section could have done no harm, and maybe contributed a little bit to that correct relationship.

And my concern about eliminating it entirely is that I think it would be noticed, and that it would furnish additional ammunition for those who may wish to make a strong case against the Constitution, the new Constitution, entirely. And so that's the basis for my appeal to you now to leave some sort of an ethic section in the Constitution — new Constitution, even though it be only one short sentence which may be meaningless to some of you. It's meaningful to some of us. And "us" includes the people of North Dakota, I believe.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I'd like to ask Delegate Baker a question. I notice here that "The governor shall not use his official influence in exchange for a legislator's vote." Would it be all right if he used his personal influence?

DELEGATE BAKER: Well, I really don't know. This is the way it came out of the wringer.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President: I have an amendment at the desk which I move at this time.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-103 is as follows:

Delete lines 7 through 11, inclusive.

DELEGATE HILL: Would you read that again, please?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delete lines 7 through 11, inclusive.

DELEGATE HILL: Thank you.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May we have a second?

DELEGATE SONDRÉAL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NOTHING: No, no. No, I don't want to second that. I'm for Bill Baker.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: All right.

DELEGATE SONDRÉAL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sondreal seconds the motion.

Now Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Delegate Baker describes it well. This is a section our committee has had the most fun with. We killed it three or four times, and then like the snake I heard about in the Senate a couple sessions ago, it keeps coming back to life. This is about the sixth draft we've approved also. And I think Section 81 has mainly been honored in the breach. We don't want — it says the governor cannot suggest to the legislator he might veto a bill. But the point I'm making here is that we have adopted grounds for impeachment which would include crimes, corruptive influence and things like this. In our Committee Proposal 1-120 we have provided that all elected officials can "be removed from office for crimes, corrupt conduct, malfeasance," and this would include illegal influence on the Legislature by the governor. When I see a statement that "The governor shall not use his official influence in exchange for a legislator's official vote" it seems to me to indicate that it is all right to use your own official influence. And I don't think that's what we're intending. And I think it's adequately covered elsewhere. And I don't think the poor legislators have to be afraid of the governor. The governor's thoughts on this subject were to the effect that he doesn't like the section. He thought a couple of legislators who wanted to embarrass him could claim that he was using his official influence on them to influence them. And I think as a practical matter the legislators like to know if the governor is going to — want to veto a bill or something of this nature. And we really don't know what "official influence in exchange for a legislator's vote" is. And we do have sections which would prohibit crime, influence by the governor, and everything else. I think that would cover it; "anything else".

DELEGATE SOLBERG: It may add a little austerity to your statement, Delegate Baker, to have continued your research. This is a unique sentence in the Constitution, Section 81. It has, as you said, only one sentence. It has no semicolons, it has no colons, it has eighteen commas and one period.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Those of you who were at the Mary College Conference may recall that Mr. Braden, the drafting officer, consultant to the Illinois Convention, singled this out for his attention and said that he had never, ever seen anything like it anywhere.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I have just completed the count. We have 212 words.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hill.

Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: It may be that if this is so unique we should keep it.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Larsen.

DELEGATE LARSEN: If we can reduce the size of our constitution in a like manner I'm sure we could have a constitution that the people of North Dakota will not only be proud of, but would accept.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Hill.

No further discussion, those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposed vote "no." The Chair will call the amendment passed.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Division.

DELEGATE CHASE: I think Mr. Baker should have a division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division has been called. Can I change my — can I change my decision?

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment. Those that are in favor of its adoption will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote?

DELEGATE SINNER: I vote "aye".

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Sinner votes "aye".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Press Sinner's vote, please.

Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 53 "ayes," 38 "nays," seven delegates absent and not voting. The amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-103 has been adopted.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to move that we delay action on this for one day to see what the engrossed bill looks like.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm afraid that your motion — in fact, you didn't make a motion.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President: I know that the hour is getting late. And I regret that you eliminated this matter of ethics because I have intimate knowledge of the fact that this sort of thing has been abused much in the past. Those of you who might be interested in real history of North Dakota will know that at a certain time the price of North Dakota bonds jumped very substantially. The reason for that was that Section 81 had not been observed.

And certain members of the Legislature were unduly influenced at that time. It's one of the things that brought about the dedicated highway funds. Many, many ramifications were caused by the non-observance of the old Section 81. I would be delighted to know the real history of it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We still have Committee Proposal 1-103 before the Convention as amended.

Delegate Hendrickson, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I move — I think we need to suspend the rules, don't we? I move that the rules be temporarily suspended, that Proposal 1-103 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and be placed on the calendar for first reading and first passage.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Omdahl that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 1-103 be properly re-engrossed, and be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Since this amendment passed so narrowly, I will resist the motion to suspend the rules on this one. I think it's all right if we think it over. We aren't going to save very much time by passing it now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Under Committee Proposal 1-34, which has been passed, the Legislature has been mandated to enact a code of ethics for all state officials. I'm hopeful they will preserve 81 in statutory law as a matter of historical curiosity.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the suspension of the rules. As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-103 is before the Convention for first passage —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — as amended. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," and those opposed to the adoption — I guess we're all getting tired. The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-103 as amended. Those in favor of its passage will vote "yes," and those opposed will vote "no." The Clerk will open the key and you will record your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 63 "ayes," 27 "nays," eight delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-103 has been passed as amended.

We'll be on the ninth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Alternate Proposal No. 4-1, submitted by Delegates Benson, Bender, Poulson, Brakke, Bassingthwaite, Aubol, Billey, Lander, Hardmeyer, Hill, Hoghaug, Hougén, Hubrig, Erickson, Fritzell, Geelan, Haugen, Decker, Larsen, Thompson, Wallin, Tudor, Simonson, Sinner, Sondreal, Urdahl, Warner, Wicks, Miller, Sullivan, Paulson, Litten, Dawson, Scheel, Roney, Vogel, Maxwell, Sanstead, Rosendahl, Peterson, Chase, Christensen, Binek, Burke, Daniels, Griffin, Gipp, Hartl, Hildebrand, Fiedler, Schmit, Engstrom, Dobson, Nicholas, O'-Toole, Kelsch, Kessel and Jestrab:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that the following be introduced as an alternate proposal to Committee Proposal No. 1-43 for submission to the electorate as an alternate proposal on the Constitutional Convention ballot."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Alternate Proposal No. 4-1 is referred to the Committee on Constitutional Ballot.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Alternate Proposal No. 4-2 submitted by the following delegates: Bassingthwaite, Aas, Bender, Billey, Chase, Brakke, Cart, Ketchum, Unruh, Baker, Fallgatter, Erickson, Huckle, Rundle, Scheel, Knudson, Hougen, Trenbeath, Haugen, Stanton, Peterson, Wenstrom, Peters, Jestrab, Hernet, Poulson, Byrne, Diehl, Longmire, Warner and Christensen:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that the following be introduced as an alternate proposal to Committee Proposal No. 1-4 for submission to the electorate as an alternate proposal on the Constitutional Convention ballot."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Alternate Proposal No. 4-2 is referred to the Committee on Constitutional Ballot.

Anything under the eighth order? Any announcements?

Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I know that there are some proposals going around for purposes of being presented to the Ballot Committee on alternates. I have one that I would appreciate some signatures on, and it relates to the matter as to whether or not we should have a provision placed in the Constitution declaring persons eighteen years of age or older to be adults for all purposes. And for those of you that might be interested in signing such alternate proposal, see me tomorrow and I'll be happy to show it to you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything else under the eighth order?

Delegate Engstrom moves, and Delegate Bassingthwaite seconds, that the absent delegates be excused. Maybe we don't have any. See, that shows how tired we're getting.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Is the desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is the desk clear?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It is clear.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move that we now adjourn until eight A.M. January 28th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that the Convention do now adjourn until eight A.M. January 28th. As many as are in favor — did anyone second that motion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I will second it, but could I first get an answer? What time do we intend to adjourn or recess tomorrow afternoon?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would say three o'clock.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. We are adjourned until eight A.M. tomorrow.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 6:30 P.M., Thursday, January 27, 1972, until 8:00 A.M., Friday, January 28, 1972.)

VOLUME XX

(January 28, 1972)

(The twentieth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 8:10 A.M., Friday, January 28, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

We're on the second order of business, the invocation. Our Chaplain for this morning is the Reverend Stanley Malmgren of the First Baptist Church, Bismarck.

REV. STANLEY MALMGREN: Shall we pray?

Almighty God, we come humbly into Thy presence this day acknowledging our need of Thee. May each of us, both men and women, be mindful of our weaknesses and our often lack of wisdom. Forgive us for our past failures and grant that as we look unto Thee we may have that needed wisdom to do the work Thou hast given us to do. We are grateful for all divine direction that Thou hast hitherto granted unto the leaders of both our State and Nation. We pray that we may always be mindful of our daily need of Thy divine guidance and assure us that when we call upon Thee that Thou wilt be pleased to grant us understanding in all matters, and that in following Thy guidance we can be assured of blessing on both our State and Nation.

We thank Thee for hearing our prayers this day. In the name of Christ we pray, Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — Roll Call.

The Clerk will open the key, you will record your presence.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Locker 87 here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Somebody record Delegate Haugen present. He's right there.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: That's okay. You do that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Has every delegate recorded his presence? Close the key and record the vote — record the presence, rather. Roll call discloses 95 present, three absent. A quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order of business — approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 26th day of January, 1972, and recommends the same be corrected as follows:

On page 290, line 32, delete the word "buy" and insert in lieu thereof the word "pay".

On page 292, line 3, delete "everyone who" and insert in lieu thereof "every educable person".

On page 292, delete lines 4 and 5.

On page 301, line 25, delete the word "are" and insert in lieu thereof the word "is".

On page 305, following line 13, insert the following: "President Wenstrom called Delegate Saugstad to the rostrum to preside."

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Revision and Correction of the Journal. As many as are in favor of that motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted.

We'll be on the tenth order of business.

At the head of the calendar for this morning, Committee Proposal 1-97.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-97, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 176 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to tax uniformity and exemptions.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 176 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"TAX UNIFORMITY AND EXEMPTIONS. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of property including franchises within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax. The legislative assembly may by law define and exempt any or all classes of property. Property used exclusively for school, cemetery or religious purposes shall be exempt from taxation. Provided that all taxes and exemptions in force when this constitution is enacted shall remain in force until otherwise provided by statute."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

We have before us again 1-97. This is at least the third time we've been discussing this proposal, and so I hope to keep my remarks as brief as possible.

Perhaps we should have continued with this at six o'clock last night or five-thirty, because it might have given us a deadline against which to work. Because I suspect we may have a lot of time again involved in this bill. This does deal with taxes. And, of course, it has some rather controversial areas in it. I want to say again that the committee did arrive at what they feel was a reasonable compromise in this area. This bill, this proposal, we hope can answer some of the problems that the committee found in the old language, and at the same time we would hope that it can give us something in the way of a defense against abuses of tax exemption.

I want to call to your attention the second sentence which says: "The legislative assembly may by law define and exempt any or all classes of property." We have in that sentence removed the old references to personal property. And this, of course, in our opinion, clears the air somewhat as to personal property being real estate or improvements to real estate. And by this language we feel that the Legislature can exempt any and all property that they feel should be exempted. And I want to say again that the Legislature has exempted property, the tax exempt property, and numerous other items of property in the North Dakota Century Code. And 57-02 is the chapter in which the exemptions are listed.

We feel in the committee that tax exemptions can and adequately should be covered by statute. Originally we had an eleven to three vote with one absent, or an eleven to four position in favor of repealing all property tax exemptions. We compromised because we felt that there was pressure from religious organizations and from certain other ones, and we did go back to include the religious organizations, cemeteries and schools.

You have now added tax exemption for the hospitals, nursing homes and retirement homes. We have consulted with the tax attorneys in the Tax Department and in the Attorney General's Department. And they are seriously concerned with the nonprofit wording which is in this amendment. We, too, are concerned with the nonprofit wording which we have in the new amendments which have been made from the floor of this body.

The attorneys in the Tax Department tell us that it would not be possible for any group of ten of these people in this room or any other ten people to form a nonprofit corporation for a retirement home, and no matter what your income was, what your source of funding for this was, you could have tax exemption under this statute. This is why they are seriously concerned with the nonprofit statements which are in our present exemptions that we have before us at this time.

The committee does feel that we went a long way in our compromises on this matter. We felt that we did have a very valid and solid ground on which to hold for excluding all tax exempt property from the Constitution. Our only concession was made to what we would consider pressure from the voters in getting this Constitution passed.

We have seen some bold strides taken in the last few days. And I can refer particularly to our executive reorganization yesterday. And if we are going to sell this to the voters, and I sincerely hope we can, I think that we have just as good a ground to sell a good, clean tax section in the Constitution. We would hope that we do not proliferate our tax exemptions any further.

But I do understand there are numerous proposals for amendments from the floor, and with these short remarks I would ask that you give support to our committee. Our committee feels that we have come a long way in making the best proposal we can for you and we hope that you can support it.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to Proposal 1-97 is as follows:

On line 14 delete the words "Property used exclusively for nonprofit".

Delete lines 15 and 16.

On line 17 delete "taxation".

And insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Property used exclusively for public worship, school, hospitals, nursing homes, rest or retirement homes or cemetery purposes shall be exempt from taxation if it is non-profit as defined by law."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I move this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb moves the amendment as read from the desk.

DELEGATE CHASE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I personally am not happy with the language of the Committee Proposal No. 1-97 as it is before us. I do not believe in the enumeration of any special charities and things of this nature. I think that it should be left up to the Legislature. The purpose of my amendment is to make sure that the Legislature has this ability to define what nonprofit is, what the particular organizations are. If you will notice in the old language, in the language of the present — as it is right now, there is no definition about schools. A commercial college could be exempt under this particular provision, a profit cemetery could be exempt under this particular provision, and all these sort of things. And by this amendment I am hoping that we will be able to at least confine the exemptions to these ones that have been approved so far.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I think I have an amendment up there and I ask the Clerk to toss it in the wastebasket. Because what he is saying straightens out what we are trying to do here and what we all want.

Now I think that there's been the argument that we aren't going to use tax exemptions because we feel that they are too indeterminate. But I think that a lot of these people and these organizations that have worked on the bill feel that they have to have some anchor from which they can decide whether they are free or not or whether they will have to be coming under the Legislative section. Because we saw a lot of vacillating on the ideas which were proposed here as to why a thing should or should not be tax exempt. I think, too, when I look in history, the greatest historians of our time said that civilizations tend to work through their troubles based on a firm religion. And after they have settled most of those troubles and things become affluent they move away from religion. When they move away from religion, they move into the field of logic. And you can see what happens here in the field of logic. Everybody's logic is different and finally chaos develops and they return to religion. I think the same could be said of a constitution. With a constitution we have something firm, implacable, unalterable, except by amendment of the people, and consequently we can rest at peace when this thing is done down here this way. I think we can continue to tack amendments on this, as Delegate Aas has mentioned, and after we have tacked a number of them on then we are just going to throw this thing out and come right back to the clean language that they had before. I say we have got what we need here and we ought to leave it this way. The ship can hold no more. If we add anything to the cargo, pretty soon it will sink.

If we just have a clean bill without any specifications in it at all, I think we have a number of delegates who are unconvinced. Furthermore, you have those people that are concerned with having built these organizations that will be ill at ease, and you have to convince them that they are going to be treated fairly. With what we have now as cleaned up here by Delegate Lamb, we have a clear, clean proposal that I think all of us can support and I think the people back home that are really concerned about these — not everybody's concerned about these — but the people that helped build these organizations can rest at ease. And I would sincerely urge your support of the amendment and the final proposal as outlined by Delegate Lamb.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. Chairman — or Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: What Mr. Lamb and Mr. Scheel just said I'm sure is not going to work the way they'd like to see it work. The committee explored all these positions that they have suggested here. And we have done it sincerely. We went to the people that are going to have to administer this thing; to the Attorney General and Tax Department's office. The word "non-profit" in this section is a key word that can give us the trouble. And I don't know how we can insert that word in there and not get into trouble. Because any organization that's ever organized for nonprofit purposes most certainly is going to be tax exempt under this section.

Now I'd like to make this one statement: The present section of the Constitution, the executive section I'm speaking of, has all the case law it needs, has all the Attorney General's opinions it needs, and has all the rules of the Tax Department and statutes built around the wording in our present Constitution that does the very thing that you are attempting to do to insure yourselves of tax exemption for these things. And if we deviate or disturb the wording in our present Constitution I'm afraid we're in trouble.

So it gets down to just plain nitty-gritty. We either leave the Constitution with the wording as it is now and not get into trouble, either that or we wipe out the sentence completely on tax exemptions. I think those are the key things that we should consider here this morning; either leave the wording as it is in the Constitution or knock the whole exemption thing out and leave it be defined by statute.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President and Delegates:

I would like to compliment Delegate Lamb for his work in cleaning up the language. A week ago I entered the first amendment that has stirred up this trouble. And I compliment Delegate Lamb, and I think the entire delegation can support this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE QUAM: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Quam.

DELEGATE QUAM: I'd like to move an amendment to the amendment. It's at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to the amendment is as follows: —

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President: I don't know which is the simpler procedure here. There are a number of amendments. Would it be easier to pass the Lamb amendment and then attempt to amend the bill?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: It would be easier.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That would be the easier way. However, he's offered an amendment to the amendment.

DELEGATE QUAM: I'll withdraw that, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You withdraw the proposed amendment?

The question then as before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Lamb.

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President: I've consistently opposed any change in the present language of Section 176. I've been in the minority, that's true. But this language is so clear and specific that all of our court decisions have sustained it — set up a good pathway of operation for our Tax Department and there should be no confusion with it.

The first — or the second sentence seems to have created some confusion here recently, about 1967, when the Legislature attempted to set up a different classification of buildings than is set up in the Constitution. And that's where a lot of the trouble started. That sentence is very clear and specific. It says: "The legislature may by law exempt any or all classes of personal property from taxation and within the meaning of this section, fixtures, buildings and improvements of every character, whatsoever, upon land shall be deemed personal property." Now that is what is subject to exemption by statute. And the language there is so clear and specific, anything but land is subject to exemption.

Now with this change, the various changes — and I don't know which ones to address myself to — where all property could be exempt if the Legislature so desired and so classified, and then the constitutional exemptions which seem to be the principal bone of contention at the moment, that is very plain and specific: "The property of the United States and of the state, county and municipal corporations and property used exclusively for schools, religious, cemetery, charitable or other public purposes shall be exempt from taxation." Now that word "exclusively" is the key word there. It's got to be used exclusively for these purposes. It could not take in say a commercial college where the people that own it charge a tuition sufficient to pay the operating expenses and probably earn a profit for the owners. Such things as that are not exempt under this constitutional provision.

But those institutions like the churches which are having a difficult time to struggle along and pay their operating expenses are certainly in need of this continued exemption. And there's some other institutions probably that are in the same category. And I certainly plead with you not to disturb this section at all. It's had a good pathway, as Delegate Trenbeath has said. There's good case law on it. And any inequities that may have arisen from over the period of years are due to administrative or legislative failure, not to the constitutional provisions. And, therefore, we should start to correct those inequities if they do exist, and I think probably some do. To attempt to redefine and open this field wide open and create chaos is not a good thing. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. The matter that's been raised by Delegate Cart was settled I believe at the time the Majority and Minority Committee Reports were reported when this first came to the floor. The committee or the large majority of the committee believes that specific exemptions of this type or the property that we are talking about should not be in the Constitution itself, but should be defined by the Legislature. We cannot determine the course of action of this Convention. I would say for the committee that I believe they would prefer that Delegate Lamb's amendment be defeated. We do feel, as Delegate Trenbeath has said, if we have to have exemptions in this section then they should be the exemptions of the present section which are defined by case history and by experience. So if I could say that the committee would have a preference how this matter is handled, we would like to have Delegate Lamb's proposal — amendment defeated and we would like then to have the motion on Delegate Quam's amendment which would take all of these exemptions out, and then Delegate Erickson has an amendment after that to be proposed which will go back to the present language dealing with exemptions in the Constitution we have now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Lamb.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay".

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I just wanted to say that I worked with Delegate Lamb in preparation of this amendment. And I thought it was on the right track. But I think that the question that Delegate Trenbeath has raised is a significant one, and I'm going to have to vote against something I helped draft.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Lamb. Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost.

Delegate Quam.

DELEGATE QUAM: Mr. President: I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-97.

Delete everything after line 9 on page 1 of the engrossed bill, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"TAX UNIFORMITY AND EXEMPTIONS. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of property including franchises within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax. The legislative assembly may by law define and exempt any or all classes of property. Provided that all taxes and exemptions in force when this constitution is enacted shall remain in force until otherwise provided by statute."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second?

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Engelter.

Delegate Quam.

DELEGATE QUAM: Mr. President: I don't think there should be any exemptions in this proposal. An exemption should be legislative. That's just what this amendment would do.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I think that the discussion on the floor both times that we've had this before us indicates there are enough unsettled factors to be taken into consideration that it is going to be impossible for this body to resolve the question in one sitting for the next fifty years. And this suggests to me that this is a legislative matter because only the Legislature can deal with such problems as nonprofit as they've been discussed here. Therefore, I would like to support Delegate Quam's amendment so that the Legislature can deal with all these variables.

Lynn Aas happens to have some different interpretation of that first sentence than I do, but that's carrying forward the same as in the old Constitution in the last line of Delegate Quam's proposal from the old Constitution. And I think that the legislative assembly can be handed this problem and they will deal with it responsibly. And I don't think any of the religious or charitable organizations have anything to fear from the Legislature, because frankly I don't think the Legislature is going to become anti-religious even though we give them four-year terms.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

Our committee by an agreement yesterday agreed that the approach we should take was to first support the amendment which Delegate Quam has submitted. A majority of our committee supports that, and rather strongly. And a minority of our delegates — of our committee supports the Trenbeath proposal, or what will be the Erickson proposal.

Now there is a feeling amongst our committee that it is not easy to enforce the exclusions as they are listed in the Constitution. We know that once the appeal is made for a tax exemption on any property, the courts and the decision-making bodies are lenient in the interpretation in granting the tax exemption. We know there is no way we can control this. We know we have no method of accountability to the governmental agencies. And we know that there is an opportunity for abuse when we have it in the Constitution. We also know that the second sentence of our proposal here will grant this authority to the Legislature.

And we are satisfied that the exemptions which are listed in 57-02-08 have not been changed every year or every two years by the Legislature, and some of them have stood the test of time for fifty years. And we submit that we would like to have you vote favorably on this or else we would ask you to support the Erickson amendment and get this over with.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I enthusiastically support Delegate Quam's proposal or amendment, and for several reasons. I believe that the clean language of the proposal and the possible powers given to the Legislature will also cure such apprehensions as Delegate Gipp had about bodies that discriminate on the basis of race, color, so on. Because with the power given to the Legislature to define and exempt property, this would embody the various charitable exemptions now granted. And these could be successfully challenged on the basis that some of these organizations do discriminate. And there have been cases in other states where the exemption to a club which discriminates has been denied.

I also want to bring out that there is a common fallacy among many of us that unless exemptions are specified in the Constitution they cannot be granted. This is not correct. And also there is a fallacy that if you specify exemptions in a constitution that that automatically makes them exempt. This is not correct.

There is a line of legal authority in our courts that states that a constitutional exemption is not self-executing, but that the exemptions exist only if the Legislature provides for them and interprets them. And there's a North Dakota case on this for the legal scholars, Engstad v. Grand Forks County, 84 N.W. 577, and I would urge the delegates to leave the matter of exemptions for interpretation and decision by the Legislature.

There is a saving clause on Delegate Quam's proposal that: "All taxes and exemptions in force when this constitution is enacted shall remain in force until otherwise provided by law." And there is, as Delegate Aas pointed out, statutes presently in Chapter 57-02, I believe, specifying all of the exemptions for churches, schools, so on. And I would urge the delegates to support Delegate Quam's amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President: I think that Delegate Omdahl touched upon a significant point. No matter what exemptions we write into this Constitution today in twenty years or thirty years they could be outmoded. Many of the delegates here are concerned now about nursing homes and rest and retirement homes. Twenty years ago, thirty years ago we did not have this type of institution in our state. Who is going to know in another thirty years if we are going to have something that is entitled to exemption and we are going to have to leave it up to the Legislature. Why can't we trust the Legislature to do the job in the first place? They have to do it, they will do it. And I think the people, the people who are interested in religious exemptions, can trust them.

We have now, I think, about twenty-three states that have no provision for this type of exemptions in their constitution. When the people who were testifying before our committee were asked if there was any state in which they had problems because of this failure to exempt in the constitution, they could not point to a single state where there is any question now where they have any difficulties because this matter is not in their constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, Mr. President, we're finally getting down to the real meat of the discussion on this section. As stated by Delegate Omdahl and Delegate Aas, this is the realistic and right way to do this thing. There is no question about that. I am convinced of it myself. But I will remind you that I have this opinion also — and if this amendment fails the motion will be presented to you to go back to the original Constitution — but what I want to remind you of is this: Is that those constitutions that have been revised in recent times wherein that constitution had these exemptions in them, they have taken them out simply because they were up against the same thing that we're up against here today. There is a great feeling out amongst the people in the State of North Dakota by pulling these exemptions out they won't always be handled by statutes properly and they want them in here and they want them in the Constitution. So I'll have to remind you people that it could have a great influence on the vote of whether our Constitution's approved or not. This one thing. I'll submit that when you go back to your people and hold meetings, that this will be one of the questions that will be asked. And maybe you can clear it up in the mind of those that are at that meeting, but there's going to be a vast group of people that aren't going to be at those meetings and they are going to hesitate to vote for the Constitution because we did put these back. And this is significant because we did have 700 letters come to our committee in this regard. Granted, some of this was stirred up by a fear. But at the same time this fear does address to the people. So I would say that this is the ideal way of doing it. Leave it be handled by statute. But we have this thing hanging over our head which is a real fear with many of our citizens in North Dakota. So the thing is clear-cut in your minds, either vote for this one or vote and go back to the original Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President: I think Delegate Quam's proposal is dynamite. If we think that the right-to-work has caused a stir, then pass this one. I predict, as Delegate Trenbeath has just mentioned, that if we do pass this amendment that most of the delegates' time spent in trying to sell this Constitution to the voters will be spent in explaining this particular deal. I think we should defeat the amendment and go back to the original language, I think, as is being brought up by the Erickson proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I, too, feel that this is a basic right for the people to have this exemption in our Constitution. And I feel that there have been inferences made, oh, of tax exemptions that have been abused. And I think this is strictly a local matter, and if there are abuses that the local people can certainly take care of it. But I certainly hope we defeat this amendment. And I will propose an amendment, if this is defeated, to go back to the original language.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I will recognize Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I would agree with the Quam amendment and I would agree with Delegate Trenbeath. I do think that if we are going to be concerned about the reaction of the people back home on this, that one way to avoid the reaction back home if we accept the Quam amendment is for all of us to vote for it. If we go back home and the people start saying, "Why did you take the sections out?", we can say, "We did it because we saw the impossibility by leaving them in the Constitution."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President: I support the Quam amendment. And I think that this is the real thing that we have to get to at this time. We have to get these out of the Constitution, leave the Legislature the opportunity to investigate them.

And I also hope, Delegate Quam, that you didn't have Delegate Sinner help you draw it up.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I have nothing to say.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President: I think Delegate Trenbeath hit it right on the head when he said going back to these meetings and you are going to explain this to the people that were at the meetings there's going to be a vast majority who are concerned about this who aren't going to be at those meetings.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Quam. Hearing no more discussion, those that are in favor will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "nay." The Chair is in doubt. We'll open the key. Those that favor the adoption of the amendment will vote "aye;" those that are opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change? The vote is closed.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President. Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Yes. May I report my presence here? I was a little tardy.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor records his presence.

The tally indicates there were 40 "ayes," there were 57 "nays," there was one delegate absent. The amendment failed.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Now as a question to the Chair, what status is 1-97 in right now?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just the way it came in this morning.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Well, then there really would be no — yes, I guess it would be. I'll propose an amendment. Will the Clerk please read the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-97.

Delete everything after line 9 on page 1 of the engrossed proposal, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"TAX UNIFORMITY AND EXEMPTIONS. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of property including franchises within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax. The legislative assembly may by law define and exempt any or all classes of property. Property used exclusively for school, religious, cemetery, charitable or other public purposes shall be exempt from taxation. All taxes and exemptions in force when this constitution is enacted shall remain in force until otherwise provided by law."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Trenbeath.

Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I think there's been enough discussion said already this morning. We've spent about fifty-five minutes on it. And I would hope that you can support this amendment and we pass it out. I think the people in North Dakota are looking for this exemption.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Sinner.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I'll yield to Delegate Sinner.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, evidently he wants me first.

Now we are right back to the way the original Constitution is as it regards the exemptions section — sentence. And I think probably this is a wise decision. The words "schools", "public purposes", "charitable", "religious", "cemetery" are all words, as I mentioned before, that case law and the rules of our Tax Department and statutes are built around. The word "exclusive" and the word "charitable" in particular are used to take care of the nonprofit end of it. The word "charitable" I know there is a court case with regard to the situation, Ken Urdahl's district in regard to the Jamestown Crippled Children. So as I repeated before, I think that by leaving these words in our present Constitution we are avoiding a lot of trouble. Certainly they could be better handled by statute. This I agree with. But there is this overriding issue of the people back home. And as far as we look down the road here, people, I am sure that we're going to exempt these very things that we're exempting now. So the difference is should we leave them in the Constitution or not? I think this is a wise decision.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: I don't think that any of us came here to avoid trouble or to reiterate the complexities and the problems of the past. And who is there in here who hasn't had exposure to the abuses and the problems that have come from this section? I think the only thing we can do at this point is to defeat the motion and let the committee rework this thing. The obvious problems of the old language are obvious to anybody that's ever worked with it. And how we can go home and defend this is beyond me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President: I merely want to call the delegates' attention to the only change from the present law. That's in the second sentence. And if you'll follow your Constitution there you will notice that "all property" would be subject to exemption by statute. The Legislature could define and exempt any or all class of property. Now if you want to cover the whole field, then you've got the same language that you have today with the exception of today you can only exempt personal property.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President: With the risk of being somewhat corny, I feel that the adoption of this amendment will be a "security blanket" not only for the passage of this Constitution but for the Legislature.

Now Delegate Cart and I have had a difference of opinion on this, along with a lot of other legislators, as he has done his work through the legislative sessions for a number of years to try to get them to see a point of view. But the fact is that we have to change this particular section regarding the power of the Legislature to define an exemption. If we don't, we're in serious trouble in a number of areas in our state government; particularly with reference to municipal and development bonds. I feel that Delegate Cart's concern and worry that the Legislature is going to be besieged with attempts to have them redefine this and classify that, it's a concern, yes. But I think the Legislature can handle this. It isn't like in Minnesota where they have twenty or thirty different classes of property, keep juggling up and down just to provide some answers to people that pressure them. But I think the legislative assembly in North Dakota is broad enough in its wisdom to not monkey too much with the present list of exemptions.

You have been handed at your desk three or four pages of the exemptions that are current in our statutes. And I think we will make a wise decision if we will give the people the security that they want in the exemption list. I agree, it's not the best constitutional writing, but, folks, let's be practical. I believe unless you accept this you might as well go home for the week-end and just write the whole thing off. I think you're really asking for trouble unless you put this list of exemptions in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I supported the Quam amendment because I felt that the Legislature was the proper place to be defining exemptions. However, I do support this amendment. Section 2 which provides that: "The legislative assembly may by law define and exempt any or all classes of property," I think this refers to the exemptions that are also excluded in here. I think the Legislature will have the power to define what schools are used — what property is used exclusively for schools, religious, cemetery, charitable or other public purposes. This wasn't in our Constitution before. And I think this has broadened the scope of the legislative power in defining these exemptions. I think it's important because if our Legislature doesn't have the power to define these exemptions the courts will do so by interpretation. I think the courts do still have the power that if the Legislature abuses the definitions that are included in the Constitution, the courts will overrule what the legislative — the Legislature has done in their definitions. So I fully support this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker: I support this amendment. The delegates have spoken, and I move we pass it and move on.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Quam.

DELEGATE QUAM: Mr. President: I rise in support of the Erickson amendment, then I can go home and get absolution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Erickson. Hearing no more discussion, those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." Those in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: I move that we suspend the rules and re-engage — make the proper motion. How is it read?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Erickson moves that the rules be suspended. —

DELEGATE ERICKSON: — that it be deemed properly —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — that the Committee Proposal No. 1-97 be deemed properly engrossed, be placed on the calendar for first passage.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: I so move.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter seconds the motion.

Any discussion? As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-97 is before the Convention as amended.

Any further discussion? The question — Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President: I have been listening to the debate on the exemptions. And we really haven't talked very much about the other parts of the section which also has some problems. I was going to offer an amendment, but I don't think I would — don't think I will. I was going to delete the entire section because I don't think the section at all has to be in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-97 as amended. Those in favor will vote "aye," and those opposed vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 87 "ayes," there were 10 "nays," one delegate absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-97 has passed.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Have you announced the vote?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Can we be on the twelfth order for just a minute?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: We have a gentleman in the audience who is a Representative from my district, and I would like at this time for him to be recognized. He is Oscar Solberg from Rolla, North Dakota. If he'd come to the rail, please. (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-116.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-116, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 174 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to raising of revenues.

"(SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 174 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"(SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Raising of Revenues. The legislative assembly shall provide for the raising of revenues sufficient to defray the expenses of the state for each year. A two-thirds vote of the members-elect in each house of the legislative assembly may provide an annual property tax, based on value, for state purposes for not in excess of two years unless re-enacted."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: I hesitate a little bit in going ahead with this, but I guess we can't defer everything. And so I think we will launch out.

This matter has been on the floor before as the second section of 1-23. It had a great deal of discussion in the committee, both before and after its return. The language of the present 1-116 is the same as previously debated on the floor. The committee by a ten or eleven majority still felt that this was the best version possible of this section. We didn't consider its return to committee as a rejection of this wording, but for the committee to look at it again, which we did.

Since we've debated this matter on the floor, New Jersey has joined both Texas and California in court decisions affecting local school levies. We felt in committee that we would be less than responsible if we foreclosed the possibility of a statewide levy in the face of these court decisions. If the body feels strongly that they wish to further limit the Legislature's powers, then they can use 1-117, which has been brought to the floor here, with no recommendation. But I should like to remind those who are concerned about the Legislature having an unlimited levy power that they presently have this power now, as far as local levies are concerned. The State Legislature can increase local levies to whatever they wish. So that I think the concern about this as far as the statewide levy is ill-founded, and the Legislature would act as responsibly here as they do in controlling local levies at the present time, which are also real estate levies.

Committee Proposal 1-117 is another possibility for handling this section. But this goes against the committee's attitude as far as dedicated funds are concerned. And if 1-117 were adopted this would in essence be putting another dedicated fund into the Constitution. And so we feel very strongly, had strong majority in the committee again, that this Convention should pass 1-116. And we feel that it is preferable to the old Section 174, and is certainly repealable — is certainly preferable at this date to an outright constitutional prohibition of statewide property levies, particularly due to the fact that this school matter is just now in the process of germination and so many courts are deciding on it so rapidly. And I'm sure the Legislature is going to be faced with the problem perhaps even at their next session. So I recommend to you the passage as its before you of 1-116.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

It will come as no surprise to you that my view as to what we should do is retain the language in Section 174 of the Constitution as it now exists. This one time, however, I hope that you will not brush aside this suggestion. Because I think it is perhaps the solution to one of the most serious matters of consideration that this body can give to the constitutional revision.

The language of 174, the way it stands, is clear. It allows the Legislature to levy up to four mills if need be, and it requires that the Legislature shall provide for the raising of revenues sufficient to defray the expenses of the state and so on. And it provides that the interest on state debt can be provided for as well.

And this is the section that we have constructed a vast and rather good amount of taxation law around. And the way it's working right now is that the state is not levying property taxes for state purposes, but on judgment allowing this field of taxation to be used by local subdivisions. And I assure you that the local subdivisions like this arrangement very much the way things are right now. They would not like to have this disturbed, and they would not like to have any new language in the Constitution which might give — might be a threat of its being disturbed.

Then if the state has an emergency, there is a vast amount of leeway under Section 174 the way it stands now and the other law making authority that's in our Constitution for the Legislature. As has been pointed out by Delegate Paulson sometime ago, there's nothing sacred about the level of assessment as it presently stands. And this is subject to revision by law. And if that revision were made to the maximum available, this four mills spoken of here which now seems to provide a sum so far too modest to give any give of emergency usefulness, could be increased tenfold.

Now it is perfectly true that there would have to be a number of other laws changed along with that to maintain the kind of balance that we are used to or that we might find useful under a different set of circumstances. But this also could be done by simple changing of the law. And then most of all I don't think we ought to anticipate emergencies in this field in the Constitution. I don't believe that we can outguess the federal courts. I'm not convinced that the North Dakota structure for the support of education is subject to attack on the same grounds that those structures of financial support for education has been attacked in the states that have been mentioned. I think North Dakota has gone a long way past the point the other states have gone in this matter of equalization of educational opportunities and of the dollar support behind those funds.

When I spoke to the committee the other day along this same line it was pointed out by one of the members, Delegate Unruh, that even if the courts should find North Dakota's support of education faulty, that it would be extremely unlikely that there would be any immediate effect so that corrective measures could not be taken even by constitutional amendment if that were necessary under some kind of a court order.

So I'll repeat that the best solution here in my view — and I believe one that will be supported by the people of North Dakota — is to leave Section 174 just the way it is, which means turning down both 1-116 and 1-117.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Bassingthwaite.

DELEGATE BASSINGTHWAITE: I, too, would like to oppose this 1-116. I think we're trying to solve the problem here that we can't solve. And I don't think it's the problem of this Convention to solve this problem. We don't know what the courts are going to do in the future. If the courts finally tell North Dakota that we do not have an equal opportunity for education in North Dakota, I'm sure the Legislature is perfectly capable of finding a way to solve that problem. We do need equal opportunity in education in North Dakota as well as everywhere else, and we also need some equality in taxation. I don't think this provision or the 117, either one, provides that equality of taxation or I think equal opportunity for education. So I oppose both 116 and 117.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I'd just like to remind you the State Board of Equalization has the authority to levy these four mills now. And in line 12 we're putting in two-thirds to the members elected in each house. So, in other words, 98 people can determine whether they should levy taxes against real property rather than just by the people.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I agree with most of the delegates who have just recently spoken. I don't like 1-116 or 1-117 either. I would suggest that the Legislature — and this list is really incomplete — draw in your own experience, the Legislature can now raise the gas tax, the income tax, the sales tax, the use tax, fees of all kinds. And I don't think that they should be dipping into the general property tax, the levy money, for unseen and unguessable emergencies. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President: I do like Section or Proposal 116. I don't like Proposal 1-117. I don't like Section 174. 174 limits the — well, before I say that, the whole intent of the committee is to try to get the state out of the real estate tax business at a state level. We wanted to reserve real estate to the political subdivisions entirely. Now Proposal 1-116 does that with certain limitations in case of an emergency; it may be a school emergency, it may be some other. But there is — the intent is to not tap real estate at the state level unless there is a very good reason. And a two-thirds vote renewable every two years would certainly be an indication of an emergency situation.

But now under Section 174 there is a four-mill levy permissible. By action of the Legislature this can be multiplied ten times. In other words, instead of a four-mill levy you could have a forty-mill levy at a state level. This would be on top of everything that's levied on a local level. And I don't — I don't think that's the intent of anyone here, to leave this kind of a tax available.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

It has come to my attention that we've been talking about the California and Texas cases. And many of the delegates don't really know what these are about. I thought I would briefly discuss the Texas situation. This was a case of Rodriguez v. San Antonio School District. They brought a lawsuit on behalf of various Mexican - American school children on the ground that the method of financing public elementary and secondary education deprived their class of equal protection of the laws under the Fourteenth Amendment. Now the Texas school district had a system of financing very similar to North Dakota. They depended upon local revenues derived from real estate tax, the federal government contributed only about ten percent of the public school expenditures, and they had a foundation program very similar to North Dakota.

The persons showed that seven San Antonio school districts followed the same statewide pattern. They compared the market value of property per student in these districts, and they found that in one district there was about $5,400 per pupil valuation of property and there was a high valuation of $45,000 per pupil in another district. And as is common in North Dakota, the district with the lowest valuation per pupil had the highest rate of taxation. And despite the high rate, the low valued district produced only $21 per pupil, whereas a lower rate of taxation derived $307 per pupil. And the foundation payments from the state served not to equalize the disparity, but they tended to extend or exaggerate them. Because they were awarded on a per pupil basis. And the Texas — this was a federal case. And the federal court determined that this method of financing was contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment, and they enjoined the officials in Texas from continuing this. They gave them two years to correct the situation.

It is for these reasons that we have come up with Committee Proposal 1-116. As you know, the philosophy of the Finance and Taxation Committee is to save real estate tax from burden. We believe that 1-116 is a safety valve in case the future demands that we do something to avoid the unconstitutionality of our present local taxing systems. I support 1-116.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I think most of the discussion here this morning from the committee itself and from other delegates has been with reference to these court cases back to education in these other states. And I think that if that is the prime concern by the committee and by the delegates that — and in referring to 1-116, that this state can't afford unlimited property tax for any other reason but education. So I am talking against 1-116, and hoping that this delegation will support 1-117.

We've all agreed here that the property tax is not a good tax. We're doing things in other areas to do away with using this tax where possible. Most of us agree that the present section setting down the four-mill levy in its present form should be removed.

And for these reasons I would hope that this delegation would support 1-117.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

I don't believe it has been pointed out again today, and perhaps it should be, that if the Legislature has to some day face the problem of raising money outside of its usual income and sales tax procedures through a property levy on a statewide basis, that this levy will undoubtedly, and almost assuredly, be a replacement of existing local property taxes, both on the local level and on the county level. The case in question now dealing with the court decisions in Texas and so forth say that those local levies are no longer constitutional and that they must be replaced by state support in the education program.

Now the committee feels that if we came to this issue in this state that there would not be enough money available to increase income or sales tax. We believe that it would probably require almost doubling those taxes. It's true you would still reduce and not have the local levies and the county levy, but I think there would be too much objection to that sudden and sharp increase in either sales or income tax. So I want the Convention, in making this decision, to realize that you are going to be replacing the local taxes.

Now we considered Delegate Sinner's proposal the last time this was discussed and tried to write into this provision a method of replacement. But we consulted with the people in the Tax Department, including their attorney, Mr. Jakes, who is really a competent authority on taxation, and he tells us that it would be almost impossible to divorce. There really is no question that if the state has to come to a property tax in this amount it will replace property levies.

Now it has been argued that we shouldn't look ahead. I don't know why we are doing this entire process of writing a new Constitution but trying to look ahead to the problems that may face us in the near future and that may face us in the far future. And certainly no one can forecast there will not be problems in the future outside of this education problem that might require some emergency use of a state property tax. And I don't — absolutely believe that we have to fear action of the Legislature in misusing this. Some people believe that it's impossible to secure a two-thirds vote. The committee does not feel that in case of a real emergency that it is impossible to secure that. And we feel that the Legislature will be responsible to the needs of the time that they face.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: I just wanted to add a few figures here. It's easy to say that we can rely on other taxes at the state level. But the school purpose tax now, if my figures are correct, are providing some $63 million and sales tax and income tax both together in total don't raise much more than this.

As far as the old 174 is concerned, we discussed this in committee and we had figures. The present one-mill levy would raise about $2.4 million. And if you could, as Delegate Baker has suggested, expand this ten times by putting it on a hundred percent of market valuation, we're talking still just about $24 million.

And all of you are aware, I'm sure, that the school matter is a serious matter. And when it is related with property taxes it's a more serious matter. And the number of local levies that have been defeated in recent years gives indication of this. And this again, too, many people I think are thinking — are talking on the side that this is a carte blanche for a statewide real estate levy. And I point out again that the Legislature can say to the local school district, "We will remove your levy entirely." They have got this power now. So why should they deal irresponsibly with this?

And we feel that 1-116 is a definite restriction on the levy of statewide real estate levies. The two-thirds vote in there we feel gives some real protection, much more protection than if we left the present Section 174 as it is now.

As Chairman Haugen has pointed out, this will give a chance then for some bargaining and making sure that if a state levy was put on that it would be on some type of a replacement basis and it would replace local levies and not increase the burden on the property. We feel that this is a protection on real estate and not an extra burden over the present Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, would Delegate Burke yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Burke yield?

DELEGATE BURKE: Yes, Mr. President.

DELEGATE DECKER: Delegate Burke, I was wondering, do you have those figures on North Dakota from the top district to the bottom district comparing it to Texas? I believe you had $21 to $300-some?

DELEGATE BURKE: No, I do not have that — those figures. But the same disparities do exist in North Dakota as in Texas.

DELEGATE DECKER: Are they as big a difference as Texas?

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

Yes, they would be as wide a disparity.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Thank you, Mr. President.

Fellow Delegates: I appreciate the efforts in the Tax Committee taking this matter and giving it some further consideration. After listening to Delegate McIntyre and Delegate Haugen, I realized that the general assumption is still that property taxation for education is a fair means of financing. Delegate Haugen speaks of replacement of property tax levies. We should be at least thinking of moving in the direction of removing property tax levies as a means of financing education. Nobody has said anything to justify financing education in this way. All anyone has said in the way of justification is it is sanctified by ancient practice. We've always done it this way; therefore we should always finance education this way.

I expounded on this somewhat the other day, that really we're being tremendously unfair. The minority is now attacking the majority. Delegates have mentioned that we would have to increase our sales tax and income tax to such a huge extent and the people just would not go for that.

I firmly believe that the eventual result of this is going to be more taxes of this type on a federal level. You probably noticed in the papers this last week the administration is thinking about a value-added tax for education, which is nothing but a sales tax. And we can probably look for increases in income tax as we go more toward federal financing. And with more federal financing of schools, of course, we'll have the theory of equalization. The richer states should help the more poverty stricken states like North Dakota. But also there is the side of the problem of all the money that's eaten up by the red tape of the process.

This has been sort of a unique maneuver to get 1-116 on the calendar ahead of 1-117. I don't like either one of them. I realize it's quite easy to manufacture an emergency. And education is something sacred, and not too difficult to sell to the Legislature because of its importance. I have helped sell a few measures myself that have caused school boards to hang me in effigy in various parts of North Dakota. But this morning I'm put in the position where I have to support 1-116 as a less noxious measure than 1-117.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Thank you. With respect to the value-added tax, I believe that if the thing should survive the Congress, it's the intention to bring it out in the form of a revenue sharing back to the states by direct grant. And I just don't know that we can put too much confidence in this. It's an election year. And it may not be the most palatable thing with the Congress. However, if it comes, fine. But I wouldn't bet too much money on it at this point.

I think the distinction between 116 and 117 is very clear to me. In 116 you have the opportunity to give the Legislature a safety valve without stating for what purposes this is to be used. You're going to have to trust them to use it for emergency purposes. And there possibly are other emergencies besides schools. And that's the reason I prefer it.

117 relatively, if you want to use the phrase "earmarks", does that. It dedicates funds to a specific purpose. And we've been trying to get away from that in this Constitution. In 116 or 117 we are repealing the old measure which has the four-mill levy in it. We repealed the one-mill medical levy, to my sorrow. But I believe that was good constitution writing. I think we would be doing a better job here, delegates, if we passed 116. I think it is the better measure of the two.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President. There are a couple of things that we ought to be aware of when we talk about 116 and 117 and also 174. Actually I do believe that the State of North Dakota is now in violation of Section 174 with a 21-mill county levy which is used for education or for state purposes. And the court cases that we've been talking about are stating that the education levy is for state purposes. Under 116 it would be necessary to reenact, I believe, the 21-mill levy every two years. This would also be true under 117. The difference, however, is under 116 you would need a two-thirds majority of the Legislature to relevel the 21-mill levy, whereas under 117 it would not be necessary. I support, as Delegate — as Delegate McIntyre does, I support 1-117 because I don't believe that property tax ought to be available for any purpose except for education, and only then when we are caught in a crisis such as we might be if the court — the Supreme Court of the United States upholds the other decisions that have been made. And I think that 117 narrows it down. I know that it dedicates a tax which is not good constitution writing, but I think 116 is the greater of the evils. Because you can use the property tax for everything under that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

As you can see there are a lot of problems when we try to write constitutional law relating to taxes. Any tax that we are going to pay is an obnoxious tax as long as it hits us and as long as it is one that we are going to be faced with. The Finance and Taxation Committee took the position throughout that we did not want a property tax at the state level. This was the position we moved along with at all times. We did feel, however, that we should face the reality of what might happen with the various court cases which we have such as the Rodriguez case and the Serrano case. We did also feel that the protections which were granted in existing 174 were certainly inadequate. We have a four-mill levy which can be assessed by the Equalization Board. And all the Legislature needs to do is to vote one hundred percent of tax of full value and we've got about a forty-mill levy. And we have a forty-mill levy at the state level.

Now we did make every effort we thought that we could to broaden the base to other areas of taxation, and it probably will be the replacement of property taxes at the local level. We have done that by hoping that somewhere in passing some of our proposals that we could permit the body to be taxed by methods other than by real property or property taxation. We have done that by hoping that we will broaden and open other possibilities for this use.

I think that throughout these proceedings we have not anywhere had greater prohibitions in the Constitution than there are in there at the present time. We cannot intend to prohibit the use of property taxes or any other taxes if they were needed, but we did hope to broaden the base so that other taxes could be used for school purposes and for any other purposes that were necessary at the local level.

Now we know that there are a lot of people that feel that other taxes should be raised, but to replace the personal property or the property tax levy for school tax purposes we are going to need to raise our sales tax to a six percent level and double the income taxes. This is what the Tax Department has told us. And I think we have to face the two possibilities. Are you people along the Minnesota border going to want to raise your sales tax to six percent in the face of a four percent tax across the river? This is one thing you have to consider. We have to consider are we going to bring in the kind of people we want in North Dakota to pay a top level tax of twenty-two percent? And I suppose if we increase the exemptions at the bottom we probably would have to raise that to a twenty-six percent tax or a thirty-three percent tax on state income at the top level. We have to balance these things and give the Legislature an opportunity to move forward in the direction that they can as they can. If we raise our sales tax too high, we're in trouble. If we raise our income tax too high, we're in trouble. And so what we have to do is to leave the avenues open, give the Legislature the most opportunity that they can possibly have, and hope that we can have a gradual elimination of the property tax as has been indicated. We are leaving that avenue open, but we don't want to close any avenues that would put us into any trouble. I would ask you to support 1-116.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman, Fellow Delegates:

I would like to support the committee and reiterate what Delegates Knudson and Unruh said. I don't — I certainly don't like a property tax. I think 116 gives us a safety valve with a two-thirds vote of the House — of the Legislature, whereas 117 does not give us that safety valve. And 117 on one hand is too open and is too restrictive. There are many other types of emergencies which may occur in all our service areas that the state is responsible for.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will someone yield his time to Delegate McIntyre or to Delegate McElroy? He has spoken once.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'll yield.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: I'll yield.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Erickson yields.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: Last week we had a headline in one of the newspapers that was kind of humorous. It mentioned that the Proposal 116 offered an unlimited mill levy. I just want to remind you that there are restrictions on 116, there aren't very many restrictions on 117. I think this would be an unlimited levy on real estate for educational purposes which could be had by simple majority vote and I think this taxation will be quite great to use this.

Now some of the more knowledgeable people here have talked about the folks back home and their reaction to this Constitution. But I can't imagine any bigger reaction than we're going to get if we do go back with a proposal like 117 which opens the door to higher taxes on real estate for educational or any other purpose.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President: I want to support the position taken by Delegate Baker and retain Section 174 as it presently is. Section 174 is merely a limitation on the amount that can be levied on property at the state level. And if we open this up and the emergencies arise then we would have no limitation.

In the last general levies there was $104,600,000 for all purposes — all general purposes levied at the local levels. None of this was state. 64½ million of that was for school purposes. And so I think that the property tax is bearing a very substantial burden of education in North Dakota.

Now when your emergency arises that comes about from the appropriations made by your Legislature. And if the existing taxes do not cover them, then they will have to go to the property tax. And believe me, they'll use it if the pressure is on for more and more and more at the state level and less back home. So what we're really doing here is opening the door for the pressure to be put onto the state cabinet to fund more of our funds now being carried at the local level and then they'll be forced to use the property level and you'll have a goodly tax base as these exemptions we've got now take up about close to a little over forty percent of — if they went to court — they would take over forty percent of the old tax base. So this thing is serious, especially for the landowner.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen, Jim Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes. Mr. President, Delegates:

I resisted Bill No. 1-116 last week because I felt that it was incorrect and that it did seem to point the way towards property taxes if we did need further financing. But I think we all have to accept the fact that there could possibly be emergencies. And we're going to have to have some leeway that can be taken by the Legislature. I therefore have changed my mind. I am going to support 1-116 and hope that it is accepted by the delegates as a whole.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President:

We have 116, 117 and the old Constitution, which makes three choices. With the idea of trying to move this on, we have got 117 waiting behind 116; and some delegates favor that, some 116. I favor 117, Mr. President, so I'm going to move that we amend 116 by deleting lines 1 through 15 and insert in lieu thereof lines 1 through 15 from 117.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Vogel.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Is the amendment at the desk?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, it isn't. Except — Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I don't object — excuse me, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, the amendment is at the desk in the fact that this material that he offered to amend with is in the 117 — 1-117 is here. Technically not as an amendment, but the bill is here.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes. Mr. President and members:

Certainly no member of the Tax Committee will question the right of this Convention to do what it wants in its eyes. But certainly I know that my committee would much prefer to have a vote on 116 previous to a vote on 117. I do not see how Delegate Kelsch is helping his cause any by a maneuver such as this. The decision is going to have to be made on one or the other. Why not make it on 116 at present? I would oppose the motion to amend.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I thought maybe I was saving some time by suggesting we get rid of 117. If it carried, that's the ballgame. I have no strong feelings on this. If the committee would rather vote on 116 first, Mr. President, I will withdraw my motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch offers to withdraw his motion. How about the second? Who seconded it?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel seconded it.

The question then is back on Committee Proposal 1-116.

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I was just going to mention that Delegate Kelsch could accomplish the same purpose by moving Delegate Proposal — or Committee Proposal 1-117 to the head of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention — Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President:

I hesitate to get into the meat of this. But I want to warn you against tying the Legislature into a proposition that the necessary financial measure has to be reenacted by a two-thirds vote every two years. If this ever does come about you will find that there is so much danger involved in such a procedure that the two-thirds requirement and the two-year reenactment that we're trying to saddle the Legislature with simply won't work. It will give a minority in the Legislature an untenable position in which they will demand and get certain things in return for the two-thirds vote necessary to pass the reenactment clause. We have lived in North Dakota for twenty years with a two-year sales tax. And that came up time and time again for reenactment. And time and time again the reenactment was the last measure passed through the Legislature, and tied with it were certain other demands that somebody got for that very necessary reenactment or that very necessary reenactment would not have passed. I do not like the language in 116. I hope it is killed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-116. Those who favor will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 55 "ayes," 41 "nay" votes, two delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 116 has passed.

The Chair will declare a ten-minute recess. Let's not forget that we are scheduled to have the next matter to come before the Convention on Delegate Hoffner's motion of a couple days ago where we take up starting with 1-105 at ten o'clock.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I'd like to announce a meeting of the Executive Functions Committee down in our usual meeting room. And I think there's coffee there. Right now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will be in recess until ten.

(The Session recessed at 9:51 A.M. until 10:00 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order. Will the Convention please come to order?

We will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Chase has 28 children from the twelfth grade of the Wilton School at Wilton, North Dakota, and their teacher, Mr. Loney in the gallery.

Delegate Kelsch has the eighth grade from Christ the King School of Mandan and their teacher, Mr. Messmer in the gallery.

Delegate Solberg has the sixth grade of the Highland Acres School of Bismarck and their teacher, Mrs. Gladys Crandall, in the gallery.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the students please rise and be recognized by the Convention? (Applause)

For consideration at this time by previous motion are Proposals 1-105 through 1-113.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: May I make just a very few comments before the Clerk starts reading?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, you may.

First of all, I want to thank the Convention for allowing the committee to go ahead with this procedure, and explain also that you'll find that some committee members will be proposing amendments. And the reason they went this route is because it would save a lot of time. Instead of going into the sixth order and going through Minority Reports and then again debating the issue on the tenth order, they thought to save time they would offer the amendments on the tenth order. And we divided this whole proposition because we felt that the Convention would want it done that way. To make it easier, we have furnished two-page copies of all the proposals, working documents, so to speak. It's labeled "Powers Reserved to the People". And I believe that will take care of it. So there will be amendments by committee members as well as anyone else, I'm sure. But the reason for that is that we didn't want to go through the sixth and then to the tenth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Ready, Mr. Clerk? If you want to proceed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-105, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that Sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 1 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Section 1 of Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XVI

"POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

"Section 1. The powers reserved. Notwithstanding any other provision in this constitution, the people reserve the power to propose and enact laws by the initiative, including the call for a constitutional convention, approve or reject legislative acts, or parts thereof, by the referendum, propose and enact constitutional amendments by the initiative, and recall certain elected public officers. This article shall be self-executing and all of its provisions shall be treated as mandatory. Laws may be enacted to facilitate and safeguard, but not to hamper restrict or impair these powers."

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: I would like to briefly explain what the committee has done to this section.

First of all, you will notice the committee is creating a new article to the Constitution, Article XVI. And the reason we have done this is to put all the powers reserved to the people in one article. As you will find, it is divided up in ten sections, I think. Now this first section deals with the powers that are reserved to the people. And these are the powers by the initiative, to issue a call for constitutional conventions, to approve or reject legislative acts or parts thereof by the referendum, propose and adopt constitutional amendments by the use of the initiative, power to recall certain elected public officers. This first section has the powers that are reserved to the people. They will be explained in detail as we progress through the new article.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Roy, would you read the next article — next section? That would be 106.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I would move that we not read the deletions and the repeals because they are the same in each of the proposals.

DELEGATE SINNER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that we do not read the repeals in each section as it is repetitious, and it's been seconded by Delegate Sinner.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and we will not read the repealing clause.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-106, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"SECTION 2.) Section 2 of Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XVI

"POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

"Section 2. Petition. A petition to initiate or to refer a measure shall be presented to the secretary of state for approval as to form. A request for approval shall be presented over the names and signatures of 25 or more electors as sponsors, one of whom shall be designated as chairman of the sponsoring committee. The secretary of state shall approve the petition for circulation if it is in proper form and contains the names and addresses of the sponsors and the full text of the measure."

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: This section provides that whoever is going to initiate or prepare a petition shall check with the secretary of state's office to see that it is in proper form. The committee feels that there is no discretionary authority here on the part of the secretary of state and that he could not really prohibit anybody from circulating a petition, but the committee did feel that they ought to have the petitions in proper form. This would reduce the number of inadequate petitions that could develop later on and create complications when it comes to the filing of petitions with the secretary of state.

There is one significant change, if you can call it that, or variation, from the old language; and this is the requirement that we have 25 or more electors as sponsors, whereas the present language provides for only five.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will proceed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-107, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Section 3, Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XVI

"POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

"Section 3. Circulation. The petition shall be circulated by electors who swear thereon that the electors who have signed said petition did so in their presence.

Each elector signing a petition shall affix thereto the date of signing and his post office address. No law shall be enacted limiting the number of counterparts of a petition. Such counterparts shall become part of the original petition when filed. No person shall give or receive compensation for circulating a petition."

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: This section sets forth the context of circulating and signing a petition which it is not for the most part in our present Section 25. The first sentence says in effect that only qualified electors may circulate the petition, and that he must further witness the signing of the petition. This is in line with the thinking of the committee, that the circulation of the petition should be a responsible action of the concerned voters, as should the rest of the initiative and referendum process, and that this should not be delegated to someone who is a non-voter, which would in this instance be maybe high school students under the age of eighteen or nonresidents of the state.

The next sentence which requires the date of signing and the post office address of the signer is intended to make the verification of the validity of the signatures easier to do.

The third sentence is similar to the present Section 25, which states: "No law shall be enacted limiting the number of copies of a petition which may be circulated." But on the advice of our legal expert, Delegate Pearce, we have substituted the word "counterpart" for "copies" as being a more precise term, and then have spelled out in the next sentence that all of these counterparts are not separate petitions but merely a part of the same petition.

The last sentence in this reads: "No person shall give or receive compensation for circulating a petition." While this sentence is supported in principle by the majority of our committee because we feel that responsible voters in circulating a petition should not have to be paid, nor should they have to give pay, I have been instructed by the committee to offer an amendment, and I will do so at the proper time, to delete this last line merely because we do not feel that it is enforceable.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

Could I ask a matter of procedure here? Are we going to debate this all at once?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, it's my understanding that we will go through them this way, have an explanation, and then come back and debate each one and adopt them one at a time.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And if you will read 108.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-108, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Section 4 of Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows: ,

"ARTICLE XVI

"POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

"Section 4. Signature Requirement. The petition may be submitted to the secretary of state if signed by electors equal in number to three percent of the resident population of the state at the last federal decennial census."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President:

The repealer covered in this section repeals the old requirement of 10,000 for initiative petitions and 7,000 for referendum petitions. The new language, while it is not held as the ideal by all of the committee members, represents a compromise on the part of the committee. Some members of the committee, including myself, do not believe in initiative and referendum of government, others think that the old requirements were adequate, and still others think that three percent is not a bad figure. And that is why the committee has recommended the three percent figure.

I should point out that by far less than half of the states do not use the initiative and referendum procedure at all. In fact, 29 states have no provision for initiative and referendum.

The question might arise why did the committee decide to go percentages and not a flat figure? Of the 21 states that do have initiative and referendum, the staff spot checked I think twelve states. Every one of them used a percentage figure of one kind or another, some used a percentage of the votes cast in the last gubernatorial election, some used a percentage of the voters, and some used a percentage of population. It was the feeling of the committee that to have a constitutional provision that would be versatile and that would be easy to determine, and it would not be changing every year or so, but would be based on a ten-year decennial census would be the best approach. Philosophically, the question is how much do we trust the Legislature? Do we want a procedure of what is really pure democracy and not representative democracy? Do we want a procedure that can hamstring the representatives in the democratic process? We felt that the three percent figure was a logical and responsible determination of the right of the people to initiate and refer laws.

As a matter of fact, in 1918 when this section was first adopted by this state the figures 7,000 and 10,000 did, in fact, represent about three percent of the voting public at that time. Since the addition of women suffrage and eighteen and nineteen-year-old and twenty-year-old vote, the actual percentage of voters remains about the same when you go to three percent of the population as we did in this figure.

Given the ease of transportation, of communication, in the present world we think that we have not in any way presented an obstacle to the effective use of this right of the people.

The committee asked itself, can we let a group of people equal to only one-half the size of one legislative district register an actual veto over a general measure? We looked at what the other states did, and of the twelve that the committee — that the staff spot checked only one would require less signatures than we are requiring here, and that was the State of Alaska. And in the State of Alaska there are about one-third the people of North Dakota. And Alaska even requires seven to eight thousand signatures. Arizona requires about six percent of its population for initiative measures and about three percent for referendum. California requires three percent for referendum and two percent for initiative. And that amounts to 470,000 signatures. California was the only state of the 21 in the spot check by the staff that had a figure below three percent. And that figure represented 470,000. Colorado requires five percent for initiative and three and a third percent for referendum.

You will notice in our proposal that we do not require, as some of the states do, that all districts of the state be represented on the petition, which we think is an unduly restrictive requirement. The language and the percentage that you see before you represents the committee's feeling that — and belief that we have outstanding legislators, and that we should not hamstring their work with an irresponsible and sometimes fickle use of this right of the people.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-109, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Section 5 of Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XVI

"POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

"Section 5. Submission. An initiative petition shall be submitted not less than ninety days before the general election at which the measure is to be voted upon. A referendum petition may be submitted only within ninety days after the filing of the measure with the secretary of state. The submission of a petition shall suspend the operation of any measure enacted by the legislative assembly except emergency measures and appropriations measures for the support and maintenance of departments of state government and state institutions, but the submission of a petition against one or more items, sections or parts of any measure shall not prevent the remainder from going into effect. A referred measure may be voted upon at the biennial general election or at a special election called by the governor."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Section 5 is a somewhat complicated section, Mr. President, but is very important. I'll explain it briefly now and then later if there are any questions I'll endeavor to answer them.

First of all, the word "submission". The committee settled on this word to avoid any misunderstanding. Originally in our draft we had the word "filing". But after discussion with the secretary of state we found that where the people bring in petitions and leave them on his desk that does not constitute filing. So in order to avoid any misunderstanding we went to the word submission and "submitted". At least the petition would be submitted not less than ninety days before the general election at which it is to be voted upon. The ninety-day requirement is the same at the present. However, an initiative petition cannot be voted on in a primary election. We felt that it is best to move all these measures to the general election ballot due to the very light turnout at most primaries nowadays. The provision on filing of a referendum petition ninety days after the Legislature has passed it and gone across the governor's desk, filed with the secretary of state, the ninety-day requirement is the same as at present. The referendum petition, the active submission would suspend the operation of any measure except emergency measures and appropriations measures. It was felt that you'd have to suspend the measure when the petition is filed. Now this in some rare instance might lead to the brief suspension of a measure by the submission of an insufficient petition. But your other alternative is an even greater evil. Because of the 1971 law requiring the secretary of state to check the validity, some detail of all the signatures, we have about a six-week waiting period. And we felt that it wouldn't be fair to let a law go into effect for six weeks while the secretary of state is doing his checking. It could get to be very complicated if, for example, a sales tax increase was passed and then referred, the petition was filed on the nineteenth day, and then your sales tax increase goes into effect for six weeks while the secretary of state is doing his checking. You can imagine the outcry from the merchants of this state if a situation like that ever developed. A referred measure would be voted upon at a general election or special election called by the governor. Again no referred measures on the primary ballot.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You will read 1-110.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-110, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Section 6 of Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XVI

"POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

"Section 6. Certification. The secretary of state shall determine the validity and sufficiency of the signatures. If he finds irregularities, he shall notify the sponsoring committee and allow twenty days for corrections, but in no case shall time be granted for the addition of new signatures. If the secretary of state finds the petition sufficient, he shall certify it as such and prepare a ballot containing the full text of the measure and a ballot title summarizing the measure. If he finds the referendum petition insufficient, the suspension shall end and the measure shall not be referred."

DELEGATE DIEHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Diehl.

DELEGATE DIEHL: Delegates:

This Proposal 1-110 deals with certification of petitions. The proposal in effect is also identical to what we have at the present time. It provides that the secretary of state shall determine the validity and sufficiency of the signatures. If he finds irregularities he notifies the sponsors and they have twenty days to make corrections. If the secretary of state finds the petitions sufficient then he certifies and prepares a ballot containing the full text of the measure and a title — prepares a ballot with a title summarizing the measure. If he finds the referendum petition insufficient, the suspension ends immediately and the measure is not referred.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-111.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-111, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Section 7, Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“ARTICLE XVI

“POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

“Section 7. Judicial Review. All decisions of the secretary of state in the petition process shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction. But if his decision is being reviewed at the time the ballot is prepared, the secretary of state shall place the measure on the ballot and no subsequent action shall invalidate such measure if it is approved at the election by a majority of the votes cast thereon.”

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: This section is almost identical to the present provision in Section 25. We have added the words after “Supreme Court,” “in the exercise of its original jurisdiction,” simply to make sure that you don’t have to start an action in the District Court. We have eliminated the sentence in Section 25 that says: “If proceedings are brought against any petition upon any ground, the burden of proof shall be upon the party attacking it.” And the theory was it was unnecessary language; the complainant, petitioner or plaintiff always has the burden of proof.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Proposal 1-112.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-112, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Section 8 of Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“ARTICLE XVI

“POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

“Section 8. Enactment. If a majority of votes cast upon an initiated or a referred measure are affirmative, it shall be deemed enacted. If conflicting measures are approved, the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall become law. An initiated law or an act approved by referendum shall become effective thirty days after the election, and a referred measure rejected shall be void immediately after the election.”

DELEGATE PETERS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peters.

DELEGATE PETERS: Proposal 1-112 deals with —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peters, I don’t believe you have the button pressed on your mike.

DELEGATE PETERS: Proposal 1-112 deals with an enactment of initiative and referred measures. If the referred and initiated measure are placed on the ballot and they receive an affirmative vote, why they are considered enacted. If there are several measures on the ballot, and there are ones that are conflicting, the one that receives the highest number of votes would be the one that would become a law. The measures that pass would become law thirty days after the election. And the referred measures that are defeated would become void immediately.

Now this proposal is taken from the Section 25 of the present Constitution, and the sentences are worded almost identical to the way they are in the present Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will read 1-113.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-113, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Section 9 of Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XVI

"POWERS RESERVED TO THE PEOPLE

"Section 9. Initiated Constitutional Amendment. A constitutional amendment may be proposed by initiative petition. If signed by electors equal in number to five percent of the resident population of the state at the last federal decennial census, the petition may be filed with the secretary of state. All other constitutional and statutory provisions relating to initiative measures shall apply hereto."

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Fellow Delegates:

Proposal 1-113, Section 9, refers to old Section 202 which is repealed. It reaffirms the right of the initiated constitutional amendment, and it offers a couple of changes.

Primary change is the number of signatures required. It changes the present number of 20,000 to a percentage figure, and that percentage figure to be five percent; the reasons being basically the same as the reasons given for the increase in initiative and referendum.

It also changes the 120-day limit that is used for filing with the secretary of state to ninety days, and it does this by virtue of the last sentence in this section which states: "All other constitutional and statutory provisions relating to initiative measures shall apply hereto."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading and the explanations of I believe nine different proposals. Now we will proceed. And the first one before the Convention is 1-105.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

Before we start to argue this matter, I have a short statement I ask be put in the record. And I have it prepared, and even if I haven't I know Barbara can keep up with me any time.

There are many of you who may disagree with this statement, but in my opinion the initiative and referendum section is the most important one we will face in this Convention.

Each delegate is entitled to his or her own opinion and I know better than to try to cram anything down your throats. Up until this point, fairness and sportsmanship have been the rule of this Convention, and I would hope that this would continue to be true.

I ask that an alternate proposal be placed on the ballot leaving the old sections much the same as they are now, very much the same, and another proposal as tough as anyone cares to make it on the other side.

Before we start arguing each section at a time, it makes it very difficult. I know that you can sometimes override a committee on one thing, but to try to beat a committee on nine proposals is impossible. So I would hope we keep this in mind and not try to out-manuever me, because this is easily done. I didn't plan to be the select parliamentarian when I came here, I don't pretend to be. I like to settle issues on their merits, and I hope we will do this here. Thank you.

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: Is the Chair ready to begin debate on the proposals?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are ready to proceed.

DELEGATE BENSON: I have an amendment to offer to Proposal 1-105. It's at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-105.

Delete all of lines 13 through 22 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 1. The Powers Reserved. Notwithstanding any other provision in this constitution, the people reserve these powers: to propose and enact laws by the initiative, including the call for a constitutional convention; to approve or reject legislative acts, or parts thereof, by the referendum; to propose and adopt constitutional amendments by the initiative; and to recall certain elected public officers. This article shall be self-executing and all of its provisions shall be treated as mandatory. Laws may be enacted to facilitate and safeguard, but not to hamper, restrict or impair these powers."

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

May we have a second to this amendment?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

Now you may proceed.

DELEGATE BENSON: This amendment, as you have undoubtedly discovered by now, is strictly stylistic. The language we feel is better the way it has been written now. There has been one word changed, and that is the word "adopt" which appears in line 17 instead of "enact". Other than that the amendment is the same as the original.

I don't think there is anything that needs to be said further on this first section. This is substantially or it's exactly the same as it has been in the old Constitution; the same rights that are reserved to the people we propose to present to you at this time.

I would therefore move the adoption of Committee Proposal 1-105.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Benson, I believe you offered an amendment. Didn't you offer an amendment?

DELEGATE BENSON: Yes. Excuse me. I think I should move that the amendment be — that the bill may now be properly engrossed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, no, we haven't voted on your proposed amendment yet.

DELEGATE BENSON: Excuse me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion on the proposed amendment? Are you ready for the question?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment to Proposal No. 1-105, as offered by Delegate Benson. As many as are in favor of its adoption will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the amendments are adopted.

Now, Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman:

I would now move that the proposal be deemed properly engrossed to be placed on the tenth order for final passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-105 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

This is what I was talking about. I have no objection to this section, but as one delegate told me it was just like cutting the tail off a dog an inch at a time. And if we're going to vote on each section as we go along, I don't think it gives you any chance on the whole proposition. I would resist this motion to vote on the section at this time.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet. Who called "Mr. President"?

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Did you call? Which one of you did?

Just let me read this last section of (c) of the motion that we adopted when we set up the procedure to be followed here.

Section (c) says: "Following the reading and explanation of Proposals 1-105 through 1-113 each will then be separately open for general discussion and amendments on tenth order.

Now that's where we are, and I believe that's the way we are proceeding.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I intended to offer as a substitute motion —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart, you aren't going to get by with it.

DELEGATE CART: Well, am I going to be denied?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I will rule every substitute motion out of order, and I will continue to do that. The question on the floor right now is the question that the rules be suspended. And if you wish to offer an amendment after this has passed, you are perfectly free — or it has been defeated — you surely may offer additional amendments if that's what you wish to do.

DELEGATE CART: Well, it will cover all nine of these propositions before us. How am I going to proceed?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't believe that you can do that, Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, am I going to be foreclosed from offering what in effect is the original language with a few exceptions, changes?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No. Your situation is going to be this: You're going to have to defeat this particular proposal and you're going to have to defeat each one of them as we go down the line. Because we did suspend the rules the other day and adopt this procedure. So the only way I can see that if you wish to use the old section, as I believe that's what you would like to do, —

DELEGATE CART: That is correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — then I think you would have to defeat each one of these proposals as we vote on them.

DELEGATE CART: Well, so be it.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart, of course bear in mind that you can appeal from the decision of the Chair.

DELEGATE CART: I have no intention of doing that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: This is procedure that we have established in our deliberations on this question, I believe it was yesterday or the day before.

DELEGATE CART: But it was certainly my understanding that there would be an opportunity to offer a substitute motion. And when the substitute — substitute proposal — when that covers all nine of these I don't know how I can offer it against a single one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, you can surely argue to defeat each one of them.

DELEGATE CART: Well, I don't want to take that much time.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Do I understand that the arrangement that we decided was to be used for considering these proposals does not provide a delegate the opportunity to offer an amendment when each section is being considered?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Oh, no, that's what I told Delegate Cart. Whether this motion passes or fails, the motion before the Convention at the moment is the motion that the rules be suspended, and that this proposal be deemed properly engrossed, and that it be placed on the calendar for passage.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's the motion. Now if that motion fails, or if it passes, either way, the thing — the proposal is on the calendar in front of you and it's open for further amendment, it's open for anything you want to do with it.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President:

I want to make it clear I think on the committee's behalf, the reason we presented it this way, we decided initially in committee we should rewrite Section 25 because of the many questions and problems in it. So we made a basic style change by rewriting it. Now rather than present it to you as one total proposal, which we could have done, we thought it would be simpler — and to save time — if you wanted to amend this you could take any changes any way you wanted to. Now we do not in any way want to foreclose any delegate from trying — from suggesting we should use the old language. I think it would be proper for Delegate Cart to move to delete Section 106 and insert the language of the old Constitution, or he could urge you to vote "no" on all the sections, all these proposals. And that would tell the committee— if a majority of you feel that way, that would tell the committee that you want the old Constitution. We don't want to foreclose in any way. We thought this would be a tool or vehicle whereby you could take each one and amend it as you saw fit.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, —

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Excuse me, Delegate Cart. — just what is the difference in what you said and what I said?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Same thing, Mr. President. I just wanted to let the Convention know how the committee felt about it. I think your interpretation is correct. And the reason we did it this way was not to foreclose anybody. We thought this would be an easy way of considering the whole matter.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

Now, Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President:

It would just be an impossibility to pick out certain spots of the existing initiative and referendum provisions of the Constitution and fit them into the various subdivisions the way it is set up now.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, I don't know how you're going to do that. But I do know the rule we established, I know the policy we have to follow, and these proposals are before us.

Delegate Hoffner, do you have a question?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President:

I have a question. Could not Delegate Cart actually amend 1-105 to insert everything that's included in this whole — in these nine proposals in the one proposal?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Certainly he can. No question but what he can. But he can't do it right now. You've got another motion before the Convention. And when this is either passed or defeated, we've got the proposal before us just exactly like it was with the exception of the amendment that Mr. Benson put on it — Delegate Benson put on it.

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman. Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: With the consent of my second, I would withdraw my amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't think you should withdraw it. Because there's no harm in passing it or defeating it.

DELEGATE BENSON: Okay.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's just as much work to do it one way as the other way.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: I remind these people of the fact that earlier in this Convention we presented Proposal 1-8 which had this all included, then we recalled 1-8 back to committee and now are presenting it this way because 1-8 put the whole thing into one big area total and it was most confusing to many. And that's why this is done, so that we could break it down into the areas pertaining to each. And I think as we go along on these Proposals 105 through 113 that you're going to find it all ties together and becomes 1-8.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Solberg.

The question before the Convention is on the motion of Delegate Benson; the rules be suspended, Committee Proposal No. 1-105 be deemed properly re-engrossed, be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of that motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal is now before the Convention.

Now what are the wishes or what is the wish of the Convention?

DELEGATE CART: Would an amendment now be in order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir, an amendment is in order.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: At this time I'll offer an amendment to Proposal 10 — 1-105; the language contained in Delegate Proposal 2-52 beginning on page 1 and continuing through page 3. It's all before you in your books.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will you restate the area that you want?

DELEGATE CART: The proposal in Delegate Proposal 2-52 on pages 1, 2 and 3. If I may explain what this is. It is the present constitutional provisions on the initiative and referendum with a few minor changes. And they are as follows: It increases the signature requirement for an initiative measure from 10 to 17,000 and from 7 to 12,000. That's for referral.

Also it limits the time when an initiative or referendum measure requires a two-thirds vote in the Legislature to repeal or amend from indefinite to seven years. Those are the changes in the existing language.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to Delegate Cart's motion?

DELEGATE BAKER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been seconded by Delegate Baker.

Any further discussion? Possibly before we go any further we should read the proposed amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: As I understand the amendment it would be to delete —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I move we dispense with the reading of the amendment.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that we dispense with the reading of the amendment.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I rise to resist the amendment, Mr. President. Old Section 25, if you have read it through, —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson, we have a motion now before the house to dispense with the reading of the proposed amendment.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Excuse me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then you can have the floor right after that.

Is there any discussion on the motion? Hearing none, the question's on the motion to dispense with the reading of the proposed amendment. As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. We will dispense with the reading of the amendment.

Now, Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

I want to resist the amendment. If you've ever read through old Section 25 it's quite a hodgepodge. And there are provisions in there that need to be updated, that have created a problem in recent years. The committee has done this. The committee is looking ahead. In these Committee Proposals — actually about 90 percent of old 25 is retained in Committee Proposals 1-105 through 1-113. We have simply taken and arranged them in an orderly sequence, an understandable sequence. We are not now discussing the number of signatures required, that will come up later. I urge you to reject the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President:

I also oppose the amendment. As most of you have noticed on your desk I have a proposed amendment to several sections which will at the appropriate time give those in favor of the substantial provisions that are in the old provision a chance to vote on the amendment or the old law, so to speak.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President:

I also want to point out that the proposals that are before us now have dropped from the language in the present constitutional requirement of a two-thirds vote to amend or repeal. And no matter what happened, if you went out and circulated a petition, got an initiated measure approved, the Legislature could appeal it on a strict majority vote any time right after it was adopted. It could do the same thing by reenacting a referred measure.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I'm very sorry to break with my good old friend, Delegate Cart. I'm afraid he's joining the liberals now. I think 17,000 is way, way too high. And I see no reason starting to compromise without even getting your position considered. So I'm going to resist the amendment.

I would point out a couple of things. When this was first started, the women weren't voting, the State of North Dakota had 53 percent men in those days, there were a lot of bachelor homesteaders, and the ladies' lib hadn't started yet. Then we also have two Air Bases. Our population isn't 617,000 by 190. These are things to be considered in the number of signatures. Furthermore, it is not easier to get petitions signed than it used to be in the old days when the people were more interested perhaps and more politically minded. Good roads have nothing to do with it. No one's ever home. I went out last year and I only had to get 163 names to join this delightful and august body, which sometimes doesn't agree with me, and it took me two full days. And then I went to a fair where everyone was in town. So it isn't so simple to get these names.

And I would say here that we shouldn't be shooting at one individual, who will be possibly gone from the scene in a few years. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the delegates — Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President:

I hope that the Convention here will take these one by one and as we do let's say — just let's be optimistic as far as the committee is concerned now and say that we adopt each of them, 105 through 113. If we find that in the process of adopting these, and after amendments and things of this type provided for each one of these proposals, we find that there are areas that need to be redone we can always, by motion, reconsider the vote by which we passed a certain proposal and then perhaps amend again and bring into line the things that many delegates may want in that order. I think this would save time, Mr. President. And I think we then have a complete composite picture of what the committee has attempted to do by breaking apart the old 1-8 proposal and bringing it out in this way so that we can logically call this the people's rights section of the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on the amendment? The amendment before us is as offered by Delegate Cart. As many as are in favor of adopting will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it. The amendment failed.

We are back on — Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: May I ask what order we're on?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We're on the tenth order.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I have an amendment. I'm not sure if it's at the desk or not. It's a very simple amendment. It would just go back and put the figures where they were.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I believe that what Delegate Rundle is referring to is the signatures — number of signatures and so forth which appear in another section. And he could probably amend that when those sections come before the assembly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate McIntyre.

I'm just glancing through this, and I don't see any. There could be a percentage in here or something.

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Proposal 1-105 as amended.

Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 94 "ayes," two "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-105 is passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-106.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: The only reason I voted "no" on that is because I'm not sure which one we passed, if we passed the 105 that's on the sheet or the 105 that's in the book. There is a difference on the two. I tried to get the floor before you voted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President:

Perhaps my question can be answered now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: There were a number of technical amendments that we made. And the delegates carrying the particular section to the floor, I think Delegate Benson made the amendments. So the way it reads on your new sheet are the stylistic changes. So we voted on 105 and the amended version as it reads on the long sheet, not in the bill book.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will proceed to Committee Proposal No. 1-106.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill, just may I interrupt just one second?

Delegate Aubol, I'm sorry that this happened. And, fellow delegates, when you wish the floor and we are in the process up here of putting a motion or something, don't hesitate about standing up and saying, "Mr. President" and then there isn't a possible chance of being missed. I'm real sorry that you didn't get your chance before we took the vote.

Now you may proceed, Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: I have an amendment at the desk to Committee Proposal 106 which I move at this time.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to Proposal 1-106 is as follows:

Delete lines 13 through 20 and insert in lieu thereof:

"Each copy of the petition shall contain the full text of the measure and the names and post office addresses of at least ten sponsors, one of whom shall be designated as chairman."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the amendment.

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Was there a second to that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE HILL: All of us here, and most of our citizens, have developed a philosophy of government in which they expect to see represented and we expect to see represented in our Constitution. Most of us pursue the philosophy that we want an effective and orderly government, but we also want a government that allows for a maximum of self-government and citizens control of the established government.

There are a number of valid objections to present Section 25 of our Constitution. There are two ways to handle these problems; one, we can make it much more difficult to use our initiative and referendum process; or, two, we can take the bandying out of the present section. Which method do you think most closely follows the philosophy that allows for a maximum amount of citizen control of the government? There are hundreds of improvements that will be included in a new Constitution and a few provisions that I don't see as improvements. But I'm not willing to risk the hundreds of improvements to our Constitution over one potentially explosive issue when we have satisfactory alternatives which are covered by the amendments I have prepared and are at your desk.

My amendment to Committee Proposal 106 is what I consider in the nature of a minor amendment, however. I have three or four what I consider serious objections to the committee's proposals covering the total package. But at this point I think the idea of requiring 25 sponsors for an initiative or referred proposal is an attempt to restrict the use of this process. And, further, I think an application to the secretary of state is an attempt to intimidate potential users of the process. For example, if these people want to test the water, so to speak, I don't believe they have to be publicly committed to go out and secure the necessary amount of signatures. A lot of people who raise noise about using the initiative and referral are simply making noise. I don't think we want these people to commit themselves going through with their act. But once they have to commit themselves, and only as sponsors initially, I think that we're going to find that we are causing them to pursue the use of this process when they really would like to back out of it.

My proposed amendment requires ten sponsors rather than twenty-five, and eliminates the process of the application of the secretary of state. The secretary of state is very willing to help any potential user of the initiative and referral to draft his petition in the proper form if he wants their help. Many of our fine independent citizens of North Dakota consider it an insult to be forced to do something which they feel is unnecessary. I urge the adoption of my amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: On behalf of the committee I rise to resist the proposed amendment for a couple of very basic reasons. I think when we are referring to the referral and initiative we are talking about enacting legislation or negating something that was done by the Legislature. This opportunity that we give our citizens is not done in a majority of the states. And I think we need to be very serious when we talk about the referral and initiative. We are enacting laws. We are referring laws. For this purpose we usually have an elected representative body that represents all the people of the state. And so it is a very serious exercise of a very important power. Therefore, the committee felt there was no — there was no intimidation in asking that 25 responsible people come forward to identify themselves as sponsors of something as important as enacting or referring legislation.

Now as far as requiring the approval of the form before the circulation of petitions is concerned, the intent of the committee was merely to prevent technical and legal problems from developing in relation to the form after it had been filed. We do not want to prolong the secretary of state's responsibility after a law has been suspended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I rise in support of Delegate Hill's amendment. I am also on the committee, and of course we didn't agree on everything, as everybody knows. We hear a lot of talk about what other states are doing. I, for one, don't really care what the other states are doing. We're not writing a constitution for the other states; we're writing a constitution for the State of North Dakota to whom the initiative and referral process is very familiar. I really don't object to the section that much except that I think it is a restriction and I think that we're dealing with a very, very sensitive area. And I don't think this application is really that necessary because the secretary of state has been very helpful in this area and I'm sure any future secretary of state would be, too.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: There are some very good reasons, Mr. President, why the committee felt that a petition should be submitted to the secretary of state in advance for approval as to form. One of them has to do with alerting the public at large that a campaign is underway. As you may recall, in 1970 a petition campaign was launched to relieve Delegate Hill of his then present employment. No one even knew this campaign was underway until the petitions were filed; caught just about everybody by surprise. We think that the public should know when a campaign is going to be launched.

Secondly, many initiated constitutional amendments have been put in our present Constitution which did not conform as to style and form. This would simply give the secretary of state an opportunity to make sure that proposals to be petitioned are in proper form and would probably save time later because they wouldn't have to send petitions back for technical corrections. So I urge the rejection of this amendment. And if it is rejected, if anyone feels that 25 electors is too many for a sponsoring committee, another motion could be made to reduce that.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President, Delegates:

As a practicing attorney I've often thought that I would like to have all of my pleadings submitted to the court for approval before it finally is brought in for determination. This method pretty well goes in accordance with what I thought would be good as a practicing lawyer.

Secondly, not long ago I, too, thought about referring a measure. I started the proceedings and talked to a few people and got their signatures, and then I decided that as long as I wasn't running for governor or for some big job that I wanted to bury it, I didn't want the publicity, and therefore it died without all of this publicity. I, therefore, move — vote in support of Delegate Hill's amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I also support the amendment. My reasons are just a little bit different than Delegate Kessel's. However, awhile back we enacted a provision which created the office of ombudsman. And in thinking about the duties of the secretary of state, it might well be that the Legislature would like to have him become the ombudsman. And if such were the case, I think we would find him in conflict with the Constitution if we were to adopt a provision like this. So I'm not so sure we might want to lock him in. And I think the amendment's an excellent one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Hill. Those in favor will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "no." Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye," those opposed "no." The "noes" have it.

DELEGATE BAKER: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division has been requested. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened, the Clerk will then take your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 47 "ayes," 48 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. The proposed amendment failed.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: At this time I would move in line 16 in the engrossed the figure "25" be deleted and the figure "10" inserted in lieu thereof.

DELEGATE BAKER: Second the motion.

DELEGATE WALLIN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded — seconded by Delegate Wallin —

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — that we strike "25" in the engrossed bill and insert in lieu thereof the numeral "10".

Now I had a — Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: One last comment on behalf of the committee. Although I think it has been clear that the committee was divided on many of these points, and this is one of them, the majority felt that if we're going to continue with large legislative bodies, and even here we require a rather significant percentage even to get a question of division, that is it asking too much to have 25 people be responsible for the preparation of a law to affect every other citizen in the state? And the majority didn't think it was unreasonable at all.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I can think, too, of just the reverse in this particular situation. I think it could very well be a good effort and it could help the efforts of those initiating — referring measures. Also I can well understand why five was the limit back in 1914. But we're talking about quite a few more people, we're talking about a statewide initiation — initiative or referendum. I think that we could ask more than to have 25 people out of the State of North Dakota acknowledge the fact that they are trying to take some sort of action.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hill that we strike "25" and insert in lieu thereof "10." As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The Chair will rule that the amendment was adopted.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I hope my hearing was as good as it was the other day. That is a sufficient number. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your preference. Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call indicates there were 44 "ayes," 51 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. The amendment failed.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

I'm fully aware of the rule that amendments must be at the desk. But I would have a request that I be given the opportunity to get one down there. I had more objection to the publicity part of it, if you change your mind as Delegate Kessel said, than I did the 25. We don't need to get 25 names, but I was going to initiate a petition. But like Delegate Kessel, I would not like to make up my mind until I found out if it was fairly popular and somebody wanted it besides me. So I would like to present a petition — an amendment to cut out the part that you must go to the secretary of state for approval as to form.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to Delegate Rundle's amendment?

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman. I move that we delay action on this until Delegate Rundle has an opportunity to do so.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel, there is a provision, as I interpret it in the rule, that amendments can be made on tenth order without — I believe I'm in error. I believe that the rule requires that the proposed amendment be delivered to the desk. However, it does not need to be placed on every one of the desks for amendment. I believe that's the rule. So then I will accept your motion that we delay further consideration of Committee Proposal 1-106 until such time as Delegate Rundle has an opportunity to prepare an amendment.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman:

A point of order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: The original amendment did exactly what Mr. Rundle proposes to do, it eliminated the necessity for filing with the secretary of state. And so all that his further amendment would do would be duplicate again what we've already voted down.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I was for Delegate Hill's original amendment because of the publicity angle of it. Now — and then I voted in favor of the matter on the 25. I had no objection to that. So this is not a duplication, it just divides the issue.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I have a second to Delegate Kessel's motion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Been seconded by Delegate Stanton. The question is that we delay further consideration of Committee Proposal No. 1-106 until such time as Delegate Rundle's had an opportunity to prepare an amendment and present it at the desk. As many as are in favor of that motion —

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I speak against this motion because I don't think it takes that much time to prepare the amendment. He's just eliminating three lines. There's no sense to delay this. He's had ample time to get it down there. He can get it down there yet without delay.

Is that what you intend to do, Delegate Rundle?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now may we have order in the court? May we have order in the Convention?

The question before the Convention is on Delegate Kessel's motion that we delay consideration of 1-106 until such time as an amendment is at the desk. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost — or the motion lost.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. Chairman:

Would I be in order to present it then? I have it ready now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may present it.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: The 25 —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, I don't believe that that's presenting it at the desk. Have one of the pages bring it down here, will you, please?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Thank you.

Mr. Chairman:

I ask that the page please bring it back. I would yield to Delegate Hill. He's smarter at parliamentary procedure than I am.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I move that 1-106 be placed below 1-113.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that Proposal No. 1-106 be placed below Proposal No. 1-113. Now do we have a second to that?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten. All that are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-107.

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-107.

On line 19 after the period delete the following:

"No person shall give or receive compensation".

On line 20 delete "for circulating a petition."

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: As I indicated when I explained this section originally, the committee felt that we should delete this last sentence because there is no way it can be properly enforced. And I might illustrate this by saying that if I, for example, wanted to give compensation to somebody for delivering a petition, I could make an arrangement with them whereby I would do their dental work at a reduced price and nobody would be able to tell whether or not I had given any compensation. So I move that this amendment be adopted.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved, and seconded by — Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates:

I am one of the strong supporters of the proposal as originally written simply because I do not think that money should play a part in the law-making process. We are very restricted here on what a legislator may do for money. He may work for the state, but he cannot work for anybody else to get a law passed. And here we delete from a proposal the provision that would restrict the power of money in the initiative and referendum process. Money by itself can abort this process and do evil with it. And I think if we have the original restriction in it as proposed by the committee we will keep the process for the people and not for the man with access to campaign money or whatever.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, members of the assembly:

I concur with Delegate Wicks that certainly the policing of this kind of a sentence would be almost impossible, if not impracticable totally. But I also agree totally I think with the statements just given by Delegate Paulson that at least the sentiment ought to be there that certainly the question of the affluent having enough influence to be able to purchase signatures without difficulty. That is the question before us. They have a great advantage now. I think under the payment of the circulators of petitions they have even possible greater advantage. And if it were a flagrant thing then at least the sentence should be there showing that it is flagrant, that it is illegal, and that they ought not to be paid. I realize we could not police the under-the-table operation or the payment in lieu of actual funds, et cetera. But I think the sentiment is important and it ought to remain in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I think it should be pointed out, Mr. President, that this is a committee amendment. A substantial majority of the committee felt that this provision would be unworkable and unenforceable.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jim Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes. Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I, too, resist the amendment that we should delete this language, this last section of 1-107. During the drive last year to get away — do away with the Department of Accounts and Purchases I had a young man in our store that was paid to get signers on this petition. I do not like this idea at all. I think that either a petition or referendum should be a popular uprising of the people of North Dakota. And I don't mind if I have some people who wanted to do this, but to have to go out and pay people for something like this, I don't — I don't care for it at all. We perhaps can't enforce it, but I think we should go on record as saying that we don't want something like this brought before the people through the — about the state through the payment of young people.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I stand in favor of the amendment. This restriction is really not being put on wealthy people. It is really being put on the small guy. If you belong to an organization which has hundreds and hundreds of members this will be no problem for you to go out and get signatures. For anyone who has ever carried a petition you know it is not an easy job, it's very difficult to do. And I think by striking out this being able to pay somebody, and you're not buying votes, we allow lobbyists to be paid to influence legislation. I see no reason why you couldn't, if you want to — you don't have to — you can pay somebody to go out and handle a petition. You are not buying votes, you are simply paying them to carry that. And I think we should pass this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman:

In California a few years ago — I presume it is still there — there is a business whose business is putting referred measures on the ballot. And for a set fee it will guarantee without any effort whatsoever on your part to put any kind of measure on the ballot. Now to make it legal it would offer some enterprising group of people a fine way to earn their way through college. I think that to make this type of business legal is a very dangerous thing. It has happened in other states, and I see no reason why it shouldn't happen here. I believe that initiative and referendum is to be used, and I think we want it. It should be reserved for those times when there is a great popular feeling that what the Legislature has done or has not done is wrong and that people should be anxious to go out and circulate those petitions and to sign them. And unless this is the case they shouldn't be used.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER Mr. President:

As I said earlier, I don't believe in initiative and referral government. And yet I support the amendment because I think it is virtually unworkable to prohibit the kind of things that Mrs. Vogel is speaking about. The language actually prohibits a group from paying for the gas because it is compensation, or paying for the time the person is working. I — we pay our legislators, we pay everybody in government. If we're going to have this system I think you have to let the people that are going to try to use it get some kind of daily sustenance from their work. I don't believe in the system really, but I think we're going to have it. We can't make it unfair to at least pay the people for their — for their day's work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, Mr. President, I at one time had a feud with one of our leading automobile dealers on this same thing. And I would resist the amendment. I think it should be there. It may not serve the purpose entirely that it is intended for. But at the time I know I felt very strongly about hiring young folks, minors, to circulate petitions. And at that time the going rate was fifteen cents per name. And the circulators used this as a method to get signers on a petition by saying that they were out raising money to buy band uniforms. And I think this is going a little bit too far in getting signatures on petitions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Mr. Chairman:

I hope that we are not too isolated here in our deliberations. And I wonder if we shouldn't think that we are not possibly in what you might call a hang-over from the last referred measure. It has to be youthful people who solicit your vote. In this provision here the petitions could not be circulated other than by an elector. I doubt the possibility of being able to enforce it. And I think we should stop and close our eyes and just think for a moment the difficulty which you have in obtaining petitions without any expenditure of money or payment. I think you want to remember if you do not eliminate this what the impact is going to be among many people that what you're doing — and we go back I think in many of our thinkings, much of our thoughts, as to what recently occurred — that you are going to — that you are making every effort in the world to make the initiated and referred statutes inoperable. I think we should be very careful about that. And I hope that the motion to eliminate this sentence does pass.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I want to read you a provision — or a sentence that is in the present Constitution: "Nor shall any law be enacted prohibiting any person from giving or receiving compensation for circulating the petitions, nor in any manner interfering with the freedom in securing signatures to petitions." I think adopting an amendment would place our Constitution or our new provision in the same position that our old Constitution placed us, and I would support the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman:

As a member of the committee, I also support the amendment. And I think we should read that line No. 16 and not let someone else in the delegation substitute the word "money" for the word "compensation".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question — Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I just merely wanted to make this observation; there's been some discussion about the misuse of these provisions. And I know that has gone on, because I have spent a lot of money counteracting activities of an automobile dealer myself. But I still adhere to what Voltaire said a good many years ago: "I disagree violently with everything you say, but I will —"

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Defend.

DELEGATE CART: — I will defend with my life your right to say it."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Wicks that we strike "No person shall give or receive compensation for circulating a petition." That's right, isn't it, Delegate Wicks?

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye," those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment carried.

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: I now move that the rules be suspended, and that the proposal be deemed properly engrossed, and placed on the calendar for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-107 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And Committee Proposal No. 1-107 is now before the Convention as amended.

The question — no further discussion? The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-107. Those in favor of its passage will vote "aye" and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 94 "ayes," 1 "nay," three delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-107 has passed.

We will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements. Do we have any announcements at the desk?

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: This noon Style and Drafting will meet. And lunch has been provided for the members of that committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? We are about to recess. We will recess — Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Mr. President:

May we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objections, we will be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: I move the unanimous consent of this Convention to withdraw 2-47 because I think it's served a very worthy purpose.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2- —

DELEGATE ERICKSON: 47.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — 27. Delegate Erickson moves or requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-47. Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

Any further announcements under eighth order?

Delegate Haugen, did you have an announcement on the eighth order?

We will be in recess until one o'clock.

(The Session recessed at 11:47 until 1:08 P.M., the same day.)

(The Plenary Session continued at 1:08 P.M., Friday, January 28, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

First for consideration this afternoon, Committee Proposal No. 1-108.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-108 introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President:

I have an amendment at the desk which I'd like to have read.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-108.

On line 15 delete the word "three" and insert in lieu thereof the word "two".

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg, just one moment.

The motion is seconded by Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: I'm sorry. Once it's been set and will be set in the future of the number of signatures required for these petitions of initiative, referral and constitutional amendment, I'm particularly interested in the initiative and the referendum, and I hope that we will not judge and make our final decision based upon the emotion of experience that we may have had to look at the initiative and the referendum as the media that can be used by everyone as an electorate in the State of North Dakota to use when it is essential and when it is necessary, which it's intended to do.

I believe we have reached the point when 7,000 and 10,000 fixed figures may not be realistic. I would have liked to have looked at this thing with much more favor had it been two percent of the number cast — number of votes cast for governor in the last general election. But I recognize also that flexibility of that and the number of people that vote might not give us a fixed base from which to work. But I think three percent of the number tabulated in the last census in each decennial year is a little bit difficult for the average person. This would leave the referendum and initiative I believe to an organization that has adequate facilities and manpower to go out and get eighteen, twenty thousand signatures.

And so I know that there are going to be many amendments on this, Mr. President, many other amendments — I believe I have some of them on my desk — but I do hope that you will give good consideration to reducing it from three to two percent. Because this seems more realistic. And then as our population changes, we hope going up, why we still keep a percentage factor to use in determining the number of signatures. A fixed number in a very mobile type of society in which we live might not be realistic any more. Because I defy anyone to know what the population of North Dakota is going to be in 1980. You may say that it's a fascinating dream that we may make a little bit fantastic by saying that by 1980 our population will be one million in North Dakota. But it could be, you know. And so if we have a factor that we can use, a two percent against a fixed number, then you see for ten years, regardless of when the referral or initiative may be used, we will have a fixed figure to use as a base to calculate and determine the number of signatures. But I do believe three percent is a little high. I hope you'll go along with the two percent, and I know you're going to be deluged with all kinds of proposals to amend on this figure.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President:

One of the things that I neglected to point out when I made my explanation of the committee proposal was that three percent represents approximately 18,000 people, two percent about 12,000. I had hoped to get the floor first to suggest that maybe rather than have a long, complicated debate over what figure we wanted — I think it's pretty much all about said, many people have more to say about it — but if this motion fails, I would suggest that we ask the Chair to have a show of hands for — to see what the delegates prefer so we don't have to draw up a whole bunch of amendments — simply by a show of hands for four percent, three percent, two percent and one percent. However, if this motion succeeds, then I think that that's unnecessary. But I would like to move that if this motion fails.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I'm on the Legislative Functions Committee and have talked considerably in that committee in defense of the three percent; however, I have since changed my mind and have gone to the support of a two percent figure for a couple of reasons: One, I still am entrenched with the belief that a percent is what we need rather than a set number of electors; secondly, the two percent figure, I believe, is a figure that the people will accept. And I don't believe that, however, the intent of initiative and referendum when it was passed around 1914 was simply to — I believe it was, I should say, to allow a nucleus or a segment of the population to refer or initiate a measure. I don't believe that this necessarily is an individual, but I believe it is a collective right. And a two percent figure I think would meet this intent. It would be a figure that the people would accept, and I hope we approve of the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President: May I move an amendment to the amendment? It's at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: State your amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Rundle's amendment to the amendment would be to delete the word "two" and then delete — all the language in Committee Proposal 1- — no, delete the word "two", then delete all the language in lines 13 through 16 in the proposal and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 4. Signature Requirement. The petitions may be submitted to the secretary of state if signed by seven thousand electors in the case of a referred measure and if signed by ten thousand electors in the case of an initiated measure."

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I have a second for the motion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Maxwell.

Now Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I had a proposal in on the percentage basis, I think it was 1.67. Anyway it came out at 7,000. I was trying to be modern, and if they wanted it percentage-wise put it on that. But it didn't get anywhere. Now in the meantime I have many people say let's keep it on a figure the people can understand without a calculator even though it wouldn't take too much time to figure it. They'd rather have a flat figure. And I point out to you that the population has been dwindling and my percentage thing would have been more in the line that I lean than this. In other words, it would have been less names than the 7,000 possibly. But for the sake of not changing everything, we've torn many, many things apart, and this I feel is a very — a thing very close to many of the people. And I combat the old figure. I'd just like — I won't take a lot of time. But there hasn't ever been an issue that I know of, and neither did the secretary of state's clerk, that's been voted upon by the people so many times. Since 1918 it's been voted upon eight times. Changes were recommended by the Legislature in each case to make it tougher, to put the number of signatures up, and other various little gadgets to make it tougher. 1932 two different proposals were voted down, three to one — two to one; 1936 127,511 to 41,500. Constitutional amendment was submitted by the Legislature that time. 1940, Constitutional amendment submitted by the Legislature. In that time they only proposed that the initiative and referendum go up to 15,000. And that was closer, 64,000 to 61,000. 1942, 69,000 to 52,000. Again in 1942, 70,000 to 53,000. '58, a whopping 127,000 to 47. And the last one, which I missed, and the secretary of state's clerk Harriet Witte put it in her own writing on my sheet, November 8, 1966, three percent of the population to initiate, two percent to refer. Three percent and two. It got beat 84,131 to 69,116. People haven't wanted these figures changed and have said so eight times. I think maybe this should tell us something. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered — the amendment to the amendment as offered by Delegate Rundle.

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I merely want to correct some ideas that apparently are here in the Convention. The mention of 1914 when the initiative and referendum was first adopted did require ten percent of the voters, which is almost an impossible figure to determine. And it required the petitions to be circulated in fifty percent of the counties. Now in the 1918 change that was to a fixed figure of so many thousand signatures, get them all in one county if you could or you could get them at large over the state with no fixed requirement. So I would hope that we would at least adhere to the fixed number of signatures, or in the alternative to at least the last federal census so we've got a definite base to start from.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President:

I would oppose the amendment to the amendment which is before us right now for this reason: There are at least half a dozen people in this chamber who have engaged in futile efforts to stop the filing of referral petitions with the secretary of state. The reason they have done so is not necessarily because they were afraid of how the people would vote on the issue, but because the filing of a referral suspends the operation of the law until voted on. And this is my objection basically to the amendment; it is that we are providing a smaller number for referral and that encourages the use of the referral petition whereby if they use the initiative they wouldn't cause all the trouble to start with. And I'm opposed to any system of voting which encourages a smaller number of signers use of a referral than it does an initiative. Because this interrupts the governmental process. And I hope the delegates would read my proposal amendment to Committee Proposal 108 before they vote on these amendments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President:

Delegate Rundle is right. In this situation he has pointed out the people have spoken repeatedly and probably more often than on any other issue that has been presented to them. And invariably they have supported the language of the original constitutional amendment. I support the amendment to the amendment.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

This Convention is certainly justified in voting an increase in the number of signatures requiring referral of an act of the Legislature. And all the indications are the people will accept a modest increase. Since 1918 the electorate has been substantially at large. We have good roads now. Fifty years ago there wasn't even a gravel road between Minot and Bismarck, it was just a trail. We have newspapers blanketing the state, we have radio and television, good communications. A modest increase in the number of signatures is in order. I resist the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President:

I think if there is an amendment with which the people of North Dakota are really familiar it is the initiative and referendum. And since 1932 it has been voted on six times and soundly defeated each time. And I keep saying that I think the people are telling us something, we better listen to them. This morning we passed proposals not because we thought they were particularly good, but because we felt the people of North Dakota were not going to like them. And I don't think they would like it if we changed the number of signatures required. It doesn't really matter what happened fifty years ago or how the roads were or anything else. The basic issue here is that the people are used to 7,000 and 10,000 signatures, and I think that we should bow to their wishes as they have voted in the past and retain these figures.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President:

I can't help but remember a time in 1963 when Senator Lee Brooks from Fargo and I co-sponsored a bill to repeal the — for food-liquor divorcement law. And everyone said, "Oh, you can't do that. The people have spoken." And Senator Brooks had, in fact, introduced the bill several times before I arrived on the scene, and I was really tagging along in something I believed in. Well, they told Senator Brooks that so many times and they told the Republican majority in the Senate so many times that he was forced to withdraw his own bill from the floor of the Senate because the people had spoken. Well, some five months later the issue was presented to the people and they threw it out four to one. All I'm saying is that the people are aware of what's going on and they are not all that blind to some of the malpractices and some of the abuses and they are ready for an increase in this number of signatures required.

DELEGATE URDAHL: I think it should be pointed out that when this law was passed now many years ago it was before women were franchised. I think another thing that we should consider today is that we probably have thirty-five to forty thousand new voters in granting the eighteen-year-olds the right to vote. And I resist the amendment to the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: I've been on the Legislative Functions Committee. We have spent a great deal of time talking this thing over. To me the idea of initiative and referendum is good. But on the other hand, I don't think it should be used as freely as it has been for this reason: We live in what we call a representative democracy; we elect people to represent us. When we resort to the initiative and referendum we are, in effect, saying, "Let's all of us get together and we'll all get our laws." Now this is poor democracy. And under many circumstances it would be very desirable. But I think the problem is this: If we cannot all get together and discuss these issues thoroughly and completely so that everybody has the proper information on which to make a good and honest evaluation of the things that we are considering, for that reason I'm just a little bit leery about the initiative and referendum. On the other hand, on the matter of signatures, signers, when we ask for three percent of the population, if we consider our population a little bit over 600,000, three percent amounts to about 15,000 signers. This is comparable to about seven and a half percent of the eligible voters. Now I think that if I have an issue that I want to refer to the people, and figure out and out of every 100 voters which I contact I cannot find eight people who agree with me that I do have a real issue, that probably maybe I don't have an issue and it shouldn't be referred. For that reason I think we should resist the amendment to the amendment and the amendment and support the committee's position at three percent.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment to the amendment.

Will you read the amendment?

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: I'm also a member of the Legislative Functions Committee. And in our District 14 we took a number of polls before we came out to our Plenary Session. And we gave the people at our hearings three alternatives to vote on: They were three percent, two percent and leave it alone. The majority want to leave it as it is written. The next group favored a two percent. But nobody that attended our meetings favored three percent. And I don't know why we should be trying to give our people something that they are resisting. I definitely support the amendment of Delegate Rundle.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment to the amendment as offered by Delegate Rundle.

Will you read it again, Roy, so we have it before us?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to the amendment of Delegate Solberg.

Delete the amendment as proposed by Delegate Solberg and insert the following:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Woop, woop.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: — on page 1 delete the lines 13 through 16 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 4. Signature Requirement. The petitions may be submitted to the secretary of state if signed by seven thousand electors in the case of a referred measure and if signed by ten thousand electors in the case of an initiated measure."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the proposed amendment.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: That was Rundle's amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Those in favor will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay". As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment to the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." I think the amendment lost. We will open the key.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Division.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Could I request a recorded roll call vote?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, if you can get ten people to go along with you. That is sufficient. There will be a recorded roll call vote.

Again, the question is on the adoption of the amendment to the amendment. Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 32 "ayes," 60 "nays," six delegates absent and not voting. The amendment to the amendment has failed.

We are back on the amendment as offered by Delegate Solberg where we would strike the "three" and insert the number "two". Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Very briefly, I believe that this is a very modest compromise and I don't think we'd have any trouble explaining it at all. I hope you support this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Solberg. As many as are in favor of the motion to adopt will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

I have a further amendment, and I'd like to move that amendment at this time. It's at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will read the proposed amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-108.

Delete lines 13 through 16, inclusive, of the amended proposal and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"A petition signed by at least 10,000 electors shall require a statute or proposed statute to be placed on the ballot. A referendum petition signed by at least 15,000 electors and filed within ninety days after the filing of the measure with the secretary of state shall suspend operation of the measure if so requested in the petition. A petition signed by at least 20,000 electors shall be necessary to propose a constitutional amendment."

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Maxwell.

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Thank you. Mr. President.

What this petition or what this amendment is doing is staying fairly close to the two percent figure. It's leaving the initiative at 10,000 where it is because we haven't had any difficulty with our initiative process. It's raising the referral to 10,000 also so we do not encourage people to use the referral when they could better use the initiative. And as I tried to say earlier, it's the filing of the referral that causes the suspension of the act of the Legislature that causes the chaos in the governmental process. And I can't emphasize this too strongly. This is my — I suppose my basic objection to the committee's report at present is that it is containing the same basic problem as the present law in that it allows for the suspension. It gives the person who files the petition no other choice. I am saying that if 10,000 electors want to place a law passed by the Legislature on the ballot, they can do so. It will simply be voted on at the next regular state-wide election and there will be no disruption of the process. The Legislature's enactment will be in effect until voted out by the people for thirty days after that. There are some laws which the people might legitimately want to suspend pending the vote. For example, a law passed to build the state office building. It would do little good to vote yes or no on that question if the building had already been built. I am providing a means of 15,000 signatures to suspend such a provision. This will discourage people from needlessly suspending the operation of the law and causing the chaos that is taking place every time we have a referral petition. I'm not afraid of the judgment of the citizens of North Dakota on a question passed by the Legislature, but I don't think those of us that have worked in state government and have seen it happen every time a referral petition is filed, there's all sorts of problems. The committee proposal which is in the next enactment talks about suspension, but they have to be dealt with together, for the purposes of my amendment simply provides that you can't suspend an appropriation measure. Well, that doesn't solve the problem. There are a host of other statutes that can just as effectively hurt the state department as an appropriation measure. And I can't emphasize it too strongly. Let's say if you amended the law that levied a tax or raises a license fee, the Legislature has increased the appropriation in anticipation of the increased revenue from raising the license fee or the tax. They are in different bills, of course, so they merely suspend the levying of the tax measure or the increase in the license fee. Here you have chaos again. You can't expect the governor to allow a suspension of a law which raises the tax when one that suspends the money is not suspended. We simply have to provide an opportunity for reasonable citizens to have a plebescite on laws passed by the Legislature, but we don't want to force them to suspend the law. I'm allowing them to suspend the law if they get an additional 5,000 signatures. Possibly it could be two percent and three percent for suspension. But I think if we stick with a definite figure like 10,000 we have a much better chance of selling it to the people. This 15,000 is only when you want to suspend the operation of the law.

And I think we have to make it more difficult to suspend the law. Because this is where the chaos in the government operation is. And I urge you to support this amendment, and I think this is something that the people will buy. It's only a very modest increase in the signatures required for referral, but it does the important thing of making it possible to suspend the law with an additional 5,000 signatures. Thank you.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Personally, delegates, I think Delegate Hill really has hit the nail on the head in that couple sentences there on the suspension of the law. I think that's the real key to his amendment. Probably more important than even the number of signatures. And I'm not saying 15,000 is correct, I would sooner see that down a little bit, but because of those sentences as he's explained in that section this is by far the best amendment that we have before us.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: We considered these ideas in committee, and we regarded the mandatory suspension an evil. However, leaving the suspension up to the petitioners is probably the greater evil. Because here you're giving private people an opportunity to negotiate, bargain and even blackjack the state into doing certain things because they have negotiating room. They will say, "Well, public officials, if you do thus and so we won't get the extra signatures and therefore we will bargain with you on it." I don't think that an act passed by the Legislature ought to be treated that lightly that we permit private parties to begin negotiating and upsetting the government in that fashion.

Another problem here is perhaps the first 10,000 signers in the petition didn't want to suspend the law but the people who were circulating the petition, they decide they are going to go out and suspend the law anyway; they go out and get that other 5,000. So I think you have to have a uniform system to which all petitioners are signing so they know what they are signing, they know that only that kind of act can result from their signing.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: I would beg Delegate Omdahl to read my amendment. The law can only be suspended with 15,000 signatures if so requested in the petition. His statement is incorrect in that regard.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I have to oppose this amendment for several reasons; first of all, the draftsmanship is terribly defective. It says: "A petition signed by at least 10,000 electors shall require . . ." Well, that's not what we mean at all. The petition can be submitted, but it has to go through the certification process, the secretary of state has to determine the sufficiency of the petition, the validity of the signatures.

Second, I don't think we can leave it in the hands of the sponsoring committee to decide whether or not to suspend the law. The presumption here is that the sponsoring committee is going to consist of responsible citizens. That may not necessarily be so. They may let, for example, a law go into effect simply to help in their "no" vote campaign.

Finally, the last sentence is not germane. That should be offered when Proposal 1-113 comes up.

I urge the Convention to stand by the committee and reject the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

May I ask a question, sir? Are we talking about other matters besides the percentage two in our debate? If we are to refer to provisions regarding matters to be referred, is that not to be covered next in 1-1 — 1-109? I wonder if I'm right in that. Because if it is, why we're discussing a matter that will be taken up in 1-109 and has not much to do with the 1-108.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I think it is germane, Delegate Solberg, because the contention of the mover is that this is a key factor in his motion.

I should point out, though, that the committee has worked extremely hard to set up a timetable of the effective date of legislation so that no referral may be filed after the effective date of a law that's passed by the Legislature. And I don't want to go into all of that. But the timetable of effective dates of new laws prevents a petition for referral from being filed after the law goes into effect.

Now the committee also felt that it maybe is wise that new tax measures that may be referred do not go into effect. Because if — if we suppose the Legislature passed a sales tax increase and merchants went through all the bother of starting the imposition of this new tax, referral was filed and then it would all stop, we have then been very careful to make sure that this does not happen and cannot happen with the timetable that the committee is proposing. However, we don't want either the referral to be able to let the tax go into effect and then the people vote and throw it out. We think it's much better that the delay is from the very beginning. And I think our timetable will solve the problem Delegate Hill was trying to get at.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Hill. Are you aware of the question? Want it read? Those in favor of the adoption of the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed will say "nay." As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it. The amendment lost.

We are back on the Committee Proposal No. 1-108 with Delegate Solberg's amendment.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: May I now move that the rules be suspended?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, Delegate Solberg, we haven't voted on your amendment.

DESK REPORTER KING: Oh, yes, we did.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: That's adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm in error. Right. You're correct. Now you can move.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Thank you, Mr. President. I move further that the rules be temporarily suspended, and that the proposal be deemed properly engrossed, and placed on the calendar for final reading and passage — or for first reading and passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg moves that the rules be suspended, Committee Proposal No. 1-108 be deemed properly re-engrossed, be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended. It is moved.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion is seconded by Delegate Omdahl.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-108 as amended is before the Convention.

Any further discussion? The question is on the first passage.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Could we move this down beneath 113 or behind 106 after 113? I'm confident that there's some misunderstanding, and I'd like to try a further amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill, to move it on the calendar would require a motion.

DELEGATE HILL: I move that it be placed immediately following Committee Proposal 1-106.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-108 be placed immediately below Committee Proposal No. 1-106. Now do I have a second?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Aubol.

Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it. And the motion lost.

We are back for first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-108 as amended. Those in favor of its passage will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 80 "ayes," 12 "nays," six delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-108 has passed.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-109. I believe Delegate Dobson discussed it when we first went through it.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I have nothing further at this moment to add to my earlier remarks.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President:

I had an amendment. I want to make a comment before I make the amendment. The objection to this section is somewhat minor, I presume. It regards the fact that it can only be voted on at the general election. I have never been concerned about the size of the vote, only the quality of it. And the situation here is that this means the citizens must wait another several months at a minimum until their question can be decided. It's possible our primary may be moved back to June. And this would certainly allow that these questions could be decided more quickly. The law is going to be suspended to provide for a minimum amount of chaos, you should simply provide for an election at the earliest possible date. And if it's a special election of course that creates more unnecessary suspense and chaos. But I see no reason why these measures cannot be voted on at a primary election.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question — Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

I agree with Delegate Hill on this one for two reasons; time involved and the cost involved. Time is more important in this case. Why wait until a general election? People that are interested, they'll vote in a primary. In fact, this might be a helpful way to get more people out to vote at the primary.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion, further discussion?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I as one of the committee really have no strong feelings on that last sentence in Section 5. However, I think it was felt that, one, that more people come out for a general election and that if it was near a primary election the governor could call a special election in conjunction with a primary election.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Speaking for the committee on this proposal, we don't really feel too strongly about this matter of general elections. Two points: First, the turnout is always better at a general election than at a primary election; second, the only reason we felt someone would probably want to put a measure on the primary ballot would possibly be to help his own candidacy for some office. We saw an example of that a couple of years ago when a measure was referred to the primary ballot.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President:

I agree very much with the last sentence of Delegate Hill's amendment dealing with some time period before the Legislature can amend an initiated act except by a two-thirds vote. And I think that probably this should be submitted at the end of Proposal 1-112, and I intend to make a motion at that time — when that is being considered to do so.

If I might digress just a moment with the permission of the Convention, I cannot blame Delegate Hill for not submitting this last amendment and having it slapped down. Delegate Hill has had a tough day today, and I suppose there are few of you that are aware of it, this morning he received this letter:

"Mr. Vance K. Roykeshaugen, a/k/a Vance K. Hill.

"Dear Mr. Roykeshaugen:

"It was a pleasure to read yesterday's news release. Having long opposed the selection of members of the North Dakota Judicial Department by any method other than by election by the qualified electors of the State, I was pleased that the majority of the Constitutional Convention delegates voted down any proposed change in the process of selecting judges.

"The news release regarding your sour grapes statements about persons with non-Nordic names and the reply of Delegate Donnell Haugen is hilarious. You can now consider yourself one of God's children.

"With reference to your comment about the difficulty of a person with a non-Nordic name being elected to office, I wonder if the following judges are all Nordic:

Redetzke; Maxwell; Friederick; O'Keefe; Gefreh; Lynch; Fredricks; Jan-sonius; Burdick; Beede; Kelsch; Muggli; McCullagh; Smith; Hodny; Margulies; Ewing, Krause; O'Connell?

Unless Italians, Irishmen, Scotsmen, and Germans are all classified by you as Nordic, then there are nineteen of the thirty-two judges who are non-Nordic.

"Very truly yours, Lawrence O'Connell, County Judge."

I can understand why Mr. Hill is despondent at this moment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-109. Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 86 "ayes," 6 "nays," six delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-109 has passed.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-110.

DELEGATE DIEHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Diehl.

DELEGATE DIEHL: I think I have nothing further to offer. This has been covered. And the language is quite similar to what we now have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-110.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President:

I really haven't looked this over, but I see that Delegate Hill did have a proposed amendment. And if he would submit himself to the body here, he ought to explain what he had in mind.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: This amendment is worthless if the proposed amendment to 108 is not adopted because it relates to the language contained about referring suspension. So there is no use to move that amendment without the amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-108.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention then is for first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-110. Those in favor will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 88 "ayes," 2 "nays," eight delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-110 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-111.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Fellow Delegates:

Please don't interrupt the pleasant momentum we are gathering here.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce, did you have any further comments to offer on Committee Proposal No. 1-111? I believe you commented on it when it was first presented to the Convention.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-111. Those in favor will vote "aye," those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any —

DELEGATE NETHING: No. I vote "aye".

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Would you push Delegate Nething's?

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Meidinger votes "aye."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Meidinger votes "aye". Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll Call discloses 92 "ayes," no "nays," six delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-111 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-112.

DELEGATE NETHING: Question.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peters, do you have anything further to comment on?

DELEGATE PETERS: Mr. President:

I just want to say ditto for what Mr. Pearce just said.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President:

The momentum here has almost overrun me. I just barely got a suggested amendment to the desk. I wonder if it's in such handwriting that the Clerk can read it?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: We already have it typed.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Thank you. Thank you.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-112.

Following line 18, add the following: "Any statute approved by the electors cannot be amended for five years except by a two-thirds vote of the legislature."

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

May I have a second?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President:

I believe we are all agreed that this right of initiative and referendum is a right of the people. I went along with the proposal to raise the number of signatures required because I think it is reasonable under present conditions. But I do think there are an awful lot of electors that are going to wonder what is the use of initiative amendment or an initiative measure if the Legislature can change it immediately upon its passage. Now I believe it's important if we give the people a right to at least five years to be sure that their measure is going to stay in effect unless a two-thirds vote of the Legislature can be secured. I do hope that this amendment will be approved.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I want to offer an amendment to the amendment to strike out "five" and insert "seven." If I can get a second I'd like to discuss that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Have a second to Delegate Cart's amendment?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE CART: There is naturally an emergency whenever legitimate referendum or initiative law is enacted. And it will take a little time for that to be worked out. So where it maybe needs amendment or repeal could be left on the statute. And I think five years is just a little bit short. That's only two sessions of the Legislature. I really think we should have three sessions of the Legislature pass by before it is subject to change or revision, the same as any other legislation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

Was that an amendment to the amendment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, I was a little bit slow. There is another amendment to the exact wording. I support this amendment. I had legal counsel prepare one at noon; the exact wording "seven years". I feel five years is a little too short.

And I would bring it to the attention of the delegates of how fast we're moving. This very important feature wasn't even included in the report. Just going to slip through that the majority of the Legislature could override the people. And under the deal we now are offering under, or we will if everything passes, with an eighty-day legislative session which might be recessed, you could get a petition overridden by the Legislature the day after it was in effect. They could call the Legislature back in. This isn't a very great probability, but it certainly is a possibility. And we are just making a mockery of this if we don't have the two-thirds majority in. I feel seven years is quite a compromise because now you know it's forever the way it has been. But I wouldn't like to go down lower than seven years. I support the amendment.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: The committee, of course, considered this matter. We thought that maybe we should put in five years where we require a two-thirds vote. But we finally concluded that would be unnecessary because it is rather unlikely that the Legislature is going to start fiddling with something that the people have approved for a couple sessions anyway. The legislators are political animals; they have to go home and run for reelection. They aren't going to override the wishes of their constituents. And if they do make any changes within the first five-year period they will probably have substantial reasons to make those changes. That's the committee's position.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the amendment to the amendment.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Just a short comment. I speak in favor of the amendment. I talked to legislators, but not that far and not all the way. A bill which was referred and turned down by the voters of this state was being considered by the next legislative session if you will remember.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: The last time that the Constitution was amended providing for a Legislature of sixty days was in September 1968. That's less than four years ago. We've changed that already.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment to the amendment as offered by Delegate Cart; that the period be changed from five to seven years. As many as are in favor of adoption of the amendment to the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." I'll rule that the "ayes" had it.

DELEGATE SINNER: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The "ayes" carried. Division has been called for. Those in favor will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Vote "aye".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The vote is closed. The vote indicates there were 51 "ayes," there were 39 "nays," there were eight delegates absent and not voting. The amendment to the amendment has been adopted.

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President:

I would like to ask Delegate Haugen a question, please.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes, certainly.

DELEGATE LANDER: In your amendment you use the words "only amended" whereas the present Constitution says "repealed or amended". Is there any significance to that?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Now I stuck with Delegate Hill's wording. I do think it is important. I assume there is some significance to it. It would certainly be preferable if the word "repealed" were in. This would require another — another amendment, which I hesitate to make. I think that the people will look much more favorably upon the section with the inclusion of the wording that I have — that Delegate Cart and I have suggested. I had intended to say this, and I still think it is a matter of some importance. Delegate Dobson said that there would only be an amendment by a majority vote if there was a substantial amendment to be made. But if there's a substantial and important amendment to make, then that amendment can be secured by two-thirds — or two-thirds support might be taken. Might I submit your question, Delegate Lander, now to Delegate Hill? Vance, you got his question?

DELEGATE HILL: My thought was amendment in the general sense means any change whatsoever. But to clarify, it might be better to add the word "repeal" also.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: So that we have it correct, what we are doing, I would move that the words "or repealed" be inserted after the words "be amended" on the amendment. "Or repealed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch moves that the words "or repealed" be inserted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: That is after — where you would want that inserted?

DELEGATE KELSCH: After the word "amended". It is a one-sentence amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Any statute approved by the electors cannot be amended —

DELEGATE KELSCH: Or repealed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: — or repealed . . ."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: So we have an amendment to the amendment before the Convention again.

Does the record show we have a second for that?

DELEGATE CART: I'll second that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The amendment was seconded by Delegate Cart.

The question before the Convention is on the amendment to the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch.

Will you read it the way it reads now, Mr. Clerk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to the amendment is as follows: After the words "be amended" insert the words "or repealed".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any question? Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment to the amendment. As many as are in favor of adoption will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Would Delegate Haugen yield to a question?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I hope I can answer it better than the last one.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Delegate Haugen, do you feel — let's take an example. If the majority of the people of the State of North Dakota want to change a law that they put on the books by initiative, do you think that a minority of the legislators should be able to stop that repeal?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Will you state that over again? Can you put it in a more positive way?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: If a majority of the people of the State of North Dakota want to change a law that they put on the books by initiative, want to change that, should a minority of the legislators that represent them be able to stop them from making that change?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Will you set an example as how a minority might do that?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Well, you require two-thirds vote of both houses to change a law that's been initiated, you see.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Right.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: So you reverse that. You are saying a minority can stop the majority of the people's wishes.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may answer.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I don't believe I'm saying that, no, that a minority can stop it. I'm saying that it would require a two-thirds majority to overrule for seven years now what the people have wanted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, just in answer to Delegate Hoffner, it's just a fact that it takes two-thirds to change, so one-third, one more than one-third can block it. That's his point. It's all right. That's the way — that's what the Convention has decided. But then that's perfectly all right.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: This is what we have been doing in North Dakota for a good many years.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You are absolutely right.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates:

For about the two hundredth time I have found that I write much slower than the Chief Clerk reads. Can we please have the amendment read. Thank you.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President:

It is the last sentence of Delegate Hill's proposed amendment to this section. So it is the words "or repealed" if you want to refer to that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That has not been adopted, Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: As has been amended, we are adding the words "or repealed". But otherwise the sentence is the same.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment as amended is as follows:

Following line 18 add the following: "Any statute approved by the electors cannot be amended or repealed for seven years except by a two-thirds vote of the legislature."

DELEGATE DOBSON: Now, Mr. President, —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Will Delegate Haugen yield to a question?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I will try. I'm having difficulty, but I'll try.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Currently to amend or repeal a law which has gone through the initiative-referendum process requires a two-thirds vote in each house.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Your amendment provides for a two-thirds vote of the Legislature. Is that your intent?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I think that all of us here understand the nature —
(Applause)

(Delegate Byrne fell out of his chair and then reclaimed his chair with nothing more than bruised dignity.)

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

I was going to reply to Delegate Dobson. I was going to say that I believe that all of us here understand the meaning of the language; two-thirds vote of the Legislature. If this is not technically correct, I know that we have a very, very good Committee on Style and Drafting and I have no doubt but what they will put that particular phrase in its proper language, proper wording.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President:

I hate to ask this, but on the basis of Delegate Hoffner's question, and in reference to what is in the present Constitution, I would like to ask these many lawyers here if we have really changed what's in there now? Because the amendment before us says that any statute approved, et cetera, may not be repealed except by two-thirds vote. Which I thought he was saying then that the initiative or referendum could not be used because it wasn't a two-thirds vote of the Legislature. I don't know whether you meant that. But the present Constitution says what the Legislature shall do. We have reworded the sentence, and that's why I'd like the expert opinions as to whether we have really created a restriction we did not intend to create in this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Someone care to answer Delegate Lander?

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'll yield to Judge Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

Thank you, Attorney Lingmire — Longmire. I have the — my amendment that was drawn, the very same wording is at the desk and was drawn by a sharp young counsel. It might solve the problem. He assured me it was a very good one and ready to go.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Would Delegate Rundle offer the amendment so we could hear what it says?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I don't have it.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

Would it be in order to offer — I'm a little confused at just where we are.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, I wonder if there's anyone in here that isn't.

The question before the Convention is on Delegate Haugen's motion to amend that has never been adopted. And we have two amendments to amendments and those have been adopted. So we're right back on Delegate Haugen's motion as amended.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President:

It's difficult for me in my book here to follow these amendments on amendments on amendments. And I think it would be wise if we carried this forward until after the next proposal anyway until we know what we're voting on. I would suggest it, if not move it. Those who offered it maybe could do that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, just so that we don't add to further confusion, there is no amendment to the amendment to the amendment. That's not correct.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I think to clear this up, the best thing to do is move that the motion — move the question. And if there is an inaccuracy in it — everyone knows the substance of it — if there is an inaccuracy in it we can correct it in Style and Drafting. I'll move the question.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The previous question has been moved. Will five delegates stand? That is a sufficient number. Seconded by Delegates Litten and Kwako and Binek and Aas and Christensen. The previous question has been moved which, of course, calls for immediate vote on Delegate Haugen's amendment as amended. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Point of order, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: It was my understanding that question was Delegate Sinner's motion for the previous question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe the Chair is in error. The question was on — the question was the motion for the previous motion, that is correct. Now we are back on Delegate Haugen's motion as amended and amended. As many as are in favor of adopting that motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendments are adopted.

Now we are back on Committee Proposal No. 1-112 as amended.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to move that Proposal 1-112 be considered properly engrossed and placed on first reading and passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-112 be deemed properly re-engrossed, be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Do I have a second?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kelsch.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal 1-112 is before the Convention.

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-112. Those in favor of its passage will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

DELEGATE SCHMIDT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Schmidt. Did you vote? Your vote wasn't recorded.

DELEGATE SCHMIDT: I'm sorry, my vote wasn't recorded.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And how do you vote?

DELEGATE SCHMIDT: Aye.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: He votes "aye".

Roll call discloses 88 "ayes," 4 "nays," six delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-112 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-113.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Just briefly, repeating points that I outlined earlier in the same section, the primary change here is the number of signatures. We have changed that number from the 20,000 in the current section to five percent of the resident population of the state.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

I have an amendment at the desk. I ask that it be read.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-113.

On page 1 delete lines 13 through 19 and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Section 9. Initiated Constitutional Amendment. A constitutional amendment may be proposed by initiative petition. If signed by twenty thousand electors the petition may be filed with the secretary of state."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the amendment. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE BAKER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Baker.

PRESIDENT RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: These are exactly the same figures that are in the old Constitution. And why you want to make it any more difficult in this case, I can't understand. I would hope the amendment would prevail.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: It strikes me as odd that we require two percent to initiate and refer, but then we have a fixed figure to initiate a constitutional amendment. The committee voted to increase the number of signatures required to initiate a constitutional amendment for the same reason that they voted for an increase on initiative and referendum measures. Also Delegate Rundle's motion has left off the last sentence of C.P. 1-113. That last sentence is very important.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President:

While Delegate Rundle rummages up some language or does something about that last sentence, I would observe that if you don't have that last sentence in there, among other things, you don't have an effective date for constitutional amendment. And we need that.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, in answer to that, Attorney Cuffe, counsel for the committee here, drew this and he left that out at my suggestion. And now I have had other legal-lights tell me it should be in there. I'll tell you the reason I left it out. We're just killing this thing a little bit at a time, completely ruining it, and I thought perhaps there was some ulterior motive in that. I wanted this section by itself. But I guess I was wrong.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I don't agree with the amendment, but I think we can go ahead and act on it and if it's passed we can move another amendment and put that sentence back in.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Rundle.

Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." I believe the "noes" have it.

DELEGATE CHASE: Request division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division has been requested.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Could we request a recorded roll call vote?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will have a vote, but not a roll call vote. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye" and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your preference.

DELEGATE SINNER: Could it be read again so we could understand it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Have the amendment read again? Certainly.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-113 is as follows:

On page 1 delete lines 13 through 19 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 9. Initiated Constitutional Amendment. A constitutional amendment may be proposed by initiative petition. If signed by twenty thousand electors the petition may be filed with the secretary of state."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President:

I do intend to vote "no" on the amendment. And if it fails I do intend to offer a further amendment that would change the percentage from five percent to four percent.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Rundle. Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye" and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The vote indicates 38 "ayes," 52 "nays," eight delegates absent and not voting. The amendment as offered failed.

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President:

I should like to offer a further amendment to Proposal 1-113. It's at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker has a further amendment to Proposal 1-113.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: While we're waiting for the typing, one of the reasons that the committee put the figure of five percent was that we were and are providing kind of an adoptive proposal which will call for an automatic vote on a constitutional convention every thirty years. And we felt that this kind of review of the Constitution on a more or less periodic basis by the people and the prospect of calling a convention is a better way than to have too easy an amendment of the Constitution brought in and adopted sometimes with far-reaching indications that aren't obvious to a non-studying body.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker's amendment at the desk? Would you read the proposed amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-113.

In line 15, after the word "to" delete the word "five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "three".

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE ENGSTROM: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Engstrom.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I think the effect of this amendment is clear. It would reduce the necessary signatures on the basis of the present census from around 30,000 to something under 20,000, which is the current requirement in our Constitution. But then we know that the state's going to grow so it will be back up there pretty soon. And anyway we made it tougher the other day, you know, for the Legislature to propose a constitutional amendment. And thirty years is a long time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I would oppose the amendment. We are working in reverse here. We adopted Proposal 1-108 by an 80-to-12 margin. And I think that an increase of sorts is needed. We are dropping from 20 down to 18,000. So I'd oppose the amendment.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President:

I also oppose the amendment. I have an amendment at the desk that calls for reducing the number from five down to four percent, which puts the figure at about 24,000.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on Delegate Baker's motion that the word "five" be stricken and the word "three" be inserted in lieu thereof on the percentage.

Being no more discussion, the question is on the adoption of the amendment. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye," those opposed "no." The "noes" have it.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will have a vote. We will have a ballot. Those in favor will vote "aye" and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will indicate your preference.

Has every delegate voted? And delegate wish to change? The key is closed.

Tally indicated 43 "ayes," 47 "nays," eight delegates absent and not voting. The amendment failed.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I have an amendment at the desk, and I would ask that it be read at this time.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-113 is as follows:

In line 15, after the word "to", delete the word "five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "four".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the amendment. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE BENSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Benson.

Any discussion? The question — the question is on the adoption of the amendment that the word "five" is stricken and the word "four" inserted. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The ayes have it. The amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I'm sorry for this inconvenience, but we forgot to propose an amendment to this proposal. I think the desk has it. If they will read it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-113.

On line 17 delete the words "filed with" and insert in lieu thereof the words "submitted to".

DELEGATE SINNER: Second.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion is seconded by Delegate Solberg.

Is this offered by Delegate McIntyre? Do you offer the amendment?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Yes.

Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Fellow Delegates:

This is just a change in wordage here from "filed with" to "submitted to" to get away from any intent what the words "filed with" mean, that the petition has been deemed filed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on the proposed amendment?

Hearing none, — do you want that read? — as many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

I see no further amendments. I will move that the rules be suspended and that 1-113 be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the tenth order for passage.

DELEGATE SINNER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves —

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Before we put the motion to a vote, I wonder if we've ever put this language back in that was inadvertently left out by Delegate Rundle.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We aren't on his amendment.

The question before the Convention is on Delegate Hoffner's motion that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-113 be deemed properly re-engrossed, that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

DELEGATE SINNER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Sinner.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal 1-113 is before the Convention as amended.

Is there any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-113 as amended. Those in favor will vote "aye;" and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 86 "ayes," 5 "nays," seven delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-113 has passed.

We will be on the eighth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 106.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have one? Oh, that's the one we moved down. Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-106.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-106.

Delete lines 13 through 20, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Section 2. Petition. A petition to initiate or to refer a measure shall contain the full text of the measure and the names and post office addresses of at least twenty-five sponsors, one of whom shall be designated as chairman."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: This amendment merely takes out of the Committee Proposal 1-106 the matter of submitting the petition to the secretary of state before initiating the same and requiring his approval. Section 1-108 still provides for the submission of the petitions to the secretary of state, and 1-110 still provides for the certification. So it really doesn't do anything that hasn't been done in the past. But the secretary of state should never be put in the position of assisting and helping someone to amend a petition and then be forced in the awkward position of later going through the thing and perhaps even having to rule out some of the work that he had approved. The publicity — another thing, if the petition has gone to him for form and approval, it becomes a public record. And this petition might not even be circulated. And why publicize it and why embarrass some people who do not seek publicity for any particular reason to have this submitted to the secretary of state beforehand? As I pointed out this morning, it's much like a lawyer taking his pleadings to the judge, have him approve it, and then later having them attacked by opposing counsel and then having the judge reverse himself. It is unnecessary, it doesn't add a thing. I hope we get support of this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President:

I repeat that this amendment is nothing more than a rehash of the first amendment as Mr. Hill offered this morning and was voted on. His original amendment eliminated the request of the secretary of state and reduced the number of signers. That amendment served a separate vote of the number of signers and now this new amendment simply does the same thing. Again, if you are talking about the legislative process, we simply believe that the persons who are attempting to participate in the legislative process should be willing to stand up and be identified as the sponsors, and that the prior check with the secretary of state will eliminate so much possible court action as to the adequacy of petitions and the like that the committee thought the process did require this check through the secretary of state ahead of time. And I trust that the amendments will be voted down.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I wish to correct a statement made by Delegate Paulson. The Hill proposal this morning which was defeated 47-to-48 provided for ten sponsors. This was later adopted by the delegates as 25, and that has been left in the present proposal. So there is a difference.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I support this proposal. And I don't think in any case the secretary of state can propose a suggested form. And I think this question with regard to it being a proper form, the secretary of state would still have the power to recommend or prepare a form that would be suggested.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President:

I simply want to reiterate two things: First, the public at large should be alerted when a petition campaign starts. Now we should not make it possible to sneak a petition through, so to speak. This has happened in the recent past. Second, the secretary of state should have this power to check style and form. This will avoid problems later. I think the committee proposal is in order.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: I've listened to a lot of discussion that's been passed upon the fact that all legislative meetings of this type should be open. And I think a great deal of this discussion has been led by Delegate Rundle. I'm wondering why he reverses his position on this. I wonder if he would care to answer that for the Convention.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

I was going to say I didn't think about it. I didn't reverse my position. This is not an official public action, it's a person planning something.

And as long as we are on the subject, I might say I was in the newspaper business and publicity business for some years. And I maintain this could deter a lot of worthy projects by a powerful newspaper getting the news in advance and clamping it down, whether or not it was a good proposal. It could be just an individual newsman not liking it.

And while we're on the subject, when we get to these open meetings, I may change my position if this goes through.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: I think if we consider initiative and referendum we must consider it as a very responsible act and we must consider it carefully before we act. I think that Proposal 1-106 takes this into consideration in its original form. I think that those that take the initiative and the referendum, propose it to the people, must think very carefully before they act. And I think this is the real root of the discussion and debate here. And I would propose that we defeat the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The Clerk will read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-106.

"Section 2. Petition. A petition to initiate or to refer a measure shall contain the full text of the measure and the names and post office addresses of at least twenty-five sponsors, one of whom shall be designated as the chairman."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Kessel.

Delegate Cart, did you wish to speak?

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "nay." I believe the "nays" have it.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Call for a division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Call for division. That's a sufficient number. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will indicate your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The vote indicates 42 "ayes," and 48 "nays," eight delegates absent and not voting. The proposed amendment failed.

Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. Chairman:

This has to be — we have to make a motion to temporarily suspend the rules? We haven't amended it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Haven't amended it.

Is there any further discussion on Committee Proposal No. 1-106?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage, Committee Proposal 1-106. Those in favor of its passage will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses there were 72 "ayes," there were 18 "nays," eight delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-106 has passed.

We will be on the —

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Might we be on the twelfth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to get about three proposals off this list of ours before the week ends. I would like to ask permission to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-62, which I introduced, Delegate Proposal 2-70 introduced by Delegate Burke, and I have permission to ask that it be withdrawn.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposals Nos. 2-62 and 2-70. Hearing no objection, your request is granted.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Now, Mr. President, —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: — I would like to move — I do move that Committee Proposal 1-117, which is on the calendar without recommendation, be indefinitely postponed. It was submitted by the committee as an alternate for 116, which was adopted this morning. I have the permission and the consent of the committee to ask for its indefinite postponement.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-117 be indefinitely postponed. Is it seconded?

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's seconded by Delegate Erickson.

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President:

At three minutes to three this is, I imagine, a rather hopeless request. But I would like to request at least a divided vote on it so it could be recorded. The reason for this is that I voted for 1-116 although I preferred 1-117. This is with other people who had that preference and voted oppositely. We have not ever had an opportunity in order to reflect if we really preferred 117 to 116. I would only say if you like 117, let's vote against postponing it indefinitely, and then we can discuss it again next week if necessary.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

We have passed 116. I would resist the motion. I think that we have accomplished what we have started out to do. The difference is not that great. We will be — if we pass this we will be only cluttering up our records. And so I would hope that the delegates will vote "no" on this motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander has moved —

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Lynn, you are opposing my motion.

DELEGATE AAS: Excuse me. Vote "yes" on this motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, Delegate Lander, as I understand it, you request a recorded vote on the motion to indefinitely postpone?

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes, sir.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will ten delegates rise if you wish a recorded vote? That is sufficient.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President:

Will the Clerk read the proposal?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-117, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 174 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, both of which pertain to raising of revenues.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 174 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Raising of Revenues. The legislative assembly shall provide for the raising of revenues sufficient to defray the expenses of the state for each year. The legislative assembly shall not levy an annual property tax based on value for state purposes except for state elementary and secondary public educational purposes and for not in excess of two years unless reenacted."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on Delegate Haugen's motion to indefinitely postpone the proposal we just heard read.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President:

A recorded vote was requested.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry. Those in favor of indefinite postponement will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened and you will record your votes.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed. The vote — the roll call indicates 64 "ayes," 27 "nays," seven delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-117 has been indefinitely postponed.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Continuing on the twelfth order, this is the last day to do this, I'll be brief. I move that we reconsider the action by which we passed Committee Proposal 1-72.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-72, Delegate Dobson?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Yes, sir.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson moves that the Convention reconsider the action whereby we passed Delegate — or Committee Proposal 1-72.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: The reason I'm making this motion is because some officials of the news media of North Dakota have expressed concern about the amendment we attached to this bill when we passed it. The amendment was to insert the word "privacy". It's felt that this could cause some considerable problems for the news media. For example, if a newspaper printed a story about some person, that person could possibly go to the courts, say his privacy had been invaded. We're going to look for the support, I think, of the news media when we go to the special election. I don't think we want a provision in our Constitution which may subject them to nuisance lawsuits. That is why I move the reconsideration. If the motion carries, the proposal will be placed on the calendar, and the motion be made at a subsequent date to delete the word "privacy".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You heard the question. Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the motion to reconsider the action the Convention has previously taken on Committee Proposal No. 1-72.

Now inasmuch as this has passed the Convention, it will require a minimum of 50 votes to reconsider. In this case, we are going to open the key. Those in favor of reconsidering will vote "aye," those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened.

Has every delegate indicated his preference? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Are we still on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are, Delegate Pearce. But just wait until the vote is announced.

The vote indicates there were 51 "aye" votes, there were 39 "nays," there were eight delegates absent and not voting. So the motion to reconsider our action on Committee Proposal 1-72 has been passed.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I understand we are about to adjourn, so don't leave, I'm talking about money.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Several days ago I happened to receive a letter from the Higher Education Facility Commission dated January 19, 1972. The proposal which the Budget Committee has considered is to pass $5,000 from our funds with $10,000 so that the North Dakota Higher Education Facilities Commission of the state agency responsible for Title 1 of the Higher Education Act of 1965, community service of continuing education, can help publicize the produce of our work here. Since we have neither rules nor any specific statutory procedure for disbursing some moneys, I would like it if the Budget Committee would have the approval of the Convention to authorize expenditures of this $5,000, which seems to us to be the most money we can get for that amount of money. And I would therefore move that the Budget Committee be authorized to allocate and eventually pay $5,000 for this purpose.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Been seconded by Delegate McIntyre, moved by Delegate Pearce, that the Budget Committee be able — be authorized to make an expenditure of $5,000 for the purpose as indicated by Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President:

The other day when your Budget Committee considered this I cast the lone vote against the proposition on the grounds that at that time I was unable to receive an answer to the question of what part of the originally approved budget this expenditure would be made from. I'm wondering now if there's been any determination of that by anyone?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Delegate Baker, there hasn't been any determination. The fund that we have is not lined, except as we have lined in our budget. We have a flat $600,000. It seemed to the majority of the committee that the decision where to charge it ought to wait a little while to see where we have the best balances.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President:

I understand a further motion is in order with regard to C.P. 1-72.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Dobson, would you just hold up one second?

DELEGATE DOBSON: All right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on Delegate Pearce's motion to authorize the expenditure of $5,000? As many are in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Thank you, Mr. President. Now before I lose the floor, I have one other money matter.

It has been suggested by numerous people that this Convention ought to have its picture taken and produced into a composite picture of all of the 98 delegates, such as the legislature has frequently done. We have obtained three bids to do that which would provide 110 11 by 14 of these pictures, one for every delegate, plus one 38 inches by 49 inches which would hang in some appropriate place if they will let us hang it somewhere. The bids, as they sometimes do, vary. One is for $1,695, one is for $1,670, and the third is for $891. The Budget Committee has not had a chance to meet them because we just received the bids. I would like an expression from the Convention whether the Budget Committee should authorize a contract. We need to know now because there will be portraits taken out in the hall beginning probably Monday. And there will be six proofs furnished with retouching. So if you don't like how you look the first time, you can change it a little. But it will take about a week for the proofs to get back. So we have to do this quickly before we leave here.

So I would like to make this motion: That the Budget Committee be authorized to accept what in their judgment is the best bid if you wish to proceed. If you vote it down, why then I assume you don't wish the pictures to be taken.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that the Budget Committee be authorized to take what they deem to be the better bid.

Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President:

I have the same question about this expenditure as I had about the other one. And if the answer is the same as I had about the other one, then I want to know what the purpose of a budget is in the first place.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Do I have to answer that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anyone answer the question?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Well, the only answer I can give is the same one I had. We are not limited in the amounts that we spend for specific things except the $25 a day and the allowances. We have more than sufficient money to do this. But it seemed to the committee that we ought not to be picky at this stage until we see what our final expenses are. We don't know what things are costing us. For example, we have a budget amount for the Journal. And I would like to say that up to this morning before we started today we spent $6,000 on the Journal. It cost us about $21.40 a page. The cost will probably increase because there will be more roll calls. And as you will notice, you can only get about two roll calls on a page. So the more we talk the more it costs. We don't know whether we will have a surplus or a no-plus in that line. This budget was adopted last April, and we're still learning to live with it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I frankly can't see where any great public service is being served by this kind of an expenditure, and I intend to vote against it.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I feel exactly the same way as Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: You can make it three.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I feel the same way. I don't think we should spend this money for pictures. There must be a better way to spend it.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President:

I would much rather use my high school graduation picture.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the authorization for the expenditure of funds for the purpose of having pictures taken of the delegates to the Convention.

Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Why don't you open the key and let us go home?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the motion. As many as are in favor of adopting the motion will say "aye," those opposed will say "no." The "ayes" have it.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President:

I know the hour is getting late, but I miscounted the days on the time for reconsideration. I've just talked with Chairman Longmire of the Judicial Committee, and it is my intention to move that Committee Proposal 1-11 be reconsidered. As you recall, this is the judicial article. The Minority Report was turned down on Tuesday on a vote of 44-to-50. In the last minutes before the final vote was taken a proposal by Delegate Hill was turned down 46-to-48. It was our thinking at that time that it would be laid over until Wednesday and we would have some time to work on the amendments. However, it was moved to the top of the calendar and was passed before further refinement of Hill's amendment could be worked out. And now I haven't had a chance to talk to all the members of the Judiciary Committee, with the exception of a few, and I just talked with Chairman Longmire, and I think that if we could have this reconsidered that the committee could work out some acceptable amendment to the article. And this would then preclude a move to have this thing submitted to the Ballot Committee as a separate issue. We feel that we could save a lot of time if we could work out a suitable alternative to the Majority Report without having to go through the route of balloting for a separate side issue.

So at this time, Mr. Chairman, I would move that we reconsider our action on Committee Proposal 1-11.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol moves we reconsider our action whereby Committee Proposal No. 1-11 was passed.

Do we have a second?

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Before I would want to vote on that I want to know what the amendment or the proposal is. I wouldn't want to see this opened wide up again to go over everything. If they add a proposal somewhat in line with what we think, I would vote for the reconsideration. But just blindly voting for reconsideration, I couldn't do so.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President:

If the amendment prevails or the motion prevails it would be my thinking that as the Judicial Committee would get together and talk about this, there are two or three possible solutions to the problem as we see it. And I wouldn't attempt to go into all of them now. But it would be my thinking that we would not be opening the thing wide up again at all, we would stick just to this one area. We can't come to agreement in the committee on this one point, that then — we can then recommend that the body pass it as it was initially passed.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I wouldn't oppose the reconsideration. I don't know myself what the amendment is, and I don't know whether I'd be in favor of it or not. But if the Convention wants to reconsider it, our committee will give a new look at it for that one area only.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Unless Delegate Aubol can come out with a concrete statement other than the generalities he has dealt in in the brief moment this afternoon, I am going to ask that we resist his motion for the following reasons: Number one, it has been shown in the past couple of days of deliberation that we were all over the age of twenty-one when we considered Proposal 1-11. We voted on it accordingly. We all knew what we were doing when we voted on it for final passage. And I am certain that we all understood all provisions of this proposal as well as we have understood all of the other provisions of the proposals that we have voted final passage on. And for this reason I would ask that the motion be resisted unless a definite statement limiting the area and scope in which we are to review the issue would be forthcoming. I ask the delegates to keep in mind that we have considered this approximately since April 4, 1971, to present.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further? Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I'm wondering, does this take a two-thirds vote today?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It is my understanding, Delegate Kessel, that it will come back by a vote of 50. Inasmuch as it was passed last Wednesday, it would be Thursday and Friday.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I would add that I certainly don't want to personally, being a member of this committee, preclude them from having another chance at it. But I thought if it took two-thirds today it would only take two-thirds Monday and they would be in a position to show what they had in mind. But if it takes two-thirds then it might make a different story.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I would yield to Delegate Gipp.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: I would tend to consider Delegate Aubol's request very seriously. I know that we have discussed this quite a bit, as much as we could upon the floor. And I know that the committee has been over this again and again. I am on that committee. And I do think that as Mr. — as Delegate Aubol has explained it hopefully that we would be able to resolve the issue and bring it back from Committee back to the floor. This seemed to be what Delegate Aubol indicated. I do think some consideration should be given. I hope that will be given by the floor here. Naturally, I think we leave the thing open again by bringing it back as we would if we do reconsider it. But I think it would be a wise choice.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the motion to reconsider.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President:

Just in reply to Delegate Hartl, actually we are trying to save the Convention some money and the people some agony because we feel that this thing could be settled in a very simple manner. Then we won't have to go through this alternate proposal business and we can take care of this problem of the entry in one easy move.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I think we ought to remove the mystery here for the delegates, too.

As I understand what you wanted to propose, Delegate Aubol, was to work out something whereby you might be able to put two names on the ballot by a nominating commission when there was a place to be filled; is that correct?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. Chairman:

That is one of the ideas that have been advanced. In fact, that was advanced by one of the members of our committee who is not a part of the Minority Report. But there are others that I think we could also consider.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the motion to reconsider. In that it will take at least 50 votes to reconsider, the key will be opened and you will indicate your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call indicates 40 "ayes," 50 "nays," eight delegates absent and not voting. The motion to reconsider has failed.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I understand Committee Proposal 1-72 is now pending somewhere in limbo. Therefore, I move that it be placed at the top of the tenth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-72 you will recall was just recently, just moments ago, reconsidered, be placed at the top of the calendar.

Do I have a second?

DELEGATE DIEHL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Diehl.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal 1-72 is now at the head of the calendar.

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President:

At this time I ask unanimous consent to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-67.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-67?

DELEGATE CART: 2-67.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-67.

DELEGATE CART: I can give you a word of explanation. It was the battle which lost over Section 176.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing no objection, your request is granted.

We'll be on the sixth order of business — Announcements. Are there any at the desk?

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Are we on the eighth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the eighth order.

DELEGATE STANTON: I just have an announcement for all the members of the Legislative Functions Committee, and that is the dinner Sunday night is off for the time being. We will try to get something organized later.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? Hearing none, the Chair will recognize Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: The desk is clear?

Calendar Committee meeting 8:45 A.M. on January — what will that be? — 31st.

I would then now move that we adjourn until 9:00 A.M. January 31st.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved and seconded that we do now adjourn until nine A.M. January 31st. As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. We are adjourned.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 3:25 P.M., Friday, January 28, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Monday, January 31, 1972.)

V O L U M E XXI

(January 31, 1972)

(The twenty-first day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:07 A.M., Monday, January 31, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is The Reverend Norman Anderson, with the Concordia Lutheran Church of Crosby, North Dakota. Reverend Anderson.

REV. NORMAN ANDERSON: Our Gracious God, we know of no better way to begin the work of this week than by resolving to do our best to serve You by seeking to serve the people of our State. Permit these men and women to understand that Your power has never been obstructed by difficulties nor Your love limited by the confusion of human plans. As these delegates bog down, help them to continue to move ahead. It is sometimes painful to decide what to keep of the old, which is also good, and it requires courage to consider and adopt the new and untried. Let no one be afraid of a new idea or unreceptive to a new thought, lest we pull down the shades of our minds and exclude Your light. Help these men and women to express their ideas, to listen to the ideas of others who differ from them, and then also help them to be humble, to think and listen to a third idea — Your idea.

Thank you for reassuring us that You constantly raise up men and women to meet the needs of Your people in every day. We thank You that You did not just reveal Yourself in the past, in 1889. We pray that You will match these people of our State to Your need of them. Help us to learn from that past; help us to anticipate the future for ourselves and for generations to come. And help us, also, to use wisely this present day. In Jesus' name, Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — Roll Call.

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your presence.

Has every delegate indicated his presence? Delegate Litten, I don't believe — is your button lighted?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Yes, it is. Tom Roney is the one you're having trouble with.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will close the key.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roney.

DELEGATE RONEY: I might make the point that I am present.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Roll call indicates there are 95 present and three absent.

Fellow Delegates, over the years I have heard of many people that couldn't make up their mind; but, Delegate Roney, this morning was the first time that I actually saw in print, right out in front of me, where he voted both "yes" and "no."
(Laughter)

We will be on the fourth order of business — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 27th day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

On page 309, line 16, delete the word "prevailed" and insert in lieu thereof the word "failed."

On page 311, line 26, delete the word "read" and insert in lieu thereof "reason".

And when so corrected, recommends the same be approved.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Paulson moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Report of the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

Those in favor will vote "aye" — those in favor of the motion will vote "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report's adopted.

We'll be on the eighth order of business — Communications and Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Montana Constitutional Convention, State Capitol, Helena, Montana.

"The Honorable Frank A. Wenstrom
President, Constitutional Convention
State of North Dakota
State Capitol Building
Bismarck, North Dakota 58501
Dear President Wenstrom:

I received your good letter of January 20th together with a copy of Resolution C adopted by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention. The Resolution was duly read to the Montana Convention and ordered spread upon our journal. Floor discussion developed that the delegates perceived this to be a 'North Dakota Joke.'

We feel that our Convention, which of course is much younger than yours, is off to a good start. We are all enthusiastic and the delegates are approaching the difficult constitutional issues with open minds, but with lots of ammunition and we expect a good fight on many issues.

Many of us have studied your draft Constitution; we would certainly be appreciative of receiving a copy of your final effort and will be interested to observe how much of it remains after full debate. In many areas we feel North Dakota has certainly pioneered.

Again, we thank you for your greetings; we reciprocate with ours and we wish you well in the remaining days of your Convention.

Sincerely,
LEO GRAYBILL, JR.
President"

"MONTANA CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION
1971-1972

RESOLUTION No. 8

"A RESOLUTION SENDING GREETINGS OF THE MONTANA CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION TO THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION OF THE STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA.

"WHEREAS, on July 4, 1889, delegates to Constitutional Conventions met in the great states of Montana and North Dakota to draft constitutions to govern the new states preparing to join the Union, and

"The Constitutional Convention of North Dakota sends greeting, and bids you God-speed in your advance movement towards statehood and full American citizenship. May the four new stars about to be added to the national flag not lose in brilliancy through lack of care in laying the foundations of the states to be. "Leo Graybill, Jr. - President

"John H. Hoole - First Vice President

"Jean M. Bowman - Secretary

"ATTEST:

John Hanson - Chief Clerk"

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further under the eighth order?

We'll be on the fifth order. One more. We'll continue on the eighth order.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Wicks wishes to announce the Junior and Senior grades of the High School of Luverne, North Dakota, and their teachers, Mr. Ellingson and Mr. Grove, are in the gallery.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the pupils that are visiting our Convention this morning please rise and be recognized by the Convention? (Applause)

We'll be on the fifth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A Majority of your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-15 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended; and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Devine, Engstrom, Fritzell, Jestrab, Lander, Larsen, Litten, Meidinger, Sanstead and Sullivan.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moved that the Report of the Majority be adopted.

Mr. President: A Minority of your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-15 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the Majority Report be amended; and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Billey, Christensen, Griffin, Knudson, Peterson and Poulson.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Billey moved that the Report of the Minority be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Minority Report —

DELEGATE BILLEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — that the Report of the Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority. Delegate Billey.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Just a minute. These reports are printed on pages 293, 294 and 295 of your Journal.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Fellow delegates, before I go into a detailed explanation on this Minority Report, I'd like to make a few general comments about education and the writing of a constitution.

Nearly forty states have articles in their constitution dealing with education. These articles usually include a statement setting forth the responsibility of the state to provide a system of public education. You will note that our Committee has followed this pattern in Section 1. This section has the full support of our Committee.

The second part of any education article usually deals with organizational structure, and this is where our Committee has a difference of opinion.

You will recall last week we considered three proposals recommended by the Executive Functions Committee, each of them having a relation to our education section. Our Committee purposely delayed action on our committee reports until after those committee proposals were acted on. They included Committee Proposal 1-91, which repealed the provision in our present Constitution calling for the election of a Superintendent of Public Instruction;

Second, Committee Propostal 1-102, which provides for the election of certain state officials, but did not include the Superintendent of Public Instruction; and Third, Committee Proposal 1-100, which authorizes the organization of our state government into no more than fifteen departments organized along broad functional lines.

During our discussion of the Minority and Majority Reports this morning on Committee Proposal 1-15, I think we should keep two questions in mind:

The first one: Should our new Constitution contain a provision establishing an organizational structure for education?

And, second, if your answer is "yes," then how much structure and how much detail should we provide?

I think now we should look at what our current situation is with respect to organizational structure.

Just to give you a little background: First, we have a constitutional provision for a Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Second, we have a constitutional provision providing for a Board of Higher Education.

Third, we have a Board of Public School Education, created by statute.

Then, fourth, we have a Board of Vocational Education, created by statute, the latter two boards being composed of the same members.

There appears to be quite a variance in the organizational structure of education from state-to-state, and I find a similar difference of opinion seems to exist among the delegates to this Convention.

However, I think we should consider what alternatives do we have in the area of organizational structure, and I mention just a few for your consideration:

First, our new Constitution can be silent in organizational structure. A model state constitution speaks only to the material that we have in our Section 1.

Second, we could adopt a revision of Article 54, dealing only with the Board of Higher Education. This was the approach in our original Committee Proposal 1-15. We would say nothing about the structure for the superintendent of Public Instruction, elementary and secondary education, or vocational education.

Third, we could provide for two constitutional boards; one for public school education, one for higher education, and leave the vocational board controlled by statute. This is the approach in the Majority Report.

Fourth, we could create a single board of education, such as Delegate Hill proposed in his Delegate Proposal 2-22, and similar to the Idaho approach, which I will explain later, and leave the details to be worked out by the Legislature.

Fifth, we could create one board or commission to spell out — and spell out some of the details of organization, which is the Minority Approach.

And, sixth, we could disregard all other states and compose a structure to fit the conditions and attitudes of North Dakota.

With this background, I would now like to begin on the Minority Report.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Peterson first suggested that we should take a long, hard look at education and consider the one-board approach, and I'd like to quote just a little bit from a letter he sent to our Committee, dated July 14th, wherein he states:

"There could be one board of education elected by the people from judicial districts, or on some other regional basis. The board would be responsive to the people and responsible for all education from kindergarten through the university.

"To more effectively and efficiently discharge its responsibilities, the state board of education should be divided into two committees or councils — one for elementary and secondary education, and one for education beyond the high school. Each committee could be empowered to select its executive officers — one a superintendent of elementary and secondary schools, and the other, a chancellor of colleges and universities. The entire board would be in need of an executive officer who would carry a title such as that of Commissioner of Education.

“That board, with its two sub-boards or committees, with their respective boards or executive officers, could meet periodically as individual groups or committees and periodically as one state board of education. The organization of this state board of education should be left to the Legislature and/or the board itself.”

In developing the Minority Proposal, we did not happen to agree with this approach, because we think it is time for North Dakota to strengthen further vocational education as a part of our school system.

Considerable testimony was put into the record by Superintendent Peterson, Commissioner Raschke, and State Director of Vocational Education Carrol Burchinal. You will find this in your Committee minutes, if you want to review it.

If you will now refer to the Minority Report, copies of which have been placed on your desk, and we have just cited the pages in the Journal, and I will explain the various paragraphs.

Paragraph 1 establishes a State Commission of Education. It provides for the Legislative Assembly to determine membership from 15-to-21, the qualifications of the members, their term of office, and the manner of selection, either by appointment or election. Members selected for membership shall be appointed or elected to serve on a particular board.

We felt that we wouldn't want someone interested in higher education to serve on a board for elementary and secondary education, as an example; and, last, members would be removed in the same manner as for Governor.

Paragraph 2 provides for an equal division of that commission into three boards; one, Public Education Board; two, Vocational and Junior College Board; three, University and State College Board.

It also provides for joint committees. Some suggested areas for consideration of joint committees would be public relations with the Legislature, continuing education, and financing of education.

Paragraph 3 provides for the appointment of a Commissioner of Education. He would be the chief educational officer. He would be Executive Secretary to the Commission, head of the State Department of Education, and his term and duties would be prescribed by the Commission.

It also provides for three assistant commissioners. Each would be executive secretary to his board; each would head his branch of the Department of Education and each would be responsible to the Commissioner and his board.

Paragraph 4 charges the Commission with the responsibility for establishing goals, setting standards, and providing planning, coordination and evaluation of educational programs. It also charges each board with the general supervision over its particular area of education; and, third, it allows the Legislative Assembly to require the Commission to perform other educational duties and allows the Legislature authority to increase power of any board at any time.

Paragraph 5 authorizes the Legislative Assembly to assign the responsibility for operation and management of the state educational institutions to the appropriate board. Once the board — once a board receives such an assignment, it has full power and authority to run the institution, control expenditures of funds, and delegate the details of administration to its employees.

The sixth paragraph provides for a combined budget for all educational activities and, second, it requires an appropriation for all educational activities to be in one bill.

The balance of the Minority Report is the same as the Majority Report.

Now, what other steps — what are other states doing with this one-board concept?

During our committee work, we contacted five — New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois and Idaho.

New York, of course, has the Board of Regents — 15 members — and they're elected. The Board of Regents appoints the Commissioner of Education and he serves as the chief educational officer, and in New York we found that a great deal of the authority of the board is vested in this Commissioner of Education.

In Pennsylvania, they have a state board and their state board is divided into a council for basic education, a council for higher education and a committee for vocational education. I have a communication here that the Committee received from the Secretary of the Board, and I'd like to read a couple quotes from the letter.

In the first part, he says: "The powers of the State Board of Education stem from legislation, basically the Act of 1963 that created the Board."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey, I have a request here from a delegate who can't hear you. Would you hold your mike just a little bit closer?

DELEGATE BILLEY: Is this any better?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think it is.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Okay. "The Board is responsible for policy for all of education, kindergarten through graduate school and beyond."

In the latter part, he states: "Within the elementary and secondary school structure, there are this year 516 school districts, each with its own school board, each with its own high school and with as many high schools, junior high schools, intermediate schools and elementary schools as the school districts deem necessary.

"I would certainly recommend to North Dakota a school system whereby all of education, kindergarten through graduate school and beyond, is under the policy direction of one State Board of Education and the administrative supervision of one department of education, which is the Pennsylvania structure."

Next we looked to Michigan, which is a fairly-new state, and it has a rather lengthy section on education; in fact, I, myself, was quite surprised that it was as long as it was, considering that when we write a new constitution, we try and keep it short.

In Michigan, the provision in the constitution called for a State Board of Education, and that board appoints the Superintendent of Public Instruction and he is the chief executive officer. There the board consists of eight members who are nominated and elected, just as they are in New York.

Now, Illinois, which has a constitution that we have looked to for several of our provisions — and I'll read this provision, because it's short.

Section 2 provides for a State Board of Education, and it reads:

"There is created a State Board of Education to be elected or selected on a regional basis. The number of members, their qualifications, terms of office and manner of election or selection shall be provided by law. The board, except as limited by law, may establish goals, determine policies, provide for planning and evaluating education programs and recommend financing. The board shall have such other duties and powers as provided by law.

"The State Board of Education shall appoint a chief educational officer."

We also contacted the State of Illinois, and I have some quotes from the letter from their secretary which may be of interest to you.

"I would respond by saying that our state has not yet had any experience with this type of board. It was an item which was greatly debated in the Education Committee of our Constitutional Convention and has, at least in theory, been left to the Illinois General Assembly to determine whether or not there will be a single board of education for students from kindergarten through graduate school or if the board of education will function only as a board for students in primary and secondary education."

As far as I know, this decision has not been made, and we do not have any great amount of experience from Illinois to use as a guideline. However, the last state I mentioned is Idaho, where they do have a similar constitutional provision in theirs, which reads:

"Board of Education. The general supervision of the state educational institutions and public school system of the state of Idaho, shall be vested in a state board of education, the membership, powers and duties of which shall be prescribed by law. The state superintendent of public instruction shall be ex officio member of said board."

We contacted the State Board and received a reply back, and I would like to read a couple of quotes for some additional information.

"Our board has seven members, appointed for five-year terms by the Governor, subject to approval by the State Senate." So they use the appointment method of selecting members.

Second, "If there is a major weakness to the single board approach, it is that the board is often overwhelmed by the amount of detail to be considered at each meeting. The major offsetting advantage to the single board approach is, of course, that the entire educational effort of the state can be planned and coordinated."

Then, in response to a question about whether he would recommend the Idaho system, his reply is:

"It would seem to me, however, that North Dakota and Idaho share many of the same problems, including our sparsity of population, a number of institutions of higher education which, in the best interest of the state, should articulate well with each other rather than be competitive and, of course, a relatively modest tax base which can be used for the support of public education at all levels."

Now, what type of popular support has there been in the State of North Dakota for this approach?

We had several legislators and individuals testifying in favor of the one-board approach at our hearing and at the special hearings that were conducted throughout the State. Second, the State School Boards Association last fall passed a resolution supporting the one-board idea.

The Governmental Survey Commission, in '41 recommended the creation of one department of education.

The School Administrators conducted a survey, the results of which were just released about the first of the year. The question that they were asked — and 150 were contacted — "Do you favor one over-all State Board of Education, or a continuation of the present set-up?"

94 of the 150, or 63 percent, favored the one-board concept.

And, fourth, and what I consider the most significant support for this idea, came from the weekly newspaper poll last fall. There were eight different weekly newspapers. Each sent out 200 questionnaires and covered the State from Kenmare to Lisbon in eight different areas. Based on the returns of about 500 of these questionnaires, that poll showed 49.1 percent in favor of the one-board concept, 38.7 percent against, 12.2 percent undecided. I believe this shows public sentiment favors this approach. People are unable to understand why we must maintain three separate boards and three separate departments for our educational system.

Now, I would like to close by pointing out some of the major differences between the Minority and Majority Reports.

First, the Minority Report provides flexibility in selecting commission members. The people may want to appoint them now, but at some date in the future they may want to elect them.

The Majority Report requires appointment.

Second, the Minority Report divides the commission into three boards — three distinct areas of education. The Majority Report divides the areas of education into two constitutional boards and leaves vocational education statutory. The question that I would raise: How long before the Legislature would place vocational education under one of the constitutional boards?

Third, the Minority Report creates a single department, with one executive officer and three major assistants — a team for better leadership in education. The Majority Report continues three separate departments. How will this fit into the new executive structure requiring only 15 departments?

Fourth, the Minority Report provides a commission for planning and coordination. The Majority Report continues three separate boards with no real requirement to work together.

Fifth, the Minority Report gives the Legislative Assembly flexibility in assigning responsibility for operation and management of institutions. A vocational education board, we believe, should have this responsibility at institutions where a majority of vocational education courses are taught.

The Majority Report gives the Board of Higher Education power to operate institutions of higher learning.

Sixth, the Minority Report requires one combined budget and one appropriations bill for all educational activities. The Majority Report keeps budgets and appropriations for three departments separately.

This concludes the explanation of the Minority Report, and I would yield the floor to the Majority for their explanation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any further discussion?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, members of the Assembly:

I would certainly like to thank Delegate Billey on behalf of the Majority signers — the Majority Report — ten of us in number — for what I think was an excellent and a clear explanation and, also, I take the use of this time to delineate some of the hours of the Committee's discussion and deliberation.

Certainly our Committee looked upon this as its prime purpose and gave this report its most extensive time and the most extensive consideration of any of them that came before us. And more than that, I think we would want to say on the Majority that surely no one on that committee knows more about the single-board concept, although we rejected it, then Delegate Billey, and we would like that in the record, because we know of his hard work and of his great concern and of his devotion to that principle which he has just given us.

Now, we are going to divide our report as a Majority into several presentations, and I would simply like to again address myself to the similarities and differences between these two reports, and you do have the two-page handout sheets entitled "Reports of Substantive Committees," and the Majority Report, and, besides, the Journal, on page 293, would follow it, and I hope that the members will follow in those reports. I notice a couple members of the committees looking at Proposal 1-15 in their proposal book. That is not the document which, of course, is under discussion between the Majority and the Minority here today. The similarities are, of course, that we are dealing with public education and that preamble section, Section No. 1, is the same in both reports; so, in effect, we're talking about what remains, rather than the preamble section.

And a major difference is, of course, the creation of what was called in the Minority Report the State Commission of Education, with not less than 15 members and not more than 21 members, which we feel was an unwieldy, a large and oversized, exclusive board of education, and termed by educators the "umbrella board" — the big "umbrella board" that sits over the whole process of education, and we in the Majority rejected that overall, large, exclusive and, in our view, unwieldy board.

Now, Delegate Billey's proposal in the Minority Report does divide that large number of people into three groups — a group concerned with public school education, a group concerned with vocational education, and a group concerned with the Board of Higher — the current Board of Higher Education, the old Article 54 of our Constitution, and we do recognize that division and, as he pointed out, this is a distinct and separate break-up of the large group into smaller groups.

Now, at the same time, I think you will find that there's an inherent danger in that process, and that danger is that each of these separate boards within the large board become, in effect, special-interest pleaders — special-interest pleaders for their cause, for their particular part of education which they're serving, and we don't think that's advisable. We would rather have the separateness which is provided for with two boards in the Majority Report.

Secondly, we were concerned with another consideration, and that was that there should be equal status for the Board of Higher Education as it now is existing in the Constitution, for public school education. So, if you look at the Majority Report, you will find a separate Section 2, which creates a state board of public education which shall supervise a uniform system of elementary and secondary public education, and that's our difference, because our Section 1 and their Section 1 are the same.

Our Section 2 of the Majority says, "There shall be a state board of public education." That board, incidentally, is now created and existing in North Dakota statutes. However, we believe it should be in a constitutional provision.

So that's our program in Section 2. Beyond that, Mr. President, and members of the Assembly, I think we want more influence for elementary and secondary education. If there was one consensus of the Majority in that Committee, it was that we need more influence for elementary and secondary education, and that can be done by establishing our Majority Report, Section 2, a public school education board, and that board, in effect, then, would, as has been pointed out by Delegate Billey, take the place of the appointment — with the appointment of an administrative officer to be designated by title by them, and whose duties shall be defined by them for that individual.

Our second — our third concern was to maintain the control of education at the local level, and I think here the Minority has a particular problem with their proposal, because I think, in creating an over-all, inclusive, encompassing board, they have had to give that board the power to run all types of educational institutions and operations in the State of North Dakota. If you look at that Minority Report, the first sentence on page 2 says, "The commission shall establish goals, set standards, and provide planning, coordination and evaluation of educational programs." And I think there are people at the local level who would be very disturbed at that kind of suggestion coming to them from an over-inclusive, all-encompassing board.

At this time, Mr. President, I would yield the floor to a second presenter for the Majority — Delegate Engstrom. Delegate Engstrom.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Engstrom.

DELEGATE ENGSTROM: Mr. President, fellow delegates:

Our Committee spent a great deal of time in preparing these reports. Delegate Billey referred to messages to our Committee from the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and these came early in the months of our meetings as the Committee.

I would like to refer now to — for a moment to our November report, in which the Superintendent of Public Instruction apparently has had some change of heart, because he now questions why it is necessary to change the educational system at all, and, in effect, says that he would prefer that the present system be left as it is. The Director of Vocational Education was also present at our November meeting and he favored maintenance of the present system, and the Commissioner of Higher Education stated, too, that we should stick with the present system. He felt that creating an umbrella board would give no assurance that public education would receive more support from the Legislature than it does at the present time.

There has been some concern expressed as to whether or not there would be cooperation between these two boards as presented in the Majority Report. All three of the directors in the areas of education today admitted to us that they — there is excellent coordination at the present time, even though there is no single board. There has been no difficulty in coordinating the vocational education, public education and higher education. I feel that these areas would still be well-coordinated under a two-board system as presented in the Majority Report. I think this will largely be achieved by the interest and dedication of those persons who are on such a board.

The main differences between the Majority Report and the Minority Report are in the functions of the board as they relate to their areas. The Board of Higher Education, as noted, would supervise, operate and control state institutions of higher learning. The Board of Public Education would offer direction, support and supervise public instruction. This would retain the autonomy of the local school boards.

President Nixon, in his Message to Congress a week ago, alluded to this when he was speaking of federal aid to education. If you will remember, he stated that as federal aid to education is granted, one thing that must be definitely preserved is the autonomy of the local school board. This the two-board proposal of the Majority Report does.

I would request your support for the Majority Report.
Thank you.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President and fellow delegates:

The Minority Report, at first glance, does have appeal for those looking only at theory. It looks good. But after months of study and testimony, as has been said, it was rejected by our Committee.

The basic question is: Why should there be a fundamental change now?

One delegate testified before our Committee that the record of the Board of Higher Education had been too successful. I wonder, can a board ever be too successful? I think the point was that this might rub off on other areas of education; but, again, it probably would not when used in a different context.

One big area of concern in the Minority Report is the statement that the Legislature may assign — or, if you please — “reassign” the management of a state educational institution to the appropriate board or committee at any time. This could be a shuffleboard type of operation, where institutions would pass from one side of administration to another at any time. People serving on an umbrella board would also have a full-time job keeping informed on all areas of education. The business of just higher education takes a lot of time. Consider then adding the vocational education for both secondary and post-secondary and, also, for continuing education, as well as adding the whole gamut of problems from kindergarten to high school with problems we know now and those we could not even visualize as being in existence, ten, twenty, thirty years from now. Other states having one umbrella board, of course, do not have comparative situations to North Dakota’s educational system.

Other problems to consider in this Minority Report are, of course, as has been mentioned, the local government of elementary and secondary education — a principle very dear to local communities. Also, would we want over half of our State’s budget to be under the control of one group of people?

The purpose of constitutional authority for higher education is clear: It is used to put the management and control of the State aggregate institutions beyond the dangers of vacillating policy and bipartisan ambition, and that would become a possibility in the Minority Report. It is vital that higher education remain as a constitutional board, as the people dictated, when you put Article 54 in the Constitution. We all want continuing good education for all levels of all people — the best possible education for North Dakota. Extreme caution should be exercised by the delegates before something happens here that causes a loss of autonomy of local school boards, as well as a reduction of the constitutional power for a strong, independent Board of Higher Education, a board which can continue to be free of political interference, and to go to something untried, when we know the situation existing is good and effective. I urge a “nay” vote on the Minority Report, and I yield to Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: I’m sorry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten, I believe you asked for the floor.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Well, Mr. President and fellow delegates, I didn’t mean to get myself interjected here, but I would like to make one or two very brief comments.

I believe almost everything that needs to be said has already been said; but there are two or three salient points that I would like to direct the attention of the delegates to.

In the first place, I submit to you ladies and gentlemen that we are talking about one of the most important parts of North Dakota’s Constitution. We’re talking about the quality of education on the one hand, and whether we like it or not, indirectly we have to consider that there are a lot of dollars that go into that quality educational system, and Delegate Jestrab just made mention of the fact that over half of the money appropriated from the General Fund of the State of North Dakota goes into education of one kind or another. This is true.

Delegate Billey a moment ago invited us to take a look at the current situation, and I believe that this is a good invitation. I, likewise, invite the delegates to take a closer look at the current situation. There’s no question but what North Dakota has a superb educational system insofar as higher education is concerned. There could be no quarrel with that statement.

I further submit to you ladies and gentlemen that North Dakota likewise has an elementary and secondary system that has made great progress in recent years under the system that we have been operating for — under. My own conclusion is that, if we were to try to mix the ingredients of all of the various components and parts of elementary, secondary, vocational, special and higher education under one large, unmanageable board, divided into three or more — in this particular instance, three sub-committees — that we conceivably could have more or less a chaotic and probably a divisive development. Without doubt, the range and the magnitude and the scope of education in North Dakota is so great that I can't conceive that one board, which is the Minority Report, could get this job done as expertly and as efficiently as it has in the years gone by.

I urge that we do not adopt the Minority Report, and I hope that you will cast a red vote against it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: I'll waive, Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I'd like to speak briefly for the Minority Report. I think some of the speakers for the Majority Report have found threats in the Minority Report which do not really exist. Several people have mentioned that it would tend to take away local autonomy and local control. I would like to remind you that local school boards are creations of the State Legislature. Education is a state responsibility. The State has long ago delegated certain responsibilities to local boards. I do not feel that the Minority Report changes that at all. I suppose it's quite likely that we will continue to gravitate toward more state control as more of the financing comes from the State. This is something which is going to happen — something which is happening. More and more of the financing of elementary and secondary schools will come from the State, and this is one of the main reasons I am for this Minority Report.

I suppose everyone here knows that this is mostly Delegate Billey's proposal. It's been labeled as the "Billey Proposal" in the papers — in the news media ever since early summer, when it first came up. I got on this Minority bandwagon mainly because of the combined budget feature, which you find on page 2. I have been in the Legislature the past three sessions. I have seen the way educational financing is handled. The budget for the Board of Higher Education comes in as the first bill — House Bill 1,000, or Senate Bill 1,000 — or 2,001, in the alternate sessions. The respective appropriations committees go through the bill with a fine-tooth comb, and its final form is reached quite early. The financing for elementary and secondary education through the foundation program in the three sessions I have been present in this Legislature has been the last thing to be settled. It always ends up with a knock-down-drag-out conference committee fight over a relatively few dollars. I would like to see this whole thing coordinated, and I think it can be coordinated with this type of structure. The Legislature should not have all these battles brought to it. This should be more or less settled in one budget bill which should be presented to the Governor and the Legislative Assembly by the Commission. This should be settled within this Commission. This Commission, incidentally, would be very little larger than the two boards proposed by the Majority. As far as numbers go, there isn't very much difference. But there would be coordination and they would have to settle things between themselves, instead of coming to a Legislature and fighting in front of the appropriations committees.

The question was asked why a fundamental change now when the whole thing has been working so good? Well, I submit this is the time to make a fundamental change. This is when we are considering such things. It was mentioned that over half of the State's budget — half of the money appropriated from the General Fund — is spent for education. Why should this be handled by this small group? I'd like to point out that a budget of approximately the same size as the one spent for education is not handled very directly by the Legislature — the budget for the highway system is under the administration of one person — the Commissioner of Highways. So I don't think that argument carries too much weight.

Several different people in the field of education have come in and spoken to us along the line of "stick with the present system." I wonder if they don't feel a certain amount of threat to their present status in these various proposals. We've — our Committee — has considered many different angles. We've argued over many different ways of setting up a structure for education, and we finally come in here with this final argument which we could not settle in Committee, and along the way different people have found different types of threats in what we were doing.

I'd like to refer, again, to the threat to local control. I think that's more or less of a boogie man that doesn't really exist in either one of these two proposals. No one wants to take away control from the local school boards.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman, Fellow Delegates:

I speak — I speak for the Minority Report for a number of reasons. Perhaps the word "minority" is perhaps a misnomer, inasmuch as the public, when polled, has shown an intense interest in the approach to education. North Dakota has made great strides in school consolidation since the inception of the reorganization laws, and we have a small enough number of districts in this State to make the single-board approach far more acceptable than it would have been 15 or 20 years ago.

One of the features of a single board that appeals to me is perhaps the frustration you have experienced, as well as I have, when you want to find out just briefly who's in charge here, and after you have opened many doors, you still haven't found out. Under the single-board concept, the responsibility for all education in North Dakota is laid at the doorstep of one commission or one department — the buck stops there. And sometimes it's well to know where it stops.

Granted, we have gotten along in education and gotten along very well in the State of North Dakota, and I am in complete accord with the Majority, as I think our entire Committee is, particularly in the field of a constitutional board in higher education. A splendid job has been done. In fact, that's sort of been my guiding light — the accomplishments of that Board — and we'd like to transfer that conception to a single board. I see no threat to the local school boards. I'm sure many of you come from a small school district, like I do, and nobody threatens a local school board.

In closing, I would say, simply, that this is a new approach. It's an on-going approach. It's looking out on the other side of the hill. One of the ultimate achievements of this approach will be an opportunity for a board to look at all education, to coordinate all education, and whether a person adopts the present philosophy that we have in the State of North Dakota — I mean by that the way we're operating now — the Majority Report or this Minority Report, the ultimate goal of all of this is better education for all of our youngsters; and somehow I believe in this, and I am of the opinion, and I am quite strong in my belief, that one board dedicated to all education in the long run will pay bigger dividends to the true benefactors — your kids and mine. I urge your support of the Minority Report.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Jim Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes, Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I find that I'm rather sympathetic to the Report of the Majority, but there is one thing that does concern me. It seems that the Minority Report has spoken quite specifically to the problem of vocational education; but I can't find too much in the Majority Report on vocational education. Could one of the Majority members of this Report answer this question, please?

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes. I'm happy that that question was asked, because I was going to talk on that; and as far as I'm concerned, it wasn't a placed question either. I think it was an honest one.

Okay. I was, however, unhappy that all the other Minority and Majority Reports got the TV cameras out. I didn't know whether to have my makeup on this morning, but I see it's just as well I didn't, because we didn't make it. (Laughter)

But I think that, because this matter of vocational education is of concern, I'm happy to speak on that. This, as you know, has been an area which has been long ignored in our country and in recent years it has become an extremely hot subject, especially as far as federal financing is concerned.

The Minority Report freezes vocational education into one of the groups. We contend, as members of the Majority Report, that the interest of the students in vocational courses at all levels — and don't forget that vocational courses are rarely, if ever, the entire education of any one particular child at one time — they are much better served by creating constitutionally, as we are suggesting, the two boards which are based on levels of education. The Legislature can then, as they do now, by statute, provide for how vocational education can be handled from time to time. It is in a state of flux, but we must not forget that vocational education is a kind of education such as education in law or English or anything else. It is not a particular and distinct level of education. And thus we believe that the vocational education interests of all students can best be served by the adoption of the Majority Reports.

Then, fellow delegates, I would like to make one other comment, and that relates to the financing of education. I have not been in the Legislature, but I have been before the legislative committees for several years, seeking moneys for elementary and secondary education. That isn't an easy job; but, in fairness to the Legislature, we must realize that one of the reasons that it isn't an easy job is that we, on the local school district level, are not equal and we don't have the same — we do not have the same approach to the Legislature. In other words, some of us have more assets behind us, some of us have more kids, some of us have more land. We have as many arguments between school boards as we have from the school boards as a whole in the Legislature, which is one more reason and, I think — I feel very frustrated today with those of you who may have had this idea in your mind the first time today. It's a tremendous first-blush idea, because it sounds great — one board, one deal, one control, save money, great things! You study it as we have done for the last six months, and we would like to do it — I know many of us personally would think it's a great idea; but as we've looked and looked and looked, almost everybody, which includes all these people who have come before us and said, "Yes, I like one board," so we begin asking a few questions about how it would work, and no one ever gave us a satisfactory answer as to how it would work. It's a beautiful thing on a piece of paper; but that's it.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Haugen — Donnell.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, there is considerable concern among people who are interested in vocational education over the wording of the Majority Report, and I have been questioned over the week-end on two words that appear in the Majority Report. If you will look at the first line of page 2 of your printed Proposal, you will see that the wording is "supervise, operate and control" state-operated institutions of higher learning. In the mimeographed report of the Majority, which is the first — this is the first paragraph in Section 3, you will see that that is now worded "supervise, operate and control programs and state institutions of higher learning." In other words, the words "programs and" have been added to this report.

Now, vocational education, in my opinion, is an extremely important subject. It's so important that it should not be neglected or at least some specific understanding should be given on whatever we do about education. Some delegate in his explanation said there's considerable money available, and especially for vocational education, and that money is available through a state board of vocational education, which is now established by law. There are people who are interested in and concerned about the vocational educational program who feel that the insertion of these two words "programs and" may delete from their control the vocational education programs in the State.

I have not yet heard from a member of the Committee a discussion as to why those words are there. I would appreciate an explanation, and I might ask if I could be permitted then a short discussion afterwards, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President.

Delegate Haugen, those two words took up a great deal of the Committee's time, and our intention with those words was to speak to the future, so that we would not strictly structure in the institutions of higher learning today. There were a number of things that crossed our minds, and certainly we are still open to suggestions as to what those words might be. We were thinking that, for instance, we had hearings in which we were told that the junior colleges were coming in for more and more state funds and that perhaps at some time they would be under state control. These two words speak to that. Also, in the future of education, we know that great changes will perhaps be coming at a faster rate than they have, and we were speaking, then, to continuing programs of education, extension, and other forms of post-secondary education which may come to us which are not now on the scene. We are open to suggestions as to what better wording there could be, but we have spent a great deal of time on those words in the Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, did that answer your question?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Well, yes, Mr. President, but it also points up the feeling of insecurity of the people who are in control of the — who supervise the vocational education program of inserting these words. Chairman Meidinger said it was their hope or the expectation of the Committee that some day the junior colleges may come under the supervision of the Board of Higher Education. Now, the feeling of the vocational education people in the State is that prior to the establishment of a vocational education board, which is also the Public School Education — or Public School Board, that there was not the interest that there should have been among the higher educational institutions in vocational education, and it took another board and another type of control to bring our vocational education program to where it is today, and we don't want to see this growth endangered, and I would very much prefer that these words were not in — were not in; and if they are to be left in, then my feeling is that I would want to support the Minority Report, which gives equal force in the large committee to vocational education in junior colleges.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, just a slight correction to what Mr. Haugen said. It was not the Committee's hope that the junior colleges would be under state control, but a possibility that they might be in the future.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

I would like to respond in part to Delegate Haugen's question, and I spoke to him personally about this.

If the Minority Report is defeated and the Majority Report comes before the Committee — excuse me — before the Convention, I suspect that there may be a couple minor amendments to the Majority Report. One of them may address itself to the question that was raised as to the — by Delegate Haugen. The other one relates to whether the Legislature should be able to appoint — decide whether the Board of Public Education should be appointed or elected. So I would hope that this one word does not take away from the entire Majority Report, because there will be a little further action on the Majority Report.

Mr. President, if I may speak on another subject —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may.

DELEGATE DEVINE: One further point there:

Delegate Billey pointed out, fairly, that the Majority Report does not intend to change the role of the three separate boards that we have now. The vocational education is a separate board. It's a creature of statute. Their department head requested that it remain so. We did not see a reason for a constitutional mandate for it, and so it is the Majority of the Committee's Report not to touch their position at this time.

I had one other question raised by a note passed to me by another delegate. He said, "Do you see any budgetary advantage in the Minority Report?" I would like to address myself to this, and it is to the contrary. I see an inherent danger in the Minority Report. They're asking for one appropriation, and say the Legislature — this battle that they have every two years — presuming this this battle is going to be resolved by this board. Now, here's the danger: We're proposing three boards of equal size, and these people are supposed to resolve these conflicts; but there's no guarantee that these boards are going to be — represent three equal thoughts or separation of thoughts. The immediate reaction is — and I'm not going to quote you any particular person — but the immediate reaction is three separate boards. Fine. We'll submit a couple of our members to this other board and we'll get our day in court that we haven't had for so many years. So we may find a 15 or 21-member board that may have 10, 12 or X number of members representing one particular area of education, irregardless of what board they may serve on. So we're suggesting or injecting politics into the makeup of these boards. I don't think it is elected or appointed to represent a particular area of education. And so this battle is going to be fought before the boards and I don't think it should be fought there; I think this is a proper area for the Legislature to address itself — as to what the respective appropriations would be between these three areas of education. I would hate to see this decided by a 21-member board, particularly if they have twice-every-year terms. I don't think, like I say, if they're appointed or elected, you're going to remove it from the control of the people as far as appropriations, and I feel it's very important that the Legislature make the basic decision as to the division of the funds between these three areas of education.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Would Delegate Jestrab yield to a question?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Delegate Jestrab, you have been a member of the Board of Higher Education for quite a number of years. Could you tell me approximately the time involved in that particular position, so far as you are concerned?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Well, I am not a member of the Board now. I have not been for the last year-and-a-half, two years. I was on for sixteen years, and maybe I'm just slower, but it took me a lot of time — there's a three-day meeting every month, occasionally an extra meeting; there's a board meeting of the Committee — the Institutional Committee — to which you're assigned, at least once every month, I think; we went to one of the institutions as a three-member group to confer on building or finance, or something, and I had volumes of reading material. I think I must have spent close to a week every month on the work that I did; but, as I say, maybe I was slower, and I don't ever intend to be on a board of any kind of education again. I enjoyed serving; it cost me — I just, also — may I? I received a note from somebody here that said, "What is the amount of salary and expense for present Board members?" It cost me a lot of money to serve, because at the time I first served, I received seven dollars per diem — seven dollars for expenses — and my babysitter cost seven dollars a day. It cost me money to serve, but I'm glad I did.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Thank you. Might I now address a question to Delegate Billey?

DELEGATE BILLEY: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Delegate Billey, if it takes approximately a week each month for one member on the Board, and you now coordinate all of this under a board of 15-to-21, would it be your intent that you create a full-time board on a full-time salary, or would you hope that you could find individuals that would serve on all of these boards and put in practically a full-time?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Mr. President.

Delegate Kessel and fellow delegates:

I would not envision that this would be a full-time professional board. I think the citizen representation could be continued and would envision probably maybe a three — three-day meeting to do the board's work and maybe a one-day gathering at the same time every other months for the full state board. But as far as the amount of work is concerned, I think that just depends on how you organize your work and how well you delegate details of administration to your executive officials.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President, on the Majority Report, on the second page, the fifth line down, in the last sentence it says, "The legislative assembly shall not reduce appropriations by the amount of any gift."

This, I think, is a good recommendation, because some institutions have been very fortunate over the years in receiving very substantial gifts. I don't find this in the Minority Report, and I'm wondering why it is left out or if it is covered in something I missed. Could someone in the Minority Report find that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Delegate Unruh and Fellow Delegates:

I think it was probably left out as an oversight, and if the Convention would want to include it, it could be included when the amendments are considered. It doesn't really have any effect on the basic differences between the two reports.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President, I'd like to address a question to Mr. Devine, if I may.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Devine yield?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may direct your question.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: At this point I would have to support the Minority Report, unless you're going to explain to the Convention what the amendments are that are going to take care of the vocational interests.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

Delegate Thompson, it's difficult for me to say what the amendments are going to be, because the intent was to go back to the Committee, irregardless of what happened with the Minority or Majority. The concern with vocational people appears to revolve around this word "program" that was included in the Board of Higher Education, and it would be our intent to clarify it to show, and of course by statements on the records, that we do not intend that they take over vocational education simply because this word "program" is in there.

Now, I don't know if that answers your question as to vocational education. I think it was clear — or I hope it was clear — that we intentionally remained silent as to vocational education for about three reasons; one, this was their request; number two, it is a creature of statute. Now, there's nothing in the Constitution, of course about it, and we thought that this would provide the flexibility that they need in years to come.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson, please.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President. I feel somewhat qualified to speak on this subject, although I was not a member of the Education Committee.

As you read from my report in the news about all of this — in my little book — I did attend the University two years ago. My area was counseling and guidance and student personnel work, and quite a bit of study about higher education and the public education. The area that I became most interested in was vocational education, and we had a number of months study in a couple courses in this area and, as I look at this Minority Report, which separates vocational study in the junior colleges, I feel it is a big step backwards. In vocational education, we have to start early. We have to start in the primary grades. It is not a separate area of study unto itself. It is not an area that we can start studying after we're in high school. The past years in the educational field the stereotype or the idea that we have given to our students is "You've got to go to higher education. There's no hope for you unless you go on with your education." We're all suffering from this now. We see these educated students that cannot get work and we see the need for skilled workers. But we have to change this idea way back in the primary grades. We have to give a certain pride in growing up to be a skilled worker. We have to introduce this idea into our elementary education. We have to change our textbooks so everyone doesn't grow up to be a doctor or a lawyer. We've got to put pride in this and we've got to do it early. We cannot take it and make it a separate — a separate educational field that you're going to start after they graduate from high school. Likewise, with your junior colleges, they have more of a relation with higher education. There's a continuity. You start studying in junior college and perhaps — and often usually you go on to higher education. So this cannot be taken apart from the higher educational field. This absolutely, as I say, would be a big step backwards as far as our continuing educational process is concerned.

It distresses me very much, although I know finances are important, but I look to the individual, first, and then let's find out how to finance education. But this separation would not be good for the individual student, for your children and my grandchildren and children that are to come afterwards. It's really — it's against all that I have learned as far as the vocational education of the individual.

Just one other remark I have to make as I refer back to my recent education, and you find out as you go through college in your early forties, and you listen a lot more and you get rather enthused about this. We had a course on research — methods of research — and when a delegate stands up and tells me about their questionnaire or about the poll that they took, I have absolutely no faith in that. I learned that a questionnaire or a poll can often be how good were you at designing this poll to get the results you wanted, to get the responses you wanted. It might just prove to us that that particular delegate or those particular individuals fashioned a damn good questionnaire which would get the answers they wanted and not prove a thing as far as what people think.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: I would like to direct a question to Delegate Devine.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Delegate Devine yield?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Delegate Devine yields.

DELEGATE BURKE: You mentioned, Delegate Devine, that there were three boards -- that there are presently three boards, but in checking the law, I find that the State Board of Public Education shall also be the State Board of Vocational Education; so, at the present time, they're not a separate state board of vocational education.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I don't know if that requires a response. The statement is true. Actually, there are more than three boards. There's a couple other boards that are mentioned in this, too. But we addressed it as three separate boards. There are three separate boards, even though the same people make up some of them, and this can be changed in years to come. What we tried to do was maintain the concept that there were three areas of education at this time and we did not intend to disturb them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I thought I was getting my morning exercise for awhile
(Laughter)

I am a member of the Minority Report, and I do want to say that in Committee we worked very hard on the Majority Report, and I find no fault with it; it's very good. However, I think Jim Billey has an edge on — as regards the three-committee concept that he has, and I want to remind you this is not an umbrella board that he is proposing, and some of the others — I've jotted down answers here — the Committee — the whole Committee wants to improve the education system in North Dakota. I'm sure they all agree on that. We all do. And we are not complaining particularly about the status quo, but we do think, when we write a constitution, if there's any area in which we can improve it, this is what our responsibility is.

Now, another point mentioned was about special-interest pleaders going to the Legislature, and I'm wondering who really speaks for the secondary, the elementary and the vocational, and they mentioned vocational education. We do want to strengthen vocational education, and you will notice in the Majority Report vocational education is mentioned — the two words — where, in the other one, it is spelled out as a committee, and we felt that it should be on equal status, because it is getting — becoming increasingly important.

And one comment was that in Committee people had mentioned — had discussed the needs of better education in North Dakota. There is one thing they all said. They said we need something better. They didn't know what, but we need something better. Now, this was a mandate to our Committee to come up with something better, and in both our reports, we tried very hard to come up with something better and, hopefully, we do have something here for you.

Then there's one other point that talked about the number of people involved in committees here and there, and I was quite appalled to know — to hear that there are now 81 employees for secondary and elementary education. That's a lot of people, and that doesn't include all of the boards, and so forth. So, possibly, by getting a different system, whereby there's a little better distribution, we might be able to equalize that number.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President, just one brief statement.

I share Delegate Donnell Haugen's concern about this wording on controlled programs, and I hope the Majority Report, when it becomes adopted, that somehow that can be amended.

But I do have one brief question to anyone on the Majority Report, and that is I see you say the Board of Public School Education "shall appoint an executive officer whose term and duties shall be prescribed by the board," and it is not mentioned as far as the Board of Higher Education is concerned. Is there a particular reason for that? Not the State Board of Higher Education. Is that right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I believe, if I'm correct, on the second page, at the very last sentence of the Board of Higher Education, "the board shall appoint an executive officer whose term and duties shall be prescribed by the board."

At least we tried to make them comparable. Is that all right?

DELEGATE CHASE: Okay.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President and members of the Convention:

Just a brief statement that in the last two sessions of the Legislature there have been some tremendous fights for getting more money for vocational education. So I share this concern that Delegate Thompson and others have about vocational education. But I do think that this can be remedied, and I do think that the Majority Report, with the two boards, could lend this strength, because the one board could — the one board on primary and secondary education could do what vocational education needs. I'm thinking of all the counselors that we send out to the different schools by the institutions of higher education and have been counseling youngsters and — you know, for higher education, rather than vocational education, and this — there have been some tremendous strides made in North Dakota in this area and, as has been mentioned, in this area there are federal funds available and there is a need to continue this improvement in vocational education, and I do agree strongly with the Majority Report, with the two boards, and not diluted down to the three-board level.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: I may have a little different concern than that which has been presented so far, and that is in regard to the Majority Report wherein we say that "No money raised for support of public schools of the state shall be appropriated to or used for support of any sectarian school." And I agree with that in basic principle. I am, however, concerned by the number of children that are in any community where they are probably left without much support from anyone and that are those that require a special type of education, be that because of a physical disability or because of mental retardation.

Now, I don't know what is available probably to some of these youngsters, but I do know that they ought to have the support of someone, and I'm wondering why, or perhaps — perhaps some member of the Committee could tell me that if a school district is unable to provide the kind of services that a particular youngster might need, is it not possible for that school district, from a more economical point of view, to buy that service from someone, regardless of whether that happens to be a sectarian type of training or not? I think that — to me, it would seem to be good economics in some of the small districts, where it isn't possible, probably, to give the type of services to one particular child or several — maybe two or three — that it would be much more economical and a better business to perhaps buy this service, no matter where it might be available, and I'd like to address that to some member of the Committee, because I think it is an important thing for many retarded and probably physically-disabled children in our state.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kundson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President, if I may have permission to speak again.

I should point out to Delegate Urdahl, and possibly others, that Section 1 is part of both reports. The Committee is united on Section 1. The third paragraph of Section 1, to which Delegate Urdahl refers, comes from our Present Constitution. The first sentence: "Schools and institutions so established shall be free from sectarian control." It is required in almost that exact wording by our Enabling Act, and the second sentence, "No money raised for support of public schools of the state shall be appropriated to or used for support of any sectarian school," is the language of our present Constitution. We considered at one of our early meetings — we considered a revised version of that sentence, which we thought actually said the same thing. This was regarded as a threat by some interests in the State, and they requested very strongly that we return to the original language.

Now, I didn't really speak to the point of Delegate Urdahl's concern at all, but I thought I should point out that Section 1 is a part of both reports.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, I think we've drifted off the question before the Convention slightly. It has been good discussion. However, I think we better get back on the main question — that of substituting the Minority Report for that of the Majority.

Delegate Sullivan.

DELEGATE SULLIVAN: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

I rise to support the position of the Majority and urge a "nay" vote on the Minority Report.

I'm very concerned with the attempt of the Minority to place three or four kinds of education under one umbrella board. The magic figure of 51.9 years of age has been mentioned on this board several times. I would like to address my remarks to those under 51.9 years of age. We should discuss how Article 54 happens to be in our Constitution. History has a bad habit of repeating itself, and in this case we should make sure that it doesn't do it again. It was on July 29, 1937, that the Langer Board of Administration dismissed seven veteran staff members at the North Dakota Agricultural College in Fargo. The college was promptly dropped from the North Central Association of Accreditation. It was after this that a group of concerned citizens circulated petitions for what we now know as Article 54. The people of this State passed it on June 28, 1938, with a 93,156 vote to 71,448.

Again, in 1968, the constitutional revisionists decided to take another crack at the State Board of Higher Education. In this measure they said that the Board should act in accordance with the law. The people voted this down by a 35,000 majority. I'm sure that the folks out over the State do not want us meddling with this tried and true State Board of Higher Education. Folks who have attended the National Association of Governing Boards meeting tell me that every other state and every other board is jealous of Article 54. It is second to none, and they all wish that they had it to operate under. It has stood the test of time. We have operated successfully under it since 1939, and I urge a "nay" vote on the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Larsen.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Well, Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

We've heard discussions on both the Minority and Majority Reports. I think we've covered the area very well. But all I wish to say is that I find myself in support of the Majority Report. I feel that the welfare of our young people — our high school students — are very much at hand, and I'm very concerned about this because too often in my years as a schoolteacher — I worked in the elementary and secondary fields — I feel that we must maintain a strong local school board and a local school system, and I believe that the Majority Report will enable us to have this strong support. Because of this small community feeling of mine, I believe that the local school boards should control the local elective boards and run their own schools.

I urge you to vote against the adoption of the Minority Report.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, the arguments on both sides of the question have been excellent, and it's too bad that we don't all have the option that Delegate Roney has of voting "yes" and "no" at the same time. (Laughter)

But Mrs. Jestrab was asked a question, as a former member of the Board of Higher Education, and I know that there are some other Higher Education Board members here, and I was just — I was wondering if they'd be willing to give us their views on the two reports. Perhaps Delegate Sinner or Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I stayed out of the discussion because, as I think Delegate Knudson pointed out, rightly, I am too involved. I can only say that the success or failure of education depends largely on not the Board so much, I think, as the professional personnel involved, and it would be, you know, sheer hypocrisy to not point out that Mr. Burchinal and Ken Raschke are extremely capable people who want to work together, aren't trying to build kingdoms, and who are trying to work for the good of education.

We have a difficult situation in North Dakota. We're losing population and our situation is difficult by comparison with most states; and yet our State, while it contributes almost more per citizen to education than any state in the Nation, has retained one of the lowest per-student costs of any state in the Nation; and, again, I have to say that the success or failure doesn't depend so much on the Board as it does on the people that those boards hire.

The situation of vocational education is largely created by federal law. Federal law now requires an identification of vocational education alone, and I suspect that it is very subject to change, and I think that to not mold in a permanent response to that federal law is a good idea, and I think that was the intent of the Majority.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: I'd like my presence recorded, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas reports his presence.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Am I permitted to speak —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir, you are.

DELEGATE BILLEY: — for a minute?

I know the Assembly wants to vote, and I do, too, and move on to other matters.

I would just like to say, in closing, that for those of you who are concerned about taking away the local control from the local public school districts, the Majority Report grants the same amount of authority to their Board of Public Education as the Minority Report, and as far as vocational education is concerned, there is nothing in the Minority that says that there will not be a vocational program on the elementary and secondary level.

In final summary, I'm sure that there are some questions in the minds of the delegates with respect to the language in both the Minority and Majority Report, but I would hope that your vote will be on the concept, and we can worry about polishing up the language when we consider it for first reading and first passage, and I would urge adoption of the Minority Report and request that we have a recorded roll call vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the Minority Report; that the Report of the Minority be substituted for that of the Majority. A recorded roll call vote has been requested. Will ten delegates please rise? That is sufficient. A recorded roll call vote has been granted.

The question, again, before the Convention is on the adoption of the Minority Report; that the Minority Report be substituted for that of the Majority.

Those in favor of adopting the Minority Report will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote. Has every delegate voted? Are there any delegates seated in the corridor that should be in here on the floor? I see none. Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Is Delegate Rosendahl here?

DELEGATE RUDE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rude.

DELEGATE RUDE: He left about an hour ago.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The reason I asked was because he's voted — it indicates that he is absent and that he voted.

DELEGATE RUDE: No one touched his key.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: So I think we will open the key and re-record the vote. We will open — again, the question — I think you're aware of the question.

The key will be opened. Those in favor of adopting the Minority Report will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roney.

DELEGATE RONEY: "Yes" and "no" has now been switched to Rosendahl's key. When I turned on my key, his turned on, also, and he's been absent.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry there, Delegate Roney. The machine was running and I didn't hear you.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President, when I turned on my key, it turned on Rosendahl's key. I assure you I have not turned on his key. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roney, may I remark or make the statement that the Rule provides a severe penalty for that. (Laughter)

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mine didn't record that time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: How do you vote?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I vote "nay."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The roll call indicates 28 "aye" votes, 67 "nay" votes, three delegates absent and not voting. The Minority Report has failed.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, I just wanted to say that the Majority harbors no false ideas about the profession of its handiwork, and if the Majority Report is adopted, we stand ready to listen to and add to and amend our Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention now is on the adoption of the Majority Report. Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

As many as are in favor will say "aye;" those opposed "nay." The report is adopted.

We will be on the eighth order of business. Do you have any announcements?

It will be on the sixth order. The Majority Report will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

Do you have anything on the eighth order? Announce the school, will you, please?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Kelsch announces the seventh grade of Christ The King School of Mandan and their teacher, Mr. Messmer, are in the gallery.

Delegate Chase announces that the twelfth grade of the Public School of Washburn, North Dakota, and their teacher, Richard Triplett, are in the gallery.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the students from these schools please rise and be recognized by the delegates to the Convention? (Applause)

You have surely picked a good morning to visit the Convention. You have listened to the debate on the adopting of one — of two committee reports that were presented from the Committee on Education, and I'm sure that you also found them interesting.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I rise on a point of personal privilege.

The story in the press on Saturday about tax exemptions and the role of the Catholic Conference in this issue here forces me to make a response.

I rise to express my regret and embarrassment that the Catholic Conference has brought pressure upon this Convention to place the language of specific tax exemptions in the new Constitution.

Nearly every delegate here believes that the details of tax exemptions have no business in a constitution. Many said so publicly. They know that people generally are sick and tired of the tax loopholes that develop from such constitutional language.

But I accept the collective wisdom of the Convention on the matter, in the face of the thinly-veiled threats to defeat the Constitution if we did otherwise.

What hurts is the fact that the Catholic Conference forced us into this compromising decision. What hurts even more is the fact that tax exemptions, of all things, should be the only issue that the Catholic Conference found to exert its pressure upon, when the issue of "legal help for the poor," "the death sentence," and so many others with moral and ethical implications have been before us.

It is with some reluctance that I make this statement, but the whole thing seemed so out of joint that I could not help but make some public response to the unfortunate public statement made last week-end.

Thank you.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: I also rise on a point of personal privilege.

Mr. President:

I rise to express my amazement at the statement found in the Saturday newspapers by a lobbyist. I did not consider my vote against 1-97 as an attempt to subvert the concept of separation of church and state. But I am glad that this lobbyist and the group he represents are so interested in the principle of separation of church and state. I am sure that the future legislators and the people of North Dakota are happy that this lobbyist and the group which he represents have such an interest in the principle of separation of church and state, particularly in regard to funds for a certain form of education.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Peters would like to announce that Fred Krause, Jr., former Grant and Sioux County Senator, is a visitor in the chambers today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would former Senator Krause please advance to the rail and be recognized by the Convention? Delegate Krause. (Applause)

The Chair will declare a ten-minute recess.

(The Session recessed at 11:00 A.M. until 11:20 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

The Convention will please be in order.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Pearce. We'll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

If you'll turn to page 343 of the Journal, which is the last page. On Friday afternoon, I moved that the Budget Committee be authorized to allocate and eventually pay $5,000 for the purpose of matching funds of the North Dakota Higher Education Facilities Commission. This passed on a voice vote. The powers that be felt that it should have been a roll call vote.

Unless somebody requires some more explanation, I would only point out that this is in furtherance of one of the objects that we are required by the law under which we are operating to fund.

I would at this time again move that the Budget Committee be authorized to allocate, and that there be spent from Convention funds, the sum of $5,000 for the purpose of such matching.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Longmire.

Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: I think the publicity over the week-end intimated, Delegate Pearce, that we were having matching funds, five thousand for five thousand, and I'm sure I'm right when I'm saying we're putting up five thousand and getting ten thousand.

DELEGATE PEARCE: That is correct. Not only are we putting five thousand up for ten thousand dollars, there will be the services of a number of people whose salaries do not come out of the fifteen thousand.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention — and, fellow delegates, we find no place in the book that says that we should have a roll call vote on — whenever we spend moneys; however, we have followed that policy, and I inadvertently took this on a roll call vote Friday, where, because of our own policy, we should have had a recorded vote.

So at this time I'm going to ask that we open the key, that you record your vote. Those in favor of appropriating the funds will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change? The vote is closed.

The roll call indicates 87 "ayes," 3 "nays," eight delegates absent and not voting. So the roll call indicates the willingness of the Convention to appropriate the funds.

Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President:

Also on Friday afternoon I moved that the Budget Committee be authorized to accept the best bid to prepare a composite picture of the Constitutional Convention, which prevailed on a voice vote. At that time we had three bids, one of which was about — I don't have it in front of me at the moment — I believe it was $891. The other two bids were over $1800. Various people have checked on that matter, interviewed the low bidder on Saturday, and it would appear that they can do the work. Therefore, in order to put the matter before the Convention, I would again move that the Budget Committee be authorized to spend and that there be spent and approved from Convention funds the sum of $1,000 for the purpose of taking pictures — a composite picture of the Convention.

Do I have a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I'll vote against this motion, but I would like to have cleared up, first of all, Delegate Pearce: Will this be just a composite picture or pictures to the individual delegates?

DELEGATE PEARCE: This is intended to be very similar to the pictures that each session of the Legislature has taken. Each delegate's picture will be separate — a small picture, like a one-column cut — but it will all be arranged in a composite very similar to the list or directory that the Bankers Association has made as a complimentary donation to the delegates. There will be one large one, as I said Friday, but each delegate will get — I think it's an eleven-by-fourteen copy of this picture.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President. I think, for historical purposes, we should have a picture; but considering the AP story that was published this week-end, I think some people get the idea that we're frittering away the taxpayers' money on this purpose. I know it costs me substantially more than $25 a day to be working on something that produces some income, and I wouldn't be reluctant at all to spend another $10 out of my pocket to pay for this picture; but I certainly don't want any more burdens placed on the Convention appropriation that don't deal with the substantive issues, and I'm going to vote against spending the money for this purpose.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President and ladies:

I mentioned the other day I'd rather use my high school graduation picture;

but I am against this for two reasons: Not only the money, but you find an awful lot of confusion when this photographer comes up here. He lists certain times and certain days the A's will be there and B's will be there, and busy as we're supposed to be now in the next few days, I don't think we have any business in taking this time off and interrupting our schedule to have these pictures taken.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Will Delegate Pearce yield to a question?

DELEGATE PEARCE: It depends on what it is; but I'll yield anyway.

(Laughter)

DELEGATE DOBSON: Delegate Pearce, does the budgetary situation appear to be such that at the end of the Convention we will have adequate moneys for a public information program and, also, that a sum may be refunded to the State Treasury?

DELEGATE PEARCE: That is very possible and indeed probable.

I may say somebody, I think, ought to support this matter. As a person obviously interested in history, I think it ought to be a part of the archives. If we do it on a ten-dollar basis, there are going to be some blank spaces, and we don't want any blanks. Furthermore, I would suggest that it might almost be a fraud on the voters if Earl Rundle uses his graduation picture. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I agree with the one that have mentioned that this is something that will be looked for by historians. As they listen to our tapes, I'm sure they're going to want a good idea of what we looked like at the time the Convention was held. A number of the men now, I think, look differently now that beards have come and gone.

I don't think I'm inaccurate in saying we definitely want this picture. If you're worried about money, let's think a little bit about when you make a motion to please put that in the record or in the Journal, it costs $21 every time we have a page. I think, if you are a little concerned about the money being spent, you'd think twice before you sort of off-handed make that motion, just so your political record might look good along the way. (Laughter and Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, did you wish the floor?

(Delegate Longmire shook his head.)

(Laughter)

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I agree with the — my fellow delegate from Grand Forks in connection with this. I think we're a little too sensitive here for comments. In the Legislature, if we don't get some criticism on almost every vote we make, we figure we're not getting the proper publicity. I certainly feel that, for the small amount here that it costs in comparison with our other expense, and from the historical value, that we should proceed with this picture, and I hope that some of the delegates who are a little more sensitive than others won't worry about some slight criticism of a small expenditure of this kind.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question is before the Convention — Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, up in the gallery — wherever it may be now — I have a picture of myself when I was a gay, young blade, and now, as a decrepit old man, I think the comparison should be there, also. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, those in favor of the expenditure of funds for having a picture taken of the delegates to the Convention will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? Delegate Burke, does your place light up? It doesn't on my board.

DELEGATE BURKE: It has, Mr. President. The button is on.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. The key will be closed.

Delegate Litten, did yours light up?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Roll call discloses 71 "ayes," 23 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. We will have the pictures taken.

Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President, I would like, seriously, to request all delegates now, regardless of how you voted, to have your pictures taken. We don't want to have to print blanks.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair would like to go to the eighth order of business for announcements.

Under the eighth order, for the Committee on Photography, we're going to name Delegate Decker, Delegate Bender and Delegate Gipp. I would further like to make these announcements of committee appointments at this time:

To the Committee on Coordination and Transition, I would like to name Delegate Thompson, and to the Committee on Style and Drafting, I would like to name two additional members — Delegate Kelsch and Delegate Kretschmar.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President, could we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I beg your pardon?

DELEGATE NOTHING: Could we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

At this time I would move that the Convention reconsider its action whereby it passed Committee Proposal No. 1-86 last Monday, and if I get a second, I'll explain why.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

This has been an issue that came before us and passed by a rather substantial majority, with a rather minimal debate. There are times when the Attorney General's office is required to rule on various matters relating to our current Constitution and, also, of course, our courts are. At times it's necessary for them to go to the committee records and, also, the Convention debate to determine just exactly what the intent of the body was. It would be my hope that the Convention reconsider its action so that we may bring this matter back before the Convention for the debate that the subject, I think, merits. If the motion is passed, it would be my hope that it be placed at the foot of the calendar, so that within the next 24 hours, it could come up for a full debate.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on the question to be reconsidered?

Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President, I would hope that the delegates would give this opportunity to reconsider this. I am satisfied in my own mind that this was passed hurriedly and not enough of the ramifications were considered, and I'm hoping that it be allowed back to the floor so every delegate could get more information on this.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I understand that there can be a plea made at this time, but I would ask the Convention to vote "no" on this, if for no other reason than to help generate interest in the 18-to-21-year-old people to check on what we're doing here, and if it would be decided that it be put on an alternate, I would favor that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: I would support the move to reconsider. If the Supreme Court at some future date had to rule on the intent of the motion or the Committee Proposal 1-86, and they took the transcript of the information that we had in committee, compare it with the dialogue on the floor, and later compare it with press reports, I doubt that they could believe that it was the same issue. I think we need more dialogue on this thing, so we can understand what it is to be voted on, and I would agree with Delegate Thompson that it is a good alternate proposal. I think we have to clarify the issues.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I, also, support the motion for reconsideration. Across the State there seems to be a flurry of concern about this measure, and I think we should take a second look at it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President, I would support the motion for reconsideration, also. I do think that it is a very vital issue. I do think that we did not have enough discussion or debate on the issue the other day, and I do think, for the record and for posterity's sake and for history and for the legal matters that would someday arise perhaps on this issue, that this should be well-discussed by this body.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, I also support the motion to reconsider, even though I don't know all the details of what might be in the offing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — Delegate Christensen.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I would also support this thought of reconsideration here, but I do feel that this is a matter that we should settle here and now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further?

The question before the Convention is on the motion to reconsider Delegate Proposal 1-86. Now, inasmuch as this will take a two-thirds vote and this is a proposal that has been passed by the Convention, we're going to have the board — the key opened and you will indicate your wishes.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: I know Delegate Burbidge has a very firm mind on the issue, but his position on taking the pictures is sort of ridiculous!

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke, I noticed on my board here that it was still showing red, and I didn't know whether to comment on it or not. I'm glad you did.
(Laughter)

Anything further?

The question, then, is on the motion to reconsider, and those that favor reconsideration will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote?

Delegate Jestrab, have you voted? This board must be going haywire!

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. Chairman, Jestrab votes "aye."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

The key is closed. The roll call indicates 80 "aye" votes, 14 "nay" votes, four delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-86 has been reconsidered.

Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President, I would then move that Proposal 1-86 be placed at the foot of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing moves that Committee Proposal 1-86 be placed at the foot of the calendar. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE CHASE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase. Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I'm wondering about the technical situation. If the Chair is satisfied, I am. I was kind of thinking it may have been in the possession of the Committee on Style and Drafting.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, I believe we have a rule to the effect that when they're in the Committee on Style and Drafting, they're deemed to be in the possession of the Convention. I believe there was a rule adopted some days ago to that effect. So you get away from making that one extra motion.

The question before the Convention is that Committee Proposal No. 1-86 be placed at the foot of the calendar. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and 1-86 is placed at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Committee Proposal 1-27 the other day was — we thought we needed it in regard to another proposal, and I believe it was referred back to the Executive Functions Committee.

Now, I didn't realize until today that we needed a motion, probably, to get it back here again. We don't need the proposal. I'd like to get it back here before the Convention. We didn't amend — we didn't do anything with it. What kind of a motion do you want? This has already been passed, several days ago.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Has it been passed, Delegate Hernet?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Sure. We got it back to the Style and Drafting. That's where it was.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, then, Delegate Hernet, if you have nothing you wish to do with the report, why don't you send it back to Style and Drafting? That would be my suggestion.

DELEGATE HERNETT. Well, I can sure do that. How do you do it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Make a motion.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I thought it went there automatically.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Where is it now?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: In Executive Functions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: In Executive Functions?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Yeah.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you so move?

DELEGATE HERNETT: All right. I move that Committee Proposal 1-27 be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet moves that the Committee Proposal No. 1-27, which is in the possession of the Executive Functions Committee, be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting. A second?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Hendrickson.

Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will vote "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal 1-27 will be returned to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

We'll be on the eighth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: An announcement:

There's a hockey game, Concordia College versus St. John's University, Tuesday, February 1st, 7:30 P.M., at the Bismarck Civic Center. The reserved seats are $2.50, general admission $2.00, students $1.25, and children under twelve, fifty cents. Tickets can be obtained at the Civic Center or at the Lucas Store. The game is sponsored by the Bismarck Lions Club, and any of its net profits will go to sight conservation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President, the Style and Drafting Committee will have a luncheon meeting down in G-7. Lunch will be provided, but you have to pay for it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I believe the twelfth — we are on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Is this the proper place they're withdrawn?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's correct.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw Proposal No. 2-51.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle requests the unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-51.

Any objection? Hearing none, the request is granted.

Fellow delegates, we have arrived at that place in our schedule where we come to paying out the expense vouchers, being that this is the last day of the month, and I'm going to ask that our Executive Director come in and again explain this procedure to the Convention.

Is Dean Bard available?

It seems, fellow delegates, that there are always a number of questions and things pertaining to these expense vouchers, and I think, if Dean would again go through the routine, I think it would help all of us. Dean?

MR. DEAN BARD, Executive Director: Thank you, Mr. President. We have, several days ago, passed out travel vouchers, which we wish that the delegates would complete. Now, the travel vouchers for the month of January we will be checking on February 1st, which is tomorrow, and if any of you have not received your travel vouchers, please stop in the office and pick one up in case you have lost yours or you didn't get it.

Now, one of the things we're going to need on the travel vouchers is we're going to need your receipts for lodging this time, and this is going to cause some complication, I know, because some of you will have paid for lodging through to the end of the Convention, which would be probably the middle of February or the end of February. Now, since we have to have a receipt before we can reimburse you for lodging, this can be handled, if you have paid in this manner, in one of two ways: One, you can wait and put in the receipt with the voucher at the end of the Convention, and we would prefer you handle it this way. Now, if you want to get reimbursed for part of it, then it will be necessary that you get your receipt broken down, and I suppose the only way you could do this would be to go back to your landlord and to have him give you a separate receipt for the month of January, and then give you a receipt for the rest of February. I know that there are several delegates that have paid for the full amount of lodging through to the end of the Convention, and I only mention this because it will cause a little bit of a problem in that respect, and you have those two alternatives — to get separate receipts or to wait until the end of the Convention.

Another thing that we're asking, in order to enable us this time to pay correctly for quarters allowance, is that you show the time of the day that you arrived at your home residence, when you're traveling home. By the same token, we ask that when you leave home to come back to Bismarck, that you show the time of day that you arrive at your residence here in Bismarck.

Let me again mention that, so we make sure we get this straight. We want the time of day that you arrive at home, when you are traveling to your home, and we want the time of day that, when you're coming back, you arrive in Bismarck. The reason, of course — the reason for that is that we need to know in order to pay you the correct quarters allowance, because you get paid for the time you're on the road until you reach home, and you get paid, of course, when you leave to come back.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Where do you want us to put this?

MR. BARD: Delegate Omdahl, if you would put this information under the "Points Covered by Travel" portion on your voucher, and that's the portion which is indicated with a 2 — the first column on the left — "Points Covered by Travel." If you'll just put that information in there.

Now, the only other thing. Be sure and sign the voucher and, if you would have it available tomorrow, the pages will pick it up, and by doing it in this manner, we will be able to get our vouchers in during the week, and then the Accounts and Purchases people have indicated that, if we get them in this week, we should get the checks back the forepart of next week, and I know that a number of people are interested in getting paid. It's been a long time coming for the quarters and the lodging expenses.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, I'd like to address a question to Director Bard.

Now, in the case — well, this is my own case. I pay my hotel when I check out every Friday to return to Minot, and should I go and get a receipt like for today, or just turn in a voucher up until the end of last week? Now that should be the 29th.

MR. BARD: Mr. President. I think, Delegate Cart, the best way to handle that would be, of course, to turn in the vouchers that you have up to date, and then turn in up to the end of the week, which would be the — is that the 29th?

DELEGATE CART: Well, that's the 29th.

MR. BARD: Yes. I think that would be the best way to handle it — to turn it in up to the —

DELEGATE CART: And then the rest on the next one?

MR. BARD: Then the rest can go on the next one, yes.

Just one further thing, Mr. President, and that is if anyone needs any help with the voucher, please check with Mary Alice in our office. I'm sure she'd be happy to help you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

I'd like to ask you a question, Dean.

If I understood you correctly, you said that we get paid for the time that we drive home. In other words, you wanted the time we arrive home. Now, you turned around then and said that we put down the time that we arrive back here. Now, am I to understand then that you get paid for the time driving home and not paid for the time driving back?

MR. BARD: Delegate Trenbeath, I'm glad you called that to my attention. I was, apparently, in error the first time. What we're looking for is the time that you arrive at home, when you leave here, because you're getting paid for the travel time. We're looking for the time you leave home, when you come back, because, again, we want to pay you for the quarters allowance for your travel time, and if I indicated otherwise in my first statement, I apologize.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: May I ask two questions?

Dean, I never — I got stuck in the snow and I never did arrive home.

(Laughter)

If I put the voucher in I was five miles short, are you going to pay me for an hour-and-a-half of shoveling, instead of five miles, or —

MR. BARD: Delegate Rundle, there will be some special situations like this that will take special care, and we'll try and work that out with you on an individual basis.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment? Any further questions? If not, why thank you very much, Dean, for coming in and discussing this with the delegates.

Anything else under the eighth order?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: When are we going to reconvene? I'd like to know that, so I can announce when the Resolutions Committee will meet.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The intention of the Chair is to call the Convention back to order at 1:30.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Then I would like to announce a meeting of the Resolutions Committee at the west balcony room up here, at 1:10.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: The Executive Functions Committee will meet in their regular meeting room, and bring your lunch with you — right now as soon as we recess.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? Hearing none, the Convention will be in recess until 1:30.

(The Session recessed at 11:55 A.M. until 1:30 P.M., the same day.)

(The Plenary Session continued at 1:30 P.M., Monday, January 31, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Will the Convention please come to order?

We'll be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-83 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-85.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-83; that the Proposal be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion? Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

1-83, as you recall, a few nights ago we had quite a lengthy discussion on it. It's been taken back with 1-85. We have amendments coming on 1-85 that will take care of the matter covered in 1-83, and that's why we requested indefinite postponement.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report; that Committee Proposal No. 1-83 be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-85 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-85; that the proposal be amended and, after being amended, that it be given a do pass.

Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-85 will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

We will be on the tenth order of business. First for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-72.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-72, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 22 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, which pertains to courts being open.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 22 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"All courts shall be open, and every man for any injury done him in his lands, goods, person, privacy or reputation shall have remedy by due process of law, and right and justice administered without denial or delay."

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I have an amendment at the desk, if the Clerk would please read it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-72 is as follows:

In line 11 of the engossed proposal, following the word "person" delete ", privacy."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead seconded.

Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman and Delegates:

This word "privacy" was inserted in this bill when it went through on the floor, and I'm sure that we are delving into a field in which we really don't know the impact of this one particular word. The individual does have a right to privacy, if that is the original question, and it has been proven in law; but we don't know exactly what "privacy" means and, again, by simply throwing it into a constitution, we are creating an impact. We don't know where it might stop. I think that the rights of the individual are well-protected in the proposal as it stands, without this new word.

In the newspaper business, there is a question if the paper could be sued at any time a person's name was mentioned, unless it was taken right out of a court record. We don't know. We don't think that it is a good proposition, inviting lawsuits when the impact is unknown. The right of privacy just recently has been the subject of lawsuits. Generally, the decisions are such that they're right there, but it is not very broadly defined, and we think that we would do well to stay away from it at this particular time, and I trust that the amendment will be approved.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I would urge that the delegates resist the amendment. If you look at the section, what we're saying in that section in this proposal is that the courts shall be open for injury done to one's lands, to a person's goods, to the person himself, to the person's reputation and, by amendment last Wednesday night, we added the word to the person's "privacy". We're saying that he shall have a remedy for injury done by due process of law.

Now, the old Constitution has the words "lands, goods and reputation," and the change we're considering is whether or not we deem the matter of privacy to be sufficient or as important as damage to lands or damage to goods.

Now, the question is raised: What is the right to privacy? I think our attention was drawn to the right in this country by Judge Brandeis about fifty years ago. Some of the legal scholars define it as a right to be let alone or the right to be free from unwarranted publicity. What is actionable or what would be damage would be to seek to recover for unwarranted appropriation or an exploitation of one's personality or the publicizing of a person's private affairs with which the public has no legitimate concern.

On reconsideration, I think Delegate Dobson mentioned that the libel and slander laws would protect you. I submit that does not in the protection of privacy. Libel and slander go to reputation. The truth is a defense. The protection of privacy goes to the person's individual peace of mind or the assurance that he will be free from intrusions that cause a substantial mental distress or being exposed to the public. Fifteen states, as far as I can determine — at least fifteen states, either by court decision or by statute, established a right to privacy. Some of the recent states are Arizona, Florida, Indiana, Michigan and Alabama. Some of the courts have said — the courts have held, that have established this right, have done it under the concept that we all have a right to liberty, that part of liberty is the freedom from unwarranted publicity. The Supreme Courts have spoken on the subject, saying we must balance on the one hand the person's right to his privacy versus the right of the general public to public news. In determining whether the private right is violated, we don't — we don't want to concern ourselves with unreal sensibilities of people, but the test is: Is the publication liable to cause mental distress to an ordinary person in the same kind of circumstance? The truth may be spoken about all matters of public interest and matters of a private nature in which the public has an interest. Now, the right can be limited or waived. It's waived by a person — by a pose for a picture. I waive any complaint that my picture may be published as I appear and act in public, as I'm doing now. I waive any rights by my consent to this conduct as to what I might say or do. Persons in the news — public figures, for instance, running for office — all waive the rights of privacy as to that conduct. One legal authority has put it this way — it concerns the freedom of the press: "The constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press is qualified by the right of privacy, and the press, like any individual citizen, must not abuse its constitutional rights or overlook its obligation to others."

Now, what's happened in North Dakota on this right? There's been concern there would be frivolous suits. Well, let me say that our North Dakota Supreme Court, on May 28th of 1970, has presented to it for the first time in the history of this State the question of invasion of the right of privacy. The case is Volk v. Auto-Dine Corporation, in which a Mrs. Volk of the City of Bismarck had given her picture and name to a coal slaw that she — to the company that she used to work for, and a suit was brought. Her name was later used in advertising. She did not succeed in the case. But let me call your attention to what our court said, and I'll quote:

"Whether a tort action lies in North Dakota for an invasion of a person's right of privacy has not been previously considered by this Court. Assuming that a cause of action exists for violation of a person's right of privacy in North Dakota, but without deciding such issue, such an action will not lie in the instant case." And then they go on to say because she consented or waived her rights to privacy. So this is the first time. The case held two things; first, this is the first time this had been submitted. Our court does not know, because the statute was silent in this State whether we have such a right, and I submit to you that we can do one of two things; we could not speak to the subject, and then let a firebrand court establish the right at some future date, or we 98 delegates — and this is our function, I believe — can speak to it and state simply that every citizen of the State who has been damaged in his privacy has a right to his privacy by a right of redress in the courts, and I don't think we need fear what that means. I think we would have reasonable balance and I urge that you defeat the proposed amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: The Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee studied Section 22 over a matter of several months. They did not recommend inclusion of the word "privacy." As has been noted, it was added on the floor, without too much consideration at the time.

I can't see what good the inclusion of this word is going to do, and it would lead to a lot of nuisance-type lawsuits, charging invasion of privacy by a newspaper, television station or radio station — any publication. We have all heard of the wealthy recluse, Howard Hughes. He does not seek or want publicity. Yet he is the subject of a good deal of publicity. It seems to me, under a provision such as this, that he would at least have ground to charge invasion of privacy. That's a good example of a nuisance lawsuit. Everyone is protected in this Constitution from libel or slander or injury done to your reputation. Every person is responsible for what he writes or speaks. We don't need this. So I urge you to support the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I feel that my next-door neighbor is entitled to counsel, too, here. I would not so much object to guaranteeing in the Constitution that a man could bring a lawsuit for an injury to his privacy if I knew what his privacy was. Again, I perhaps should have introduced a proposal to define all kinds of terms, although I'm sure that in those early days of the Convention I wouldn't have remembered to put in all of the terms that we have been debating about since that time. We have striven at great length sometimes here for clear and definite meaning to terms that we put in. Every word in the Constitution, as well as the sequence of those words, is going to be a subject of court scrutiny in the years to come. Then we come to a word that is a relatively new one, that perhaps we may think we understand; but then, in the light of subsequent events, what does a man's "privacy" consist of?"

Now there are certain things that a man does that I probably won't mention at the moment that would obviously be concerning his privacy. I suppose we should put "her" in, too, in modern language. But when we get beyond those acts, we're in a realm of complete indefiniteness. Clearly, the Legislature, without this word in the Constitution, has the clear power to grant a right of privacy to individuals and to surround it with such definitions and such language as to be understandable what we are doing. Here we have a word that would seek to mean something sometime in the future, without any way of knowing what it means, and I would challenge the Court to search the records and the verbatim transcript of this Convention to enlighten it as to what the word "privacy" means. Even those who are in favor of keeping it in have surrounded it with all kinds of qualifying terms, and that's exactly what the courts and the Legislature may do and exactly what I think the Constitution should not; and, therefore, I would strongly support the amendment to take out the word "privacy."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, I hesitate to speak, because I'm not particularly well-prepared, but I would speak in opposition to the amendment.

To answer the question raised by Delegate Pearce, I think "privacy" can be well defined as the word "reputation." It may take a period of time in the courts, but I think the courts are capable of defining this term, if it needs it.

We speak to the effect it may have on newspapers and such others — TV and the rest of it. I feel that there's other rights, other than the newspaper. Does my home have a right to be secure from wiretap or some other artificial things that we spoke to in the Bill of Rights that would be inadmissible for purposes of trial, but not for the purposes of privacy? This is one area. And we have seen or heard any number of abuses by credit companies. So this amendment speaks to organizations other than the Fourth Estate, and I would like to see it retained. I think it's a valuable right to an individual and one that is being frequently abused in the latter years.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I speak against the amendment, too. I think the case that has been mentioned by Delegate Dobson is a clear case of what people have had to do to get away and to protect their privacy. There is no other way but to completely hide to develop and to establish the privacy that they seek.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

The question of freedom of the press in the Constitution has been given unlimited — and I use the word advisedly — freedom to publish what they may, and I think this is a matter that needs to be left there for the protection of the individual. We have already allowed people to come into court to protect their individual environment, and I think this is a more important right than that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, I rise to oppose the amendment. In regard to the comment made by Delegate Dobson that the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee had this proposal under consideration and did add "privacy" in there, there were a lot of proposals we had under consideration and didn't add a lot of things that are added on the floor here; so it is not a valid argument.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I support the amendment for the reason that I think the word "privacy" is just extra verbiage. In order to have a cause of action, you must have an injury, and certainly if you are injured in your privacy, you're injured in your person and you do have a right the way it is written to do that, without the right of privacy.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Paulson.

Hearing no further discussion —

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: It might be construed that those of us speaking at this particular time could be classified as having a conflict of interest, myself being in the news media. But I can see some real grounds for concern with the word "privacy" in this particular section. I also can see some real concern as far as the word's concerned and the intent of it in 1-72. Now, I supported this word "privacy" in our first vote for the very reasons that were brought out here; yet, this afternoon, and even though I am in the news media — perhaps my conflict of interest is getting the best of me — I'm going to support the amendment. I feel that the word "privacy" has a specific meaning — one that will not conflict with my particular view of my particular position in the news media.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Rundle?

(Delegate Rundle shook his head.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Paulson. Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "nay."

The "noes" have it. The amendment lost.

The question before the Convention is on the passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-72. Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted?

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President, the board doesn't seem to hold our vote. I don't know if we should close it and try it again. It doesn't seem to hold our vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It does kind of look like the northern lights.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Can we hold the key over, Mr. President? Will that do?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Run that one through and try it again.

We will open the key again and see what happens. Again we will vote on the question on Proposal 1-72.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: If we hold them, will it work? All right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab — oh, that's right. You don't have it. There's something wrong there.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote?

The vote is closed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Let's open it and hold it until the machine is done recording, and see whether that works.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We're voting again, delegates, just in case you don't know.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: If you'll hold the button until the machine is completely done counting. Let's see whether that will work. I'm going to close the key.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll take a roll call.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President, I think everybody has seen there were only four "noes." I think it would be unnecessary to go through the time of running the roll call.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have to have it for the Journal, Delegate Hubrig, although I agree with you that that was a nice suggestion.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I'd love it!

Committee Proposal 1-72 has passed.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal 1-89.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-89, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 14 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to eminent domain.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 14 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Private property shall not be taken or damaged for necessary public use without protecting the property rights of the owner and the interests of the general public and without just compensation having first been made to or estimated just compensation paid into court for the owner."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Schmit.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Fellow Delegates, there's the amendment or as amended on the sixth order on your desks, just for clarification as it now reads. Committee Proposal 1-89, you understand, is a repeal of the old Section 14. Committee Proposal 1-89 deals with eminent domain and it caused the subcommittee of the Bill of Rights Committee much concern. We realize that when you are taking property from people, you're dealing with a very delicate problem. Section 14, as in our present Constitution, protects the rights of the property owners and provides for quick taking of property by a state department, agencies and political subdivisions. The subcommittee made a great effort to write a new section which included a provision for arbitration and quick take for other than State political subdivisions. After discussing what we had done in full committee, it was decided unanimously that we're getting too legislative and what we would submit Committee Proposal 1-89 as originally amended for your approval.

1-89 is simply a statement to protect the rights of the property owner.

Mr. President, fellow delegates, the Bill of Rights Committee felt it would be unwise to relieve people of their property by the quick-take method and lock it in the Constitution.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I thought I'd refrain from making my amendment until the committee discussed more fully just exactly what the Committee Report contained, but if they — evidently they're waiting for me to offer the amendment. I have an amendment at the desk. I hope, Roy, you still remember it. It's called the "Last Proposed Amendment to Committee Proposal 1-89." It's been getting pretty moldy over the days here.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The last —

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: The "Last Proposed Amendment." It's spelled that way — or titled that way. Could it be read from the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: This is the one with necessary?"

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: No. No. That's another amendment that I think a lawyer is attempting to get in there. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Okay.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Okay. Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-89:

Delete everything in lines 10 through 14 of the engrossed proposal and insert in lieu thereof the following:

“Private property shall not be taken or damaged for public use without just compensation having been first made to or paid into court for the owner. Provided, however, the state, its political subdivisions and corporations which require right-of-way for transportation, communication, and the transmission of power and materials for public service may take possession of said right-of-way upon depositing an offer of just compensation with the District Court in the county in which the right-of-way is located. Just compensation shall be determined by a jury unless a jury is waived. Only the state and its political subdivisions acquiring property by eminent domain may claim offsetting benefits.”

Renumber the lines accordingly.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I propose — I move that amendment, and if I can get a second, I'll do the explaining.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, Mr. President and fellow delegates:

I — evidently the board was trying to tell us something in regard to the word “privacy” and I don't know what it will try to tell us when it concerns property. But as was mentioned on the floor the other day, when we rewrote Article I, we did want — we left out one important part of that Section 1, I believe, and that states that — or says something like this: “All men have certain inalienable rights, among which are acquiring and possessing property,” and I believe that this section here is exactly what concerns a lot of us. I know there were some reservations in the Committee itself. Now, I believe one of the most important basic rights of this country is the right to own and retain property. The very foundation of any democracy, I believe, is protection of this right, or it just wouldn't be in our Bill of Rights. But I believe there's one great weakness in this regard in the Committee Proposal. It leaves the Legislature to provide what property can be acquired with the so-called quick-take method, and it leaves it solely up to the Legislature, and this is what I'm against, and it's a procedure by which immediate possession of property can be had by just depositing an offer to purchase with the court, and the property owner's only defense being if the compensation is just and the necessity proper. Now that could be a pretty vicious tool. The owner does not have his day in court in regard to many other reasons of unreasonable take, such as the location, whether the plan is right or whether the area is right or what the future effects might be of that project upon himself. And certainly the citizen must have greater protection in the taking of his property than just the price he receives for it. I'm a little reminded of the plaque hanging on the wall in the President's office, and it states, “A man's life, liberty and property are not safe while the legislature is in session.”

So here we are in Convention, I believe giving the Legislature some unknown properties in this instance in regard to taking of property. I know other states have spelled out very clearly in what various circumstances the quick-take procedure can be used and how it can be used. Our present Constitution clearly states that the State and its political subdivisions can use the quick-take method for a right-of-way, such as roads and pipelines. I know it doesn't mention pipelines, but our Attorney General has construed that pipelines can fall into this right-of-way provision. Private corporations can provide a deposit in court, but the owner does have recourse for other than just the price.

My amendment, Delegates, spells out what the State and its political subdivisions can quick-take for the future. These are acquisitions that you could eyeball-in, so to speak, and just know what the future effects are going to be on your remaining property or on property in the future, and all their acquisitions by the State gives the property owner his opportunity in court on other than just price. My legislative peers feel that they would propose a quick-take procedure on too broad a range, and in many instances a vast majority of the legislators do not know nor have any chance of knowing the circumstances that exist in some of the other parts of the State. There are such situations in existence presently in my part of the State, where property owners objected, and that they ought to have their day in court and now are losing their property from the effects of just what a quick-take procedure can do to them, and they got no recourse to recover.

Now, I can say that other things could happen where this quick-take method can be envisioned, and I just believe that we can't leave this thing up to the Legislature on this board a scope. I think it has to be spelled out in these circumstances, and we'll all recognize that the quick-take method can and should be used. So this amendment is similar and makes some improvement on our present Constitution. It's similar to other state constitutions, and I certainly hope and believe that this amendment should be passed that I'm offering, and that you will vote for it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I have an amendment to the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have an amendment to the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Thompson, are you just adding the word "necessary"?

(Delegate Thompson nodded.)

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Okay. The proposed amendment to the amendment is:

After the first — in the first line of the amendment, after the words "damaged for" insert the word "necessary".

Then the first sentence would read: "Private property shall not be taken or damaged for necessary public use without just compensation having been first made to or paid into court for the owner."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the amendment?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I add this word for fear that the Convention will pass the amendment relative to my committee's proposal, and we won't get back to it, and I hope that this word will help take care of the — one of the major thoughts that my committee had. We sincerely felt that in cases other than for right-of-way purposes, that the public should have the right to tell municipalities or the other agencies having to prove that what they were taking was necessary for the public use. I'd like to cite an example, if I may.

In my county, one agency along the big lake has taken three or four miles south of it for public use. Now, this property is probably the best property for development for cottages that there will be on the big lake and, therefore, it would have the highest possible value for tax purposes, and of course if it is held by a nontaxable agency, there will be no tax there. Now, that seems simple. But what it actually affects is these following agencies: It affects the Township Planning Board, it affects the Township Board, it affects the County, it affects the Tri-County Park Board, and it possibly affects the City's Park Board and the City of Devils Lake's tax structure, if it expands out that far. This board that's taking this property has not had to justify to anyone the reason for it. They just came up with a plan and said, "Okay, people, here's where we're taking it."

I'll give you an example of the value of that property. One gentlemen platted eight lots on the lake shore and sold them for $2500 apiece. Now, these lots are 100-by-700 feet. In addition to that, those acres immediately behind he sold for $1,000 an acre; so you can see that it will really be some taxable property that the County is going to lose. Therefore, I feel that, if Grant's proposal is adopted, that the word "necessary" should be in there so that these agencies would have to prove the necessity of their taking before the taking. I talked to some of the people about what they would have to do, and they probably would have to hold a public hearing in order to develop to the public the necessity of the taking and of the use before they actually took it. Maybe it would take a two-week hearing; but they're spending many more weeks than that in lawsuits on condemnation and things like that, which wouldn't have to be done if they would prove the necessity.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment to the amendment.

Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

I have, over a good many years, been on both sides of condemnation cases, and I am bothered by the insertion of the word "necessary" at this point. Certainly the right of eminent domain has to exist in our modern society. It has to exist in almost any society. The right of eminent domain belongs to the sovereignty of the state through its legislature. It devolves that sovereignty upon certain others who operate in the public interest. Rural electric cooperatives, generating and transmission cooperatives, as well as investor-owned utility companies share it. Counties, cities, the State, townships, other public agencies share it. There are other things apart, and so forth.

Now, the problem to me, as a lawyer, is where is this necessity proven? Delegate Thompson says a public hearing; but what happens at the public hearing? You know how well public hearings are attended. This is a public hearing. And who votes? Do a majority of the people who make a public hearing vote one way or another, or are we going to leave that determination of necessity to the boards — the public agencies that we already have? Otherwise, maybe it's the jury.

Now, are we going to leave the necessity of something in a particular place because we're talking now about specific property? I can well remember defending a farmer who lived adjacent to one of the not-very-large towns in North Dakota and the city decided maybe — maybe the Health Department prodded them — that they had to build a sewage lagoon. It so happened that the board felt that the obvious place was right fairly close to my client's house. He was understandably rather unhappy to have that sewage lagoon up here. We had no way of changing the decision in the court proceedings. We were shooting for as much money as we could get for the damage to his land. But if the jury had said, "No, that's not the place for the sewage lagoon," then what would the board have had to have done? Picked another place somewhere in the vicinity. It would have been simply another farmer who owned land outside of the city, and the jury then would have said yes or no. Finally, we might have made the whole round and that circle is closed, and then the city would have had to go another mile out, or something of that kind. The thing points up the necessity that in all of these eminent domain things, the individual rights of the individual where this is situated are impaired. That's what the Constitution has always said that he's entitled to just compensation — whatever the jury feels is right. But it has to give some place, and we cannot, without destroying eminent domain, without which we cannot function in this society, without leaving that decision up to the agency that has the right to exercise the power of eminent domain. Anything else is going to throw it into confusion. That's why I feel constrained to be against the insertion of the word "necessary."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: I will agree with Delegate Pearce in what he says, but I disagree with its conclusion. Our Committee this summer dealt with this a great length and they concluded, first, that the only thing on eminent domain was to decide how much the damages are — a material consideration. But as we discussed this thing more and more, we began to realize that there's more involved here than "you pay your money and you get your property;" that somehow or another there has to grow up around us a legal procedure that can deal with the problem of necessity, and if you deal with the implication of necessity and think about it more and more, you'll realize that in this part of the twentieth century we have come to a point where there is more than money involved, where the necessity of one government agency as compared with another one has to be somehow dealt with, where the people themselves have some protection on the necessity, as well as on the cost and taking, and so forth. I think we are faced here — somehow either the legal machinery has to grow up — either as authorized by the Legislature or a part of the courts that can deal with the problem of necessity and can do it without waiting four years to do it. But we here are dealing with human rights. This is a part of the Bill of Rights, and certainly there is more involved here than money alone.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I rise in support of the amendment to the last proposed amendment and, also, the last proposed amendment.

The word "necessary," of course, is in the original Proposal 1-89. My comments are this:

A few years ago I was privileged to attend a seminar on eminent domain put on by the Southwestern Legal Foundation, which was held in Dallas, Texas. The thing — the one thing that made a very vivid and lasting impression on myself was this: That virtually all of the discussion — and this discussion was generally led by eminent scholars in this field — usually instructors in some of our larger law schools — but virtually everything was aimed at easing the way for the condemnor — that is, the agency doing the — making the condemnation — and the pleadings were for more police powers for the condemning agency and to make it easier and simpler to acquire property through eminent domain. Virtually nothing was ever said about the rights, privileges and feelings of the owner of the private property being taken.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: One further statement, Mr. President.

It isn't as bad as it sounds. Normally, under condemnation proceedings, the property is bought and paid for without any kind of fight, and certainly that remains true, even if you add the word "necessary," because if the agency can buy this property, then they can do with it what they want, without having any kind of hearing or proving anything. I don't think that that's a problem that we would have here any more than they have now.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I wonder if Delegate Thompson would answer a question.

DELEGATE THOMPSON, who do you view would be the agency or who would decide whether the attempted take was a necessary public use? Would that be the State agency, the Legislature or the court itself that's trying the case?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Undoubtedly, the word is going to have to be defined and, after it is defined, I'm sure we can determine who can construe the word. Even if we had to go to the courts, that doesn't scare me any. I think it's a privilege and a right that a property owner ought to have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Would Delegate Thompson yield for a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson, do you yield?

(Delegate Thompson nodded.)

DELEGATE BURKE: I was wondering, Delegate Thompson, to advance Delegate Pearce's worry about who shall determine, I was wondering if in the fourth line from the bottom, if the change in fact couldn't be achieved after the sentence starting "Just compensation and necessary public use shall be determined by a jury." Wouldn't that then define the agency who would determine the public use?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I would hesitate to put it in that part of the section, because just prior to that is that part that deals with quick-take, which I'm very much in favor of in those instances. I wouldn't hesitate at all to have it put in the first sentence, if you would want to do that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? Delegate Schmit.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President, would Delegate Thompson yield to another question, please?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Yes.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: When you amend the amendment with the word "necessary," aren't you, in effect, in many cases doing away with the quick take? And what effect would that have?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Certainly that's true, ordinarily, but in this instance, it says "Provided, however," and then it goes on to provide for the quick take. I don't think that this — adding the word "necessary" — would bother that at all.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Thompson. Those in favor of adopting will vote "aye;" and those opposed will vote "nay."

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "nay."

The Chair is in doubt. We can't open the key, either, can we? We'll try to vote again.

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed will say "nay."

The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I must rise in opposition to the amendment, and certainly what has been said so far in this discussion has laid the groundwork for what I want to state.

After six months of listening to the complaints of people in the exercise of eminent domain, we've heard over and over again the same thing that Delegate Thompson has told us about, Delegate Pearce has told us about, Delegate Trenbeath and Delegate Burbidge. So we have come to the conclusion that when we're talking about eminent domain, whose rights are we going to talk about? Whose rights are paramount? The right of police power, the right of the city, the right of the Highway Department, the right of the corporations, or the right of the property owner? I can assure you the Committee feels just as strongly as Delegate Trenbeath feels about the right of the property owner, and I think now — and I want to be sure that I'm not out of order — I am talking against the amendment; but in order to do this, I must justify, it seems to me, the position of the Committee on our Proposal 1-89. Then I must show you why we do not agree with the amendment.

Now, first of all, I think we have to keep this one point in mind: Whether you accept the Report of the Committee, which is a statement of principles, as Delegate Schmit has brought out, protecting the property owner, or whether you accept the amendment as proposed by Delegates Trenbeath, Pearce and Kelsch, which protects the property owner to a degree, but which also incorporates quick take, and of course protects these agencies who will use eminent domain — regardless of which you accept, this will be a part of the Bill of Rights — the Declaration of Rights that enunciates the rights of people.

Now, if that is what we're thinking about, then we shouldn't be concerned about how the Highway Department operates under eminent domain. We shouldn't be concerned with the limitations we place on the cities or the corporations, as it seems to us our entire concern should be for the rights of people. And, as Delegate Trenbeath has said, "people" in this instance means the rights of these property owners. And for that reason, this Committee, after struggling with it — and believe me, "struggling" is the right word — for months, we have come to the conclusion that in the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Rights, all we should say is an enunciation of the rights of these property owners.

Now, in believing that we followed the example of the present Section 14 — I hope you have it before you — there will be few things we'll vote on much more important than this. So let's look at Section 14.

Section 14, as it was originally written, started out, as we do in our Proposal, as Delegate Trenbeath does in his amendment, with the words "Private property shall not be taken or damaged for public use." Then what does it say? Without now reading the whole thing, will you look for the key words? In the second line — “without just compensation.” Come down about four lines, and you find “until full compensation,” and then if you come down just before the amendment — remember, the first half was as it was originally written — the second half is the amendment, and it begins by saying “which compensation.” Now, when this Constitution was written, the original version was one sentence, 85 words, but the emphasis — there’s no question about that — the emphasis was solely on compensation for the owner. That’s all they said. That’s all they said for — well, over 65 years. Compensation for the owner was the important thing. Now, we’ve gone farther than that, if you look at our proposal. We say protecting the property rights of the owner, protecting the interests of the public, and then compensation. So we think we’re justified in stating principles. This was all that the Constitution said about eminent domain.

There was one other section in the Constitution, and I might say we have worked very closely with the Education Committee and the subcommittee that was appointed on Section 134, and we have satisfied them that we have stated the rights of the property owner.

Now, then, in 1956 an amendment was adopted and what did that do? It gave the states — the state departments, the municipalities, the right that it had never had before — quick take; in other words, it could take possession of the property first and settle the damages afterwards.

Now, this amendment went into detail. It specified that it could only be the State, its departments, its agencies or political subdivisions. Then it went on to specify that they could only use that quick take if they were seeking right-of-way. Then it went on to specify that if they took this, it had to do two things; it had to make an offer, it had to deposit the amount in the court. Then it went on protecting the rights of the property owner, saying that the court would have to notify him, and then the property owner could go to court.

Now that’s the amendment that was adopted in 1956. And one of the first questions that Chairman Maxwell asked us when we started was: Is this legislation? Well, a Judge of the Supreme Court answered it for us when he said this amendment is self-executing; it doesn’t need any statutory law to carry out.

Now, the Highway Department and the League of Municipalities came to us and urged us to keep this section as it was. But we heard over and over again the stories that have been enunciated today — the criticism against it — these people who come in and tell us what’s happened to them. Most of the criticism we found was directed against the quick take. They said in many instances the take is just too quick. They say there’s no way of protecting the property rights of the owner, and those property rights you can’t measure in dollar damages. They say there’s no way of protecting the public and that, of course, is the thing that Delegate Thompson has talked about. The necessity of taking is not in this, and if you’re thinking about the rights of the property owner, it certainly should be. And that’s why we have felt so strongly that something must be done about this quick take.

Now, I don’t think there’s a single member of our committee who doesn’t agree that there is justification for quick take. We wouldn’t have 94, we wouldn’t have 29, we wouldn’t have these civic projects if these agencies had not been able to avail themselves of that right to take the property first and settle the damages afterwards. So we do believe in it. But we have more faith in the Legislature than Delegate Trenbeath has. We think it must be left to the Legislature to meet these existing conditions and to satisfy these criticisms. So our Committee — and I think we’re unanimous in it — we believe that you should take the amendment of 1956 out of the Constitution — out of the Constitution, and certainly out of the Bill of Rights, and leave it to the Legislature. We think the time has come for the Legislature to take a good, quick look and a hard look at what has happened to this right that they have given away to these government agencies. Maybe the Legislature would want to curtail it. Maybe they want to extend it. The Aeronautics Commission came to us and they wanted it for the airfields. But whatever the Legislature would do, we feel sure that it will correct the inequities of quick take and any inequities there may be in the statutory law.

And then we have another reason why we think it’s so imperative at this time. Delegate Trenbeath has mentioned some of the problems — some of the things that you may have to look forward to — pipelines. In talking this over with Delegate Trenbeath, and I can assure you there isn't anyone that has a greater concern for people than Delegate Trenbeath, we have discussed the matter with him; but in discussing it with him, he said we might have to look forward to pipelines carrying farm products. Think of the Garrison Diversion. Think of what that's going to need in the way of farmland to carry it out! The communities in the eastern part of the State are demanding gas — natural gas. They tell us it won't be long before your telephone lines and power lines have to go underground. Urban renewal has just started. Public recreation areas are being demanded. Well, that sounds very exciting. But if you're a property owner in North Dakota don't you think we have to be a little bit worried? Every one of these projects is going to need either easements or property. Every one of them, you can be sure, will be accomplished by the aid of eminent domain, and maybe with quick take. So we think the time has come when the Legislature will have to take a look at quick take, correct the inequities; and so we are asking that you accept our proposal, which guarantees the right of individuals, which recommends that Amendment 56 be repealed, and then look to the Legislature for correction.

Now, I'm not going to cover the amendment which is proposed. Delegate Maxwell will cover the provisions of this amendment. But after he has told you the provisions, we would just ask you: Do you want to put this amendment — legislation? It goes way beyond the Amendment 56. It will be just as self-executing. It will tie the hands of the Legislature just as surely. We ask you: Do you want that in the Constitution? And do you think it belongs in the Bill of Rights?

And now, Mr. President, may I yield to Delegate Maxwell?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

This proposed amendment has borrowed and adopted and enlarged all of the inherent faults in present Section 14. It is too long and detailed. It has legislative matter, and the detail it contains does not protect the individual as the Bill of Rights normally should; but quite the contrary. The government, Mr. President, is the servant — not the master of the people — and that is what the Constitution should address itself to — making individual rights safe — not to describing and setting up of procedures as to how the citizen must submit to the will of the government or, as is in this proposed amendment, also to the will of a private corporation.

The legislative detail in the proposed amendment now before us has greatly enlarged the so-called quick take about which Delegate Trenbeath is so concerned. He's concerned about it, but he would enlarge it. The quick take does not protect the landowner. It works to his disadvantage. The amendment allows an owner to be immediately dispossessed of his property or an easement imposed upon it overnight, without negotiation, without even a prior offer being made. At least the present Section 14 requires that a prior offer be made. And as imperfect as it was, it did give at least that much more protection to the landowner than does the present proposed amendment. It permits the taking of property by merely depositing in court what the acquiring agency unilaterally determines is an adequate amount of just compensation. Now this obviously benefits the acquiring agency, rather than the landowner.

Now, is this the stuff for a bill of rights? And I am particularly alarmed about one aspect of this amendment, which, standing alone, would justify your negative vote on the amendment. Notice — notice how it has vastly increased the scope of this quick take. Look who can get into the act now, other than the State and political subdivisions, as under the present section. Private corporations get in; railroads, power companies, telephone companies, oil companies, pipelines. Think about it! Is that the kind of power against the people that we want to cement into this Constitution? I rather think not. If we must have a choice between this amendment and the old Constitution, let's go back to the old Section 14, with all of its defects, rather than accept what is now proposed.

I urge you to vote against the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, Mr. President and Delegates:

I have heard two eloquent talks, and I certainly appreciate the sincerity by both. What I have proposed in this amendment does not go beyond the present Constitution to any degree; especially that this was voted in as recently as 1956. My amendment only applies to right-of-way — to right-of-way, is all, for roads, for pipelines and for electric power utility lines or materials lines. That is all. In fact, the present Constitution, in a determination by the Attorney General's office, has gone far beyond the word "roads" when they used the word "right-of-way". In Devils Lake they needed to build a pipeline for their water supply here a few years ago. They construed that to be a right-of-way. That's no broader than what I have put in when I use the word "pipelines". They went further than that in other instances on the word "right-of-way." So I really haven't broadened anything. All I have said was that these things that require a right-of-way, that we can simply see that need to be done, regardless of whether it's a political subdivision or a private corporation, including our REA's, which they're doing primarily right now by the quick take. I have said nothing that has brought in much more than there really is right now. But what the present situation is with the Committee Proposal is it leaves it to the Legislature to provide for quick take; far beyond what I have spelled out here. They can do anything. They might wish to give it to the municipal airports, and I think probably they should allow the quick take in this respect. There might be many delegates here — many people that feel an airport right alongside up against the city should be used or acquired by the quick take method. The property owners and those surrounding might think this should be further out for the noise aspect, or something else. All my amendments do is spell out what they can quick take, and it isn't very far beyond what is presently in our Constitution; in fact, I think the Attorney General would provide that the right-of-way could be acquired right now, under our present Constitution that was voted in 1956 on the word "right-of-way" for these things that I just have spelled out. So, people, I most certainly have not broadened this thing to any extent at all. I'm trying to protect the property owner on these other things that can be used as far as the quick take is concerned, and so they have their day in court beyond just what the price they're going to be receiving for the property.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question — Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President, I feel constrained to point out that you can't give quick take to the Legislature. If you don't have it in the Constitution you can't have any quick take. That's the reason why the Constitution was amended in 1956 — to make it possible to have any quick take at all.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: This is an extremely complicated field. I wonder if the Committee on their proposal — I'm assuming, and if I took this wrongly, correct me; but on the last line, where you have amended it, you say "without just compensation having first been made." That, of course, is the way the present Constitution read, and that's why they came in with the quick-take amendment. But then you add the words "or estimated just compensation paid into court for the owner." Now, do you view the addition of the words "estimated just compensation paid into court" as being the same thing as quick take?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: At the request of the Highway Department — they asked us to put in "estimated just compensation" — for just that reason. Whether they now believe that you must have the statutory legislation to carry it out, I don't know. But they did believe that the words "estimated just" should be put in, and I'm sure they are looking forward to possibly statutory enactment of quick take, and for that reason would like "estimated just" in the Constitution.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Yes — Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Just one more word.

My understanding was that those words were used so the Legislature could provide quick take on anything, if they so desired. Now, if that isn't right, why then some of my statements have been wrong and, also, Mrs. Geelan's because I'm sure that that's what those words were supposed to have meant.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President, I wonder — the word "corporations" bothers me. Would you give me some examples of what you're speaking to here when you're talking about "corporations"?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Yes. Mr. President.

Yes, Delegate Fritzell. It just provides for the right-of-way; not any other property, but just the right-of-way for these things that I spelled out right in here, and that's communication lines, transportation lines and pipelines to deliver materials which could be coal, grain, or anything else.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Would this be private corporations — oil companies, gas companies, and this type of thing? That disturbs me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I wasn't specifically asked, but I would like to answer Delegate Fritzell's question. Only corporations that are given the power of eminent domain by the statute have it. For the most part, those corporations are public utilities under the supervision and control of the Public Service Commission. For a common carrier pipeline or any pipeline to have the right of eminent domain in North Dakota, you must be a common carrier pipeline. That means that you are under the complete control of the Public Service Commission and that you must get a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity in order to construct. The same is true for electric companies which are privately-owned.

The Rural Electric Cooperatives, which, of course, are privately-owned, too, they have the power of eminent domain for their lands. The generating and transmission cooperatives, which, of course, are privately owned, also have the right of eminent domain and for the building of power lines. All of these public agencies which share the power of eminent domain are granted that power by statute. They would not be granted such a power by this constitutional provision, and under that they are also then, for the most part, the investor-owned utilities, as they are called, which includes pipelines and gas lines, are under the control of the Public Service Commission.

Now, does that answer your question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President.

In one way, it does, but — in fact, I hate to be so absolutely ignorant on this; but as far as I understood, the Public Service Commission then has no jurisdiction over the REC's. Now, if that's true, then I've been misled in this way, and I don't know where I am at here.

DELEGATE PEARCE: That is true — the Public Service Commission does not have jurisdiction over the REC's. However, they are treated in the law as serving a public purpose and, for that reason, were originally given, and still have, the power of eminent domain.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President, I'm wondering if Delegate Maxwell would yield to a question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Delegate Maxwell yield to a question?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I'll try to answer it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: He yields.

DELEGATE BURKE: Delegate Maxwell, was it the thinking of your Committee that the Committee Proposal as presented would require or enable any citizen, no matter who the taker was, to question the taking, the engineering, and things of that sort, or did your proposal contemplate the Legislature granting the quick take of some farms?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: The Committee Proposal does contemplate the Legislature acting on the matter of quick take. Is that suitable?

DELEGATE BURKE: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further? Delegate Schmit.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President, I think if there's any doubt about whether the Legislature could grant quick take, just a small amendment authorizing that in our proposal would do it. I wonder if Mr. Trenbeath would yield to one question, please?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Surely.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: About midway down on your proposal, where the language reads "communication, and the transmission of power and materials for public service," could this material mean drainage water?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: No not — not in ordinary ditches, so to speak. It would mean anything which is in a closed pipeline, so to speak. It would include, even, I suppose, sewer lines and water lines of a city, and also included in that would be such as these things we can look ahead to, which would be grain pipelines, coal pipelines, and this kind of thing.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Could I ask Delegate Trenbeath a question in regard to pipelines?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Delegate Trenbeath yield?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I'll try.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Would this include the crude oil lines, as well as the natural gas lines?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Yes.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Standard Oil's crude oil line would be included in this?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: That's right, just like they are now.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: So it would be a private corporation?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention —

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I'm a little bit confused. As I understand, the original committee proposal was brought to us with the committee's feeling that the Legislature should provide for quick take in the areas that we currently have, and then it's been said that unless we provide the quick take in the Constitution, the Legislature has no authority; and to me, the two positions are just exactly opposite. I don't know quite which way to vote. I'm interested in the language as the proposal says. I'm interested in having quick take limited, as we have it, and I'm interested in the property owner being protected so that public use would have to be shown, and apparently I'd have no alternative but to vote "no" on the next two amendments and the proposal itself. If somebody could give me a reason to vote "yes," I'd appreciate it.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I don't know if I can help any, but the point, to briefly state it under the old Constitution, no property can be taken without first determining the damages. That meant they could never take possession until there was first a trial. Then, in '56, we amended it to exempt right-of-way for highways.

Now, the Trenbeath amendment is someplace in between, I think, what the old Constitution did and what the Committee Proposal does. The Trenbeath amendment grants right-of-way not only to the Highway Department, but to all utilities or any agency needing right-of-way that the Legislature might say "You're entitled to take right-of-way." So you grant the quick take to all these for right-of-way only. Any other taking, such as a park, for parking lots or airports, would have to first go to trial on the question of damages. They couldn't take possession until you had the trial.

Now, the Committee — the Committee comes out — and I'm not too sure it's a bad idea, after hearing it explained — and they're saying, "We won't state in the Constitution whether you'll have a quick take or not; we're simply stating the principle that there must be just compensation and the property rights protected."

Now, the Legislature could be narrower, I think, as Judge Maxwell pointed out. The Legislature might well not give the quick take to cooperatives or to private power companies. On the other hand I think, as this is written, it says that no property shall be taken without first — just compensation first having been paid to, or estimated just compensation, and we use the words that are in your amendments. You have to pick that up on your little slip when you use the words "estimated just compensation." I think we're saying to the Legislature, "We're not going to tell you who shall have a quick take or whether there should be any quick take." It's conceivable the Legislature could say there won't be any. It's conceivable they could say that all property could be taken by quick take. But I think, if we vote for Trenbeath's amendment, we're expanding the quick take — that's true; but only to itemize. If you go with the Committee's proposal, you're saying "This is in the hands of the Legislature." If they want to give quick take for airports, they can; if they don't think it can be done, it won't. So that's our particular vote here — whether you want to leave it to the Legislature and the people in that arena, as opposed to this body, then I think you should support the Committee. I think, if you want to expand it somewhat over the old Constitution as to right-of-way, then, of course, you support the Trenbeath amendment.

I think we have to allow some latitude. I don't think you can go back to the old Constitution before we amended and say you have to first try the question, because if you left it there, we would stop all progress as to highways and many other agencies that need right-of-way.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: First, I think we should clear one thing up. It was not the Committee that said you have to put quick take in the Constitution. If I remember correctly, that was Delegate Pearce who said that. Now, Delegate Pearce's reasoning went on then to say that eminent domain had to be under the sovereignty of the State. Now, I find it hard to believe that if eminent domain is under the sovereignty of the State, which certainly means the Legislative Assembly, as well as the Constitution, why can't the Legislative Assembly then interpret eminent domain with a quick-take provision? I don't see why it has to be in the Constitution. So I would hope that you do support the Committee and that we do leave this matter of interpretation to the Legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. President.

Fellow Delegates: Before we get on to the vote, I want to point out that the Committee very strongly emphasizes the property rights and the necessity for public use, and our stand is that in the Bill of Rights, this is a necessary type of right to be stated. We have no question that at some time or another the quick take is necessary, as everybody is saying. But the Trenbeath amendment does not even take into consideration the private property protection clause and the public use and the public — or the property rights of the owner, and I think this is the thing that we're really voting on right at the present time — actually not the quick take, but the rights of the individual.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Fellow Delegates, I well appreciate what Delegate O'Toole has just said, except that the right of quick take is just as important to the people through a political subdivision as the other may be, and my only concern is that someplace along the way we can permit it. I presume that, if we adopt 1-89 as proposed, with the amendments that are in the book, and if, in fact, this would permit the Legislature to provide a quick take based on the words "estimated just compensation," I think this is where they're hanging it — is that correct? — that then the Legislature also could enact legislation as Delegate Trenbeath has proposed, which would limit it to certain utilities and certain corporations related to the item, and this being the fact, I believe I would have to encourage defeat of the amendment and vote for 1-89.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: As we talk about quick take here, I think we have to define it a little further. It is not instant take. In the Committee Proposal, as I read it, and apparently some members of the Committee disagree with this, we still have to prove the necessary public use in the interests of the general public, and that may take a little while. Until legal machinery is drawn up and is in use for taking it, it may take a little longer than we want it to. And so, temporarily, we probably are a little bit holding back the right of eminent domain, which we all know is necessary; but certainly machinery has to develop to decide what is in the interest of the general public and what is necessary and that machinery doesn't have to be so terribly, terribly time-consuming that the public interest is violated by it. But it is something new, and a new challenge that we're throwing on our public agencies. Perhaps it's our courts; perhaps it's our Legislature. But I think we have to recognize this: Now what are the interests of the general public when the Highway Department says it will put a road through a park? Both are public uses. Doesn't someone have to make a decision that this road is in the interests of the general public?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as amended — the amendment offered by Delegate Trenbeath.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed will say "nay."

The "noes" have it and the amendment lost.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I don't have my amendment written, but it is very simple and I think we can understand it.

I move that after the word "compensation" on line 12 of the Trenbeath printed proposal as it is before me — I assume that would jibe with the engrossed proposal — we add the words "for all damages" and then in the amendment that after the word "compensation" we add "for all damages" — and if I can get a second to the motion, I'll explain why.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, are you — you're making reference to the printed proposal as it is in the book?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes. I don't have the engrossed proposal before me, but I understand the first amendment or the first words that are entered do jibe with the engrossed proposal.

Now, the second amendment won't jibe with the printed one, because you have amended this and you have added the words "estimated just compensation." Now, I just want to add the same words after "compensation" in the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, just a moment. There seems to be a little confusion here at the desk.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I have the engrossed copy before me, I understand. Is that right, Delegate Pearce? Yes. If they haven't been able to detect it there in the proper place, I can reoffer my amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Then that would read, "without just compensation for all damages having first been made to, or estimated just compensation for all damages paid into"?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes. Speaking on the amendment, Mr. President, at the present time I represent about eight or ten different property owners in condemnation cases. Many states in the Union allow compensation for special damages or special value that this property has to the property owner. The State of North Dakota does not do that. The only thing a property owner can collect now is fair market value of his property when it's taken by condemnation proceedings. Well, I contend that fair market value in many instances is not actual and complete damages to the property owner. I mention one case in particular.

There's a little corporation there — a nonprofit corporation of the Grand Forks City Mission. We went into court and, fortunately, the jury gave us more than what was being offered. But we have not been able to locate another building or another place of any kind, because this was in an area of the City where the people did not object. Now, everyplace we tried to go in the City, the people have objected, saying, "Well, this is a fine organization. You're helping the poor. You're helping people — needy people. But you build it on the other side of town or you go on the other side of town." And when we have inquired as to buying property in other parts of town, we have to pay much more than the fair market value that we — the test we were under in relocating. As a result, we've been put out of business, at least temporarily, and have not been able to locate. By adding these words "for all damages," it seems to me that we then would have to pay, or the agency condemning the property would then have to pay for special values that that property has to the property owners for damages in moving and different things of that kind, and relocating, that we do not get adequate compensation for at this time. I think, if you added those three words, you would be adding more to the rights of the individual property owner.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on the amendment as offered by Delegate Longmire?

Hearing none, would the Clerk again read the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-89 is as follows:

Line 12 of the engrossed proposal, following the word "compensation" insert the words "for all damages".

Line 13 in the engrossed proposal, following the word "compensation" insert the words "for all damages".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Longmire. Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no."

Those in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: We are on 1-89 now as it has been amended?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: As it has been amended; yes, sir.

DELEGATE PEARCE: The words "without protecting the property rights of the owner" to me are exactly contrary to the idea of eminent domain. The property rights of an owner include the right of exclusive possession. If you are to protect that right, it necessarily means that you must protect his right to continued exclusive possession. If you are to take an easement across that property for right-of-way or to take any portion of it for a public park or a highway or a school building, you are necessarily and inevitably interfering with the property rights of that owner; and if the language "without protecting the property rights of the owner" is not taken out, you have eliminated the possibility of eminent domain. Therefore — I only got part of it written — I would propose an amendment by striking out all of line 11, after the word "use," so that the words stricken out would be "without protecting the property rights of the owner and".

Now, this is highly important because of all the kinds of eminent domain that are exercised. The right of eminent domain is defined by its very nature adverse to the property rights of the owner, and if we leave the language in as it is now, you can't do it. And I move that amendment.

DELEGATE NETHING: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved — the amendment has been moved by Delegate Pearce, and it's been seconded by Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Excuse me, Mr. Chairman — Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I must amend my own amendment, as Delegate Maxwell points out. The little slip, which, I think, is in your book, adds the words "the interests of the general public and"; so my amendment necessarily will strike out the balance of line 11 as it is printed in the book, including the words "the interests of the general public and", for the same reasons explained.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Clerk read the amendment that is now before us?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-89:

In line 11 of the engrossed proposal, following the word — words "public use" delete "without protecting the property rights of the owner and".

In line 12 of the engrossed proposal, delete the words "the interests of the general public and".

It would then read: "Private property shall not be taken or damaged for necessary public use without just compensation having first been made to, or estimated just compensation paid into court for the owner" and "for all damages."

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: My neighbor here is a lot more schooled in this than I am, and he asked me one question. If we take this out, doesn't the proposal then become automatically acceptable — or acceptable for quick take?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I don't think you can conclude that. I'd have to agree with Delegate Pearce that you cannot take a man's property and at the same time protect that property right. There's a conflict between the sovereign wanting the land and the owner wanting the land. If you take it out, we're just saying that property may be damaged for necessary use, either by having the compensation first determined, which would be the trial in advance of the taking, or just compensation paid into court, estimated. We're saying, then, that — we're not really saying whether it would be quick take or not; we're leaving it up to the Legislature.

Now, I think as it is written with the Pearce amendment, I think that the landowner could challenge the question of whether or not the proposed taking is necessary, because we've added the words "necessary public use" and the method to do that would be to bring an injunction action against the authority that's trying to take it. The problem with the injunction action in the past — I think one of the reasons for the many complaints for the quick take in the old Constitution was that that specifically said they could take possession upon depositing or making the offer and depositing. So there was never any time involved. The Highway Department would be out and would be leading up to the requirement for the right-of-way before you'd ever get to court. Now, I presume, unless someone feels otherwise, that the way this is now written with the Pearce amendment, that the Legislature could say — and where they do allow the deposit of estimated just compensation in court, they could put a delay period on there, and then would say, "Even though you deposited just compensation, you couldn't actually take possession for, say, sixty or ninety days," which would be plenty of time for the landowner to engage counsel and bring an injunction action to test the question, "Is this taking necessary?"

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I don't exactly agree with these two previous distinguished attorneys with respect to the advisability of taking that clause out, and I reached that decision on this basis: That many times when these people — or when the property owners' property is being taken, they don't have anyplace to go right away; it will take them some time to find a place to go, and unless you leave that word in there of protecting the property rights, it would seem to me there could be abuse of kicking them out right away, without in the event it being in there, of course, as to how long they could retain their possession of the property. I think those words would be necessary to protect any special condition that that property owner might have that maybe some — it wouldn't happen in all cases, and I think we should keep those words in for that reason, and I oppose the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President, I was going to rise in opposition to the amendment, and I can rise now much more confidently bolstered by an opinion from as eminent a lawyer as Delegate Longmire. I certainly urge that you defeat the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I think I'm going on the subject because I'm going to urge you to defeat the amendment. Is this an amendment to an amendment? This is just an amendment.

I urge you to defeat the amendment and the entire Proposal. I think — and go back to the section in the old Constitution. I'm urging you to defeat the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's all right. That far you can go. (Laughter)

Anything further? The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Pearce. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" and those opposed will vote "nay."

Those in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed will say "no."

The "noes" have it. The amendment lost.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Division, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce, did you request a division?

DELEGATE PEARCE: I request a division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce requests a division. Let's see now. How are we going to do this?

Those that are in favor of adopting the amendment will please rise. Stand long enough so we can count.

Delegate Nicholas, we're voting on the adoption of this amendment on a division.

Do you have them? Now, if you folks will be seated. Those that are opposed will please rise.

There isn't any question who won. The amendment has been defeated.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I wonder if I might inquire of Delegate Pearce.

Delegate Pearce, I wonder if the objection might be removed if you struck the word "property" and just left it "without protecting the rights of the owner." I wonder if the Committee would object to that.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Well, I don't believe the Committee would object to anything, as long as it's not an amendment. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes, Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

I haven't entered into this discussion before because, quite frankly, I don't know what's going on, and the only reason I'm talking right now is I don't know what's going on. It seems to me that we have two thoughts, and I'm sure that they're both well-qualified — both talks are well-thought-out; but I just can't keep up with this. I would suggest, Mr. President, that Delegates Pearce, Kelsch and Trenbeath get together with Delegates Maxwell, Geelan and Thompson and see if they can't offer something that I can understand, because I can't go back home now and tell anybody why I voted, and I sat down on the last amendment for both votes.

I'm serious about my — about my proposal, and I think that there are quite a few that don't know what's going on.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the —

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, I'll recognize Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President, I think there are a lot of us who are in the same boat as Delegate Hougen, and I know we spent an hour on this already, but we're in a legal jungle right now that many of us don't understand, and we don't want to make a mistake. It would seem to me, in spite of the investment we've already got in 1-89, we would be well-advised to place it on the bottom of the calendar and follow the suggestion Delegate Hougen made and place it on the bottom of the calendar and work our way out.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten and Fellow Delegates:

If you do nothing with this Proposal as it is right now, it has been amended, so it will automatically be on the tenth order tomorrow. Unless you move to suspend the rules and vote on it immediately, it will automatically go to the tenth order for tomorrow.

So I think that is adequate time. So with that, unless there are further amendments to be made to this offer — to this proposal at this time — Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, there was some concern here, I think, on the part of some delegates that — whether or not the Legislature would have a right to provide legislation for the quick take. I would suggest a further minor amendment, so that I think that would remove any doubt as to whether or not the Legislature did have such power, by — after the word "owner" at the end of the whole proposal as it's been engrossed — I think the last word on the engrossed proposal is "owner," is it not? — add the words "as provided by law" — and I think that would remove any doubt as to whether or not the Legislature would have authority to set up the details of this quick-take situation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you so move, Delegate Longmire? Do you offer an amendment?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes, I move that amendment, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then do we have a second?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kelsch.

The question is on the further amendment as offered by Delegate Longmire — that after the word "owner" we insert the words "as provided by law."

Do you have the amendment? The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Longmire — that after the word "owner" in the last line, that we add "as provided by law."

Is there any discussion? Hearing none —

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Yes. Just a question here. I'm confused by the amendment.

Delegate Longmire — I don't know if I read this amendment right. When you say that this will give the Legislature quick take, I think the amendment as it stands now only talks about the manner in which just compensation shall be paid. I don't think that that amendment answers the question as to the question of quick take.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, the reason for the amendment was to remove some doubt that existed on the part of some delegates as to whether the Legislature would be empowered to provide legislation to supplement this section of our Constitution, and those words were added to clarify that, so that it would show our intent that the Legislature could supplement this business about paying this money into court and provide for the quick-take method as far as right-of-ways are concerned.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: My question is in repetition with Delegate Aubol's.

It would seem there is some question as to whether or not we are talking about the procedure for taking or whether or not we're talking about the right of eminent domain, and I think Delegate Longmire spoke on that.

DELEGATE WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President, I would ask Chairman Maxwell: As this has been amended, should it still be in the right area? Doesn't this make it another issue? Excuse me.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I believe that in its present form as amended, that certainly does belong in the Bill of Rights.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Longmire.

Hearing no further discussion —

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Did everyone understand exactly what Delegate Aubol and what Delegate Burbidge were referring to? I hope they did, because if they did — all it refers to is all that's paid into court.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: It seems to me that it's time to move for further consideration and that this be laid over one Convention day so the attorneys can get together on just where this bill is and what this amendment should be. I've been confused a long time. If you people on the Calendar Committee will remember, this morning I said something to the effect that any time you get two lawyers to agree on the same thing, we've just about reached the millennium.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, there's a simple way to have this laid over until the tenth order tomorrow; simply defeat the amendment — either way — defeat the amendment or if you pass the amendment. Unless someone gets up and moves, and can pass, to suspend the rules, and so forth, it will automatically go to the tenth order tomorrow.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I certainly do not intend to move at this time to suspend the rules and I don't see anybody else jumping up to do it. I think, if we pass this amendment, it will be on the tenth order, as you stated, and it will be in the Journal the way the amendments occur, and we'll all have time to study it and act on it tomorrow, without any further motion.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I suppose the easy thing to do would be not to say anything; but I don't see any reason to pass this amendment, because we're going to have to delete it tomorrow anyway. There's no periods in that sentence at all; and so, therefore "as provided by law" defeats the whole purpose of the statement, as far as I see it, because then the Legislature can go back and provide for everything.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further?

Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" and those opposed will vote "no."

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye" — let's do that over.

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "nay."

The "noes" have it. The amendment lost.

Any further — anything further to be done with Proposal No. 1-89 as amended?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President, I would suggest that a copy of the bill as it has now been amended be placed on the desk of each delegate before we vote on it tomorrow.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that a copy of the bill as now amended —or of the Proposal as now amended be prepared and placed on the desk of each delegate for tomorrow's session.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and that will be carried out.

At this time I think it would be a very fine time to take about a ten-minute break.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Before you go, could I please ask you to try and vote? The voting machine people are in the back and they want to watch what happens or what doesn't happen. Maybe they can fix it. So I'm going to open the key and if you could please vote.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Which way? (Laughter)

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: It doesn't make any difference. Hold your keys over and I will now close it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be in recess for ten minutes. We will be in recess until 3:45.

(The Session recessed at 3:34 P.M. until 3:56 P.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Will the Convention please come to order?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: In view of the progress that we have made on today's calendar on the tenth order, I feel that it is absolutely essential that we have an evening session. I would, therefore, suggest that we run now until about 5:30 and recess for an hour-and-a-half or two hours and come back for another couple of hours' work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Someone suggested that one of the requirements in order to adjourn this evening would be that we get eleven proposals off, like we did Friday. So, with that, I think it would take considerably more than two hours, and it has been suggested that we work until four in the morning. But, in all seriousness though, I think that what Delegate Saugstad has said merits a lot of thought and consideration, and I think that's what we'll have to do.

We will be on the tenth order of business.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-93.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-93, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 146 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the controlling of prices, be repealed.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 146 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion? Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

This is part of the original Committee Proposal 1-20, I think. It's so old that I practically have forgotten what it's all about.

Section 146 of the present Constitution provides that "Any combination between individuals, corporations, associations, or either having for its object or effect the controlling of the price of any product of the soil or any article of manufacture or commerce, or the cost of exchange or transportation, is prohibited and hereby declared unlawful" — and so on.

The Section — as far as could be determined, this is one annotated case. It's not particularly used and it is an area, we feel, that is primarily that of legislation. There has been legislation both on the State and Federal level providing for price-fixing and this type of thing. We felt that this section should be repealed. It appears that the section as it now stands would prohibit such organizations as the NFO and possibly the Farmers Union and the Farm Bureau from operating.

We attempted to try to rework this section and provide for some consumer protection, and we kicked it around starting last summer, up until last week, and really couldn't come up with anything that was very meaningful. It's the Committee's recommendation that this section be deleted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, I think you'd get the most bang for your buck today if you voted immediately.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-93. Those in favor of its passage will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key and we hope the machine will — is it turned off?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The machine is turned off.

DELEGATE POULSON: I'd like to apologize on that last vote. After the debate on 1-89, I'm really not sure whether I am here or not; but I voted "aye."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The roll call discloses 93 "ayes," no "nays," five delegates absent and not voting.

So Proposal No. 1-93 has passed.

I hope, Fellow Delegates, that you realize that the process of voting this way is like they do in the Congress of the United States; so we have elevated ourselves to that position (Laughter)

Next for consideration —

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: At this time, if there's no objection, I'm going to move that Committee Proposal 1-25, 1-26 and 1-120 be moved to the head of the calendar. Those are two of those pink ones you see in your book here. We have amended them. They have been before us before, and we've had subcommittees on these, and I think these are proposals that we could handle this afternoon. So I'll make that as a motion.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet moves, and Delegate Litten seconds the motion, that Committee Proposal 1-25, 1-26 and 1-120 be moved to the head of the calendar.

Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the three proposals as listed will be moved to the head of the calendar.

First for discussion, Committee Proposal No. 1-25.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-25, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 79 and 80 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the veto power of the governor, be created.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 79 and 80 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Governor — Veto Power.

"a) Every bill passed by the legislative assembly shall be presented to the governor for his signature. If the governor signs the bill it shall become law.

"b) The governor may veto a bill passed by the legislative assembly. He may veto or reduce items in appropriation bills. Portions of the bill not vetoed or reduced shall become law.

"c) The governor shall return any vetoed item or bill with a statement of his objections to the house in which it originated for reconsideration. That house shall immediately enter the governor's objections upon its journal. If that house by a record vote of two-thirds of its elected members passes a vetoed item or bill, it shall immediately be delivered to the other house. If it is then approved by a record vote of two-thirds of the elected members of the second house, it shall become law. Any reduced item shall follow the same procedure as a vetoed item or bill, except if it is passed by a record vote of a majority of the elected members of both houses it shall become law.

“d) While the legislature is in session, a bill becomes law if the governor neither signs nor vetoes it within five days, Sundays excepted, after its delivery to him. If the legislature is not in session, a bill becomes law if the governor neither signs nor vetoes it within fifteen days, Sundays excepted, after its delivery to him.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I'm just going to refresh your memory a little bit about 1-25. On January 14th, we passed it 87-to-5; however, we did reconsider our action and at that time our attention was devoted to the matter of the reducing items in appropriation bills by the governor, and there was a further amendment later on relating to whether or not the appropriation for the operation of the Legislative Assembly should be immune from veto.

Now, the bill that's before you — and I'll just go over it a little, section by section; but Section a, as it stands originally was that we provide — the bill must be presented to the governor for signature, and if he does sign it, of course it becomes law. Section b says that the governor can veto any bill passed by the Legislative Assembly and that he may veto or reduce items in an appropriation bill.

Now, earlier we had talked about the matter of using the word “veto,” “strike” or “reduce,” and of course the language, we think, is better, because when we say “veto an item,” that would be the same as striking an item, that the governor currently can do. The new language and the language that was the subject of discussion before, which at one time we amended out of it, is the matter of reducing an item.

Now, Fellow Delegates, I have with me two appropriation measures, and I want to refer to them to show you the importance of the governor being able to reduce an item, as well as to veto a particular item. The Poultry Improvement Board, for example, had an item in its — their entire appropriation, consisting of six lines; the first line, the salary and wages; second line, fees and services, and so on down the line. Now, if the governor felt that the appropriation by the Legislature was too high on salary and wages, there was no way he could reduce this particular item under our current Constitution. He would have to strike the entire salaries and wages item.

Now, what has brought this about is the way that the Legislature passes their appropriation bills. The entire budget comes before the Appropriations Committee in a rather complete form, and they know exactly what salaries and wages they're referring to and the positions. However, when it comes before the Legislature in bill form, that is not the case. Therefore, because of this, we feel it is important that the governor be able to reduce a particular item.

I also have here House Bill 1001, which is the higher education appropriation. It consists of some six pages. For example, the University of North Dakota — we have their entire budget of 15 million dollars, which includes less fees and services — excuse me — less the money that comes in. But, at any rate, there's salaries and wages of $18,041,064. Well, the governor, if he felt there was something in there that he did not want to have, would have no way to reduce that appropriation. He would have to strike the whole thing. In addition to providing that reduction item, we have provided that any item so reduced by the governor will then be submitted to the Legislature again, just as a vetoed item would be, or a vetoed bill. A vetoed item or a vetoed bill would require two-thirds to override. A reduced item would require a majority of the Legislature to override.

The second change that we made in the bill was the removing of the immunity of the legislative appropriation from veto by the governor. There's some feeling that the Legislature itself should be treated no differently than any of the other budgets and the joint committee — a subcommittee of the Legislative Functions and Executive Functions Committee — do recommend at this time that that be deleted. We think now that we've met all of the problems that came up when 1-25 was initially passed and amended, and it is recommended to you now for a do pass.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-25. Those in favor will vote “aye;” those opposed will vote “nay.”

Committee Proposal No. 1-25 has passed.

Next for consideration. Committee Proposal No. 1-26.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1- —

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, I wonder if I could move that we waive the reading of 1-26, inasmuch as it has been read previously and because this is another one we took action on previously and sent back to the Committee. I would so move.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething moves that we dispense with the reading of Committee Proposal No. 1-26. It's seconded by Delegate Kwako.

Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor — Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" against or opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and we will dispense with the reading of 1-26.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Nething has said this is another one that was sent back to the Committee to clear up some cloudiness in the language, in part. While we were at it, we made one small amendment. In part c, in line 19, we changed the words "is disqualified" to "fails to disqualify" — "fails to qualify," which we thought were more exact, at the end of line 19 there. But over in Section 4 there was a little doubt about what the language used previously meant. You'll find that language on page 2 of 1-26 — the white 1-26 — which is directly ahead of the pink number. In line — I think that this language says what we thought we had said the first time around. In line 5, we have changed the language to read, "to determine absence and disability of the governor or governor-elect and to determine" — and the rest is the same as the first Section b — d was. In other words, we have added the words — just that one phrase giving the Supreme Court jurisdiction to determine absence and disability of the governor or governor-elect, as well as the rest of it.

This proposal pertains solely to procedures which shall be used in determining whether the governor or the governor-elect is able to fulfill his duties or to take office again after a disability, and it pertains only to the governor. At the time that this was returned, there was a conference committee, and it was decided that the procedures for determining whether other officers were able to carry out their duties should be taken care of in another proposal, which is Proposal 1-120, which will be discussed next. This one pertains solely to the succession — gubernatorial succession.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. Did the amendment that we considered previously pass — the one that dealt with Section d?

DELEGATE VOGEL: I'm sorry. I don't know. It was returned to committee. I don't know that it was passed. Was it passed?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, I maybe could answer that.

Delegate Aubol. I believe you are talking about the amendment that's in the book. Yeah. Right. We approved that about three or four days ago, and then we had it — we didn't intend to have it reprinted. We intended to have it retyped and distributed, but that's — it was approved, and that's the reason the language is on the pink sheet there.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething, just a point of clarification.

It would be right to say that the proposal as before us is a reprint and — in that pink sheet; is that right?

DELEGATE NETHING: Yes, the pink sheet shows the proposal as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The way it is before the Convention now?

DELEGATE NETHING: That's correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does that answer your question, Delegate Aubol?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Yes, Mr. President. I do, however have one further question, and that has to do with that line 6, where you state, "The Supreme Court shall have original, exclusive and final jurisdiction to determine absence and disability of the governor or governor-elect."

I wonder, how does the governor-elect fit into this article?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Should something happen to the governor-elect between the time that he is elected and the time that he is inducted into office — about six weeks-to-two months later.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal 1-26. Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.
DELEGATE AUBOL: Under the procedure we're working on now, do I have the opportunity to change my vote?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You can change your vote.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I would change my vote to "aye." I have a chance to read it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol changes the vote from "nay" to "aye." As long as you change it before the vote is announced.

Delegate Larsen, how do you vote?

DELEGATE LARSEN: Aye.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: He votes "aye."

The roll call discloses 95 "ayes," there were no "nays," absent and not voting were three. So Committee Proposal No. 1-26 has passed.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-120.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, this is another one that's been — that was read when it was brought in on amendment and, therefore, I would move that we dispense with the reading of 1-120.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing moves that we dispense with the reading of Proposal No. 1-120. It's been seconded by Delegate Litten.

Any discussion? As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." We'll dispense with the reading of the Proposal.

Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

Committee Proposal 1-120 deals with the subject of removal from office for all elected and appointed officers of the State and its political subdivisions, other than its judicial officers.

Now, the reason judicial officers are excluded is because there is a particular provision that applies to them in the judicial article. The grounds for removal are as may be provided by law for the following reasons: Crimes, corrupt, conduct, malfeasance or because of chronic and continuing inability to perform the duties of office.

Beginning on line 12 you will note that "Proceedings for removal of state executive officers shall be commenced as provided by law in the Supreme Court of the state, which court shall have original, exclusive, and final jurisdiction."

The purpose for inserting that clause is so that for any of the other officers, that the Legislature may provide which court will have jurisdiction. This would be your municipal officers or your county officers, township officers, and so on.

Now, I would like to direct your attention to Committee Proposal 1-33, which we passed on January 11, and in Article II there, Section 23, lines 12 through 15, in that particular Proposal we have — we make subject to removal all officers that were not liable to impeachment. In other words, all officers who were not elected. If you approve this Proposal 1-120, which now encompasses all elected and appointed officers, except as I pointed out, then we will move to return 1-33 for the elimination of lines 12 through 15. So we're putting it all in one section, and this was worked out, again, by a joint sub-committee of the Executive Functions and Legislative Functions. We think it's a good provision and urge your approval.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-120.

Hearing no further discussion — Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to ask Mr. Nothing a question.

DELEGATE NETHING: Yes sir.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Nothing, as I recall in the Board of Education provision this morning, we did provide that those appointees should be removed in a manner providing for the removal of the governor. Do you recall that or have you checked against that one?

DELEGATE NETHING: I'd like to yield to someone on the Education Committee. I am not familiar with it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: The language says here the members of the Board may be removed for the same reasons and in the same manner provided for removal of the governor.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to ask, then, Mr. Nething: When we come to the Board provision tomorrow, would it be in good order to adopt this system to the Board's removal, rather than the governorship impeachment, et cetera?

DELEGATE NETHING: This would be, I think, the consensus of our — the two committees that worked on this. It would be just a minor amendment at that point.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question — Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. I wonder if the sentence that's in one of the legislative sections — I can't remember which one — that says that the Legislature shall be the sole judge of the qualifications of its members — might be in conflict here. If a law were in effect which would demonstrate a legislator to be unqualified, and yet the Legislature itself saw fit to suggest that he was qualified — are the two sections in conflict?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

It would be my thought that the provision in the legislative article would govern prior to the time that they are seated in office. In other words, they would set the qualifications up to that point, and then, for removal purposes and for the reasons as outlined here, this provision would govern.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-120. Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.
DELEGATE SOLBERG: May I make an observation that the Delegates to this Convention are not colorblind and their favorite color is pink. (Laughter)
PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.
DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. President, may I explain my vote?
PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Certainly.
DELEGATE O'TOOLE: In re-reading this and just as they were starting to take the roll call, it occurred to me the possibility, in the second paragraph, that it would be very restrictive for the governor if he had appointed officers, and that it would have to resort back to some complicated Supreme Court decision, that I felt it would be too restrictive on that matter because it says, "removal of state executive officers."
PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-76.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-76, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:
"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 50 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 15 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the openness of legislative sessions.
"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 50 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.
"SECTION 2.) Section 15 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"All sessions of the legislative assembly, the committee of the whole, and the meetings of legislative committees shall be open and public."

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, this Proposal has been laid over once on account of my being sick once last week, and once on account of Delegate Butler not being here, and I understand he won't be here the rest of the week, and unless somebody has some other information, I suggest we proceed.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Delegate Butler called me on Sunday regarding other matters, and he did say that he was not going to be here for this purpose and that he didn't expect it to be held up; however, he did have an amendment that has been distributed to everyone that has his name on the upper right-hand corner, and I believe it's at the desk, and I would move the amendment at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing moves the amendment.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-76:

After the period in line 13 insert the following:

"For the purpose of confirming gubernatorial appointments or conducting other specific business as ought to be kept secret, however either house may by majority vote of its members- elect close its deliberations to the public."

Renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: For the record, the motion was seconded by Delegate Knudson.

Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I think probably Delegate Paulson could explain his opposition better than I could, but since we don't want him talking on both sides of the question, why I'll attempt to explain what Delegate Butler was attempting to do in this amendment.

As many of you know, there are a variety of appointments that come before the Senate, at which time the Senate has resolved itself into executive session for consideration of the same. Needless to say, 1-76 would prohibit this, and there are some — and this amendment would permit this to be done within — "for the purpose of confirming gubernatorial appointments or conducting other specific business as ought to be kept secret, however, either house may by majority vote of its members-elect close its deliberations to the public."

Now, I think there may be another amendment or two involving other areas. But, in this particular area, where the Senate is involved, the matter of discussing the merits of an individual and his ability for holding a particular job could be such that it might cause embarrassment to the particular individual when needless — as we all know, to get good people to serve in government, we want to do everything we can to encourage them. Senator Butler mentioned to me, and I certainly concur, that as a practical matter if we are to prohibit this being done, eventually these meetings will be held downtown, where they will be closed, or at somebody's residence, or something of this nature, and then the decision made on the floor will be such just for public edification and not as to the merits at all. I think the proposed amendment does have some consideration, and I would urge your approval of it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman. The Legislative Functions Committee did not bring forth its proposal simply as a matter — as an exercise in good-heartedness. Essentially, we, the people, elect the legislators to do our business. We, the constitutional delegates, are proposing that we go to a very extensive appointive system. Now, all of you have had experience in this session. You know that primarily the business of this Convention is accomplished in the committee sessions. This is what the intent of the proposal is — to let the public witness what the legislators do. Any time we give permission to keep secret those things which the legislators think should be kept secret, we give them a wide-open privilege to keep the public out, either by indirection or by vote, if the public forces them to go that way.

I cannot understand how this Convention could go to a very wide-open appointive system for the executive branch and then permit the Legislature to approve those appointees in secret. Any time anybody permits his name to go before the Legislature as an appointee of the governor, his record is as open and should be as open to the public as to the Legislature for examination. He has put himself into the political circle and his record should be examined. By the same token, the Legislature should be able to give good substantial reason for turning down any appointee, rather than some behind-the-door reason, which leaves the thing wide open to speculation and probably could do more damage to the individual involved than an open examination and an open vote. I am quite sure that when you see people come to Bismarck to present their testimony before committees, that they do feel bad when the committee says, "Well, now it's time for executive session. Will the witnesses please leave?" Under our proposal, the chairman and the Legislature would have full control. The people could give their testimony, but then they could sit back and see what the Legislature and committee members did with the testimony that is presented.

I think that this is a strong proposal for open government. It didn't come out of the committee; it came from a member of the Legislature. The original proposal comes from Delegate Rundle, and it virtually is a duplicate of his Delegate Proposal which was examined by our Committee, and I urge the defeat of the amendment and the approval of the Proposal.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, would Delegate Nothing yield to a question?

DELEGATE NOTHING: Okay.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I realize that Delegate Nothing is here on the spot. But would you give me an illustration of the impact of the second line of the amendment — "other specific business as ought to be kept secret"? Could you give me some examples?

DELEGATE NOTHING: I really can't. It was Delegate Butler's language, and perhaps somebody else on the Committee — they might have discussed it in the Committee. If somebody might answer the question, not necessarily being for or against it.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I think I could give an indirect example of what I think Delegate Butler is trying to get at here, although I'm not in complete accord with his amendment.

I think something — some other consideration should be given of it. But many times during the legislative session a whole list of names comes before the Senate for confirmation — people that are officials that the governor is appointing. Now, as a general rule, those go right through without any difficulty. Someone who knows the person in the body gets up and gives their qualifications and all, and we are in executive session and have been in past years, at least. Occasionally however, there is something derogatory that will come out about that official and will cause, probably, the Senate not to confirm the appointment. Maybe this was not even known by the governor at the time. And there is — has been some feeling that that person should not be exposed to the public, if he's not going to get the job for something that may or may not be true; but at least it was brought out at the time of the hearing. That is one example where a complete, open hearing might be unfair to the person who is being considered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, pursuing that, I can understand the first sentence and why it's there. The second sentence, I understand, is also from Section 50 of the present Constitution, and I was just wondering, as a practice does the Legislature ever go into executive session for subjects other than appointments?

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: The Legislature, in open session, when they meet in plenary session, cannot go into secret session except they have interpreted the words "executive session" as requiring the elimination of all people from the gallery and from the press desks, and this is in the Senate for the approval of appointees to the Board of Higher Education and a couple of others. But we are going into a brand new system and those appointees, not only for the Board of Education, we're establishing, should be examined by committees and in public, just as a nominee for the U. S. Supreme Court is examined in public and by the committees of the U. S. Senate. The major bodies cannot go into executive session for any of the normal transactions of passing bills and discussing resolutions. Their committees, however, have undertaken the privilege of exempting — of closing the doors to the public and to the press whenever they so feel like it. That is generally when there is a hot subject coming up and they would rather not have anybody looking over their shoulder and determining how they are going to handle the public's business. This is where the secrecy in the Legislature does crop up from time to time. It's been pretty good in recent years. But there is always the possibility that the critical business will be handled behind closed doors, and closed doors are the general rule on the conference committees between House and Senate, and that general rule would be eliminated by this provision; in other words, a conference committee would have to admit anybody who wished to watch them in their deliberations. Of course that doesn't mean that they have to take testimony or anything else, but there would be no secret or unexplainable conference committee reports.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, there is a case, albeit a weak one, for allowing the Senate to go into executive session to consider gubernatorial appointments. The case is even weaker now that we're proposing this new Constitution to confer broad new appointive powers on the governor.

As to the second line of the proposed amendment, I pose this question: When is "other specific business" in a legislative session ever such as ought to be kept secret from the public? These are the people's representatives. They should operate in the open.

Mr. President, the vote in committee on Committee Proposal 1-76 was 17 "aye," 1 "nay," and 2 absent.

I urge you to reject the amendment. It would render the entire section meaningless and inoperative.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner. I'm sorry — go ahead.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I also hope that the amendment is defeated. We kicked this around in Committee quite a bit. Every person that goes before the public to be elected — his record is open to the public, and I don't see any reason why appointed officials should not be open to the public.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President, I think it's a very good thing that we provided 80 days for the Legislature. I'm not naive enough to realize that if these people want to go into executive session, they'll just recess their meeting and meet downtown and have a party and vote on it there, and then come back again. I'm against both the amendment and the proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

Well, I introduced essentially the same proposal, okayed the change in the committee — or, that is, I okay it now, and it's all right.

Let's go back to Section 50 in the old Constitution, and here's one case where I don't think the old Constitution was so good. You can just imagine sitting in that old chamber, most of the boys with beards and whiskers, and someone got up, brought in the proposition — he said, "The sessions of each house and of the committee of the whole shall be open. So we have to compromise." Here comes an amendment and it ends up "shall be open unless the business is such as ought to be kept secret."

Now, this is really compromised! They just change it completely, and that's what the amendment would do. And I could add a little bit to how the Legislature's been working — how the House has been working. Lots of chairmen still have executive — or some chairmen still have executive sessions. As a whole, there weren't very many executive sessions in the House that I knew about. One Committee I was on didn't have the executive session at all. We heard the lawyers and the lobbyists and the witnesses, and we went right ahead and voted on it. No one seemed to be hurt, and I can't see why this body, which is the most open convention I've ever attended — or meeting — of course there have been some smoky rooms, but I don't think any business has been transacted. I think that this is a good example of why the Legislature should be non-secretive. I hope that the amendment is defeated and the proposal passed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I was going to suggest or move that we also — that we have 2-12 read. Actually, these two proposals deal with the very same subject — the same problems arise, the same type of amendments would apply, one having come through the Legislative Committee relates to open meetings of the Legislature, and the other deals with all government agencies with regard to open meetings, and I think it might be helpful if we could move this up right behind — or at least it be read now, so the delegates would know when they tamper with one, they could consider the other one, as to what they're going to do, because the very same issues are present in both of them. I don't know how — we can't consider them simultaneously, but we can have them one right after the other. So I would move that 2-12 be moved up immediately following this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, I think you would have to reverse the procedure. I think you should move it up first — read it first, and then move it up. I think, if it is the wish of the Convention that you move it immediately below this one, why then I think we can do that.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Or we could move it ahead of this one and consider it. I move it be put immediately below this one, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And it is number what?

DELEGATE KELSCH: 2-12.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Mr. Chairman, was the suggestion to move it ahead of the one that we now have — 2-12?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Well, I'll move it ahead of the one that we're considering now.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I'll second that motion.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I would oppose that proposal. We've debated this subject. There's a world of difference between the elected representatives of the people doing the public's business and the appointive boards and agencies, which takes in all other — many different concepts, and the arguments are in some degree, but I think we should handle the legislative one first, set policy for that branch, and then take a look at the next one. I would oppose changing the order of business, as long as we have 1-76 before us now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will concur in the argument as presented by Delegate Paulson, inasmuch as we do have an amendment to a particular proposal before the Convention.

The amendment before the Convention is that offered by Delegate Nothing on behalf of Delegate Butler.

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment. Any further discussion? Hearing none, those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposed "nay." The "noes" have it and the amendment lost.

Now we're back on Committee Proposal No. 1-76.

Now, Delegate Hernet, you have asked for the floor — I believe this is the third time — so maybe I'd better listen.

DELEGATE HERNETT: No, it's the second time.

I'd like to talk — ask a question on 1-76. I have no quarrel with this type of a thing, I think the Committee should know. I've been a committee chairman for a long time in the Senate. I do wonder, though, about tape recorders and television cameras, and so on, at a committee hearing. What do the proponents of this measure feel is the — where can you draw the line on this type of a thing?

Now, I've been requested at different times and at different sessions of the Legislature to allow tape recorders at our committee hearings and have been asked to allow television cameras. I've been asked to move our hearings to larger rooms to allow television cameras to be there. What I'm wondering: Is there anyplace in this, if this is passed, for a committee chairman in the Legislature, or the Legislature itself, to make any determination of what in some cases that I know of and one in particular in the last session, where it became a nuisance and I had to say "no" as to tape recorders — someplace or other, I think we should — legislators should have something to say about how far this thing should go.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: If I may answer that question.

In Committee Proposal 1-70, which has passed, Section 13 provides that "Each house shall have the power to determine the rules of proceedings and punish its members or other persons for contempt or disorderly behavior in its presence." It seems to me that confers on the Legislature the power to determine by rule such matters as the presence of cameras and tape recorders.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I don't think that's answering my question. Could we rule — is that your interpretation, then, that we could rule that we would have no television cameras and no tape recorders in committee hearings?

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: The Committee on Legislative Functions did not attempt to go into what the Committee did. As I pointed out, the committee is in full control of the proceedings within the committee room. It will recognize the witnesses from time to time, but once that the committee decides to go into its own discussion, from that point on the public and the press are simply audience. There is no attempt to establish in this provision a mandate that television cameras are a part of the scenery, either in the chambers or in the committee deal, or tape recorders, or anything else. Each of those things will have to be decided by the Legislature itself, and I'm quite sure that there will be no different rules than prevailed in the past, and it would be strictly up to the Legislature to handle it the way it is best for them and for the public.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I'm sure that everyone here agrees that the tape recorder hasn't interfered with our deliberations in committee hearings, and possibly in the future the Legislature is going to be doing the same thing — record all proceedings in committee meetings and then an individual can't come in and take part of it and take it out and say this is what this person said, and take it out of context, because the record will be there. I don't think this is going to be too much of a problem. The Legislative Procedure and Arrangements Committee has installed some lighting in the chamber here and are encouraging more coverage of the deliberations, and in committee meetings, as well as in the chamber.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Delegate Hernet, it wasn't the intent of my proposal, and this one follows it closely, to cut down the power of the chairman to run his committee, and I wasn't so concerned with the press and the other media as I was with citizens. For instance, I've been on a committee when some neighbors and friends of mine came down and testified at a hearing, and then were very politely but forcibly shown the door. I was highly embarrassed. They had every right to be there. They had driven a long way. And I don't think the intent — I know my intent wasn't to stop the committee chairmen from closing down the television cameras or tape recorders, if they were making noise, or anything like that, the same as now applies in most courtrooms, where the judge can — has pretty much control in case they're bothering; and cameras the same way, in a lot of cases. At least this wasn't the intent.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question before the Convention, for first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-76.

Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no."

We have been requested to try the machine, so we're going to. The Clerk will open the key and we will try the automatic roll call.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote?

You will close the key.

Delegate Knudson, how do you vote?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Aye.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Knudson votes "aye."

DELEGATE KETCHUM: Aye.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The roll call discloses 87 "ayes" 7 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-76 has been passed.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Did we move to hear 2-12 at this time?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You did move, but I ruled the motion out of order, and if you wish to bring it back, you will have to —

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I will so move now, if its in order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen moves that Delegate Proposal 2-12 be placed at the head of the calendar. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate McIntyre.

Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Delegate Proposal No. 2-12 is now at the head of the calendar.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I have an amendment at the desk. Would you read it, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will read the proposal first.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-12, introduced by Delegate Rundle:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, requiring that governmental meetings be open to the public.

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The meetings of all governmental and executive bodies, boards, bureaus, commissions or agencies of the state, or any of its political subdivisions, shall be open and public."

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I now have an amendment at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 2-12.

On line 9 of the engrossed proposal, after the word "public" and before the period, insert the following: ", except when privileged, confidential, or personal and intimate information involving a specific individual or family is under consideration and revealed in discussion."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May we have a second?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: This privileged and confidential information that I refer to in this amendment would include but not be limited to information regarding possibly an individual's physical or his mental health, his birth status, including parenthood of a child born out of wedlock, or his possible subsequent adoption. It would include marital problems, juveniles in conflict with the law, the financial status of individuals, the dependency of individuals, and similar information which would constitute what I believe is an invasion of privacy if it were made open to the public.

I would like to refer to Chapter 50-24 of the Code. Section 50-24-31 of the North Dakota Century Code, pertaining to confidentiality in public welfare operations:

"All applications, information, and records concerning any applicant or recipient of assistance to aged, blind, or disabled under the provisions of this chapter shall be confidential and shall not be disclosed nor used for any purpose not directly connected with the administration of assistance to the aged, blind, or disabled; except that upon the personal written request of any elected public official the records of the names, addresses, and amounts of assistance shall be open for his inspection by the state or county welfare board. Such information shall not be used for any political or commercial purpose or made public in any manner."

It also provides for the fact that the violation of this would make a person or persons guilty of a misdemeanor.

Now, I think this is a very simple matter of just protecting — to keep from constituting the invasion of privacy of any individual, if we're thinking of the individual.

Now, this law that I referred to actually, I believe, was enacted to put North Dakota in compliance with the federal requirement as it pertains to the Social Security Administration. So, in deference to this state law and in propriety in protecting individual human rights, I ask you to support this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment. Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Ladies and Gentlemen:

The Committee — I wasn't on the Committee, and I believe Chairman Maxwell told me to appear and talk about it, so I thought maybe I ought to mention a word here.

There are a lot of — there are several amendments, and everyone that's offered them has been good enough to leave one here, and I have no objection to some of the amendments. However, the most — the best amendment, in my opinion, didn't get in first, and I don't know what to do about this. But I can see that this — I would like to explain, first, that we took out the courts. I had originally had one include courts, and there were so many exemptions that had to be in that I withdrew that the other day — separation, divorce, and all that. And then the Committee put the word "executive bodies" in here to make sure this didn't include the courts, and I agree, and I have no objection to any further amendments; but I — I would like to figure out a way to hear Mrs. Jestrab's amendment, first, and the only way I can see is to urge the defeat of this one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

I would like to call the body's attention to the fact that while the Tax Commissioner is a single individual, the Supreme Court of this State has held that it is a governmental agency. If you have a dispute about your income tax with the Tax Commissioner, there are circumstances under which you are entitled to a hearing.

It is conceivable that that hearing could then be public. I think the former Tax Commissioner, to my right, would agree with me on that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President, I do have an amendment in to this proposal, and I do not object to Mr. Christensen's proposal at all, except that mine would say that there shall be a privilege for individual natural persons whose rights are being considered, if that person requests the meeting be closed, and I would explain that, if this is debated. Otherwise, I think it would be included in Mr. Christensen's motion.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I became aware of her amendment — Mrs. Jestrab's amendment — after I offered mine; but I — I really feel in my amendment, where I include the wordage "personal and intimate information," I think it would include what she's driving at.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Well, Delegate Christensen, I was wondering if you objected to the amendment just mentioned, which said "if requested by the individual."

Now, there's quite a difference there. If the individual requests that it be a closed meeting in cases like that, I have no objection; but I have sort of an objection to the chairman or the head of the department closing any meeting, if the person involved doesn't care.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I believe that we would have to have similar language to Delegate Christensen's amendment in order to comply with the federal statutes with respect to welfare and some of these other programs. I don't believe that if we only excluded it at the request of the person involved, it would comply with the federal statute, and that being true, I believe I remember vaguely this law which we passed, and we were told that we had to pass it or they would hold up the matching funds that they were to pay us and, as a matter of fact, I think they did hold for about a month, until we got something passed here at the Legislature. I can think of other needs for the passage of some similar limitation. Many times a school board may be considering some complaints that may be false against a teacher about her activities, or something of that kind. She may come in and show that these complaints are completely false, and the school board take no action about it. But even the fact that a person is accused sometimes like that, whether it be proved or not proved, make their position much more difficult, particularly in this case with children, and so forth, if these are completely open and publicized. I do think we ought to have some limitation, such as that suggested by Delegate Christensen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates:

I support Delegate Christensen's proposed amendment because I can see many times where the individual involved might not even be there, that — particularly, as Mr. Christensen pointed out, in the case of welfare adjudications. The board undoubtedly has a large caseload. The information that they're discussing relative to people is confidential. It is intimate. The people involved perhaps don't even know that there is a hearing on their particular case that day, and I think it would be an invasion of their right if this were a public meeting, and I endorse and urge the adoption of Delegate Christensen's proposed amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President, I speak in favor of Delegate Christensen's amendment, too, and I think I speak particularly from the view of welfare. I couldn't with any conscience, approve open-to-public meetings of our welfare board meetings. People are on welfare through very adverse circumstances to begin with. Maybe there are very, very few who should be exposed; but certainly not at the expense of the majority. It's humiliating enough to be on welfare and I think to expose these people to the public is just needless and very cruel, and I would speak for this amendment.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, I feel that Delegate Christensen's amendment should either be rejected or amended for the reason that the language in the last line, "and revealed in discussion," renders it defective. The way this proposal would read on its face, if this amendment is attached to it, is that a meeting would be open and public, except when information is under consideration and revealed in discussion. So the way it would read is that the meeting is open until all such information is revealed. By that time, the cat is out of the bag, and I don't think this is its intent; but that's the way it reads.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I believe that Mr. Dobson — or Delegate Dobson is correct. For that reason, I would make an amendment to the amendment by putting a period after the word "consideration" and deleting the rest of the sentence.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just one moment, please while we get the amendment.

Now, do I have a second to Delegate Christensen's amendment?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten.

Now, will you read the amendment, please, Mr. Clerk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to the amendment:
Delete the words "and revealed in discussion."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the amendment to the amendment, and seconded by Delegate Litten. Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, I yield to Delegate Rundle.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President I have no objection — in fact, I think I'll vote for the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment to the amendment. All in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

Now we're back on the amendment as amended.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I have an amendment at the desk that I offer as an amendment. Is that in order now?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: If you have a further amendment to this amendment, it is in order.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Yes. I would delete the period after the word "consideration" and add, as is on my printed proposal at the desk, "unless an individual natural person whose rights are being considered requests that the meeting be closed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a further amendment to the amendment.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I withdraw the amendment, Mr. President. I confused the issue, and I will, Mr. President, until this issue is resolved.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab has requested that she may withdraw the amendment. Your request is granted.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: I'd like to direct a question to Delegate Paulson.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Paulson yield?

DELEGATE PAULSON: Yes.

DELEGATE BYRNE: I would like to get his opinion on this matter.

We have just passed previous Committee Proposal 1-76. I'm wondering about the compatibility of these two. In its present form, does not Proposal No. 2-12 take away what we were trying to acquire in Proposal 1-76? For example, before an executive session of the Senate, that the individual who was nominated states that he wishes to have the meeting private, why the meeting is going to be private, isn't it, under 2-12?

DELEGATE PAULSON: I will refer the question to Judge Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I think I can explain that. This proposal deals only with the executive branch, and I know at present it says "governmental and executive." Now that "and" crept in there somewhere, and it should not be there, and I'm going to amend to delete that "and" so it will apply only to the executive branch and not to the legislative branch.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Thank you.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: If I may take the floor one more time.

First in reply to Delegate Byrne's question: The people affected by Proposal 1-76 have, by reason of their appointment to high office, become public figures. I think what's under discussion here are private individuals who are welfare clients or who have a tax case, or something like that. Now, I don't know where this amending process is leading us or where we're going to end up; but it was brought out earlier that a tax hearing maybe should be closed. Under the Christensen amendment, as well as the Jestrab proposal, you could close a tax hearing for an individual, but not for a corporation, and I would suggest that further amending is in order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Christensen.

If there's no further discussion, those in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Just last spring I had an occasion to review the secrecy and confidentiality of laws that we have in the State, and I think that we're talking about more than just the tax hearings and, as Delegate Dobson has pointed out, as 2-12 presently stands, we're only talking about specific individuals or families. Well, there are a number of business records that are in the state government. There are the corporate income tax hearings that could be opened, because that's not a specific individual or family. There are business records in the Workmen's Compensation Bureau and the Unemployment Compensation Division which are subject to hearings and proceedings of various kinds that I'm not sure we would care to make public either.

The reason that it seems to me that it makes sense for us to consider 1-76 was that it pertained to the Legislative Assembly, and there is nobody that can tell the Legislative Assembly what to do, except the Constitution. However, when it comes to the executive branch of the government, the Legislature can establish secrecy and confidentiality statutes to determine what records ought to be public and which ought to be private. I think this Convention is being snookered into considering another legislative matter. We look at the statute books of the State and we find that this has been a matter of legislative concern for years in the past. Why, suddenly, has it become a constitutional question? I think that the number of exceptions and deviations that are going to be necessary to protect everybody's rights and the rights of business people are such that it ought to be left a legislative matter and 2-12 ought to be defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman, I've been waiting for a speech like that, and I certainly agree with Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: In order to put a Baptist climax on this, may I say Amen?
(Laughter)

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I would move that we suspend the rules —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen moves that the rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal No. — or Delegate Proposal No. 2-12 be deemed properly engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

Delegate Maxwell, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, Mr. President.

Delegate Christensen got in ahead of that amendment that I intended to offer to delete the word “and.” I wonder if you would withdraw your motion just for a moment.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: In deference to Delegate Maxwell, I’ll do that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The request is granted. Delegate Maxwell. You may offer your amendment, Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: The amendment is being typed at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

Will you read it?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 2-12:

In line 7 of the amended engrossed bill, following the word “governmental” delete the word “and”.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the amendment of Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I move the adoption of the amendment, Mr. President.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It’s been seconded by Delegate Kelsch.

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Maxwell. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say “aye;” those opposed “no.”

The “ayes” have it. The amendment is adopted.

Delegate Christensen.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I now move that the rules be suspended; that the Proposal be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 2-12 be deemed properly re-engrossed and be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion — Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, I would speak in opposition to the motion. I would like to sit on this one, at least if not until after dinner — if not until tomorrow, until after we come back tonight. I hate to see a stampede here on something that may require just a little bit of thought.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I would urge anybody who would like to kill this proposal and send it back to the Legislature, where it belongs, that they vote “aye” on this motion and vote “nay” on it when it comes to passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the motion to suspend the rules.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” those opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it.

The question before the Convention — Delegate Omdahl — or Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, would the Clerk read the amendment now, or the Proposal, as it has been amended, so we know what we’re talking about?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The meetings of all government executive bodies, boards, bureaus, commissions or agencies of the state, or any of its political subdivisions shall be open and public, except when privileged, confidential, or personal and intimate information involving a specific individual or family is under consideration."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question —

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, the committee — before it was amended, I supported the proposal; but with this amendment, I cannot support it because it says "personal and intimate information." Now, this means that, say, a city commission questioning the propriety of one of the members of the city commission, he can then ask for the meeting to be closed, and I think you're getting away from the original intent of the whole thing.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM : Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I questioned earlier whether this amendment would leave corporations. The way it stands now, if you have a hearing before the Workmen's Compensation Commission, it can be closed when you are discussing the worker, but will have to be thrown open and the business records of the corporation laid on the public record when the corporation in question is under consideration. So I think it's totally defective the way it is right now.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, I'm going to call attention to another situation that's going to arise. This would cover the Public Service Commission, which is semi-judicial. Apparently you have excluded the courts from this provision, but the Public Service Commission must take evidence under oath and then, after all evidence is in, the three of them sit down and try to hammer out a conclusion. It may be a divided decision, but do you want the public in there when they sit down there and discuss those things and try to make a determination like that? If you do, you might just as well open up the Supreme Court or the jury box.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Delegate Proposal No. 2-12 as amended.

Those in favor will vote "aye." Those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key. We will see if it works.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 19 "ayes," 75 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. Delegate Proposal No. 2-12 has been defeated.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: May we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, I request unanimous consent to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-64, which is not necessary because the Committee on Coordination can take care of this situation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-64.

Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I move that the Convention reconsider its action on 1-44. If I get a second, I'll explain why.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire moves that the Convention reconsider its action on Committee Proposal No. 1-44. Seconded by Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I don't intend to take the time of the Convention at this late hour to go into detail as to some of the objections of Committee Proposal 1-44, except to say that I think it is in a mess at this time. It does need some further consideration. I think, if we get it back for reconsideration, we can make some amendments that all of us can go along with. I did not have an opportunity to consider this, as I'm sure other delegates didn't when it was before us the other day. I do not think we discussed the outcome or the conditions that could develop under this proposal the way we passed it clearly enough. I have had many delegates contact me to say that had they known it was the way it was in the proposal at the time, they would not have voted for it. So I can see no harm in our getting this back and giving some further consideration to perhaps amending it in such a way that all of us can support the proposal. I hope we do pass this motion to reconsider.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: This proposal is not easy to understand, but it will work, and I would like to ask Delegate Longmire what his amendments are.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I do not intend to offer those amendments at the moment, but they are being prepared at the present time, and I had hoped, if this motion does pass, that we will move this to the foot of the calendar and I will have those amendments in writing tomorrow.

I might state that some of the conditions that worry me and, I think, these amendments will have to cover this, and answering your question generally, one of the main things is that a legislator could, for a considerable period of time, be serving a district when he is not even a resident of that district, if you have a reapportionment plan.

Another condition is this: That when we go on to a four-year basis for the House members, and I certainly have no objection to that, if a House member in the midst of his term decided to run for the Senate, he could do that. If he were elected, then you would have to come back and have a special election to fill the House member's seat. These and many other things, I think, will have to be taken care of by proper amendments, which I hope to offer, if this motion passes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I wonder if Delegate Longmire would yield to a short question here?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I certainly will.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Delegate Longmire, just to simplify Delegate Dobson's question and your answer:

Do your amendments deal with both sections of 1-44 or just one or the other?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, so far they would only deal with the second section; but I would have no objection, certainly, to giving further consideration to the four-year term for House members, because I know that with some delegates, they feel that that should not be changed from the two years; so I — in my own amendment, I have left that intact, however.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question — Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman and Delegates:

I think that the issue is fairly-well resolved. We have gone on the record for four-year terms. As a matter of fact, nobody would actually be representing a district which he didn't live in. What would happen under the system would be that the boundaries of a person's term would not change — of a Senator or a House member's district would not change until the term expired, and at the time that his term expired, the boundaries would change and then he would either be in a new district or he would have to run in another district. It's a simple operation. We are not providing anything except that when a person is elected, he will not be removed from office by the whim of a reapportionment commission; he will stay in office for his full term.

DELEGATE NETHING: Well, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: I'd like to urge reconsideration of this for the simple reason that I disagree with the explanation that Delegate Paulson has just given you; that if you are entitled to another legislator or more than one and don't have them, you are certainly in violation of the federal law and as I understand it, the purpose of Delegate Longmire's amendment is to cure this, and I think we should bring it back and cure it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the motion to reconsider Delegate — or Committee Proposal No. 1-44. Now, in that this is going to require a minimum of 50 votes, the key will be opened and you will record your vote.

Those in favor will vote —of adopting the motion to reconsider, will vote "aye." Those opposed will vote "no."

The key will be opened. Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll indicates 73 "yes" votes, 21 "no" votes, four delegates absent and not voting.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: I'm sure you're anxious to recess, Mr. President, but before you do, I'd like to — if we're on the twelfth order, I would like to move three of these proposals up to the top of the calendar that are conceivably controversial. We talked to the Chair and the committee, and the three I'm talking about are 1-36, 1-75 and 1-88, and with your permission, Mr. President, I'd like to move those three to the top of the calendar.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The numbers again, Delegate Litten?

DELEGATE LITTEN: 1-36 1-75 and 1-88.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten has moved. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE NETHING: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Nething, that Committee Proposal No. 1-36, 1-75 and 1-88 be placed at the head of the calendar.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and those will be at the head of the calendar.

Anything further at the desk? Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President, are we still on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: I'm not sure if this is the right place or not, but I have a suggestion, and if it has merit, I will move — today we passed two proposals with all members present voting "aye," and my suggestion is that the record — the Journal could show that "all members present voted 'aye.' The following members were absent and not voting," and then list the members that were not voting. I think this could save several pages in our Journal. If this is a proper time and place, I'll make that motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug, I don't believe that is in order. I don't believe that we can do it that way. I think that the — I think that the statute provides the specific way that we have to indicate how each delegate voted, and for that reason I don't believe that is in order.

I will check with the Attorney General's office, or something like that, and see if we can do it; but I don't think we can do it.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: We may not have another opportunity; that's why I wanted to do it now, with all members voting "aye." But thank you for your consideration.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I move that 1-44 be placed at the foot of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire moves that Delegate — Committee Proposal 1-44 be placed at the foot of the calendar. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE PETERSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Peterson.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and 1-44 is now at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Don't we have a committee report? There should be one there someplace.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Which one do you make reference to, Delegate Hernet?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, that's part of 1-100 which we were trying to get out at noon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Which committee?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Executive Functions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Executive Functions? I don't believe we have it at the desk, Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I will try and get it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are about to recess. Would the delegates rather work and then — suppose we took a 15-minute recess right now and then come back and, say, work until 7:00 or 7:30 — something like that — and then not come back later?

I do think that it is necessary, though, that you do get up and walk around and stretch, and one thing-another. I do think that this is good. So the Chair — we'll be in recess until six o'clock. We'll recess until six o'clock.

(The Session recessed at 5:48 P.M. until 6:05 P.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Will the Convention please come to order?

We'll be on the fifth order of business — Adoption of Committee Reports.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-100 Except Section 1 (a) and Section 2 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-100, except for Section 1(a) and Section 2; that the report — request that the Proposal be amended, and after it be amended, that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed say "no."

The "ayes" have it and the report's adopted and will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Could we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President, I would like you to refer to Committee Proposal 1-79. This is the — I'd like you to have it reconsidered. I'd like it brought back, and I move to have it reconsidered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: When did we pass it, do you remember, Delegate Nicholas?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: It's been out for two days, I believe.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: The 24th; one week ago.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: 1-79.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-79?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: 1-79.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas moves that we reconsider our action whereby Committee Proposal 1-79 was passed. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE BURKE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President, I talked with Mr. Scherr of the wildlife group and explained why I had objections to this before, and I would like this moved and reconsidered, and there's excess wordage here. The original Section 1 was not favorable to many people here, and I believe that I have a section here that I can propose, if I have a chance to put this back on the tenth order and have it amended, that will be favorable to all parties concerned.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Will Delegate Nicholas yield to a question?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE DECKER: Would you give your amendment or your proposal?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Yes, I will. It will briefly read: "No law shall abridge the right of a citizen to keep and bear arms."

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I would resist this motion on the grounds that that's a collective right and what we did in our proposal here, we spelled out just exactly what we wanted, and I think it's better to leave it so the people really understand what they have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Yes. I can't agree with that, because I believe in spelling these out. You've got too many areas that need not be in there. This one guarantees the citizen a basic right, whether it be a collective right or what right it is. I personally feel this is wrong, and I — I think the people would be better able to understand it in one short sentence.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the motion to reconsider Committee Proposal No. 1-79. In that this will take a vote of 66 delegates to reconsider, the key will be opened and you will record your vote.

Those in favor of reconsideration will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay."

The key will be opened and you will record your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote?

The key is closed.

There were 45 "ayes," there were 44 "nays," nine delegates absent and not voting. The motion to reconsider failed.

First for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-36.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-36, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 202 of Article XV to the constitution of the state of North Dakota and Article 88 of the amendments thereto, be repealed; and that sections 25 and 26 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the manner in which the constitution may be altered.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 202 of Article XV of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, and Article 88 of the amendments thereto, are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Sections 25 and 26 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 25. Any constitutional amendment may be proposed by the legislative assembly and, if the same shall be agreed upon by a roll call vote of three-fifths of the members elected to each house, it shall be submitted to the electors at the next general election. If a majority of votes cast thereon are affirmative, the amendment shall be effective thirty days after the election.

"Section 26. The legislative assembly may by law at any time submit for a vote of the people the question: 'shall a constitutional convention be called?' If the question has not been submitted once in any thirty year period, the secretary of state shall place it on the ballot at the next general election. If a majority of the votes cast thereon are affirmative, the legislative assembly shall provide for the election of delegates to, and the holding of such convention."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion? Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: There's an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendments to Committee Proposal 1-36.

In line 20, after the word "election" insert the following:

"unless a later date is specified in the amendment".

Renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I believe this amendment would cover the questions that were asked when this was up on the sixth order. At that time I had asked whether the amendment would have to go in force in 30 days, and this, I think, would cover that situation and it could go in at another time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako.

Any further discussion? Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman and Delegates:

I think this amendment is completely unnecessary. If an amendment can carry an effective date, the effective date prevails, just as long as it's more than 30 days after the election. So no provision has to be made for it, and it would avoid the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Hendrickson.

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed will say "no." Those in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "no."

The Chair is in doubt. We will open the key.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay," and the key will be opened and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change? The key is closed.

There were 40 "ayes," 40 "nays," nine delegates absent and not voting. The amendment failed.

We're on the Committee Proposal 1-36.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Well, thanks for the vote of confidence to the committee. This is the way the committee felt all the time. I don't believe there's anything else to say on this particular proposal. We did discuss it the other day on the sixth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-36.

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, I think this proposal should be soundly defeated. We've gotten along for a half-century, at least, with a majority vote being only required to submit a constitutional amendment through the legislative process, and I see no sound reason for stepping that up to a two-thirds requirement.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Just to clarify: That's been amended to three-fifths.

DELEGATE CART: I accept the correction and still oppose it. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. Chairman. Ladies and Gentlemen:

After all the extreme amount of work we've given the Legislature, and everyone says we have such confidence in the Legislature, I agree with Delegate Cart. I don't see why we should get conservative on this and make it a 60 percent vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I move an amendment. It's very simple. It can be at the desk in thirty seconds. Instead of "two-thirds," delete "two-thirds" and put "majority vote."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle moves an amendment.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Omdahl.

The Clerk will read the amendment. Will you read the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-36:

On page 1 of the engrossed proposal, in line 17, delete "three-fifths" and insert in lieu thereof "a majority".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the proposed amendment.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: This is the same amendment offered by Delegate Omdahl the other day. That amendment was soundly defeated for some very good reasons I'll not repeat. I urge you to reject this one, too.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment by Delegate Rundle.

As many as are in favor of adopting it will vote "aye;" those opposed "no."

The "noes" have it.

The question before the Convention, if there's no further discussion is the adoption of Committee Proposal No. 1-36. If no further discussion, those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change?

The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 80 "ayes," 13 "nays," five delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-36 has passed.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal 1-75.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-75, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 42, 67, 68, 69 and 70 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that new sections 9, 20 and 21 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the legislative process.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 42, 67, 68, 69 and 70 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Sections 9, 20 and 21 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby created to read as follows:

“Section 9. The members of the legislative assembly shall in all cases except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sessions, and in going to or returning from the same. For words used in any speech or debate in the assembly, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

“Section 20. Every act passed by the legislative assembly shall take effect on July 1 after its filing with the secretary of state or ninety days after said filing, whichever comes later, unless the legislative assembly by a separate vote of two-thirds of the members elected shall declare it an emergency measure, which declaration shall be set forth in the act. An emergency measure shall take effect and be in force from and after its filing with the secretary of state or on a date specified in the measure. Every act passed by a special session of the legislature shall take effect on a date specified in the act.

“Section 21. The legislative assembly shall pass all laws necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this constitution. No local or special laws shall be enacted, nor shall the legislative assembly indirectly enact such special or local laws by the partial repeal of a general law, but laws repealing local or special laws may be passed.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: We made a change now to abolish the crime of treason in the State, so, with the indulgence of the Convention, I would like to move that in line 14, that the word “treason,” be deleted. “treason,”

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten.

It's been moved and seconded — the amendment by Delegate Kelsch. Is that amendment at the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: We've got it. Do you want it read?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, why don't you read it?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-75 is as follows:

On page 1, line 14, delete the following: “treason,” and renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the amendment. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and the amendment's adopted.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, if I may now discuss the proposal.

With this proposal, we are repealing the old Section 42 of the Constitution, which is really Section 9 almost verbatim, and of course this is the section that makes the legislators — gives them privilege from arrest during their attendance and in going to and from the assembly, except for felony or breach of the peace, and also protects them against libel and slander laws by providing they shall not be questioned in any other place for debate that may occur in the chambers of the Legislative Assembly. So we're repealing Section 67 of the old Constitution, and that's now incorporated in Section 20. Section 67 established times during which laws would take effect and provide for emergency measures.

Now, you will note that we do two things in this that are slightly different. First of all we provided that an act will take effect on July 1st after its filing with the Secretary of State. The first change: We have now made the effective date the filing date. The Committee felt that these things should be — they are filed ultimately, and now that we have open sessions and could run through two years, we're making July 1st after the filing the effective date, and we also had a further clause that “or ninety days after the filing, whichever comes later.” Now, the reason for these words was that if the Legislature were to meet in May, there's not ninety days between the time when a bill would be filed and July 1st. We wanted to be sure that a ninety-day period was preserved to protect the right of referendum. So any laws that might be passed in the three months preceding, or the ninety days preceding July 1st, would come into effect a little later than

July 1st; otherwise, July 1st would be the effective date of all laws, and the reason for this delay, in the case of a few bills that might be passed at that time, is to not prejudice the right of referendum, so that anybody that wanted to refer that and circulate petitions, they still could, and it would not come into effect until after the referral.

We also retained the concept of the emergency measure, but have added the feature that will require a separate vote on the emergency. Under the present rules, if two-thirds of the members of both houses vote on the bill and it has an emergency clause on it, it will be an emergency law and will take effect immediately, and we felt that some legislators might like to vote in favor of a proposition, but not see it become a — not see it go into effect as an emergency measure; so that this will be a slight change in procedure and we actually will have to have two votes on the emergency measure. The first vote will be in favor of the bill itself; the second vote, by separate vote, "Are you in favor of the emergency character?" We feel this will cut down on some of the emergency laws that have been passed, and that this is a good thing to avoid that. Only real emergencies should be voted on and declared as emergencies.

Section 68 simply says — the old Section 68 said the Legislature shall pass all laws necessary to carry into effect the Constitution. We cover that in Section 21.

Section 69, which we're repealing, was a general prohibition against the passage of local or special laws, and in the old Constitution there are 35 instances where, back in the early — the first Convention felt that the Legislature should not deal with local problems where the laws had general application, and our committee felt, rather than to try to repeal such an extensive list — the list is so broad — it is our feeling that the old section actually repealed all special laws — that we simply would say that, and we say that in Section 21 that "No local or special laws shall be enacted."

And then we pick up Section 70 — that you cannot have the effect of enacting a special law by repealing a part of another law. So we feel that we do — we picked up the old language in the Constitution. We thought it was essential. With the change of not listing what special laws are prohibited, we're just making a general prohibition against all special or local laws.

If there are any questions, I'd be glad to try to answer them.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: What is the parliamentary situation?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: At the moment, we have Committee Proposal No. 1-74 — 75 before the Convention with an amendment, and the amendment was adopted. So that is the position of the particular proposal.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, maybe I should — unless there are some amendments suggested, I was going to wait and see if anybody wanted to amend it, first.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: I had a question for Delegate Kelsch. It has been called to my attention — I know there's some difficulty in determining what's a general law and what's a special law, and I notice in Section 131 of our Constitution it says, relating to municipal — or corporations other than municipal, it says, "by special law, except in the case of . . . educational, penal or reformatory corporations," and things like this. I wonder if a law passed regarding the penitentiary, the Industrial or State School, and these other places, are those special laws or are those considered to be general laws, because there — I see there's a couple cases annotated after that section, but I think there may be some problem with those kinds of laws being special laws. I'm not certain, however.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: That question — we're aware of that question. It's my feeling, and, I believe, the feeling of Delegate Pearce, who is not here at this time, that the old Section 131, which we picked up and already passed — and I do — I think does talk about a special law — that it was unnecessary to do that. That section deals with the granting of franchises to corporations, basically, and of course we don't do that any more in the State of North Dakota, and I can't see any reason why we should any more now. It's my belief that a law that establishes the cities, penitentiary, or a school of higher education is not a special law, because it applies to. General citizens have equal rights to go to the pen or go to the college; so I don't think that we really need that in 131, and I would favor a later amendment of it or deletion of it, because I think that — I favor just a general prohibition. I don't think you have to except state institutions from it, although I don't know if that's the unanimous feeling of some lawyers.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, in response to Delegate Hill's question, Section 1 of Committee Proposal 1-20 addresses itself specifically to the question that he raised, including penitentiaries and such.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Section 120?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Excuse me. Section 1 of Committee Proposal 1-20. That's the old section that dealt with special laws for the penitentiary and the reform school and the rest of it, and Section 1 has been adopted by the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, this question does not have to do with special laws or general laws, but I can't imagine that the committee got through Section 9 on legislative immunity without some question. I'm not a legislator, but just what does this Section 9 provide to the legislators so far as fringe benefits?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: We did discuss it at some length, and it is our feeling that if you're going to have a legislative branch of government that's free from the possible dominance of an executive — you understand the legislators have a couple sergeants-at-arms, and that's all, and if you're going to preserve forever the freedom of that body from the executive which has, of course, a force of arms both in terms of militia and Highway Patrol and sheriffs' offices, and the like, that we need to state, as the old Constitution did, that legislators, while attending, formally should be free from arrest, and in past history legislators have been arrested. You could be held for several hours, to miss a vote. Now, we recognize that certain types of crimes can't be immune, and legislators shouldn't be immune from them. Now, all we're saying is, "privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sessions." We are not saying immune from prosecution.

Now, to exceptions — felony and breach of the peace. If he's rowdy, if he's disturbing the peace, he's not protected. If he commits a felony, he's not protected. He may be arrested — or she may be arrested and incarcerated. If he commits any other crime while the Legislature is in session, a complaint could be served on him. The accusation could be made, but he could not be arrested and his freedom taken while in session. Now, as soon as they're not in session, he can, of course, be arrested and charged and prosecuted. This is not an immunity statute; it's just immunity from arrest while in session.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, would Delegate Kelsch yield to a question?

Section 9, "For words used in any speech or debate in the assembly, they shall not be questioned in any other place."

How about a spouse?

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? The question —

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, if there's no further question or discussion, I would move that Proposal 1-75 be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch moves that the rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal No. 1-75 be deemed properly re-engrossed and be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-75 is before the Convention for first passage.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote?

The vote is closed. The roll call discloses 90 "ayes," 1 "nay," seven delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-75 has passed.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-88.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-88, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 38, 40, 43, 44, 51, 54, 57, 59, 60 and 62 of Article II section 199 of Article XIV and Article 75 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed.

"(SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 38, 40, 43, 44, 51, 54, 57, 59, 60 and 62 of Article II, section 199 of Article XIV and Article 75 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: This is an omnibus deletion proposal made by the Legislative Functions Committee. As I recall, it's one proposal made by the Legislative Committee in which we were unanimous in our approval, so we submitted it that way. All of the other sections, outside of these, that we have dealt with have been either deleted or continued in the proposals that we have already acted on. So, in order to clear the slate of those sections of the old Constitution, may I give this brief explanation of each one and hurry it along?

Section 38 in the old Constitution, this deals with bribery and perjury and is now part of the new section on legislative ethics, which was passed — 1-34.

40 is also a part of this legislative package proposal that has been adopted.

43 is also a part of the legislative ethics proposal, 1-34.

The old Section 44, with a gubernatorial writ of election, has been continued in the executive powers of the governor in the new proposals.

51 — this section prohibits adjournment by one house for more than three days without the consent of the other. This has been made a part of the legislative functions in the new document.

54 of the old Constitution was a voice vote; in other words, a vote in all elections to be made by the Legislative Assembly, and this we have taken out. But after the machine work this afternoon, maybe we should have kept it in — who knows! But we have taken this out because we feel that this is a part of the rules of the legislative body, that they can — they show by constitutional division the registered or recorded votes, and there are some that can be by voice, particularly in the election in their own assemblies.

57 — a bill can originate in one House and can be amended by the other. This has been taken out and is a part of the rules of the legislative body and continued in the legislative section.

59, providing for an enacting clause, has been deleted.

60 — prohibition against introduction of appropriation bills after the fortieth day. We have deleted that because a new proposal now is a continuous session and it would be difficult for a legislative body, say during the fortieth day, and they set their own rules.

62 has been deleted and directs a general appropriation bill to include a judicial and executive branch of government and also included is interest on public debt and public schools, and these have all been handled by separate proposals, and we ask the deletion of 62.

199 of Article XIV has been deleted, and the lieutenant governor now is assuming a new position under the proposals that we have adopted and, therefore, part of the administrative reorganization, and, therefore, 199 could be deleted.

Article 75, adopted in June of 1962, provides for continuity of state government in case of attack, and we have deleted this because of other things that have happened in the federal system and in the state system that makes this probably impractical.

That's a brief description of each of those that we, under this omnibus proposal, feel should be — need to be deleted because others have been taken care of in the proposals that have already been adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

The question before the Convention is on first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-88. Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed. The roll call discloses 91 "ayes;" there were no "nays," seven delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-88 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-104.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: I move that consideration of Committee Proposal 1-104 be laid over until tomorrow.

The reason I request this — I know that the consideration of it will probably take some time. Delegate Pearce, who is not here at the present time, wishes to speak on the bill, and I, therefore, move that it be held over until tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Byrne moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-104 be placed at the foot of the calendar. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE BIRKELAND: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Birkeland.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal 1-104 is at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If this is a proper time, we have a technical change we'd like to do on one proposal that we have already passed. If we could be on the twelfth order — unless you want to continue on the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: On one proposal that we have already passed?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Yes. Some changes we would have to make because of some other work we have done.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is it substantive, so that the Style and Drafting Committee can't do it?

DELEGATE KELSCH: I understand Style and Drafting can't do it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then I think we'll have to move to reconsider and bring it back.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, then I move that we reconsider the action by which we passed Committee Proposal 1-33. If I get a second, I'll explain.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-33. And the second was by Delegate Stanton. Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, as a result of the subcommittee's work on removal of officers and the introduction of Proposal 1-120, which we just passed earlier this afternoon, the Section 23 in Proposal 1-33 is no longer needed and it should be just simply deleted. It's covered by 1-120. And so there's an amendment at the desk. I think Delegate Nething's name appears at the top of it, and if the Clerk would read the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Kelsch, we have to get the —

DELEGATE KELSCH: Pardon me?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have to get the proposal before the Convention, in that we have passed it. We have to have at least 50 votes in order to bring it back.

How long ago was it?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, this is some time ago.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, then we have to have 66 votes, if it's more than two-and-a-half days.

The question before the Convention is on Delegate Kelsch's motion that we reconsider the action whereby Committee Proposal No. 1-33 was passed. Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the Clerk will open the key. You will indicate your wishes.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change? Hearing none, the key is closed.

The vote indicates there were 87 "ayes," there were no "nays," 11 delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-33 has been reconsidered. It is now before the Convention.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, then I would move that on the engrossed Proposal 1-33, we delete all of lines 14 through 17.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is the amendment at the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mm-hmm — we've got it.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, the lines I've given are not the way they read in your book. In your book they would be lines 12 through 15, and the reason for that: We had made some amendments; but what we're actually doing is simply deleting the Section 23, leaving 24 intact, and the reason for it is we now have that same subject covered, we think, in a better way in Proposal 1-120.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch.

Is there any discussion? Any further discussion? The question then will be on the adoption of the amendment.

Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye," those opposed will vote "nay."

As many as are — Delegate Erickson.

DELEGATE ERICKSON: Mr. President, I think you're going to have to further delete there on line 7 of the bill. You've got Section 23 too. You're going to have to delete that also.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: The desk did not catch this on line — I'm not sure if it's line 8 of the engrossed —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Line 10.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Line 10. Delete the "s" on the word "section," delete the numeral "23" and the word "and".

If you've got that one, then move up to line — move up to line 2 and delete the "s" on the word "section", the numerals "23" and the word "and".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you have the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-33.

In line 3 of the engrossed proposal, delete the word "sections 23 and" and insert in lieu thereof the word "section".

In line 10 of the engrossed proposal, delete the words "Sections 23 and" and insert in lieu thereof the word "Section".

Renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch.

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye," those opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I again move that the Proposal 1-33 be deemed — that the rules be suspended, that the Proposal be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 1-33 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Any further discussion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-33 is again before the Convention as amended.

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-33 as amended. Those in favor of adopting or passage, will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 89 "ayes," there were no "nays," there were nine delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-33 has passed.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Is Delegate — Committee Proposal 1-99 at the top of the calendar right now? Oh! Okay.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I would now move that Committee Proposal 1-99 be moved below Committee Proposal 1-44. If I have a second, I'll explain why.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

Moved by Delegate Sinner that Committee Proposal No. 1-99 be placed below Committee Proposal No. 1-44. Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, there are some factions or part of the committee that wants to move some amendments to 1-99 that feels that its action — its amendment depends on what action is taken on 1-44 and, therefore, would like to wait.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is moving Committee Proposal 1-99 to a position on the calendar immediately below Committee Proposal 1-44.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and it will be moved below 1-44.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, just a brief comment there, and maybe I should ask that we be on the eighth order momentarily.

This afternoon, we passed 1-25, 1-26, 1-120, and now we've reconsidered 1-33, and all those four proposals were passed with only two dissenting votes, and I say that's the work of the conference committee, and I think we should give them a round of applause. (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-118.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-118, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to having a justiciable right to an electoral system not prejudicial to his candidacy, be created.

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“Every candidate for public office shall have a justiciable right to an electoral system that is not prejudicial to his candidacy.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I'm indebted to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage for letting this thing live as long as it has. I feel that there is real merit in this proposal, and I think that our value of this proposal will depend on how important we think elections are in a democratic society. And, to me, I feel very seriously about the importance of elections. We all know that there are — through extensive research and studies, that there can be considerable bias in a ballot arrangement or election procedure. Now, it must be admitted that in almost all cases these biases are against third parties, and I want to make it clear at the outset that I have no designs on a third party. There are enough third-party people running loose in the country already. But we find, as we go through the election laws of many states, that there are biases built into the electoral system. For instance, it will happen quite often, when you have a number of candidates that are running for a similar position, such as multi-member senate or house districts or in primary elections where names might be arranged as required by law in alphabetical order or in the order in which the persons filed for office, and we know that positions on the ballot make a lot of difference as to whether or not the candidate is going to survive or whether he's going to get any votes at all. Now, there have been some court cases that state that a candidate himself, even though this bias exists in the arrangement of the ballot or in the administrative procedures that are set up to carry out the election, that the candidate himself does not have a basis to challenge the election. As long as his name was on the ballot, the courts have refused to say that the election was prejudicial to his candidacy; therefore, he has no standing.

Now, I haven't been able to think of a lot of situations in North Dakota where we have prejudicial situations, and I don't know if evils that we might have can be corrected under this proposal, if it is adopted; but I think we should keep in mind that we are proposing a constitution that should last for fifty or sixty or seventy years, and according to Delegate Dobson, it ought to last at least a hundred. But — so I think we ought to look to the future and we ought to say we believe in fair elections in North Dakota and we want this to be a principle in our Constitution. We have had several situations in recent years — one that you will probably recall was an election in a primary in Fargo in which there were five candidates running for four positions on the ballot. Because of the arrangement of the ballot, one of the candidates was defeated in the primary. I don't know if this principle would give many grounds to go to court and get it corrected, but at least that possibility would be there.

1970 we had a Congressional race in which one candidate lost by three votes, and yet there was no recourse for him to get a recount with that small of a margin, which could have ended by the losing candidate going to Congress for a two-year period, at least.

Now those — now, we'll get a little closer to home: Those of you who were nominated by the Nominating Commission, of which a majority sits in this body, had a prejudicial advantage over those who challenged, just because the law that specified how the candidates were to be placed on the ballot gave those nominees a prejudicial advantage, and I think that, if you want to be honest about it, that it did give you an advantage to be placed the way the law said that you should be placed. Under this proposal, those who were challengers would have ground for contesting the arrangement on the ballot.

Now, some of the committee members were sort of concerned that this was going to open up a whole new field of litigation. Well, the burden would still be on the candidate to come in and prove that the election was prejudicial. And so I think that's going to be a difficult thing to prove. But in cases where it is provable, I think that the procedure ought to be available, because if the election is prejudiced and if the wrong guy got elected, it seems to me that we are permitting a subversion or a diversion of the true democratic principle.

Some may be concerned that this is going to disrupt elections. Some say, “Are we going to have to have recounts afterwards? Are we going to test?” And I admit that there might be some inconvenience, depending on what the courts might rule, that grow out of this; but if the wrong guy has the office, you see, is he really entitled to the office? Shouldn't there be some inconvenience by which the right man gets the office in a final analysis?

Some delegates have been concerned with the word "justiciable." Now, there's a reason for that word. Even though most of our rights are justiciable, there's a particular reason for the word "justiciable" in this case. You'll find that in the legislative article, it says that the Legislature shall be the judge of the qualifications and election of its own members. And so a person who challenges an election to the Legislature would have to go to the legislative body, unless this word "justiciable" were in there; and I think that a losing candidate ought to have a right to go to court, where you do not have parties to the cause involved in deciding who is going to be entitled to be seated. I think this is a constitutional matter. I don't think this is a legislative matter, because the Legislature writes the law that might be prejudicial. Therefore, in order to protect ourselves from prejudicial laws, I think we need constitutional protection, and it is for that reason I urge your support for Committee Proposal 1-118.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: May I ask a question?

Delegate Omdahl, does your measure stop with the actual voting mechanism — placement on the ballot and so forth — or does it go farther — perhaps into the party organization or into the actual structure of the district, as far as multi versus single-member, and so forth?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: No, Delegate Unruh, I believe that the — if you're concerned about whether or not the multi-member districts could be contested under this, I do not — if we adopt the recommendations that are coming in on the reapportionment commission, I cannot see that there would be sufficient grounds to attack the multi-member districts as they are going to be proposed. That isn't where you find the evils that I'm talking about. They usually develop in primaries or where there are numbers of candidates and the arrangements of names for numbers of candidates, and we don't have a great number of problems in this area at the present time; but, as I said, we're writing a constitution for a long time, and I think this principle ought to be established.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, will Delegate Omdahl yield to a question?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: One?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Just one

What's the status of this section if the proposal as to multi districts is not approved?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I don't think that 1-118 would affect it any differently than the equal-protection clause of the Federal Constitution at the present time, and when you — when you get down to the multi-member districts, as small as we've got them in North Dakota, the question as to their validity in terms of the equal-protection clause is quite removed; that is, I think if you were going to challenge the multi-member districts, that you'd be better off going to equal protection under the Fourteenth Amendment than to try to go here. The burden of proof would have to be the same, if it was there at all.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman. Delegates:

I am quite sure that Mr. Omdahl is building a real problem for the State, because what he's going to do is get a ballot and you're going to rotate those columns in every third precinct and the Democrat column will be number one in at least a third of the state when we get through here. I think he's going to get things so horsed-up that he's going to foul up the whole election, and I think we'll be better off if we straighten out the troubles when they develop and not try to let them develop.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President, I'd like to try to answer that question. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I disagree with Delegate Paulson on this. I don't think he could prove there's a prejudicial arrangement on the ballot. As I recall, the Democrats did have the left-hand column in 1966 and it didn't help them a bit.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: I'd like to ask a question of Delegate Omdahl, if I may.

As I look at this, it would eliminate the incumbent from using the word "re-elect" as opposed to the challenger having to use the word "elect" on his political advertising, and things like this. Would you agree with that?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: No, I wouldn't agree with that. It seems to me that we're talking about the electoral system, which is prescribed by law, and I don't think there are laws that you can use "elect" and "re-elect" — that's up to individuals. We're talking about the electoral system as provided by the government itself.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, would Delegate Omdahl yield to another question?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Naturally.

DELEGATE DECKER: I was just wondering: Would you feel it was prejudicial if you or if the court system were changed to the merit system and you had delegates or the people proposed by a commission and they were put on the ballot?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Yes I would. And that's one of the reasons I had reservation about this business of when — when we were debating the judicial article — this business of having one of the candidates designated as being a commission endorsee.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. No question, but I can't quite see how this is consistent with Delegate Omdahl's story about only Norwegians can be elected, because if I'm a Norwegian, it's prejudicial against me. (Laughter)

DELEGATE OMDAHL: He asked me a question, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Even though I realize that my nationality might be in jeopardy in this case, I must agree with Mr. Rundle that maybe we'll have to run the Norwegians off the ballot. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention — Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. Delegate Miller has twice asked me if the Legislative Functions Committee provided any mechanisms for the solution of ties in legislative races, and we haven't as such; however, the language in one of the proposals — and I can't at the moment remember which one — provides that the Legislative Assembly shall be the sole judge of qualifications of its members.

Now, I suppose that in consideration of this proposal right here, that question may come up. Can any member of the Committee help me answer this question that's been raised?

Lloyd, do you have any comment on that?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I don't think that this would help you resolve ties in legislative races, unless you could prove that the tie was created by prejudicial circumstances, and I don't see how you could plead that under the normal tie situation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention, first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-118.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 57 "ayes," 33 "nays," eight delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-118 has passed.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would move that the absent members be excused.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that the absent delegates be excused.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion was seconded by Delegate Longmire.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the absent delegates are excused.

Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, may we be on the eighth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order of business.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I would like to announce a meeting of the Bill of Rights Committee for tomorrow morning at 8:30. 8:30. And there we will sing the old refrain of what to do with eminent domain. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements under the eighth order?

I believe Delegate Maxwell's announcement couldn't even be tied!

Anything further? We're about to adjourn. Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Is the desk clear? I would move that we now adjourn until 9:00 A.M., February 1st.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves we now adjourn until 9:00 A.M., February 1st.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it and we will be adjourned until nine in the morning.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 7:15 P.M., Monday, January 31, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Tuesday, February 1, 1972.)

VOLUME XXII

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — Roll Call. The Clerk will open the key. You will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Devine announces his presence.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine is present.

The roll call discloses 96 present, two absent. A quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order of business — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 28th day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

On page 342, line 18 delete the numeral "1-107" and insert in lieu thereof "1-106".

On page 330 line 48, delete the word "moved" and insert in lieu thereof the word "announced".

And when so corrected, recommends that the same be approved.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report from the Committee on Correction and Revision of the Journal.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted.

We'll be on the sixth order of business — Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Meidinger has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-15, as recommended by the Majority of the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands, and as printed on pages 293 and 294 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are —

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, may I speak to that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger — excuse me. Are you through reading, Chief Clerk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No, I haven't read them.

The amendments are:

On page 1 delete lines 13 through 25.

And renumber the lines and sections accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President. The Committee on Education intends to meet during the noon hour, perhaps from 12:00 to 1:30. We do have a couple of minor amendments. We would appreciate it, if anyone here has any suggestions, that we might take them under consideration at that time and save a considerable amount of time on the floor here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-15.

The question is on the adoption. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendments will say "aye;" those opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it. The amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-85, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, and as printed on pages 350 and 351 of the Journal, be adopted. The amendments are:

In line 1 of the title of the engrossed proposal, after the numeral "126", insert a comma and delete the word "and" and after the numeral "128" insert "and 129".

In line 9 delete "and" and after the numeral "128" insert "and 129".

Delete all of line 14 through 25.

"Every citizen of the United States who has attained the age of eighteen and who shall have been a resident in the state six months, in the county ninety days and in the precinct thirty days preceding an election shall be a qualified elector. When a qualified elector moves from one precinct to another within the state he shall be entitled to vote in the precinct from which he moved until he establishes voting residence in the precinct to which he moved. The legislative assembly shall by law provide rules for determining residency, other than physical presence, for voting eligibility. No elector shall be deemed to have lost his residency for voting eligibility solely by reason of his absence from the state.

"The legislative assembly shall insure secrecy in voting, provided for absentee voting, provide for administration of elections and the nominations of candidates."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the proposed amendments. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-85. As many as are in favor of adopting the amendments will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hernettt has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-100, except for Section 1(a) and Section 2, as recommended by the Committee on Executive Functions and as printed on page 358 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

Delete all of lines 15 through 21 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"(b) The governor may, for more effective administration, make changes in the allocation of functions, powers, and duties among and within the executive departments, other than those departments headed by constitutionally elective officers. When these changes affect existing laws, the changes shall be set forth in executive orders and submitted on the same day to both houses of the legislative assembly. The legislative assembly shall have thirty session days in which to disapprove the orders. If they are not disapproved by a majority of the elected members of either house, they shall have the force of law when filed with the secretary of state unless a later date is provided in the order."

Renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the amendment to Committee Proposal 1-100 — that is, Section (b). Delegate Hernettt.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President, this language is all new and it replaces old Section (b) and old 1-100, and it will be explained on the floor tomorrow, on the tenth order of business.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment to Committee Proposal 1-100, Section (b).

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendments will say "aye;" opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it. The amendments are adopted.

We'll be on the tenth order of business.

First for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-119.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-119, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 7 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to jury trial.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 7 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The right of trial by jury shall be secured to all, and remain inviolate. A person accused of an offense punishable by imprisonment in a penitentiary has the right to trial by a jury of twelve, whose verdict must be unanimous. In all other criminal cases, in civil cases and in juvenile delinquency proceedings the legislature may regulate the size of the jury and the number required for a verdict."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the Proposal. Is there any discussion?

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-119.

In line 14, following the first word "cases", insert the word "and", and following the second word "cases", insert a period and delete the remainder of the line.

In line 15 delete the word "and" and insert the word "the".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second? Seconded by Delegate Devine.

Is there any discussion? Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman, in the Committee, I have to admit I am in the minority of one. I suppose I have to leave this to the persuasive plea of the proponent in his convincing the Committee that juveniles, at all stages, whether they be in juvenile court or not, should be entitled to a jury trial.

Now, in the Committee, I'm alone, but the Committee was also presented with letters from the Judicial Council, which was almost unanimous in its decision, from the juvenile authorities and from all of the rehabilitative agencies in the State. These various presentations suggested that, if we did provide for a trial for juveniles in juvenile delinquency proceedings, we would, in effect, be destroying the juvenile laws, so that there could be no rehabilitation. And, incidentally, that's really what they're provided for.

Now, as far back as 1899 we started with our juvenile court, and up until 1966 there had never been any real test of this matter, and following 1966, there have been seven or eight very major cases which have, in effect, provided that juveniles are entitled to many more things than they were before under the juvenile court proceedings. At this time now, a child has the right to notice of the charges against him. He has a right to counsel, the right to confront his accusers, and he has the right of the privilege of self-incrimination. Those things he didn't have before. So I think that we have developed this juvenile court proceedings to such an extent that it is now not only protecting the juvenile, but it's allowing him to rehabilitate.

Now, let me explain to you that I'm not against a juvenile having a jury whenever he's going to be incarcerated as a penalty. Now, this doesn't include Mandan, incidentally, because it's been determined by our Supreme Court that placing a child in Mandan is for the purpose of rehabilitation and treatment. I do feel that, if he's going to be treated as an adult, that he should have a jury and he does have that proceedings — or that right now. But I feel very strongly that if we create, in effect, an unforgivable situation between a parent and a child by allowing the child to have a jury trial, we are then destroying the rights that this child has toward rehabilitation. And, incidentally, in many instances a person can waive a jury trial, but when you look at it as far as a juvenile is concerned, you then have to consider, "Well, is this child mature enough so that he can understand the proceedings?" And if he is not mature enough the way this thing reads, he'd have a jury trial as a matter of right and he could not waive it, and if a court were to appoint a guardian to waive the jury trial for him, which probably isn't legal, then you have a situation where the court is appointing a guardian who is going to do what the court wants, which, I don't think, is the legal situation.

We have only one situation in the State of North Dakota which is an analogy, and that is on your Indian reservations you have children who are not afforded the rights of the juvenile proceedings in the State of North Dakota because, of course, the State of North Dakota does not have civil jurisdiction on the Indian reservations, and our Supreme Court has held that juvenile proceedings are civil in nature, and I can assure you, from the experience that I have had with these children on the Indian reservation, they don't like this situation. They don't like to have a criminal record started for them from the time that they're ten-to-twelve years old, which remains as a record for them until they're — well, until they die.

I, therefore, urge you to adopt the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE WARNER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I rise in support of the amendment. This — if the Committee Proposal is adopted, it is not a step forward; it is a step backward. We destroy the entire purpose of juvenile courts and juvenile procedure. I urge that you support the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

A number of delegates have come here with an idea or a proposal that is very dear to them. Delegate Fritzell had a deep concern about the state of our environment, and she was able to transmit that concern to the delegates and we approved a proposal designed to preserve our environment. And Delegate O'Toole was troubled about the rights of citizens in trying to deal with a labyrinth of government bureaus and agencies; so, to help rescue the private citizen frustrated by official red tape or indifference, he sold us on the idea of an ombudsman. And then, to the surprise of many, last night, on justiciable elections, Delegate Omdahl came through with flying colors.

I, too, have my crusade. I want to extend the right of a trial by jury to that 50 percent of our people accused of crime who are now denied that right. We're accustomed to thinking that everyone accused of committing a crime in this State is guaranteed the safeguard of a jury trial, if he wants one. Not so. Nearly half of those charged with crime and thus faced with the loss of their liberty are denied a jury trial under the present interpretation of the jury trial provision of our Constitution. It depends entirely upon the age of the accused. If the accused is 18 years and one day old, he can have a jury pass upon the issue of his guilt or innocence. If he is 18 minus one day, he must go to juvenile court, and there is no jury trial in that court. There the question of guilt is decided in secret, informal hearings, behind locked doors, by a judge. This is the same judge, incidentally, who sat down with the juvenile supervisor a few days beforehand and heard a one-sided version of all the facts, including everything derogatory about the juvenile, and then authorized the action to be started. Then at the hearing on guilt or innocence, this same judge is supposed to decide, impartially, of course, whether he acted foolishly in the first instance. And regardless of the judge's known prejudices, regardless of his qualifications or lack of them, regardless of his loftier standards of rectitude, regardless of splenetic temperament, the juvenile must submit his disputed question of guilt or innocence to that judge for decision. He cannot have another judge. He cannot have a jury trial. A possible penalty of up to two years' loss of liberty by commitment to the reform school hangs in the balance in these proceedings. It strikes me as intolerably unjust that there is no alternative open to the juvenile accused. He must tender his fate to that one individual judge in a secret session, where the judge's decision is protected by the cloak of secrecy. If that individual is one that a black robe has turned into a martinet — and there are those, believe me — it is little better than a star chamber proceeding. The recorded cases will attest to this.

And I say that the availability of a jury for a juvenile, if they want one and they select one in consultation with their attorney, would be entirely consistent with fundamental safeguards that all citizens should have when charged with crime and when liberty is at stake; and it would also present a wholesome alternative to trial by judge, and a sensible and needed checkmate on possible judicial ethics. I want to see all citizens — not just some — guaranteed a jury trial, and I ask you to help me make that a reality in North Dakota by voting against the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I want to correct the amendment, if I may. Instead of the word "period", it should be "comma" and then you don't need a capital "T" and with the approval of my second, I'd like to change the amendment to read that way; otherwise you won't have a complete sentence.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does the second approve?

DELEGATE DEVINE: The second approves.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think you should read it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Then the last sentence would read: "In all other criminal cases and in civil cases, the legislature may regulate the size of the jury and the number required for a verdict."

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

Even though I seconded the amendment, I was not prepared — I'm not prepared to speak of it. I did not realize it was coming up at this time; but as soon as it came before the body, I recognize what I suggest as an inherent danger to the entire juvenile system. I very strongly support the amendment. I feel that extending a juvenile — or the jury trial to the juveniles would — well, like I say, destroy the system. I spend about half my time as State's Attorney of Nelson County working with juveniles. I'm very much concerned about them. I've spent considerable time trying to come up with new ways in which to handle them and protect the disposition of those kids who get in trouble. I can't think of anything that would do a kid more wrong in a community — particularly a small community — that to have a jury trial and bring out the things that you have to bring out in a trial. When you start dealing with some of these 13, 14 and 15-year-old girls and boys, you run into some rather shocking things, and I think it would completely destroy this child's chance of ever returning to the community in the event that you succeeded in a conviction. I don't think these kids would be capable of dealing with the pressures that they would receive if many of these proceedings were made public. And this, in effect, what you are doing — is making them public through the jury system.

Now, I realize that Delegate Maxwell suggested that some of the judges may be biased. Quite frankly, I have more faith in the judiciary than that. I've taken a number of these cases before a District Judge and felt that they've been fair, even when they've held against me, and they do so frequently. These judges, I have found, make you prove the case. They have the right to counsel. These juveniles aren't without legal remedies. They have an attorney representing them there. They keep you honest.

So I would strongly object to the Committee Proposal and recommend that the amendment be supported.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President. I have a question for Delegate Thompson.

Under your amendment, could the Legislature provide for jury trials for juveniles? It seems that they perhaps could. But this doesn't appear in the Constitution. I wonder if that's correct.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: The only way — Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: The only way they could do that would be — I suppose the Legislature could provide for a jury trial but I imagine they could now provide for jury trials, but they'd have to change the juvenile court proceeding in order to do that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: Would Delegate Maxwell yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Certainly.

DELEGATE POULSON: Delegate Maxwell, if it would become an eventuality that we would have jury trials for all juvenile offenders who so requested it, would the judge still have the power of determining the length and type of sentence?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Oh, yes, that would still be entirely within the discretion of the judge as to how the matter should be disposed of once guilt were established by a decision of a jury. I would visualize that if a jury requested — if a jury were requested in juvenile court, and the case could be transferred for trial in a normal fashion and thereafter returned to juvenile court for disposition, this could be very simply had.

DELEGATE POULSON: Would the Delegate yield to another question?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Certainly.

DELEGATE POULSON: Would this in any way alter the privacy that is now a part of the juvenile hearings, particularly on minor matters? What I'm driving at — the question in my mind is: If the juvenile were arrested and was a suspect in a hubcap case, which perhaps in my opinion would be a minor — a minor thing, he would probably get a little probation and be remanded to the custody of his parents. But maybe to this youngster or his parents, this was the end of the world, and he was 15 years old and he had this jury trial — a full-blown jury trial, as I see it. Would this then take away the privacy of the hearing as we now have it?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: The juvenile and his counsel and his parents would have to elect whether or not to go into the juvenile court and stay there, with all of its privacy, or to go into a regular court and have a jury determine his guilt or innocence. They couldn't have both. They'd have to select between the two, and I think that's all right. If the question of guilt is a close one and they'd rather have a jury pass on it than a judge, then a juvenile should have that right to have a jury pass on it, rather than a judge.

And I might say, under present statutes, even if the trial is held in adult court, there is a statute that has been on the books for many, many years that permits the court to limit those who are in attendance and thus try to secure some privacy. In your hubcap cases, that normally would be disposed of, as are 95 percent of the cases in my court — they never get to me; they are handled by the juvenile supervisor on what is called an "informal adjustment" basis, and that, of course, is strictly private; and if the juvenile makes an admission, which they almost invariably do, then they're placed on probation for 90 days, and that's usually the end of the case, unless they misbehave meanwhile.

DELEGATE POULSON: Thank you.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

Fellow delegates, I rise to support the amendment. Delegate Maxwell, as well as all the other brother judges in the State, not only have the natural property of being natural fathers, but they have also been artificially determined to be, as juvenile judges, the father of the country in regard to juveniles.

Now, the child population of the United States is roughly one-third of all the population and the arrest statistics for juveniles account for about 25 percent of the apprehended-offender population, and the caseload in our juvenile courts is roughly 700,000 cases a year.

Now, juvenile court — the main function is not to determine the guilt or innocence of the juvenile offender, although that is one of the duties. The main duty is that the juvenile court recognizes a special obligation for the protection and development of children as they move toward adulthood. Under our present law, all persons under the age of 18 are regarded as juveniles. Now, a juvenile court, at his discretion, may transfer for adult treatment those of the age of 16 or over, and I understand that there is a move among the juvenile judges to lower this discretionary age to 14 in the future by legislative act.

Now, we've heard the expression "This will destroy our juvenile court system." But no one has explained how it will.

Now, when you have a jury trial, the proceedings become a pure adversary proceedings, with lawyer against lawyer, with cross-examination of specialists in psychiatry, sociologists, and we do not have the atmosphere necessary for the wide opinions which should be given to the court for the rehabilitation of this child.

Now, knowing Delegate Maxwell as I do, and his calm and sensitive nature, I have no fear that his court would be transferred into a star chamber proceeding, and my opinion of most of the trial judges — juvenile judges of the State — is exactly the same. And for that reason, I support the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I, too, rise in support of the amendment.

A couple of points that have not been covered: I think all of you should know that under our Uniform Juvenile Court Act that any time there is a hearing before the juvenile court, that the right of counsel is available to the juvenile involved. This also includes the right of counsel provided by the State, if the juvenile — the family of the juvenile is unable to afford counsel for them. It's not a situation where the child sits there with the judge and the commissioner and his parents alone.

It's been some time since I was an Assistant State's Attorney in our county, but when I was, I participated in many of these hearings, and the cases that I was involved in, it appeared to me that the court was very careful to see to it that the juvenile's rights were not only protected, but that everything that could possibly be favorable to the juvenile was brought out.

Now, under the new Juvenile Court Act, as I understand it, the sentence is not to the State Training School, but it's to a Youth Authority, and they can, as judges have indicated to me, treat the youngster as they best determine, which could be a week, while the judge might have felt a longer term, or whatever it might be. In addition to this, you might have got the impression that what the judge says is final; however, there are provisions for appeal to the Supreme Court, and I thought that you — based on what was said, I thought it — it appeared to me that this was not the case; however, it is.

Now, I'd like to talk to you about a practical matter — with the jury situation. In the larger cities, they have a jury term every month. I'm speaking of Fargo, Grand Forks, Bismarck and Minot. In the City of Jamestown, they have a jury term twice a year — in March and November of each year. In the smaller county seats, they may or may not ever have a jury term. What the effect of this would be, if we were to approve this measure as it stands, I really don't know, but it would seem that we might be — we might thwart the real intent of handling juveniles as we do with the juvenile court today. It would be very simple to demand a jury trial and wait and wait and wait until a jury is called.

Now, in some counties they have kind of a rule of thumb that they're not going to call a jury because of the expense involved, unless they have, say, five cases. It costs considerable money to call a jury nowadays. The jurors are paid $20 a day, plus their mileage to and from the courthouse. So it's not — I'm not so sure we're helping the matter of handling juveniles in this case. I think we really would be hindering them, and that's the reason that I'm going to support the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I knew this a long time ago, and I shouldn't probably judge my experience in the Thirties and make it applicable until today; but I worked in the Welfare Department in Minneapolis for four years and I was in juvenile proceedings quite often, and they became very emotional cases, and I would hesitate very, very much to have any type of a jury make a decision that would affect a juvenile for the rest of his life, and I feel only the judge could have the expertise; and so I support the amendment. However, at first I felt — I go back to — right, again, at first I was inclined to support Delegate Maxwell; but in natural experience, I can't help but feel that it won't work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

It might sound very well to offer our juveniles a jury trial guaranteed in our Constitution, but I think, in reality, this is a wrong approach to handling juveniles.

In 1969, the North Dakota Legislature adopted the Uniform Juvenile Court Act. At the same time, the North Dakota Legislature adopted the State Youth Authority, which is another uniform act. In the same session, the North Dakota Legislature adopted the Interstate Compact on Juveniles. These are three uniform acts which are the direction that all the courts in the United States seem to be moving in. They are recommendations made by authorities in the field of juvenile law. They are recommendations made by our own authority in the State of North Dakota, in Judge Burdick, who is renowned in the field of uniform law and in uniform application of laws.

We have had good juvenile laws developed in the State of North Dakota. The juvenile court proceedings which we have protect the child in every way possible. It does much more than any of the proceedings we could have or hope to have under a jury system. The child is not treated as a criminal. The child is treated as someone that needs to be trained, needs to be helped and needs to get some of the benefits to which he is entitled. We have special classifications under our uniform code system. We define the various acts and we do not define them as a criminal act until a last resort. They are not classified in that way; and I will ask you: If we're going to reduce it to a jury trial, what other alternative would we have? This is a step backwards. It is a wrong direction to move. I recommend that we support the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: I would like to ask Delegate Thompson and Delegate Maxwell, please, to repeat — and I think it has been said before — what is mandatory and/or what is optional as far as the jury trial is concerned, either under the amendment or under the committee proposal. I'm a little confused on that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson, can you give Delegate Lander some information that he has requested?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'll try. Under our criminal laws as they stand now, a criminal is entitled to a jury as a matter of right; however, he has the right to waive, if he is capable of doing so. Now, that includes mentally and the fact that he is mature enough to understand the proceedings that are being brought against him. Now, that same rule applies to juveniles, if this is to be considered a criminal hearing. So then you must look at this, say, 14-year-old, and does he understand? Can he understand the proceedings against him? And then, can he waive? And if he doesn't understand the proceedings, then he can't waive and it would be against his constitutional rights to waive the jury for him. So if there was a conviction, he could appeal on the basis that his constitutional rights were violated and have a conviction overturned — if that explains it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell, now do you have any further comment to make to Delegate Lander's request for information?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I can only state that, in my view, Delegate Thompson is incorrect in his assumption that every case must be submitted to a jury. We've got to remember that the juvenile court system is an innovation in our American jurisprudence and that it has only been seventy years since we've had any experience with it. Prior to that time, juveniles were handled exactly like adults; they appeared in criminal court, like the rest, and for centuries before that, that was the practice, and the problems and the worries and the concerns of Delegate Thompson certainly never bothered anyone during the course of all of those centuries, and I'm sure they would not if a juvenile has an opportunity to have a jury trial. It would be strictly at the option of the juvenile himself as to whether or not he wanted to go into adult court and there have the one single issue of his guilt or innocence determined by a jury.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, to further add a little confusion to the situation, I can think of a position between these two that might be worthy of consideration; that in juvenile cases, the jury will be deemed to have been waived unless requested.

Now, in serving as a State's Attorney and in defending some juveniles in recent years, I can think of a few cases where I felt the judge was a little prejudiced and where I would rather have had my client's future determined by a jury. I think it would be, in some instances, good to have the privilege to go to a jury, if you wanted to do so. But in 95 percent or more of the cases, as indicated, probably you won't want a jury; and if there is any interest in what I've said here, I have an amendment that could be put in very rapidly, which would take care of it, which would give the juvenile a trial by jury, if he requested it through his attorney. If he did not request it, he would be deemed to have waived his trial by jury.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: I'd like to ask Judge Maxwell:

Our discussion has centered on the question of whether a juvenile should be entitled to a jury trial or not. The first sentence in the old Section 7 of this proposal says "The right of trial by jury shall be secured to all." It doesn't say anything about age. Could you explain that sentence to us?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President. Yes. To me, that sentence is quite clear, and to me, all persons shall include — including juveniles; but the Supreme Court of this State has very recently added a comma after "all" and added the words "except juveniles." They have declared that a juvenile is not included in the word "all." Therefore, that is why I feel that the language of the present proposal is necessary to rectify that.

DELEGATE HILL: Well, would the amendment then take care of it? Would the amendment guarantee that juveniles don't have the right to jury trials?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, that is correct. That is my interpretation of it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further — Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Will Delegate Longmire yield to a question?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

Delegate Longmire, what would be the situation in what your thinking is if the juvenile wanted the trial, come hell or high water, irregardless of what his or her attorney might think?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, I think a good attorney would come to an understanding with the parents and the juvenile before it reached that far, and that certainly, if the juvenile continued to want a jury trial, in spite of the advice from his attorney and his parents, why let him have one.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Well, I would suggest then it doesn't add anything, because I think all of us who have been in the business of seeing juveniles who were on a personal vendetta, more often than not against a mother or father, or both, and would like a jury trial to embarrass them, and we're right back into the situations that we were concerned about before.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, do I have the privilege of speaking again?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir, you do.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I'd like to speak to the proposition that jury trials will destroy the juvenile court system, and I say that is not correct. I say it will strengthen it. I think we should take off the fancy embroidery of theoretical purpose and look at the nakedness of practical performance in the juvenile court. I have indicated that this was a newcomer on the scene. It purports to substitute, as indicated by Delegate Burke, paternalism and benevolence for constitutional procedures. Well, what has been the result?

The U. S. Supreme Court has recently harshly censured the performance of juvenile courts in this country, and I'm inclined to join in that reproach.

Before we start worrying about preserving something, we should consider whether or not it is deserving of preservation and just what does the juvenile court system have to commend itself? Soaring juvenile delinquency rates. High incidence of repeaters and recidivism. Fifteen-year-olds hold the record as the age group committing the most crimes. Sixteen-year-olds are a close second.

I indict the juvenile court system on three counts:

Count 1. It has deprived a substantial portion of Americans of fundamental rights supposedly guaranteed in the Bill of Rights.

Count 2: Its informality and secrecy lead to abuses and miscarriages of justice; and Count 3. It has a miserable record of accomplishment in dealing with juvenile unlawfulness and misbehavior.

During the 70 years of its existence, the story has often been told, as it has been this morning, of its lofty and humane objectives. Its supporters have related how paternal judges, utilizing the many tools of the behavioral sciences, could, by means of private and informal flexible proceedings, rescue erring youngsters from a downward career. But recently — recently the story of its imperfections is being heard loud and clear. In 1967 a blue ribbon President's Commission on Law Enforcement said this: "Studies conducted by the Commission, legislative inquiries in various states, and reports by informed observers compel the conclusion that the great hopes originally held for the juvenile court have not been fulfilled. It has not succeeded significantly in rehabilitating delinquent youth, in reducing or even stemming the tide of delinquency or in bringing justice and compassion to the child offender."

And author Howard Jacobs, in a Pulitzer Prize-winning series called "Crises in the Courts," which appeared in the Christian Science Monitor, said this: "What I saw in the nation's juvenile courts can only be described as shocking."

And in the recent United States Supreme Court it was observed, "While there can be no doubt of the original laudible purpose of the juvenile courts, studies and critiques in recent years raised serious questions as to whether actual performance measures well enough against theoretical purpose. There is evidence, in fact, that there may be grounds for concern that the child receives the worst of both worlds; that he neither gets the protections accorded to adults nor the solicitous care and regenerative treatment postulated for children."

And then, in the famous Gault case, the court said: "The high crime rates among juveniles could not lead us to conclude that the absence of constitutional protections reduces crime or that the juvenile system functioning free of constitutional inhibitions, as it has largely done, is effective to reduce crime and rehabilitate juvenile offenders."

The performance of the juvenile courts was seen to have fallen far short of theory. Substitution of loose informality for constitutional protections not only fails to deal effectively with delinquency and with recidivism, but it tended to nourish the abuse of authority by those administering juvenile justice. Firstly, "justice as usual" had not worked. The claimed benevolent tone of the juvenile court has not produced the results as promised. It has failed. And substituting benevolence for rights is a poor business in any case.

Justice Brandeis, who was quoted by Delegate Kelsch yesterday, once said that, "Personal liberty is in greatest jeopardy when the government's purposes are benevolent." He said, "The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal well-meaning, but without understanding." It is not going to weaken the juvenile court system by affording a juvenile, who requests it, a jury trial. If anything, it will give it added strength and statute that constitutional safeguards inherently tend to confer. I ask you to defeat this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

Mr. President, unbelievable as it may seem, a delegate asked me to express my opinion.

It seems to me that there are — there may be many who agree, as I believe Judge Maxwell believes, that the juvenile system has not worked, is not working and does not do justice to the child. There may be much in what he says.

We have a system for determining the guilt or innocence of persons accused of transgressing the law. Those cases are all criminal cases, and over the centuries we evolved a system of determining that fact by a jury. The jury does not determine the law. It does not fix the punishment, except in extremely rare situations. It simply determines the facts. The State says that the defendant broke the law — he robbed the bank or he stole or he murdered, or whatever may be the crime. The jury, after listening to the evidence in an adversary proceeding, say "Yes, he did." or "No, he didn't," and they only use two, three words in all this decision making — "guilty" or "not guilty."

Now, the juvenile court idea says that a youth — a juvenile — should not be subjected to this same public scrutiny and this raw decision "yes" or "no;" that there are mitigating circumstances, different than the mitigating circumstances that determine the fixing of a penalty and, for better or worse, society has decided it will treat its juveniles in a different manner.

Now, in my opinion, you can't mix the two. You have to make a choice. You can't have in-camera proceedings, with all of the allowances and the maybes and the ifs that you have in a juvenile court, if you're going to put this in front of a jury, because I do not conceive how a jury trial can be less than public. Even if the doors are locked after the jury is formed, there are too many people in that courtroom and too many people know what happened for it to ever remain secret. Almost nothing remains a secret forever.

One of the inherent parts of jury trials is publicity. You get people on a jury who, presumably know nothing about the facts — completely unprejudiced, unbiased, ignorant of the situation when the trial commences. That's what you're trying to get at. Also, you're trying to get a complete cross-section of the community — rich and poor, educated and ignorant — a cross-section, which is what some of us are, from all sides.

Now, to me, I would believe that, if you believe in the special treatment of juveniles and if you believe that they are a class who are entitled to different considerations, then you should vote for the amendment and eliminate jury trials — make sure that we don't have them, the same as we are now. For better or worse that's the system.

Now, if you want to eliminate that system and put the ten-year-old on the same footing as the thirty-year-old — Did he commit a crime or didn't he? — because what can a jury decide in a juvenile case, except that fact? Surely you're not going to ask a jury to determine whether this young lad needs a different environment or if he needs treatment or if he needs something else. You can't substitute the jurors for the wisdom of the judge. You're simply going to give the jury the same type of questions that you do with the thirty-year-old man who was accused of committing a crime, and the jury will say "guilty" or "not guilty," and then you still leave it all up to the judge. What's he going to do about it?

Now, what's the point of having that jury unless the judge does just exactly what he does with any other criminal — adult criminal? Sentence him or suspend the sentence in his wisdom, as he does with all the rest of them.

So, to me, the choice is clear. If you don't want separate treatment for juveniles, then you say "Yes, jury trials. We'll put them back in the pot with everybody else."

I have other objections to this proposal, which, I think would be out of order now, and that is the possibility of reducing jury size; but I assume I'll have a chance to speak when that matter comes up.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: May I respond just a little bit?

The same U. S. Supreme Court that has been quoted in the — a case that was decided in 1968, said this — and I think we all agree with it and I think that's been brought out so far — and I quote:

"Meager as has been the hope for advancing in the juvenile field, the alternative" — referring to juries — "would be regressive, would lose what has been gained, and would tend once again to place the juvenile squarely in the routine of the criminal process."

The U. S. Supreme Court, in fact, has said this: "The juvenile court is not merely a social agency, yet, by the same token, it will not be allowed to turn into a juvenile criminal court; it must be given the tools it needs to perform its historic mission — rehabilitation of the minor — if it is to survive.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

Fellow delegates, I think we've moved a long way in this Convention in granting additional benefits and rights to young people. I think yesterday we, on reconsideration of a bill that had previously passed over-whelmingly, we began to realize maybe — that maybe there has to be some differences in rights and privileges by age.

I support this amendment because this is the first issue in this Constitution that I have observed almost unanimous opinion by lawyers on a single issue.

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I did want to say that three years ago I worked on the Juvenile Court Act, and I sincerely believe that the Juvenile Court Act, which we have in the State of North Dakota, is not compatible with jury trials for juveniles. It just is not compatible at all. Now you have heard from one North Dakota District Judge in Delegate Maxwell. I do not believe that he speaks for all of the judges in the District Courts in North Dakota by any means. At least in 1969, they were in near unanimous agreement that we should have the Uniform Juvenile Court proceedings and I might also say that the Supreme Court decisions and the comments that were made do not reflect what is going on in the juvenile court proceedings.

I sincerely support the amendment made by Delegate Thompson.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention —

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Will Delegate Maxwell yield to a question?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I will.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: I don't know if I read the report right. Do I see in here a deterrent possibly for less juvenile delinquency proceedings, if we leave the majority report as it is? Will it in any way benefit the parent and the juvenile? The juvenile at this point, apparently, does not fear publicity in any other area. So I don't really buy the publicity fear that has been brought out.

Is there a deterrent factor in here somewhere that may reduce the juvenile delinquency proceedings as we now have them?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I don't think it will have any effect whatsoever as far as deterrent is concerned.

Mr. President, while I'm on my feet, may I fire another fusillade?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir. You may proceed.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I merely wanted to state that Delegate Aas is correct that I, apparently, stand alone among District Court judges in my position on this. I don't regard that as particularly hurtful to the cause I espouse, however.

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: Judge Maxwell for a question, please.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Delegate Maxwell yield?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I will.

DELEGATE MILLER: Sir, you made a statement awhile ago that disturbs me, and maybe I'm being quite naive. But in referring to Section 7, where the rights of trial by jury shall be secured to all — and if I remember correctly you said that the Supreme Court has inserted a comma and put in “except juveniles.” If this, sir, is true, maybe our complete endeavor here is a lesson in futility. If this can be changed at the whim of the Court, then what do we expect to resolve here?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Well, I said that the effect of that ruling of the Supreme Court was to insert a comma and put "except juveniles," and that is exactly the effect of it. But I think that, if the proposal in its present form is passed by this body, and with the record of this debate, that the Supreme Court will see quite clearly what the intention of the Constitution is and will be in the future as far as jury trials for juveniles is concerned.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: In listening to this debate, there is one point that seems to be appearing over and over again, and it disturbs me a great deal.

I have come to the conclusion that possibly the only reason for a jury trial is because it involves more people, and this, I would imagine, would be to the protection of the child and it would be a deterrent on the judge, because he would be aware that more people would be informed of the proceedings. And I have a question of Judge Maxwell, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Judge Maxwell yield to a question?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Surely.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Is this true, in your opinion, sir, that the more people that are present — it would be helpful to the child, and is it true — the statement just made by Delegate Pearce — that the judge's decision will be made regardless — or I mean he will arrive, probably, at the same decision, whether there was a jury trial or not?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I think that public trials are very important in our constitutional system.

As to Delegate Pearce's comment that you must have one or the other, I disagree, and I disagree very strongly. The beauty and the good of the juvenile court system is in the dispositional phase, after guilt has been determined; and having a jury trial would in no way effect or influence the way that the judge can dispose of the case, and that is where all of the good and the social sciences and all of the good of the psychiatrists and all of the help that can be afforded to the juvenile can be felt. And I can't see where merely determining the one issue of guilt or innocence by a jury is going to in any way affect the dispositional phase of the juvenile court.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, as a layman not altogether familiar with this whole question, I have a cousin who lives in Canada, who was involved in a car accident in which three teenagers were killed, and there had obviously been a lot of drinking going on, as had happened for sometime in the community. The family insists to this day that this boy was not driving the car. I don't honestly know whether or not he had a jury trial, because I don't know what the system is in Canada. But he was given a very, very heavy sentence.

Is it my understanding that, under our present arrangement, this 17-year-old boy could not have demanded a jury trial in North Dakota and gotten it? Is that correct?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, if that's addressed to me, that's right, he could not have demanded a jury trial and gotten it in that case, if that case had arisen in North Dakota. He could not have gotten it, unless the judge under some very rigid restrictions, could on his own waive it out of juvenile court; but the election would not be with the juvenile — it is with the judge alone — and then only if the judge determines, after a hearing, that the juvenile could not respond to what the — to the juvenile court system — that there was nothing in it for him — he was incorrigible and hopeless as far as the juvenile court system is concerned. And I have never, in dealing in the Juvenile Court Act, ever found a case in which I could waive it, under the law of the Juvenile Court Act, into adulthood.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE WARNER: Judge Maxwell, in a case like that, of manslaughter, a District Judge would waive — declare him as an adult and have him tried in regular court.

(Delegate Maxwell shook his head.)

DELEGATE WARNER: It's been done!

DELEGATE SINNER: Well, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Whatever case could be made for that boy — he got, I think, a ten-year sentence, and it was a gross miscarriage of justice, at least from what I know of the case, and I'm not saying I think that a jury would have been necessarily more fair, but it was an established fact that there was a bitter feeling in the community because of some other accidents, and this boy caught the brunt of the entire punishment. So I think that there's a great deal to be said in what Judge Maxwell is saying.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates:

I vowed this morning that I would not get up and make any statement on this issue. Delegate Maxwell had me practically convinced that he had a good theory; but as a parent, I certainly would prefer to have my juvenile appear before a juvenile court.

As State's Attorney of our county for over twenty years, I have dealt with many, many juveniles. My primary concern was with their welfare. In every case I have found that the District Judge who sat as a juvenile judge also had that in mind. In every case in which the juvenile commissioner went out and investigated all of the facts, he or she seemed to lean over backwards to give this juvenile a fair shake. I cannot, under any circumstances, conceive of any District Court in the State of North Dakota that would or should be considered a star chamber. I have felt that they have done a tremendous job. The statistics given to us are like the pictures that were shown to us the other evening from the City of Chicago — a maligning of the judicial system — not one iota related to the State of North Dakota.

The statistics given by Delegate Maxwell again probably refer to Chicago and New York and other states. As I could see, not one matter pertained to the State of North Dakota. I make this statement merely to uphold the judicial system of the State of North Dakota. The Judges who have been sitting as juvenile courts have done an outstanding job — no star chamber, or anything of the kind.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jim Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes, Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I think that — or feel that we're getting off on the wrong track, and I hope I can get across what I want to say.

It seems to me right now that I am acting as a juror, and I'd have to decide for maybe the next twenty, thirty-to-fourty years on either one of two issues, and that is that either a juvenile is served better by the juvenile court or a juvenile is not served better by the juvenile court, and I don't think this is the correct decision that we should make. In fact, I don't think we have any right to make it.

I think what we have to speak to is the fact: Does a juvenile have a right to a trial jury?

As a parent of many teenagers — most of them are still juveniles — I say absolutely I have a right as a parent to demand that my child, if he is a juvenile, have a trial by jury.

Now, I am quite sure that I would not want to do this, feeling that the juvenile court system as we have it today in North Dakota is best for the juvenile; but I don't believe that this delegation has a right to say, "No, a juvenile cannot have a trial by jury." And if we accept this amendment, I think we are going far over the bounds which we should go.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I don't know what we're really afraid of here. What are we really afraid of in giving the juvenile the right to a jury trial? Certainly his rights should be protected, just as everyone else's. There are exceptions in every case on both sides of the fence. I can't see how we, as delegates to the Constitutional Convention, can sit, as Delegate Hougen would have it and what he has said — that we were acting as a jury here. This amendment would not allow a juvenile, for any reason, under any circumstances, the right to a jury trial. Now, I don't know how we can advocate that kind of class discrimination.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Apparently, through all of the talking that has gone on, some of you have not understood that in juvenile court proceedings we are not determining whether or not this child has committed a crime; we are determining only whether or not he needs help and what agency should help him.

Now, Judge Maxwell does not agree with the three District Judges in my district, because in many instances juveniles who are being charged with a crime have been waived into District Court and have been treated as adults there, and that is now possible and it does go on. So, what we're not determining in the juvenile court is whether or not they have committed a crime; it's whether or not we can help them, and that's the whole theory of the juvenile court system.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

Earlier you heard Judge Maxwell explain what he thought are the faults of the juvenile court system, and I concur with many of the things that he said, and that is the reason that we adopted the Uniform Juvenile Court Act. That is, the Legislature adopted it in 1969.

Now, the question was raised about an incident in Canada, and attempted to equate to what we're talking about, when I don't know if any of you know what kind of a court system they have up there. I don't. So I would ask that you not get too alarmed by what happened, because we're not here to judge what they did was right or wrong. However, had that happened in North Dakota, Section 27-20-34 of the pocket supplement provides when a case may be transferred to other courts, and it has five subsections, and you may — if you have the Code near you, you might like to read those — one of which requires that if the child — the child must be sixteen years or more of age at the time of the alleged conduct. So, in this particular case of a 17-year-old in an automobile accident, as Judge Warner says, this would be a case that would be transferred to a District Court and, incidentally, the last paragraph of that says: "If the case is transferred to a court in which the judge who conducted the hearing is also the judge, he is likewise disqualified from presiding in the prosecution." So it's not that same judge transferring the case and turning around and hearing the case, as some might believe. I honestly believe that we have provisions for a jury trial in those cases where the juvenile court judge decides that it should be a jury trial and should be — the juvenile right now to go to a jury should be waived and subject him to a jury trial. Again, the section is 27-30-24, if you'd like to read it in detail exactly when the case can be transferred.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President, I've listened to this argument in the committee meetings. I've got my own feelings. I've got six children. If I felt that they sincerely wanted — one of them got in trouble and wanted a jury trial, and after I talked to an attorney and the attorney suggests that they have a jury trial, I would certainly go along with having a jury trial for the youth. But, like as has been mentioned here this morning, it would be up to the parent and the attorney to determine if that youth should have a jury trial, and I think this is what is provided for in the provision that is being discussed this morning here.

But we have to take another look at it. There was mentioned about the cost — what it might cost; and how long it takes to get a jury trial in some counties. Are we putting dollar signs against humanity, or what? And this is what it looks like to some thinking here this morning. But if the juvenile system was so good, how come we do have as many cases of juvenile delinquency as we have today? I think that we are — that everyone in this State should be entitled to a jury trial, if he so wishes. I don't think we should stand and discuss this morning what's good about the juvenile court system or the other court system. I think it's a right that a person has, if he wants a jury trial. I feel that some parents would prefer a jury trial. Leave it come out in the open. I would rather see a decision come out of a jury that my child was guilty or not guilty, rather than have the public walk around the streets and put a bunch of false rumors out that the child was before the juvenile court. Why have the false rumors against the child on the streets, in the schools? Why not bring the truth out in the open? Are we scared of the truth? I would rather have my child be out in the open, with the truth, rather than have a bunch of false rumors passed around the streets.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

I wasn't going to get into the scene here, but I think I have to stand and state that I support the proposed amendment by Delegate Thompson, and I think this probably, more than anything, I think, muddles or confuses — to separate the proceedings. Originally, the juvenile, for any crime, was treated as an adult. And then we decided that that wasn't working. Our criminal restraints on adults hasn't worked too well over the years, Delegate Maxwell, so we developed the juvenile system, and it is said that a juvenile cannot commit a crime. He may do an act that we declare to be a crime, but his conduct is not criminal; and to avoid the stigma of the crime, we have made the proceedings secret. The emphasis was on rehabilitation. What should be done with the juvenile?

Now, if you muddle it and say that in the juvenile proceedings there must be a jury trial, then I think, as Delegate Pearce said, you have gone back — you have undone the juvenile system. We're back treating juveniles and adults alike, with a public trial.

Now, our present juvenile law does provide that a juvenile — as Delegate Nothing pointed out — does provide that a juvenile may, in certain cases, ask for a public trial — ask to be treated as an adult. Now, those are very limited circumstances and I think rightfully so, because one of the grounds for being what we call an "unruly child" is that the child is habitually disobedient of the reasonable lawful commands of his parents. Now, if we give a right to a jury trial in that kind of question, can you imagine the trial? The child against parent; the parents' lawyer and the child's lawyer. Was the command reasonable? Was it fair? Is the child really unruly? The child can ask, and a hearing will be had, for a public trial, and the conditions are that they be over sixteen, that the judge have cause to believe he committed the criminal act, that he is not amenable to rehabilitation or treatment as a juvenile. It goes on then — he's not also mentally retarded; that the interests of the community require that the child be placed in legal restraint or discipline. So that route is there. That route is there, and I really feel that, if we include the jury trial in it, we're saying to the Legislature, "Forget the juvenile court system." I think it really is the end of it. I think we've got a separate system, and I don't think that we, in this Constitution, should abolish that system with the Committee's Proposal.

Now, if we felt that the child should more readily be able to ask to not be treated as a juvenile, to ask to be treated as an adult, to go into the adult court system, that's a question for the Legislature to decide, to require a hearing and to loosen the limitation on his right to do that. I don't think we should do that in this Convention, though.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President, I still, like Delegate Hougen — I still am a little bit in the dark here. I don't see where we have to — I don't see the real clear delineation between having to choose between a juvenile court system and our adult court system as being the case here. I'm just wondering where the danger lies in this thing. Is it because we feel that some attorney may talk a juvenile into going into court for a jury trial when, in reality, his own best interests would have been that he should not, or is it that the judge is not schooled in juvenile rehabilitation because he's no longer a juvenile judge? Those are two questions that I have. Is the judge not schooled in rehabilitating the juvenile — the ordinary judge that would try a case by a jury or preside over a case by a jury? And is it the danger that an attorney might talk a juvenile into taking his case to a jury when his better interests would have been served by having not done so?

Those are two questions that anybody might answer.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can anyone answer the questions as presented by Delegate Scheel?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. President — Delegate Burbidge.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: I think Delegate Scheel and Delegate Hougen have come to the meat of the situation, and sitting in committee for some time, listening to this, I, too, asked these same questions. Isn't basically the problem whether the youth should have the option of taking his case to the court or going to the youthful proceedings, which most of us agree are good? And the problem that I came up with is this: Who makes that decision? Frequently the problem is between the child and his parents. So, therefore, it would be difficult for the parents to make the decision. And is the youth old enough to really understand the implications of his choice? Somewhere the problem lays in the decision-making process here. Is the youth well able to make the best choice, or is any agent for him well able to make the best choice? This is the question before us.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I, too, wasn't going to say anything; but all the lawyers have spoken and I think maybe some of the rest of us should say a word.

When I was young, wild oats was our principal trouble in the wheat situation, and I never wound up in juvenile court. I raised three children, all of whom are probably far more successful than I am, and they never were in junior — I mean in juvenile court. What I can't understand — I just can't understand how we can say that an 18-year-old can be in the Legislature, he can be a Senator, a 21-year-old can be a governor; but so help me, we have to be careful that he doesn't have to face a jury. I think he should have the right, if he desires it. In fact, I think we coddle the juveniles a little too much, and I, too, was in the Legislature and on a committee which considered that famous Juvenile Court Act about that thick (illustrating), and one judge came in and said he was sorry, but he hadn't used it yet — he didn't know, really. He hadn't used it. So I'm going to support the original and object to the amendment.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

I think we've had an excellent discussion on this problem this morning. I think anything that might be said in addition to what already has been said is going to be redundant.

With that thought in mind, I move the previous question.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The previous question has been moved. May I have five delegates second? Scheel, Christensen, Stanton, Devine and Knudson second.

The previous question has been moved, which means we vote immediately on the question before the assembly. The question now is on the adoption of the motion of the previous question.

DELEGATE WARNER: Mr. President, could we have a recorded division?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: On the previous question? You may, if you wish.

The previous question has been moved.

As many as are in favor of adopting the previous question will say "aye;" those opposed say "no."

The "ayes" have it and the motion is adopted.

We are now on the proposed amendment as offered by Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE WARNER: May I now request that it be a recorded division?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may request a recorded vote at this time. If ten delegates will rise, we will have a recorded vote.

That is a sufficient number.

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Thompson. Those in favor of adopting the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 55 "ayes," 39 "nays," four delegates absent and not voting. The amendment has been adopted.

Any further discussion? Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I now move that the rules be suspended, that the Proposal be re-engrossed and placed on the calendar.

DELEGATE BAKER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson moves that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-119 be deemed properly re-engrossed, that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended. Seconded by Delegate Baker.

As many as are in favor of the motion — Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. May I speak against the motion? The reason I do not want it to come to a vote right now is because we have had a lot of discussion on one portion of this. We have had no discussion so far of the effect of the third sentence, which would permit the Legislature to reduce the size of juries in all civil cases. I think that should be thought about a little bit, Delegates, rather than continuing to debate this question, and that's why I oppose suspending the rules and let it go over in normal course to the next day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the motion to suspend the rules, deem the Committee Proposal properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of adopting the motion say "aye," opposed "no."

I believe the "noes" have it. The "noes" do have it.

The Committee Proposal 1-119 is before the Convention as amended.

At this time the Chair will declare a 15-minute recess.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, may I make an announcement before we scatter?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think — we will hold just one bit. We have a number of students here that we would like to recognize, too.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, if we could have a 15-minute recess — I don't recall what you called — but I believe our Committee could get together and perhaps save a lot of time for the Convention. We know that there are at least three amendments to 1-12 — the next proposal we have before us, and I'd like to announce a meeting immediately of the Judiciary Committee in our usual place, and ask Delegate Omdahl and any others that have amendments to offer to 1-12 to meet with us. Perhaps we can agree on the amendments and save a lot of time of debate here on the floor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will you read the announcements from the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate O'Toole would like to announce that the adult Basic Education Class of the United Tribes Employment Training Center of Bismarck, North Dakota, and their teacher, Patrick Johnsen, are in the gallery.

Delegate Wicks would like to announce the Fifth Grade of the Jefferson School of Valley City, North Dakota, and their teacher, Mr. Barry Bjornson with 64 students, are in the gallery.

Delegate Kelsch would like to announce that there are 33 students from the Seventh Grade of the Christ The King School of Mandan, North Dakota, and their teacher, Mr. Messmer, in the gallery.

Delegate Kelsch would like to announce there are 56 students from the Sixth Grade of Mary Stark Custer School of Mandan, North Dakota, and their teachers, Ron Reiersen and Rena Brucker, in the gallery.

There is a group of League of Women Voters of Fargo and West Fargo, with Donna Chalimonczyk as President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the visiting people in the gallery — the students, as well as the other visitors — please rise and be recognized by the Convention? (Applause)

To our visitors, we do wish to welcome you to the Convention. We think that you have listened to one of the more important of the debates that we have had. We hope you enjoyed it. We hope that you will continue your interest in government because it will be only a few short years that you will be down on the floor of this assembly room, representing the people of North Dakota, either in the House or in the Senate.

Again, welcome to the Convention. Now we'll recess.

(The Session recessed at 10:48 A.M. until 11:11 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: May I explain my vote on the last —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: On the last question?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: — on the last question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: If you wish.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: I think that while I did not enter into the discussion on the floor, I certainly involved myself and entered into it very greatly in Committee. I'm greatly concerned, as many of the other people were, about destroying the juvenile court system, and I voted for the amendment primarily because I did not want to destroy the system; but, also, I think it should be considered as a directive to the Legislature to correct this inequity that Judge Maxwell has certainly pointed out to us.

In the four criteria that were listed for juvenile hearings, these all must be met and in many cases they cannot be met, and I think there is an inequity there and I hope that the Legislature will see this as a directive for correction of that inequity.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the sergeant-at-arms inform Delegate Longmire's committee that the Convention is in session?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I'd like to move that we reconsider our actions on —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner, we're still considering Committee Proposal No. 1-119. I know they didn't suspend the rules, so it's right back where it was. How do we know there won't be more amendments coming on from the floor? That's my point.

If there is no further consideration to be given to Committee Proposal No. 1-119, then it will be held over and go on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

Now, Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I'll move that we reconsider our action on Committee Proposal No. 1-70. If I can have a second, I'll explain why.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-70. And it was seconded by Delegate Kwako. Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. If you'll look on the printed page, you will find that in Section 12 it says "Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and the qualifications of its own members." That's been pointed out by Delegate Miller and, as mentioned last evening, that we don't actually provide for any other machinery for settling a tie, except for the partisan vote of the Legislature. Delegate Miller makes a good case, I think, to demonstrate that the people in the district aren't very happy about the partisan decision on the tie vote in their district on the Legislature itself, and I think he feels, and I'm inclined to agree with him that we should have the drawing of lots to decide who wins a tie vote for a legislative election, and if it is the wish of the Convention that we include that language

— that's the reason for moving reconsideration — then they should support the motion. If they think that the Legislature should decide ties for legislative races, then they should turn the motion down and it will stand as it is.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: That brings up a thought in my mind.

Supposing the two nominees who end up in a tie decide to contest the election and we have the Legislature decide, or flip a coin, or something, and decide who the winner is, and then the election committee decides the other way? It's got to be decided in that manner —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: For the information of the delegates that have been in committee meeting and just returned to the Convention, the question before the Convention is on a motion to reconsider Committee Proposal No. 1-70 as offered by Delegate Sinner.

Now, Delegate Sinner, I'm going to ask that you repeat your remarks there for the benefit of this group that was out.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

The question is whether or not we should provide language to break a tie vote in a legislative race. Under the present language, and the language of the old Constitution, for that matter, the Legislature decides who wins a tie vote, and if you think, as some of us do, that a tie vote should be broken by the drawing of lots and not by the political vote of the Legislature, then you should support the motion to reconsider. If you think that it should stay — to be decided by the Legislature — then you should vote against the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President, I'd like to ask Delegate Sinner a question.

Mr. Sinner, under what conditions could the Legislature ever break a tie vote by a political consideration? If they recount the ballots and there's still a tie, there is no way for the Legislature to determine the outcome on a partisan vote. They might determine the outcome on a partisan vote over which ballots are properly counted, but not to break the tie.

DELEGATE SINNER: Well, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I'm not positive about the exact answer to your question. Theoretically — as a matter of fact, they are decided on a partisan basis.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President and Delegates:

Delegate Sinner's question only covers the problem that I'm concerned about partially, and I'm thinking of cases that have happened in the Legislature of North Dakota in years past, and some of you who are a mite older will remember where there have been some flagrant abuses of political powers in determining who shall get a seat and who shall not; and I'm thinking not so much, Delegate Paulson, of those where there was an actual tie; the problem that I'm concerned about is the one where, through — well, political maneuvers, the Legislature determines which votes are valid and which are not, and there are some laws that are pretty specific that, if you want to get right down to the nit picking about it, you could legally declare certain ballots invalid, even though — and having sat on election boards a number of times, it's always been the practice in our little precinct to allow a ballot if the intent is clear, and it isn't always completely legal, I presume, but if the voter's intent is clear, we allow it.

Now, when you get into a body like this or like the Legislature or the Senate, then you run into those situations where, in order for a political party — and it's happened both ways — they do get right down to the nuts and bolts of this and declare some of them invalid because the intent may be clear, but it's not exactly legally done, and I presume that they are following the law, but they can twist this around and it's — some of these cases that have happened, you could smell them clear up to Bantry; so I'm kind of perturbed about how this can be resolved.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'm not sure yet I understand the amendment of Delegate Sinner. Is that —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's not an amendment, Delegate Longmire. It's a motion to reconsider.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Oh!

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's a motion to reconsider the action whereby we passed Committee Proposal No. 1-70.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I object, Mr. President, to these motions for reconsideration without having any idea what kind of amendment is going to be proposed. So I'm going to oppose it.

Now, I think the thing Delegate Miller was talking about was the 1955 special election for the State Senate in McLean County. That was a unique situation all right; but, nonetheless, in every legislative body each house is to judge the election returns and the qualifications of its own members.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates, the amendment would be just to add to Section 12 of 1-70 these words: "and in case of a tie, the winner shall be determined by lot."

Now it may be right what Delegate Paulson says — that there would be a tie when they got through counting. The majority party would make sure of that. And if there was a tie, maybe they would agree by lot. But this would be stating to the Legislature that if the count of the election is tied, that they would determine the result by lot and not by the force of a partisan decision.

Now, to get at Delegate Miller's problem we've either got to say as the Constitution said in the past, that the Legislature shall determine the qualifications of its members, and if that's the place where it's to be decided, then it's a legislative process. To get at his problem, I think we'd have to go much further and provide for a court procedure, which we had not contemplated, and it's not covered in 1-70.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the motion to reconsider Convention action on Committee Proposal No. 1-70.

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I believe it takes two-thirds to reconsider this. I believe it was the 18th day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It does take two-thirds to reconsider.

Inasmuch as it requires 66 votes to reconsider this matter, we are going to vote by opening the key.

Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Before we vote, I was wondering if there are any other delegates, besides Delegate Kelsch, that have any other proposals. I would hate to be coerced into voting for reconsideration based on this one amendment and then have the floor flooded with many others. I think any other delegates that have proposals should expose their hands at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there further —

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: While I don't have anything prepared, if we could have this reconsidered or laid over or put to the foot of the calendar, where we would be allowed a little time, I would certainly like to get together with some of these constitutional experts and try to arrange something whereby this situation I referred to could be resolved, and I like Delegate Kelsch's idea of resorting to the — having the recourse in the courts in the real abuses in this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Miller, if you'll pardon this, but I'm sure that you have recourse in the courts now.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman and Delegates:

I really don't think that it's necessary now to try to break a tie when we've had the same provision in the Constitution for 82 years, and I think we'll get along for another 82 years without changing it. I oppose reconsideration at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I just want to say that, as far as I know, I have no other intent or any other amendments and I don't know of any others.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: I speak with rather mixed emotions on this. I do not have the editorial available, but Delegate Cart could possibly recall this.

Approximately back in 1932 there was another individual by the name of Hartl who, as a qualified elector, found himself in a position of having earned a tie vote for his seat, and by lot he drew an ace — a low card. The opposition by lot drew a deuce. The cigar smoke in the room became heavier as Mr. Sellie, the opponent, drew next a 4. The election was determined by lot — the Hartl having drawn a king.

I agree with Mr. Paulson we have used the same system before. It possibly does have problems. It has been proven that it can work; and for these reasons, I will resist the motion at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President, I don't like to belabor this, but I would certainly ask you delegates to go with us on reconsidering this. The fact that we have had a built-in abuse for 80 years is certainly the best argument I can think of for doing something about it. I don't think it would be difficult. It shouldn't take much time. What we have in mind — I don't see how it can be controversial in any way — it's merely a matter of a little change in language to clear up something that has been abusive in the past.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I hope the delegates provide the two-thirds vote to reconsider 1-70. If you'll remember, yesterday you reconsidered a bill — 1-44 — and I didn't object to reconsidering that, although I'd have liked to have, and we were told that possibly the only change that would be made is in Section 5, and now I see an amendment would amend the whole proposal, and I think the delegates, after reconsidering all of this, will still have a majority to pass these proposals. I don't have any fear of it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the motion to reconsider Delegate Proposal No. 1-70.

We will open the key and you will record your wishes.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change? The key is closed.

There were 70 "ayes," which is a sufficient number to reconsider. So Committee Proposal No. 1-70 is before the Convention.

Delegate Sinner, what do you wish to do with it?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. I move that Committee Proposal 1-70 be placed at the bottom of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-70 be placed at the foot of the calendar. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE PETERSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Peterson.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-70 is placed at the foot of the calendar.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-12.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President — oh, excuse me.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-12, introduced by Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

(President Wenstrom called Second Vice President Saugstad to the rostrum to preside.)

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: The delegates will note the proposal that's in your book. It has been changed somewhat; however, there are only three sections that were changed materially from those sections, and we did place on your desk some time ago the new portion of the Proposal as it was amended by our Committee.

Now, I'm happy to report that we did make some progress on some proposed amendments by Delegate Omdahl in meeting with him at the recess. However, I think at this time the best procedure would be to have the people from our Committee that are assigned to these respective sections briefly explain them to you, and then there will be some further amendments, one of which we agreed to in our Committee that will be covered by Delegate Omdahl. In fact, we think his amendment was a good amendment.

So, at this time, Mr. President, I would like to recognize those, first of all, who have been assigned to the first section. I have forgotten just who it was, but no doubt you will remember. Delegate Hougen, I believe you were on the first part — are you not?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Wallin.

DELEGATE WALLIN: Mr. President, I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to engrossed Committee Proposal 1-12.

DELEGATE Wallin moves that the engrossed Committee Proposal be amended as follows:

On page 1, line 1, following the first comma, insert the following: "150,".

On page 1, line 7, following the first comma, insert the following: "150,".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second the motion.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Longmire.

DELEGATE WALLIN: Thank you.

Mr. President, the reason that we omitted repeal of Section 150 is that it was not assigned to our Committee on Judicial Functions; but it is included in our Section 8. I would explain where each of the repealing sections are found in our new Article XII.

Section 130, which had to do with home rule in cities and villages, is now found in Section 267.

Section 166, pertaining to boundaries, remains in Section 3 — our original Section 3.

Section 167, providing for organizing of new counties and seats thereof, is now provided in new Section 2, 5 and 8.

Section 168, which provided for changes in boundaries, is now in new Section 2, 3 and 5.

Section 169 had to do with the changing of county seats and is now in new Section 4.

Section 170 provided for optional forms of county government and is now in Section 7.

Section 171 — this was repealed on June 23, 1940.

Section 172 provided that until one of the option forms of government was adopted by the county commissioners, and so on — is now in Section 7; and old Section 173 is now provided in Section 8.

I will now yield to Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: We voted on the motion to amend, and I move the question on that now.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any further discussion on the amendment by Delegate Wallin?

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President, I only point out that the repeal of 150 is already in Proposal 1-15, which was before the body and which had been referred to our Committee. If we want to repeal it twice, it's probably harmless; but —

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: We felt it would be all right to repeal it again, because it flares up in our Section 2, and that's procedural. It won't be in the main body anyhow. We might just as well let the people vote on it.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any further discussion? The desk will read the amendment, please.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-12:

On page 1, line 1, following the first comma, insert the following: "150,".

On page 1, line 7, following the first comma, insert the following: "150,".

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The question now is on the motion of Delegate Wallin. All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The motion is carried.

Now, I believe, Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes, Mr. President.

Fellow delegates, Committee Proposal 1-12 is the section that deals with political subdivisions. Our Proposed Section No. 1 is new. It is not contained in the old Constitution. We have already been told that perhaps this is not necessary, and the Committee would agree that it does not have to be included, but we still think that it should be included. Everyone seems to be feeling or feels that higher authorities are trying to do away with local government. In our Section 1, it states just simply that "The purpose of this article is to provide for maximum local self-government by all political subdivisions with a minimum of functional duplications." And we feel that this Section No. 1 backs up the rest of the sections in our Proposal.

Section No. 2 is listed as "Political Subdivisions." That takes the place of part of old Sections 130, 167 and 168. All we are saying here is that, "The legislature shall provide by law for the establishment of all political subdivisions and provide for the government thereof."

Our Section 3 is titled "Counties." This takes the place of old Section 166 and 168, and it states simply that the counties of North Dakota that now exist still exist under the new Constitution.

Our Section 4 refers to county seats, and this takes the place of Section 169 of the old Constitution, and it says simply that the Legislature shall provide for the — provide by law for the county seats, but in no way can it delete or change a county seat unless the people in this county vote for that change.

I would now yield to Delegate Rundle.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

Section 5 — Delegate Longmire, is that what we're on?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I was just catching Cain about it.

Section 5 — I would hesitate to say it's simple or noncontroversial — I hope so — but it means exactly the way it reads: "Methods and standards by which all or any portion of a county or counties may be annexed, merged, consolidated, reclassified or dissolved, shall be as provided by law. No portion of any county or counties shall be annexed, merged, consolidated, or dissolved unless a majority of the electors of each such affected county or counties voting on such question shall approve of the annexation, merger, consolidation, or dissolution."

The Committee took the standpoint that the counties could do as they pleased. If they wanted a high tax to remain small, they could do it. If they wanted to change, they could do that, also. No one was forcing them. And this is about the sum of Section 5.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kretschmar.

DELEGATE KRETSCHMAR: Mr. President and Convention Delegates:

Section 6 of the Committee's Proposal deals with the concept of Home Rule.

Home Rule is a rather new idea for local government in North Dakota, having first been placed in our present Constitution by an amendment in 1966. The Committee's Proposal follows fairly closely the language of that amendment, but does increase home rule or broaden home rule to take in counties. This was not included in the 1966 amendment, which only provided for cities and villages. The Legislature has provided the procedures for adopting home rule in cities. In Chapter 40-05.1 of the Century Code, and by the Committee's Proposal, it would do so, also, for counties.

I might point out that the Committee was not unanimous in this concept of broadening home rule by applying it to counties; but the majority did feel that this was a modern, up-to-date tool that local governments could use and that counties should be allowed to use this in the future. It was the Committee's feeling that the Legislature would also provide, as it has for cities, that a home rule charter could only be adopted by a majority vote in the county or the city where the home rule charter was proposed.

There are going to be certain amendments to this section, and the Committee, at its recent meeting, went along with these amendments and will have some more explanation of the amendments and the home rule section at that time.

I would now yield to Delegate Kessel on the next section.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Section 7 of our Proposal eliminates the old Section 170 and, also, the old Section 172. It doesn't make too much of a change. In addition to the home rule, which will be provided under Section 6, old 170 provided for other optional forms, and it provided that one of them shall be the County Manager. The old section also provided for a 55 percent majority. Our new section, Section 6, provides for a majority, instead of 55 percent. We do not specify County Manager as it does in the old section, and old Section 172 provides that until an optional form of government is voted in by the county, that the governing body shall be the Board of County Commissioners. This is also retained in our Section 7.

Section 8: This was one of the sections which perhaps created the most discussion and the most number of people appearing before our committees. The old Section 173 as amended named all of the county officers — the Register of Deeds, County Auditor, Treasurer, State's Attorney, County Judge and Clerk of the District Court, and provided that the counties of 15,000 population or less, that the County Judge shall also be the Clerk of the District Court, and in counties of 6,000 population or less, the Register of Deeds was also to be the County Judge and the Clerk of the District Court.

We have — also, the old Section 150, which was brought in by amendment — an amendment, referred to the County Superintendent of Schools. We have taken all of these officers into consideration in accordance with our Section 3, where we provided that all the counties shall exist as they now are. We thought that we should do the same in this particular section. Our emphasis in this section is on county services and not so much officers; but we did retain all of the officers, including the County Superintendent of Schools, as they now exist, and we felt that this should be up to the people of the county to eliminate any of the officers. We recognized that perhaps in the next number of years, the County Superintendent of Schools will be eliminated in many of their counties. Perhaps some of the other officers. But we felt that the county that was paying the bill, and the people therein, should have this option.

We, as I said, emphasized the services, rather than the officers, for this reason: That if an officer is eliminated, then, in the last section we provide that the county governing board may provide for such services. We can see, perhaps, elimination of the County Superintendent of Schools in two or three counties, and then the County Board can promptly hire the County Superintendent of the fourth county, and they'd provide the services — not necessarily the office. But, again, it's up to the people of these various counties to make the elimination.

We have done away with this classification of counties of 15,000 and under and 6,000 and under, because we felt that this should not be part of the Constitution; that we should allow the elimination of the officers by the people. And another reason is that in counties, for instance, of 6,000 population and under, there is an inconsistency with the present officers. We have county courts with increased jurisdiction, which the law provides must be a lawyer. If this particular section which now is in existence would be left, then it would be an impossibility for the Register of Deeds to also be the County Judge and the Clerk of the District Court. He would not qualify. And I said, our main purpose is to allow the county board to provide the services, if the people decide to eliminate, as is provided in the next section.

I now yield to Delegate Aubol.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

Section 9 is entitled "Referendum" and it says "Questions as to the form of government to be adopted by any county or as to the elimination of county offices may be placed upon a referendum ballot either by a vote of not less than two-thirds of the county governing board or upon petition of electors of the county equal to at least fifteen percent of the total number of voters of the county who voted for governor at the last gubernatorial election, or as otherwise provided by law."

Section 9 refers to the area of county government found in Sections 6, 7 and 8 of our Proposal. The concept of Section 9 was originally found in Section 170, where our present Constitution refers to the people's power to put the question as to optional forms of government on the ballot. We have expanded this concept somewhat to provide the people with additional power to put questions as to their county's form of government on the ballot. Specifically, the people and the commissioners now have power to deal with questions of home rule, optional forms of government and internal alignment of offices in the counties that retain the present method of government.

I now yield to Delegate Gipp.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: Yes. Mr. President.

Sections 10 and 11 are the two sections that I'm covering on 1-12.

The Committee was unanimous in their passage of these two sections, both of which pertain to service agreements.

Section 10 itself, and Section 11, are both new sections. You will not find any of these correlative with respect to the old Constitution.

Section 10 basically allows political subdivisions to better find services as the need may arise over the years, and this was the feeling and the thought of the Committee. It basically allows political subdivisions of the State to make agreements with other subdivisions for the administration of functions or powers. For example, a need may arise to combine a particular service for two counties to pay, for example, for a county superintendent. This would be possible under Section 10. The section also allows political subdivisions to revoke the transfer of any power previously given. It notes here, "A political subdivision may transfer to the county in which it is located any of its powers or functions unless prohibited by law or home rule charter, and may in like manner revoke the transfer."

We did provide for the provision of law here as far as governing this basic article here.

Section 11 basically deals with mutual services between any-sized state agencies or political subdivisions of the State. Now, you may ask the question, "Why isn't Section 11 in Section 10?" We attempted to word Section 11 into Section 10. We ran into a series of problems as to identification with respect to Section 11, and the end result was we had a separate section. Both Section 10 and Section 11 are not mandatory statements. They basically allow — are allowance-type statements, somewhat permissive in nature.

Section 11, as I mentioned, is not a mandatory statement. It recognizes — it either forces the hand of the State, if they decide to go into contractor relationships. It does require flexibility as far as growth and as far as circumstances in the future might predict. It does not restrict either party, but it does pertain to mutually beneficial service arrangements between the Indian Tribes and state agencies or political subdivisions.

In brief, that's the coverage on 10 and 11.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman, I again ask you to refer to Section 8. I neglected one important point.

This section further provides that there shall be a county-wide election or referendum, the first one to be two years after the — within two years — the state-wide election, after two years of the adoption of this Constitution, and then every ten years thereafter, the thinking behind that being that we want to force the people of the county to look at their government periodically and to go about doing it accordingly.

Thank you.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: Yes, Mr. President. I think maybe — I don't know whether I mentioned this or not with respect to Section 10: We drew a good deal of our information from the Alaska Constitution with respect to Section 10 and used this as a model for drawing up Section 10, in case you're wondering where — what sources we might have drawn upon.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I think it would be prudent to have a piece of Scripture as we approach this problem.

Proverbs: "... but the simple pass on and are punished." And so I shall proceed.

The Committee was very cordial and kind with me. They could have murdered me down there in the Gold Room and done away with all their problems; but they were very tolerant in talking out some of my proposed amendments to a certain extent. So I'm not going to move the deletion of Section 1, even though I don't think it serves any particularly useful purpose in the Constitution. We'll let some other purist who doesn't want some extraneous language take care of that one, if they want to. However, at this time I would like to ask the Desk to read the amendment for item No. 2, which would propose the deletion of Section 5, after which I shall address myself to that.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-12:

On page 2 of the engrossed proposal, delete lines 5 through 12.

And renumber the lines accordingly.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Now, Mr. President —

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: This may sound like a very reactionary approach for a political science professor, because we are supposed to be very nebulous and ready to change the world, to turn it upside down, and what I'm proposing here is that since Section 3 provides that the counties that now exist are forever hereby declared to be counties and shall continue to be counties, unless otherwise changed, by removing Section 5, I am making it impossible to ever consolidate a county. We have had a tremendous regionalization scare in this State and counties have become very concerned over whether or not they're going to continue to exist, and of course I'm one who believes that, if we have to do it over again, we certainly would not have 53 counties, because we have over 20 counties that have a population below 5,000. And from an economic standpoint and a service standpoint, both, I think it would be very difficult to justify the creation of new counties that small in this day and age. The problem is, however, that we don't have it to do over again, and we've got to live with what we've got and, if we're going to get the counties that do exist to be more progressive and more willing to adopt the modern forms of government and going to inter-county cooperative agreements, we're going to have to give them the absolute assurance that they shall be continued to be in existence.

Now, by removing Section 5, we're going to guarantee to them that they shall always have their counties. I remember in the last session of the Legislature — and I get my reports by reading in the newspapers, like everyone else — that there was a good proposal that had been studied, I believe, by the Legislative Council, which recommended that counties cooperate and share welfare offices, because the cost had become what had been deemed administratively excessive but the counties came to the State Legislature and said, "We're against this proposal because what it's going to lead to is regionalization and we're going to lose our counties."

Now, this is just one small example of how concerned they are. And so I — I think that by leaving — by just leaving the option there that they're going to be abolished and leaving them in doubt as to whether or not they're going to forestall any future consolidations, that they'll refuse to join together in any kind of cooperative agreements, and the little benefit that we could gain by leaving this in the Constitution would be more than offset by the removal of the impediments to modernization of county government.

Now, Section 5, I dare say, will never be used. All we have to do is look to what has happened in other states, and there are counties in other states that are much smaller than Slope, Billings, and small counties of this State — counties of five and six and seven hundred people, and they're still there; and my contention is that you're not going to get rid of any of these counties for a hundred years, even with Section 5. And so I say that the assurance we can give the counties by taking this section out is worth it, in that in the future they will be more progressive and more willing to change and adopt new ideas, if they are given a guarantee that they shall continue to exist.

I'd hate to go as far as California; but in the State of California, the County of Los Angeles in California, they have cities that have no operating departments; they've got a mayor and a council, and that's all; they've got no police department, no fire department, no parks department; they contract to buy all their services from the County of Los Angeles, and some of these cities are very big; but they have local government — they control those cities. The council decides what kind of services it wants and how much it's willing to pay. Maybe sometime in the future our counties would be willing to go this far and say, "We cannot afford to have a sheriff by ourselves. Let's share the sheriff with the next county. We can't afford a County Superintendent of Schools by ourselves. Let's share one with the next county." They're not going to do that as long as there's any feeling at all that they might be consolidated, and some day in the future I think, if we would give them this assurance that they shall continue, that you might eventually have counties — they will elect their county commissioners and they'll elect their — whatever other officials they might need, and they shall make policy and they shall buy services from the counties around them, and I think it will cut costs and, in the long run, we'd gain more by saying the counties forever shall exist, you know, with all the inadequacies they might have today, and we'll see a better development of county government in the future.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, the Committee felt that Delegate Omdahl misinterpreted the Scripture that he quoted from, Proverbs, when he appeared before us. We felt that exactly the opposite result would be as a result of putting this section into the Constitution. It would encourage counties to annex to other counties or to annex part of their territory to another county or consolidate or otherwise change their boundaries. We felt that this section should be there clearly for their use, if they desired to do it. Certainly we have other methods or other sections in our proposal here for changing their services, changing their offices, eliminating their offices; all of those are still there; but we felt in the event that some counties should want to annex to another one or that a part of a county wanted to annex to the other one, we should provide the machinery there for them to do that, and you can see the machinery is set there. It has to be voted on by a majority of the people of both counties or both areas that are affected with respect to it. For those reasons, we felt we would not be doing our duty to this Convention if we did not leave Section 5 in for whatever use it might be used out there in the future.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I believe that I failed to have a second to Omdahl's motion. Who would second it?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'll second his motion for the purpose of discussion.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Paulson seconds the motion.

All right, Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Ladies and Gentlemen:

I forgot, possibly, to mention one thing in Section 5. It now calls for a 55 percent vote, in an amendment to the Constitution June 25, 1940. So it takes a 55 percent vote at the moment, and we reduced that to 50 to make it easier in case they wanted to, and I couldn't quite keep up with Delegate Omdahl's — well, the Scripture I did understand somewhat, but I couldn't keep up with his theory that this would hurt. We're giving the counties the absolute control of their own destinies. They do as they please. Where the counties would be so terrifically against this, if this Constitution would say there will be no county less than 10,000, or name them that had to be consolidated, then they would be very agitated. But we're leaving it up to the majority vote of the people in each county or in each part of the county, and we couldn't see too much unfairness or unwise ness in that. I think the section is all right.

DELEGATE KRETSCHMAR: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kretschmar.

DELEGATE KRETSCHMAR: Mr. President and Convention Delegates:

I think that the adoption of this amendment would remove a measure of flexibility from our proposal. The counties should be allowed to annex or consolidate or do whatever they wish, if they so choose, and we have provided the protection which the counties want, especially the smaller counties, of requiring any such move to be approved by a majority vote. The adoption of the amendment would remove this possibility of change for the counties and would put a measure of rigidity in the Constitution that I believe should not be there.

I would oppose this amendment.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I wonder if either the Committee or Delegate Omdahl could answer this question.

Let's suppose that a couple of these counties took this option and consolidated or annexed either all or a part of their area and a hundred years later they wanted to reconsider. What methods and what standards would apply in that case, if any?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Does anyone care to answer? Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, the word "dissolve" — "dissolved" — the word "dissolved" is in there, and I should think it could be used at that time in reverse.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: There are several sections of state law that provide for the creation or division of new counties.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President, to answer:

The Section 5 in itself says the methods shall be as prescribed by law or provided by law, so the statutory effect would be involved in this. This is merely as stated.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Someone asked for the floor — Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: I believe, in further response to Delegate McIntyre's question, he had the added phrase under the Omdahl proposal, and under that proposal, as I understand it, we eliminate all of our Committee's proposed Section 5 and, in effect, would lock in the counties as we now have them and as they now exist for all time, until such time as this Constitution as proposed would pass. We would need a constitutional amendment to annex, consolidate or dissolve a county or reverse the 100-year-effect situation that Delegate McIntyre gave. We have to give the counties the flexibility to decide the counties' problems on the counties' own level. I do not think we can go so far as to lock in the counties as we have them now and retain them as such, requiring a constitutional amendment of this proposed Constitution in order to consolidate a county in the future. This is not what our constituents have asked for, and I would urge the defeat of the amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President. I'd also like to urge the delegates to defeat this Omdahl amendment. I think the counties can well decide when they want to quit paying for these services. We, as taxpayers, when we feel we have too many of these county officials, we'll decide. We don't need someone in the hierarchy coming out in the state and telling us what we have to do.

I happen to live in one of these counties with less than 5,000 people, and I'd like to compare the cost of our county against some of these larger counties, and I think you'll find it's less.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I share Delegate Omdahl's concern for the counties; however, I'm going to vote against his amendment. I find nothing mandatory in Section 5. It's an option which should be there for any county, if it should so choose.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: We have a situation between Oliver and Mercer County now where they are sharing the services of one County Superintendent of Schools, and there seems to be no fear or resentment or any reservations on anyone's part.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, we are now on the motion of Delegate Omdahl to delete Section 5 from Committee Proposal 1-12.

All in favor of such question shall say "aye," opposed "no."

I will rule the "noes" have it. The motion lost. Any — Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I'd like to ask the question if they're sure about the language in the second paragraph of Section 8. I like what you're providing there very much. I once had the unique experience of introducing a constitutional amendment to get rid of elected sheriffs, and a parade of law enforcement officers descended on the Legislature like you have never seen, and I was called at once a Communist, Fascist, and anarchist all in the same breath. So I like what you are presenting there. I'm concerned, though, that in that second paragraph you have the question of which county services shall be provided or officers eliminated, and it seems to me it should be "or elective officers eliminated," because if the county is required, as it is above, to provide the services, the question really becomes one of whether or not the elective officers will be eliminated and not the officers completely — isn't it?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: We considered that in our Committee deliberations. We felt we should put in the broader term, so that if some of those officers were eliminated by election and later by appointment, that there would certainly be no question but what the government — the people of that area — could eliminate them later; and for that reason, we left out the word "elected."

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President. I have a question on Section 8 there, where it says each county shall provide certain services, and then it says "education services." Right now I know they have the County Superintendent of Schools, but it's possible that these duties may be transferred elsewhere, and then is it going to be incumbent upon the county to provide some kind of education services?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Delegate Hill, we also discussed that point quite thoroughly. The amount of services that is to be rendered can be very discretionary with the board, and I'm satisfied that that could be the very, very bare minimum, if your occasion ever arose; but under the present situation, we felt that that word had to be in there.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any further discussion? Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. Chairman. The Desk has the amendment which I have numbered as "three" to which there will probably be less controversy, because the Committee and I are somewhat in agreement on our language. I would like to move that at this time.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE KRETSCHMAR: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Kretschmar. All right. Will the Clerk read the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-12 is as follows:

On page 2 of the engrossed proposal, delete lines 13 through 18 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 6. Home Rule.

"The legislative assembly shall provide by law for the establishment and exercise of home rule in counties and cities. No home rule charter shall become operative in any county or city until submitted to the electors thereof and approved by a majority of those voting thereon. The legislative assembly shall not be restricted in granting home rule powers to cities by limitation on debts of cities contained in this constitution."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Representative Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President, I don't plan on coming back here; I'm only a delegate. (Laughter)

There are just a couple of minor alterations in the language that the Committee had proposed, and I think that the home rule concept for counties is a very good one. That was proposed by the Committee. I added the words "and exercise" because I thought it would strengthen the establishment and it would — and I thought it lent some clarity to the sentence in the first section. Then I added a new sentence to this section: "No home rule charter shall become operative in any county or city until submitted to the electors thereof and approved by a majority of those voting thereon."

The reason I added that sentence is the same as my thought on Section 5. I don't think they want to have any county or city feel that this home rule provision is going to permit the Legislature to force anything on them, and I think the home rule concept is good, and we want a receptive attitude among city and county people, and if they know they're going to have a chance to vote on it, I think they will be more inclined to support such action.

In the last sentence I deleted reference to counties. Now, the present Constitution does provide that cities are limited under home rule charter by the debt limitations in the section on debt limitation of political subdivisions that was adopted here about a week ago. I took counties out because I checked with the Tax Department and there are only three counties now that have non-highway-building debts, and I guess there's some courthouse construction, and in all three cases the debts did not exceed one percent of the taxable base, and our previous action will give them eight percent. So I can't foresee where counties need this. It would be nice to be flexible in the future and talk about what counties might do; but I'm afraid that there will be, once again, a number of taxpayers and people all concerned about a problem that's never going to develop. And so, rather than having them concerned about that, I think it would be wise to delete reference in this language that would give counties the right to bond above the political subdivision debt limitation that was adopted already by this Convention.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kretschmar.

DELEGATE KRETSCHMAR: This amendment by Delegate Omdahl was discussed at our Committee meeting at eleven o'clock, and I believe the Committee was unanimous — or it was a large majority — to go along and approve this amendment. Most of us felt that this amendment improved our language of present Section 6. It puts in the assurance of a majority vote for adoption of home rule, which is presently in the statute for cities, and presumably would also be in there for counties; but it guarantees it then in the Constitution, and the change in the very last sentence relative to the debt limits of cities and counties, the present constitutional provision on home rule does eliminate the debt limit in home rule cities, and we had it for counties in our Proposal, also. This was one of the areas in which the Committee members were divided, so that the elimination of the provision here, so that counties are still, even if they adopt home rule under the constitutional debt limits, is probably a good thing and was agreed to by the Committee; and so I'll urge the adoption of this amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, now we're on the main motion of Delegate Omdahl that Section 6 be amended.

Those who favor this amendment vote "aye;" opposed "nay." All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay."

The motion is carried.

At this point — I see it is now nearly 12:20. We have, I believe, at least two more proposed amendments to this Proposal.

I wonder how many of you would prefer now to stop at this point for a recess and then come back, I would say, within one hour. All right.

Are there any announcements? Should there be any announcements made? Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Well, Mr. Chairman — Mr. President, the Education Committee will have a very interesting luncheon in G-1 immediately following recess.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: The Style and Drafting Committee will meet right away. We'll have our lunch down there. We'll work for about an hour.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I believe that Roy has an announcement at the desk.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right, Roy.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The photographer will be in the east balcony — or in the west balcony during the noon hour for any delegates that wish their picture taken — 208 — right up here on my right (indicating).

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further announcements?

Hearing none, we will now stand in recess until 1:20.

AFTERNOON SESSION

(The Plenary Session continued at 1:23 P.M., Tuesday, February 1, 1972, as follows:)

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President, do you want a call of the house?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I've sent the sergeant-at-arms out. I think there's one committee that's meeting.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Benz would like to announce that the Senior Class of Glen Ullin High School and their teacher, Jerry West, are in the gallery today.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Will the students from the Glen Ullin High School please stand and be recognized? (Applause)

We're very pleased to have you here.

One more announcement.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The photographer will be in the west balcony all afternoon, if the delegates would like to go up there and get their pictures taken, and there will be a sergeant-at-arms at the door to tell you if there's going to be a vote, so that you can come and vote or probably come and yell over the rail.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We have before us Committee Proposal 1-12.

Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Since talking to the Committee, I've decided that I — and due to the shortness of time, I guess I am going to recede from a couple of my proposals here. I just would make reference to the fact that I don't think Section 7 is necessary; but I'm not going to make any effort to take it out of the Committee Proposal, because that would ensue considerable discussion.

Also, I am not going to offer the one on Section 8 — county services — even though I think it would be advantageous to leave the names of the various offices in the Constitution, if they're going to be there, and I might say that the Committee and I do not disagree on that and they have provided for continuing the offices, but they do not name those offices.

I have only one more amendment that I would care to offer, and it's the short one that was sent up to the desk just before lunch. I wonder if you have that one.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is that at the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Page 3?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Yes.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-12 is as follows:

On page 3 of the engrossed proposal, following the word "question" insert the following: "or by adoption of a home rule charter" —

DELEGATE AUBOL: What line?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On line 2, page 3 of the engrossed proposal, following the word "question" insert the following: "or by adoption of a home rule charter."

And renumber the lines.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'll second the motion, Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. The motion has been seconded by Delegate Longmire.

Now, Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President, the reason for adding this is that it is the hope of the Committee — and I'm not speaking for the Committee, but I can tell from the language that perhaps still in the future they will be able to get some of the elective county offices consolidated or eliminated from the ballot, and they provide that such offices shall be eliminated at a countywide referendum by a majority vote of the electors voting on the question. I don't want to leave this with the doubt as to whether or not county elective offices can be abolished through the adoption of a home rule charter. Now it is a common concept of home rule charters that they be permitted to rearrange the executive and administrative offices of a local government that adds home rule. And so this would be another avenue through which we would be assured that the question could be presented to the people of a county that they would abolish or consolidate offices in a county government.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, by way of explanation through our Committee, Delegate Omdahl submitted this new amendment and was withdrawing some of the others that we disagreed with him on at our Committee meeting; and so it seems to me that this is a good amendment and would clarify more as to what the counties can do with respect to eliminating these offices, no matter which route they went, by referendum or adopting the home rule charter; and for that reason, I, as one member of the Committee, at least, do not object to the amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire, for clarification, which section are we referring to here?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, we are referring to Section 8, and it's at the end of the second paragraph of Section 8.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Thank you.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Now that we know what section we're on and what paragraph, I wonder if we could have the amendment read again, so we know where it goes.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Will the Chief Clerk read the amendment again, please?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: In line 2, page 3 of the engrossed proposal, following the word "question" insert the following: "or by adoption of a home rule charter". The last part of the sentence would then read: "Countywide referendum by a majority vote of the electors voting on the question or by adoption of a home rule charter."

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? Hearing none, now we are on the main question — the adoption of the proposed amendment offered by Delegate Omdahl.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay."

The motion is carried and the amendment is adopted.

Is there any further discussion? Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I have a couple of questions for Chairman Longmire or someone on the Committee.

Now, there was no mention made in the report of the four-year terms of elected officials, and the county officials who had a four-year term numbered six in 1962. The county commissioners now have four-year terms, and I was wondering if anyone appeared before the Committee and asked that the four-year terms be reduced to two years, and was there any discussion by the members of the Committee?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. I assume this was in connection with the Legislature — of whether the House members would be four or two. No, I don't think anybody appeared on that, but we didn't have any appearing in opposition to it, either, the way we do have it.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I have no intention of interrupting the line of questioning. I'd yield to Delegate Hoffner.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I was wondering if the Committee discussed the merits of the four-year term for county commissioners. Certainly that must have been up in the Committee, and the reasons for continuing the four-year term —or maybe it didn't.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. My capable Vice Chairman presided on that hearing in my absence at one time. He said they did not, because, apparently, they were very happy with the situation the way it was. Of course we didn't consider the legislative part in our Committee. That wasn't assigned to us at the time.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, there are some amendments at the desk that I would like to have read, which I then would move, if I receive a second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

All right. The Clerk will read the proposed amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendments to Proposal 1-12:

On line 1 of the title, after "sections" delete "130".

On line 7 of the proposal, after "Sections" delete "130".

On page 2, line 10, after "unless" delete the words "a majority" and insert in lieu thereof "55 percent."

Delete all of lines 13 through 18.

On line 23, after "by" delete the words "a majority" and insert in lieu thereof "55 percent".

On line 3 — on page 3, line 1, after the word "law" —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I've lost myself on the last two amendments. Could we have them repeated, please?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: A point of information. Do we have these amendments at our desk or are we dealing now strictly with those that were just submitted?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, these amendments refer to the engrossed bill, and I suppose that most of the delegates have, as I have, been referring to the mimeographed copy that was passed around here several days ago; and so we might have a lot of trouble finding it, but I understand this is the correct way to do it and they're really rather simple, as I understand, once they get read right up there, and I don't think Delegate Sanstead's going to like them anyway.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The desk force is checking against the engrossed bill, so that the proposed amendments will read correctly.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: All right. We'll start over.

Proposed amendments to Committee Proposal 1-12.

On line 1 of the title, after the word "sections" delete "130".

On line 7 of the proposal, after the word "Sections" delete "130".

On page 2, line 10, after the word "unless" delete the words "a majority" and insert in lieu thereof the words "55 percent".

Delete all of lines 13 through 18.

On line 23, after the word "by" delete the words "a majority" and insert in lieu thereof the words "55 percent".

On page 3, line 3, after the word "law" delete the comma and insert in lieu thereof a period and delete "and".

On page 3, delete all of lines 4 through 6.

And renumber the lines and sections accordingly.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President. May I inquire what happened to the amendment which, on this copy of the engrossed bill as I got it, would appear on page 3, line 1, deleting "a majority" again and inserting "55 percent"? Would that comma be in error?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No. That's right.

DELEGATE BAKER: Did the Clerk read that?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Page 3, line 1?

DELEGATE BAKER: Yes.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: After the word "by"?

DELEGATE BAKER: Right.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delete the words "a majority" and insert in lieu thereof "55 percent".

DELEGATE BAKER: Very good.

Now, Mr. President, these amendments were prepared before the adoption of the most recent amendment to those by Delegate Omdahl, and if they are approved or if one part of these amendments is approved, then reference will have to be made to that and change made there as well.

Briefly, what this set of amendments sets out to do is eliminate some of what I think are the more objectionable provisions of Proposal 1-12 as it is before us now. The deletion of "130" in the title and in the repealed section, of course, has to do with that section of the present Constitution which provides for home rule in cities, and the reason I am taking it out is because I want to take out the home rule section entirely from this one, and the reason I want to take out the home rule section entirely from this one is that I don't believe this body really wants home rule for counties. This is one of those glittering new terms that is kind of attractive, but we haven't had it around very long and we don't know very much about it, and I don't believe we want to extend this principle to counties as of now, because for — ever since the State of North Dakota has been in existence, the county has been an integral part of the government of the State of North Dakota. In fact, at one time, it was the fashion to refer to the counties as "the arm of the State of North Dakota" and I don't think we want to, by implication or in any other way, disturb that very satisfactory arrangement; and if you think about that for a little while, I'm sure you'll agree with me — at least not yet — maybe some day that might be the proper thing — but not yet — we aren't that sophisticated yet. We aren't that heavily populated. We don't have that many problems, or anything like that.

So that's one thing that I hope you will reconsider and that you will agree with me and get out of here. We don't want home rule for counties, I'm satisfied.

Now, the other changes have mostly to do with this business about the amount of a vote that should be necessary to change things at home. You know that the State of North Dakota Constitution and the laws of the State of North Dakota make things about as flexible for the folks at home as it could possibly be. They can do darned near anything at home, if they can muster 55 percent of the vote. There's a good reason for this. In the first place, it discourages making major changes likely. You have to have a good, substantial majority in order to make the change in the first place. But there may be an even more important reason. It takes 55 percent to change it back, too, you see. If you change that to a majority, while you may be able to make an appealing argument about "We're going to do away with a system that allows a minority to block progress" and all that other garbage, the plain fact of the matter is that if you allow one more than half of the voting people in a county or a — county in this case — to change the form of government at the next election, then, if they can file a petition and get the thing on the ballot, one more than a majority can change it back at the next election, and that's the real compelling reason for leaving that at 55 percent. And I plead with you to do just that. It's a good, sound provision as it applies to this particular function.

The other major difference that I have with the committee is in the matter of the forced election on this question. I don't want to say to my neighbor, "John, you're too dumb to know when you want to vote on something. I'm going to tell you that you've got to vote on something, and if you don't pass it the first time, ten year later you've got to vote on it again, whether you want to or not." I think that's bad public relations and that's just exactly what that amounts to. The way it is now, even now, under our — obviously, under the present situation, the people can, by petition, put questions of change in the form of county government up on the ballot any time they want to, if they get enough signatures. It takes a lot the way the law was written, based on the Constitution, which requires 15 percent or more — I think it's 40 percent now — for that kind of petition. But here, again, the idea is that changes like this should not be undertaken lightly, and the Legislature can change that all the way down to 15 percent, if they want to. No change, really, from the numbers that we have in the Constitution now and the Proposal that's before us. But they do it on their own initiative. They don't have to do it at some particular date, whether it's timely or not, whether they want to or not, and the provisions of the law also provide for the governing body to submit this kind of a question, even without a petition, at any time, and, really, I think that the reason for bringing this kind of a thing in at this time is the impression — a false impression among many of us — that nothing is being done to make changes in government at the local level. This is not true. As I said, the laws of North Dakota provide many ways to change arrangements around the home, and they are being taken advantage of in many places. A combining of county offices has been done here in Minot — in North Dakota. The service to more than one county of a County Superintendent has been done. Almost every county in the State of North Dakota cooperates with adjacent counties at least in the manner — in the matter of county line roads and bridges. They do that all over the State all of the time. Almost every county cooperates with the — particularly the smaller municipalities within its borders in the matter of street and road maintenance and drainage, and that sort of thing; and there are many, many areas where changes and arrangements are made that fit the particular situation and, generally, it's pretty satisfactory.

Now, I know that the Legislature when it meets does have considerable call for changes in law, and there are complaints made about the way things are here and the way things are there, and this is really not so bad. It's the way things should be — where changes in law can be made, to make it easier for these governments — local governments to function; that should be done, and, really, it's no concern of ours here at this Convention. I think that if we would adopt these very simple amendments, we can leave the situation close enough to the way it is now so that the folks at home would not feel resentment over improper inference in their affairs and still make the changes that seem to be desirable, that seem to me to be just moving the furniture around a little bit.

Thank you.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I fail to follow Delegate Baker's reasoning in the home rule situation with respect to counties and cities. He says that we considered counties as the arm of the State, and I assume on that same analogy, if you carried it further, that we would then have to consider the cities as the fingers of the State.

He says it's all right to have home rule in the cities, but the fingers — but he says don't monkey with the arm of the State insofar as the counties are concerned.

Now, we realize that there is some difference of opinion with respect to home rule for counties in our Committee; in fact, some of the members — a very small minority, I'd say — thought that we shouldn't have that provision in. However, I think the discussion has been going around this state for a long time that we ought to do everything we possibly could to alleviate some of this expense of operation of some of the — particularly the smaller counties of our State. We ought to make it just as easy for them as we could to consolidate or go with another county. We know that in all the history of the United States, only one county went with another one, and that was in the State of South Dakota some years ago; and certainly they have not followed the procedures that we did have for their consolidation or changing their form of government, and they have had that for a long time.

Now, evidently, too, Delegate Baker is afraid of the people. I always considered him to be a great people's man — to let the people have the authority.

Well, in the home rule situation, that's exactly what you are doing. Nobody's voting on that except the people back there that are affected. I can see no reason why you should have the minority of the people governing the form of government that we should go to or the change in their method of doing business that they would want to go to, if the majority saw fit to do that. We felt that we ought to make it easy for this question to be considered, because in the past, even though they have had this method of petitioning this on the ballot, they have not gone forward to do it, because it's a little trouble to go out and get 15 percent of the voters to sign a petition and get it on, and we wanted to be sure that the people did have an opportunity or would take advantage of the opportunity in voting on this question of consolidating a lot of these offices. At first we thought of taking some of these offices out as elective offices; but the counties came in and said they didn't want that — I mean the county officials — and of course we had a stack of petitions about two or three inches high on that. So we said, "Fine. We'll buy your philosophy that the people should say whether or not they eliminate them; but we want the people to have the right to take you out, too, if they don't want you, as well as keep you in." And it was for that reason that we provided this procedure that two years after the adoption of this Constitution, that the question would be put to the people. If the majority of them don't want to buy it, fine. They're right back where they are. But they ought to have a chance to vote on it. And so we felt that we were following this philosophy of letting the local people have more authority, making it easier for them back on the local basis, as well as in the counties as in the cities, to change their form of government, if they want to, and we feel that the majority of them, as in most other things, should be able to have that right to make a change, if they so desire. That was the thinking behind the majority of the Committee with respect to the amendments, and I personally would oppose the amendment for the reasons indicated.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hougen had asked for the floor.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes, Mr. Chairman — or Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I would just like to say, briefly, that I, also, favor the option of home rule for the counties. We did find out in our Committee that we doubted very much any county would choose this method of government; but we felt that if the city had the right, the county certainly also should have this right, because it would be the people, in the final analysis, who would be making this decision. And, also, this little part where we stipulated that the people in the county should vote within two years on proposed changes, I don't know if Delegate Baker has had the opportunity to talk to any of his county citizens or not, but I did, and the reason I did is because we had this first proposed way back in November, and I have asked many, many people, "Now do you think that the authority in the county should set up a study group and give you things to vote on?" And without exception, every person said, "Yes." When we had this discussion on county government, the groups of county sheriffs, the county auditors, county judges and all of these groups, came very well represented; but the people — the average citizen in the county — was not represented, and I think that we should give them an opportunity so that they could take a good look at themselves and make any changes that they might feel are desired.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I think that Delegate Baker has brought up some rather important points here. I'm not sure what a home rule provision would do to the county. I know what it does for the cities. The point that if the Legislature was able to adopt or pass a rule which allows home rule in cities, could they not do the same for counties and does this need to be in the Constitution? I have no objection to the 55 percent provision establishing a majority. I think they're doing some pretty serious business in the county, and maybe you should have 55 percent. I also do not approve of the referendum section, which makes it mandatory, in Section 8.

Now, one of the reasons I approved on Section 5 was because it was pronounced and left open to the people. I don't go along with a mandatory calling for election in two years and every ten years thereafter.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President and Delegates:

I'd just like to reinforce what our Chairman Longmire has said. I think the mandatory election in two years, and then every ten years, is one of the strong points of this article. It's the compromise between the people that have their positions now and the taxpayers. I think it's very important to keep this provision in our article.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? Hearing none, we are on the — Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. Not for the purpose of argument, but to determine how we are going to vote on this: Personally, I support the principle of 55 percent. I think it's important in this case. I think it's important in counties where you have a large city involved, and 55 percent of the total number of citizens in that county should agree on the change in county government. But how are we going to vote? — because I want to vote for that 55 percent and I don't think I agree with going along on the other two items.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I request a division of the question then, so as to provide a separate vote on the amendment which applies on page 2, line 10, line 23, and on page 3 in line 1.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Baker, I think you should perhaps explain which refers to which.

DELEGATE BAKER: All of these that have to do with the amendments would change the words "a majority" to "55 percent" and they refer to different questions — two different sets of questions, one having to do with combining counties and the other having to do with changing the form of government. This would separate out the super-majority argument from all the other arguments. Is that clear?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I believe that Delegate Baker has divided — has requested a division of the question, and his question, of course, is a series of amendments that he offers.

Now, the portion that Mr. Baker — Delegate Baker has separated is that portion dealing with the majority required — that is, changing it from a straight majority to a majority of 55 percent, which, I believe, affects Sections 7 and 8, and those —

DELEGATE BAKER: And 5.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: And 5?

DELEGATE BAKER: Right.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Sections 5, 7 and 8.

So now, on the divided question of the amendment, and the amendment that is offered is that portion of the amendment which would change the majority from 50 percent to — or a straight majority to a majority of 55 percent. If you vote "aye," you're in favor of the amendment to raise that to 55 percent; if you vote "nay," you're against the amendment.

Any questions? Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman. Would Delegate Haugen yield to a question?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Delegate Haugen, I've sat here for a number of days and have heard you and others state that the majority of the people should speak on a question and now you question the majority of 55 percent. You must have some good reason for it.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I — would you mention a specific instance in which I insisted on the majority?

DELEGATE KESSEL: Well, you have voted on the majority, I'm satisfied, on many of the questions, without going specifically. If you haven't, then I'll just ask: Why in this particular instance then do you ask for a 55 percent majority?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Well, there have been several instances before this Convention in which I supported a two-thirds vote and a 60 percent vote dealing with — a two-thirds vote dealing with the Legislature enacting property tax and a 60 percent vote — it's still not before the — it's on our calendar — dealing with the State debt, and the two-thirds vote dealing with the ability of the Legislature to use money out of dedicated highway funds. In this particular instance, I agree with Delegate Baker. It is important when the people want to change their type of government that there be a pretty broad agreement on the change. I think the same argument that applies to a 60 percent requirement for increasing a debt limit can apply to this, because you're changing the fundamental structure of your government and you want to be able to have good support when you do that; and, as Delegate Baker argued very well, I think, in order to do it again, to reverse it, you want to have a good support. I think this is entirely justified, and I surely hope that this part of Mr. Baker's amendment will be approved.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Delegate Haugen, would you yield to one more question?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes.

DELEGATE KESSEL: When we elect a governor of the State of North Dakota, is that not one of the most important functions of the State? And we elect him by a majority. Isn't that just as big a problem?

Thank you.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I've been asked a question. My answer to that is that when we elect a governor, we do not make a fundamental change in our government; we just continue the general operation of our government that's already accepted.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The Chair will recognize Delegate Roney.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President, I think we are here in the process of re-writing the Constitution of the State of North Dakota, and when it's referred to the people a majority of the people will approve or disapprove.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I hope that the amendment is defeated, and I think it is in error when we link the majority to be required for the levying of property taxes with this issue, because property taxes are not involved. It's not a matter of bonding a county; it's just a matter of making a decision. The experience with county home rule in other states is that it's confined quite primarily to the structure of government and it doesn't get into the specification of many services and expenditures. So I don't see why more than a simple majority should be required.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I want to clear up one misunderstanding that was raised by Delegate Haugen. We are changing the debt limits of counties under this proposal. We are of cities, of course, but even if this proposal passes, the debt limits now in the Constitution for counties will remain as it.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I hope that I —

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, I hope that I didn't give the delegates the impression that I believe that we're changing our debt limits; but I think there is a similarity. There's a similarity between increasing the debt limit, which, in many instances, requires 60 percent vote, and in changing the fundamental structure of county government.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Hearing — all right. We're now — again, I shall repeat: We're on the question of the divided amendment as proposed by Delegate Baker, and the portion which deals with the majorities required to effect a change. Baker's amendment calls for a 55 percent majority.

All those in favor, signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no."

The Chair will rule that the "nays" have it, unless someone calls for a division.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President, I think we had more than 55 percent on that! (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We'll now revert back to the other portion of the amendment offered by Delegate Baker.

Is there any further discussion? Hearing none, we're on the main question of the adoption of the remainder of the amendment as offered by Delegate Baker.

All those in favor, signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay."

The "noes" — the "nays" have it, and the motion lost.

Any further discussion?

We now have before us Committee Proposal No. 1-12, which has been amended several times.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, if there are no further amendments, I move that the rules be suspended, that this proposal be deemed properly re-engrossed, and placed on the calendar for second reading and final passage.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The motion was seconded by Delegate Litten.

We are now on the motion of Delegate Longmire that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 1-12 be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage.

This requires a two-thirds majority. All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay."

The "ayes" have it. The motion carries.

Now we have before us Committee Proposal No. 1-12 for first passage.

Any further discussion? If not, the key will be opened. You may record your vote. Saugstad votes "aye." Wenstrom, "aye." Has everyone voted? Does anyone wish to change their vote? If not, the board will be closed and the Clerk will record the vote.

The record discloses 94 "ayes," 2 "nays," and two delegates absent and not voting; therefore, Committee Proposal 1-12 has been adopted.

Next we have under consideration —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-60, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 8 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to indictment and information.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 8 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"INDICTMENT OR INFORMATION. No person shall for a felony, be proceeded against criminally, otherwise than by indictment, or by information, except in cases arising in the military forces, when in actual service in time of war or public danger. In all other cases, offenses shall be prosecuted criminally by indictment or information. The legislative assembly may change, regulate or abolish the grand jury system."

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I hope now that this is non-controversial. It's very much the way it was originally, except that we corrected the problem that the State's Attorneys felt that they have, by adding the words, after "indictment," "or by information." We changed the language so that we now express "in the military forces." We tried to satisfy Delegate Hill by suggesting that in all other cases they may be prosecuted by indictment or by information, and I forgot who it was that wondered about locking in the grand jury system, and we didn't do that. So I move the passage of this one.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. Fellow delegates, I have copies of correspondence that was presented to the Committee from General Melhouse regarding the language "when in actual service in time of war or public danger" and suggesting the deletion of the same. His concern was that this would jeopardize the use of the Uniform Code of Military Justice as part of the code that the National Guard follows during such time as while they're not in actual service in time of war or public danger, but when they may be on alert, such as they were last spring up at — I believe it was last spring up at Nekoma, and I'm wondering, since I know that the Committee got the same correspondence, their reason for leaving it out, or if General Melhouse has changed his position since his letter of January 28th.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Does anyone care to comment? Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I do not remember the correspondence. I remember that you said something to me about it, Delegate Nething. I don't know that we talked about it. I don't believe we have.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, this is a matter that came up after the Committee had acted, and we have not had any meeting at which this matter has been on the agenda since that time.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any further discussion? Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, I would like to move this, then, to the foot of the calendar so I can get an amendment ready and, after I get the amendment ready, I'd like to move it back up for consideration.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

We are now on the motion of Delegate Nething that Committee Proposal 1-60 be placed at the foot of the calendar. All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The motion carries, and Committee Proposal 1-60 will be moved to the bottom of the calendar.

Next before us is Committee Proposal 1-80.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-80, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 208 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed.

"Section 1. REPEAL.) Section 208 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any discussion? Is there any discussion?

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President. Fellow delegates, I'm sorry for the delay.

Originally, Committee Proposal 1-80 was taken verbatim from the present Constitution, Section 208. I had had a proposal in — a delegate proposal — that would have inserted the words "single persons," as well as heads of house — of families, because I personally felt that this was a discrimination against the single person, which I am not one of. But the Committee — at first I was the only vote in favor of the proposal. Finally, we came to a seven-seven tie on it and it went down. Then we considered this whole thing — matter again, and with legal counsel. We questioned the advisability of this being in the Constitution, because we felt it was a legislative matter. The statutes in North Dakota and the Code defined what the head of a family is, and felt that this was unnecessary in the Constitution, and I urge your adoption of the Committee Proposal.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? Hearing none —

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I really would take some issue with the question as to whether this is a constitutional matter. Unless some of these types of exemptions are authorized by the Constitution, creditors might very well claim that other types of exemptions are not equal treatment — that there's some discrimination. I think one of the proud things that North Dakota has had since statehood has been its exemption of homesteads; and while I think it is well to limit it in size or value, as we have done outside of cities, and by value inside of cities, it seems to me that it is a proper place to be in a constitution, and I — the amendment, as I understand it — the proposal at the present time would do nothing except repeal Section 208 of the Constitution, which would wipe out the homestead exemption. I would think that at least on one side there would be an enormous outcry in this State if the Convention did that.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Just to continue Mr. Pearce's line of thinking, much of the statute we have on the books today is because of the constitutional revisions, which take out constitutional provisions guaranteeing the rights. Eventually, the statutes are going to change to reflect this deletion. I don't think we want to do this, and I think we might consider guaranteeing at least a minimal amount of property and security for everyone, whether he's a debtor or not. Most of us are debtors.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, the board will be opened. You may record your vote on the question of Committee Proposal 1-80.

Has everyone voted? Saugstad votes "aye." Does anyone wish to change his vote? If not, the key will be closed and the Clerk will take the record.

The record discloses 45 "ayes," 47 "nays," six absent and not voting.

Therefore, Committee Proposal 1-80 has lost and will be automatically re-referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I beg your pardon. The desk force tells me that that does not automatically follow our rules with that. That follows, but they say "no."

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Thank you, Mr. President. Good!

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Committee Proposal 1-80 is now dead.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President. Section 208 refers — we apparently haven't repealed it, which doesn't concern me; but everybody else seems to think that we have to repeal everything. And so it's just kind of hanging here and its wordage is kind of awkward and I don't think it would fit in this 1972 document. "The right of the debtor to enjoy the comforts and necessities of life shall be recognized by wholesome laws", et cetera.

I move that this 1-80 be re-referred to the Committee.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl moved that Committee Proposal 1-80 be re-referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, and it was seconded by Delegate Knudson.

Now, Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President. I rise to oppose the motion.

(Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

I would urge to vote down this motion, and I will make a motion to amend 1-80 back to the original Committee Report, because that's all that would happen in the Committee anyhow. We'd have to reconsider, I mean.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We're on the motion of Delegate Omdahl that Committee Proposal 1-80 be re-referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: To save time, with the consent of the second, I'd like to withdraw the motion, because I think the one by Delegate Decker makes more sense at this time.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. Is that satisfactory with Delegate Knudson?

(Delegate Knudson nodded.)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. Delegate Omdahl has withdrawn his motion. Now, Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I would like to make a motion that the delegates reconsider their action, and if I get a second, I'll explain it, and that's on 1-80.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. Seconded by Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE DECKER: If this is passed by the body, I will make a motion to reinstate the Committee Report that is in your books before the amendment which deleted the Committee Report.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We're now on the motion of Delegate Decker that this body reconsider its action on Committee Proposal 1-80.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we now have Committee Proposal 1-80 before us.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I'll make a motion that 1-80 be amended into its original form as it came from the Committee, which is in your books.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Decker has moved that Committee Proposal 1-80 be amended by replacing into it the language as appears on Committee Proposal 1-80 in your bill books, and the motion is seconded by Delegate Pearce.

Any further — any further discussion?

There being no further discussion, we're now on the main motion of Delegate Decker that we re-adopt the language in Committee Proposal 1-80 as originally passed, as it originally appears in your bill book.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment has been adopted.

Now, Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, I have a further amendment.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I will now move that 1-80 be properly re-engrossed and placed at the foot of the calendar for further action.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

Now, Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, I have an amendment that I would like to put before this body for consideration. It's for the benefit of Delegate Knudson.

On line 11, after the word "that" insert "a single person and" and delete the word "the".

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lamb has moved that, on line 11 of Committee Proposal 1-80, that after the word "that" insert "a single person and" be inserted.

Is there a second to that motion?

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Fritzell seconds the motion.

Now, Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, the reason that I put that in there is because I firmly believe that the single person should have as much protection — if we're going to have the right of protection from the forced sale of a homestead, the single person deserves that protection as much as the head of a family. Now I know that everybody is going to say that the reason that they have "head of the family" is because there's an innocent third party involved, because the head of the family may be a philanderer or something of that nature. But the single person can also be forced into the sale of his homestead for something that he did not cause by his misactions; but because of some force of nature or God or something of that manner. And so that's why I believe that single persons should have this right also.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hernet, and then Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I agree with Delegate Lamb, but I don't think that you could apply this to Delegate Knudson.

(Laughter)

His seat mate, who is my cohort — Delegate Kretschmar — is also in a similar situation, and I think it should apply to him, too. He's no philanderer either, by the way.

DELEGATE DOBSON: A point of order, Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I think I need a lawyer. I thought that, so far as the homestead laws were concerned, a single person who owned a homestead was the same as the head of the family. Is that not right? Now this is homestead laws I'm talking about — not Federal Internal Revenue law.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: As far as I can gather from the counsel on the Committee, that the only ones that are exempt on this homestead provision are the ones who are the heads of families, and it could be a single person only if he had somebody dependent living with him.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The Clerk will now read the amended version of Committee Proposal 1-80.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Would it read now: "The legislature shall provide for the rights of debtors and shall provide that all single persons and the heads of families — a single person"? — "provide that a single person and the heads of families shall be exempt?"

DELEGATE LAMB: No. "and heads of families."

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: While we're getting the language fixed, I rather object to this. I think it's discrimination. Look at the advantages Delegates Knudson and Kretschmar and the other bachelors have over the rest of us already.

(Laughter)

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Two things: First, if the Legislative Assembly is going to provide that a single person shall be exempt, I wonder what single person that will be. Secondly, the amendment is out of order because the pending business is Delegate Decker's motion.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: No. Delegate Decker's motion has not been put. Delegate Lamb had offered a further amendment, which the Chair ruled was in order. We are at the present time waiting — allowing the desk force to get caught up with the amendments.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman, are they ready or —

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I just would like to remind the Convention you voted this down once before, for a good reason.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, with the consent of my second, I think that we will answer Delegate Dobson's objection and take the word "a" out and put "single persons".

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Single persons and heads of families"?

DELEGATE LAMB: Yes.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: And in regard to what Delegate Thompson said, we voted down the — we indefinitely postponed, I should say, Delegate Proposal 2-74 primarily because of the fact that we were considering deleting the whole portion of this particular proposal that has now been put back in by amendment.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: I would rise to oppose the amendment. I am not concerned with the fellows in the front row. I am concerned with the Ann Landers report of last evening, which referred to a sleeping-bag type of situation. We have too many of those under present conditions. This language is in original Section 208, "heads of families." By Internal Revenue definition and by definition in our current Constitution, this refers specifically to that type of institution, a head of a family; namely, persons holding the benefits and rights of a family with the responsibilities of feeding and caring for individuals besides themselves, either as married individuals or as single persons with responsibilities which deal with the rights, feelings and needs and necessities of others.

I recognize the needs of a single person. A single person, as again I refer to that well-quoted author, apparently does not, in the original Constitution or in our current understanding of conveniences, require the protection, since they seek the fleet of foot and, therefore, I would oppose the amendment for that reason.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, I think, to clarify a point: I say when we're talking about a single person, we just don't — we are not referring to those people in the front row here. We're also talking about widows and widowers as single people, and the way it's been defined in the statutes in the State of North Dakota, a widow who does not have any dependent children or relatives that are dependent upon her is declared a single person and then is not eligible for the homestead exemption.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: In response to Delegate Lamb's statement, I would call the body's attention to the citation in our Constitution, Meidinger v. Security State Bank of Medina, which reads: "Once the homestead exemption is established it continues to exist, after the death of the husband or wife, for the benefit of the surviving spouse or minor children." Therefore, if the surviving spouse was indeed such a surviving spouse, we would have the protection we require at this time.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. I'm not a great reader of Ann Landers, but apparently Delegate Hartl is basing part of his argument to the language on Ann Landers' sleeping-bag description. I would like an explanation of what he's talking about.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hartl?

DELEGATE HARTL: I wasn't able to check the bag. (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is the desk ready to read it?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes. In line 11 of the amended proposal, after the word "that" insert the following: "single persons and".

And in line 11 of the engrossed proposal preceding the word "heads" delete the word "the".

It would then read: "that single persons and heads of families".

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We now are on the motion of Delegate Lamb to further amend the amendment as originally offered by Delegate Decker. If you vote "aye," you are voting in favor of this amendment to add "single persons." If you vote "no," you vote to delete that or keep that out.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The motion carried and the amendment — further amendment is adopted.

Now, Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I fail to see the need for the second paragraph of this proposal. I like the first paragraph, but I just think that's legislative. I don't think it adds anything to it, and I would move that we delete lines 14 to 18.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kelsch has moved that lines 14 through 18 on the printed bill — Committee Proposal 1-80 — be deleted, and it was seconded by Delegate Haugen.

Any further discussion?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Unless the second paragraph is in, it could well be that there could not be a sale of a homestead for labor done on it or materials furnished for its improvement. I'm positive on that, because there hasn't been any case on it. There is a Supreme Court case under our present Constitution that says a homestead can be sold under such circumstances; but if this Convention takes that out, we may well be looked to have overruled that Supreme Court opinion. Therefore, it might become somewhat difficult to buy materials to remodel your home or whether to hire any labor.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, that section also makes it possible for you to get a loan on your home, and different things like that to improve it, or building, or anything else. It would be possible to — wouldn't be possible to get a savings-and-loan loan on your home without that section in there.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, if you are referring to just one case where we allow foreclosure of homesteads, now banks borrow money on homesteads and foreclose them if you don't pay your loan, and that doesn't do violation of the homestead exemptions, and I would think the courts would say the same thing. If I, the owner of a homestead, asked that improvements be made, they waive the homestead right as to that improvement. I think this is geared at a forced sale for debts other than those arising from improvements or first mortgage or purchase money mortgage on the property.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: When you give a mortgage, one of the terms of the mortgage is that unless the debt be paid, it could be foreclosed. In fact, if you read a mortgage, it is a deed until you get almost two-thirds of the way through it, until you get to those two words that say "providing nevertheless," it actually is a deed, and that's why it's called a mortgage deed, and in many states it isn't called a mortgage at all — it's called a "trust deed." But, to me, that's a different situation. I'm referring to — and I think this does refer to — liens that are not secured by some other instrument as that.

DELEGATE WARNER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE WARNER: I believe what you are referring to, Delegate Pearce, is mechanic's liens, a situation like that, is that not true, Delegate Pearce?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Yes — and open-account. You might or might not file a mechanic's lien, but you might have an open account for the labor done or materials furnished. A mechanic's lien would also apply.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? Hearing none, we're on the motion of Delegate Kelsch that the second paragraph of the Committee Proposal No. 1-80 be deleted.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no."

The "noes" have it and the motion lost.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Will Delegate Lamb yield to a question?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Yes.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Delegate Lamb, the proposal that we have before us provides that "single persons and heads of families shall be exempt from a forced sale of a reasonable amount of personal property." Do we mean, perhaps, that they shall be exempt from a forced sale of an unreasonable amount of personal property?

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, would Delegate Dobson repeat his question?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President. My point, very simply, is that the word "reasonable" should be "unreasonable."

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, I don't know whether Delegate Dobson's asking a question or making a statement.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Both. It's true that in the old Constitution it says "a reasonable amount of personal property;" but the construction of the sentence is quite different in the old Constitution, and I don't know if we'd want to exempt anyone from a forced sale of a reasonable amount of personal property. Is that the intent of the Committee?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, we are now on — I think, if you will restate your motion, Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I will move we suspend the rules and that Proposal 1-80 be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for further action.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Engelter.

We are now on a motion to suspend the rules, to consider Committee Proposal 1-80 deemed to be properly re-engrossed, and that it be placed on the calendar for first passage.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The motion carries.

Now we have before us Committee Proposal 1-80 as amended.

Any further discussion? The board will be opened. You may record your vote. Saugstad votes "aye."

Has everyone voted?

DELEGATE WENSTROM: Wenstrom votes "aye."

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Wenstrom votes aye."

Does anyone wish to change their vote? If not, the board will be closed and the Clerk will take the record.

The record shows 91 "ayes," 3 "nays," four absent and not voting. Therefore, Committee Proposal 1-80 has been adopted.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Could we be on the twelfth order?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We may, yes.

DELEGATE NETHING: I move that Committee Proposal 1-60 be moved to the head of the calendar.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

We're on the motion, then, of Delegate Nething that — is it 1-60? — that Committee Proposal 1-60 be moved to the head of the calendar. All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal 1-60 has now been moved to the head of the calendar.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, I have an amendment at the desk that I would like to have read.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-60:

On line 12, delete the second comma and insert in lieu thereof a period, and delete the word "when".

On line 13 delete the following: "in actual service in time of war or public danger."

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

First, I'd like to apologize to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, because I was not aware that these things had not been brought to your attention, and I — I guess now it is the time to explain the amendment and why.

Under the old Constitution, Section 8 had the words that said "unless otherwise provided by law," and based on that particular language in that provision, the Legislature adopted Section 37-01-03 of the North Dakota Century Code. Incidentally, this was accomplished in 1891 — whereby they set forth that the military justice would be applicable — the Articles of Military Justice would be applicable to North Dakota law.

General Melhouse, in his letter, stated that he felt that if the words which I have moved that we delete were left in, that it would indicate that the Uniform Code of Military Justice and the court martial system could not apply to members of the National Guard when they are on active duty for training or ceremonial purposes or possibly when on a stand-by status pending the possibility of public danger, and I think this is the status that they were on last spring up at the Nekoma area. It was standby. It wasn't really a public danger that existed. He says, "This situation would be contrary to that which is traditional for the active military forces of the United States and the National Guard of every state." He believes that the lack of jurisdiction of the National Guard to use this Code in all but trivial cases would be very prejudicial to good order and discipline in the Guard and would cause a substantial amount of confusion and cost when we attempt to use civilian courts in those instances where a similar civil defense exists.

Now, Mr. President and fellow delegates, there's always the inherent danger when you read something that someone writes to you that you do not have an opportunity to inquire as to the exact circumstances he's referring to, and as we term in the practice of law, the opportunity to cross-examine him, and of course we don't have that opportunity here; but I would say that when I served as Vice Chairman of the Senate Social Welfare and Veterans Affairs Committee, and General Melhouse has appeared before our Committee many times, and he does not appear and say things unless he believes in them. I am asking at this time that you accept his words that this is very vital to them, and this is the amendment that he recommends. As I read it, I don't think it will interfere with the — the intent of the amendment is there, but I think it will provide the tool that they need in implementing the articles of the Uniform Code of Military Justice within the State, and I would, therefore, move the amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I second, and I agree.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. We've heard the Clerk read the amendment, but I don't think that the rest of us have a copy of the engrossed bill, and I have no idea what you are talking about, Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, I might explain that as you read the amendment on 1-60, what we are doing is deleting the language commencing on line 4 — "when in actual service in time of war or public danger." We're deleting that language, and that's the extent of the amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. We are now on the main motion of Delegate Nething to amend Committee Proposal 1-60. If you're in favor, you vote "aye." If you're against the amendment, you vote "no."

All in favor, signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it. The motion carries and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, I now move that Committee Proposal 1-60 be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first reading and first passage.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

DELEGATE NETHING: And that we suspend the rules.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Litten seconded.

We're now on the motion of Delegate Nething that Committee Proposal — that the rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal 1-60 be deemed properly re-engrossed and be placed on the calendar for first passage. All in favor signify by saying "aye," opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it and the motion carried.

Now, we have before us Committee Proposal 1-60.

Any discussion?

Hearing none, the board will be opened. You may record your vote.

Saugstad votes "aye." Wenstrom votes "aye."

Has everyone voted? Does anyone wish to change their vote? If not, the board will be closed and the Clerk will take the record.

The record discloses 90 "ayes," no "nays," eight absent and not voting. Therefore, Committee Proposal 1-60 has been adopted as amended.

Are there any other — we'll be on order No. 8. Any announcements?

All right. The Chair will declare a ten-minute recess.

(The Session recessed at 2:50 P.M. until 3:08 P.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

Will the Convention please come to order?

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-96. 1-96.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-96, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 185 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to public business.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 185 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"PUBLIC BUSINESS. As provided by law the state or any of its political subdivisions or any combination thereof may undertake any business or enterprise but only for the purpose of providing public services. Unless otherwise provided by law, any form of business or enterprise in operation when this constitution is adopted may be continued. Neither, the state nor any political subdivision thereof shall otherwise loan or give its credit to or in aid of any individual, association or corporation except as otherwise authorized in this constitution and except for reasonable support of the indigent and for such payment of adjusted compensation for veterans of the armed services as may be provided by law, nor shall the state or any of its political subdivisions subscribe to or become the owner of capital stock in any private association or corporation."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-96.

Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

If anybody wants to follow along with the Interim Report, this is on page 44, starting in the third paragraph. It takes the rest of page 44 and about the first half of 45. This is a repeal of old Section 185. The first sentence refers to the State or political subdivision involvement in business, and this is a restriction over the old Section 185. The first committee draft on the end of that sentence used the words "public benefit," but in reconsideration, the words "public services" were put in there as the word "public benefit" was too broad. This section had considerable discussion, particularly this sentence. In fact, I think this was the only section that our Committee had that was acted on by a subcommittee, because of the various questions, and so on, on it.

The second sentence there is in the nature of a grandfather's clause to allow present businesses to continue without any problem and also to sanction any form of business continuing. Now, we don't have any specific illustrations of this, but we thought there might be some cases where cities were involved in public servant businesses at the present time that might have some question and other cities were not involved at the present time; so, rather than saying just "businesses," we used the word "form" there advisedly.

Then the last sentence of this section is pretty much the same as the present Constitution. The language has been changed slightly and, basically, there's a prohibition on the State or political subdivision to give its credit or aid to an individual. We added the part in there — the "indigent part", which used to be in there, we changed the word "poor" to "indigent." We also added a few lines allowing for such payment of just compensation to veterans of the Armed Forces as may be provided by law, because we've always had to have a constitutional amendment before on veterans bonuses because of this prohibition in here of any aid being given to any individuals. So we thought, so long as three veterans bonuses had passed so easily, that this would be a part of this Constitution in case it was ever needed again.

Then, in the last sentence there, it prohibits the State or any of its political subdivisions to subscribe to or become the owner of capital stock in any private association or corporation. Now that word "private" has been added to the word — the words as used in the original Section 185 and, again, I don't have any specific illustration of this, but it was felt maybe that there might, in the future, and looking at irrigation and some of the things of this type, there might be possibly some public associations involved here in which this phrase, if the word "private" was not put in, would be unduly restrictive.

The Committee passed this out with almost unanimous consent as to what it does and what it should do, and we recommend your support for it as it is written here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention —

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I have an amendment here that I'd like to send up to the desk. It's a very brief amendment and I do not have it distributed to every desk here, but I think, when the Clerk reads it, you will understand it very clearly.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-96:

On line 12, delete the following language: "but only for the purpose of providing public" and insert in lieu thereof a period.

In line 13, delete the word "services".

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase. May I have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman. Now I know I'm opening up a can of worms here, and we'd all like to finish and go home, but I don't believe we should leave things unfinished either. So let's talk about this thing for just a few minutes.

In North Dakota, I think we have a peculiar problem that all other states do not have, and of course here I'm thinking of the very bleak possibility of young people remaining in our state: and if we adopt the original language, we forever, as I see it, close the opportunity of taxpayers participating in any kind of a venture to improve job opportunities in this State. Offhand, I can see various possibilities here when we talk about irrigation and when you talk about — oh, it seems to me I've heard some or read some news articles on a sugar refinery and so forth, in the southeast corner of the State, and there certainly will be other possibilities, too, I believe — not a lot of them, but some that the taxpayers may definitely want to be a part of.

Now, I have not had the opportunity to appear before this Committee on this. I believe that the liquor industry was the one industry looking for some protection, and I have no particular objection to this. However, I do not believe we should forever — and it looks to me like this means forever — include any type of business venture to protect one particular segment. There must be a better possibility.

I also realize that, should you adopt this amendment, there may be some conflicting language later in the Proposal. However, I ask the delegates to vote for the intent of this amendment, so that the Committee, if necessary, may adjust the later language in the Proposal to fit the intent.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President, I have a question somewhat different that doesn't pertain to that part. May I speak now or —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No — only on the proposed amendment. I'm sorry. I thought you wanted the floor on this.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: As a member of the Committee, you will know that we worked hard on this, and I would ask Delegate Chase a question.

You have said that this would foreclose, or possibly do so, development of the State. Can you imagine, Delegate Chase, any venture that the State would want to go into, or any political subdivision thereof, that would not provide a public service?

DELEGATE CHASE: Pardon?

DELEGATE UNRUH: That would not provide a public service?

DELEGATE CHASE: Well, I think there might be a great deal of them, Delegate Unruh. Maybe not a great deal, but some. When you talk about "public service," this is something that's pretty hard to define. Is a sugar refinery, for example, a public service? Is the Mill and Elevator a public service? Is the Bank a public service? I'd like to answer your question by asking you the same question.

DELEGATE UNRUH: The Bank and the Mill are —

(President Wenstrom rapped his gravel.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Gentlemen, let's keep the decorum of the chamber and let's keep this thing on an even keel.

Delegate Unruh, you may proceed.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I am responding to a question.

The Bank and the Mill are excepted under the grandfather clause. Our Committee had serious questions about the State being in any business, the mood of the Committee being somewhat conservative, I would say. I don't mean ultra, but I mean conservative. None of us felt that we wanted any political entity to go into a business that is competitive to private free enterprise, and we felt that if any political subdivision wished to go into a business which had a public benefit or public service — pardon me — connotation to it, they should be permitted. Certainly, if you're going to go into irrigation, you're going to have public benefits and public service involved there. But we didn't want a political entity to go into, let's say, a hay-buying business or a drug store. This is the kind of thing we're thinking of.

DELEGATE CHASE: I agree with you, Delegate Unruh. We don't want them to go into a drug store, (laughter) and we don't want them in the hay-buying business, and so forth; but I still think the language you have here precludes any type of a venture. You say irrigation is a public service. To me, it would be a public service for a certain segment of the people. Is this then a public service.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: I just might add a couple more things — a brief definition of the word "public service" from Black's Dictionary. It says, "A term applied in modern usage to the objects and enterprises of certain kinds of corporations, which specially serve the needs of the general public or conduce to the comfort and convenience of an entire community, such as railroad, gas, water, and electric light companies; and companies furnishing motor vehicle transportation."

So I think the public service connotation is fairly broad. We realize this probably hasn't any court-defined definition, but we felt it would be broad enough to allow for flexibility in the future. The Committee has not only with this section — and this is one of the unfortunate parts about bringing in sections one at a time, but we have another section later on which, I think, will address itself to Delegate Chase's concern about extending job opportunities and things like that.

The Committee has been consistent in trying to look ahead and anticipate possibilities where the Constitution had to be flexible in these cases, and I think we've done a fair job on it with all our sections, and we don't feel that this is unduly restrictive, but perhaps a little more restrictive than the present Constitution.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen — Donnell Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, I'm not speaking as Chairman of the Committee now.

I happen to be at least the major part of the less-than-unanimous segment of the Committee that Delegate Lerberg mentioned, and I would have to question Delegate Unruh's statement that none of us wanted the State to go into business or in competition with private business, because I don't particularly have that feeling. I have the feeling that there are several businesses that the State may have to go into and local subdivisions may have to go into that should be in private business, and one of them that I have in mind right now and that you are all probably thinking about is the matter of busing or rapid transit transportation within our cities. It's apparent — it's apparent that we're not going to be able to have rapid transit or bus systems within our cities without some type of a subsidy, and if the city or subdivision has them subsidized, I don't know why the city and the subdivision should not operate them in the first place. I, of course, have expressed my opinion in the Committee that I believe that the people of a subdivision should have a right to indicate whether they want to go into the liquor business. I happen to think, and I've had some experience, that there's nothing wrong with municipal ownership of a liquor store. I think that it has its values, and I agree that by adopting this language, we are curtailing the rights of the people to do what they might want to do in the future, and I've told the Committee members that I intended, if this issue came up — that I would oppose the Committee on it, and I hope they bear me no ill will; but it's an important issue and I do feel that there's a good deal of merit to the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President. Will Delegate Lerberg yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Delegate Lerberg yield?

DELEGATE LERBERG: Yes.

DELEGATE LAMB: Delegate Lerberg, in the wording "for the purpose of providing a public service," was it the intention of the Committee — and I'd like to make sure that this is on the record — that a municipality which is now being served by a particular private utility could at some time, at some later date, would they be restricted or wouldn't they be restricted from going into municipal power or telephone, or whatever it might be?

DELEGATE LERBERG: I think the definition of "public service" that I just read covers, I think, both your question and Delegate Haugen's question, because the matter of gas, water, electric light and motor vehicle transportation are both under a legal dictionary definition a "public service." There may be things in the future that would even broaden the public service beyond this. I don't think, certainly, the Committee's intention when they wrote the words "public service" in there was to restrict it somewhat from the present Constitution, but not to be so restrictive that a municipality or the State couldn't be involved in these things which were necessary in the future.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: If that's the case, then, if Delegate Chase's amendment fails, I would hope that the record will show that in any future litigation revolving around this type of a thing, that the municipality has that right to go into a utility program such as I have mentioned.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

In further response to Delegate Lamb and his question: We have added the sentence there "unless otherwise provided by law, any form of business or enterprise in operation when this constitution is adopted may be continued." Now, we have used the word "form" — that if — as an example, Valley City has a city power plant. Another city may be able to use that same city power plant and it will not be tied into the Constitution. So the word "form of business" as used any other place, it will be permitted in another town, if they wish to develop a municipal electric plant.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President. Fellow delegates, I'd like to rise to oppose the amendment.

In regards to Delegate Chase's statement, I agree he's opened up a can of worms; in fact, I think he's opened it wide — too wide for my satisfaction. I think that there is a far greater danger to what you're talking about with your amendment than there is under the present wording in 1-96. I think that the Committee has made their intent quite clear — that is, as to public services. I, therefore, urge you to vote "no" on the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman. I would like to ask Mr. Lerberg a question about municipalities going into the landlord business.

We have in Fargo the City Parking Authority that has several square blocks of parking land, and it plans in the future to either lease the space or maybe finance a building and rent the — some space for a retail operation. Another example would be an airport terminal, where the city rents out bar space and takes a share of the profits as its rent.

Now, these businesses are not now in operation. They might be in the future. They are not necessarily a public service deal; they are a way for the city to kind of break even on some of its investment. Would we run into problems?

DELEGATE LERBERG: I solicit any other members of the Committee that worked so hard on this, if they want to comment on these definitions, and I don't just want to put my definitions in here, because my definition of "public services" might be a little broader than some of the other Committee members; but I think it's a fairly well-defined term, and as to Delegate Paulson's question, I think if the thing was ever questioned, I think the courts would look at the overall implications and not the fact that a city might be involved in a little segment of private business, or something like that, but the overall implication, and I would say a parking ramp on which some of the side effects, where some of the rental businesses might come under "public service" — and the same thing about an airport — there's no question about an airport and an airport facilities being a public service. The fact that some rental space or some considerable rental space is a by-product of this thing, I don't think would defeat it under the effects of the Constitution or under the effect of the words "public service."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. This is a replacement for present Section 185, which permitted the State to go into any business other than prohibited by Article XX of the original Constitution.

Now, it would be pretty difficult, it seems to me, for any community to go out and make proper showing that opening up a liquor store was public business. It maybe is possible if you had enough people that demanded it. But that is the main thing. It is not easily adopted or put into operation by any city, village, county, or the State, for that matter. The terms of the language here in this section are broad enough for the State or any of its subdivisions to go into any business where there is a service — where a public service is being rendered, and for the — getting right down to what's behind all of this, I think I can give you some history, and it's probably going to jolt some people pretty hard. There's been a move on for the last about four years to set up public power districts in this State, and we've got an operation in this State that has a superabundance of power and no customers, and that's where the power lies, and as far as they could get the public — the cities — if they want to go into this, there's nothing to prohibit them in this language from setting up municipal power systems, but it certainly is going to be up to the public to do it, and this is just, apparently, an attempt to unload a white elephant.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates:

The question that's come to my mind, and it has — I can only phrase it as a question to, perhaps, Delegate Chase. I'm not picking on you, but am I wrong in my conception that by the deletion of the words of the amendment, the State could, if — if you could get the law passed by the Legislature, enter into the broadcast media or the news media? And if the answer to that is "yes," I have an inherent fear that we could have a State censorship of both the press and the other broadcast media as now exists. As I said before, this is merely a question. Could you or someone help me out?

DELEGATE CHASE: I'm not sure I can help you out —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Excuse me. I'm not sure I could help you out, Delegate Poulson, but of course you're turning this thing around and trying to put it in exactly the opposite way the thing is intended. But you hit the nail on the head when you said "as provided by law." And here, again, we have legislators that are making these laws. We've said many times we can trust these people. I think that in the majority of the cases, you can. There may be some cases where the taxpayers of this State might like to become involved on a project that would be beneficial to all the people in the State; and yet, under the original language in this particular thing that is proposed to us now, they would be restricted, and this is my point. I'm not talking about private power or public power or any of these things that have been brought up; just that one thing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, I have an amendment at the desk that does substantially the same thing that Delegate Chase's amendment does, except that I would keep the State or its subdivisions out of the booze business, as it presently is restricted. However, I don't say that I feel so strongly on it but what I will be controlled by whatever the Convention does on his amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Excuse me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Excuse me.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I just wanted to make a couple comments with reference to this term "public service." That is a term which has been fertile ground for a great deal of litigation and it's a veritable legal quicksand, and I think it's a dangerous term to have in there, and I'm afraid that I can't agree with Delegate Lerberg that when you have that type of a term in a constitution, that then airports, as Delegate Paulson mentioned — the airport authority can rent out space. I don't think so. I think they're getting into private business, and under this present phrasing of the Constitution, they could not do that, and I think there are many other dangers here; for example, off-street parking. That's extremely important to our cities today and it's the life or death of uptown — of the uptowns in many of our cities. They're going to stand or fall upon what happens as far as off-street parking is concerned.

Now, under the rulings of the Supreme Courts of the States of Illinois, Ohio and Kansas, off-street parking is not permitted because it was not a public service. Now how do we know what will happen here under this language? I think that it will prohibit indefinitely any further extension of public housing or housing for the elderly, because you've got to remember that our present public housing act was found constitutional by our Supreme Court only because Section 185 is phrased as it now presently is phrased. I don't think that the Supreme Court would have been able to hold it constitutional if we had had the language proposed in this Proposal. And there are a lot of other areas, Mr. President. There are a lot of fairgrounds where space is rented out to private people during this fair. I don't think that that could be done any more. There are recreation centers where they have space rented out — exhibition space, for example. I'm afraid that that would be out. Vending machines, where the city or subdivision would get part of the proceeds, I'm afraid that would be out with the language. Even pay telephones might be ruled out. And I'm afraid that this has gone too far.

I don't say that I particularly favor the language of the present Constitution. I think that perhaps gives too much authority to the subdivisions to go into business. But I think, under the amendment, where it provides that "as provided by law," then it leaves it up to the Legislature as to what types of business they could go into, and I think that's a healthy thing. Mr. President, I favor the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to direct a question to one of the Committee.

With their original words, I would have much question as to whether our sheltered workshops that we have for the mentally disabled and for workshops of various rehabilitation projects that are currently working under the public — or political subdivisions or for public projects, and yet they are not necessarily doing a public service — they may be tearing down some telephones for Bell Telephone Company or building some parking or create boxes for some other company; and what about educational television? Can anybody answer that? Is that included in the phrase?

The way it looks to me is I would favor the deletion and favor the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I'm not on the Committee, but I don't believe that Delegate Poulson's question has been answered, and I think it can be answered on line 13, and I think that the last two delegates have spoken — most of what they said would be deleted by line 13, because in all cases — for instance, there's a liquor store at the Bismarck airport which is leased out and a percentage of the rent is collected by the Bismarck airport. We have parking facilities that the rents are collected on the present situation. All those forms of business are in progress today. The Mental Health is doing what Delegate O'Toole said. I don't think that there's any of the danger that we have been led to believe there is in some of the recent speeches.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President, I did want to answer the question for the Committee — the last question and the statement there. "Any form of business which is now in operation may be continued," is the key here that we can continue any of these forms of business. We can continue all of the forms of business which were asked for by Delegate O'Toole.

Now, the only — the only resistance we found in Committee to the action which we had there was by the REC's who want to establish the public power or the consumer power districts. This is the key thing right here. They feel that they are unable to establish it without a vote of the people, and I submit that I do not know enough about public power districts or their ramifications; that I would rather that we submitted to the vote of the people when that key problem comes up; and as far as we are concerned in the Committee, we believe that we should not have the State or its political subdivisions entering into any of the commercial businesses, and we did not want to mention by name or by title or any other identification the liquor business. And since we did not feel that they should be classified as an exclusive one, and since there were a large majority of the Committee that feels that the private enterprise type of business should not be entered into by government, we placed this in the form we have, and by this form we are satisfied that any of the businesses mentioned by O'Toole or mentioned by any of the others here can be entered as long as we are now operating in them, including the bus and transportation systems.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. Chairman — Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: The point that disturbs me somewhat on this, the way it is written, is due to the fact that I have been very much involved in public housing for elderly people in our city, and I am presently involved in the addition of about twenty additional units, and the overall plan in talking to the Urban Renewal people in our city, there is also involved there — public housing is also involved there. Now I understand that the grandfather clause could lock in what we have already done, but I submit that it would be a very difficult thing to make any further plans as far as public housing is concerned. And I want to reemphasize what Delegate Maxwell has already indicated — that this would be one of the enterprises that would certainly be curtailed under the provisions of this particular proposal, and I certainly would resist the passage.

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I think we've pretty well gotten down to the nuts and bolts of this whole thing. We did spend a lot of time on this thing. We battled it all summer and all fall. Delegate Aas is completely correct when he says the only opposition we had to it was from the REC's. I still don't see how it's going to prevent them. The haven't really convinced us that it's going to damage them in any way, as long as people have a vote on it. I don't see how much more democratic we could be than to allow them to have a vote. What we have tried to do in this thing is to keep the State Mill and Elevator in business, because we believe it is performing a service for the people of this State. We intend to keep the Bank of North Dakota in business, because we believe, too, that it is performing a service for the people of this State. We intend to prohibit the State from getting into the liquor business, and we had it almost unanimous, as Delegate Haugen has said, in our Committee. I guess all of us but Delegate Haugen favored keeping the State out of the liquor business. We have no intention of trying to get those cities that have municipal power to give them up. This is the reason for the word "forms" in the wording. We consulted long hours with the Attorney General's office in getting rulings on the wording "public services". We consulted with the Tax Department. We consulted with everyone that we knew of who could give us advice on this — on how to word it to do as the majority of the Committee wanted it done.

So I submit to you, Fellow Delegates, this boils down to a personal philosophy, and that's about all that it's going to be decided on today.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe that someone in here — Delegate Lander, did you request the floor? And you have spoken, Delegate Urdahl, so I will recognize Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes. Mr. President, I have a question, and you can rule if it's germane to this particular issue.

In the printed booklet here to which Delegate Lerberg referred, the first proposal of the Committee, as I think he has stated, is to provide services for the public benefit. The one now is different from that. Would you either explain or repeat the reasoning of the Committee in going from the first proposal to that second one, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg, would you answer?

DELEGATE LERBERG: Yes.

Mr. President, as Delegate Miller has said, this particular sentence is where we spent a good deal of time, and on these particular two words more than anything else. On the opinion of counsel involved in this field, the term "public benefit" was felt to be too broad for the intent of our Committee. There isn't a thing that a business couldn't be involved in, as long as, say, the proceeds went to the municipality that couldn't be construed as a public benefit. So this — this, we felt, would — or this, the Committee felt, would put it in the same place as the proposed amendment would be, whereas the words "public services" have been more narrowly defined than the words "public benefit" and would be more restrictive than the words "public benefit."

Now, I'd just like to add a little bit of additional comment on this word "public service" and I made the statement in Committee, and at this point I didn't bring it up in my presentation, but it's been presented on the floor here — this matter of liquor — and I'm with Delegate Haugen — I'm not nearly as concerned about it as the rest of the Committee was. Now I can foresee, for instance, the words "public service" are going to be interpreted from time to time. I can foresee twenty or thirty or forty years from now, if we continue to have as much problem with highway accidents, and both the State and Federal people that are involved with this are acknowledging publicly that something like fifty percent of the deaths that occur on the public highways are caused by liquor or associated with liquor, and I can see in the future that if public bodies — states or political subdivisions — would have to undertake something in this field to help answer the problem that may continue to get much greater, I can foresee that courts could possibly, under this "public service" doctrine, even allow this particular thing. Now, I say a majority of the Committee was certainly against this being possible, but I don't think any of us can, twenty or thirty or forty years from now, interpret what may happen in terms of definition of words.

Now, as has been indicated, this grandfather clause is very broad, and even without the grandfather clause there, I in no way can see how this section would interfere with public housing, or anything of that nature, which has been so universally accepted as a necessary governmental function in the present day in which we live.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'm not just sure that I'm right on this. If any of the other attorneys that are delegates have represented a housing authority and I make a mistake, would you correct me?

It seems to me that the housing authorities are nonprofit corporations, separate from the city — separate so far that they are even now being put in the position where they have to pay service contracts to the city for protection — police protection and fire protection. I don't think that they would be considered a municipality or a public corporation. I think they're separate and apart and that, therefore, this section would not affect them in any way.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe, Delegate Larsen, you have not spoken.

DELEGATE LARSEN: May I yield my time to Delegate Maxwell?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: To Delegate Maxwell? Yes, you may, if Delegate Maxwell wishes the floor. Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Thank you, Delegate Larsen, and Mr. President.

I merely have a question that I would address to one of the members of the Committee. I'm curious about this word "form of business." Let's assume that West Fargo has housing for the elderly and another city does not at the time that this Constitution goes into effect. Now, housing for the elderly is a form of business. Does this mean that that other city, which does not have housing for the elderly, as West Fargo does, would be entitled to go into that business because it is a form of business now in existence in the State, although not in that community or municipality or subdivision?

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Yes, that's precisely why that word "form" was used. We recognized there were many things today that were accepted, and if we just made the grandfather clause to apply to existing businesses, then some of these others that were in like form — then perhaps some of these others might have to justify themselves under "public service." And that's why we used the word "form."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, are there any delegates that have not spoken that would like to speak?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, that last exception by Delegate Lerberg started me thinking about something, and I wanted it clarified, and I believe it would be in the form of a question, and we had a lot of speeches in the Senate Committee on Industry and Business by a large entrepreneur out of the Fargo area who wanted to put together for the State of North Dakota, and particularly for the farmers in the eastern part of the State, a large type of sugar plant operation, particularly buying contracts for beets, et cetera, and as I remember, we spent hours on that in our Committee. We ended up telling him he couldn't do it because of prohibitions in the Constitution against us engaging in the sugar beet operation or in buying contracts and being involved in that kind of an operation, and I would wonder if the State Mill and Elevator, for example, would not be found under the word "forms", for us to even go into, say, the eastern part of the state and say that it needs that kind of a service, and we might well, instead of having contracts lapsing and not being honored, that we might well, in effect, engage in that for awhile to help those people. Could this possibly be an extension of the State Mill and Elevator operation?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: I think it conceivably could be, although, again, this would be something for a matter of interpretation. But we understood, when we used the word "form," that it might have some problems, but we felt, by not using it and just applying it to existing businesses, there were even more problems here. One of the problems, I think more so than the State being involved in business, and which one of our other bills here — our proposals — which will come up later, will speak to is the matter of financing for these, and this has been one of the problems at the State level and at the other levels, in that they're restricting financing even more so than even being in business itself, and I don't think this section is half as restrictive in terms of the businesses that are going to be good for the future as some of the old financing sections were.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. No. I would yield to Delegate Aas. He wishes to answer Delegate Sanstead.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President. Delegate Sanstead, if you'll look at 1-74, which is the one taking care of the bonding. The President of the Bank of North Dakota says that this will meet his satisfaction as to authorizing bonding and debentures so that he may — there may be state financing or state support for such businesses; however, I would say that there would be a private or a nonprofit type of corporation at the very best, but not a State operation. But the President of the Bank of North Dakota says that 1-74 will meet his requirements for debentures and support of this type of a business.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will a delegate yield time to Delegate Urdahl?

DELEGATE BASSINGTHWAITE: Mr. President, I'd like to yield my time to Delegate Urdahl.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Bassingthwaite yields time to Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Thank you, Mr. President. My question has been answered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Your question has been answered?

DELEGATE URDAHL: Yes, sir.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Then will somebody yield time to Delegate Lamb?

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President, I would yield time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels yields time to Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Thank you. Mr. President, I'm a little confused, which isn't out of the ordinary; but Delegate Aas, I want to make it perfectly clear that if a municipality wants to go into a business that another municipality is in, also, even though there is a private corporation that is in the municipality and that is performing that business, they still have the right under this use of the word "form" to do that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President. The answer is "yes."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will a delegate yield time to Delegate Cart?

DELEGATE BAKER: I yield it, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker yields.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, this would be in response to the question raised by Delegate Sanstead.

In appeared, from what he said, any enterprising citizen who wanted to promote some business down there, that the State is prohibited from investing into privately-owned corporations, and that is true under Section 185. You would have no difference under the present section as proposed and under the existing Section 185.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

In regard to the question by Delegate Lamb as to whether a municipality presently served by an independent utility could set up their own, I might point out that you would have problems getting out from under the franchise which the city has with the private utility, and if that were accomplished, there is certainly nothing in this provision that would prevent the city from entering into their own business, and I speak against the amendment. And as far as I'm concerned, the only criticism I have of 1-96 is the somewhat lengthy sentence which finishes the section. You will notice that it starts on line 15 and ends at line 23 with a period, and I'm sure this will offend the sensibilities of Delegate Solberg and Delegate McElroy, who have a penchant for putting in periods in long sentences.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Do I understand from the discussion that the Committee, in recommending the words "public service enterprise" includes within that definition the manufacture and distribution and sale of electric power to consumers?

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: I think maybe Delegate Aas' answer to Delegate Lamb's question is a little too simple. I don't think by this section we can be construed as giving carte blanche authority to any — every community or that would be involved in every business that some other community might be involved in. It just means that this particular section here would not prohibit it. I'm sure that many other sections, as Delegate Burke has suggested, would have to be complied with before this could be gone into; so that it's not a carte blanche thing.

Then I'd like to comment on Delegate Burke's mention of this last sentence, and you can be sure we wrestled with that one for a long time and, as somebody has said back here, Style and Drafting can deal with it, and I can assure you that the Chairman of Style and Drafting has already had considerable to do with the make-up of that sentence, and there's one magic word in there which I might point out that hasn't been pointed out, on line 17 — the last word in line 17 on your printed bill — and that's "otherwise," because the part that precedes it says that the State may not loan or give its credit or aid to any individual. Now that's the same language we have in the present Constitution. That would severely restrict both the Bank of North Dakota and the State Mill and Elevator in its operation, and that's why that is all in one sentence, rather than breaking it up, and that's why that word "otherwise" modifies that preceding sentence, and we do have a court decision on that.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: May I yield to Delegate Paulson, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President, after listening to all of the discussion, I'm convinced that the wording in the Committee Proposal is too restrictive. I support the amendment. In North Dakota we need a partnership between business and government. We cannot get along without both of them working together, and the Committee Proposal tries to draw a line between the two. I think you should know that in Fargo we are trying to build an overhead mall over Broadway. It will put the City in business. It will put it in a business that we cannot now describe or say that some other form covers. I think that we are buying too many unanswered legal problems again with the Committee Proposal. I support the amendment and I trust the Convention will help us in this project.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: I would like to know if Mr. Paulson would like a State newspaper started in Fargo. Could you give me an answer on that, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: They're welcome to try. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Berg, did you wish —

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman and Delegates:

I happen to be one of the five businessmen here — there's only five of us delegates that are businessmen, and I know that it uses the word "undertake," and if you put an "r" on there, you'd have "undertaker;" but I remember in the days years ago our State Penitentiary built caskets. That's a business that was run by the State. I'm sure that no private business would like the State to compete with them. It would put all of us business people out of business. Let me tell you that. I, therefore, cannot — (laughter) Earl Chase looked at me there! Therefore, I must say, Earl, that I can't go with your amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I just want to make note that he'll be the last one to let you down! (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Chase. Those in favor of adopting will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed say "nay."

The "noes" have it. The amendment lost.

A division has been requested. That's a sufficient number.

Again, the question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Chase, and those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed "nay."

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change?

The vote is closed.

The vote indicates 34 "ayes," 62 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting.

The amendments to Committee Proposal 1-96 have failed.

The question is on the — Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President and members of the Convention:

I have a question I am not quite sure about. They have talked about the length of that last sentence. I'm wondering if it should be a little longer. We state there, on line 21, that the political subdivisions cannot become owner of capital stock of any private association or corporation. My question to one of the Committee: If a government entity or political subdivision should obtain some stock through a foreclosure action, for instance, or if I should want to give a share of bank stock to the Lake Region Junior College, which is a political subdivision — it's part of a school district — are we excluding the subdivision from accepting this gift?

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: This language is very similar to the language we now have, except we have broadened it a little bit by adding "private." But there are, I believe, court decisions on this which answer negatively your concern over the stock. For instance, conceivably the Bank of North Dakota might make a note with stock as security and have to foreclose it, and this would not be precluded from this particular section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Any further discussion? Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. I have just one question, and that concerns line 13. It's the area that's been referred to as the "grandfather clause." Now, I don't know much about grandfather clauses, but it seems to me the grandfather clauses protecting the forms of business now operating in the State — that this is a sort of a weak grandfather clause and we should leave it up to the Legislature to change it, and I expect they should; but, like I say, I don't know much about grandfather clauses and I would ask someone on the Committee to answer it for me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Yes. One of the first drafts of this, when we were kicking around the word "abrogated," and this was provided here because we didn't want to make mandatory that any form of business existing now had to be continued if, in the wisdom of the Legislature in future years, this should be changed, and that's the reason for that wordage — so the Legislature does have some discretion with this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: A question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: A question? Yes, Mr. President. Under our present Constitution, would the Legislature have authority to do away — to do away with the Bank of North Dakota or the State Mill and Elevator?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President. Yes, precisely. Both the Bank of North Dakota and the State Mill and Elevator are now creatures of statute and they could be changed by statute, and that's one of the reasons that we didn't want to prohibit that possibility in the future. It is available now, so we are not changing that situation at all from the present situation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart, did you have a question?

DELEGATE CART: No. It would be the same answer they got.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe Delegate Birkeland wanted the floor.

DELEGATE BIRKELAND: It's been answered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been answered.

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal 1-96. No further discussion?

Those in favor of passage will vote "aye," those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 69 "aye" votes, 27 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-96 is passed.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-101.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-101, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 139 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 139 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President. Fellow delegates, I have an amendment. I'll appreciate having it read at the desk. It's been distributed to everybody's desk, incidentally, fellow delegates.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will you read the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Proposal 1-101:

On page 1, line 2 of the title, delete the period and insert in lieu thereof the following: "; and that article XVII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, both of which pertain to public utilities."

On page 1, line 6, add the following new section:

"SECTION 2.) Article XVII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XVII
"PUBLIC UTILITIES

"Section 1. No law shall be passed by the legislative assembly granting the right to construct or operate any public utility or similar service within any city without requiring the consent of the governing body of that city."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE DECKER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker seconded.

Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Fellow delegates, you recognize immediately, of course, this proposed amendment restores the Committee Proposal which we discussed on, I believe it was, either Wednesday or Thursday of last week, and we turned it right back to where the Committee on Resources, Education and Public Lands was when we made our original presentation. I can't put this discussion in any better terms than Delegate Miller did here a few moments ago when he said that — when he was talking about consideration on the previous proposal having to do with the fact that it boiled down to personal philosophy, and that's exactly what 1-101 does; it boils down to personal philosophy.

We can visit about the problems with reference to the fringe area. We can talk about race. We can talk about the problems of the REC's. But you can't escape the fact that what we're really talking about is the very simple problem or proposition having to do with the home rule and the rights of our cities in North Dakota.

Now, very simply, this amendment is going to accomplish three very salient points that our Committee has discussed at great length. In the first place, it is going to preserve the concept of Section 139 of our present Constitution. Secondly, this amendment is going to prohibit the Legislature from usurping the authority that justifiably belongs to our cities. We're hearing a lot about home rule these days and we are rather enthusiastic about it; but when we start talking about public utilities or similar services, for some strange reason we think that this concept belongs in another ballpark.

And then thirdly, fellow delegates, and probably the most important point of all, is that this amendment and this Proposal from our Committee reserves the exclusive rights to the cities to franchise, and we submit to you, Mr. President and fellow delegates, that without a doubt and no question at all, the cities of North Dakota deserve the right to guide their own destinies within the boundaries of their respective cities. This is the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: If you look in Section 6 of Committee Proposal C-12, which we passed just a short time ago, which establishes the home rule concept that Delegate Litten has just spoken of — pardon me — Committee Proposal 1-12 — you will find the language "The legislative assembly shall provide . . ."

Are we now to give the cities veto power over the Legislature? Because that's what Committee Proposal 1-101 would say, if we were to put this language back in. We have already established the concept that the Legislature shall provide for the concept of home rule. Are we now saying that the cities shall have veto power over the Legislature in its effort to protect the rights of citizens and citizen groups in the exercise of that home rule concept? This is simply what this section means and can mean, and without trying to hide any of it, this is what it's all about. If an area west of Bismarck — a traditionally rural area — is served by a rural electric cooperative, and the city expands into that area, the city may then say to the REA, "I'm sorry. You can't serve any more. You have to take your — pull your poles, get your services out, because we can't franchise you because we're larger than 2500 citizens and the law prohibits us to franchise you," and the Legislature can't protect them because, under this language, we would give the city council veto power over the Legislature. If in my town, which has been served by Otter Tail Power, the City decided to franchise an REA, the Legislature would have no way, under this language, to protect the property of the Otter Tail Power Company in my town.

Now, Mr. President, what's basically wrong here is that it denies to the Legislature the right to protect the property of the citizens. It gives to city government veto power over the duties of the Legislature to protect those rights.

Secondly, the language of the amendment is not the same as the language of old 139. The language of 139 was bad enough; but a neat little replacement has been made. The word "and" in line 2 has been substituted by the word "or" — pardon me — the word "or". Under the old language, the Legislature could at least allow an existing utility in a newly-franchised area, which did not include that earlier utility, the Legislature could at least allow them to operate. Under this language, the Legislature could not even do that. Mr. President, the amendment that we adopted the other day when we repealed both of these sections and presented that language as it is now before us, without this amendment, is the right approach because it preserves for the Legislature the right to protect the property and the property rights of all its citizens.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I'd like to make three points, and that is the amendment as is proposed is not granting a new right to the cities. Section 139 contains essentially the same provisions as to utilities, telephones, telegraphs and street railroads. Now, we have broadened it. We are not denying that. We're taking into consideration such things as cable TV. So we're not creating a new right. What we're trying to do is preserve the existing rights of cities to franchise.

Point No. 2.: There was some discussion that we have home rule — that this takes care of it. No, it does not. Some of the cities will not exercise the home rule provision. This amendment as proposed will preserve those cities who do not exercise this provision the franchise right. I think this is important — that the cities who stay with the the form of government that we now have will still have their existing rights as they do under Section 139.

And, No. 3, I won't be as definite about this, but I checked on the word — the impact of the word "or" as against "and," as suggested by Delegate Diehl, and I was told by the Public Service Commission that in law it has no law or effect, and now that's relaying an opinion that was expressed to me and is not my opinion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion? Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

It seems to me that the only thing we should be concerned about here is whether or not we believe that the cities should control the franchising ability that they currently have. Now, as a legislator, it seems rather ridiculous for me to sit and determine what's good for the City of Bismarck or the City of Fargo or Minot or Ellendale — any one of them. Those people in that city are the ones that know what's the best for them, and that's why we've reserved this right of franchising to the cities, and I think that, since it's their business, they're the ones that should have the say — not a legislator, like myself, from Jamestown, because I don't know anything about the problems of that city; those people know them. I think we should adopt the amendment.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President. Frankly, I don't see the need for the amendment. Under Section 21 of the Committee Proposal 1-75, which has passed, the Legislature is forbidden to pass local or special laws. It seems to me that this covers the situation, and that the amendment would simply be extraneous.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: It seems to me that this Convention is getting taken into an area which is purely legislative in character. The other night, when I was looking through my big yellow book here that has the recommendations from the 1965 Constitutional Study Commission, and I found that they had recommended that this section be deleted from the Constitution, and I took it at face value and thought "Why should we put it in the Constitution?" The next day it was up on the calendar and we got into all kinds of discussions on the floor that surprised me; and then, after the discussion, I noted a number of lobbyists lurking about the outer chambers for the private companies, and then in the afternoon came a number of lobbyists lurking again, except from the REC's. And so we've had lobbyists lurking about as though we're in the Legislature's business, and I'm sorry to suspect that we are getting into the Legislature's business. I have no objection to the Legislature considering this matter of the territorial integrity and the battle between the REA's and the private power companies, and I think battle between the REA's and the private power companies should be sent to the Legislative Assembly, and if we would kill this amendment and just repeal Section 139 and be silent on the matter, then the Legislature can continue to deal with the question of territorial integrity, as they have for the last few years.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Would Delegate Litten yield to a question?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Yes, I will.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Would this apply to counties, too?

DELEGATE LITTEN: I'm just looking here. Pardon me, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: I don't have a line number, delegates, but the next-to-the-last line applies to cities — "within any city without requiring the consent of the governing body of that city." It has no bearing on the counties.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, Mr. President and Ladies and Gentlemen:
