

Debates
of the North Dakota Constitutional Convention
of 1972

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY of the
NORTH DAKOTA
CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION
of 1972
TWO VOLUMES
VOL. I & VOL. II

FRANK WENSTROM, President
WILLISTON

WILLIAM PEARCE, 1st Vice President
BISMARCK

STANLEY SAUGSTAD, 2nd Vice President
MINOT

LOIS VOGEL, Secretary
FARGO

EDITED, INDEXED AND ARRANGED
By DEAN F. BARD

Printed By QUALITY PRINTING SERVICE
DIVISION OF BISMARCK TRIBUNE CO.
BISMARCK, NORTH DAKOTA
1972

"Buy North Dakota Products"

FOREWORD

On April 28, 1972, the people of this state rejected the proposed Constitution of 1972 by a clear and decisive majority. With the force of a thunderclap, the product of nearly two years of intense activity, painstaking research and study, and endless hours of dialogue, persuasion and compromise was soundly defeated. For many, it was heartrending to see an object so carefully constructed and nourished die before it could bear fruit.

Without attempting to pass judgement on whether the majority of the electors voted as informed persons and were not swayed by false doubts and misinformation about the new document, it should be emphasized that the disapproval by the voters did nothing to cure the defects in the 1889 Constitution under which we are currently operating. Constitutional revision is, and should be, a continuing process. To that end, it is hoped that this volume will be useful. It has been indexed and arranged in a manner which will enable the user to gain information on a given subject dealt with by convention delegates by use of the subject matter index. The proposal index sets forth all relevant actions affecting proposals and resolutions, permitting a review of the progress of each. In the delegate index, remarks made on the convention floor are cataloged by subject. This latter index should prove particularly interesting and useful to historical scholars for one can easily obtain the convictions and philosophies expressed by individual delegates. Of course, it was not feasible to index each set of remarks, so the listing, although nearly so, is not totally complete. Instances where an expression merely supported or opposed a subject under consideration without any further reasoning or explanation given for the position were not included since usually little of substance was added to the discussion. Also, remarks made by President Wenstrom and Chief Clerk Gilbreath were not included in the index where the subject dealt with related merely to convention procedure or administrative detail.

The reader will notice that only a minimal amount of editing has been performed. Convention officials were of the belief, the opinion concurred in by this writer, that extensive editing, while serving to make the finished product more readable, would do so only at the expense of the speaker's meaning. Thus, it was only where obvious grammatical errors and errors of substance in factual matters were evident that corrections were made. And, where there was doubt as to the meaning intended to be conveyed, even these corrections were not made. Apologies are tendered in advance to those persons who may be offended by the informal style afforded by common conversation as found in this work. It is felt that the original intent was much better captured and retained by limiting the editing function in this fashion.

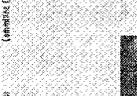

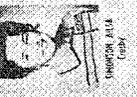

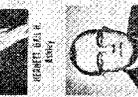

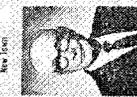

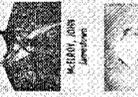

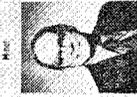

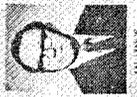

An explanatory note must be added concerning what this document does not contain. Only occasional references will be found mentioning the organizational session held on April 6, 7 and 8, 1971 and the interim committee period, which took place between the dates of May 20, 1971 and November 17, 1971. Since these portions of the convention's activity were not recorded verbatim by reporter, they could not be included in this volume. However, a record of these proceedings was made by electronic recording means and the tapes are on file with the State Historical Society for the future use of historians and students of Constitutional processes.

Most assuredly, the process of constitutional change will continue in this state. Whether its tempo will be increased or diminished by the effect of the Constitutional Convention of 1972 is as yet unknown. One fact does become clear however, and can not be denied — the 98 delegates to the Constitutional Convention of 1972 created a document through diligence and perservance that no one need apologize for, no one need feel regret over.

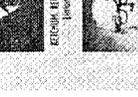

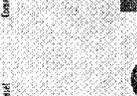

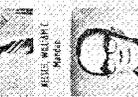

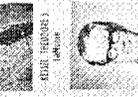

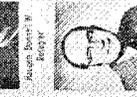

Quorum pars magna fui!

It is to these 98 that this volume is affectionally and justifiably dedicated.

Dean F. Bard

NORTH DAKOTA CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION 1972

BRUCE J. JOHNSON
Chairman

WILLIAM J. JENSEN
President

Delegates to the 1971-1972 North Dakota Constitutional Convention, by Districts

Dist. No.	Name	Home Address	Occupation	Marital Status	Where Born	Birth Date
1	Mrs. Frank F. (Elvira) Jestrab	Williston	Optometrist	Married	Minnesota	1917
1	Frank A. Wenstrom	Williston	Banker	Married	North Dakota	1903
2	Mrs. Arthur (Ailsa) Simonson	Crosby	Newspaper Writer	Married	Iowa	1922
2	Myron J. Wallin	Crosby	Insurance and Real Estate	Married	North Dakota	1923
3	Elmer W. Cart	Minot	Retired	Widower	Iowa	1891
3	Henry P. Sullivan	Mohall	County Justice	Widower	Minnesota	1907
4	Clare H. Aubol	New Town	Aubol's Inc.	Single	North Dakota	1936
4	Gary L. Lerberg	Parshall	Banker	Married	North Dakota	1925
5	Lynn W. Aas	Minot	Business Mgr., Clinic	Married	North Dakota	1921
5	C. W. (Bill) Baker	Minot	Radio Announcer	Married	North Dakota	1915
5	John D. Decker	Minot	Real Estate	Married	Montana	1917
5	Richard (Dick) R. Dobson	Minot	Newspaper Reporter	Married	North Dakota	1935
5	Sylvan E. Hubrig	Minot	Union Administrator	Married	North Dakota	1926
5	Wayne G. Sanstead	Minot	Teacher	Married	Arkansas	1935
6	J. K. (Kris) Benson	Upham	Farmer - Rancher	Married	North Dakota	1918
6	Lawrence (Larry) A. Rosendahl	Westhope	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1916
7	D. Kyle Miller	Bantry	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1924
7	Stanley Saugstad	Minot	Farmer and Appraiser	Married	North Dakota	1908
8	Earl W. Chase	Washburn	Pharmacist	Married	North Dakota	1922
8	Donnell Haugen	Roseglen	Insurance	Married	North Dakota	1907
9	Clarence A. Larsen	Agate	Farmer	Single	North Dakota	1907
9	Eugene J. Nicholas	Bisbee	Farmer - Rancher	Married	North Dakota	1945
10	Earl Bassingthwaite	Sarles	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1907
10	Donald W. Quam	Langdon	Transportation	Married	North Dakota	1926
11	H. Jackson Fiedler	Cavalier	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1901
11	W. Grant Trenbeath	Neche	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1916
12	Robert D. Hartl	Rugby	Attorney	Married	North Dakota	1937
12	S. F. (Buckshot) Hoffner	Esmond	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1924
13	Myron Birkeland	New Rockford	Automobile Dealer	Married	North Dakota	1933
13	Thomas A. Roney	Carrington	Banker	Married	South Dakota	1920
14	Alvin Berg	McClusky	Mortician	Married	North Dakota	1918
14	Stanley J. Kwako	Heaton	Banker	Married	North Dakota	1913
15	Fred Hoghaug	Devils Lake	Banker	Married	North Dakota	1910
15	Neil Thompson	Devils Lake	Attorney	Married	North Dakota	1926
16	Arden Burbidge	Park River	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1918
16	Robert L. Burke	Grafton	Attorney	Married	North Dakota	1909
17	Terence (Terry) P. Devine	Lakota	Attorney	Married	North Dakota	1937
17	Joseph S. Lamb	Michigan	Banker	Married	North Dakota	1934
18	Mrs. Stella H. Fritzell	Grand Forks	Retired Stockbroker	Widow	North Dakota	1909
18	Mrs. Loran (Elynor) Hendrickson	Grand Forks	Housewife	Married	Colorado	1917
18	Edward K. Lander	Grand Forks	Businessman	Married	North Dakota	1922
18	George Longmire	Grand Forks	Attorney	Married	Tennessee	1915
18	Lloyd B. Omdahl	Grand Forks	College Instructor	Married	North Dakota	1931
18	George M. Unruh, Sr.	Grand Forks	Businessman	Married	New York	1920
19	James P. Griffin, D.D.S.	Larimore	Dentist	Married	Iowa	1905
19	James R. Hougen	Larimore	Businessman	Married	North Dakota	1929
20	Ralph E. Diehl	Hillsboro	Farmer	Married	Iowa	1905
20	Mrs. Lloyd (Irene) Sondreal	Buxton	Housewife	Married	North Dakota	1916
21	Francis J. Butler	Fargo	Executive - Retail Merchandising	Married	North Dakota	1911

Delegates of the North Dakota Constitutional Convention, 1972 — (Continued)

Dist. No.	Name	Home Address	Occupation	Marital Status	Where Born	Birth Date
21	James R. Dawson	Fargo	Insurance	Married	North Dakota	1925
21	C. Warner Litten	Fargo	Business Manager - Clinic	Married	Missouri	1914
21	Ralph B. Maxwell	West Fargo	Judge	Married	North Dakota	1919
21	John D. Paulson	Fargo	Editor	Married	North Dakota	1915
21	Frederick B. Scheel	Fargo	Businessman	Married	Minnesota	1921
21	Mrs. Charles (Jeannette) Stanton	Fargo	Housewife	Married	Minnesota	1917
21	Mrs. Mart (Lois) Vogel	Fargo	Housewife	Married	North Dakota	1914
22	H. G. (George) Poulson	Wheatland	Banker	Married	North Dakota	1924
22	George A. Sinner	Cassleton	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1928
23	Mrs. Lyle (Helen) Bender	Cooperstown	Housewife	Married	North Dakota	1910
23	Thomas J. Brakke	Aneta	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1922
24	Eugene G. Huckle	Valley City	Retired	Married	North Dakota	1906
24	Muriel P. Wicks, D.D.S.	Valley City	Dentist	Divorced	New Mexico	1913
25	Perry H. Engstrom, M.D.	Wahpeton	Surgeon & Teacher	Married	Pennsylvania	1924
25	Wallace E. Warner	Wahpeton	Judge	Married	North Dakota	1916
26	LeRoy Erickson	DeLamere	Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1926
26	Nicholas Schmit	Wyndmere	Building Mover	Married	North Dakota	1917
27	Mrs. Agnes Geelan	Fargo	Retired	Widow	North Dakota	1896
27	Theodore F. Kessel	LaMoure	Attorney	Married	North Dakota	1912
28	James O. Billey	Ellendale	Farmer	Married	South Dakota	1935
28	Mrs. Betty J. Daniels	Oakes	Farmer	Widow	South Dakota	1926
29	John E. McElroy	Jamestown	Farmer - Rancher	Married	North Dakota	1914
29	Roland E. Meidinger	Jamestown	Businessman	Married	North Dakota	1913
29	David E. Nething	Jamestown	Attorney	Married	North Dakota	1933
29	Kenneth Urdahl, Sr.	Jamestown	Businessman	Married	Minnesota	1907
30	Gail H. Hernett	Ashley	Banker	Married	Minnesota	1909
30	William E. Kretschmar	Venturia	Attorney	Single	Minnesota	1933
31	Robert C. Fallgatter	Steele	Rancher	Married	North Dakota	1918
31	Kenneth K. Ketchum	Linton	Businessman	Married	North Dakota	1918
32	Joseph D. Byrne	Bismarck	Insurance	Married	North Dakota	1914
32	Vance K. Hill	Bismarck	Attorney	Married	North Dakota	1935
32	James K. O'Toole, M.D.	Bismarck	Psychiatrist	Married	North Dakota	1928
32	William R. Pearce	Bismarck	Attorney	Married	Indiana	1910
32	I. E. (Esky) Solberg	Bismarck	Public Relations	Married	North Dakota	1905
32	Robert C. Tudor, M.D.	Bismarck	Pediatrician	Married	Minnesota	1913
33	Darold Benz	Beulah	Insurance - Farmer	Married	North Dakota	1939
33	Rudolf C. Hildebrand	Hazen	Farmer	Married	South Dakota	1917
34	William G. Engelter, Jr.	Mandan	Attorney	Married	North Dakota	1944
34	William C. Kelsch	Mandan	Attorney	Married	North Dakota	1932
35	David M. Gipp	Fort Yates	Indian Agency Administrator	Single	North Dakota	1946
35	Ernest Peters	Lark	Retired	Married	Wisconsin	1905
36	Ralph M. Christensen	Watford City	Businessman	Married	North Dakota	1911
36	Mrs. Clarence (Cecelia) Rude	Watford City	Insurance	Married	North Dakota	1914
37	A. L. (Tony) Binek	Dickinson	City Commissioner	Married	North Dakota	1907
37	Mrs. Gilman (Bea) Peterson	New England	Housewife	Married	Iowa	1916
38	Theodore (Ted) S. Hardmeyer	Mott	Implement Dealer	Married	North Dakota	1919
38	Kenneth Knudson	Taylor	Farmer	Single	North Dakota	1927
39	Allen R. McIntyre	Hettinger	Radio	Married	North Dakota	1937
39	Earl Rundle	New England	Farmer - Rancher	Married	North Dakota	1906

PROFESSIONAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF

Executive Director	Dean F. Bard	Bismarck
Assistant Executive Director	David Peterson	Bismarck
Committee Counsel	Dwight Cuffe	Bismarck
Committee Counsel	Michael Keedy	Bismarck
Information Director	Arnie Gilje	Carrington
Receptionist - Bookkeeper	Mary Alice Simonson	Bismarck
Editor	Barbara Benish	Bismarck
Secretary	Marion Ehli	Bismarck
Secretary	Mary Lee	Bismarck
Secretary	Jane Thoemke	Bismarck
Secretary to the President	Donna Heisler	Mandan
Taping Clerk	Deborah Erickson	Mandan
Intern	Eric DeRycke	Grand Forks
Intern	John Dwyer	Grand Forks
Intern	Roderick Schuster	Fargo

PLENARY SESSION EMPLOYEES

Chief Clerk	Roy Gilbreath	Bismarck
Assistant Chief Clerk	Leo Liedholm	Underwood
Desk Reporter	Barbara King	Williston
Proposal Clerk	Vernon Asheim	Mohall
Sergeant-At-Arms	Cecil Crandell	Bismarck
Calendar Clerk	Florence Nemer	Bismarck
Chief Committee Clerk	Lois J. Scherr	Bismarck
Chief Page	Clara Wendt	Bismarck
Chief Journal Room Clerk	Al Bradley	Rock Lake
Committee Clerk	Louise Ebert	Bismarck
Committee Clerk	Lela Knudson	Bismarck
Committee Clerk	Dorothy Litchfield	Bismarck
Committee Clerk	Meg Rausch	Bismarck
Committee Clerk	Carolyn Sette	Bismarck
Committee Clerk	Karen Sando	Bismarck
Stenographer	JoAnn Owens	Bismarck
Enrolling and Engrossing Clerk	Bernice Herner	Mandan
Enrolling and Engrossing Clerk	Marie Skjod	Mandan
Enrolling and Engrossing Clerk	Vonnie Wold	Bismarck
Journal Proofreader	Frieda Borth	Bismarck
Journal Proofreader	Gertrude Learn	Bismarck
Assistant Sergeant-At-Arms	Ed Garvin	Bismarck
Assistant Sergeant-At-Arms	Harry Iszler	Streeter
Assistant Sergeant-At-Arms	Palmer Rustan	Minot
Telephone Clerk	Gladys Derrick	Bismarck
Telephone Clerk	Shelly Mushik	Bismarck
Telephone Clerk	Marjorie Trangsrud	Devils Lake
Page	Marjorie Cleveland	Wilton
Page	Wanda Froelich	Mandan
Page	Ruth Guthrie	Bismarck
Page	Avis Hagen	Bismarck
Page	Terryle Olson	Fargo
Page	Olger Sandven	York
Journal Room Clerk	Larry Dorrheim	Bismarck
Journal Room Clerk	Hazel Lademann	Bismarck
Journal Room Clerk	Tom Tharalson	Bismarck
Parking Lot Attendant	Keith Harrison	Bismarck
Parking Lot Attendant	Fred Hetterle	Bismarck
Contract Enroller and Engrosser	Leroy E. Rolshoven	Bismarck
Contract Verbatim Reporter	Alvin T. Emineth	Bismarck
Contract Verbatim Reporter	Norman Mark	Fargo

SUBSTANTIVE COMMITTEES

EDUCATION, RESOURCES AND PUBLIC LANDS

R. E. MEIDINGER, Chairman	KENNETH KNUDSON
ELVIRA JESTRAB, Vice Chairwoman	EDWARD LANDER
DAROLD BENZ	CLARENCE LARSEN
JAMES O. BILLEY	C. WARNER LITTEN
RALPH CHRISTENSEN	BEA PETERSON
TERRY DEVINE	HARRY G. POULSON
PERRY ENGSTROM	WAYNE SANSTEAD
STELLA FRITZELL	HENRY SULLIVAN
P. J. GRIFFIN

EXECUTIVE FUNCTIONS

GAIL HERNETT, Chairman	VANCE K. HILL
CECELIA RUDE, Vice Chairwoman	DAVID NETHING
C. W. BAKER	LARRY ROSENDAHL
MYRON BIRKELAND	FREDERICK SCHEEL
TOM BRAKKE	AILSA SIMONSON
JOSEPH BYRNE	IRENE SONDRAL
EARL CHASE	LOIS VOGEL
JAMES R. DAWSON

FINANCE AND TAXATION

DONNELL HAUGEN, Chairman	JOHN McELROY
ROBERT BURKE, Vice Chairman	KYLE MILLER
LYNN AAS	EUGENE NICHOLAS
A. L. BINEK	DON QUAM
ELMER CART	STANLEY SAUGSTAD
LeROY ERICKSON	GRANT TRENBEATH
KENNETH KETCHUM	GEORGE UNRUH
GARY LERBERG

JUDICIAL FUNCTIONS AND POLITICAL SUBDIVISIONS

GEORGE LONGMIRE, Chairman	FRED HOGHAUG
THOMAS RONEY, Vice Chairman	JAMES HOUGEN
CLARE AUBOL	THEODORE KESSEL
EARL BASSINGTHWAITE	WILLIAM KRETSCHMAR
WILLIAM ENGELTER	EARL RUNDLE
ROBERT FALLGATTER	MYRON WALLIN
DAVID GIPP	WALLACE WARNER
ROBERT HARTL

LEGISLATIVE FUNCTIONS

S. F. HOFFNER, Chairman	STANLEY J. KWAKO
TED HARDMEYER, Vice Chairman	ALLEN McINTYRE
J. K. BENSON	LLOYD OMDAHL
ALVIN BERG	JOHN D. PAULSON
FRANCIS BUTLER	WILLIAM R. PEARCE
RALPH DIEHL	ERNEST PETERS
DICK DOBSON	GEORGE SINNER
ELYNOR HENDRICKSON	I. E. SOLBERG
RUDOLPH HILDEBRAND	JEANNETTE STANTON
WILLIAM KELSCH	MURIEL WICKS

PREAMBLE, BILL OF RIGHTS AND SUFFRAGE

RALPH MAXWELL, Chairman
JOHN DECKER, Vice Chairman
HELEN BENDER
ARDEN BURBIDGE
BETTY DANIELS
H. JACKSON FIEDLER
AGNES GEELAN
SYLVAN HUBRIG

EUGENE HUCKLE
JOSEPH LAMB
JAMES O'TOOLE
NICHOLAS SCHMIT
NEIL THOMPSON
ROBERT TUDOR
KENNETH URDAHL, Sr.

PROCEDURAL COMMITTEES

BUDGET

WILLIAM PEARCE, Chairman
JOSEPH LAMB, Vice Chairman
C. W. BAKER

C. WARNER LITTEN
THOMAS RONEY

CALENDAR

STANLEY SAUGSTAD, Chairman
DONNELL HAUGEN
GAIL HERNETT
S. F. HOFFNER

GEORGE LONGMIRE
RALPH MAXWELL
R. E. MEIDINGER

COORDINATION AND TRANSITION

JOSEPH BYRNE, Chairman
VANCE HILL, Vice Chairman
JAMES BILLEY
ROBERT BURKE
FRANCIS BUTLER

EARL CHASE
DAVID NETHING
GEORGE SINNER
NEIL THOMPSON
WALLACE WARNER

CONSTITUTIONAL BALLOT

JAMES DAWSON, Chairman
EARL CHASE, Vice Chairman
J. K. BENSON
JAMES BILLEY
LEROY ERICKSON
H. JACKSON FIEDLER
FRED HOGHAUG
THEODORE KESSEL

SYLVAN HUBRIG
JOSEPH LAMB
EDWARD LANDER
GARY LERBERG
JOHN McELROY
ALLEN McINTYRE
JEANNETTE STANTON

EMPLOYMENT

C. WARNER LITTEN, Chairman
JOSEPH BYRNE
FRED HOGHAUG
KENNETH KNUDSON

JOSEPH LAMB
WAYNE SANSTEAD
I. E. SOLBERG

ENROLLING AND ENGROSSING

LEROY ERICKSON, Chairman
CLARE AUBOL
STANLEY KAWKO

JEANNETTE STANTON
KENNETH URDAHL, Sr.

PHOTOGRAPHY

JOHN DECKER, Chairman
DAVID GIPP

ELYNOR HENDRICKSON

PUBLIC INFORMATION

DICK DOBSON, Co-Chairman
JOHN D. PAULSON, Co-Chairman
EARL BASSINGTHWAITE
DAROLD BENZ
ALVIN BERG
MYRON BIRKELAND
TOM BRAKKE
RALPH DIEHL
STELLA FRITZELL
P. J. GRIFFIN
EDWARD LANDER

ALLEN McINTYRE
LLOYD OMDAHL
BEA PETERSON
HARRY G. POULSON
EARL RUNDLE
AILSA SIMONSON
I. E. SOLBERG
IRENE SONDRAL
HENRY SULLIVAN
MYRON WALLIN

RESOLUTIONS

FREDERICK SCHEEL, Chairman
A. L. BINEK, Vice Chairman
BETTY DANIELS
WILLIAM ENGELTER
ROBERT HARTL
RUDOLPH HILDEBRAND
THEODORE KESSEL
WILLIAM KRETSCHMAR

CLARENCE LARSEN
GARY LERBERG
JOHN McELROY
ERNEST PETERS
LARRY ROSENDAHL
JEANNETTE STANTON
NEIL THOMPSON

RULES

AGNES GEELAN, Chairman
WILLIAM KELSCH, Vice Chairman
ROBERT FALLGATTER
SYLVAN HUBRIG

STANLEY SAUGSTAD
GRANT TRENBEATH
MURIEL WICKS

STYLE AND DRAFTING

GEORGE UNRUH, Chairman
ELMER CART, Vice Chairman
DICK DOBSON
ELYNOR HENDRICKSON
JAMES HOUGEN
ELVIRA JESTRAB
WILLIAM KELSCH

KENNETH KNUDSON
WILLIAM KRETSCHMAR
RALPH MAXWELL
ROBERT TUDOR
KENNETH URDAHL
LOIS VOGEL

HISTORY OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION OF 1972

House concurrent resolution number 16, passed by the 41st Legislative Assembly, provided for placing a constitutional amendment on the September 1970 primary election ballot calling for a Constitutional Convention. Representative William Kelsch of Mandan sponsored this resolution, which passed the house by a vote of 72 to 19 and received the approval of the senate by a vote of 45 to 0. The resolution was signed by Governor William Guy on March 27, 1969. On September 2, 1970, the North Dakota electorate approved the amendment by a vote of 56,734 to 40,094.

House bill number 485 of the 41st Legislative Assembly, set forth the procedures for selecting Convention delegates and for running the Convention's organizational and plenary sessions. House bill number 485 is found in chapter 462 of the 1969 North Dakota Session Laws.

House bill number 485 provided for a nominating commission consisting of the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general. These three public officials met in the State Capitol at Bismarck in September of 1970 and nominated 98 Convention delegates, whose names were to be placed on the November ballot. In addition to these 98, 141 other individual candidates filed for delegate seats. A general election was held in North Dakota on November 3, 1970, and at this election the North Dakota electorate picked the 98 Convention delegates. It is interesting to note that of the 141 candidates petitioning for delegate positions, only 24 were able to displace nominating commission candidates and obtain a Convention berth.

The 42nd Legislative Assembly passed two bills which directly concerned the Constitutional Convention. House bill number 1033 appropriated $600,000 for the Convention. House bill number 1484 amended chapter 462 of the North Dakota Session Laws of 1969 by removing the three-day limitation on the organizational session, by directing state agencies to provide assistance to the Convention, and by calling upon the Governor to order a special election on the Convention's proposals between sixty and one hundred and fifty days after adjournment. The amendment to chapter 462 also provided that the Convention could recess for as many as ten days during its thirty-day plenary session and provided regulation for lobbyists.

Governor William L. Guy called the Convention to order at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, April 6, 1971. The Convention held a three-day organizational session during which Frank A. Wenstrom, Williston, was elected president; William R. Pearce, Bismarck, as First Vice President; Stanley Saugstad, Minot, as Second Vice President and Lois Vogel, Fargo, as Secretary. The organizational session also saw the establishment of six substantive committees, as follows: Education, Resources and Public Lands, chaired by R. E. Meidinger of Jamestown; Executive Functions, chaired by Gail Hernet of Ashley; Finance and Taxation, chaired by Donnell Haugen of Roseglen; Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, chaired by George Longmire of Grand Forks; Legislative Functions, chaired by S. F. Hoffner of Esmond; and the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee, chaired by Ralph Maxwell of West Fargo. Five procedural committees were also created and this number was later increased to eleven.

Following the organizational session, the Convention recessed to begin the task of organizing its administrative machinery and to usher in the work of interim committees. Dean F. Bard, a Bismarck attorney, was selected as executive director of the Convention, and on May 20 a meeting of Convention officers and substantive committee chairmen and vice chairmen was held. Ground rules for the operation of the interim committees were laid at this meeting. The Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands, the first substantive committee to convene, held a three-day meeting beginning on June 15. Other committees soon followed and by the end of June all six substantive committees had met once for either two- or three-day sessions. Throughout the summer and fall the substantive committees of the Convention continued to meet, with a total of seventy-one meeting-days being utilized for the six committees' work. During this period, those sections of the constitution that had been assigned to it were carefully studied by each committee. Before deciding what changes were to be recommended in these sections, delegates studied staff memoranda and other materials to give them the background and knowledge necessary to make informed policy decisions. Testimony was collected from a number of citizens and special interest groups, both at the substantive committee hearings held in Bismarck — all of which were open to the public — and at the 16 special public hearings, each of which was held in a different city within the state during the month of September. Suggestions for constitutional revision termed "citizen-ideas" totaling exactly one hundred in number, were received and considered by the six substantive committees. Proposals introduced by individual delegates were deliberated and reported on, and many of the committee recommendations reflected an incorporation of concepts from this source. The last committee to meet during the interim period, the committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, finished its work on November 17, 1971, and interim reports were then prepared by the staff setting out each committee's finding and recommendations. These reports were bound into one document entitled "Interim Report-North Dakota Constitutional Convention." Also received during the month of November was notice of a grant award from the Housing and Urban Development Agency in the amount of $44,189 for professional staff assistance relating to research and planning activities of the Convention.

On January 3, 1972, the Convention met in Plenary Session for thirty session days of dialogue to make final decisions on proposals that were under study by the substantive committees. The full statutory recess period of ten days was used during which time the Style and Drafting Committee remained in session to place the document in its final form. The final draft of the proposed constitution was adopted on February 17, 1972 with all delegates approving the draft except four. Three delegates were absent for the final vote, thus 91 members voted their approval of the new document. Having completed its work, the Plenary Session adjourned sine die at 3:38 p.m. on Thursday, February 17, 1972 after presenting tokens of esteem and appreciation to President Wenstrom, a number of Delegates, and staff members. Delegates then journeyed home to begin the public information phase of the convention's work. During the period from February 17 to Friday, April 28, 1972, the day established by the governor for the special election on the new constitution, Delegates took advantage of every opportunity to appear before the public and explain the provisions of the new document. A program designed to inform and assist voters was undertaken at a cost of approximately $60,000 and was supervised by an executive committee of the public information committee.

Strong opposition to ratification of the new constitution was advanced, spearheaded by the North Dakota AFL-CIO and the National Farmer's Organization. The campaign against adoption, which for the most part was confined to the two-week period immediately preceding the special election, was telling, as the Proposed Constitution of 1972 went down to defeat by a lopsided vote of 107,643 opposed, to 64,073 favoring the document. In the balloting on the alternates, North Dakota voters chose the bicameral over the unicameral form of Legislative Assembly by a margin of 109,146 to 48,217, decided against giving full adult status to 18 to 20-year olds by a vote of 102,151 to 63,223, approved an increase in the signature requirements for initiative and referendum 76,585 to 71,062, and ratified the concept of permitting the Legislative Assembly to decide whether lotteries and gift enterprises should be allowed by a vote of 93,137 to 68,148. The vote on the alternate proposals was, of course, purely advisory only, since the main proposition, which they would have affected, failed to pass.

The staff offices closed on May 9, 1972, and the Debates of the Constitutional Convention of 1972, the contents of this publication, were edited, indexed, arranged and published during the summer and early fall of 1972. On September 30, 1972, with all assigned tasks completed in accordance with statutory directives, and in concurrence with the date of expiration of the Housing and Urban Development professional assistance grant, all activity of the convention ceased, and the Constitutional Convention of 1972 passed into history.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

First Plenary Session Day, January 3, 1972	1
Second Plenary Session Day, January 4, 1972	27
Third Plenary Session Day, January 5, 1972	97
Fourth Plenary Session Day, January 6, 1972	115
Fifth Plenary Session Day, January 7, 1972	141
Sixth Plenary Session Day, January 10, 1972	175
Seventh Plenary Session Day, January 11, 1972	187
Eighth Plenary Session Day, January 12, 1972	213
Ninth Plenary Session Day, January 13, 1972	257
Tenth Plenary Session Day, January 14, 1972	283
Eleventh Plenary Session Day, January 17, 1972	349
Twelfth Plenary Session Day, January 18, 1972	387
Thirteenth Plenary Session Day, January 19, 1972	429
Fourteenth Plenary Session Day, January 20, 1972	461
Fifteenth Plenary Session Day, January 21, 1972	509
Sixteenth Plenary Session Day, January 24, 1972	563
Seventeenth Plenary Session Day, January 25, 1972	613
Eighteenth Plenary Session Day, January 26, 1972	673
Nineteenth Plenary Session Day, January 27, 1972	777
Twentieth Plenary Session Day, January 28, 1972	865
Twenty-first Plenary Session Day, January 31, 1972	937
Twenty-second Plenary Session Day, February 1, 1972	1045
Twenty-third Plenary Session Day, February 2, 1972	1137
Twenty-fourth Plenary Session Day, February 3, 1972	1229
Twenty-fifth Plenary Session Day, February 9, 1972	1347
Twenty-sixth Plenary Session Day, February 10, 1972	1421
Twenty-seventh Plenary Session Day, February 11, 1972	1503
Twenty-eighth Plenary Session Day, February 14, 1972	1549
Twenty-ninth Plenary Session Day, February 15, 1972	1633
Thirtieth Plenary Session Day, February 17, 1972	1745
Proposed Constitution of 1972	Appendix A 1791
Official Abstract of Votes Cast at Special Election on Proposed Constitution of 1972	Appendix B 1815
Index to Committee Proposals	1817
Index to Delegate Proposals	1857
Index to Alternate Proposals	1871
Index to Redraft Proposals	1875
Index to Resolutions	1881
Index to Remarks by Delegates and Individuals	1885
Index to Subjects	1959

VOLUME I
(January 3, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(At the hour of ten o'clock A.M., on the 3rd day of January, 1972, being the day and hour designated by the Convention Rules of the Constitutional Convention of the State of North Dakota, the delegates elect of the Constitutional Convention assembled in the House Chamber of the State Capitol Building at Bismarck, North Dakota, and were called to order by the Convention President, The Honorable Frank A. Wenstrom, and the proceedings were had as follows:)

PRESIDENT FRANK A. WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

The North Dakota Constitutional Convention is now being opened in compliance with Rule 38 of the Convention Rules, which directs that the Plenary Session of the Convention shall commence at ten o'clock A.M. on the 3rd day of January, 1972. In conformity with well-established custom and, I know, in conformity with your wishes, we will commence our opening-day ceremonies by asking that The Reverend Charles M. Hill, United Church of Christ, lead us in the invocation. Reverend Hill.

REVEREND CHARLES M. HILL: Would you bow with me, please?

Father, we thank Thee for this high moment in our history. We thank Thee for the common purpose that draws men together, and we would pray now for Thy blessings upon these whom we have set aside for the delicate task of assembling the laws and regulations by which we will govern ourselves. We pray Thee, Father, to bless us with a vision of the responsibility as it is coupled with the heritage of the past and what it means for those who are to come after us. Give us wisdom, give us courage, give us honesty of opinion, and we shall meet the task and challenge of these days. Bless those who govern us, bless all of us, that we might walk in peace with Thee and with our fellows. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you so very, very much, Reverend Hill.

We will proceed by calling the roll of the delegates. Chief Clerk Roy Gilbreath, you will open the key. The delegates will record their presence.

You will close the key. Take the roll.

The roll call indicates 95 present, three absent. A quorum is present.

We will have the Presentation of the Colors by the Eagle Scouts of Bismarck. Following this presentation, we will all remain standing for the Pledge of Allegiance.

(The Eagle Scouts of Bismarck made the Presentation of Colors, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Governor Guy, Father Kuhn, Reverend Hill, Justices of the North Dakota Supreme Court, Elected State Officials, Fellow Delegates to the Convention, Friends:

It is a privilege and I deem it a great honor, first, to be serving as your President, and, second, to act as moderator during this morning's session.

I welcome you to the opening ceremonies of the Plenary Session of the Constitutional Convention — the first to be held in North Dakota since territorial days. We Delegates to the Convention feel especially proud and are greatly honored at having four of the five Judges of the North Dakota Supreme Court with us attending these ceremonies. We are equally proud and honored to have thirteen of the fourteen elected State Officials in attendance here this morning. We thank each of you for departing from your busy schedules, for giving of your limited time, and being with us this day. We wish for you all to know that this extra effort on your part, in order that our day may be made more meaningful, is deeply and sincerely appreciated.

And now a few words to my fellow Delegates. On our return to the Convention this morning, we again find ourselves in this beautiful and more-than-adequate facility known as the House Chamber, the home of the North Dakota

House of Representatives. This chamber is being loaned to us by the State of North Dakota. It will be our home for the duration of the Convention. Here we will hold our debates; here we will give careful consideration to the many complex and important issues as they come before the Convention. May history record that out of this chamber — as the fruits of our labors, our knowledge and foresight — did come a sound and serviceable Constitution, one that did provide the foundation and framework for the full development of our State, and by so doing, assisted in the fulfillment of the aspirations and the just hopes of our citizens.

Our morning's program will continue with the administering of the Oath of Office to any Delegate that did not receive the Oath at the April session of the Convention. Convention records indicate that all Delegates, with the exception of Delegate Francis Butler, have received the Oath of Office.

Delegates Stanton and Dawson, will you please form an escort and present Delegate Francis Butler at the rostrum?

(Delegates Mrs. Charles Stanton and Mr. James R. Dawson escorted Delegate Francis Butler to the rostrum.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Honorable Alvin C. Strutz, Chief Justice of the North Dakota Supreme Court, will administer the Oath of Office.

(The assembly arose.)

CHIEF JUSTICE ALVIN C. STRUTZ: Will you raise your right hand and repeat after me?

I do solemnly swear —

DELEGATE BUTLER: I do solemnly swear —

CHIEF JUSTICE STRUTZ: That I will support the Constitution of the United States —

DELEGATE BUTLER: That I will support the Constitution of the United States —

CHIEF JUSTICE STRUTZ: And the Constitution of the State of North Dakota —

DELEGATE BUTLER: And the Constitution of the State of North Dakota —

CHIEF JUSTICE STRUTZ: And that I will faithfully discharge my duties —

DELEGATE BUTLER: And that I will faithfully discharge my duties —

CHIEF JUSTICE STRUTZ: As Delegate to the North Dakota Constitutional Convention —

DELEGATE BUTLER: As Delegate to the North Dakota Constitutional Convention —

CHIEF JUSTICE STRUTZ: To the best of my ability, so help me God.

DELEGATE BUTLER: To the best of my ability, so help me God.

(The assembly was seated.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates and Friends:

May I call your attention to the Red River High School Band that performed so ably in the hall this morning? This band, a group of young musicians, are truly representative of the students enrolled in the music departments of the Grand Forks Public School System.

Someone in the group threw me a curve, in that they are supposed to be seated in the right balcony, and I don't believe they are.

This fine musical organization is under the able direction of Kenneth M. Larsen. I am happy to report to you that this group of high school musicians have recently received new and great honors. They have been named the North Dakota Governor's Band for 1972. This band opened the Convention activities with an appropriate program of band music. The concert started at nine o'clock and continued until minutes before the opening of this Session.

Director Ken Larsen and members of the high school band, we are greatly appreciative — we are most grateful of your efforts in our behalf. To you, a sincere and heartfelt thank you. (Applause.)

The Bismarck Elks Chorus, a gifted group of local singers, a chorus that has received high honors at the area, state and national levels, will sing to us this morning. The chorus was organized in 1958 and, since that time, has provided entertainment at community functions, banquets, charitable endeavors and many conventions. It was awarded first place in open competition at the Elks National Convention held in Chicago in 1967. The chorus won similar honors at the Elks National Convention held in San Francisco in 1970. It is under the able directorship of Mr. K. K. Kittler, a Bismarck businessman. Its hard-working President is Mike McCormack; its pianist, Robert Orr.

It is with much pleasure that I present to you this outstanding musical organization — the Bismarck Elks Chorus.

(The following musical selections were presented by the Bismarck Elks Chorus: "America," "Go North to North Dakota," "Eternal Father," and "This is My Country.")

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you very, very much, gentlemen, for being with us this morning and for permitting us to enjoy this beautiful music.

At the opening of the Constitutional Convention on April 6th of 1971, I am confident you all will recall that Governor William L. Guy sounded the gavel and brought the Convention into being. On that memorable day, he was here as required by law; today he is again with us — this time, however, at our invitation. Time will not permit me to enumerate the many reasons for our happiness and the great honor you bring to our Convention by your being with us this morning. I shall single out but two:

First, you are here in the distinguished role as Governor and as our State's Chief Executive Officer; secondly, because the records of history indicate that you did join early in your career as Governor with the great majority of your illustrious predecessors, all advocates of constitutional revision and all advocates of governmental reform.

Fellow Delegates, Guests and Friends, I deem it a great honor to present to you our Governor and Chief Executive Officer, The Honorable William L. Guy.
(Standing applause.)

HONORABLE WILLIAM L. GUY: Thank you, President Wenstrom.

Delegates to this historic Convention, young people who are here in the balconies, the Band from Grand Forks, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The Governor's Band from Grand Forks Red River High was selected because it was recommended by the music directors of the colleges and universities over the State; so this band comes here with the credentials of excellence that I know will make it an outstanding Governor's Band in 1972. I am pleased that they were here to add a little pomp and ceremony to the opening of this Session.

The Elks Chorus, incidentally — that grand aggregation — will this year bear the title of the "Governor's Chorus," and they, too, are worthy of all of the accolades that can come their way.

Many times I have stood in this House Chamber to address the Legislature. At those times I had the Constitutional directive to communicate the needs of the State to the Senate and House members and to be a part of the legislative process.

Today I do not have that responsibility and I am here only as a guest of this Convention. I thank you for inviting me to witness the opening of your home stretch Plenary Session.

Several years ago, I was jolted awake at three o'clock in the morning by my bedside phone's insistent ringing. I sleepily asked the operator if it was an emergency. A young voice with a southern accent at the other end of the line assured her that it was an emergency.

"Is this Governor Guy?" the voice asked. I told him it was and I asked who was calling.

"Just call me John," he said. "Tell me, Governor, is there really a North Dakota?"
(Laughter)

I was suddenly incensed.

"Where are you calling from, John?" I asked.

"Ah'm callin' from Florida," he said rather expansively.

"What state is that in, John?" I asked.

(Laughter)

As I hung up, I could faintly hear him explaining: "Why, Florida isn't in a state, man; it is a state."

Well, John had a point. North Dakota is not well known, and populationwise, it is a small state. And to be a small state is somewhat like being the small man on the basketball squad — you have to perform better than the big men to keep a place on the first team.

North Dakota needs to perform better than other states to maintain a respected position in the federal system. In many ways, we perform better than other states now. But we can and must continue to improve. Your being here today is part of that restless desire of a state to improve and excel.

I welcome you back to these beautiful chambers in our State Capitol. By now I know that each of you is well aware of the profound responsibility you have as a delegate to North Dakota's first Constitutional Convention in 82 years.

The voting public has said to you that they are willing to pay the cost of your work. If you serve up a constitution built for the future, it will be well worth the price in taxpayers' dollars and many hours of time you will have contributed.

If the end result of this Convention is only the past warmed up over a timid flame, it will be a costly exercise in both tax dollars and frustration.

Why does North Dakota need a new constitution? This is a question that will be asked over and over. It will be a topic of discussion during coffee breaks. It will be the subject of stories and editorials in newspapers. There will be lectures and debates about it in classrooms. It will be asked in indignation by some who have enjoyed years of comfort from built-in advantage given them by provisions in the old document. The question will be asked in fear by those who hesitate to face the future. It will be asked reluctantly by those who admire anything antique, whether it is a spinning wheel or a state constitution.

There are compelling reasons why North Dakota, or any state, for that matter, needs a modern constitution. In this day and age, we find the tempo of life increasing with each passing year. We also find our state government becoming more complicated year by year. Each session of Congress deepens the maze of federal programs affecting state government. Each legislative session in North Dakota struggles to adopt state and local government to the vital roles they must play in the ever-more-complex federal system.

And where do the voters fit into this federal system of which we are so militantly proud? Is the system designed to serve the voter or the officeholder? Are Joe and Jane Citizen able to keep fully informed about what is going on in state government? Sadly enough, the answer is no.

How can we expect to be fully informed about government? All of us Joes and Janes in our society are under constant pressure day by day just to make a living. Our thoughts are bombarded by a constant stream of new knowledge needed to make that living in our fast-moving technological society. When there is a slack moment, Joe and Jane Citizen's consciousness is invaded by a barrage of attention-getters on every subject under the sun that can be reported by television, radio and newspapers. It is no wonder that Joe and Jane Citizen find little time to think about state government. And when they do, they are bewildered by what is supposed to be a very simple democratic process in which the majority rules.

They are frustrated, too, by their inability to pin responsibility on state officials or focus the spotlight on who is to blame for failure to get things done. And even though we elect many state officials by finding out who gets the most votes, it is impossible for those elected, as well as for those who voted, to determine which elected state officials carry the majority mandate and a mandate for what.

Past generations have designed North Dakota state government as very thin soup, too diluted to be able to distinguish taste or aroma. Neither the legislative branch, nor the executive branch, nor the judicial branch can offer enough nourishment to give the strength that is needed to carry out a respected role in the federal system.

The outlook for the future is for ever-increasing domination by the federal government. Oftentimes this encroachment by the federal government is caused by a citizen hunger for services which goes unnoticed by state or local government. Obviously, a much more vigorous broth should be served up as state government.

Who can really peer very far into the future? Nobody, perhaps, though there are projections which seem quite obvious.

Just finding a place for people to live and work in this Nation in the face of our population explosion will generate many new federal programs. And even though North Dakota may not be jolted by the population explosion, we will be dragged along with all the other states into the jungle of new governmental services and regulations implemented at the federal level.

How can Jane and Joe Citizen as voters be expected to become fully informed about their government when often employees working full-time within government are not able to comprehend all of the aspects of this burgeoning thing called government? In many cases, these employees are not even able to become fully informed on the activities of the department in which they work.

The frustrated public would like to simplify the actions of the three major branches of state government so they can focus on who is responsible and for what. This is where a new state constitution comes on strong.

A new constitution could do many things for the people of North Dakota. It could give them a clear, concise framework for democratic process in government which could be understood without a textbook on law or Latin.

Our constitution could give our legislature, our executive branch and our judicial branch the flexibility they need to keep our State's government abreast of the accelerating change around us. Our state government needs to be able to act and respond quickly and smoothly, rather than be stalled by impasse after impasse brought on by a weak constitution.

We must seek to continually modernize government to make it more effective and more economical. A state constitution which anticipates the future can provide the flexibility for people to make their state government more effective and economical. Or a head-in-the-sand state constitution can reflect a built-in fear of the future and a distrust of the democratic process itself. A constitution based on fear or a distrust of the legislature or the executive branch, or cluttered with unnecessary checks and balances, would be a document which prevents change or prevents the establishment of efficiency and economy in state government.

You have had committees studying the various parts of a constitution. These committees now bring their recommendations to this Plenary Session. Unless the reports of the committees, so carefully woven through hours of hearings and study, are given considerable weight and respect, this Plenary Session could be only an unraveling operation in which the public would be left with a pile of yarn. All of us in North Dakota are on the edge of our chairs watching you now.

It will take a great effort and courage to submerge or suppress our individual prejudices, fears and biases as we view a new constitution. And yet we must accommodate various points of view if we are to have a new instrument which will allow our State to keep abreast of the hours and days and years as they tick away.

I know I speak for the vast majority of North Dakotans in wishing you well in your deliberations. We are grateful to you individually for your personal commitment to this unique public service.

I hope, when you are finished, we can say with greater pride than ever: "Yes, John, there really is a North Dakota. It will always be a great state."

(Standing applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you so very, very much, Governor Guy, for the very stirring address. We are so happy that your schedule was such that you could be with us this morning.

In planning this morning's program, it was determined that a review of the previous efforts toward constitutional revision in North Dakota would be a subject of interest to all attending this Session. To prepare and present this report to the Convention, we have selected one of our Delegates — our efficient Secretary, Lois Vogel.

Mrs. Vogel for years has been a student of state government at its organization. Most recently she has concentrated her studies on state institutions — not only our own, but on many of our sister states as well. She has prepared and presented numerous papers on this important subject.

The title of her report this morning is "Convention Groundwork."

I am pleased that I may present to this Convention our Secretary, Lois Vogel.
(Applause)

DELEGATE LOIS VOGEL: Thank you, Mr. Wenstrom.

Governor Guy, Distinguished Guests, Fellow Delegates and Friends:

North Dakota's first Constitutional Convention since statehood officially opened about forty-five minutes ago at ten o'clock this morning, Monday, January 3, 1972; but everyone here today is quite aware that preparations for this Convention began long ago. I shall take these opening minutes to go back in time and review the work already done which makes it possible for us to convene here today with the purpose and hope of successfully drawing up a new constitution to serve North Dakota for many years.

Sixteen months have passed since the amendment calling for a constitutional convention was approved; fourteen months since delegates were elected. But the need for substantial change in the Constitution was recognized forty-three years ago when Governor Shafer, in his inaugural address in 1929, recommended a "comprehensive program of reconstruction and readjustment in our state system of government from top to bottom." A commission was appointed to make a "comprehensive survey and investigation of the structure, functions, and processes of the entire government of North Dakota, and all municipalities and political subdivisions." When the Commission's report was given to the 1933 Legislature, we were deep in a depression and not much interested in implementing it. However, the recommendations were on record and people involved in government were aware of them.

Then, in 1941, the Legislature appointed a Governmental Study Commission, whose members were Governor John Moses, State Senator Milton Young and State Representative Targie Trydahl, to find out what was wrong with the governmental structure of the State and to recommend a cure for the defects. At this time, the Public Administration Service of Chicago was employed to make a detailed survey. This Commission published its report in December 1942 and distributed a very interesting 19-page pamphlet entitled "You and Your State Government," graphically describing the problems and the Commission's plan for reorganization, which would require amending the Constitution. However, in the words of the report:

"We feel this is so important that it would be unfair to attempt to decide this question while a substantial portion of our citizenry is away from home, their minds occupied with the business of defending our nation in order that we may have free government of any kind."

And so it was shelved. But it was an excellent report, and many people read it and pondered its recommendations. Those most responsible for governing the State — including most of our governors since the twenties and growing numbers of legislators — were increasingly convinced that major changes would have to be made in the Constitution before state government could become what it ought to be.

A major effort at revising the Constitution began in 1963 when the Legislature directed the Legislative Research Committee "with the assistance of outstanding citizens of the State, to conduct a study of the Constitution of the State of North Dakota, and to make its recommendations with regard to the revision thereof." Senator William Reichert was named chairman of the LRC Subcommittee on Constitutional Revision, which included, in addition to legislators, such prominent public members as ex-Governor Fred Aandahl, Judge Adam Gefreh, Thomas Kleppe, Dr. Henry Tomasek of the University of North Dakota Political Science Department, and Jerrold Walden, head of the Law School. The President of this Convention, Frank Wenstrom, and Delegates George Sinner and George Unruh, were also members.

The Committee conducted a careful study of the Constitution over a period of four years and presented its recommendations for extensive revision to the 1965 and 1967 legislative sessions. Most of the recommendations were submitted to the people for approval in the form of several very long constitutional amendments. Unfortunately, the Legislature could not appropriate funds to publicize the amendments or to carry on any sort of program to educate the public. Consequently, most voters went to the polls with very little idea of what changes were being proposed or why. The amendments were defeated.

But, again, the careful work was not wasted. The seeds planted then continued to sprout and some of the recommendations made then are incorporated into the proposals which will be presented on this floor within the next few days. Meanwhile, more and more interest was beginning to focus on the need for revising the Constitution. A number of delegates are here today because their interest was aroused at that time. My own involvement began about that time when the League of Women Voters undertook a study of constitutional revision in 1963.

It was the 1969 Legislature which took the step that finally culminated in this Convention when it proposed an amendment calling for a constitutional convention. The amendment was approved in September 1970 by a vote of 57,700-to-40,000, a clear indication that the people of the State agreed that the time had come to rewrite the Constitution.

The high degree of interest was also shown by the number of people who wanted to be delegates. In addition 98 candidates whose names were presented by the Nominating Commission — Governor Guy, Lieutenant Governor Larsen and Attorney General Johanneson — 141 individuals were nominated by petition. Two hundred thirty-nine names appeared on the ballots in November. The 98 delegates elected were a cross-section of North Dakota — farmers, businessmen, doctors, lawyers, bankers, housewives, teachers, 24-to-79 years old; people with and without experience in government and politics, some whose roots reach back three generations in North Dakota, and some relative newcomers to an adopted state.

A few weeks later, we delegates had our first glimpse of the magnitude and complexity of the job before us when almost all of us took time at the Christmas season to come to Bismarck, at our own expense, to attend a seminar sponsored by Mary College. We heard Joseph Pisciotte, the Executive Director of the recent Illinois Constitutional Convention, George Braden, a consultant to that Convention, Henry Tomasek of the University of North Dakota, Albert Blaustein, Professor of Constitutional Law at Rutgers University, and Robert Meriweather, Professor of Political Science and member of the Arkansas Constitutional Convention, who told us about the conventions in which they had participated, gave us advice about how to proceed with our own, and warned us about pitfalls ahead. We were impressed!

Four months later, on April 6th, we gathered again in Bismarck, the first time officially, for a three-day organizing session, to select officers, adopt rules under which we could carry on our business, and divide ourselves into substantive and procedural committees — a task which, according to Dr. Pisciotte, who had returned to see how we were faring, we could not possibly accomplish in the allotted time. When we had completed what we had come to do, Dr. Pisciotte said that he still couldn't see how it could have been done and that no one else was going to believe it, once again proving that North Dakota is an unusual state. I think the efficiency and harmony displayed in that organizing session is a good omen.

Today, as we gather a second time, we are a much better educated group of delegates. We have had a crash course in state government in the intervening months, far more effective than any civics or political science classes we ever had in school. Our teachers have been many — those in our own and other states who have struggled with problems of constitutional revision; the state officials who came to our committee meetings, some of them a number of times, to explain how the Constitution affects them and to tell us what changes they would or would not like to see, and to answer our questions and submit statements; the representatives of many organizations with particular interest in particular sections of the Constitution, to present arguments for and against proposals being considered; we have learned much from individuals, those who appeared before us and those who submitted individual proposals — more than a hundred of them — which we have carefully considered, adopting some and rejecting others.

We are grateful to the Bureau of Governmental Affairs of the University of North Dakota, which has provided all of us with much carefully-researched background information.

We are particularly grateful to the competent staff, headed by Dean Bard, Executive Director, David Peterson, Assistant Director, and Committee Counsel Dwight Cuffe and Michael Keedy, who have patiently worked long hours keeping the records of committee meetings, digging out information we have asked for, researching problems, writing and rewriting drafts at our direction. Without them, we couldn't have functioned at all.

But, mainly, I think, our teachers have been each other. We have benefited enormously from the exchange of opinions arising from our differing backgrounds, differing experiences, differing viewpoints.

The committee sessions began in June. We recessed for the month of July and then settled down to regularly-scheduled meetings which were not completed until mid-November. Each committee held either four or five two or three-day meetings, and through vacation time, harvest time and back-to-school time committee after committee had perfect attendance — a quite remarkable record.

All committees began their work by examining the sections of the Constitution assigned to them and studying the court decisions interpreting those sections — not an easy task. Some of us who hadn't read our own Constitution last year found ourselves pouring over provisions of other state constitutions, comparing them to ours, discovering where the problems lay. After that, each committee proceeded in its own way to listen and learn and decide.

I think that we surprised even ourselves with the diligence we brought to our committee work. Probably none of us would claim to be experts today, but we are knowledgeable about problems we didn't even know existed a year ago. Some of us have changed our minds, after listening and reading and thinking, about matters we were very sure about once upon a time, and we may change them again as the Convention progresses.

During these months of committee meetings, we have developed tolerance and respect for each other, have learned that those who disagree with us are not necessarily thereby proved wrong. I think that the courtesy, hard work, willingness to learn and dedication so evident in our committee work is another good omen.

All delegates have regularly received detailed minutes of committee meetings, enabling them to keep informed about what the other committees were doing. In addition, we have had six issues of the Constitutional Convention News, prepared by the staff and reporting all activities of the Convention.

Constant efforts have been made to inform and interest the public. Since last August, A. J. Gilje, our Information Director, has been preparing news releases for the weekly papers of the State. Many delegates regularly write newsletters or columns for their local papers. Others have appeared on television and radio programs. In September, special hearings were held in sixteen communities around the State, with six delegates, one from each committee, present at each meeting to tell what the committees were doing, to answer questions, to listen to what the public had to say.

The League of Women Voters has distributed to more than 5,000 people three issues of Constitutional Convention Comments, a most informative discussion of issues, problems and proposals being considered by the Convention.

Individual delegates have driven many miles and spent many hours talking to dozens of groups and organizations, ranging from young people's summer camps to retired teachers' organizations, conventions of legal secretaries and of county judges, county commissioners — anyone who has indicated a willingness to listen. A byproduct of this Convention is a group of exceptionally well-informed men and women, many of them new to state government, accustomed to speaking out in public, whose interest is not going to evaporate with the special election, no matter what the outcome.

The farm organizations, labor groups, political parties, professional and student groups and service clubs are among the many who have involved their members in discussions about the Constitution. And while constitutional revision will probably never be what most people are discussing over their coffee most of the time, the public has learned a lot about a subject which people have generally regarded as too dull, too vague, too complex for their attention. Once a nucleus of interest has been created, information clusters around it and it grows. It is absolutely essential for the success of this Convention that we create that interest and keep it growing.

From the first, the news media — the daily and weekly newspapers, the TV and radio stations — have cooperated in the task of informing the public. Newsmen from all over the State recently attended a symposium in Grand Forks to be briefed on committee proposals and to consider how best to report the Convention. We depended upon these people more than on anyone else other than ourselves to educate the public about what is being done and why, and they have done an amazing job. Last June I heard the clipping service had already gathered several hundred news items about the Convention — more than the LRC subcommittee had had in the four years of its existence. I think this is another good omen.

We have been exposed to many ideas. We have spent much time discussing them. We have decided which we want to include in our committee proposals. Possibly we have rejected some excellent ideas whose time has not yet come. But because we have given them exposure, perhaps they will be accepted when future changes are made, as they inevitably will be. Now the preliminary work is done and the final decisions must be made.

Time spent exploring ideas is never wasted; but we will have wasted our time if we now look backwards instead of ahead into the future. We must examine the past so that we can learn from it; but we must not be bound by it. We must not offer North Dakota, as an alternative to our present Constitution, nothing but a warmed-over nineteenth century document, somewhat tidied up.

I shall conclude now with some words of Shakespeare which are carved at the base of one of the statues flanking the entrance to the National Archives in Washington, the institution which preserves the records of our Nation of the past: "What Is Past Is Prologue."

(Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you so very much, Delegate Vogel. It was wonderful to hear that report and to sort of serve as a refresher to bring back many of the things that have gone before. Even, I'm sure, many of our Delegates have forgotten a number of the things that we worked on last summer. And, Secretary Vogel, it was excellent to hear your version of what has gone on before in constitutional revision.

Fellow Delegates, I have an introduction I would like to make at this time.

Seated with us at the rostrum is our Second Vice President, Stan Saugstad. Stan does not have a special assignment in this morning's program; however, you will hear from him further before the day is out.

Stan has carried out a number of special duties for the Convention during the interim period. He has given freely of his time and his talents to Convention work.

Ladies and gentlemen, our Second Vice President, Stan Saugstad.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Delegate who will next address you is also one of the Convention officers. In his professional life, he is considered by all who know him to be one of North Dakota's most able and talented jurists. In addition to his Convention work as an officer, he has also served efficiently as Chairman of the Budget Committee. Here he has earned for himself the somewhat dubious title of "Watchdog of the Convention Treasury." To me, as Convention President, he has been a pillar of strength and an always-available source of sound advice and counsel.

I am privileged to present our First Vice President, William R. Pearce. His subject: "The Charge to the Convention." Mr. Pearce.

(Applause)

DELEGATE WILLIAM R. PEARCE: Governor Guy, Chief Justice Strutz, all of the many distinguished guests, Fellow Delegates, the vast crowds of citizens who are traveling in the galleries:

I think, rather than "Watchdog of the Treasury," I probably am by now called "Mr. Tightwad." But I'm happy to report, preliminarily, that we have not yet run out of money. That may be one of the few accomplishments that we are able to boast about here.

I did not ask to make a speech this morning. Frank ordered me to! I did not pick the title. Frank did it!

Now, a charge to the Convention, I suppose, is comparable to a charge to the jury, and as a lawyer, and never having been a judge, I have never charged a jury. I have argued to the jury. Consequently, by force of long habit, my charge may be a trifle more exhortatory than a judge's would. I have, of course, listened to some judges charging the jury and thought to myself, "There's more argument in there than there should be," depending on which side I was on. I wish to assure you that, while it would be a joy to talk until noon, I will not take up that much time. I have thought quite a lot, myself, about the duties of this Convention, and each Delegate, and the more I thought, the more I reminded myself that I really don't know exactly what to do; and perhaps some of you were in the same dilemma.

We are met on the one hand by the charge that it is time for us to update, streamline, innovate, be imaginative, get with it. We are met, on the other hand, by "Well, now wait a minute. We don't need that. We want these fundamental things. And if you're going to hand us some new, mod constitution, we'll just hand it right back to you." Now, I don't know which side is right, yet; but I do say that, if we are to have a constitution at all — and, mind you, except that we were required to have one to get into the United States as a state — we might pare the Constitution down to one nice, sonorous little paragraph that says, "We hereby hand the government of the State over to the Legislature; and, boys, try to do a good job," period. Now, we could do that. The Legislature is perfectly capable of setting up the judicial system, the legislative system, all of the State Officials, and providing the manner in which they shall take office, whether it be elective or appointed. In fact, we don't have to have such a big group as the Legislature; we could have a small executive committee. At times in the past, mankind didn't even bother with that large a group; they just gave it to one man and he ran the show.

It is easy to see how government got started. Presumptively, first, some cave-men, when they advanced enough to live in a cave, ran around individually and found that they were rather easy prey for the saber-toothed tiger and the dinosaurs and all of the other ills that plagued the troglodytes of that time. He undoubtedly found a strong friend once in awhile, and they banded together and discovered that they could look in both directions at the same time, which was considerable aid in mutual protection. And so it must have accumulated a little until they began to get too many fellows together and there was too much argument going on about what they should do. So, undoubtedly, one of the stronger men simply beat up on the rest of them, until he was the decider. However, it's difficult to beat up on too many, and so they had to begin to form alliances, and they formed alliances and there were always, of course, inevitably, people in the tribe who were not in this particular group. So, almost at once, you had two groups, and we now call them parties, who fight against each other. Now, in the meantime, sheer power ruled the roost for awhile. But, after awhile, I presume they began to see that there ought to be some kind of rules — principally for the succession of the next powerful man, so that he wouldn't have to survive the ordeal of beating up all the rest of them, if he lived to sit on the throne.

And many kings have not, of course. So we evolved rules, and that we call "government."

Now, many people say, and some people have said to me, I suppose, "You seem to fear government." Well, I don't fear government. I fear my fellowman. I've feared him all my life. I think everybody in the world does. Who starts wars? Who kills people? Who commits crimes? Who steals? Who murders? Men — and I suppose I must now include women, too. So it's men that we are afraid of. It's men who oppress each other. It's men who aren't fair.

Now, men can have a power structure and that can be the government. And so the only government I fear is the government dominated by men. That I fear. And Plato worried about this and he taught that the best government would be a government composed of philosopher-kings — the king for power and the philosopher for his intellectual ability and his tolerance of people. And so we have searched for some of those philosopher-kings and we have found kings sometimes and philosophers. But they always seem to occupy separate bodies and very seldom have they been able to combine them. And so we must struggle along with what we have.

Now, in 1515, Thomas More sat down and started to write a book, "Utopia," and it became an extremely popular book, quoted by philosophers and government people. Now, that was in 1515. That was quite awhile ago. And it — from that book, of course, we got the term "utopia," meaning perfection — political perfection. Of course, actually, "utopia" means nowhere. And that was the right word for it, because nowhere has it ever come about yet. And Plato had written one, of course, quite a long time before Sir Thomas More came on the scene — Plato's "Republic," in which he said the things that he thought ought to be the idea of a republic, and we have had many since and we've had people who have tried to set up small colonies based on some of these ideas. They were almost always communistic in the sense that most of the property had to be owned in common, which is all that "communistic" really means, technically. Somehow or other, people always seemed to want something themselves, whether it was their own wife or their own children or their own ax, or their own suit of clothes, or their own money, and people still do want to keep their own; they are all for dividing it up, if you're dividing the other people's who have more than you have. But to surrender your own in common doesn't seem to jibe with political and personal — personalities — human personalities; they want it. A child doesn't have to be very old to be very jealous of his or her own toys or possessions, and we don't lose that.

Now, why do we have a constitution at all? Why not get along without one? Most of the governments in the world always have. Very few governments have written constitutions, particularly with a supreme court to sit there and say, "Well, now, look! You can't do this, because it isn't within that written document." To many places in the world, that's an incomprehensible idea — just as our form of government is incomprehensible to many parts of the world. The world isn't nearly up to where we think we are. When you sit in your living room and, with the technological wizardry of television, you can see people starving to death in Pakistan live on the evening TV and living in the stone age, obviously we aren't all up to a particular level.

Now, if we are to have a constitution, then it strikes me that we must believe that there are certain fundamental things that ought to be in that constitution. If we don't believe that, why bother to put them in? Why bother with a document at all? If everything is to be in a state of flux and change, let's let it float. Why embody it into a written document at all? So, if we are to have one, presumptively, that's what we're going to put in it — the fundamental principles, the unchanging things, the things that our founding fathers said that "We believe these things to be self-evident." And still, that Declaration, when shown to some people, now raises eyebrows, that it's much too liberal.

Now, if we believe these things, then those are the things we ought to have in the Constitution.

Now, we shouldn't sit around and say, "Well, we don't want those because they're too old, they're outdated;" because, first we must believe that they are fundamental. If something is really fundamental, it's never outdated. If there are certain truths that are self-evident, they should never outdate. People are people.

My father was fifteen years old when our present Constitution was adopted. I don't regard my father as such a different individual or human being than I am. I don't think the things that are important in life have changed since my father's time and me, and I don't think they will change from my sons' or from my grandchildren. The manner in which they live, with the things they eat, the type of clothes they wear, the vehicle that they travel around in, the taxes they pay, may change considerably; but what a man wants out of life — how he thinks when he's in bed alone at night and shuts his eyes and thinks all to himself — that's when a man is true to himself — there's nobody around for him to make a show for — he thinks his own private thoughts — then's when he can confess to himself his own sins, his own mistakes, his own inadequacies — there's no one to keep up a facade for. What are the things you want at those times? That's what you want out of life, really. I think that's what everybody wants. We call that, for the most part, liberty, because for all these many thousands of years men didn't have liberty. Maybe we don't really have liberty yet and maybe we can't ever have it completely. There isn't anyone who thinks we ought to have complete anarchy, unless he's willing to be attacked and stolen from and murdered, or whatever you want. We have to have some rules. So here comes the big question: Where do we draw the line? Where do we draw the line for rules? And, next, to whom do we give the power to draw those lines and draw up the rules? And that's representative government.

Now the people in North Dakota have given the 98 some power — they were careful — not unlimited power. They still didn't want us to pass a constitution finally and put it on the books. This is your constitution. They reserved the ultimate referendum of voting it in or voting it out.

Now, I was always in favor of having a constitutional convention, if the constitution didn't get a word changed, because I felt that it was the only way in which as many people would study the Constitution and think about it and talk about it. There isn't any other way to get that much publicity and that much talk and that much thinking, and people would at least understand and know more about what we already have, because I don't think many people sit around reading the Constitution, even though it is now out in paperback; not for fun, you know. So, even if we didn't change a word, I would say that we have not been a failure.

Now, if we change all the words and the people adopt it, then we will not have been a failure either. We'll have a brand new, updated constitution, dated in 1972, which is what I understand updating means.

Now, somewhere in between — between changing all the words and changing none — is what we will eventually come up with, and I only have this feeling that it is our duty, and this is as much mine as any other individual — we have to think through the fundamental things that we want — the fundamental things. Don't worry about the details, but keep hold of the fundamentals and bear in mind that what we are setting up is not an artificial creature called the government — we're setting up a framework in which people — you, me, the rest of us — will operate. That's what the government is. It's men that make or break.

In the play "Julius Caesar," when they are beginning the plot to overthrow Julius Caesar, the first thing one of them — one of the characters — says — you remember well the first thing — "Let's kill all the lawyers." Well, I always thought that was complimentary to the lawyers, because obviously it meant that they are not going to be able to overthrow the government successfully if they leave any lawyers around to raise any questions about it — perhaps get a writ of injunction against them, ordering them "Don't do this!" So lawyers do have a function. It's a function of government.

And, again, they're talking about Caesar. Bear in mind he's a one-man government, practically, because the senate was doing everything Caesar told them to do, and one man, one character, said — and this is, to me, one of the most profound statements that Shakespeare ever wrote politically — he said, "I had as lief not be, as live to be in awe of such a thing as I myself." Now, that's a very profound statement — I would as leave die as live under a form of government in which I had to be in awe of such a one as I. And that's the essence of democracy, and that's what we must preserve. Maybe we can do some more to it, but every act and every sentence we should have in the Constitution to preserve that form of government — to preserve the necessity never to have to live to be in awe of such a thing as one of us.

Now, that's our duty and our obligation. Now, the things that are not necessary for that, take them out. But unless we put in the fundamentals, we should go home. And that's, I suppose, my charge.

Now, it was an enormous temptation to go merrily along, at least until noon, or at least until Frank begins to wield this rather delicate gavel that he has up here. I look forward to the Convention. I trust that it will not be too often, as I said, that I will be reminded of a verse in the 8th Chapter of Job. You will recall that Job was an extraordinary person. "How long wilt thou speak these things, and how long will the words of thy mouth be like a strong wind?"

(Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you so very, very much, Bill Pearce. I didn't know that I usurped the authority and commanded that my able Vice President should give the charge to this Convention; however, if that's what I did, I am more than happy that I did do just that.

Now, I am very happy to inform you that the Bismarck Elks Chorus has consented to sing one more number. At this time, they're back on their stand and, fellows, will you take over?

(The Elks Chorus presented a musical selection — "Battle Hymn of the Republic.")

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Members of the Bismarck Elks Club, we do thank you most sincerely for coming back. I doubt seriously — I know that I have never heard that hymn sang more beautifully. Thank you so very, very much.

I was informed a few minutes ago that Reverend Father John H. Kuhn of the Church of Christ Catholic Church, would not be able to be with us this morning; so, in his absence, I have asked that Reverend Hill pronounce the benediction. Reverend Hill.

REVEREND CHARLES M. HILL: The doors have been opened, the task set before you, the charges made and the commitment accepted. Let us do that task. Now may God's grace sustain you, may His love surround you, may His spirit fill you, may His protective providence be with you in your deliberations through these days; in Christ's name we pray. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Again thank you, Reverend Hill.

I do now declare this special opening ceremony of North Dakota's Constitutional Convention closed.

The Convention will remain in recess for approximately five minutes, in order that those of our special guests and friends wishing to leave the Chamber may do so. We will come back into session for special announcements.

(The Session recessed at 11:32 A.M. until 11:37 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

Will the Delegates please take their seats?

We had a number of announcements that we would like to make. Several committees have requested early meetings and those that specifically have expressed their desires to meet almost at once is the Committee on Public Information, the Committee on Rules and the Committee on Employment.

Now, I do not know at the moment whether any of our substantive committees wish to meet early this afternoon, but when we come back into session this afternoon, I'm sure that will be decided, and then we can adjust just when we should hold or when we can hold the meetings of the special procedural committees.

One thing I think that we should have explained at this time is the locker system, where the lockers are and how they correspond with each of your individual desks; so I'm going to call on Roy Gilbreath to explain the system to the Delegates at this time. Roy Gilbreath.

CHIEF CLERK ROY GILBREATH: In the front of each desk, on the top, you will see a number — a little brass plate. In your drawer — in most of the drawers, there are a set of keys. These keys are for your drawer and for the locker. There is a locker on the ground floor, where you go into the Blue Room. You don't go all the way into the Blue Room, but as you go into that doorway going into the Blue Room, to your left are lockers. The key on your keyring will correspond to that locker number.

Now, we are shy a couple sets of keys. If anybody inadvertently took them home last spring, we would like you to turn them back in, and we'll try to get them to the right desk at the right time. With the switch in names, we can't — we have no record as to who sat in what desk last spring for three days. But if you have — if anybody has a set of keys, would you please turn them in up at the desk?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The parking lot attendants are working and they can get pretty rough out there; so please put on your stickers on your car — on the left, or on the driver's side, on the rearmost window; not on the rear window, but on the left side, on the rearmost window. And if you haven't got your sticker, please get it in the office right up to the left here, right by Dean Bard's office. I'm sure you all know where Dean's is.

Also, if you have lost your name tag, go in there and give the girls your name and they will order you a new name tag.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Roy.

One of the things that we wish to have completed before we leave here this morning is the taking of pictures. There are a number of cameras in the balcony here, and the same group that took pictures of the Convention in April would like to again make permanent records for posterity on just how we looked on this memorable day.

While I'm talking about pictures, during — especially during the early days of the convention, a number of photographers for the news media will be on the Convention floor — not while the Convention is in session — but they will funnel in and out of here and they will be requesting that they might take your picture. Now, please, let's cooperate with them to the fullest extent; because this is the news media and they need these pictures and we will all need photographs and we will need pictures of ourselves for our publicity purposes as the Convention goes on. But, again, let's treat those people that come around to take our pictures — don't do like I do — I get a scowl on my face and act as though I'm real unhappy about it — because this is one of the things — that is part of the price you pay for serving in a convention such as this.

Then, if the photographers are ready to take the pictures, we will proceed and do this at this time.

(Convention photographs were taken.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: While the photographer is in the process of moving from one balcony to the other: What time would you like to come back in session this afternoon? One-thirty? One o'clock? Compromise?

The Chair will rule, then, that this Convention will reconvene at 1:15.

While the photographer is still working, I would like to request that the chairmen of the six substantive committees meet in my office immediately following this noon recess — the chairmen of the six substantive committees.

Are there any special announcements? You have one, Roy?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The Bank of North Dakota will provide check-cashing facilities in the State Treasurer's office on the third floor of the Capitol 9:00 A.M. to 12:00 Noon Wednesdays and Fridays.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? Hearing none, the Convention will be in recess until 1:15.

(The session recessed at 11:49 A.M. until 1:22 P.M., the same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

January 3, 1972

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

The first item on our afternoon's agenda will be the swearing-in ceremonies for the desk force. So I would like at this time that Roy Gilbreath, Barbara King, Leo Leidholm and Vern Asheim appear before the rostrum for the swearing-in ceremony.

You will raise your right hand. Pronounce your name — say "I" and repeat after me:

(The following oath was administered by the President to the desk force:)

I, _____, do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of North Dakota, and that I will faithfully perform the duties of the position for which I have been selected. So help me God.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may be seated.

We have had a number of questions asked by Delegates, and at this time I am going to ask our Clerk, Roy Gilbreath, to first discuss the matter of telephones and the WATS line system. Roy?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: In Memorial Hall, at the end of Memorial Hall, there are some telephone booths and some telephone information girls. They will be happy to help you with any calls within the State. We're on a WATS line hookup. You can call. They'll be glad to place any calls for you out there, and they will also be leaving messages or telling you that you have phone calls. They will be leaving messages that you have phone calls on your desk. Any questions you need answered about going out on the WATS line, they'd be happy to answer. They'll call most of the — any number that you have, and you can also call, yourself. This is for the Delegates, only. At the end of Memorial Hall, right off here to my right, between the Senate and House Chambers, is the phone booths. Hopefully, there'll be two more booths before the afternoon is out.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

Roy, would you tell me whether this little button says "phone" — that says "phone" on here has anything of any consequence?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Well, while we're on it: This is the voting machine. No. The only thing that's wired as of right now is "Aye" and "Nay." You cannot lock it, as you could in the old ones. This is the new setup. You can vote "Aye" and "Nay." The phone page button is to put the page light on, in front of either page desk. The light will go on. A page will come to your desk and ask you what you desire. After you have told her — given her the message, then please push the button again and it will turn it off. The phone thing is looking in the future — that if some day they would be able to light it up and tell you there's a phone call. But it isn't wired at all. The bottom button is not wired, nor is it ever planned to be wired during this Session. So forget that little red button. It doesn't work and it isn't going to work.

Any other questions on the voting machine?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: What is the purpose of the green button?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The recognition button is — we hope, before they're done, you can push that and it will show a light on Frank's board up here. But that is not wired as of right now. But it is supposed to be wired before they're done.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, gentlemen and ladies of the Convention, while we're talking on the matter of recognition: When you wish to obtain the floor, don't be hesitant about standing up and shouting, "Mr. President!" It's impossible to sit up here and view the whole panorama at one time. So, rather than have someone stand up and wait to be recognized, and then I recognize someone else, I would urge that when you wish the floor, that you are not hesitant in the least; that you stand up and shout, "Mr. President!" And I will try to recognize you.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Schmit.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Is my mike on?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No. Give it a real good push. There! Now you're live.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Am I now? Will our constituents be able to place collect calls to the Delegates on the telephones?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't believe so. I think — I think that that's something that we will have to talk to the Budget Committee on. But I think that, at the moment, our answer would be no.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: What phone number will people use in trying to call us on the phone numbers out in the hall?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can you answer that?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 2-1-9-6 will bring you into the telephone girls. 2-1-9-6. 224-2196.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does that answer your question, Delegate Decker? Are there any further questions, then, on the phone system?

DELEGATE CART: Will you repeat the phone number, again? I'd like to write it down.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 224-2196.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll prepare for the next item, then — that of mailing.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: There is a mailing service. They try and mail two times a day. If you have any mail to go out, would you please drop it in this box right up here in front. It will be placed right here. And, in the same line of mailing: We have a stenographic clerical pool. They are located in the Senate Conference Room, which is directly behind the rail, up the middle aisle of the Senate Chambers. There are eight girls over there and, if you have correspondence, they will be glad to take care of it for you — in the Senate Chambers -- in the Senate Conference Room, directly behind the rail, up the middle aisle.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions? Hearing none, we'll move on to the assignment of committee rooms.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee room assignments:

Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage — that is the Lewis and Clark Room, which is the old room where you got your license — the old Motor Vehicle room, right before you reach the elevators, on the south side.

The Legislative Functions room — Committee room will be the large hearing room, which is directly beneath these chambers.

Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions room is in the Gold Room, which is the room near the Senate locker room. It would be exactly opposite where your lockers are. It's called the Gold Room.

Finance and Taxation are in the Blue Room, which is right next to your lockers.

Education, Resources and Public Lands are in G-1, which are in the semicircle on the ground floor, right beneath the Senate Chambers.

The Executive Functions will meet in G-5 and 6. That is the committee room directly beneath President Wenstrom's office, on the ground floor.

Style and Drafting will meet in G-7, and that's — that's the room next to the water fountain, right before you go into the main part.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

The next item on our afternoon's agenda is revision and correction of the Journal. This would be the corrections to the Journal from the last day of the three-day session in April.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President, your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the Organizational

Session for Wednesday, April 7, 1971, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

Delete Page 75 as shown, and substitute the following in lieu thereof:

THURSDAY, APRIL 8, 1971
PROCEDURAL COMMITTEES

1. Budget Committee

Name	District	Name	District
Baker	5	Litten	21
Roney	13	Pearce	32
Lamb	17

2. Rules Committee

Name	District	Name	District
Hubrig	5	Geelan	27
Saugstad	7	Fallgatter	31
Trenbeath	11	Kelsch	34
Wicks	24

3. Committee on Style and Drafting

Name	District	Name	District
Cart	3	Vogel	21
Dobson	5	Tudor	32
Unruh	18	Knudson	38
Maxwell	21

4. Public Information Committee

Name	District	Name	District
Simonson	2	Diehl	20
Wallin	2	Sondreal	20
Sullivan	3	Paulson	21
Dobson	5	Poulson	22
Bassingthwaite	10	Brakke	23
Birkeland	13	Solberg	32
Berg	14	Benz	33
Fritzell	18	Peterson	37
Lander	18	McIntyre	39
Omdahl	18	Rundle	39
Griffin	19

5. Coordination and Transition Committee

Name	District	Name	District
Chase	8	Billey	28
Burke	16	Nething	29
Butler	21	Byrne	32
Sinner	22	Hill	32
Warner	25

And when so corrected, recommends the same be approved.

Delegate Dobson, Chairman.

Delegate Simonson moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that the report of the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal be adopted. Is there any discussion? If not, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted.

The next business before the Convention will be the introduction of interim delegate proposals. The Clerk will read the report.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Tudor introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-1, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Delegate Geelan introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-2, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Geelan introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-3, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Geelan introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-4, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Tudor introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-5, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

Delegate Tudor introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-6, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Paulson introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-7, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Paulson introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-8, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Hoffner introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-9, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Paulson introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-10, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Engelter introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-11, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

Delegate Rundle introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-12, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

Delegate Rundle introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-13, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Rundle introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-14, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

Delegate Tudor introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-15, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

Delegate Tudor introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-16, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Tudor introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-17, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

Delegate Tudor introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-18, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

Delegate Devine introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-19, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

Delegate Devine introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-20, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

Delegates Fritzell and Sanstead introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-21, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

Delegate Hill introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-22, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Thompson introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-23, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Hubrig introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-24, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Vogel introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-25, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Delegate O'Toole introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-26, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Byrne introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-27, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Delegate Warner introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-28, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

Delegate Rundle introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-29, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Delegate Baker introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-30, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Delegate Nething introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-31, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Delegate Chase introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-32, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Delegate Hill introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-33, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Delegate Omdahl introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-34, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Saugstad introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-35, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

Delegate Peterson introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-36, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

Delegate Hubrig introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-37, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

Delegate Omdahl introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-38, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Thompson introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-39, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Lamb introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-40, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Lamb introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-41, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Saugstad introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-42, and said Proposal was referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, I believe we have arrived at the point where we have no further prepared work on our agenda. We have had a number of requests for committee hearings, most notably the request from the Committee on Rules and the request from the Committee on Public Information.

In visiting with Chairman Geelan right after we recessed for noon luncheon, it was her opinion at that time that this Committee should meet as early this afternoon as possible. Further, that should Delegates wish to appear before the Rules Committee and obtain information on certain rules, wish clarification of the rules or have any suggestions to simplify or improve the rules, in case there are any questions or doubt as to their interpretation, they would be very much welcome at that time.

Now, Fellow Delegates, what is the wish of the Convention?

The Clerk has an announcement that he would like to make at this time.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: This is the one that Frank was just talking about.

The permanent Rules Committee will meet immediately after the afternoon recess in the large hearing room, which is directly beneath these chambers. Delegates who wish to inquire about the recommendations of the Rules Committee or who wish to propose rules changes, are asked to come to this meeting. Delegate Geelan, Chairman.

The pages will be passing out among you, getting you to sign travel vouchers. Sign on the dotted line, as the expression goes, and on your work sheet, which you will keep, keep a day-by-day account of the expenses which are to be reimbursed. Attach all room receipts, showing the daily single rate. Do not fill in the mileage section, the meals section or the total. The girls in the office will total them up and fill in these sections. Show when trips were made to your home residence, sign and return to the office, which is the office next to Dean Bard's office, on January 31st.

The numbers on the left-hand side coincide with the days of the month.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, are there any questions? Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, how long will the Rules Committee be meeting? Would they be able to complete their work by four o'clock?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, you should ask us something easy the first day. That is real difficult to say. But, of course, we have a very, very fine Rules Committee, and if they are in session too long, it's not going to be the fault of the Committee. It will possibly be the fault of the Delegates that are there, interfering with their work. However, we do want every Delegate that has a question or anything pertaining to an interpretation of the rules, we would appreciate very much if they would appear at the Rules Committee hearing.

I'm sorry, Chairman Hoffner, I cannot tell you just how long this will take.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. Then I'd like to make an announcement that immediately after the Rules Committee meets, the Legislative Functions Committee will meet in the large hearing room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Did the members of the Committee hear that? I see Delegate Paulson has the floor.

DELEGATE JOHN PAULSON: Mr. Chairman. Mr. Dobson and myself would like the Public Information Committee to meet this afternoon. I'd like to schedule the time for 2:30, so that members could go to the Rules Committee meeting, and we will excuse them. We don't have any pressing business, but we would like to get organized, and I would like a room assigned from the desk, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson, I am informed that Room 208 will be available at that time — right over here.

DELEGATE JOHN PAULSON: All right. That's 2:30, then.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: President Wenstrom. The Committee on Education, Public Lands and Natural Resources will meet immediately after this session in G-1 for the purpose of receiving communications and, hopefully, communicating with each other.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Meidinger, and apologies to Delegate George Longmire. He's asked for the floor twice, and I did acknowledge two other Delegates first. Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. The apology is accepted.

I'd like to announce the meeting of our committee — the Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions — in the Gold Room immediately. I don't know how many of you are on the Rules Committee, if any, or how many of you want to attend the Rules Committee hearing. If too many of you do, we'll disband immediately; but, if you don't, we will go over some of these proposals that have been referred to our Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: And, Mr. President, that's immediately after we recess.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Chairman Longmire.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Members of the Rules Committee asked me to move that we recess immediately, because they have so much work to do, and I so move.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, will you grant us time to introduce rule — or committee proposals? There are only a few here, and then you would have those at the committees.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: It's agreeable.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will hold the motion in abeyance until we have taken care of these.

The Clerk — Roy, will you read those?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-1, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"That the Preamble of the constitution of the State of North Dakota be amended."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-17 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

I'm sorry. My script is not correct.

Committee Proposal No. 1-1 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-2, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"That article I, sections 1 through 24, of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the Declaration of Rights, be repealed; and that a new article to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to a Declaration of Rights, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-2 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-3, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 208, pertaining to debtors' rights; section 209, pertaining to child labor; section 212, pertaining to blacklists; and section 213, pertaining to women's rights to property, of article XVII of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No 1-3 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-4, introduced by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article I of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-4 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-5, introduced by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that the first paragraph of section 203 of article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the Compact with the United States, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-5 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-6, introduced by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article V, sections 121 through 129, of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the Elective Franchise, be repealed; and that a new article to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the Elective Franchise, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-6 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-7, introduced by the Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 through 70, inclusive, sections 194 through 201, inclusive, section 202, section 211 and articles 51 and 75 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all pertaining to the legislative branch of state government."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-7 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-8, introduced by the Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 25, section 202, and article 33 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new article to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-8 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-9, introduced by the Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article III, sections 72 through 84 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new article to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, both of which pertain to the executive branch of state government."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-9 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-10, introduced by the Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article XIII, sections 188 through 193 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new article to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the state militia."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal 1-10 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-11, introduced by the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, and 120 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article IV of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the judicial branch of government.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-11 is referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-12, introduced by the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 130, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 172 and 173 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article XII of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to political subdivisions.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-12 is referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-13, introduced by the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 203, 204, and 205 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article XIII of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the compact with the United States.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-13 is referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-14, introduced by Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 206 and 207 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article XV to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to state boundaries and the state seal.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-14 is referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-15, introduced by the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, and article 54 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article V to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to education.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-15 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-16, introduced by the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article VI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to environmental degradation, be created.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-16 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-17, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 160, 161, 163, 164 and 165 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article VII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to trust lands.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-17 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-18, introduced by the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 215 and 216 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article VIII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to public institutions."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-18 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-19, introduced by the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 210 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article IX to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to appropriation of waters."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-19 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-20, introduced by the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145 and 146 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article X to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to corporations."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-20 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-21, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article XI, sections 174 through 181, pertaining to revenue and taxation, article XII, sections 182 through 187, pertaining to public debt and public works, of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, and article 56 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to motor fuel and license taxes, be repealed; and that a new article XI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to finance and public debt, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-21 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-22, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that articles 14 and 19, pertaining to mills and elevators in Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota; article 24, pertaining to hail tax; articles 59, 65 and 87, pertaining to veterans' bonuses; article 60, pertaining to the medical center; and article 76, pertaining to bonds, of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-22 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, one of our colleagues, Delegate Sinner, is absent today because he recently underwent surgery to correct a back defect. He's now recuperating at his farm home near Casselton. So, Mr. President, I would move the Convention express to Delegate Sinner our best wishes for a speedy recovery and a happy New Year.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the motion.

DELEGATE LAMB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion is seconded by Delegate Lamb. Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye." Opposed, "no." The "ayes" have it.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, a point of inquiry:

I assume, under the statute that we have, in case of a delegate being absent for what is an obvious unavoidable reason, I would — if it is in order, I would like to move that the absent delegates be excused.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded — however, I believe that we have to deny the motion. I don't believe that, under the statute, that that is possible. This is different than the Legislature, Delegate Longmire, and I believe that the statute requires that you receive compensation for the meetings you attend. Now I can have that checked; but that is my opinion. Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I've visited by Mrs. Geelan, and it doesn't appear as though the Committee will be able to complete their committee work early this afternoon; so I'll call off the committee meeting of the Legislative Functions Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Did you hear that, Fellow Delegates? The committee meeting on Legislative Functions has been called off by the chairman.

We have a motion. Before I take that motion, again, I have a question that came in.

Delegate Rundle, with your permission. I have a question here that it would be well to put before the Convention for your thoughts, because this is something that will come up in the immediate future. And the question is: When is the question on Saturday meetings to be resolved?

With that, I will take the motion as presented by Delegate Rundle some few minutes ago. Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, with your permission, I'd like to yield for just a second to Delegate Rosendahl, who has a short announcement.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Permission is granted.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Thank you, Delegate Rundle.

Mr. President, I have a short message I would like to convey to the Delegates for the record.

Mr. President, I should like to take this opportunity to make a short statement for the record pertaining to the badge I am wearing on my coat. This is one of the original badges from the 1889 Constitutional Convention. It was worn by a farmer from Grafton, North Dakota, in Walsh County, who not only served as a delegate to the 1889 Constitutional Convention, but four years later went on to distinguish himself by becoming the fourth Governor of North Dakota, from 1895 to 1897. I am sure that you North Dakota historians know by now that I am referring to the late Governor Roger Allen. This badge was among the many personal effects left to his nephew, Mr. Roger Bond, long-time prominent businessman at Bottineau, North Dakota.

I thought the Delegates would be interested in this bit of history from the first Constitutional Convention in 1889.

Thank you.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Thank you so very, very much, Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Now, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I would move that we recess until nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved that the Convention stand in recess until nine o'clock tomorrow morning. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a second. Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: A question on a point of order.

Does this mean that the Convention will meet tomorrow morning at nine — nine until noon? Those committee chairmen who have not announced meetings would like to know, so we can plan meetings for tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, I would have to answer that by saying that the Convention at this time is very much in a state of flux and we have no new rules. There's a question of when they are adopted. When they are adopted, I think that all these little questions, like the one you just raised, would be answered; however, if we do meet at nine o'clock tomorrow morning and the Convention wishes to recess and attend committee meetings, that's perfectly the prerogative of the Convention.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: This does not give the chairman much basis for planning. Could we — with Delegate Rundle's permission, could we discuss this for a minute or so?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Go right ahead.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I think that there is some difference of opinion as to when the Convention should hold its regular session each day. I recall that at Grand Forks, when some of us met, and a large majority were for holding morning meetings — morning sessions of the full body — and devoting the afternoon, wherever necessary, to committee meetings. I am inclined to agree with that provision, myself.

For the purposes of discussion, may I move that mornings be devoted, beginning at nine o'clock each day, to the meetings of the Convention, and that the — am I out of order here?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm afraid I'll have to rule that you're out of order.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: But I still want to know. What can I do about my committee tomorrow?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, may I suggest that you call a meeting of your committee when you'd like to have it meet, and I think the Convention will cut the cloth in order that it will fit. So you call your meeting, and I'm sure that provision will be made so that your group can meet.

Now, back to Delegate Rundle's motion that the Convention now recess.

You are aware of the question. The question is on recessing until nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye"; opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Convention will stand in recess until nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 2:06 P.M., Monday, January 3, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Tuesday, January 4, 1972.)

VOLUME II

January 4, 1972

MORNING SESSION

(The second day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:05 A.M., Tuesday, January 4, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our chaplain for this morning is the Reverend Richard Unkenholz, First United Methodist Church of Bismarck.

REV. RICHARD UNKENHOLZ: Let us pray.

O God, we thank You for the newly-discovered challenges and unclimbed heights in this temporary life. In times of change and reevaluation, guide us with Your eternal wisdom. Give counsel and help to each of those who deliberate here.

Grant that what is done in this Convention, even today, may result in benefit for many generations yet to come. Help each of us to hold the rights and needs of others to be as important as our own.

Help each delegate to evaluate fairly the suggestions, ideas and convictions brought to this place of decision. Grant that out of the struggle and testing entered into here there may emerge a document that will broaden and enrich the possibilities of life in our State of North Dakota.

We pray in the name of the Christ, who lives and who leads. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll have the calling of the roll. The Clerk will open the key and you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? If so, you will close the key.

The roll call discloses 96 present; two absent. A quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order of business — approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No Journal yet to work with.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the eighth order of business — Communications.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "The North Dakota Constitutional Convention, State Capitol, Bismarck, North Dakota.

I send my wishes for success to the delegates on the North Dakota Constitutional Convention. The task you undertake is most important. It could create the basic structure of government which will guide North Dakota into its second century. The various proposals of the convention committees about which I have read show a great understanding on the basic problems affecting our state government. They will furnish an excellent starting point for the deliberation on this convention. I share your hope and confidence that these proposals under the careful study of the delegates assembled can become a worthy document for submission to the people of North Dakota.

"Quentin N. Burdick, United States Senator."

"Frank Wenstrom, President, Constitutional Convention, Capitol Building, Bismarck, North Dakota.

"Please extend my greetings to the delegates and guests at the Constitutional Convention. Your task is a vital one for the future of our state and I am confident you will meet the challenges before you. All North Dakotans are grateful for your dedication. Best wishes for every success.

"Mark Andrews, United States Congressman."

"Honorable Frank A. Wenstrom, Constitutional Convention, State Capitol, Bismarck, North Dakota.

"Dear Frank:

"It appears that I will be unable to attend the opening days of the Constitutional Convention. I have had some back surgery, and I was a little optimistic about the time it would take to regain my strength. I am hoping to be in Bismarck the second week and, if all goes well, maybe the latter part of the first week.

"Please extend my regrets to the rest of my committee at least and to other delegates who might wonder where I am. I look forward to joining you all as soon as possible.

"Best personal regards. Sincerely, George A. Sinner."

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: I would like to report present. I wasn't here for the roll call.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be on the ninth order of business — the introduction and first reading in reference to proposals to committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hubrig introduces Delegate Proposal No. 2-43:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota pertaining to penalties for drug offenses, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-43 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Billey introduces Delegate Proposal No. 2-44:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article 54 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to education."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-44 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Dobson introduces Delegate Proposal No. 2-45:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota which pertains to reimbursement to counties for costs of the special election on the proposed constitution, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-45 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Dobson introduces Delegate Proposal No. 2-46:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 98 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the filling of vacancies in the offices of justice or judge."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-46 is referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Erickson introduces Delegate Proposal No. 2-47:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 176 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, both pertaining to uniformity of taxation."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-47 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hubrig introduces Delegate Proposal No. 2-48:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new article to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to a Bill of Rights for minors, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-48 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Peterson introduced Delegate Proposal No. 2-49:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 147, 148, 149, 150, 151 and 152 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article V, section 1, of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to education."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-49 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Trenbeath introduces Delegate Proposal No. 2-50:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article 56 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to dedicated funds for highways."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-50 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH Delegate Rundle introduces Delegate Proposal No. 2-51:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertain to matters of initiative and referendum and amendments to the state constitution, respectively, be amended."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-51 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Cart introduces Delegate Proposal No. 2-52:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, including sections 25 through 70 and pertaining to the legislative branch of government, be amended."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-52 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

The Convention will be at ease.

(The Convention was at ease from 9:22 A.M. until 9:55 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

We will be on the eighth order of business — Communications and Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "The Honorable Frank Wenstrom, President, Constitutional Convention, State Capitol, Bismarck, North Dakota.

"Dear Mr. Wenstrom:

"We have had several inquiries regarding the use of the Supreme Court library during the evenings by delegates to the Convention.

"For the convenience of the delegates, we have made available a key to the library which will be in the possession of Mrs. Dunn, the clerk of the Supreme Court. Anyone wanting to use the library facilities during the evening hours may, by calling on our clerk during office hours, arrange for securing the key.

"The library, of course, is always open to the delegates during office hours and we invite the members of the Constitutional Convention to make use of it. Mr. Dewald, our librarian, will be ready to be of any assistance possible to members of the Convention.

"Very sincerely yours,
"Alvin C. Strutz."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: At this time —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Do you want me to go ahead and read the rest of the announcements?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, if you will.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The Public Information Committee will tentatively meet on Thursday at 4:00 P.M. to discuss post-convention activities with members of the North Dakota Extension Council. Several council members will be here Thursday. Chairmen Dobson and Paulson.

You have on your desk what are called "Journal Mailing Lists," and there are ten per delegate. Would you please check with the other delegates from your district so we don't duplicate and one individual ends up getting two or three Journals. Would you please communicate among your district delegates and not come up with identical names on your Journal mailing list? Will you have them filled out — they don't have to be filled out entirely — I mean you don't have to have ten — you can have one or five or three — and turn them in at the desk up here in front.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would like to announce the appointment of committees — of three committees at this time.

On the Employment Committee: Chairman, Warner Litten. Delegate Lamb, Delegate Solberg, Delegate Byrne, Delegate Hoghaug, Delegate Sanstead, and Delegate Knudson.

On the Committee on Enrolling and Engrossing: Delegate Erickson is Chairman. Delegate Urdahl, Delegate Warner, Delegate Aubol and Delegate Kwako.

For the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal: Delegate Simonson is Chairman. Delegate Dobson and Delegate Paulson.

We'll be on the seventh order of business — Reports of Select Committees.

At this time we will have the Report of the Committee on Employment.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Fellow Delegates:

You have on your desk now the results of the meetings that have been held or meetings that have been held that have to do with the Procedural Committee on Employment. I might just mention to you that the Committee met two or three weeks ago, and we have already seen the results of our good work with some of the people that are already working with our respective committees and some of us as individuals.

When we met, you notice from what President Wenstrom said a minute ago, that Delegate Sanstead was a member of our Committee. I might just mention for your own information that he was unable to attend our meetings and Delegate Hoffner sat in as his proxy.

I would just give a little bit of the background on the procedure the Committee followed.

We can report to you that we analyzed the positions that had been recommended to us. We established salary guides having to do with the respective positions. We reviewed all of the applications in great detail; in fact, we broke into a subcommittee that analyzed them even more than the main Committee had done, and we consolidated a number of the positions, as you already have noted, that have to do with the committee clerks and stenographers. The positions that have been eliminated don't show on this sheet, but there were several that were eliminated. We feel that the results of the work of the Committee have caused us to have working with us an employee force that probably is incomparable. We feel that we have a group of people who can perform in each respective task that's been assigned to them. They're well qualified and, almost without exception, well-experienced.

So, with that thought in mind and without going into the list in detail you have in front of you, this is the report of the procedural committee.

You'll notice on the bottom of the second page that we're involved with an expenditure of $971 a day, a total cost of $29,130 for the 30 days that we'll be in session.

With that, Mr. President, I'll move that the Report of the Employment Committee be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved that the Report of the Employment Committee be adopted. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Nicholas. Is there any discussion? Hearing none, and inasmuch as this entails the expenditure of funds, we will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

The key is closed.

The roll call reveals 94 "ayes;" no "nays;" four absent and not voting.

The report is adopted.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I'd like to refer back to the Journal mailing. I have a question.

Is the Staff going to be mailing Journals to the schools, the newspapers, farm organizations, et cetera, or do we have to — what is the procedure?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It is my understanding, Delegate Hoffner, that we are. However, I can't say positively. But I will get that for the Convention today.

Will the Sergeant at Arms bring the employees to the foot of the rostrum for the swearing-in ceremony?

(The Convention employees were brought before the rostrum.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You will raise your right hand and repeat after me:

(The following oath was administered to the employees by President Wenstrom:)

"I DO SOLEMNLY SWEAR THAT I WILL SUPPORT THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES AND THE CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA AND I WILL FAITHFULLY PERFORM THE DUTIES OF THE POSITION FOR WHICH I HAVE BEEN SELECTED. SO HELP ME GOD."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have no more work at the desk. We have an announcement. We'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to announce a meeting of the Committee on Finance and Taxation at 1:30, or immediately following the afternoon session, if we have one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen announces that his Committee on Finance and Taxation will meet at 1:30 this afternoon, or immediately following the afternoon session.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I presume that the members know that the meeting will be in the Blue Room, which is just through the locker room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The meeting will be held in the Blue Room.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: What is the schedule for this morning and this afternoon? Do you intend to recess now until one o'clock, or something like that, or are you going to adjourn?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet, I have to tell you that the Convention at this point — at this time is very much in a state of limbo. I have nothing up here. The rules are not ready to be discussed and it is real difficult to proceed until such time as we do have the rules with us and have them adopted.

I think that at this time we could say that the Convention is open to the will of the delegates.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Mrs. Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I understand that the material that we need for our rules report — the materials have been distributed. If they have been, we are ready to report. There are two things that we must have on every desk — the Report of the Procedural Committee — and you will notice on the first page it begins with Rule 8, and then another page that includes the amendments that were adopted by the — changes that were adopted by the Committee yesterday.

Now, if those are on the desk, we are ready, as the Rules Committee, to report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Madam, I think — I know the desk doesn't have anything. We don't have anything up here to work from.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Well, then may I ask that the Staff distribute the materials to the desk? I believe — let me see how many committee — how many delegates have them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It seems that everyone has the material but the desk.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Well, I would suggest that the Staff see that the President and the desk get the material that we need, and then, at that time, we are ready to report.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: While you wait for that, I would like to announce that our Committee on Executive Functions will meet, also, whenever it is convenient for the Convention. I would guess, if we're going to discuss rules this morning, why, we probably won't meet until 1:30, and it will be down in our hearing room, which is 5 and 6, I believe. So, otherwise, I was going to say that we could meet now; but if we're going to discuss the rules, we'll put it off.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet announces that the Committee on Executive Functions will meet at 1:30 this afternoon in their regularly-scheduled room.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I would like to announce that the Bill of Rights Committee will meet at 2:00 o'clock in the Lewis and Clark Room, provided that this does not conflict with a meeting of the general session.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell announces that the Committee on Bill of Rights will meet in the Lewis and Clark Room at 2:00 o'clock, in the event that it does not conflict with the work of the Convention.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: The Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands will also meet at 2:00 o'clock, and, in the words of the Judge, "provided."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger announces that the Committee on Education, Public Lands and Natural Resources will meet in Room G-1 in the event that the Convention is in recess at that time.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: The Committee on Legislative Functions will meet at 1:58 in the Large Hearing Room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner announces that the Committee on Legislative Functions will meet in the Large Hearing Room at 1:58.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: The Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions will meet at 1:59 in the Gold Room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire announces that the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions will meet in the Gold Room at 1:59. I presume that's A.M.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: We'll take that up, Mr. President, at that time and decide whether it's A.M. or P.M.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I'd like to ask —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, your mike isn't working.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Now is it working?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now it's working.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I would like to ask the Chairman of the Committee, Mr. Longmire, if he could meet a little later. His Committee has been so efficient there's nothing to do.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I'd like to ask Delegate Rundle: Is there any good reason why it should be later, and, if it is, I assume that we could.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have the material now to take up the rules?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: — and Fellow Delegates:

Before we go into our Rules Report, it might be well to have a few words of explanation.

You will recall that, at the organizational meeting, you authorized the Permanent Rules Committee to take action on three rules that were referred to them; one was on the powers and duties of the Committee on Style and Drafting, and you will find our recommendations on that, in addition to Rule 12 or the Rule No. 12.1.

The second rule referred to us was on calls of the Convention. You will find our recommendations there under Rule 15.

The third rule referred to was on the suspension of rules, and our recommendations there are under Rule 37.

Then, too, the organizational convention gave the Permanent Rules Committee the authority to revise rules during the interim, with two provisions: Any rule that was amended would have to have the unanimous consent of the President and the two Vice Presidents, and any rule amended would have to be submitted to this body for approval.

The Committee met in September and amended three rules — Rule 11 on committee meetings, Rule 13 on reports of committees, Rule 18 on introduction of proposals, and, as required by our temporary rules, those three rules, as amended, were sent to all the delegates.

Then, at that same meeting in September, we asked President Wenstrom and the Staff to make recommendations to our Committee on rule revisions and additions that would affect the Plenary Session. We met in December to consider their recommendations by the Committee, and recommendations that were given to the Rules Committee by various delegates.

Yesterday, we had another meeting. As many of you know, we had a good attendance and, believe me, the Committee appreciated it. Many delegates were in attendance and we had a number of suggestions. As a result of those suggestions from the other delegates and from members of our Committee, the Rules Committee made additional changes, and those are on a separate sheet. See, we were up against a time element. Rather than print a new report — and you have this report on your desk now — we thought it would be better and we thought, if there was any question, the rules may need to be suspended, but we thought it would be better to have these on your desk on a separate sheet, and as the rule is read, the additional amendment will be read by a member of the Committee.

You have, then, two reports on your desk from which we will work — the Report of the Procedural Committee and the additional sheet on amendments.

Now, the report shows, in each case, and they are all the rules now — the three that were referred — the three that we took action on in September — and you already had the report on that — and then all other changes. So this report will only have all of the rules that are changed, beginning with Rule 8. We think that the preparation is clear. Matter that is underlined will be new additions. The double underlining does not mean a new addition; it just means a change from the temporary rules report; and then anything deleted has triple parentheses. But because you have not had an opportunity to see this report, we think that the rules should be — changes in the rules should be explained. So all of the members of the Rules Committee have accepted specific rule assignments and, after the rule — each rule is read by the Clerk, a member of the Committee will explain the changes, and then, if there is an amendment to be made, they will offer it.

After the discussion, of course, the rule is open to your discussion and possible amendments.

With that, Mr. President, then we are ready to go into the Report of the Procedural Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Madam Geelan.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Report of the Procedural Committee:

“Mr. President: Your procedural committee appointed to review and recommend changes in the temporary rules has had the same under consideration and recommends that the Temporary Rules of the Convention be amended as follows:

“Rule 8. COMMITTEES

“The President of the Convention shall appoint the following six substantive committees:

- “1. Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage
- “2. Legislative Functions, Elections, Removal and Amendments
- “3. Executive Functions
- “4. Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions
- “5. Finance and Taxation
- “6. Education, Resources, and Public Lands

“The President of the Convention shall appoint the following (((five))) seven procedural committees:

- “1. Budget
- “2. Rules
- “3. Style and Drafting
- “4. Public Information
- “5. Coordinating and Transition
- “6. Committee on Calendar
- “7. Committee on Enrolling and Engrossing”

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I was the one who was asked to explain the changes in Rule 8. Before I do that, I should just like to say one or two words, or a few words, about the Rules Committee and the necessity of rules. Actually, the need for rules is that the rules exist to facilitate transaction of the business at hand. Also, remember that the will of the majority prevails; also, that the rights of the minority are respected and protected and that all members have equal rights, privileges and obligations; that the rules should also provide for full and free discussion, and that they should provide the simplest and most direct procedure, and that all delegates shall have the right to know the question before the assembly and what its effect will be.

In other words, the reason for these rules, and some of them which may sound a little complex are simply to facilitate our work at hand, and the reason for many of these rules have evolved through long experience in this type of a deliberative body.

Now, getting back to Rule 8:

We are adding two additional committees — a Committee on Calendar, which will be a sort of steering committee. It will be composed of the chairmen of the substantive committees, plus a chairman, and this Committee will be charged with the responsibility of deciding the order in which various proposals will come on or appear on the calendar. I think, if you'll give that a little thought, you can see for yourselves that that will be a rather important factor in the deliberations of this body.

The other committee which is being added is a Committee on Enrolling and Engrossing. Actually, this is a mechanical detail, to show that the proposals are drafted in proper form and placed on — in proper form for the interim record or permanent record.

At this time I would move the adoption of the suggested or recommended changes for Rule 8.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Saugstad, and it was seconded by Delegate Trenbeath, that Rule 8 now be adopted. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Rule 8 is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 11. COMMITTEE MEETINGS

"A committee shall meet at the call of the chairman, who shall also set its agenda, or upon the written request of a majority of the members or at the direction of the Convention.

All meetings and records of the Convention and all committees, subcommittees and hearings shall be open to the public and the news media.

"(((All committees and subcommittees and hearings shall be open to the public and the news media.)))

"Committees and subcommittees may hold meetings and public hearings in the city of Bismarck, or upon the affirmative vote of the majority of the members of the committee and after consultation with and approval by the President, may hold meetings and public hearings at any other place in the state.

"No committee shall sit during the (((sessions of the))) time the Convention is actually meeting in plenary session without special leave of the Convention by a majority vote of those voting.

"A majority of any committee constitutes a quorum.

"Committees may meet jointly with the consent of their respective chairmen.

"Prior to the plenary session, no committee meetings or hearings may be held unless notice thereof is given ((in the following manner: The president of the Convention shall be furnished a written notice, signed by the chairman or members of the committee calling the meeting. The notice shall state the date, hour, and the place of the proposed meeting (which shall be not less than 96 hours after the president has been furnished such notice) and the proposal number or subject matter to be considered. The president shall mail or deliver a copy of the notice to all delegates of the Convention, at least 72 hours prior to the time set for such meeting and shall post such notice in the State Capitol))) to all delegates at least 72 hours prior to the time set for such meeting(((s))).

"No substantive committee or a subcommittee thereof shall meet between the dates of November 15, 1971, and January 3, 1972, inclusive, without the permission of the President."

"During the plenary session, ((no committee hearings shall be held unless such a notice shall have been delivered to the president and posted in the State Capitol at least 24 hours prior to such hearings.))) each chairman shall inform the clerk of the Convention of the time and place of meetings of his committee. The clerk shall post notice of such meeting in the state capitol."

"Rule 12.1. POWERS OF STYLE AND DRAFTING COMMITTEE

"1. To review and correct grammar, punctuation, and usage of the words used in each section."

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. Chairman, may I interrupt there? I believe we should take action on No. 11, first.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Oh, I'm sorry.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President, I believe that Rule 11 is sufficiently covered here. It explains what the changes are. I don't think there's any need for additional explanation on it. The things we do recommend be changed is a matter of timing, and the first portion of it is history now, anyway. It's what's going to happen from today forward that we should be concerned about, and I believe that it's clear on the new language that we're using, and I would, therefore, move the adoption of Rule 11.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig moves the adoption of Rule 11. We had a second. It was seconded by Delegate Sanstead.

Now, is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Rule 11 is adopted.

We will proceed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 12.1 POWERS OF STYLE AND DRAFTING COMMITTEE

"1. To review and correct grammar, punctuation, and usage of the words used in each section.

"2. To look for and bring to the attention of the Convention for its action, any sections which are in conflict with each other or need to be clarified.

"3. To remove inaccurate, repetitious, unnecessary and inconsistent language.

"4. To arrange the order and number of the articles and arrange the order and number of the sections in each article."

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: I move the amendment of Rule 12.1 as follows:

Insert the word "title," between the words "To" and "arrange" and between the words "and" and "arrange" in paragraph 4, which makes paragraph 4 read: "To title, arrange the order and number of the articles and title, arrange the order and number of the sections in each article."

I move the adoption of this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole seconds the motion on the amendment. The question now is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Wicks.

Delegate Haugen, do you have a question?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I have a comment that, in my opinion, at least, the language leaves a little bit to be desired — that "title" and "arrange" are not exactly the same thing. It probably would be better to say "title and arrange" — to have it "and to title and arrange the order and number of the sections." It would be a technical suggestion. I believe it reads better than it now reads.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you move an amendment?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would so move, if it meets with the approval of the Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, I believe that you should present the motion or the amendment to the desk, so that we can carry it out exactly the way that you'd like.

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: I would be willing to incorporate that amendment in the amendment as I have suggested it, to include the "and." Would this simplify matters?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think it would. Is that agreeable with Delegate Haugen?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then you would just include that in your amendment?

DELEGATE WICKS: And I would include that in my amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: I'll include that in my second.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Then that would read: "To title and arrange"

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: — "the order and number of the articles and title and arrange and number . . ." Okay.

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: The reason for inserting the title in here was we found, in going over the committee reports, that not all of them had titles — all articles and sections — and this just leaves the Style and Drafting Committee leeway, without the Committee having to do any more work on this.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Would you have the desk read that paragraph 4 as it would be, after amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "4. To title and arrange the order and number of the articles and title and arrange the order and number of the sections in each article."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further questions? The question is on the amendment.

As many as are in favor of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

The question is on the adoption of Rule 12.1 as amended. Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. Chairman, how much power does this grant to the Style and Drafting Committee?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg, I don't believe your mike is working.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: I don't either. The article 3 or point 3 there, "To remove inaccurate, repetitious, unnecessary and inconsistent language." What is the interpretation of something inaccurate? What is the interpretation of "unnecessary"? What is the interpretation of "inconsistent"? When do these things prevail and, if they do prevail and in the judgment of this Committee they do prevail, what will it do to that particular section or proposal that is being acted upon by the delegates? Will it change the entire sense and language? Will it change the entire meaning? Will it perhaps allow for inconsistencies to develop after the change? How much power lies in the interpretation of the members of the Committee in the area of these — the use of these particular semantics arrangements?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: In answer to Delegate Solberg's inquiry, the Style and Drafting Committee will prepare a report. Their actions will come in the form of a report to this body. This body then must adopt their report. Should any delegate question their actions, they will at that time have an opportunity to raise their objection.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I don't know if I'm in order or not. I was going to talk about No. 4, and I believe we passed it. Am I in order to talk about it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No. I believe you'll have to hold that in abeyance until we're through with the question on the floor. Then I'll recognize you.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: All right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a — we need a motion. I guess I called for one here that we didn't have. We need a motion.

DELEGATE WICKS: I move for the acceptance of Rule 12.1 as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that Rule 12.1 be approved as amended. And now do we have a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I think Delegate Hendrickson's point has to do with the adoption and should be discussed prior to the adoption.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry sir. I thought she was referring to Rule No. 4.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: She referred to paragraph 4.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Paragraph 4. Well, then the Chair is corrected. And then, if you have a question on No. 4 —

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: As a member of Style and Drafting, I'm wondering, as we go through the Constitution, and if you'll take a look, some of these sections are very short. Do you mean by this that every section will have a title? For example, one section reads: "No person shall be imprisoned for debt." Does that need a title? Some of them, I feel the titles will be as long as the sections. Does this mean that every section has a title?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I don't — the Rules Committee didn't feel that they had to. We just wanted to make sure that, if Style and Drafting wanted to title, they could. I can imagine there's some that would be awfully hard to title. But we wanted to have somebody to have the authority, and the committees have not been consistent. Some have been titling and some have not. We felt that there should be one committee that has the overall authority to look at the sections for titles and, of course, anything they do title will come back to the Convention for approval. So I don't think they have to.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: As this particular rule reads, I think it empowers —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate, I wonder if your mike is working?

DELEGATE KELSCH: If you'll hold your mikes up close to your mouth, everybody can hear you.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: As this particular rule now reads, I would assume that every article should have a title, unless we put in "if necessary," or some qualifications.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: I think Delegate Hendrickson should give full emphasis to the preparation, too, because that gives leeway to this particular committee to arrange or to title and arrange and, therefore, the Committee has this alternative, as I look at it, and, therefore, this gives them the leeway to give title or not to give title.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Solberg.

Is there any further discussion? The question then is on the adoption of Rule 12.1 as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the rule is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 13. REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

"The affirmative vote of a majority of the members of a committee having the right to vote shall be necessary to report a proposal out of committee. Such report shall be signed by the chairman of the committee and shall recommend one of the following:

"1. That such proposal be adopted.

"2. That such proposal be amended, and when amended be adopted.

"3. That no recommendation is made on such proposal.

"4. That such proposal be indefinitely postponed.

"Reports by subcommittees shall be considered by the entire committee before recommending any action thereon by the Convention.

"(((All committee recommendations shall be accompanied by a concise written explanation of the reasons for the committee's action.)))

"The report or reports of a minority of any committee shall be received in the same manner as the majority report and treated as an amendment or substitute offered to or for the report of the committee if offered as such on the floor.

"(((At least three of the))) Three or more members of any committee may make a minority report.

"The minutes of interim committees or subcommittees shall be sent to all delegates of the Convention.

"The minutes of a committee shall report its consideration of all citizens' ideas referred to it in writing.

"It shall be the duty of each committee chairman during the plenary session to report to the president of the Convention each Monday, or at his request, the proposals, by number, remaining for consideration in his committee."

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I note, to begin with, there's going to be a little complication right away. On this other single sheet there was supposed to have been another amendment to be added to this Rule, other than those that were read from the desk. I think we could get by amending it without having a copy on the desk, because it's a very simple amendment. I don't know what happened. I think our Staff just slipped in putting it on this sheet, and maybe we should reconsider our action on their salaries at this point.

Anyhow, if you'll turn to the second page and go down to line one, two, three, four, five, six — it's the end of the second paragraph. It's the wording on the end of the second paragraph — ". . . if offered as such on the floor." That is to be deleted as another portion of this amendment. There's a reason for that. Further on in the rules, we have provided there shall be no amendments allowed to committee reports, majority or minority, and in the explanation of those rules as we proceed, you will understand this. So it has to be taken out of that second paragraph — that last line. So, added to the amendments as read from the desk, I will further amend to strike out those words "if offered as such on the floor." And insert a period after the word "committee."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Trenbeath that, on line one, two, three, four, five, six, that we strike "if offered as such on the floor." Do I have a second?

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: For the record, we need who made the second. Delegate Rosendahl.

Now, is there any discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Trenbeath. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

Now we're on the question of adopting Rule 13 as presented, as read from the Chair.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I think that just a little word of explanation might be in order on Rule 13. As you note, it spells out completely the four ways that a bill can come out of committee. Probably of special note, you should take note on that second page, of that first paragraph, which states that the minority report will be only substituted for the majority report; in other words, it will be treated something like an amendment. Now, this will be the only — if there's any cloud on any motion made as a substitute motion, this will be the only one that will be allowed, according to our President. So I'll just make note of that to you delegates that the minority report will also be an amendment to the majority report when the committee report comes before the house — or before the Convention.

Secondly, the last paragraph — the underlined wording there — is placed for a specific purpose. It was thought by the President and others that to expedite the work of the Staff and the ability for the President to know what's going on in committee, the chairmen of each one of the committees shall report each week at the Plenary Session to the President on what proposals he has in committee. It will get the committee chairmen together, so, if there are sections of the Constitution that have relative meaning to one another, they can call their committee meetings together and get those on the calendar kind of together, so that we'll have subject matter related that we can dispose of at the same time. It's just a matter of expediting our work. Otherwise, I think your Rule 13 should be adopted with the amendments proposed.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I'm still a little confused about the way this minority report is going to be brought to the floor. I have some questions for someone who might be able to answer them for me. In parliamentary procedure that's followed in other instances in the House and Senate of North Dakota, the opportunity of presenting the minority report is made at the time the majority report is introduced, and the debate then takes place as to substituting the minority report for the majority report in that proposal. Is that to be followed here and does it come onto the floor automatically — the minority report?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: The procedure is the same as it is in the Legislative Session, Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler and Delegate Trenbeath, might I add, however, that there is a distinct difference here, in that there are more than one minority reports in this Convention that are coming out of the committees, and that's something we don't have in the legislative process.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Yes, Mr. President, I'll bring that out in the next — in the discussion on the next rule.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any further questions? Is there any question by a delegate or —

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: This is an inquiry to Delegate Trenbeath as to "It shall be the duty of each committee chairman during the plenary session to report to the president." Does this contemplate a copy on the desk of each of the delegates?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Excuse me, Mr. President.

Delegate Burke, no. In my understanding, no. You will be able to follow the procedure of the proposals in committee on the bulletin board and on the calendar on your desk. But every Monday morning, why the chairman of each one of these committees will have a meeting with the President and they will go over the proposals that are in their committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does that answer your question, Delegate Burke?

DELEGATE BURKE: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question then is —

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Delegate Trenbeath, on this same point here, you talk about proposals. Now, in our committee, one proposal is practically everything which is assigned to us — the whole section of the Constitution — or sections. Now, when you talk about we may not bring this on the floor of this Convention as a package — everything that was assigned to us — we're going to break that down, I would hope, and suspect. Now, when you talk about proposals as what we have left, I think your word "proposal" is too broad. I think you should talk about what is left in the committee, that we haven't brought on the floor — is what I would suspect you intend. Is that right?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Do I understand you, Delegate Hernet, that you just report the proposals that you set out on the floor and this pertains to the proposals you have left in committee?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, these proposals — the one we have — for instance, our committee proposal No. 1-9 is practically everything that's assigned to us.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Right. So that's all you have to report to the President, unless it's other proposals that may be introduced.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Now we may break this down in bringing it out onto the floor in packages or in sections?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Surely.

DELEGATE HERNETT: So then I think we should report to the President the sections that we have left in there.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Oh, I see. You wish to amend that.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I'm just wondering what your intentions were.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Those were our intentions, Delegate Hernet.

Now, if you don't think it's clear enough and you wish to add a word "section" in there, along with "proposal," I think the Rules Committee would go along with you.

DELEGATE HERNETT: In fact, I think my committee only has two proposals that we have under consideration right now. It may be all we'll ever have, and it's pretty broad — the word "proposal."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of Rule 13.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed, "no." The "ayes" have it, and Rule 13 is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 13.1. PLACEMENT OF PROPOSALS ON CALENDAR

"If a committee report is for adoption of the proposal or for no recommendation and the report is accepted, the proposal, unless the same is re-referred, shall be placed on the calendar for first passage which shall be not sooner than the next Convention day.

"If a committee report is for amendment of the proposal under consideration, and the report is accepted, the amendments shall be placed on the calendar for the next Convention day, for their adoption or rejection under the sixth order of business. After consideration of and action on the amendments, the proposal shall be placed on the calendar for the following Convention day in accordance with Rule 19, unless the same is re-referred.

"No proposal recommended by a committee for amendment for which the amendments have been adopted on sixth order shall be considered by the Convention for adoption unless the same has been properly engrossed.

"If a committee report is for indefinite postponement of the proposal under consideration, and the report is adopted, the proposal shall not be placed on the calendar but shall be deemed defeated.

"On the twenty-eighth Convention day and thereafter the provisions of this rule requiring that proposals or amendments to proposals be laid over shall be inoperative, and such proposals and amendments to proposals may be considered and acted upon during the same Convention day that the committee report is adopted."

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: There are further amendments to be made to Rule 13.1, after a long discussion in committee yesterday and the subcommittee last night. I think I will make a motion to adopt these amendments and hope for a second, so we get into full discussion on the whole rule.

The amendments are, of course, on this single sheet, and it means that paragraphs one and two of 13.1 shall be stricken and inserted in lieu thereof shall be these two paragraphs that you find on your sheet as 13.1.

I make that motion.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment to Rule 13.1. Wat that amendment read from the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That whole amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No. You want it read?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think maybe we should read it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendment is to delete paragraphs one and two and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"If a committee report is for adoption, no recommendation, or for amendment of a proposal, and the report is accepted, the proposal shall be placed on the calendar, for amendment, or first passage which shall be not sooner than the next convention day.

"No proposal that has been amended shall be voted on for first passage until one convention day has passed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the amendment — the proposed amendment. It has been moved and seconded. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: This last amendment primarily simplifies the other two paragraphs that were originally in the rule, but I think probably the best way — and probably this rule has the greatest concern of many of the delegates here. Probably the best way to explain it is to go through with an example of just how these committee reports are to be handled, and it's a little bit peculiar and doesn't fit, really, the legislative process, because ordinarily a minority report of a bill is to kill the bill; but in the case that we have here before us, we have many — we have more than one minority report dealing with different sections or even with the one section in the proposal.

So what will happen here, for example, if you have three — say three minority reports coming out of the Committee, they will be labeled "A, B and C." The minority report will be debated first to substitute for the majority, and whatever happens to it, why then the minority — the report will be substituted for the majority report, added to it or lost, and so on.

Now, if a committee report has an amendment tied to it in committee, then the proposal will go on the sixth order for the following day's business. That's just if an amendment is made by the Committee. Otherwise, it will go on the tenth order for the next Convention day.

Now, anybody that loses a minority report — and this is for the protection of the minority — they really have two cracks, so to speak, on an issue. They'll be able to argue it on the committee report. If they're — if they do not prevail there, then, when it comes on the tenth order of business on first passage, they can offer the same thing as an amendment at that time, also, and the same thing applies. And I know there's a lot of concern about committee reports coming out deleting sections of the Constitution, and there might be — you might be the only delegate in that committee that wishes that section not to be deleted, so you can't get two more signers to come out with a minority report. So — but he will have his opportunity on the tenth order of business to make an amendment to adopt that — to include that section. That will be the time that he'll have his opportunity. Either that or he could introduce a separate proposal, if he wishes, in committee, and if he can't get a favorable reaction in committee, of course they will end up with that proposed for them, and then he can argue his argument on the committee report and he'd have to postpone it, if he wishes.

So this protection is granted to the minority, both in committee and as delegates here on the floor.

Now, you'll notice that "No proposal that has been amended shall be voted on for first passage until one Convention day has passed." For instance, if the bill gets on the tenth order of business and there's amendment on the floor, that amendment then — or that proposal — will then have to be held over one Convention day, unless it's so simple that everybody can understand it, the rules can be suspended and you can put it on — or suspend the rules and put it on the calendar for first passage.

Now, some of these things are not easy to understand, probably, until we get into the process. But this is just exactly the way the Rules Committee see that we can make this thing work and give the minority always the right to get their ideas across.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I look at this particular section, 13.1, and it ties in very closely with Rule 20, and I would like to ask Delegate Trenbeath if it's the intent of the Rules Committee that an individual delegate can amend a report after it has been presented to the delegation or the Convention from the floor? Is this the object of the Rule 20? We're presuming that we will adopt Rule 20 and tie it in with 13.1. Is that the effect it will have?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President. You're very observant, Delegate Butler. I forgot to mention that in speaking about the new amendments to Rule 13.1, because the amendments that will be coming in Rule 20 do apply to the conditions of Rule 13.1, and, as I stated before, in the work of the Committee and in their observations, we felt we would prolong this Convention to no end if we allowed the amendments on the Committee Reports, either majority or minority, because, in reality, in a lot of cases the minority report itself is an amendment. So we are allowing no amendments on the Committee Report to be made to the Committee Report; but, at the same time, the amendments will be open to be offered on the tenth order the following day, from the floor.

DELEGATE BUTLER: On that same Committee Report?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, after the Committee Report is adopted, then we call it a proposal, really.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Okay. Call it what you want; it makes no difference. You're still going to be able to have an individual delegate amend it from the floor?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Yes, you bet. He'll have that opportunity.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Okay. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there further questions?

The question before the body is on the — to adopt the amendment.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, I believe this question is directed to Delegate Trenbeath and the members of the Committee. But I can see the interesting circumstance of three — A, B and C — objectors to a particular proposal combining forces, three individuals each. That's nine. And my 17-member Education Committee — it would seem to me nine of 17 would effect the majority report. And in that case, if those individuals wanted to stop passage of that, could they, in effect, control the process by moving for a majority report for indefinite postponement and leaving the other eight members of that Committee in a minority position, or is that perceptible to the Rules Committee?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Delegate Sanstead, we never discussed that possibility in the Rules Committee; but I can't see how that would ever — ever happen, because the minute it came to the floor, that kind of coalition would certainly come to light and the Convention could make their decision there on that Committee Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further questions? Further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment to Rule 13.1.

Hearing no further discussion. I will call the question.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

And now we're on the question of adopting Rule No. 13.1. That's the amendment to the rules.

Now, Delegate Trenbeath, do you move that we adopt Rule No. 13.1, as amended?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, I so move.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And do we have a second? Delegate Litten offered the second.

So now the question before the assembly is on the adoption of Rule 13.1, as amended.

Is there any discussion? Are there any questions?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the rule is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 15. CALLS OF THE CONVENTION

"Calls of the Convention ((may)) shall be ordered upon ((motion by the affirmative vote of the majority of the members present and voting but the total vote in favor of such call shall be not less than 15)) demand of not less than fifteen delegates.

"After a call of the Convention is ordered, the doors shall be closed and the members shall not be permitted to leave the floor of the Convention without permission of the President of the Convention.

"((The sergeant-at-arms shall notify all members within the bar of the Convention of the call.))

"The roll of the Convention shall be called and the absentees noted.

"The sergeant-at-arms may, upon motion, be dispatched after the absentees. In such case, a list of the absentees shall be furnished by the clerk of the Convention to the sergeant-at-arms, who shall bring such absentees to the floor of the Convention with all possible speed.

"In case the sergeant-at-arms requires assistance in addition to the regularly appointed assistant sergeants-at-arms of the Convention, the President, upon motion, may deputize as a special assistant sergeant-at-arms any person properly qualified.

"The Convention may proceed to other business under a call of the Convention pending the arrival of the absentees.

"A call of the Convention may be dispensed with by ((a majority vote of the members)) an affirmative vote of not less than fifty delegates."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the amendment. Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President. Just a brief explanation on the action of the Committee on Rule 15.

In the first paragraph, the new language, I think, is self-explanatory. And then, down to the third paragraph, the deletion of the entire third paragraph:

"The thinking of the Committee here was that the words like "bar of the Convention" could be misconstrued.

And then, on to the last paragraph: I think the new language there has a more definite meaning in the Rule and I would move the adoption of Rule 15.

DELEGATE BINEK: Second.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Rule 15, and it's been moved and Delegate Binek — a question. Delegate Binek, did you second?

DELEGATE BINEK: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's what I interpreted it to be. So we have — the Rule has been moved and it has been seconded for the adoption of Rule 15.

Now, do we have any questions. Is there any discussion? Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. We have — could have a situation which has developed yesterday —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Push the button.

DELEGATE CART: On the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No.

DELEGATE CART: Assuming that a member is ill and confined to a hospital, or something, would we list that person as one that should be brought? If that person has been properly excused because of his illness, he certainly couldn't be listed as one that should be brought forcibly to the Convention, necessarily.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I answer? Are you directing the question to the Chair?

DELEGATE CART: Well, to the Convention here. There's someone that wrote these rules. Just how would this be applied? I've seen this happen in the Legislature many years ago, where someone was ill and we had to have calls of the body, and that person was, of course, not listed as one that could be brought. He was absent because of illness.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Trying to answer Delegate Cart's question: Do the Rules of the Legislature provide for sick members under a call of the Convention? Maybe some of the people here who have served in the Legislature can tell us.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I think the procedure is, if someone is sick, that someone who is aware of this should make a motion that that person be excused from the call. They do that at the call and there is precedence for this. I'm sure it could happen. I would assume that this Convention would be kind enough to excuse someone that was sick, if they had to be brought here on a stretcher.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: President Wenstrom. The policy that is generally followed goes something like that. In the event there are members who, for illness or other reasons, will not be available to be brought before the House or these chambers, someone will move that the call of the House or the call of the Convention be dispensed with, and on a majority vote, of course, that motion will prevail and then those members are automatically excused.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does that answer your question, Delegate Cart?

DELEGATE CART: I'm satisfied, yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion, or are there any further questions? If not, the question is on the adoption of Rule 15.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Rule is adopted.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I would like to ask — have the permission of the delegates to take Rule 19 before we take Rule 16. Rule 19 is so pertinent to 16.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing no objection, the permission is granted. I believe it was Rule 19 — isn't that right, Delegate Geelan?

DELEGATE GEELAN: That's right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: So next for consideration would be Rule 19.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 19. ORDER OF CONSIDERATION OF PROPOSALS AND FINAL DRAFT

"The regular order to be taken by proposals introduced in the Convention shall be as follows:

"1. Introduction (((, first reading by title,))) and reference to a committee or committees by the President, and reproduction and distribution in a manner and amount as ordered by the President unless otherwise ordered by a majority of the delegates voting.

"2. Report of committee and (((placing on the calendar of the convention under General Orders of the Day))) action of the Convention on the committee report.

"3. (((Consideration by the Convention in order of report from committee.))) Placing proposal on calendar, first reading and action of Convention on first passage.

"4. Reference to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

"5. Report of Committee on Style and Drafting (((to the Convention))) and action of the Convention on the report.

"6. (((Second))) If the adopted committee report calls for any revision, second reading ((,)) and vote on second passage.

"7. Re-reference on Committee on Style and Drafting for incorporation in final draft.

"8. (((Final report))) Report by Committee on Style and Drafting (((for incorporation in final draft))) and acceptance of report.

"9. Consideration by the Convention on (((third))) final reading and final vote on passage (((of any complete revision by article and as a whole, or in the case of any amendment by sections as a whole))).

"10. Signing the final draft by delegates."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the proposal, and may I have a second for its adoption? Delegate Kelsch. The motion has been made for adoption.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No, it hasn't.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would move that Rule 19, as amended, and shown, be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do I have a second?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Trenbeath.

Now, is there any discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I'll try to run through this.

This, of course, is the order that the Rules Committee has tried to come up with that the proposal will go through, and of course it's very important we all understand how this works. We hope we haven't got it too complicated. It was quite a job. But I'll run through it and try to answer any questions that you have.

First of all, we started out with No. 1, and this is the introduction of the proposals. That's out. This may be either a committee or delegate proposal. We struck out "first reading by title," because we felt that many proposals may be introduced during the interim, and we didn't feel there was a reading needed at that time. So, in item one, the proposal is introduced. It goes and is referred by the President to a committee and it's reproduced in a manner that may be ordered by the President. That's new language on reproduction.

Now, No. 2 is "Report of committee and action of the Convention on the committee report." This is, of course, the time when you will be considering the minority reports and, in some cases, you may have four or five minority reports on one proposal, and those minority reports will either win or fail. So there will be a head-on issue, usually, at this time in argument or debate on the Convention floor on whether or not the majority report should be either substituted for or by the minority report, or whether or not the majority report should be amended by the minority report. Some minority reports are comprehensive enough so that they will work for a substitute for a majority report that's being tendered; others are limited in scope, dealing with one or two sections of a majority report, and these would be treated as amending, if accepted. If rejected, that's the end of the minority report. If amended, it would constitute an amendment or substitution of the majority.

Now, then, after that has been done and it is acted on or been accomplished so that we now have a majority report, as it may be amended or substituted by a minority, before the Convention floor, we then are on No. 3, and that is the placing of a proposal on the calendar and first reading and action by the Convention on first passage.

The Rules Committee views this to be the primary and final battle on any particular issue. We call it a "first passage." We don't want to imply that, because it's called "first passage" — and there is another word — called "second passage" and "final passage" — it should be entitled to three strikes on an issue. We call it "first" — but these are the best words we could find, and we felt we needed a second passage to cover style problems and final passage and the final document. We want you to understand that "first passage" is really the ballgame. The only way you could get back on the merits of the proposal would be by reconsideration. After it's had first passage, to get it back, you'll have to ask for reconsideration.

No. 4 — and that's an automatic thing — as soon as it's had its first passage, it's automatically referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

No. 5: That Committee reports its action to the Convention.

And No. 6: If the Style and Drafting report calls for revision, then there will be a second passage. Now it may well be — we hope in many instances Style and Drafting will feel the proposal passed finally was in good shape and doesn't need any changes. If that's the case, they simply report that and then the proposal then scoots on down the row there to No. 9; in other words, to be incorporated in the final draft, and the next time we see it will be on the final draft. If, however, Style and Drafting tampers with that proposal in any regard — and we spelled out the powers — you have gone through those — the powers to take out inaccuracies, unnecessary words, or whatever the case may be — to title them — if they tamper with the proposal, then the matter is resubmitted on — goes to the calendar for second passage. You will then be able to first accept or reject Style and Drafting's report. If we don't like what they did, we don't need to accept their report, and the thing stays in its original form. If we like what they did, we'll accept their report, and then it will go on the calendar for second passage.

Now, at this time, amendments will be allowed, but they will have to be related only to style and drafting, and the President will rule you out of order if you go to any attempt beyond style and drafting and, of course, this is going to be hard and difficult, because sometimes it may be a change of a word and you might think it's a change of style, and I might think it's a change in meaning, and we're just going to have a little bit of a problem if I don't think it's just a change of a word and feel it's a change of meaning in style and drafting, and the President is going to rule. If we don't like the way he rules, we'll appeal his decision. If the majority will accept his decision, it will be accepted and — or appealed. But I want to make it clear on the second passage it will be limited to style and drafting, which will be the areas set out in the powers of the Style and Drafting. In other words, we'll have the same powers that they have as a full Convention, if we don't like what they did.

Then, on No. 7: After we've considered on second passage, it will go back again to Style and Drafting, because Style and Drafting will have to incorporate it in their final draft and then, finally, on No. 8, there will be a report by the Committee on Style and Drafting on the — and their acceptance, which would be, really, the final draft of the whole Constitution.

And No. 9 would be consideration by the Convention on the final — the final vote and passage.

Now, the old law — the old rule provided that — if you will read the language in triple brackets on No. 9 — it says that we were to consider by the Convention “of any complete revision by article and as a whole, or in the case of any amendment by sections as a whole.” And your Rules Committee did not — we’re not — we haven’t been able to agree at this point on this final draft — whether or not we should again be able to consider section by section; whether the document should be presented to this Convention on a take-it-or-leave-it basis — you vote “yes” or you vote “no,” and if you vote “no,” you reject the whole document in toto, and if you vote “yes” you take the whole document in toto. We fear that if we go section-by-section, we might be starting over again. On the other hand, there’s the concern that we’ll have to consider whether or not we want to put it on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. We could let it go, and all these sections will have passed by at least a 50 vote majority. Maybe we should let it go that way. Anyway, this is something we have not decided on yet. We feel that we don’t have to decide this issue right today. We’d like the delegates to think on the subject, because the Rules Committee — I understand Chairman Geelan will be calling meetings later, at which time we will hear you out on how you want this handled.

We did, however, add one further thing — No. 10 — and that’s the signing of the final draft by delegates. We haven’t gone into much specific on that — whether you would sign “no” or whether you would sign it at all, if you were opposed to it. But we really felt that the delegates should, as a final act, sign the document that will be presented to the electorate for approval.

One other point: We have not decided, and should probably cover this Rule — and we haven’t been able to resolve it — we feel this is an important one that will have to be resolved very quickly — and that’s the problem on alternate proposals, and there are a number of possibilities. Some have talked about if a proposal gets too few votes, it will be considered as a possibility as an alternate. Others have said maybe we should have a committee who would recommend whether or not we have alternates and in what areas they should be. Some have suggested that we would not consider an alternate proposal until you at least pass some first proposal on the same subject, and there are a lot of ramifications. We would like to have your thinking about this, and there would be meetings, I imagine, called very rapidly on this point, so we can get a rule on this point, because we’ll need it right away.

If there’s any questions on these, I’d be glad to try to answer them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions? Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. It seems I share the same fate of everybody in not being able to operate this. Is it working now?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Okay. I have had many thoughts about this rule, and they’re no strangers to the Rules Committee, since I appeared before the Rules Committee and spoke my piece on several occasions. But I do feel that I would like to call the delegates’ attention to my thoughts on it.

I am not happy with a possible three votes necessary to finally pass a proposal. I think you have to compare our procedure here to a house of the Legislature, because we are a deliberative body, composed of members. We are passing proposals in the same manner that the Legislature passes bills — with one possible exception: Presumptively we may have to incorporate all of our passed proposals into a new document, and I want to mention that, too.

I do not believe that there should be required to be a vote on a proposal unless at the time of the vote the language of the proposal is in the final form that it is to take. Otherwise, it’s a preliminary vote. It was my suggestion to the Rules Committee that when a proposal came before this body for action by a vote of the delegates, if the proposal is voted down, obviously that’s the end of that proposal and it would not have to go — it would not have to go to any Committee on Style and Drafting. The Convention might, however, feel that there was sufficient merit in that proposal that it should then go to the Committee on Style and Drafting, so that it could be put in the form that it was to be adopted in. That vote would be merely a vote to refer it to the Style and Drafting Committee. When it came back from that Committee, it presumptively would mean the same, but the actual language would then be before this body to be debated upon. Now, the problem that I foresaw was that, if it is passed on call the first time, and then goes to the Style and Drafting Committee, then comes back, the language will not be the same. Now it might be, but, presumptively, if the Committee's going to do anything, they will have done something to it. Then, in the Committee — in the Rules Committee — when we discussed this, it was said that the real debate would have already been over before it got to the Style and Drafting Committee, and that the only thing that the Chair could permit me to say, or anybody else, would be to debate whether this Style and Drafting Committee change had done anything material. I felt that that put an impossible duty upon the Chair and I would foresee many appeals from the Chair's rulings, when I was maintaining that the addition or deletion of one word or the tense of one word or a synonym to me might change the whole meaning of this proposal, and that I would have — I want to have a chance to debate it, and knew that, in a sense, it's a different proposal than the one that was first formed. So I didn't want to commit the delegates to that, and I didn't want to have two or even three full-scale debates or delegates attempting to debate with the Chair ruling them out of order because it didn't have to do only with style and drafting. So my thought and my suggestion was that — you know, your thumb gets tired holding this up. My suggestion was that we do not debate it until we have the exact language, because here are some of the things that could happen:

If this thing falls down and this procedure bogs down, we'll have to keep extremely careful track of whether the style of the proposal is that it passed in on first passage, and that was enough, because there never was any action by the Style and Drafting Committee or, if there was some action, it would have to have two passages, and perhaps under the proposed rules would have to come back for a third time. By the time that happens, our calendar is going to be about this high (indicating), because we've only got 28 days left after today.

Now, that brings me to one more point that I want to mention while I'm on my feet, and that is the assumption — and I'm assuming it's an assumption, because it's not required — that after we have passed all these individual proposals, at some latter stage of this Convention we will have before us a whole constitution to vote "yes" or "no" on. Now, if that is the way we proceed — and I say it's not necessary — but if that's the way we proceed, we may have accumulated a rather large number of votes against individual proposals and sections of the new constitution, because I would assume that there may be many sections that are not passed unanimously by this body. If those accumulated votes feel strongly enough about the individual proposals that they voted against, they may all vote "no" on the final draft of a constitution, and we may have 60 delegates voting "no." What is the legal status then of any or all of the proposals, if the final draft of a proposed constitution is voted down? Do we then revert to the passed proposals and submit those, or have we done nothing? Have we, in effect, then reconsidered our actions on all the successful proposals by voting "no" on the final draft? And I don't have an answer to that. Well, I have my own answer, but I'm not urging it at the moment. But I do think that that is something that we need to think about very carefully, and what happens, because we may find that we may undo our work in the last few days of the Convention.

I don't have any amendments offered. Actually, I've been sitting here thinking we seem to be violating our own rules. We're amending this Committee Report as fast as it's come out, before we've adopted it, if that rule has already been passed — I'm not sure. But I do think that there should be more thinking on Rule 19. I give high credit to the Rules Committee. They have listened to me with great patience before, but I do think that it is so important that I think all the delegates should think about it. That's the close of the remarks that I had to make. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Pearce. Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I'm sure you can all see that the Rules Committee worked hard on this one. This is a tough one. So I have to agree, and to a great degree, with Delegate Pearce's point that we know that if you allow Style and Drafting to tamper in any regard, there's going to be an argument as to whether or not that changes the intent or meaning; and, of course, it is going to be a tough burden for the President. It's going to make it difficult. But I think, if you're going to have — the problem appears in Delegate Pearce's suggestion that, if you take that route, that you are not going to have style and drafting. That was, I think, the feeling of at least the majority of the Committee. In other words, if you preliminarily consider something and send it out of Style and Drafting, so you see the final thing when it comes back in, it's either going to be a take-it-or-leave-it basis, or allow amendments. Now, if you're going to allow liberal amendments, we're going to have a mess, as far as I'm concerned. So, if we are not concerned about it reading poorly or looking badly, then maybe we shouldn't have a Style and Drafting Committee. But I think that in a case of individual laws in the Legislature, I can see where you don't really care in that regard; but we're writing a constitution, and the only way we can see that we can let style — or have a Style and Drafting Committee, you've got to give them some power, and if they're going to have some power, the question is going to be raised whether or not they changed the intent. It's going to be up to this body, however, to decide that. They have to come back to us for this decision, and I can envision many appeals from the Chair and I can envision delegates being unhappy because they're going to believe that this may have changed the intent. The Style and Drafting is not going to be a very pleasant committee to serve on; but I don't know how else you're going to do this. You're going to have to have Style and Drafting, and the Committee felt you've got to give them a shot at these things, as to the language, after this body has spoken to intent; and if they go beyond language and go into intent, we'll just have to tell them that.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Is it working now?

Mr. President, some of the speakers have mentioned "if we have a Style and Drafting." Now, I've been thinking for several weeks and made the remark in my committee that I didn't want an English Professor rewriting this; just — now, we have seven attorneys in the committee I was on — reasonably good in English — a couple of ex-schoolteachers, an ex-newspaper man. I maintain that the committee can write correct sections, as well as any other committee, and I think we should abolish the Style and Drafting Committee, especially in view of all the argument of what they may or may not do. We're not writing a Shakespearean play; we're writing an ordinary document for ordinary people, and I think we put too much stress on style and drafting.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, if I may respond.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would take issue with your point. I think some of the committees come out with some very fine work, and if we are just going to take the committees' work carte blanche, fine — you might have a pretty nice document; but I can envision this Convention is going to do a little amending, and we have an open rule on amending, and you know what happens when we start to tamper with the way words are written, to get a point across, by amending; and some of these sections are going to look quite peculiar. We may be saying what we want to say, but we may not say it's going to read very well. Someone also has to have the power to put this together — which section comes first, which comes second. There's another function of Style and Drafting. So I think this is a fundamental problem and I think you all should think about it.

I agree with Delegate Pearce — we may be saying they change something. In the Rules Committee, we are not sure we are making any changes, but I think we've got to decide, if you want a Style and Drafting Committee, if you feel style and drafting is an important function in writing a constitution, I don't know how you can — I think you can then accept this Rule 19. If you are opposed to the concept, then maybe we should take the suggestion and vote to refer this back to the Rules Committee to go to work and take Style and Drafting out or possibly follow somewhat the suggestion of Delegate Pearce, if you like that better.

One other point, if I may, on the point — on any final passage with a vote of nine delegates. Mr. Pearce said he's concerned if 60 delegates who were opposed — if we had to vote on the end, we might have a problem. Well, the only answer I can give to that: If we have 60 delegates here that don't like the finished product, we've wasted our time, and I think that we should — the knowledge — the knowledge that you and I are going to have to vote finally on this document someday as a whole package is going to make us continually concerned about everyone's viewpoint. We'll not have the simple majority run roughshod as to their ideas on this Convention, because we'll all want a clear substantial majority of the delegates to sign that document, to vote "yes" on that document in the end, and if we know today that we're going to face that day of reckoning sometime, and I'm going to have to say "Do I accept it all or do I reject it all?" And you know that I'm going to have that right, and everybody else knows it, I think we'll compromise — we'll at least be aware and conscious of the others' feelings and thoughts.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I do think that the Convention should debate proposals before they're sent to the Style and Drafting, because I can take, for an example, the Legislative Functions Committee's work. Now, we, as members, probably know what the intent was of our proposals; but what about the Style and Drafting Committee? After these proposals are debated on the floor, we will know better what the intent of the Convention is as to this proposal and will be able to not change the philosophy. You know, we'll have a better knowledge of what the intent is and not be apt to change the philosophy of the proposal. So I think the rule as is would do a good job for us.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce — I'm sorry. Delegate Longmire. I believe Delegate Pearce has spoken. Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I can see some of the objections made here by Delegate Pearce. However, I believe, from the practical standpoint here, we are assuming a lot of difficulty is going to develop, which may never develop. After all, these people on the Style and Drafting Committee, they know or they will know in most of these instances whether or not they're changing the intent or the substance of that section, and I think they're going to be very hesitant to change any word or any group of words that is going to change the intent. They know that their responsibilities are to put it in good, simple, concise language that's as understandable as possible, and I think they're going to concentrate on that, and to punctuate it properly and spell properly and have as good a grammar as we can, and that they're not going to monkey, as a practical matter, with the intent of that proposal or section that has been passed. I — also, in the final document, I think we have 98 reasonable people here that know they're not going to have their way exactly on every section of this Constitution, and I can't foresee that we will have some that will be narrow-minded enough to vote against the whole thing because one little section or two sections or something in there did not agree with their thinking. I think, as a practical matter, this thing will resolve itself when we get into the proceedings, and that we don't have to worry too much about what could happen. I think the practical thing will happen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Thank you, Mr. President.

I only would like to remark that I have spent, in my short lifetime — the latter part of it — in arguing before courts and with people what words meant in contracts and writings of one kind or another, and it's my past experience that words may foul up what something means. The other man says, "Well, that doesn't change the meaning at all," and that doesn't convince the man. So that's the problem.

The only other thing I wanted to point out to the delegates: There has been no decision on this yet, and maybe there won't be for some time. There is no legal mandate to this Convention to adopt a whole new constitution. That isn't a necessary thing. We can do it, if we want. We don't have to, if we want.

We talk about amendments. I also wish to remind you that every alternate proposal that we offer to the people is, in a sense, an immediate amendment of the constitution that we adopt.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any other — is there any further discussion? Are there any questions?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President, a question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Delegate Butler — over here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Presuming we adopt the rules today, what method of changing the rules is required? Does a simple majority vote of this Convention change the rule?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan, would you care to answer?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President, after our report is adopted, we intend to bring it to the attention of the Convention. After all, these are temporary rules. I think we can live with them and operate under them. But we are hesitant about making these the permanent rules, since there are some unsolved questions. So I would say that there — there would still be an opportunity to change these rules and there would be a need for the change, because we haven't made some very important decisions.

Now, I'm not sure if we're right on this — we have spent some time talking about it — but we believe that we could operate without making these the final, permanent rules of the Convention.

I hope that answers your question, Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: But I don't see any place in the temporary rules where it spells out how they are to be changed on the temporary rules, excepting at the majority holding of the Convention. Is that the present basis of operation?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Except that the organizational convention gave the Permanent Rules Committee the right to revise them. So we think that that, unless that is changed, would be the controlling factor. I think maybe we should have, maybe, our President, or somebody who understands the legal aspects better than I do — but that is the thinking of the Committee — that these would be temporary rules under which we would live, and then, after — after the delegates have had a chance and the Committee has had a chance to solve some of these unsolved problems, we would then move that these would be the permanent rules. But, even then, I think you could give the Permanent Rules Committee the right at any time to bring in an amendment to a rule.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Thank you.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, if we go all the way through and adopt the last two sentences of this proposed new set of rules, I believe that it would take a two-thirds vote until the last two days to suspend or amend the rules. Is that correct?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, that is correct. The rules that we're recommending and, I think, have already passed, for that matter, is that it takes two-thirds vote to amend, and I believe our power — the Rules Committee power may not be to amend. It may be out, now that the Plenary Session is in convention; but we could — if the delegates are interested in doing this on a temporary basis, we could have an understanding that it be made permanent rules; that a 50 percent majority would be sufficient to amend, if the delegates are interested in that, and then figuring at some later date, maybe in the next five, ten days, we would move to make the rules permanent. Of course, once that happens, it would take two-thirds to amend.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: I'm just wondering if we aren't worrying about something here that's taken care of in the Committee of the Whole. If we are all meeting here — all 98 of us — we could then call ourselves the Rules Committee. Down there on the reconsideration it says the majority vote can change anything. So I think, if we act as a Committee of the Whole, I think the simple majority can change it.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I believe, if you read carefully, you will find the proposal is to delete the entire section calling for a provision for a Committee of the Whole.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any further questions?

If not, the question is on the adoption of the amendments to Rule 19. I'll call for the question.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

The Chair will rule the "ayes" have it.

Delegate Geelan, do you wish to proceed now with Rule 20 or is it your desire that we go back to 16?

DELEGATE GEELAN: I think now we can go back to 16, because 16 aligns itself to Rule 19.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Then, without objection, we will be giving consideration to Rule 16.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 16. ORDER OF BUSINESS

"The order of business of the Convention shall be as follows:

- "1. Call to order
- "2. Invocation
- "3. Roll call
- "4. Approval of journal
- "5. Reports of standing committees
- "6. Consideration of amendments
- "((6)) 7. Reports of select committees
- "((7)) 8. Communications
- "((8)) 9. Introduction ((and first reading)) and reference of proposals to committees
- "((9)) 10. ((Second)) First reading and first passage of proposals
- "((10)) 11. ((Third)) Second reading and second passage of proposals
- "((11)) 12. Motions and resolutions
- "((12)) 13. Unfinished business
- "((13)) 14. Special orders of the day
- "((14)) 15. General orders of the day
- "16. Final reading and passage of proposals"

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now may I have a motion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would like to move an amendment to Rule — further amendment to Rule 16.

If the delegates will please look at the large legal-sized sheet.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, I believe we should first have a motion to adopt Rule 16, and then you can amend.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I move that the Convention adopt Rule 16 as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then do we have a second?

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been seconded by Delegate Christensen. Now, Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I would now move an amendment — a further amendment to Rule 16.

If you'll look on the large sheet, in the middle of the page. In the old rules — this is really a corrective device. In the old Rule, the old words appeared in the triple brackets there. They said, "Any subject matter made the special order for a particular day, not having been reached on that day, shall come up for the consideration under the order of 'Unfinished Business' at the next succeeding session of the convention."

The Rules Committee felt that this would be a mistake to put everything under unfinished business, because pretty soon the whole calendar would be an unfinished business calendar, and we felt, to leave your proposals wherever they are, if they're on the tenth order or on the order for amendment, would; so we just felt this language in the rules of the Plenary Session should be amended, and I would so move.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a motion for amendment. And do we have a second?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan seconded the motion.

Now, is there any discussion on the amendment to the amendment? Hearing none, the question then is on the amendment to the amendment.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and we're back on Rule 16.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, if I may now explain the other changes.

What we've done on Rule 16 is more or less make it conform to Rule 20 and name the order of business. We've added the sixth order of business for consideration of amendments. This was not in our original rules, and we felt that there may be amendments of committee reports that should go on the sixth order.

The ninth order now would be the reference to the committees. We struck out "and first reading," to be consistent. The tenth order will be the first reading and first passage, and that, you recall, is the time that we have indicated under the rules to be the main debate on a proposal.

The eleventh order would be the second reading and second passage. This would only occur if Style and Drafting tampered with the proposal. If they did not tamper with the proposal, it would no go on the eleventh order; it would jump right on down to the sixteenth order. And the rest of it is your numbering, with the inclusion of the new Order 16, "Final reading and passage of proposals."

Mr. President, I would move that Rule 16 as amended be adopted by the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a motion and second that the Rule be adopted — by Delegate Kelsch. So the question now is on the debate on this order — on this Rule — on Rule 16.

Is there any debate? Are there any questions?

The question then before the assembly is on the adoption of Rule 16, Order of Business, as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Rule will be adopted.

It is now six minutes to twelve, and what is the wish of the Convention? Do you wish to continue or do you wish to recess?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I move we recess for soup to one o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Rundle that we recess for soup until one o'clock. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's seconded by Delegate McIntyre.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it.

(The Session recessed at 11:54 A.M. until 1:13 P.M., the same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order? May we have order in the assembly?

Without objection, we will revert to the eighth order of business, Communications and Announcements, for an announcement from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: In checking the master mailing list for the Journal, I have found that all county superintendents of schools, all city superintendents of schools, and all school districts — those three — each receive a set — or one of the day's Journal. They all get one copy of the Journals. That will answer any of your mailing questions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Roy, what about the courts and the libraries?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: All judges and libraries.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Libraries, and so forth?

(Chief Clerk Gilbreath nodded.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, are there any further questions on that?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: All county superintendents of schools, all city superintendents of schools, and each school district, and the libraries, all receive a copy of the Journal in the mail in the regular mailing.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: How about school districts? I believe that includes all county state's attorneys and all city mayors, too.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yeah.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: How about newspapers and radio stations? They should be number one on the list?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are they on the list, Roy?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I don't know. We'll check.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will see immediately. After this, they will get the Journal.

Any further questions?

Without objection, then, we'll return to the question of rules.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 17. JOURNAL. TRANSCRIPT. CALENDAR.

"The clerk of the Convention shall keep a journal of the proceedings of the Convention in conformity with the rules, supervise the daily publication thereof (((,))) and make such corrections as may be (((necessary))) approved.

"The journal shall contain all formal actions of the Convention, including the introduction of all proposals, motions and resolutions, and the actions of the Convention thereon. The clerk of the Convention shall furnish each delegate a copy of the journal of the previous day.

"The clerk of the Convention, under the direction of the president, shall maintain a calendar of the business of the Convention and he shall furnish each delegate with a copy of the calendar for that day (((and a list of committee meetings scheduled for the following day))).

"A Convention reporter shall keep a verbatim record by electronic recording device or otherwise of Convention proceedings and shall, within the time prescribed in his appointment by the Convention, provide a verbatim transcript of all proceedings of the sessions of the Convention."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of Rule 17. Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President. Just a brief explanation on the action of the Committee on Rule 17.

There has only been minor corrections made here by the Committee. But down in paragraph three, the Committee felt that the deletion that was made there would — if that was left in, it would only create a big burden, and it was really unnecessary, and I would move the adoption of Rule 17.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Fallgatter and seconded by Delegate Litten that we do now adopt Rule 17.

Is there any further discussion?

If not, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Rule 17 is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 18. INTRODUCTION OF PROPOSALS

"Any citizen or group of citizens of the State of North Dakota (((, until the 1st of September, 1971,))) submit in writing directly to the President of the Convention any ideas for consideration by the Convention. The President shall refer all such material to an appropriate committee of the Convention. The committee may, after consideration of the ideas, prepare any proposals it deems appropriate for presentation to the entire Convention.

"All other matters intended to become a part of any revised constitution or constitutional amendment shall be introduced by a delegate or delegates in the form of a proposal and endorsed by the delegate or delegates introducing them or shall originate as committee proposals.

"A proposal introduced by a delegate shall be designated a delegate proposal.

"A proposal introduced by a committee shall be designated a committee proposal.

"All proposals shall be introduced by delivery of the (((clerk))) President of the Convention on a form prescribed by him. Proposals shall be reproduced and distributed (((under the direction of the clerk of the Convention))) to each delegate.

"When a delegate proposal is introduced, it shall be referred by the President to the proper standing committee, which committee shall report its action on such proposal to the Convention.

"(((During the interim period between the organizational session and the plenary session of the Convention, proposals shall be received by the President and referred to the proper standing committee.)))

"No delegate proposal shall be introduced after the fifth day of the plenary session, and no committee proposal shall be introduced after the twentieth day of the plenary session."

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: I move the adoption of this Rule, and after there's a second, I will give a little explanation of it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks moves the adoption of Rule 18. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON. Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton. Now, Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: The first deletion there of the September 1st date was to — because we thought this date was too early, and this was to encourage citizen participation in what the Convention is doing up to and into the plenary session.

On the second page there is a change in how proposals are to be introduced. The changes standardize the procedure for proposals during the Plenary Session and during the interim session, and just make it an easier rule to follow.

The added language in the last paragraph makes it — is in the interest of not having proposals introduced too late in the session, either in the — either delegate proposals or committee proposals — and we figured that these days in committee would probably give us time enough for all of these proposals to be in. Should, however, something come up that we needed to have proposals introduced after the fifth day for the delegates, or after the twentieth day for committee proposals, it would be possible to suspend the rules and still have them introduced.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions? Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President. Do I understand, then, that a citizen proposal can be submitted at any time with no limit on that, up until the end of the Convention?

DELEGATE WICKS: As these rules read, that is my understanding — that this was the intent of the Committee. So, if a citizen should be introducing rules up to the end of the Plenary Session, they would be considered and could be presented to the Convention, if it was deemed necessary.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Would that then go in as a committee proposal on the second page, or shall — second line of the second page — “or shall originate as committee proposals” — is that to apply on the citizens’ proposals, too? If the idea is presented to a committee and referred to them and it is something that they want to bring back to the Convention, does that become a committee proposal? — is my question.

DELEGATE WICKS: I don’t know the answer to this. Does some other member of the Committee know the answer to this?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would someone like to answer Delegate Butler’s question?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I would presume that, since we are allowing citizen suggestions up to any time, then if that is referred to a committee and that committee makes the delegate proposal, then you come under the rule — the last paragraph on this rule.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, doesn’t it seem a little odd to accept citizens’ proposals through the thirtieth day when delegates have five days? There could be a case where a delegate would have to go out on the street and get a private citizen to enter a proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I answer the question?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move that the Chair be allowed to answer the question.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing no objection, I will proceed to answer Delegate Rundle’s question. I think that this matter of delegate or citizen proposals was pretty much left in the rules at my request. I think it is imperative that this Convention do consider every idea that is sent to us by a citizen. I would hate to have it said that a citizen was not given the privilege of submitting an idea or thought. Regardless of how ridiculous it might be in our minds, it would be very important in his. Otherwise, he would not make the recommendation. And because of that, I’m sure this Rules Committee, at my suggestion, did leave it in there. However, I think that — that someplace along the line, they did amend so that the ideas — we consider those that come from the public or from the citizens, as citizen ideas, and not citizen proposals. I think that that one word in there is possibly in error. However, that is the basis for continuing to allow the public to submit ideas and proposals to this Convention. I hope that answers your question, Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Under the present proposed rules, the Committee is limited to the twentieth day of the Convention for introduction of the proposals, and I would suggest that paragraph — the first two lines of paragraph — Rule 18 would indicate that we put a limitation on it, even though it was deleted under September 1, 1971, and I can appreciate the reason that was done. I think it would clarify the procedures that we are to follow, if that date of the 15th of January, or some day about halfway through our Convention, would be inserted in lieu of what's there, and the purpose of having that would be so that a committee to whom the proposal was referred would have adequate time to work it before they'd submit it on the twentieth day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would you like to offer an amendment in that regard?

DELEGATE BUTLER: I would like to offer such an amendment, but I don't have a calendar in front of me that would tell what date it would be. Perhaps the Clerk would have a calendar that would show it. I would guess it to be about halfway through the Convention, and at least three or four days before the committee is required to place this proposal before the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second on his —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No, we don't have it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler, would you repeat your amendment, so that the desk can copy it?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Yes. I would move that in the second line of Rule 18, Introduction of Proposals, that the date as now stricken, "until the 1st of September, 1971," be eliminated and insert the date of January — okay — let's do it that way. We'll make it the fifteenth day — after the fifteenth day of the Session.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Fifteenth day of the Constitutional Convention.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And the motion has been seconded by Delegate Rundle.

Now, is there any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Butler on the Rule 18, on the second line.

As many as are in favor — excuse me. Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I think our President made quite a point when he said this is an idea and not a proposal. In order for the citizen idea to become a proposal, I understand it has to be taken to a committee and then is presented; but I can see no reason why we cannot at least look at ideas throughout the Session.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments? Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the proposed amendment to Rule 18.

As many as are in favor of the motion, you will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

Are there any further amendments to Rule 18?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I understand that last night the Committee considered some change on the last paragraph of Rule 18 regarding five-day proceeding on proposed resolutions. A number of delegates would like to see that extended to ten days, to give us until about next Tuesday or Wednesday to introduce proposals. Perhaps I could have the reaction of the Committee to that — about extending the time for delegate proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. The matter was discussed, but I think this was a matter that was decided by the organizational session, was it not? — in which we thought the fifth day was enough time. We did discuss the matter of extending it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I think your intent is to give the Convention and the committees enough time to complete the work; but I feel that five days is a little short. We've already wasted — not "wasted" — two days — but gone through two days, without getting some proposals from the delegates, and I would move, Mr. Chairman, that the first word in the second line from the bottom of that rule be changed to read "ten."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The proposed amendment to Rule 18 is that the "fifth day" be changed to "the tenth day." Am I right?

DELEGATE AUBOL: (Nods head.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Offered by Delegate Aubol. Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Kwako.

Now, is there any further discussion? Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: To my knowledge, we have had knowledge of these proposals placed before us in the last six months, and I cannot conceive — I rise in opposition to the motion for the amendment. I cannot see that it's going to assist any one of these delegates in the introduction of proposals any more so than they could have accomplished in the last six months, if they have been thinking about this Constitutional Convention and the things that they have received in the way of suggestions from constituents, and I ask this Convention to vote "no" on this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President. I rise to speak in favor of the amendment. I, for one — and I'm sure I'm not alone — would like this week-end to gather what is left of my wits to see if there's a proposal I might like to put in, without having to go back to my committee to see if there's some other people who would agree with my idea, and I see nothing wrong with extending this time to ten days. I'd settle with seven, which would take us through the week-end, anyway, not knowing whether or not we're going to work on Saturday.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I rise to oppose the ten days, although seven would be a good substitute, to give the delegates a week-end, and I oppose it only for this reason: That I don't see how committees can give fair consideration to delegate proposals by reporting out any other business until they have all the delegate proposals in their possession, because proposals may be coming in next week, and if we go to ten days, it will be all of next week that proposals will continue to come into that committee, and many of these new proposals might affect proposals that have already been reported out of the committees. Therefore, I don't see how the committees can process very much work until the proposals deadline is past. Otherwise, they might be taking action on things that are still coming in to the committee. And so I think that maybe it might be wise to have a week-end. I think ten days might be a little long before our committees are able to really get to work on the substantive matters that they have before them.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I have no objection to lowering the days; just so it goes past the week-end — until Monday or Tuesday — and I'm not sure how you are counting days. Is the sixth day Saturday?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE AUBOL: The seventh day is not Saturday. The seventh day is Monday.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You're right. That's right.

DELEGATE AUBOL: The eighth day is Tuesday. With the consent of my second, I would make that the eighth day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol has requested the permission of his second to make the change to the eighth day instead of the tenth day.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Agreed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako agrees. So now the date would be — the motion is that it be changed from “five” to “eight.” Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President, when Delegate Aubol asked the question about Saturday, did you mean we’re going to work on Saturday. A question of information only.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig, that is not the question before the house. (Laughter)

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I agree one hundred percent that we are extending the introduction deadline too long, if we go even into the eighth day. The committees are sitting here, ready to turn out their documents, and if we extend the introduction deadline, we’re just killing that much time. Okay. We are now working up until the end of this week on our current deadline. We certainly should, amongst all of us delegates, be able to formulate our thoughts, and I would suggest a deadline of no later than noon Monday, rather than a specific date of the Convention, and I think that would be a better deadline than the eighth or ninth day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President, I think that most of the objections here have been well taken, but I believe that the committees have proven themselves to be very efficient, and I really don’t see any problem in extending it a few days and giving the delegates a week-end or a couple of days to think this thing over. I think most of the objections that have been brought up are well thought of by those who are concerned about the number of days; but, again, these committees — I’ve seen them function — and they process proposals in a hurry; so I don’t think we have any real problem on extending it a few days.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the amendment to change from the fifth day to the eighth day for introduction of proposals.

Hearing no more discussion, we’ll call the question.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “noes” carry. The amendment is lost.

Is there any further discussion? We’re back on the original motion — on that for the adoption of Rule 18.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President, I ask for a division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division on the previous question — on the question?

DELEGATE HARTL: That’s correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, you surely may.

Does someone recall the rule? How many have to ask for the question? Three? Eight?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Our temporary rules provide that we have fifteen stand or rise for a recorded vote; but, really, the recorder’s vote — is the recorder’s vote correct now?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, Delegate Butler. The request is not for a recorded vote; the request was for a division, and there’s quite a little difference. So my — my purpose is that — my question is that I had forgotten how many have to request a division before it’s granted.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. Five delegates, under Rule 26, may call for a division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will five delegates please rise?

(Five delegates rose.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: A division will be granted. So we will open the key, and those voting green will be voting in favor of the amendment, and those opposing will vote red.

Does any delegate wish to change? If not, the vote is closed.

DELEGATE MILLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Miller.

DELEGATE MILLER: I'm real green at this. But will Delegate —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just a moment. Now, what is your question?

DELEGATE MILLER: Well, Delegate Meidinger pushed my button, and I don't think that's quite fair. Is there some way this can be resolved? Is he to have two votes and I have none? I'm real green at this, but I'd like to know the rules. (Laughter)

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: I think he has a point, because I noticed Delegate Meidinger voted "no" on roll call this morning. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The roll call discloses 27 "ayes," 58 "nays," three absent and not voting. The Chair will sustain it.

We are now back on Rule 18 for final adoption.

Is there any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the final adoption of Rule 18.

As many as are in favor of the — Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: No. I thought — I was just going to make a motion that we adopt Rule 18 as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that we adopt Rule 18 as amended.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The Rule 18 is adopted.

We'll proceed with Rule 18.1.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 18.1. WITHDRAWAL OF PROPOSALS

"Any committee or delegate proposal may be withdrawn from further consideration by motion of the committee, if a committee proposal, or by request of the delegate or delegates sponsoring the same, if a delegate proposal; provided the unanimous consent of the Convention is obtained."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Rule 18.1.

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a motion for the adoption of the Rule?

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President, I move the adoption of this Rule.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion for adoption has been made by Delegate Wicks. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten.

Now, is there any discussion?

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: We thought, by adding this Rule, we could make for flexibility in discussions and that we could save some time so that any proposals that apparently were lost or for any reason anybody wished to withdraw, it could be done by unanimous consent of the Convention, and this would dispose of it properly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I think we ought to strike out the word "unanimous." That might be hard to get in some cases. I think we should have that rule, but "with the consent of the Convention."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none —

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I'll move — if we do not have a motion for that amendment, I'll move that that word "unanimous" be stricken in the last line.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, now you're moving an amendment —

DELEGATE BAKER: Right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — to strike the word "unanimous"?

DELEGATE BAKER: Right.

DELEGATE CART: Second the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that Rule 18.1 be amended by striking the word "unanimous" before "consent." Now, is there any discussion? Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. As I understand it, the reason for the "unanimous" — I assume that I did not put in a proposal, because I knew of a similar or identical proposal being put in by somebody else. The deadline has passed. The other people change their mind and want to pull it out. I am hopeless, unless I could get a very substantial number. There is no harm in having that in there, because the proposal, if it doesn't meet with the majority vote, it will fail anyway. But the word "unanimous" was put in there for a protection, because we've got to have a deadline on proposals. So I'm opposed to withdrawing the word "unanimous."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the proposed amendment to strike the word "unanimous."

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the motion lost.

We're back on the Rule 18.1. Any further discussion? Hearing none, we'll call the question.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The Rule 18.1 is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 19 — or "Rule 20. AMENDMENTS TO PROPOSALS

"(((Proposals and amendments to be written.))) No (((delegate or committee proposal or))) amendment shall be considered unless (((it is submitted in writing and a copy thereof delivered to the floor desk of each delegate))) prior to the time the amendment is offered (((.))) it is submitted in writing, a copy thereof delivered to the clerk of the Convention and, except for amendments offered from the floor, a copy placed on the floor desk of each delegate. Amendments may be offered from the floor of the Convention without delivery to the floor desk of each delegate, but must be in writing and a copy delivered to the clerk.

"Amendments (((to))) shall be germane. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of an amendment or substitute motion."

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I wish to offer a further amendment as contained on your single sheet in front of you, and would the Clerk read it at the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Prior to the first paragraph of Rule 20 insert the following:

"The majority or minority report of a committee may not be amended from the floor until after the committee report is adopted from the floor." Delete the words "or substitute motion" at the end of Rule 20.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Mr. Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Roy, your reading of that isn't the same as my copy.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I left an amendment at the desk which would be an amendment to the amendment already proposed. He doesn't know about it yet, because I thought his would be read first.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: We'll take the first amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just so that everyone knows where we are. We're on Rule 20, right?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 20.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: On the proposed amendment that's on this sheet.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 20, as in the Committee Report. We're now going to read the first amendment, which is on the long legal-sized sheet, which will read as follows:

"Prior to the first paragraph of Rule 20 insert the following:

"The majority or minority report of a committee may not be amended from the floor. After a committee report is adopted the proposals contained therein may be amended from the floor."

Delete the words "or substitute motion" at the end of Rule 20.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, I move the adoption of those amendments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Trenbeath that we adopt the amendment as read from the desk.

Now, do we have a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Litten. Now, is there any discussion?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I have an amendment at the desk which would change the first sentence. I don't believe it changes the meaning of the whole paragraph, but I think it makes it plainer that amendments can be made, and I'd like to have that amendment read at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The desk will read the proposed amendment — amendment to amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule — the amendment to Rule 20 be amended as follows — Rule 20 be amended as follows:

"Prior to the first paragraph of Rule 20 insert the following:

"The majority or minority report of a committee may not be amended from the floor until after the committee report is adopted from the floor."

Delete the words "or substitute motion" at the end of Rule 20.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Second the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The amendment has been seconded by Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I agree with Delegate Pearce here that we are violating, it seems to me, our own rules when we are permitting amendments to amendments. It would seem to me that the proper procedure would be to adopt or act on the first amendment, and then, if someone wants to further amend, it could be done. But I believe that procedure of amending an amendment is strange procedure.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: However, Delegate Longmire, you will have to agree that it is permissible, and we have carried it out a number of times today — that it is permissible to amend an amendment.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. Chairman, I believe that everything on the long sheet is an amendment to an amendment in the first place, because the report of the Rules Committee is amending in the first place the large book you have on the desk. The long sheet is an amendment to an amendment. My amendment is an amendment to the amendment to the amendment.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President. While Delegate Decker is on his feet, I wish he'd explain what he's trying to do with the Rules Committee's amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President. The object of this is simply not confuse people by saying that they can't amend a proposal. The first sentence says you can't amend a proposal. The second sentence says you can; and to make it read so it will say what it means, I would say we'd have to change it around this way.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I think if you look that amendment over that the Rules Committee came in with, Delegate Decker, it says this:

"The majority or minority report of a committee may not be amended from the floor" — not a proposal. This just concerns the committee report, and this is where we want the clarity.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Possibly I'm wrong, but I thought a proposal was a committee proposal at the time it came in.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: In essence, you might consider it a proposal; but it really is a committee report under parliamentary procedure. Under Roberts' Rules of Order, it's a committee report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, Mr. President, if you're going to — what's the procedure now? You're going to vote on Mr. Decker's amendment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we want to vote on Mr. Decker's proposed amendment to yours?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I certainly have no objection to Mr. Decker's amendment, if he thinks it improves the language; but I just question whether it does. For that reason, I'm going to have to oppose the amendment. Either way, I think it would be out of order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing no further discussion or further questions, we will vote on the amendment to the amendment.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The Chair will rule the "noes" won.

We will then be back on Delegate Trenbeath's proposed amendment to Rule 20.

Is there any further discussion on that?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: All this rule change — or all the amendment does is — as I stated before, it was discussed in the previous rule this morning — is to really add clarity as to how you're going to amend these proposals. It spells out clearly that the majority — when a majority comes in with a question or any committee report, if it hasn't a majority to report on it when it comes out of committee, it can't be amended from the floor. If the committee report as it — with the committee amendment, they'll have to have — the committee report is adopted, and then you'll go in the sixth order — the amendments will go on the sixth order for the next Convention day. If it has no committee amendments on it, it will go on the next Convention's day on the tenth order — next Convention day's tenth order, where you can amend it there, and that's all that this amendment spells out.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions? Further discussion on the amendment as offered by Delegate Trenbeath? Hearing none, the question then is on the adoption of the amendment.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I'd like to announce that the Committee on Executive Functions will not meet this afternoon at 1:30. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet announces, a half hour late, that the Committee on Executive Functions will not meet this afternoon at 1:30.

The question now is on the final adoption of Rule 20 as amended.

Is there any discussion? Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President, I am somewhat confused. There are now two sentences — well, at least, of course, we have added two sentences, so they are now the third and fourth sentences of Rule 20 as they are now on the — not on the single sheet, but on the bigger sheet. The first one, as I read it, says "No amendment shall be considered unless prior to the time the amendment is offered it is submitted in writing and a copy thereof delivered to the clerk of the Convention and, except for amendments offered from the floor, a copy placed on the floor desk of each delegate." But the second sentence says "Amendments may be offered from the floor . . . without delivery to the floor desk of each delegate, but must be in writing and a copy delivered to the clerk."

Now, where else do you offer amendments except on the floor? It seems to me, and I just want to be sure I'm clear, that if I think of an amendment that I want to offer, I can't do it, apparently, under this rule, unless I first get it in writing and get it up to the clerk, and if I can't write fast enough, the procedure has gone by and I'm too late.

When does it have to be delivered to the clerk?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can one of the members of the Committee answer Delegate Pearce's question?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, I—what you are saying, Delegate Pearce, is that because the first sentence starts out, in Rule 20, and says "No amendment" — is this what you're referring to? — and then goes on and says, "Amendments may be offered from the floor" without submitting them in writing?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Yes. I would like to know, Delegate Trenbeath, when does the first sentence have an effect? When is an amendment offered that is not offered on the floor?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, they can be committee amendments, Delegate Pearce, and of course, if they are committee amendments, then, naturally, they will be at the desk and submitted and they will be on the delegates' desks, also, if they are committee amendments.

DELEGATE PEARCE: You're thinking of a committee amendment after the committee has acted on a proposal, and then decided to amend it?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: No. A committee may come out with a proposal, out of committee, with an amendment on it, and, as I stated before, those would be considered on the sixth order of business on the first Convention date after the committee report comes out, and those amendments will be at the desk and, also, be distributed to the desks of all the delegates — committee amendments. Now, I think what we are trying to get at, and maybe it isn't quite correct, is we wanted to make it clear that if anybody was going to further amend that on the tenth order the following day, that they would consider giving the desk a copy, so that the desk has time to give them to all the delegates, on any of these amendments that they are intending to introduce or make a motion of on the tenth order. But there are times on this floor when amendments are made on the spur of the moment and in those cases they must be made from the floor and a copy given to the desk, so that they can clear and correct it in the Journal, but they will not be delivered to all the desks of the delegates.

DELEGATE PEARCE: My question is: At what opportune instance —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce, that thing is not working.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I'm pushing as hard as I can.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce, if your thumb is played out, possibly Delegate Peters would hold that for you.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Rundle's had more experience. (Laughter)

My point is that on these spur-of-the-moment amendments, can I write fast enough or do we come to a standstill while I'm writing them out, before I can make the motion?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President. You notice in that first sentence, Delegate Pearce, it says that all amendments shall be placed in writing and given to the clerk, except those amendments offered from the floor.

Now, any amendments that are offered from the floor, without delivery to the floor desks of each delegate, but must be in writing and a copy delivered to the clerk.

Now, I don't know — that wasn't intended to mean prior to the time it was made from the floor. It wasn't intended that way. If you read it that way, why then maybe we need an amendment change.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I'll ask you a hypothetical question and I think the answer will clear up the problem.

Supposing we're in the middle of debate and I come up with a thought and I want to amend something and I say, "Mr. President, I have an amendment." You recognize me. I say, "Just a moment" and I write out the amendment and I give it to a page. Will you wait while I do that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, that all depends on whether the amendment was a page long or whether it was merely a half-a-dozen words, or something on that order.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would just like to conclude this, Delegate Unruh. I see your point, and I suppose 99 percent of the time the answer would be "yes." But if it was — there could be times when that just couldn't happen, if you wait that long.

Now, Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I'm having the same trouble in trying to make this button work.

I believe that under the circumstances brought forth by Delegate Pearce, that if any delegate were to state that they would like to have this matter before them either placed at the bottom of the calendar or postponed to a time certain, to allow them time to prepare their amendment, and then move to have this either placed at the bottom of the — the matter at the bottom of the calendar or to a time certain, that if the house delegates then will support that motion, then there will be no problem.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I can see no problem here at all. I have sat in other delegations, where every amendment and every motion had to be submitted in writing to the president or to the secretary. There are times when you make an amendment and you can make the amendment verbally. The discussion can start. You do it in writing. You get it to the clerk. If it's a long one, it might mean a wait of a couple minutes; but I don't foresee long amendments coming directly from the floor, and, as I said, it has worked in other delegations that I have been in and there has been no problem, but it certainly helped clarify the bookkeeping.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Hendrickson. Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I think, in view of long legal experience of Representative — or Delegate Pearce, it might be well to allow quite a bit of time for him to write this long amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Rundle. Any further discussion?

The question before the body is on the adoption of Rule 20 as amended.

Is there any further discussion? Hearing none, I'll call the question.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The Chair is in doubt. I'll open the key and you will indicate your vote. Those voting "aye" will vote green. Has every delegate recorded his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call indicates 66 "ayes," 25 "nays," seven absent and not voting. Rule 20 is adopted.

Next for consideration of the amendments is Rule 21.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 21. MAJORITY VOTE REQUIRED ON PROPOSALS

"A majority of the total number of delegates (50) shall be required for approval of any section to be included in a proposed constitution or amendments to the constitution.

"The vote shall be taken by ayes and nays and entered on the Journal.

"No proposal shall be (((finally))) voted upon by the Convention except after the expiration of (((72 hours))) two Convention days from its introduction.

"VOTING BY ELECTRICAL ROLL CALL SYSTEM. When taking the ayes and nays on any question to be voted upon, the electrical roll call system may be used and when so used shall have the same force and effect as a roll call taken as otherwise provided in these rules.

"When the Convention is ready to vote upon any question requiring a roll call, and the vote is to be taken by the electrical roll call system, the President or presiding officer shall announce: 'The question is on the _____.' (((passage of (designation of matter to be voted upon).))) All in favor of such question shall vote 'aye'; those opposed shall vote 'nay'. The Convention will now proceed to vote.'

"After affording the delegates sufficient time in which to vote, the presiding officer shall announce: 'Have all voted?' and after a short pause shall then say: 'Does any delegate desire to change his vote?' and after another short pause shall say: 'The clerk shall proceed to record the vote.'

"The clerk shall immediately (((start the vote recording equipment,))) call the roll and when completely recorded the President shall announce the results to the Convention. The clerk shall enter upon the journal the result in the manner provided by the rules of the Convention.

"Any delegate shall be privileged to vote or change his vote after the vote recording equipment has started to operate and prior to the time the clerk has recorded the vote.

"No delegate shall vote for another delegate nor shall any person not a delegate cast a vote for any delegate. (((Any delegate who shall vote or attempt to vote for another delegate may be punished in such manner as the Convention may determine.)))" (Laughter)

"Following the vote on a proposal, any delegate shall have the privilege of making a brief statement on the reason for his vote which statement, if requested, shall be printed in the journal."

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President, I move the adoption of Rule 21.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fallgatter moves the adoption of Rule 21. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE NETHING: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Just a brief explanation here in regards to committee action on Rule 21.

In the third paragraph, with regards to time limitation, the Rules Committee felt that the deletion of "72 hours" and changing it to "two Convention days" would provide a more logical timetable.

And then, on the next page, the second paragraph — no, the third paragraph down — regarding call of the roll:

The deletion was made there because it was thought that there is a possibility of equipment failure.

And then, at the bottom of the page, the last paragraph, the new language: "This gives the delegate a chance to explain the vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions on Rule 21?

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: I'd like, just for information, to ask if someone from the Committee had given any thought to every delegate having to vote — that it's necessary to vote on every issue, or can you pass the vote?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would one of the Committee members answer the Delegate's question?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: I believe Rule 35 of the rules adopted at the organizational session covers that. I don't think there's any amendment proposed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does that answer your question, Delegate Hoghaug?

(Delegate Hoghaug nodded.)

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: If the delegates have the original book — who's the delegate that answered it? — Delegate Nething. It's Rule 35. "Every delegate who is present when the vote is declared must vote, unless the Convention excuses him."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Geelan. Any further questions on Rule 21? If not, the question is on the final adoption of Rule No. 21.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The Rule is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 24 is deleted in its entirety.

"((Rule 24. COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

"CHAIRMAN. When the convention shall have decided to go into the Committee of the Whole, the president shall preside at sessions of the committee.

"CONSIDERATION OF COMMITTEE REPORTS. When the Convention deems it necessary, it may by a majority vote of those voting resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider committee reports, or any other convention business, and no business shall be in order until the whole of the reports or other convention business is considered or passed over, or the committee rise. Unless a particular proposal is ordered up, the Committee of the Whole shall consider, act upon or pass over all matters referred to it by the convention in the order of their reference.

"READING, DEBATE, AMENDMENT. In the Committee of the Whole proposals shall be read through, debated and acted upon by sections. All amendments shall be in writing and shall be reported to the convention by the chairman.

"MOTION THAT THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE RISE. A motion that the Committee of the Whole shall rise shall always be in order unless a member of the committee is speaking or a vote is being taken, and shall be decided by a majority vote of those present and voting.

“RECONSIDERATION. A motion to reconsider shall be in order in the Committee of the Whole and may be adopted by a majority vote of those present and voting.

“APPLICATION OF CONVENTION RULES. The Rules of the Convention shall be observed in the Committee of the Whole, as far as they may be applicable, except that it cannot adjourn the convention; a majority of those present and voting shall govern its action; it cannot refer matters to any other committee, except the Committee on Style and Drafting; and a motion to postpone indefinitely or a call of the convention shall not be in order.

“A delegate may speak more than once in the Committee of the Whole.

“A journal of the proceedings in the Committee of the Whole shall be kept as in convention.))”

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would move that Rule 24 be deleted and that the number — yes, the number of the rules be renumbered accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Saugstad that Rule No. 24 be removed in its entirety and the balance of the numbers — or of the Rules be numbered — renumbered accordingly.

Now, do we have a second to that motion?

DELEGATE LARSEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Larsen seconded the motion.

Now, do we have some discussion? Senator — Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: The reason for deleting Section 24 or the — which provided for the Committee of the Whole, was — or it was felt by the Committee that the changes made, I believe, in the Rules as discussed by Delegate Trenbeath, in which proposals can be amended from the floor and adopted — I think that was Rule 13.1 and Rule 20 — that that eliminated the necessity for the Committee of the Whole. It was felt that the Committee of the Whole is a more slow and cumbersome process of attempting to accomplish the same end. I happen to be one of those that had rather mixed emotions on this particular question, but this was the feeling of the Committee.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I hope that this motion does not prevail and that this Convention will retain in its rules the machinery for the Committee of the Whole. I think we have seen ample demonstration this afternoon of why this might be wise. We have considerable confusion here as to just what these changes in the rules we have been adopting mean and what their effect will be, and if we find out that some of the steps that we have taken along the way here make it less convenient for the delegates to have their say, to make their points and seek favorable action on their propositions, a Committee of the Whole process would be mighty handy to have. If, on the other hand, the provisions for amendment and debate at various stages along the way which have been provided, and the other rules of this Convention, do give adequate opportunity for the delegates to transact the necessary business between now and the conclusion of this Convention, then it can do no harm by being in the Rules, since, presumably, then, it would not be used. It would take an affirmative vote from a majority of the Convention in order to send this group in a Committee of the Whole. And so there is nothing that could be added to the length or the complication of the process here by inclusion of a Committee-of-the-Whole provision in our Rules, which did not have the consent of the majority.

Now, if there is further debate on this, it may be that you will be hearing about time-consuming examples here and there during the legislative process, and that may be true. On the other hand, let me remind you that in the legislative process — in North Dakota, at least — we have two houses. During my experience in the Legislature, the House had in its structure the Committee-of-the-Whole process and used it not frequently, but when necessary, and at times in order to accomplish a particular thing on a particularly-complicated subject. And doesn't it seem that this body may have before it some particularly complicated subject — something that may not yield readily to the more formal consideration that is provided in the other rules and for which a Committee of the Whole, where the rules of debate can be relaxed somewhat and when we can get back into the situation that we are all familiar with through our service on the committees of this Convention up to now — might that not be handy to have in lieu — we might not have to use it — but might you not want to use it sometime? I think so.

And then, if a corollary is considered between this and the operation of the Legislature, consider this aspect: We are operating as if — as a single house in the Legislature. If they have problems in one body that do not yield to solution, there is an opportunity to solve those problems in the other body under a different set of circumstances and at a different time. While the Committee-of-the-Whole provision in the Rules would not provide some kind of a — of another house to send it to, or anything like that, it would provide another piece of machinery by which we might untangle some of the snarls that we might get into.

I hope that the motion to eliminate this section of the Rules does not prevail.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: We discussed this Rule considerably in the Rules Committee — not once, but two or three times, as I recall, and the one thing that we were afraid of on adopting this Rule was the time consumption, because it is time-consuming, although there is merit — no question — about getting it to the Committee-of-the-Whole sometimes. We felt by the way we adopted the Rules here this morning and this afternoon that there was ample provision to get any idea exposed and every idea discussed.

Now, I have no severe objections to adopting this Rule; but I would certainly say this to the delegates here: That if we adopt it, it will require a lot of self-discipline not to use it extensively. Myself, I feel that we can do without it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I have, I think, three questions I'd like to have answered.

How many delegates can go into a Committee-of-the-Whole? And I notice on one — in one paragraph here — it says here "a majority of those present and voting shall govern its action." And, also, one that I don't like — no call of the Convention can be called while the Convention is a Committee-of-the-Whole.

Now, will somebody clear this?

DELEGATE BAKER: Well, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I think the reason for not having the call of a Committee of the Whole written into its language is that I would agree it would take some kind of final action. It makes no recommendation. It operates like any other operating committee, and that's my main point, and that is that it will give us another committee — a committee of all of us to unsnarl us from a situation that we might possibly get ourselves into.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: The Rules Committee felt the only advantages the Committee of the Whole gives a body is two; one, bring amendments and, two, no limit of the time a delegate may speak.

Now, you pay a pretty price for that when you go to a Committee of the Whole, because then the Chair of the President steps down or he acts as Chairman — I think the Rule did call that — he acts as Chairman. Another set of reports have to be made. None of the action is final.

Now, we felt that we could unclutter the problem by taking the two advantages of the Committee of the Whole — that is, present amendments — we've got it in the Rule in the tenth order. You can amend all you want. And the other one is taking and lifting off time for debate, and we've provided the rules for a simple motion that you would make, instead of moving to go into a Committee of the Whole. I would simply move that the revision on the time that a delegate may speak be waived, and a simple majority. There's no restrictions, and we're almost approaching a Committee of the Whole. I can stand up as many times as you will allow me to stand up and talk. Now all you have to do, instead of rising as a Committee of the Whole — someone gets up and moves we go back to normal debate restrictions, and we felt that, with these two provisions, we would unclutter this clutter that you can get into when you go into the Committee of the Whole.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments?

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I feel that we wouldn't use the Committee of the Whole very often, because the delegates know the things that could happen. But wouldn't we possibly need it towards the end of the Session, when it comes to either dividing or combining all of these sections or setting apart separate sections? Won't we have to operate as a Committee of the Whole or something similar at that time, or wouldn't we want to have it available at that time in case we did want to use it?

I would support Mr. Baker — Delegate Baker's vote in leaving it in at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further comment?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I've got something on my mind that I wanted to say when we just recently approved Rule 20, and I think this is an applicable time. Anybody that only has accommodations here for only about six weeks had better get a renewal on their lease, because if we pass this and put the Constitutional Convention on a Committee of the Whole and no additional amendments can enter the floor, we'll be here until Christmas. We'll have to call the Legislature in session to appropriate more money to keep it going. We're doing things here in preparing these rules that are going to cause considerable debate and action on the floor that will be time-consuming. We have only — I don't think I need to remind anybody — 28 days — 27 or 28 days after today. So I would urge that the Committee be supported and this be deleted.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I agree. I think it's a very wise move to remove the Committee of the Whole from the Rules.

In the last four sessions of the Legislature — and one special session — it's been used once or twice, I believe, and the biggest mess we had all during those eight years was when we had the Committee of the Whole, and I think some of you or a few may remember. It's very complicated and it's just made for real sharp parliamentarians that are trying to outfox somebody, and it's useless, I think, here. I think we should abolish it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments?

The question is on Delegate Saugstad's motion to strike or repeal Rule 24, the Committee of the Whole.

If there's no further question, I will call the question.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Committee of the Whole, Rule 24, has been stricken.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 25. MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS

"STATING MOTION AND RESOLUTIONS. When a motion is made, it shall be stated by the President, or if in writing, it shall be handed to the clerk of the Convention and read aloud before being debated.

"Every resolution ((, other than a proposal,)) shall be properly numbered, read by title, and shall be referred by the President to the appropriate committee. If the rules are suspended to permit immediate consideration of a resolution, the resolution shall be read in full before it is considered.

“REDUCED TO WRITING. Every motion shall be reduced to writing if the President or a majority of those voting shall request it, and all motions, oral or written, shall be entered upon the journal, together with the name of the delegates making it ((, unless withdrawn by the maker or ruled out of order by the President))).

“DIVISION OF QUESTION. Any delegate may call for a division of the question, which shall be divided if it comprehends propositions in substance so distinct that when one is removed or deferred a substantive proposition remains for the decision of the Convention. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible.

“WITHDRAWAL OF MOTIONS: After a motion has been stated by the President or read by the Clerk of the Convention, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the Convention but may be withdrawn by the maker at any time before being amended or put to a vote.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of Rule 25.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President, I move that Rule 25 as amended be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan moves that Rule 25 as amended be adopted. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Solberg. Any discussion?

DELEGATE GEELAN: There aren't too many changes, Mr. President.

In the second paragraph, proposals don't belong in this particular rule, so it's clear to take out the words "other than a proposal," but we felt that resolutions should be properly numbered and referred by the President. So those are the changes there.

Possibly the only important change is in the third paragraph, in the deletion "unless withdrawn by the maker or ruled out of order by the President." We think even those motions should be made a part of the record.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, we'll call the question.

The question is on the final adoption of Rule 25, Motions and Resolutions, as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Rule 25 is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 27. DEBATE

“LIMITATION ON DEBATE. The Convention by a two-thirds vote of the delegates present may limit the time of debate on any subject matter before the Convention, designate a method of allocating the period allowed for debate among delegates and take appropriate action to control dilatory procedure.

“TIMES DELEGATES MAY SPEAK. No delegate may speak more than once on the same question without leave of the President or a majority of those present and voting unless he be the mover of the matter pending or chairman of the committee that reported it, said chairman's designee or unless another delegate has yielded his time to speak or he is asked a question on the matter by another delegate. By majority vote, limits on times delegates may speak shall be suspended and shall remain suspended until the suspension is removed by majority vote.

“CONDUCT IN DEBATE. When any delegate is about to speak in debate or present any matter to the Convention, he shall rise and address himself to 'Mr. President'; he shall not speak until recognized and when recognized he shall confine himself to the question under debate and avoid personalities.

“DELEGATE CALLED TO ORDER. If any delegate in speaking transgresses the rules of the Convention, the President shall call him to order; in which case that delegate shall immediately sit down and shall not rise unless to explain or proceed in order.

“CONDUCT ON THE FLOOR. While the President is putting any question, or while the roll is being called or taken, no delegate shall walk out; nor shall any delegate engage in discourteous conduct at any time.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of Rule 28 — 27.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move that Rule No. 27 be adopted as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Saugstad that Rule No. 27 be adopted as amended. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate O'Toole. Any discussion? Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

The changes are few. In the first paragraph, the first sentence, “The Convention by a two-thirds vote of the delegates present may limit the time of debate . . .” In other words, should it be necessary — should the Convention feel that it is necessary to limit the time of debate, it may do so by a two-thirds vote.

Then, in the second paragraph, the time a delegate may speak has been slightly amended so that if a delegate is asked a question on a matter by another delegate, he may speak more than once by virtue of having been asked; also, by a simple majority vote the limits on times delegates may speak shall be suspended and shall remain suspended until suspension is removed by majority vote.

Again, this change in the Rules is offered for the purpose of making it easier to debate complex questions. That is, in other words, where we have a number of complex questions, a single delegate may speak any number of times provided that a motion is made asking for a suspension of the rules. This goes hand in hand with making amendments from the floor and to ease the matter of making amendments from the floor and speaking a number of times by an individual delegate, and this is a part of the package that was inserted in lieu of deleting the Committee of the Whole.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. Does a chairman relinquish his time if he assigns a portion of the document to a delegate?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I believe that it is understood that the chairman has the opportunity to speak any number of times on a given proposal.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President. Neil Thompson. I'm over here.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Oh! Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I have a question on how the reports are going to be made by committee, and does the chairman of a committee then make the minority report or will each of those people involved in the minority report be considered as a mover under Rule 27?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I believe that the — that those who sign the minority report would be considered the movers and the makers of that motion, so that they would — they would operate under the privilege of speaking more than once.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, just a point of information.

Stan, I believe that when they filed the committee reports, they filed the committee report and the alternate reports with the desk, and the first to be acted on, of course, is the majority report of the committee, and then you read the alternate or substitute report that's coming in, and then it becomes the duty of those that are on the substitute or the alternate report to defend the report. I think that's the procedure that we follow.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Yes, I agree wholeheartedly with the Chair's definition of that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just so that there wouldn't be a misunderstanding on that.

Are there any further questions or is there any other comment upon this rule — Rule 27?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, it might be added here, if delegates are worrying a little bit about times to speak, even if they aren't on that minority or majority report, even if their names are not as prime movers, the Rules do provide that anybody else can yield their time. So, if you feel that you're going to be limited in time by just speaking once and you've got greater interest in any motion or any proposal, you just get one of your neighbors to yield his time, if he will, and you can speak more than once.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments? If not, the question is on the adoption of Rule 27 as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Rule is adopted.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I have a question I'd like to direct to someone — the Chairman of the Committee, perhaps. But when we were discussing Rule 25, I believe it was mentioned that this applies only to motions and resolutions — about dividing the question — and that you did not wish in that section, at least, to discuss dividing the question on a proposal.

Now, is there anyplace in these Rules where there can be a motion to divide a proposal?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe there is, Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I couldn't find it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe there is. I believe any delegate can request that the question be divided and, in the event that after the division of the question it still makes sense, the Chair can rule that the question is divided.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, I believe that that is the intent. I just wonder where it is in the Rules. I haven't been able to find it — where you can divide a proposal. This is on motions and resolutions we just talked about; we can divide that. But what about a proposal? In other words, the committee can come in with a package of articles in a proposal and some member on the floor may wish to have it divided. Where can he have it divided?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. Chairman. It doesn't take an expert parliamentarian to divide this; but it seems to me to be the fourth paragraph of Rule 25 — "Any delegate may call for a division of the question." It might be on a proposal; it might be on anything, and I would think then the delegate could ask then for a division then, even of a proposal.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Rule 25 applies to motions and resolutions, and I understood somebody to say on this second paragraph you took out "proposal." "Every resolution" — and you deleted "other than a proposal."

DELEGATE GEELAN: We did that, Mr. Hernet, because we didn't think that we needed it there, because proposals are taken care of by their numbering, and we thought taking out the words "other than a proposal" would just refer in this paragraph to a resolution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, Mr. President, this is possible. The only thing is I don't know whether we have ever defined what a "proposal" is. Now, in my committee, and I think all the other committees are similar, we have been assigned proposals. I have two. One of them is a big one. It covers practically all of the sections that were assigned to my committee. Now, if we bring that on the floor, we're going to divide it up, I would hope; so it really isn't a proposal any more; it's a part of a proposal. Now, can somebody up on the floor then divide a part of a proposal? This is my question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I have to go back, Delegate Hernet — Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. Delegate Hernet, it is our intention that the section on division of the question would apply to all questions put, and the question might be "Should Proposal No. 2-1 be adopted?" And our intention is that any delegate can then ask that that be divided and it may be divided into 40 parts, because some of them are probably that broad.

Now, we did talk about dividing the proposal. We thought dividing a question would be broad enough to cover there. I think that's our intention. There's no other place with reference to division. This is the only place — you're right — in Rule 25. If you think it should be more specific, it could be amended to include that. But our feeling was that it could be brought out and the question of whether a proposal should be adopted by this body, if someone demands a division, it will be one delegate that could force a division.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I believe that Delegate Hernet has raised an important question and one that I had on my mind since we adopted Rule 19 this morning. My committee is in a similar situation to Delegate Hernet's. We have ten sections to be submitted and one proposal. To my knowledge, at least, three of those sections are controversial. It may be evident, but at least three. If we submit that as one proposal, there's going to have to be a division someplace along the line — a possibility of a division. What about a minority report submitted on only one section of that proposal? Would there be something to cover that?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I remember distinctly, Mr. President, when we discussed this in Committee, that was the reason we used the word "question" instead of us spelling out "resolution," "proposal," "section" or "motion." We used the word "question" to be all-encompassing. Now, if it's going to be interpreted any other way, we better maybe amend it. But that's just the word "question" — it does encompass everything that we have under discussion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: What are the wishes of the Convention on this proposal — on this proposed Rule?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I agree that there is somewhat of a problem in the way that our committee reports have come out, at least tentatively, where the work of the committee over a long period of time may be just one or maybe two proposals and they're so broad and encompassing that they've never really sat down and decided it, I don't think. But we probably should have sat down and broken those down separately, maybe, in different concepts, rather than lumping them like we did.

Now, if we let them come in on the floor the way they are, we're going to be dividing them and breaking them down and it will drag out. It will be hard to switch from one proposal to another, because they're so lengthy and some proposals might take several days to get through. So, possibly with the Committee's remeeting, it would be wise to resubmit these, inasmuch as the printing costs haven't gone so far, to try to break these apart a little bit on ideas, rather than the whole executive section, for example, on one proposal. I'm sure most of the committees have them lumped.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, Mr. President, I'm sure that the committees are going to divide these proposals out and it will probably be in — well, related to the subject, if it's brought on the floor, and I suppose each committee chairman will make that decision. My only question is here, just so we're sure of ourselves, that when this does come on the floor — for instance, as my committee brought this package on the floor, part of the proposal — supposing we've already decided the proposal in the committee, and then it gets onto the floor of the Convention here and some member or a delegate decides that they don't like the way we divided this up. I just would like to be sure that then the delegates have the right to get up and move to divide the question further, and I think this is probably going to happen sometime. My only thought here was I thought probably this would just apply to motions and resolutions and not proposals. Now, if it applies to everything, I'm sure we're all right.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: It seems to me here, too, that putting — I think the section is fine. It's just a question of where it's going to be placed, and by putting it under the motion — or under the rule entitled "Motions and Resolutions," it would insinuate, at least, that the authority to divide is a little limited. I would suggest to the Rules Committee that they might want to delete the section on the division of the question from this rule and put it in as a new Rule 27, all by itself, at the end of your Rules, and then there'd be no question whatsoever about whether or not we can do it.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. I'm sure that since this is a matter of clarification, that the Rules Committee would have no objection. Would the intent be then to just take the section that relates to division of the question, making that a new rule? Then would you just leave in "Any delegate may call for a division of the question" and leave it there, or do you want anything added so that there's no question but what it also refers to proposals, such as Delegate Hernet has brought up?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I would think that leaving it in just as "Any delegate may — may call for a division of the question," period. And then there's no confusion about it.

Well, hearing the attitude of the Rules Committee, Mr. President, I would like to offer an amendment, and I move that we delete from Section 25 the Division of the Question section, and I don't know whether — I suppose I better wait until that is taken out, and then, if that is adopted, at the proper time I will move for a new rule to put it back in as indicated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire has moved that the section of Rule 25, Division of the Question, be removed from this Rule. Do we have a second to the motion? The motion is seconded by Delegate Geelan. Now for discussion.

Hearing no discussion, we'll call for the question. The question is on the amendment to strike "Division of Question" from this Rule.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and that section is stricken from Rule 25.

Now we're back to Rule 25 for final passage or rejection.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: We've adopted 25 before, haven't we? It was already adopted.

"Rule 29. MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION" —

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: May I have permission of the delegates now for Delegate Longmire's motion to make this a separate rule? I wonder if this wouldn't be a better time to do it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan, I believe at the time he made the motion, he said that at the proper time he would notify the Chair, because he wanted it, and I just took it for granted he was going to come up with a new number — maybe 28 or something like that.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: We did awhile ago delete Rule 24 and to keep our sequence, perhaps we could put it back in as Rule 24. So, Mr. President, I move that we adopt a new Rule 24 to read as follows:

"Division of Question. Any delegate may call for a division of the question at any time." And, as a further part of that motion, that we renumber these rules, which we did renumber awhile ago, accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the motion for a new Rule 24. Is there any question on the motion? Any discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the new Rule 24 relative to the Division of the Question.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: The substitute part of Rule 25, I guess now numbered Rule 24, is quite a bit shorter than the original part. Could a delegate call until he was blue in the face and not have the question divided, if it comprehends propositions in substance so distinct that when one is removed or deferred a substantive proposition remains for the decision of the Convention?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I suppose we could put in the additional words "if the delegate has no objection and the question shall be divided" or "which shall be divided," and if you want to add that language, Delegate, I would not object to that being a part of my motion.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: You're adding "which shall be divided"?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does the second agree?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Agree.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further question? The question, then, is on the new rule, which would be Division of the Question. Any delegate could call for the division of the question which shall be divided, period. Any further questions? Hearing none —

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I just don't like to vote on that question in that order. Any delegate may call for a division of the question and it shall be divided, whether there's any sense to his request or not. I think the qualifying language there is necessary, and I can't understand why Delegate Longmire doesn't want to include it.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I feel, and I know that we did vote to delete it, period, but I feel I was a bit misled, because I thought that Delegate Longmire's original suggestion was to delete it in order to put it elsewhere, and I feel the whole section that we deleted should be retained and put elsewhere. 24 was good.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson, would you so amend? Would you so wish to amend Delegate Longmire's motion?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President. I move to amend it so that the new rule will be stated just as division of a question, formerly in Rule 25, would state it. Would that do it?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And it has been seconded. The motion for the amendment has been seconded. The question now is on the amendment to Delegate Longmire's motion for the new Rule 24, so that it would read in toto as the paragraph in Rule 25, "Division of Question," is in the permanent document.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I will support that motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question then is on the new Rule No. 24 as amended. I don't think we voted on the amendment. Did we?

As many as are in favor of the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it is amended.

Now we're on the new Rule 24. I'll call the question.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we have a new Rule 24, with the rules numbered accordingly.

Fellow Delegates, wouldn't it be in order to recess for five minutes to just stretch and move around just a little bit?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I move we recess very briefly.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that the Convention recess for five minutes — ten minutes?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." We'll recess.

(The Session recessed at 2:58 P.M. until 3:20 P.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 29. MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

"Any delegate may move for a reconsideration of any question at the same or next two succeeding (((session of the Convention))) Convention days or the Committee on Style and Drafting may move for reconsideration on any subsequent day if notice of the intention to do so is given in writing to the clerk of the Convention who shall enter this notice in the Journal.

"After (((the next))) two succeeding (((session))) Convention days, it shall take a two-thirds vote for a motion to reconsider.

"The motion for reconsideration cannot be made on the same question more than once in each Convention day."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading. Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I move the adoption of Rule 29 as amended.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's seconded by Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE GEELAN: And then, Mr. President, I further move an amendment to the amendment on Rule 29, and I'll ask the Secretary to read the amendment to the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Secretary will read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 29 be amended as follows:

Insert after the first paragraph the following language:

"The same majority shall be required to adopt a motion to reconsider as was required to take the original action."

DELEGATE GEELAN: I move that the amendment to the amendment be adopted.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that the proposed amendment to the amendment be adopted. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President, speaking on the amendment to the amendment: This provision was put in at the request of our Chairman. Mr. President, we think it was a very good one. It was taken, as I understand it, from the Alaska Constitution Rules. The intent of it is that to adopt — to get a favorable vote on a motion to reconsider on a proposal, for example, you have to have 50 votes, because that is required for a proposal vote. Some other motion might only require a majority of those present, and we think that this is a very good addition to the Rule.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment to Rule 29 — amendment to the amendment. Hearing no further discussion, the question:

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

Now we're now back on Rule 29 and the amendments to Rule 29.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: There are some rather important changes that the Committee has suggested from the original Rule. The first two sentences, I should explain. Any delegate — there was some discussion in the Committee that we should follow the usual parliamentary practice of making it necessary for a delegate to have voted on the prevailing side. However, after some discussion on that, we decided to take the experience of Arkansas and the Maryland Constitutional Conventions and let any delegate, regardless of how he voted, move for reconsideration. We have further liberalized the Rule. The original motion said that after the same or the next — and we've changed it to "Convention days," rather than sessions of the Convention. The original rule said one day. We have made it two. So that a person could move for a reconsideration that same day and two succeeding days and would not need the two-thirds rule.

Then we have, again, "two succeeding Convention days," and that was in the original Rule, that it would take a two-thirds vote after that time for the motion to reconsider. We added the following: "The motion for reconsideration cannot be made on the same question more than once in each Convention day." We think that is a good addition to the Rule.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions? Any further discussion? The question before the body is on the adoption of Rule 29 as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Rule is adopted.

Rule No. 30, Appeals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 30. APPEALS

"FORM OF QUESTION ON APPEALS. On all appeals from decisions of the Chair, the question shall be 'Shall the ruling of the Chair stand?' which question shall be decided by a majority of those voting.

"DEBATE ON APPEALS. No delegate shall speak on the question of an appeal more than once without leave of the Convention by a majority vote of those voting.

"((TABLING APPEALS. An appeal may be laid on the table but shall not carry with it the subject matter before the Convention at the time such appeal is taken.))"

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the proposed amendments to Rule 30.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: On Rule 30, I think it's pretty well self-explanatory. What we're trying to do is eliminate the tabling of a question and, with that explanation, I would move the adoption of Rule 30.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig moves the adoption of Rule 30 as amended. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate O'Toole.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, we'll call the question. The question is on Rule 30, Appeals, as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no.". The "ayes" have it and Rule No. 30 is adopted.

Next for consideration is Rule 31.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 31. PRECEDENCE OF MOTIONS

"When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but

- "1. To fix the time to which to adjourn — debatable — majority present
- "2. To adjourn — not debatable — majority present
- "3. To take a recess — not debatable — majority present

- “4. To reconsider — debatable — see Rule 29
- “(((5. To lay on the table)))
- “(((6))) 5. For a quorum call of the Convention — not debatable — majority present
- “(((7))) 6. To limit debate — debatable — see Rule 27
- “(((8))) 7. for the previous question — not debatable — see Rule 28
- “(((9))) 8. To postpone to a day certain — debatable — majority present
- “(((10))) 9. To (((commit))) refer to committee — debatable — majority present
- “(((11))) 10. To amend — debatable — majority present
- “(((12))) 11. To postpone indefinitely — debatable — 50 votes

“Such motions shall take precedence in the order in which they are listed (((, and shall be decided by a majority vote of those voting, except the motion to postpone indefinitely, which shall be passed only by a majority vote of all the delegates (50) elected))).

“When a recess is taken while any question is pending, consideration of such question shall be resumed upon reassembling unless otherwise determined.

“When a proposal is being considered at any stage of procedure and a motion is made to postpone indefinitely or to commit, amendments to the proposal shall first be in order before taking a vote on any such motion.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the proposed Rule.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I move the amended Rule be adopted.

DELEGATE QUAM: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved to adopt the amended Rule 31. Do we have a second? Seconded by Delegate Quam.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, before proceeding with the Rule, in explaining it, I'd like to make one minor amendment — the last one on the long sheet — and on the third-from-the-bottom line, to strike the word “commit” and insert in lieu thereof the words “refer to committee.” If I have a second, I'll explain that.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, the reason for the change is we deleted the motion to commit because we didn't think that was a clear statement and inserted “refer to committee.” So we're just cleaning up the language on the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the motion to amend. Are there any questions? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and the amendment is adopted.

Any further discussion? Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, we have tried to set forth for the benefit of each delegate the various motions that will be in order on any question before the floor.

Now, there are eleven of them specified, and you will note that they take precedence in the order in which they are listed. So, if you want to do something, you've got to go to a lower number, and that motion will take precedence over the one that's then being acted on. In other words, if the motion is to postpone something indefinitely, you could do anything from 1-to-10, because that's the last one. We've added behind each motion the summary of the rules. For example, on No. 1, that's a debatable, to fix the time to which to adjourn, and when we say “majority present” we indicate that's the vote required. No. 2 is not debatable, “majority present” is required, and so on. In No. 4, where we have a motion to reconsider, we say "see Rule 29," and that rule requires a simple majority on the day of the passage, and the next two succeeding days thereafter, a two-thirds majority. It also requires that, if you just amend it, if you want to reconsider it, you'll have to have as much vote as it took — required to pass it in the first instance. So a proposal which requires 50 votes will take at least 50 votes to reconsider. If another matter is being reconsidered and is carried by a smaller vote, such as 37-to-5, if there were a lot of people absent, then you'd need 37 again, minimum, to reconsider.

On No. 6, to limit debate, it takes a two-thirds vote, and we refer to Rule 27, and on the previous question, which is a motion that cuts off all debate, that will take — we refer to Rule 28, and that requires the mover, plus five seconds — five delegates must second it — and then it's put to a vote without debate, and it takes two-thirds vote.

I think the rest is self-explanatory. We contemplate these being the only motions available. We got rid of "lay on the table," because we felt that it's — it's a type of motion that confuses people, and when you lay something on the table, sometimes it never comes back. So we felt, if you want to postpone something, the proper motion to make would be "postpone for a day certain."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions or any discussion?

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: In connection with the explanation of the order, a question just occurred to me. I'm wondering about the form of the motion. Should, for example, there be a motion before the body for indefinite postponement and a delegate might wish to postpone consideration of that motion to a day certain — No. 8 — would the form of his motion be a substitute motion?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, you're requesting information from the Chair. The Chair would rule that it was not a substitute motion.

DELEGATE BAKER: Would it be possible, sir, for you to give an example of how a delegate might then make a motion? Would he simply move to postpone further consideration to a day certain, for example — something like that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That would be in order.

DELEGATE BAKER: Thank you, sir.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any further questions? Any further discussion on Rule 31?

I believe the question is on the amendments. Am I right? The question is on the amendments.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

Now we're back on the main motion — the precedence of motions.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Oh! Is the motion already made pending?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM. No. You go ahead. You've done that, so we have the motion and we have the second. The question is now on the adoption of Rule 31 as amended.

No discussion? No questions.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Rule 31 is adopted.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I rise to a point of parliamentary procedure.

Inasmuch as Roberts' Rules does not require a second on committee reports or committee motions, can we eliminate that for the entire Session, thus saving a little time? As I understand Roberts' Rules, that a second is not necessary for any committee report or committee motion. I believe the thinking behind this is that a committee motion is already passed by more than two people or else it wouldn't be presented to an assembly, and I realize this is a small point, but still it saves that much time, and with 28 days, we might get home two days before Christmas. If we are operating by Roberts' Rules, I think this can be eliminated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Mrs. Hendrickson — or Delegate Hendrickson — we are operating on Roberts' Rules whenever Roberts' Rules do not conflict with ours. (Laughter)

That is right. That's absolutely right! We are operating on our Rules. Everything that we have in this little black book, when we adopt this, this becomes our Bible, except for those cases where we have failed to make a rule; then, if we do not have a rule, then we go to Roberts'.

Now, I don't know how to rule upon that question. If the Convention is of the opinion that we should not have a second, why then, of course, we will not have seconds. However, in the meantime, why I will proceed to ask for seconds.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I move that on committee reports and committee motions we do not require seconds.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that on committee reports, that we do not require seconds.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Omdahl. Now, is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." That was feeble! I will rule that the motion carried and that, from here on out, unless I err from habit to call for motion — for seconds, there will be none on committee reports and motions.

The question then is on Rule 32.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 32 has been deleted in its entirety.

"((Rule 32. MOTIONS NOT DEBATABLE

"A motion to adjourn shall always be in order except when a motion to fix the time to which to adjourn is pending.

"A motion to adjourn, a motion to lay on the table, and all matters relating to questions of order shall be decided without debate.

"A motion for a recess, pending the consideration of other business, shall not be debatable.))"

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading. Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I move the Committee's recommendation to delete all of Rule 32 be accepted by the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch moves that the amendment to the Rules — that Rule No. 32 be deleted.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Delegates, the reason for this motion, as long as — the last one we just had — we set the order and, also, the vote required, and so 32 became unnecessary.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, a question from the Chair:

I presume, then, you would like to add to the motion that the rules be re-numbered accordingly.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I so move; yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

The question then is on the adoption of the motion that Rule 32 be eliminated and that the Rules be renumbered accordingly.

Are there any questions?

Hearing none, as many as there are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

We will next have the consideration of Rule 34.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 34. CONVENTION FLOOR

"ASSIGNMENT OF SEATS. Except in the cases of the delegates who have been elected as officers of the Convention, the seats of the delegates on the Convention floor shall be arranged in alphabetical order by surnames.

"If a vacancy occurs the person selected to fill the vacancy shall continue to have the seat of the delegate who vacated the position.

"ADMISSION TO FLOOR. No person, other than a Convention delegate, an officer, employee or news correspondent accredited by the President shall be admitted on the floor of the Convention unless by the vote of the delegates. While on the floor, employees of the Convention may answer questions or inquiries made by the President.

"The words 'Floor of the Convention' shall mean the space of the main floor of the Convention, excluding the space designated for visitors and for the press.

"PRESS REPRESENTATIVES. The President shall assign accredited news correspondents press facilities in the Convention chamber. News correspondents using cameras, tape recorders and similar devices shall conduct themselves so as not to interfere with the orderly course of the proceedings of the session."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the Rule.

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: I move the adoption of this amended motion — this amended Rule.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks moves the adoption of the Rule as amended. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE WICKS: The only addition here is the language —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks, I don't believe your loud speaker is switched on.

DELEGATE WICKS: The only addition here — is this all right now?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: That section might be out, because the page lights just went out.

DELEGATE WICKS: They don't work.

The only addition is in paragraph 3. This language was added at the suggestion of our President. He felt, without it, he would not be able to ask questions of the employees on the floor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any questions?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of Rule 32 as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Rule 32 as amended is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 34.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 34. I'm sorry.

Next for consideration, Rule 37.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Rule 37. AMENDMENT OR SUSPENSION OF RULES

"While the Convention is not in session, the Rules Committee may amend the rules from time to time subject to the unanimous approval of the president and vice presidents.

"This shall include the right to change the composition of standing committees as regards number, scope, and membership, with the consent of the committee and delegates concerned.

"Upon reconvening of the Convention, any such amendments to the rules shall be presented to the Convention and before they may be deemed thereafter binding must be approved by an affirmative vote of a majority of all the delegates (50) to the Convention.

"The President shall mail each delegate the text of any rule so amended within ten days of the amendment.

“The operation of these rules may be suspended or amended by a two-thirds vote of delegates-elect.

“During the last two days of the Convention, the rules may be suspended by affirmative vote of fifty delegates.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the amendment to Rule 37. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I'd like to amend this. Is it in order now or do we wait for one of the committee to move for adoption of the Rule?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President, I move for the adoption of Rule 37 as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan moves the adoption of Rule 37 as amended.

Now, Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I'd like to amend that Rule, where, under the new language, in the second-to-last paragraph, and insert the following language:

“The operation of these Rules may be suspended or amended by a majority vote of delegates-elect — until such time as these temporary rules are made permanent by the Convention. When these Rules are made permanent, then two-thirds vote of the delegates shall be required to suspend or amend the Rules.”

If I get a second, I'll explain this.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol seconded.

DELEGATE CHASE: I'm assuming that these temporary rules will be in use for at least a week or two, and at that time made permanent. Meanwhile, many of us here are not certain just exactly what some of these rules mean. In fact, the Rules Committee themselves, in spite of the fact they have done a very commendable job, are uncertain on some things and some of the questions that have been raised, and I'm thinking of Delegate Baker and Delegate Pearce and many others here. I don't think those questions have been fully resolved. So I believe we should amend this thing and operate under it for a week or so and see how it's going, and be able to change it by a simple majority when we can see that that change should be made.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Chase.

Is there any further discussion? Now, do we have the amendment at the desk as offered?

The question, then, is on the adoption of the amendment as proposed by Delegate Chase. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it, and the Rule is amended.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I would like to offer a further amendment to Rule 37, to delete the first paragraph:

“While the Convention is not in session, the Rules Committee may amend the rules from time to time subject to the unanimous approval of the president and vice presidents.”

Well, we're now in session and this is not necessary or even desirable, I wouldn't think.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle moves that the first line in the Rule be stricken. Is there a second?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The first paragraph.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes — I guess you're right. It's the first paragraph, I guess.

Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE BYRNE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Was Delegate Rundle referring only to the first paragraph of that Rule?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's what he stated, Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Well, if you take that out, the second paragraph doesn't have the full meaning, when you stop to think about it.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: The message has been gotten to me from all corners. I would like to restate the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Permission is granted.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I move that one, two, three and four paragraphs be deleted.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that paragraphs one, two, three and four of Rule 37 be stricken.

Now, is there any discussion? Hearing none —

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President. I'm sorry. This mike doesn't work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President. This mike doesn't work. But there is no necessity of this language being in here, except there are other places in the Rules that we have adopted that shows what action was taken prior to the Plenary Session, and you know I don't want to claim any pride of — in inventing any new rules here, but we know our deliberations certainly look upon what has transpired in other states, as to how they set their whole convention thing up, and if we're going to set any example for other states to follow, and they might look at what we have done, then we're pulling something out that just destroys a little continuity in how we originally got started, and I think it might just as well be left in.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the amendment to strike paragraphs one, two, three and four of Rule 37.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye," opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the motion fails.

We're back on Rule 37 as amended.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I now move that the Report of the Permanent Rules Committee be adopted as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan, if you'll just hold that a moment.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I'm sorry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We haven't voted on Rule 37. The question then before the assembly is the adoption of Rule 37 as amended.

As many as are in favor of that motion, would you say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Rule 37 is adopted.

Now —

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I move the action by which we adopted Rule 18 be reconsidered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that the action by which we adopted — was it Rule 18?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: 18.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — 18 be reconsidered. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rosendahl seconded.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: After giving some consideration to our action on Rule 18, on which we left "the fifth day" in the bottom of the paragraph stand, I think that when we think this out, we should recognize that the deadline is now probably Friday at midnight. At least it says "until after the fifth day," which would be the coming Friday. As I understand it, or get the impression, we probably will not be here on Saturday. This means that, if we would move the deadline for the introduction of proposals until noon Monday, January 10th, that would make some — it would give some delegates — 28 of them, as a matter of fact, recorded on the board — an opportunity to think out some proposals that they might want to introduce. I don't happen to have any proposals to introduce, but I think there are other delegates that would like to introduce proposals and think about them over the week-end. And if the motion to reconsider is approved, I will then move that we go — have the deadline moved to noon Monday, January 10th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

The question is on the reconsideration of our action on Rule 18.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no."

The Chair is in doubt. I will open the key and you will indicate your choice.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Will you clarify what we're voting on, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You're voting on the reconsideration of Rule 18, and as I recall, Rule 18 is a rule that provided the introduction of proposals. I think we had a debate on it, and it was "five" in the Rule — five days — up until the fifth day, and I believe it was proposed that we go to ten or to eight, and then we defeated that and then we adopted the — we adopted the Rule as it had previously been. I think that's it. Yes, that's right.

DELEGATE CHASE: This motion, then, is only for reconsideration?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

We will open the key and you will record your choice.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll indicates ayes 66, nays 29, absent and not voting 3. So the motion carries, and we now have Rule 18 before the assembly.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I move that we strike the language in the first sentence of the last paragraph beginning with the word "the", and strike out "the fifth day of the plenary session" and in lieu of those words insert "noon Monday, January 10th."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the motion. Do we have a second?

It's been seconded by Delegate Stanton.

Now, is there any discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President, if we do not work this Saturday, as I expect we will not do, and the committees will not be meeting on Saturday and Sunday, so the delegates may be thinking freely on Saturday and Sunday, we'll only be changing the deadline one-half of a working day, and if 38 delegates feel that they ought to have this extra half-day, I think it's worth it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: It might be out of order, again, Mr. President, but I raise the question, again, before we vote, and I think we should know before we vote if we're going to work on Saturday.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion? Is there any further question?

The question then is on Delegate Omdahl's motion to amend the Rules so that proposals could be introduced up until noon on Monday.

Hearing no further questions or discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the motion is carried.

The question before the assembly is now the adoption of the Rule as amended — Rule 18.

Is there any discussion?

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Did you need a motion to adopt the Rule? I so move. I move that Rule 18 be adopted as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Saugstad that Rule 18 now be adopted as amended. Is there a second?

It's been seconded by Delegate Haugen. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Rule 18 is adopted as amended.

Now Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I delayed, Mr. President, thinking maybe there were some other motions, maybe, that they wanted to reconsider, but hearing none, I now move that the Report of the Rules Committee be adopted as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Geelan that the Rules — or the Report of the Rules Committee be adopted as amended.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hardmeyer.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: I would like to direct a question to the Chairman of the Rules Committee.

Have you given any consideration to a rule in regards to alternate proposals?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. Yes, we have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I think Delegate Kelsch explained that the Committee has given consideration to all alternate proposals; however, the Committee is not ready to report at this time. I will say, on this matter and on this other matter, the final vote are two unresolved matters, and the Committee will hope to have a meeting promptly on these two matters and any other rules that we think might — the delegates might want to change.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Geelan. Any further questions?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delebate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I just learned today, Mr. President, that we also have a document called a "Resolution" in this Convention. Will the Monday deadline apply to introduction of resolutions by delegates?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson, it is my understanding and my interpretation that resolutions are not being considered on this particular motion. Resolutions can happen and can come before the Assembly at any time. So I would interpret your question as saying that this does not apply to resolutions.

The question then is on adoption of the Rules as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

I'm sorry, Delegate Hoffner. Did you have —

(Delegate Hoffner shook his head.)

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Then may I just make one more statement here?

The two matters that Delegate Hardmeyer asked about are still unresolved, and I hope the Committee can meet promptly to decide on those things. We will announce the meeting of the Committee, so that any delegate who might have some feeling about the rules that we have amended now, or any of the other rules, will appear before our Committee. And one more thing — and I am going to thank the Committee myself, but I believe if I — that I'm expressing the sentiments of all the delegates when I thank the members of the Rules Committee for their excellent cooperation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you very much. (Applause)

The Chair will recognize Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, now that we have adopted the Rules, I would like to have the attention drawn to Rule 11, and in order for the Chairmen to carry out our duties, we should decide whether we can have a time set for our meetings, and I think, in order for the general public to know when they can come in and appear before a committee, I think the Convention should decide some hour in the afternoon where all the committees can hold hearings.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, would you like to offer a proposal or an amendment or a suggestion or a motion?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, just for the sake of discussion, I will say that I move that the Convention recess at three o'clock every afternoon for the next week, to go into committee hearings.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Hoffner that the Convention recess at three o'clock each day for the following week to go into committee hearings.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, what are we going to do until three o'clock?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's strictly up to the wish and the will of the Convention.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, Mr. Chairman. Delegate Hoffner, why don't you, instead of an amendment, make it one o'clock. We have the Rules now. Tomorrow is our third day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. Delegate Rundle, I was — I just assumed that we could begin to debate proposals until three o'clock in the afternoon. We have our Rules. We have our proposals that have been introduced.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Hoffner — Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I don't know — is this thing working?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, it is.

DELEGATE HERNETT: In the first place, I don't think there was a second to Delegate Hoffner's motion; but I'll discuss it, anyway.

We determined when the Plenary Sessions are to be called each day — if it's going to be nine o'clock in the morning or if it's one o'clock in the afternoon, or when do we — when do we decide that one?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Excuse me, Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I, too, would like to know, as a committee chairman, when we can call these meetings. But until we decide when we're going to have our sessions each day, I think we're just guessing, aren't we, as to what we are going to do?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: All I can answer your question, Delegate Hernet, is it's strictly at the will of the Convention. Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, I think the first thing we should settle, even before we go to Delegate Hoffner's motion, is whether or not we are to hold sessions on Saturdays, and I have a motion in that connection that I would like to make, as soon as I can get in.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, will you yield? Would you withdraw your motion until we get this settled?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I'll withdraw my motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. And Delegate Maxwell has the floor.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, I have this motion.

Move that during the month of January this Convention meet in general session on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week, and that it be recessed on Saturdays.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the motion and it's been seconded. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, may I inquire? This would add eight days to the length of the Session, wouldn't it? Four? By one month. And what about — I would like to know — are we still talking a ten-day recess? This also connects with the Saturday business.

Now I know that a lot of people don't want to work on Saturday. I'd like to. I'm maintaining two places of residence. But I kind of suspect I'll be in the minority on that. I'm going to resist the motion.

I would like to know — I think we should settle, if we are still talking recess — well, I'll withdraw that and will ask nothing. Vote "no" on this motion. I'd like to be done with this, and I know others are going to vote their convictions. I thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Mr. President. This Saturday matter, I believe, can lead to unretractable problems that we have here. There has been considerable discussion, primarily since the meeting in Grand Forks, as I understand — I read notices in the paper of the reversal of the procedure that the Convention has been thinking about, and I'm wondering — this week, in particular, I think we ought to think about the problems about it. Now today we have resolved substantially the matter of the Rules. Yesterday, the various proposals were introduced and will be referred to more so the rest of the week. They are being re-referred to committees. It has been mentioned by many that we will meet in session in the morning and have committee meetings in the afternoon. Now let's stop and think right this week — the waste of time, if this is going to be done, by not reversing that practice. It would seem to me to be very time-wasting if we do not, this week, at least, have committee hearings in the morning to get these matters out of committee and get your committee action taken, and then have your Plenary Session in the afternoon. It would seem to me, from a practical standpoint, as you go further on into the Session, that it would even be more so because, if you have your Plenary Session, where you're going to be cutting off, if you have your Plenary Session in the afternoon, I hope this is understood — that this is not going to be an in-at-nine and out-at-five process. If you get it at one o'clock in the afternoon, or whatever time it might happen to be, and you're not through at five o'clock, you can certainly recess and get to some of the work — a lot of it, if a lot of it is going to take a lot of time — and you can come back that evening. But it seems to me, from a practical standpoint, what is the purpose of having a Plenary Session without anything substantial to have in front of it? In fact, that would be the substantial problem this whole week. The committees certainly have many proposals before them that they — it would seem to me — and I know, in talking with Chairman Hernet of the Executive Functions Committee, that we certainly would like to get going in the morning on that Committee, and I presume that would be some of the judgment of the other committees, also. But, if you stop and think about it, we're going to waste a considerable amount of time by merely meeting here tomorrow morning in Plenary Session and not having committee hearings until, as suggested, one o'clock or three o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Now there is nothing settled, outside of just straw votes and some suggestions by various members of the Convention, as to how they would like to have this process handled. But I think we ought to stop and think a little bit about the mechanical difficulties we're going to be arriving at by having your Plenary Session in the morning and setting your committee hearings over until the afternoon. It would seem to me, frankly, to be absolutely reversed insofar as getting your work successfully out of the way. I merely give this to you as an observation. I think we ought to try to resolve it today, because tomorrow and Thursday and Friday, particularly, it would seem to me that we would want to devote as much time as we can in committees to process the work out, with proposals to report to the Plenary Session. We can't let this stuff set in committees forever.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I call the question? Delegate Paulson. Excuse me. The question is on Delegate Maxwell's motion that we work Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I would simply point out I am heartily in favor of Delegate Maxwell's motion. I think debate on the timing of the sessions should come after action on the Saturday recess, and I have a suggestion to make at that time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I feel the motion in front of us has strong merit. However, I'm going to vote against it, because I, in reviewing Rule 18 that we have just now adopted, I note that we have a Committee on the Calendar, and it was my understanding that this Committee was to decide the calendar under which we would function, which I presume to be not only during the day, but during the time that we're in session, and I would like to see that Committee function and come back tomorrow morning with a report as to what their recommendations are, and that I really feel that this is the — including the matter of Saturdays — it's before that Committee to decide; and, for that reason, I'm going to vote against this motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet. Excuse me. Delegate Cart has the floor.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, all I wish to do is to object to carrying out four Saturday vacancies. I think, if we go along for three, that's the limit we should go, because we're going to have to meet all the time we can to finish up. The stenographic committee is going to have to have some time after the work is completed on the floor here, and if we've used up or not used four days, why we're going to be short. I would certainly oppose going any farther than up to the 22nd.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Cart. Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President. Well, I'm certainly going to oppose the motion. I don't think that we at this time should commit ourselves for the whole month of January as to what we're going to do on these Saturdays. I assume that many of us would like to go home this Saturday, this week, and there's a possible chance we might want to go home the following Saturday. But I don't think we should plan ahead for the whole month of January. I see nothing — I don't see any need for this motion at all today. I see nothing wrong with, on Friday afternoon, with somebody making a motion to recess until Monday morning. This is a common practice in the Legislature, and I don't see why it won't work here. I certainly hope that we do not commit ourselves to not working on Saturdays for the whole time of this Convention. We may need this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I rise in support of the motion. I know there are many delegates here in this assembly that are in the same position that I am. We have to devote some time to our private businesses and professions back home, and my previous experience in some of these Saturday meetings is that you do have a higher rate of vacancies, just because some people do have to get home to attend to some of their business and professional duties. It would be almost impossible for me, as one, to be here every Saturday and work in connection with the duties that we have here, and I certainly don't want to get into the habit of being absent even one day from the deliberations of this assembly. I think we would still have enough time in the end, if we see that we are going to run short, where we could meet on Saturdays, even in the month of February or, if we ran into a situation toward the end of January where we had to do something, we can certainly undo what we've done here.

But, in having some idea as to when we will be available to our clients and people back home, we ought to know a little bit in advance when we can tell them when they can come to our offices and be seen on Saturdays. And I know it would help me a lot if we had some idea as to when we could be there and when we couldn't. And for that reason, I'm supporting this motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: This is my third time on Saturday, and I don't think I'll be through this time. But I don't oppose, myself, working on Saturdays. I'm used to working on Saturdays. But I would only like to know if we're going to work on Saturdays or not — like Delegate Longmire stated — so that we could make arrangements as to the place we're staying here in Bismarck and at the same time telling the people back home, to whom we are somewhat responsible, also, if we are going to be around on the week-end or not. So I would have to support the motion for this Saturday, of not working, at least, or, if we're going to work, at least we can get word back that we're not going to be available. But I think we should know if we are going to work on Saturday or not.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President, on a point of information:

If we do not work on Saturdays, does this count against the ten days recess? I'm not sure on that, myself. I don't know if other delegates are or not.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Good question!

Delegate Pearce, I believe — you were directing that in the form of an infor-

Delegate Chase, I believe — you were directing that in the form of an information question, aren't you?

DELEGATE CHASE: Yes; that's correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce, I believe, can answer the question.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President, in answer to Delegate Chase's question, we — various people have been discussing this for some time, and several weeks ago I conferred with the Attorney General's office — the Attorney General and his First Assistant — and they stated that their opinion, if asked, would be that, yes, Saturdays had to count, and I was unable to persuade them otherwise. So it appears that the Saturdays we do not work will count as one of the recess days. If we took four days, according to Delegate Maxwell's motion, we would have six working days left for a recess.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does that answer your question, Delegate Chase?

(Delegate Chase nodded.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now I think Delegate Sanstead asked for the floor.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, I believe that there is a very definite advantage to being home on Saturdays. Certainly, one of our responsibilities is to talk to people at home, to be available for questions and comments, and I think that might well be the fact of the next four Saturdays, if we make ourselves available and if it's known to the public that we're going to be home at those times. I think some of the best advice I've had in the Legislature has been with that little mental health recess on Saturday and getting home and looking at what the people are saying at home on the week-end, and coming back to the session on Monday. And I think anything we do on Saturday is going to be what might in all likelihood have to be done over anyway.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on Delegate Maxwell's motion that we do not work on Monday, Tuesday — that we do work. (Laughter)

I thought that was really too good a motion from one of my fellow delegates. But that we do work — there's little difference — Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the weeks in January.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, in relation to the time we have on our hands during the next three days, I would suggest that it should be up to your Program Committee or Committee Chairman to set a schedule of committee hearings and I would suggest that they not be all at the same time, so that the delegates can move from one to the other and ask questions about what the other committee has done. Now, we could come in tomorrow morning at nine o'clock and work for half-an-hour to get the details taken care of, and go into a whole day of committee sessions, and then come back in the afternoon, if there are reports to be made and entered into the Journal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Paulson.

Any further discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I'd like to announce that the Bill of Rights Committee meeting set for two o'clock is cancelled.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Did the delegates hear the announcement from the Committee Chairman?

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: The Education Committee meeting that was called for two o'clock, as provided, has also been cancelled.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Are we open for announcements? Can you receive announcements?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on this particular order of business. I guess we're open for announcements. Go ahead.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: There will be a short meeting of the Calendar Committee immediately following this recess and, namely, in the President's Office.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You will meet in the President's office.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. Chairman, it was my recollection that the meeting of Delegate Meidinger's committee was called for 1:59. I believe he cancelled it as of two o'clock. Anyway, I will withhold making an announcement of when my committee will meet, until we decide what we're going to be doing tomorrow. Are we going to be reaching a determination on this this afternoon?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think we are, Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Do we have any motions?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have none at the moment. Excuse me. We have no motion before the house, do we?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have no motion before the assembly.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Well, Mr. Chairman — Mr. President, I was impressed by the argument of Joe Byrne. I would move at this time that we schedule committee meetings in the mornings — at least for the near future — for the balance of this week — the balance of this week. If I could have a second, I would like to say a few words on that motion.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. Chairman, I just can't see what we are going to do as a Convention until we get some committee reports in. I can't see what we're going to do. So I think it's important to get those committee meetings in. We can still meet at 1:00 or 1:30, or whatever period will be required to take care of the formalities, and then even possibly hold committee meetings after that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen has moved, and it's been seconded, that we hold committee meetings in the mornings for the balance of this week. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Well, Mr. President, I would like to speak in opposition to that. There isn't any reason in the world why we can't meet here for any announcements that you may have, at nine o'clock, and go into committee meetings at 9:30 and go into committee all day. The turn-around was suggested because we could make better use of our time. What are we going to do all afternoon tomorrow, when we'll only meet in committees tomorrow? Are we going to have split sessions of committee meetings? Why don't we just make our announcements here in the morning and go to work on committee work? We'll get plenty of floor work if we have a couple of full days of committee work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Meidinger. Are there any further questions?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would like to suggest or I'd like to resist the motion of Donnell Haugen at the moment. For one thing, I'd like to have the Calendar Committee meet, or the committee chairmen, and discuss this problem briefly, and, actually, it would appear to me that a short meeting in the morning — general session in the morning, followed by the full day for committee hearings, that we could perhaps accomplish or make more efficient use of our time, and so on. Are there any further announcements or any — is the desk clear. Are there any further announcements from the desk?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a motion before the body, and that is on Delegate Haugen's motion that the committees meet in the mornings for the balance of this week. Any further questions or suggestions? Hearing none — Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Is it clear at this time, Mr. President, whether the committees are going to have the responsibility to, in effect, hold hearings at which public testimony can be received on the proposals before they would be returned to the body?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't remember, Delegate Sanstead, exactly how that rule reads. Possibly one of the members of the Rules Committee could enlighten us on that. The question was on when we could have — how much notice we had to give before we could hold a meeting and on a particular proposal that the public might be interested in.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, if my recollection serves me right, we took out any requirement beyond notice to the Clerk of the Convention that a committee was in session, and the Clerk is ordered to post that notice, and the reason we did that, we just didn't feel that — at least it was my feeling, I think — that in most cases you heard as much testimony at least in the session that you worked on that you want to hear. I don't know that you're going to get more. I think we've got to get to the business of working on proposals, and I personally would oppose seeing us go on holding more hearings. Now, possibly, if I were on someone else's committee, I wouldn't mind doing it — hearing what they had to say in theirs. But I think there's work to be done and I think the best that we can hope for is to post on the board that tomorrow morning these committees are meeting and will be considering all proposals before them. I don't know what else we can do. We've got to get some proposals so we can start acting on them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: I agree that there's reason for dispatch; but, at the same time, I don't think that there ought to be any kind of evidence that we are moving here at a rather rapid pace through some of the very deliberate proposals that are in front of us. I think that would be true. It seems to me that, if we go into those proposals, that people at home thought we were going to come in and talk on them, how come they get a call tonight that tomorrow morning they're going to be hearing that proposal, or maybe all day tomorrow they're going to be hearing proposals? I think the committee chairmen — and maybe that can be done in Mr. Saugstad's group — the committee chairmen, in their meetings, all should realize that some of those proposals, at least, are highly controversial and might well want to be opened up. I can think of one in our committee that, except for delegate notice, received hardly any public input, and I've had a number of calls on that resolution and we've assured people that you should be there at such and such a time to talk about that particular proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Any reason for bringing up the meetings in the afternoon? And I think that we should be doing this later on in the afternoon, in case someone from out there in North Dakota wants to come in and appear before us. I think they should have an opportunity to do so.

I agree with Delegate Kelsch that tomorrow morning we can go into meetings and, if we meet all day, certainly we can grind out enough work to start debate the following day, and then we can meet in the morning. I think Delegate Saugstad has a good idea — that the chairmen meet and work out some kind of a schedule. But I do agree that — I do believe that we have set up a rule here that the chairmen have to post the meetings with the Clerk, notice of the meetings with the Clerk, and I think the public should know when these meetings will be held, and even if it's just an hour in the afternoon or an hour in the morning, that the public should know.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: One other point that I might request that the Committee on Calendar consider, and that is the order that they consider proposals. Now, on some of the controversial proposals, we could conceivably hold the hearings three weeks from now, because just in the course of events you aren't going to get to that proposal and they will hold it at four o'clock or seven o'clock in the evening and we can have everybody in the State come in, and that can be arranged; but we should have some idea as to who's going first and in what order. Are we going to take a whole section at once and then move to the next section? Are we just going to take it as we come out of the committee? Are they going to hold back all controversial things? I think there should be some consideration as to how we get at these things and in what order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, I would like to announce to the Convention that, hearing your remarks, it almost sounds like you were eavesdropping at the last meeting of that Committee.

Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I realize, Mr. President, for this week that we should do whatever gets the job done in the best manner; but I have heard that if we meet in morning sessions, our costs will skyrocket — in Plenary Sessions in the morning. I wonder if Delegate Pearce has information on that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Jestrab.

Delegate Pearce, do you have any information?

DELEGATE PEARCE: I apologize. I was reading proposals in the bill book and I didn't get the question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question was relative to the difference in the cost of operating the Convention if we hold meetings in the morning, as compared to holding the sessions in the afternoon.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I've heard that mentioned.

I don't know what the cost differential might be, unless it were employee time. I don't know. There's some cost items I haven't thought of. I yield to Delegate Longmire.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, we had this kicked around a little in Grand Forks. However, I wasn't convinced that the cost items were legitimate. The printers there, of course, try to have the Journals out on the desk for every session the day following the business done the day before. So they indicated they would have to have an extra crew to stay on all night to get those out. However, we came to the conclusion that we didn't have to have them out the day following and that the cost items should not be considered in the price. He could bring them on when he could. But I am convinced by Delegate Byrne's remarks that we might be able to make better time here if we did, at least, have our meetings — our committee meetings in the morning and the other meetings in the afternoon and, of course, tomorrow I don't see that it make a great deal of difference, because we could meet briefly and then recess and go into committee meetings. But that was where the cost item arose, anyhow — in printing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Longmire. Any further discussion?

If there is none, the question before the body is on Delegate Haugen's motion that the committees meet in the morning for the remainder of this week.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President, I'd like to move an amendment to that motion. I'm sorry. Our speakers aren't working over here.

I'd like to move that we recess until nine o'clock in the morning and that, following completion of business by the Plenary Session, that we then go into committee meetings.

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You mean — your amendment, then, is to the effect that you amend Delegate Haugen's motion so that it would be, in effect, that except for tomorrow morning, we would open as we did this morning, and then, at the will of the Convention, we go into committee sessions? Are you aware of the proposed amendment? Is there any discussion on the amendment? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry, your speaker is not working.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: The substitute motion, I think, effectively took care of my motion — the passage of that motion — and I have no objection to that procedure. I would like to announce now, if I may —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will you hold, unless this is pertaining to this motion?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Excuse me. Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Let us — go ahead.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes. I just wanted to point out I think the passage of the substitute motion eliminated any need for a vote on my motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, I think we have the motion before the house, and we have to dispose of it. So the question, then, is on Delegate Haugen's motion, and as many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." I'm going to rule that the "ayes" have it, and the motion is adopted.

Now, Delegate Haugen, I believe you had an announcement. Did you wish to make an announcement about — or, no. I'm in error. I'm in error. You're going to make that announcement in the morning.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Well, I think, for the information of my committee members, I would like to announce that the meeting that was to be held at 1:30, or following this afternoon's session, will be postponed until tomorrow morning, as an announcement at that time will be made.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: We've been here two days now and we haven't adjourned. I wonder what the procedure — this is a point of inquiry I'm making — on whether or not we're going to — what are we going to do about the adjourning business, and so forth?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, I believe you have failed to consult your Journal. I think we adjourned.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, we may have it in the Journal, Mr. President, but I don't remember any motion to. That's fine, if we did.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on any matter to be brought before the Convention?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. If a motion for adjournment is in order — it's not in order. I withdraw it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's sort of a — well, I guess I don't have the right attitude. I would like to revert back on our agenda — I believe it's the eighth order of business — for announcements, and I would like at this time to announce the members of — officially announce the members of the Committee on Calendar — they consist of Delegate Saugstad as Chairman, Delegates Maxwell, Hoffner, Longmire, Haugen, Meidinger and Hernet — the records should indicate — Delegate Saugstad, did you request a meeting at some time here for that Committee?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Yes; immediately following our recess or adjournment of this session, meeting in the President's office.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The committee chairmen, then, on the substantive committees, are aware that Chairman Saugstad is calling a meeting of the Calendar Committee immediately after adjournment.

Now, Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Renew my motion, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire moves that this assembly be now adjourned, and it's been seconded by Delegate Hildebrand.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and this group will stand in recess — or in adjournment until nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 4:37 P.M., Tuesday, January 4, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Wednesday, January 5, 1972.)

V O L U M E I I I

(January 5, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The third day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:10 A.M., Wednesday, January 5, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is The Reverend John H. Nicolai, Pastor, Trinity Lutheran Church, Bismarck, North Dakota.

REVEREND JOHN H. NICOLAI: Let us bow our heads in prayer.

Eternal and Almighty God, we turn to Thee on this new day, thanking Thee for Thy continued presence and your daily grace. As the members of the Convention proceed in these beginning days, guide and direct them. We thank Thee that Thy Holy Spirit does break into the lives and minds of people and leads them into right and correct ways, and so move here that a constitution may be established that will be right for the people of this State and pleasing unto Thee.

In the name of Jesus Christ, we pray. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will have roll call. The Clerk will open the key. You will reflect your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence. We will close the key.

The roll discloses 95 "ayes" — or present, three absent. A quorum is declared.

We will be on the fourth order of business, Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the third day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

On page 87, line 44, delete "didn't" and substitute in lieu thereof "don't."

On page 87, line 57, delete the balance of the line following the words "first thing," and insert in lieu thereof "to do is to kill all the lawyers."

On page 93, in lines 2 and 3, delete "Legislative Functions" and substitute in lieu thereof "Education, Resources and Public Lands."

On page 93, in lines 34 and 35, delete "Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage" and substitute in lieu thereof "Legislative Functions."

On page 95, in line 37 and 38, delete "Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage" and substitute in lieu thereof "Legislative Functions."

On page 99, line 23, delete "Allen" and substitute in lieu thereof "Allin."

And when so corrected recommends that the same be approved. Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Paulson moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the Report of the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal. It has been moved and seconded that it be adopted.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted.

We will be on the eighth order of business, Communications and Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I would like to ask the delegates, to facilitate distribution of the material by the pages, would you please not lock up your proposal books or your Journals in your desk or remove them from the chamber. If they're not here, we are not able to keep them up to date. I would also like to ask you to add the zip codes on your Journal mailing list, if at all possible.

The Executive Functions Committee will meet on Wednesday, January 5th, at 9:30 A.M. in Room G-5 and 6.

The Public Information Committee will meet Thursday at 4:00 P.M. to discuss post-Convention activities with members of the North Dakota Extension Council. Several Council members will be here Thursday.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I would like to be put on the eighth order of business.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are under the eighth order at this time.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I would like to make an announcement that a group of delegates feel that, to this point, they have been knowledgeable, perhaps, in only one-sixth of the Constitution, each of us only having worked on one of the six substantive committees. We would like to know a little bit more about the rest of them.

Now, with the limitations imposed by 30 days of the Plenary Session, it appears necessary that we employ some other means. And so, reviewing the alternatives open, it appears that a better way might be to schedule meetings in the evening. We want to do it on a rather informal basis. So we did contact, through myself, the Highway Department, and they agreed that they would reserve a room over there — the Highway Auditorium — for meetings at 7:30 each evening, and I believe it would be propitious for us to do so.

Now, on that basis, we have scheduled one meeting for tonight and we look at more in the future. The one tonight will be on the right to work, and we have looked at these issues in the order we would think that they would create interest among the delegates.

Now, first of all, we must say that these are for the information of the delegates and, consequently, no one will be allowed to take part in them, except delegates. Tonight's meeting will be moderated by Delegate Kessel and will have 15-minute limitation on the advocates of right to work and on the opponents of right to work. There can be either one, two or three, or more, advocates; the same number of opponents; but, altogether, they are allowed 15 minutes on this panel. After that, it's thrown open to questions and discussion from the floor. We emphasize that the press will probably be there, if they wish. It's open to anybody; but only the delegates will be allowed to participate.

Now, we look at the other subjects coming up here, and of course we're wide open to any suggestions you have. I have talked to some others that might moderate some of these subjects, and we look at unicameral versus bicameral as probably being one of the next things that would be of interest to all of us. After that, it would be perhaps reapportionment — not necessarily in that order — and reorganization of the executive branch of our government.

With that announcement, I'll just conclude to say that this will be held tonight at 7:30 in the auditorium of the Highway Building. All of you are welcome to participate and to be there; and if anyone has any other questions or announcements on it, I would appreciate those. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — or Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands will meet at 9:45 in G-1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President, are we still on the eighth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the eighth order.

DELEGATE TUDOR: May I make an announcement?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may, sir.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Being a history buff, I have felt, since the Convention assembled, that a few words — maybe one or two minutes — should be said about an individual whose heritage we honor.

Even as the delegates to the original Federal Constitutional Convention were inspired by the work of George Mason and Thomas Jefferson, so the original delegates to the First Constitutional Convention in North Dakota were inspired by the skeleton draft of a constitution which was written by Judge James Bradley Thayer.

It so happens that in a tin box in the law library at Harvard University repose these original documents. This box is labeled "Thayer Draft — North Dakota State Constitution."

I have probably the only copy of this original draft in the State.

James Thayer was born in 1831 at Haverhill, Massachusetts. With the aid of friends, he entered Harvard College in 1848. After a brief period of teaching, he entered the Harvard Law School in 1854. In December 1856 he was admitted to the Boston Bar.

In 1874, having previously refused a Harvard professorship of English, he accepted the professorship in the Harvard Law School which he held for the remainder of his life. This period witnessed great changes in the school, resulting from Dean Langdell's introduction of the case system of study and teaching. Langdell, Thayer and James Ames together laid the foundation for the future success of the method of the school.

Aside from this contribution, Thayer's reputation rests on his work in constitutional law and in the law of evidence. On both subjects, he became recognized as the leading scholar in the United States.

In regard to constitutional law, to which Thayer also devoted himself, he early adopted and always upheld the view that no legislative act should be held unconstitutional unless it was so beyond a reasonable doubt and, further, that the function of a constitution is to lay down in general terms broad fundamental principles. "Constitutions," he said, "were not made to be codes of laws or to embody the opinion of a momentary majority."

On questions of local, as well as of national politics, his tongue and pen were also at the service of what he deemed the righteous cause.

He died at his home in Cambridge in 1902.

Thank you for your indulgence.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: The Committee on Finance and Taxation will meet approximately fifteen minutes after recess in the Blue Room — I hope about 9:45.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I'd like to announce that the Legislative Functions Committee will meet about fifteen minutes after recess, and I would like to report that it's going to be a very important meeting.

Now that we have adopted the Rules, we find for sure that we do not have a majority report on the unicameral. We have two minority reports.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, I believe now I should say I've heard everything!

Thank you very much.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I would like to announce that the Bill of Rights Committee will meet after this session closes, in the Lewis and Clark Room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: The Committee on the Correction of the Biographies has met and we have received complaints, and they are duly noted and a few minor ones must be overlooked. For example, I understand John Paulson was not born, and we regret this oversight. (Laughter)

That's not an error, you say? I don't know. But there's one serious error that was made, but I don't know if I should blame this on an excellent assistant at the University — Lloyd Wright, who is a very staunch Republican. But Delegate Trenbeath over there suggests that Delegate Sinner is not recovering from back surgery, but from a change of party that showed up in his biography. (Laughter)

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, the Judicial Functions Committee will meet in the Gold Room fourteen minutes after we recess today.

In order to expedite some of the work of these committees, Mr. President, if Delegate Hoffner has no objection, sometime today I want to move that the bicameral - unicameral problem he has been referred to the Judicial Committee. We'll straighten it out!

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Longmire. Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President. I — well, I'll ask the Chair, first: Is it — will the remarks of Dr. Tudor be placed in the Journal and, if they're not, I would move that they be placed in the Journal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved that the remarks of Dr. Tudor be placed in the Journal.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate O'Toole.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the remarks of Delegate Tudor will be placed in the Journal.

Any further announcements? Mr. Clerk, is the desk clear?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: It's clear.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: May we be on the eleventh order for a moment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eleventh order of business.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, one of the very fine members of my Committee has left a note with me, and I understand that there's one at the desk, that because of an emergency he had to be called away. I'm speaking of Delegate Gipp. I believe we had one or two other absences this morning. We know that Delegate Sinner is ill.

So, Mr. President, if you would accept it, I would like to move that all three of the absences this morning — I understand Delegate Butler also has some problem — be excused, because of their absences, because it's obvious that they have good reasons for that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The record will show, Delegate Longmire that the three delegates that are absent this morning will be excused.

I do have a written request from Delegate Gipp as to the reason for his not being here today.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I don't know what order this is on, but I'd like to ask a question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may ask a question.

DELEGATE HERNETT: This order of business — Delegate Longmire referred to the eleventh order of business, which, I see, is the second reading and second passage of proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet, I think that's typical.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I'm reading this.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, this is my own copy.

DELEGATE HERNETT: That's what I'd like to know — is where he finds this order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Hernet, I think that the result — I think that because the Rules have been amended and reamended, that a number of these things are — the numbers are not correct, and I'm sure that when the new cards come out today, that this problem will be alleviated.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Would you recognize Delegate Hernet for a moment of apology?

DELEGATE HERNETT: I would, Mr. President, but I don't know what order of business that would be. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, I think that the delegates are especially sharp this morning, but I think we better get on with the work at hand.

The desk is clear.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. I move that we recess for committee hearings.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: To a time certain or to —

DELEGATE RUNDLE: The time set by the President; unless you want a time certain. I'll put it in there.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Rundle, I think it would be pretty much up to the will of the Convention. If they want to come back at one o'clock, fine. If they want to continue to work on the committee hearings, that's fine.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, I'll compromise with the remarks. One-thirty.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: One-thirty?

It has been moved that the Convention do now recess until one-thirty.

DELEGATE NETHING: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been seconded by Delegate Nothing.

A question — just an explanation here, before we vote on this.

One of the reasons that I have — or I should say the reason that I have possibly been made to stall here a little bit on getting a second is because the gentleman down here that is taking a verbatim record of the proceedings of the Convention has requested that the name of the person making the second be — that he be given that. So, when I have asked who made the second, to get the name, it's for the gentleman down here to put it on the record.

Now we will vote on the motion before the house.

As many as are in favor of standing in recess until one-thirty, say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we will be in recess until one-thirty.

(The Session recessed at 9:32 A.M. until 1:34 P.M., the same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order. May we have order in the Convention? We'll be on the fifth order of business — reports of standing committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Mr. President: Your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-14 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended" —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the committee report.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: — "and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

“Delegate Longmire, Chairman.”

Delegate Longmire moves the same be passed.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion say “aye;” those opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and we have had adopted our first committee report.

Committee Proposal No. 1-14 will be placed on the sixth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: “Mr. President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-22 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

“Delegate Haugen, Chairman.”

Delegate Haugen moves this report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the committee report on Committee Proposal No. 1-22.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and Proposal No. 1-22 will be placed on the tenth order of business for action tomorrow.

We have nothing further at the desk.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: May we be on the twelfth order of business — Motions?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we’ll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I move that Rule 16, which is the rule on Order of Business, be amended as follows:

In the eighth order of business, following the word “Communications” add the words “and Announcements.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does the desk have the proposed amendment?

The proposed amendment is to section 8, Rule 16, to add the words, following the word “Communications,” “and Announcements.”

You have heard the proposed amendment to the Rules. Is there any discussion? If not, as many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and the Rules are amended.

We will be back on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: “Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-1 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

“Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.”

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report No. 1-1.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the adoption of the report will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and this will go on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: “Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-2 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

“Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.”

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the report — Proposal No. 1-2 — which calls for the indefinite postponement of Proposal 1-2.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I would like to explain that the purpose of moving to indefinitely postpone this article, which comprises the entire Bill of Rights section, is merely so that the Committee can resubmit this article in separate sections.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

The question, then, is on the adoption of the committee report that we indefinitely postpone Proposal No. 1-2.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I have a question.

Is the intent of this Convention that we break up each of these proposals that have been combined as they were submitted by the committee report into individual sections?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell, would you care to answer?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President. In the case of our committee, that is true; however, I believe there are some committees where it will not be true.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Yes, Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, Mr. President, under our Rules, is this the last chance? Supposing someone likes the present constitution — those sections of it. Is this the last we're going to hear of it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't — I don't follow you.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, on an indefinite postponement of the entire thing —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Maybe — Delegate Rundle, I think, before we vote on this proposal or on this motion, I'm going to ask that the Chairman of the Committee on Calendar — I believe the Committee has been in session this morning and the committee chairmen have agreed on a pattern to follow, and I think that, in fairness to the members of the Convention — maybe I did take this motion ahead of time — but I think we will ask that we just hold the action on this one in abeyance until we hear the report of the Committee on Calendar. I'm going to ask Stan to report at this time. We'll just hold this action on this in abeyance until after you have heard this report.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Thank you very much.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: President Wenstrom, Delegates:

The Calendar Committee, after — met this morning. At that time, each of the chairmen had met with their respective committees. It developed that the chairmen of the various committees decided among themselves that, because of the highly-controversial nature of some of the material in some of the proposals — I'm talking now about some of the proposals that contain a considerable number of sections — the one that is before us now is a good example, in that it contains controversial — some controversial sections — and that because of the controversial nature of a proposal containing several controversial sections, it was felt that we would expedite handling of these controversial issues on the floor if they were separated and came in as separate proposals.

Now, this does not follow that — it does not necessarily follow that there will be a separate proposal for each and every section — that is, related materials can still be together in several sections under one proposal, but in this manner — in the manner that has been reporting now, the motion to indefinitely postpone Committee Proposal No. 1-2 — there will be a series of proposals entered as committee proposals covering this same area. Now that committee will decide — the committee itself will decide which of these articles it will combine in a proposal.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. Chairman, do I understand the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen, I doubt that your speaker is working.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Am I heard now?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Do I understand, Mr. President, that the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage is going to reintroduce all of Committee Proposal 1-2?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct. But it will be broken into one, two, three, four sections.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, for the information of the delegates, am I correct in understanding that where the recommendation of a committee is for an indefinite postponement, that we will go on the board and a recorded vote will be taken?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Not necessarily.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I think indefinite postponement requires 50 votes, doesn't it? I just want to make it clear to me. Do the delegates understand that the report is for an indefinite postponement and that that carries, in the end, a proposal for amendment or for do pass; that it will get another chance to review it the next day on the calendar?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I believe that would be taken care of, Delegate Kelsch, unless somebody wants to call for a division, because the record will show that it did pass or fail, and it would have to have 50 votes to pass, or at least the majority that is here, and I don't think, as a matter of practicability, if that's the right word, that we would be faced with it, unless somebody wanted a division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. During the noon hour, a number of us had lunch together and we were talking about this very thing, and we — at our meeting this morning, we didn't talk about the minority reports.

Now, all the minority reports — and I missed part of your discussion, Delegate Saugstad — I was working on this thing I'm putting together — we didn't talk about minority reports. Not all minority reports would have to be renumbered and, since minority reports — some of them take in two sections, and if the new proposal doesn't necessarily deal with these two sections, that would also have to be renumbered and reintroduced, and I'm just wondering if this Convention — if the majority of this Convention couldn't pass the motion that I have scratched down here, and if that wouldn't take care of our problem, since not all committees are talking about splitting up their proposals: That Committees be allowed to bring to the floor portions of their respective proposals on a section-by-section basis or with sections grouped according to subject matter or in some logical way as the members of the Committee see fit.

Now: Then we get away from reintroducing bills. We get away from withdrawing our proposals. In our Committee, for example, the people's section would be still the same proposal. I think the committee members mostly are agreed that this would stay the same. So only in the legislative portion of it would the committee divide that into a group of probably three different sections. That would be brought to the floor, voted on, put in the Journal, recorded as voted on and disposed of. They are identified as sections and proposal heads in our Journal — in our bill books — and I'm wondering if we couldn't have a discussion on that and if this wouldn't be a solution to our problem.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. We are not necessarily — we do not have to change every word in the Constitution. We may change them all; but, as a matter of public opinion, this motion may not mean a thing — to indefinitely postpone. But it has a pretty tough sound. In a lot of cases, it has more implications than show up, and I question it would be wise for one of our first major pieces of business to indefinitely postpone the first 24 articles, including the Preamble, even though we'd do it later. I think this would be a poor way to start — to tell very many people, who do not want everything changed.

I'd oppose this motion very much. I don't think it's in time. When they come in with it and it's all settled, then would be the time to kill out — knock out the ones you don't want. I think it's unwise from a public-sentiment standpoint, if nothing else.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, now, Mr. President, it would seem that this motion is simple on its face; but there are certain mechanics that the desk force have to go through with in order to properly get these proposals before us, and one of them is that they have to have in full the proposal that's being considered by the Convention at that time. And it was my understanding this morning, in our Calendar Committee meeting, that the reason for handling it in this way or in some other way would be so that the Clerk would have before him the exact proposal that was being considered and voted on at the time we did act on it.

I don't think the public is going to mind what we do the first day or the second day or the third day. What they're going to be considering is what we did the last day, with the full document before them. I don't think we need to worry about, at this moment, starting something or changing something and starting over again on it, and according to the desk force, according to our Secretary, who appeared before us, this is the easiest way mechanically to do it.

Now it could be done one other way — through the proposal or through the Chairman of the Committee asking for unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw the proposal and then start over again in the manner proposed. But it was a question of orderly procedure and time saving and mechanics that I felt that we had, at least, an understanding on in the Calendar Committee that we would handle it one or the other of these two ways — namely, indefinite postponement or withdrawing it with unanimous consent.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: One of the reasons that the Bill of Rights Committee would like to submit separate sections is that in Proposal 1-2, there are 27 separate sections. Of those, at least a dozen are noncontroversial, and we could take rapid action on them and get them before this assembly. There has been some restlessness amongst the delegates because there has been no work that has been ready for them to sink their teeth into. We can act quickly and bring before this assembly quite a few sections to start looking at, if we can separate them. However, if we must wait until all 27 sections have been dealt with in our Committee, many of them highly controversial, several of which we expect to have extended public hearings on, we can't present anything to this general session for two or three weeks.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I think I was following what Delegate Hoffner was suggesting or asking. Would it — and I'd like to address this to Judge Maxwell: Would it be feasible to introduce to the Convention your proposals by keeping numbers such as 1-1 and adding a subnumber that referred to that particular section, such as 1-1-7, 1-1-20 — and what other ones were not of a nature that would be controversial?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, if I may respond.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, that would be possible; but, as I understand it, there would be a great deal of mechanical difficulty involved in that kind of an arrangement. I don't know just what all those difficulties are, because I'm not that familiar with this type of legislative proceeding. But the Chief Clerk has indicated that it would be extremely difficult to try to keep the matters straight, if it's handled on that basis.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, after listening to this discussion, it seems to boil down to one simple thing: We want to get the committee report back before the committee to revise it, and if it's going to be a cloud on the record by using "indefinite postponement" as the terminology, I think the other method suggested by Delegate Longmire that the committee report be withdrawn under unanimous consent and then the committee would have it back and they could take whatever action was necessary.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question before the assembly is on Delegate Maxwell's motion on the committee report that Proposal No. 1-2 be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I'm sure some on the committee are wondering why I'm not making a similar motion, but I think I'm going to hold this in abeyance until tomorrow and give our Calendar Committee another day to talk this over. And I agree — I think it would look better if we withdraw this, if we are going to, rather than indefinitely postpone it, and so I'll tell my committee I'm not going to make this motion, as we decided to, and we'll probably do it tomorrow morning. I would like to see us at this time, as soon as our regular work is completed, to recess and let's get back to the business of committee work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have an announcement at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Trinity Lutheran spaghetti supper January 6th, Trinity Lutheran Church, serving from 5:00-to-7:00 P.M., at 310 Avenue A. Adults, a dollar; youths from six-to-twelve fifty cents; children free. Free babysitting service.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Are we on the eighth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We may be on the eighth order, without objection.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: I don't know if it's a coincidence or Delegate Sinner's well-known underground communications, but this morning I used Scope and George showed up this afternoon. So I personally would like to welcome George, and I know the rest of you are happy to see him here, too. (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Simonson.

The desk is clear.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: President Wenstrom.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move that the Plenary Sessions begin at 9:00 A.M.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that we establish an opening time for the opening of the Plenary Session, and it opened at 9:00 A.M.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: The reason for that — for setting a definite time — is so that the committee chairmen can plan their committee meetings and can set definite times for their committee meetings. This is particularly important if there are to be public hearings, and there will be people appearing before the committees, and at any later date or sometime in the future, of course, or any time, by motion, this body can elect to change the meeting time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on Delegate Saugstad's motion that we establish a definite time for opening the morning sessions of the Plenary Session.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Is the desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: There will be a very brief — very short meeting of the Calendar Committee immediately following the recess. And are you ready for a motion for a recess?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner has a motion.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. Has this group then made the decision that the method of removal should be by indefinite postponement or by withdrawal?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, I would have to say that they made a decision on one proposal.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Okay. I'd like to ask the question: Would it be possible for the desk to handle the suggestion I have made in a motion, and I would repeat the motion, if it is so desired.

That the committee pass out — like my committee decide to pass out section 8 — that that section be put on the calendar with an identity of it as 1-7, section 8, Legislative Functions, and then, if it's approved, that that be entered in the Journal as such and disposed of.

Would this create a real desk problem?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roy — or Clerk, would you answer that?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I can see no way that we could handle it by breaking it up in that way.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I then move that the Convention give the unanimous consent to the Legislative Functions Committee withdrawing Committee Proposal No. 1-7.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner has moved or requested unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Proposal No. 1-7.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: If I could get a second —

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been seconded.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: And the Legislative Functions Committee has talked about this. Their intention is not to change any portion of 1-7, but to break it down into groups of sections — into probably three or four proposals, instead of one proposal containing umpteen sections — a total number of 29 sections, and I certainly hope that the Convention grants us this privilege, so that the Committee can meet shortly after recess and go to work reintroducing new sections — new proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on Delegate Hoffner's request that the Convention grant unanimous consent to the withdrawal of Proposal No. 1-7.

As many as are in favor of his motion will signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." You have the unanimous consent of the Convention.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, in the enabling legislation for this Convention, passed by the 1971 Legislature, there's a provision, as you know, for ten recess days, and these days can be used for committee meetings, if necessary. Well, it occurs to me that tomorrow, at least, probably 95 percent of our time will be consumed in committee meetings. If we meet here in Plenary Session, we're using one of our 30 days, and I don't think it will be used to any good purpose, because what business is transacted will probably be of a routine nature that can be handled in a very short space of time at a subsequent date. So I think we should at least consider the possibility of how we're going to allocate these ten recess days, because it seems to me that it might be a good idea to use one of them this week.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Dobson, I believe that we had a motion yesterday to not work Saturday, and if we don't work Saturday, we have used one of those this week.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President. Mr. President, that is true, if we don't work on any Saturday, that we will take up probably six of the ten recess days, leaving four, and we probably want to save a couple for about three-fourths of the way through the Convention. But if we do meet in Plenary Session tomorrow, for example, it will be day four, and it seems to me that we're going to need all the days possible later on, when we're debating substantive matters.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

Along the line of what Delegate Dobson said, personally I prefer to keep the ten days to the latter part of the session, primarily because no one will get paid for those days nor will they receive any expense money, as I understand it, and sometimes it has an effect of making people work harder to accomplish the job when they know they're not going to be paid for being here and they're on their own expense money. But I think, in preparing the budget, and perhaps the Budget Chairman could answer it — I would assume it was prepared on the basis of 30 days for delegate expense and delegate per diem.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment?

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I think you gentlemen and ladies are overlooking the fact that, if we take a recess day tomorrow, we save a day out of the 30. We haven't lost anything. If we meet in committee, everybody will get paid for doing committee work, at $25 a day, and they will earn their expense money. You won't lost any expense money there and you really haven't lost any time, but you have added a working day at the tail end of the Session when you may need the time to get the work done. I don't know whether it will work out that smoothly, but it seems to me that you are saving a working day, as against a recess day.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: My thought would be that we may need to take a week off later in the session, after we've gone through all the material once, and to allow the delegates an opportunity to go back to their respective districts to get some more thinking on the matters, give them a time to mull over some of the decisions they have made, and it will give the Styling and Drafting Committee an opportunity to catch up with their work, give the rest of the staff a chance to catch up with their work, and if we're going to take, say, a full week off, that will be five or six weeks as of today, and if we take of the four Saturdays in January, that would be our ten days, and I have a sneaking suspicion some of the delegates are also going to want to count several of the Saturdays in February as recess days. So I'm more concerned about the fact that we'll run out of recess days before we really need them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments?

For the information of the Convention, we do not have a motion before the house.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, just a few minutes ago we unanimously agreed to have a proposal withdrawn, and I think any one of us, probably, that said "no" in jest or not, it would have remained where it is, and I'm just wondering if Rule 33, which sets forth the precedence of motions, eight — or excuse me — Rule No. 10 provides that to refer to a committee, that it only takes a majority of those present to do that, and if a report has come in from the committee, it is now back in the hands of the assembly. It would seem to me that all it would take then to refer it back to that committee would be a majority, instead of having to have unanimous consent. I'm just wondering if the Chairman would make a ruling on that — as to whether or not that rule would be applicable in that case, because I think it could save some time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Mr. — Delegate Nething, we had two situations here; we had one where we indefinitely postponed one proposal in order that the committee can break it down — break the proposal down into a number of sections and reintroduce them. The other one was the process of withdrawing in place of indefinitely postponing, and by the Rule, it states that it requires unanimous consent of the assembly to withdraw. However, had Delegate Hoffner not received unanimous consent of withdrawing, he simply had to rephrase his request and move that the rules be suspended and that he be permitted to withdraw his particular proposal. Under those terms, he would only need a two-thirds vote of the Convention.

I hope that — I don't know whether that answers your question, but I may be not entirely sure on your question.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just yield to Delegate Nething first, will you, Delegate Hernettt?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. Thank you, Delegate Hernettt.

What I'm thinking about, of course, when you indefinitely postpone a proposal, it's gone — there's nothing to take back to work with — and of course I realize that at this time the committee can come out with their own proposals because all they have to do is introduce them. But, as I understand the Rules, after the twentieth day, this will no longer be possible, and so at that time we're going to have a method, I think, where a majority simply will permit it to go back to the committee.

Now, two-thirds — I think you're right — to suspend the rules would permit Delegate Hoffner's situation to function; but if we indefinitely postpone after 20 days, there's nothing left to take back and the committee cannot bring up and introduce new proposals at that time. That — so I —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Again, excuse me now. I'm not trying to argue the point with you. But, again, the Rules that we operate on are strictly man-made rules and, if it's the will of the Convention that this particular proposal be reintroduced, they will reintroduce it, if you again fear the rule that two-thirds vote would suspend the rule and bring it back.

DELEGATE NETHING: I so agree.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: So I think that — I don't think it's a problem.

DELEGATE NETHING: It may get to the point where a two-thirds vote in this assembly is going to be difficult to get, and that's what I was looking ahead for.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernettt.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, Mr. President, I just don't think we actually have to do anything with the proposals today or any time. In fact, I wonder if we can even act on them. They're not before us. They're in the committee, and if we treat them like you do a bill, you have to return it from the committee to the floor of the Convention. We went through all, or indefinitely postpone, or anything else. I just don't think the action on withdrawing or indefinitely postponing — that you could do this. But I think, further — I don't think we have to do anything with these until the Convention — the final day of the Convention. Isn't that right, Mr. President? Can't we bring in —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Oh, I can't —

DELEGATE HERNETT: Can't we bring in proposals — new proposals from our committee?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Hernettt, I sure can't agree with you that we don't have to do anything with them until the last day of the Convention. I can't agree to that.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, some such a time — the twentieth day. But my question originally was: Can we withdraw or indefinitely postpone if the proposal is not before us — it's in the committee?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, possibly, Delegate Hernett, the motion should have been that Proposal No. 1-2 be returned before the Convention, and after they agree to that, then we could have had another motion to the effect that it be indefinitely postponed, and we'd just have one more — do we have one more?

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: A point to clear up as far as the delegates are concerned here, and I think this might be a point for Delegate Nething, also:

It does not take two-thirds vote to suspend the rules as they are now. Is that right? A majority vote is all it takes under the temporary rules. Is that right, Mr. Chairman?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The way I understand it. I think it is. When we incorporate the final draft, that that will be one of the —

DELEGATE CHASE: I have one other question to the Staff, and that is: Is it possible to present an entire proposal and, as part of that proposal, recommend the division of that proposal for separate voting? Are we causing a problem there?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would you repeat that?

DELEGATE CHASE: Is it possible to present an entire proposal, such as has been referred back to the committee, and along with that proposal recommend its division of the question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's permissible.

DELEGATE CHASE: Would that help solve some of the problem?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That would. You see, Fellow Delegates and Delegate Chase, we are not going to get away from the division of the question or the division of the action on the proposal, because there are in — we will, in an instance, but in many cases, even after this is divided, even after this proposal comes back, it may be three, four, five sections — there's still going to be a number of sections in each one of those. But at the moment, the way this is, as I understand it there may be 20-some sections in this proposal, and if we bring the proposal before the Convention in that form in the first place, I agree with Delegate Maxwell that it will be weeks before the proposal can come before the Convention, unless he is permitted to cut it up, and then when it does come, we're still going to have to divide the question, except in very rare occasions when nothing in the proposal is controversial. I mean — when I say "controversial," I don't mean — I mean just a difference of opinion here on it. So your suggestion, Delegate Chase, is workable.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: I'm rather mixed up in my thinking about it. I don't believe we had any right to indefinitely postpone this committee proposal. No. — or 1-2. I don't think we've had this on our calendar before — have we?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, we didn't have it on the calendar before us, Delegate Hougen, but the Convention has unlimited power and, if you get two-thirds of the vote in, as we did in this particular case — I'm sure we had more than that — the Convention can do pretty much as it pleases.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: But there has to be an order that we would call, Mr. President. I don't think that we —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Excuse me, but this did come in on a committee report.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Did it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, it did come in on a committee report and the committee report was adopted.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Well, I was unaware of this.

Now where was this done at, may I ask, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, this was done almost at the start of the afternoon session. We had one, two, three — I believe we had four committee reports come in.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Excuse me. I stand corrected then.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Three reports came in and are still with us for further action of the Convention, and this one came in for being indefinitely postponed.

Now, inasmuch as Delegate Hougen did miss this point, and I think it is well, just as a word of caution and of warning to all delegates, that this is something that can happen. This is something that can happen on the floor of the Convention very easily, and the delegates become involved in either reading a letter that they received from a constituent or they're looking at a proposal that they're going to vote on a little later, and they're really not aware of the committee reports as they come in, and it's real easy to have the Convention adopt a committee report for indefinite postponement or for adoption — either way — and many of the delegates never even realize that this has happened. So it's just — I just want to emphasize the fact that Delegate Hougen missed this, and this is a common happening.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If I may, so that I understand, at least for myself. Now, as I understand it from the Calendar Committee's suggestion, except for those proposals that have been reported out and have already been acted on, all the other proposals are in the committees' hands right now, because they have been referred to it — to the committees. We can proceed to break those down and come in with new proposals on individual sections and we do not have to do away with or table or postpone the proposals that are presently in our book at this time. That could be done later, couldn't it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, it could.

DELEGATE KELSCH: So we are now in a position, then, to recess or adjourn this Plenary Session, go to committee work, and come out with new sections.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If the motion hasn't been made, I'd like to make it.

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: What is your motion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: I don't know if we want to adjourn or recess.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, could I make some announcements, before we recess?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, I would like to ask the Committee on Finance and Taxation to get to work in the Blue Room as soon as possible. Evidently, I won't be able to be there until the calendar meeting — whatever it is — but I hope that they will be there working when I do get there. How about it, fellas?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I would like to call a meeting of the Bill of Rights Committee to convene immediately, and I'd like to ask the Vice Chairman, Delegate Decker, to preside.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: In line with what we discussed a little earlier and in an effort to save one of our 30 valuable days, I move that when we adjourn, we stand adjourned to 9:00 A.M. Friday.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It is moved that when we do adjourn this session, that we stand adjourned until 9:00 A.M. Friday. Is there a —

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako seconded the motion.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'd like to speak in opposition to the motion.

I think the intent of the motion is very good — to allow as much time as we can here for committees; however, I think we can accomplish that in the same manner by meeting briefly here tomorrow morning, as we're scheduled to do, at nine o'clock, and then recess for the purpose of committee meetings after that time.

I agree with Delegate Hill that toward the end of this Convention we may need these recessed days more than we will need the working days for the purpose of a lot of drafting and writing and catching up by ourselves in connection with our final document that we will be presenting and approving and presenting to the people. I don't believe that we will save any more time by passing this motion than we would to meet here briefly tomorrow on routine matters and then say that we will go to work at ten o'clock on committee work. I would hate to see us use up one of these recessed days unnecessarily when we may need them at the end of the Session.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the motion to adjourn to a time certain, and we would adjourn this afternoon until we come back into session at nine o'clock on Friday.

Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it. The motion lost.

The Chair will recognize — was it Delegate Kelsch that wanted to make a motion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I move we adjourn for committee hearings.

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Did you have something further? Will you yield to Delegate Hoffner?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Yes, Mr. President.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. A very alert delegate, Clare Aubol, has just pointed out to me Rule 18.1 — "Any committee proposal may be withdrawn from further consideration by motion of the committee" — and since I am not on that committee, I was out of order. So at this time I would like to have a ruling from the Chair on that, and then, if you rule in favor of that, I have a motion I would like to make.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't follow the —

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. The Rule 18.1, "Withdrawal of Proposals," and since the proposal that I requested be withdrawn is Committee Proposal No. 1-7, that by moving that motion, I was out of order. I was violating the Rule, as I read it now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Hoffner, that's your — it's in your -- you are the Chairman of the Committee that has the rule — that has the proposal. You had, as I recall, unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw it. I can see how it — I can see no reason for having it interfere, or anything about the procedure. You had more than two-thirds vote of the Convention to — you had a unanimous vote of the Convention, so I don't think I can argue with that.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Thank you very much.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Although I was attending the Convention, I, for one, did not vote, and I perhaps would vote differently if the question were put before the floor now. But what Delegate Hoffner was saying is that he made the motion on a committee proposal on his own. He was not instructed by his committee to make the motion for withdrawal, and our Rules provide that a committee proposal may be withdrawn upon a motion of the committee, and that would be ruled out of order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Your question is well-taken, Delegate Aubol. I think on these actions of committee chairmen, that the Chair has to assume that they are acting at the will of their committee, and that was my assumption.

Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, may we be on announcements?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, I would like to have the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands meet at 2:45 in G-1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, the Committee on Legislative Functions will meet in the Large Hearing Room immediately after the recess.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: The Committee on Executive Functions will meet in the usual room. 2:45 sounds good. They can have time for coffee then.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. The Judicial Committee will meet, with Delegate Roney, Vice Chairman, presiding, immediately after the session. They seem to get along better when I'm not there. So they'll go into session immediately, right after we recess.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

Then the Chair will recognize Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I move we adjourn.

DELEGATE NETHING: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch moves we adjourn. It has been seconded.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we will now adjourn.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 2:28 P.M., Wednesday, January 5, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Thursday, January 6, 1972.)

VOLUME IV

(January 6, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The fourth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:12 A.M., Thursday, January 6, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is the Reverend Walter Dingfield of Bismarck Baptist Church.

REVEREND WALTER DINGFIELD: Let us pray.

Our loving Heavenly Father, we approach Thee this morning in the precious name of Thy Son, Our Savior. We come to Thee with thanksgiving for Thy wonderful grace and the goodness showing us daily that You still love us and care for us. We enter into this day with the realization that Thou art God — the Creator and the Redeemer. We do acknowledge our dependence upon You for strength, for guidance and for wisdom. Guide these delegates in their deliberations. Help them to discern that which needs to be changed and that which still remains as valid and needful for our society.

May there constantly be the fear of the Lord and the love for fellowman in the hearts and souls of each. May all things be done to the glory of God. These petitions, Our Father, we are asking in the name of Christ, who is our life. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will have the calling of the roll. The Clerk will open the key and you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? You will close the key.

The roll call discloses 97 present, one absent. A quorum is declared.

Delegate Sinner, on behalf of the Convention, we want to welcome you back. We want you to know that we're sure happy to see you here this morning.

We will be on the fourth order of business — the Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the fourth day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

Page 101, lines 9 and 10, delete the words "Church of the Nazarene" and insert in lieu thereof "First United Methodist Church."

Page 116, line 49, delete the word "main" and following the word "motion" delete the word "or" and substitute in lieu thereof "on."

Page 116, line 54, following the word "motions" delete the word "or" and substitute in lieu thereof the word "on."

And when so corrected, recommends that the same be approved.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

Are there any corrections?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

We will go to the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President. Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-4 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the report on Committee Proposal No. 1-4. We have the question that the report be adopted. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report will go on the tenth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President. Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-20 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Proposal No. 1-20. The Committee recommends that the proposal do pass. Are there any questions?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted and will go on the tenth order of business.

One more?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes. Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-43 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Delegate Proposal No. 2-43, which recommends that the proposal be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President. The Committee — a majority of the Committee felt that there was a definite problem in the sales and distribution of these particular items, but we felt that this was a clear example of using — trying to get legislation into the Constitution, and this is why it was recommended for indefinite postponement.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Lamb. Is there any further comment?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of Delegate Proposal — the report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-43, which recommends that the proposal be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Proposal No. 2-43 is indefinitely postponed.

Are there any further committee reports?

We will be on the sixth order of business — Consideration of Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Longmire moves that the amendments to Proposal 1-14 as recommended by the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, as printed on page 120 of the Convention Journal, be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendment.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, I think this should be read. The amendment should be read. Just one second.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Okay.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendments are on page 2, line 10. After the word "seal" delete the word "to" and insert in lieu thereof the word "shall."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, this is a minor amendment. We only put in the word "shall" to make a complete sentence. Other than that, the proposal is as previously introduced. We'll discuss it more on second reading. I move the adoption of the amendment.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The adoption of the amendment has been moved by Delegate Longmire. Are there any questions? Any further discussion? If not, the question is on the adoption of the amendment on Proposal No. 1-14. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

We will be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Reference of Proposals to Committees.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Don't you have a committee report on Committee Proposal 1-10 for amendment? I thought that was handed in yesterday.

Well, Mr. President, we'll try and find it for you. I hope we don't recess before we find it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. The calendar only shows the one, Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: If we're on the order for making inquiries, I'd like to inquire about four delegate proposals that our Committee has acted on about two or three days ago, with committee reports indefinitely postponing them. Maybe that has already gone in, but I haven't — don't recall.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I have in possession all delegate proposals — 2-1 through 2-42 — in for indefinite postponement, waiting for the Calendar Committee to —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now we'll be on the — is this the ninth order?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, the ninth order. Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. What order of business are we on? I'd like to make a motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: What order?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: What order of business are we on?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We're on the ninth order — Introduction and Reference of Proposals.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I don't have the order of business, but may we be on the order of business that allows us to make motions?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, we'll be on the twelfth order. Without objection, we are on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I then move that Proposal No. 2-26 be returned from the Committee on Legislative Functions before the chamber.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that Delegate Proposal No. 2-26 be returned to the floor of the Convention. Do we have a second to that motion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten.

You have heard the question.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And Proposal No. 2-26 is returned to the floor of the Convention.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: It's been moved that Proposal 2-26 be referred to the Committee on Preamble. An explanation is that it was referred to the wrong committee yesterday. Not that we couldn't deal with it.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, I have a question. Have you conferred with the Chairman of the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I have not; but I just assumed, since the Proposal was assigned to that Committee before, that it should go back to that Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll take a chance.

The motion before the Convention is that Delegate Proposal No. 2-26 be referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Proposal will go to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

We'll be on the ninth order of business — Introduction of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-23, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 174, 175, 178, 179 and 186 be repealed; and that new sections to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to finance and taxation and state moneys."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Proposal No. 1-23 will be referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-24, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 177, pertaining to hail tax; 180, pertaining to poll tax; 181, pertaining to passage of laws to carry out provisions of finance and taxation article; and 187, pertaining to certificate of indebtedness to be signed by auditor and secretary of state; of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-24 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-53, introduced by Delegate Brakke:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to right to obtain employment or practice a profession, and preclusion of corporations from engaging in farming, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-53 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-54, introduced by Delegate Hubrig:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to environment, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-54 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-55, introduced by Delegate Hubrig:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to environment, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-55 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

We will return to the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President. Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-10 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Proposal No. 1-10 for amendment, as recommended by the Committee.

As many as are — are there any questions on the proposal?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and it will go on the sixth order.

We will be on the tenth order of business — First Reading of Proposals — First Reading and First Passage of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-1, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that the Preamble of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be amended.”

“SECTION 1. Amendment.) The Preamble of the Constitution of the State of North Dakota is hereby amended to read as follows:

“We, the people of North Dakota, grateful to Almighty God and desiring to secure the blessings of civil and religious liberty for ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention — it is the first passage of Proposal No. 1-1. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE CART: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, I would like to inquire why the change from the existing Preamble to the new one. It seems like when the original Constitution was adopted in 1882, they recognized that we have civil and religious liberty. Now it would appear, the way this is written, that we’re going to go out and secure it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any member of the Committee or any delegate.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: This preamble had much discussion, not only in the Committee, but in the public press.

I believe that we spent as much time on the words and the semantics as on any other section, and I believe that as we have it in its final form, “We, the people of North Dakota, grateful to Almighty God and desiring to secure the blessings of civil and religious liberty for ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution” is the result of many hours and many days of work on this portion of the Constitution. I don’t — I do not believe that it weakens the original Preamble. I believe it strengthens it and emphasizes the original points, and this is the feeling of the other members of the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any further questions?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I think that the meaning of the word “secure” as used in the version of the Preamble that we have suggested is not to go out and get, but, rather, to firmly embed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President, I think that this Convention has gone along with its work far enough to realize that by the time we are through, we are going to present to the people of North Dakota a completely new constitution, and I think that the Preamble should so state. I, therefore, move the following amendments:

In line 2 of the bill, that the word “amended” be changed to “adopted.”

In line 4, the word “Amendment” be deleted.

In line 5, the words “amended to read as follows” be deleted and the word “created” be inserted, followed by a colon.

I’m in complete agreement with the wording of the Preamble as presented by the Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you have a copy of your suggestions?

DELEGATE PAULSON: Well, it will take me a little bit to write it out. I just put it up in a hurry.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I don't — I don't actually understand what Delegate Paulson is getting at. In order to rework and reemphasize the Preamble, we must amend the original Preamble to get this before the floor of the Convention, and I — I don't see clearly how inserting the word "create" will allow us to do this. I suggest that we continue to amend the Preamble and other sections of the Constitution. Actually, we're creating — everything we do is creative, but I believe that the parliamentary matter we expect to amend.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor, I believe when we get this typed out and have the rereading of the proposed amendments, possibly we'll have a better understanding about how it appears.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I'm assuming that if this section passes and all of the other sections that will be passed, that when the Constitution is prepared in its final form by the Style and Drafting Committee, that section 1 on Proposal 1-1 will no longer appear and that what is now section 2 will be the only language that will appear. It may be simply section 1 of the Constitution. Certainly, the final Constitution will not have all of the amending sections or repealing sections in it, or it will be no longer than the one we have now.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: By doing this type of thing, are we then assuming that this is going to be a final thing that we will take up, after all proposals and the whole document has been written; then we take up a universal or a total amendment to delete all of the errors of the old Constitution that have not been incorporated into the new, so that then we amend it in its final stage and then adopt the new? Is that going to be the procedure? Otherwise, if we don't use the amendment or deletion, we are assuming that the new document is total and complete and acceptable and that the old is gone and it's going to go through a vastly different process, as I see it, and that is that the electorate will make that decision, not us. Therefore, do not we need the machinery of either amendment or deletion for the purpose of doing away with the old, in case the new is adopted, and if that's going to be done as a final thing at the end of the Convention when we accept the whole document, then I have no quarrel.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg, I'm at a loss for an answer. However, I'm confident that the Convention will have to do as you say; otherwise, we'll have two constitutions. So I — I would say that the Convention will have to carry out the different functions which you suggest — that they must be; otherwise, we'll just have one section piled on another section.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I agree here with Delegate Pearce. These are matters of procedure in the title part and in the commencing of all of these proposals, if we adopt these amendments, we'll have to adopt them on practically every proposal we have before us. The final Constitution, as it goes into the law books and other books recording the Constitution, will contain nothing as indicated in section 1, and as I understand it, when it's finally printed, and that we will have a new Constitution before us, but we, in order to get to that point, we have to use this procedure to delete and to amend other sections of the old Constitution.

For instance, in our committee, we are contemplating cutting down tremendously the compact part of the Constitution with the U. S. Government by putting in one paragraph referring to the old Constitution in 1889, rather than having to type all of that again into the proposal or into the new Constitution. So it seems to me, Mr. President, that these amendments are not necessary; that in its final form none of that wording will be there and that we will have our new Constitution to consider when we finally sign it and when the final vote is made on it by the people.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I may be confused, which happens occasionally.

How many times — is this the time and place — I oppose the original motion. Is this the time and place to say so?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, are you making reference to the motion as presented by John Paulson?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, I oppose the amendment; but, largely, I oppose the original motion, so —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, the question before the assembly — before the Convention is on the amendment at the present time.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Clerk read the amendment?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: As I have it, in line 2 of the Proposal, delete the word “amended” and insert in lieu thereof the word “adopted”.

In line 4, delete the word “Amendment”.

In line 5, delete the words “amended to read as follows” and the word “created:” be inserted in lieu thereof.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the amendment. Are there any further questions?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Were we to have quotations around the section that would actually appear in the Constitution, I feel this amendment is unnecessary, because we would start with the word “Preamble,” going somewhat after the — going after the pattern in the old Constitution, and none of this language would be in the new Constitution. I’m probably reiterating what George said, but it seems very unnecessary to have this motion on the floor for an amendment.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson — John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I don’t intend to be divisive, but I do think that this Convention is dedicated to writing a new Constitution and I think, by eliminating references to amending the old in our phraseology, that we will all be on the same track.

In the committee reports that I have seen, they are universally writing new language and condensing sections and there is no possible way to really incorporate any part of the old in the new, as I see it, and I think that these few changes would put the whole Convention on notice that this is what we are going to do. It may not be necessary at this time, but I thought it was a good idea to interject that thought.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle, let Delegate Omdahl have the floor, first.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President, I think that adoption of Delegate Paulson’s motion is very important, because we’re here suffering from a hangup on legislative procedure, where the ordinary practice is to be amending existing statutes, and we’re not really doing that in this assembly. Each committee has gone through its allocated sections of the Constitution and it has adopted some of the old provisions in the old constitution, as well as created some new provisions. And so we’re not really saying we’re going to adopt a totally new Constitution, but the committees have taken care of adopting those old sections, and these sections will be coming out of those committees and it isn’t really necessary to be saying that we’re going to amend this and delete this, because when we get to the end of our job, we are going to place on the ballot, as well as side issues, I suppose, but the main document will say that — “Shall this Constitution be adopted in lieu of the old Constitution?” — and I’m sure that’s the way the wording of it is going to be. And so, rather than come and make the processes cumbersome by referring to language on amending and deletion, we can have a very much more simplified process by just coming forth with sections of the new Constitution as created, rather than amending and worrying about deleting old sections.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Thank you, Mr. President. I’ll wait until after the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: In several other sections of the proposals that were put in — I’m looking right now at Proposal 1-7, and then there’s Proposal 1-6 — the action of the committee to repeal various sections. I speak in favor of the amendment, but I personally feel that our effort and work to be done here is to repeal the present Constitution in sections and, if we like what’s in the present Constitution as it would be in the Preamble, put the new section in. But I think the amendment proposed by Delegate Paulson is necessary to correct this particular situation. Some areas that have stated to be amended will have to have this same action taken. Other places, where we have repealed the original Constitution, will cover it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: We’re at a point here where we are deciding now or we are attempting to decide on a major — that is, we will be making a more or less major decision on which path to follow in the enacting of the various sections of our Constitution — our new Constitution.

I, personally, have rather mixed emotions on Delegate Paulson’s motion, and because under some circumstances I think it would be easier to refer back — that is when we get into some of the other parts of the Constitution, it would be somewhat easier to refer back to the existing Constitution to determine what language has been changed, and I think the mechanics — there might be some instances where the mechanics of that may be a little simpler. On the other hand, I certainly appreciate the fact that when we’re talking about writing a new instrument, we should not be referring to the amendments; we should be adopting.

Now, this — we have a motion before us now, and I cannot — and it would be improper for me to make another motion, but I am suggesting that, if Mr. Paulson’s motion prevails and that indicates that the consensus of opinion here is that we are writing a new document, period, then, if that motion prevails, then I would move that further action be withheld on Committee Proposal 1-1, and possibly have it referred back to committee and for the Calendar Committee then to take up with the various committee chairmen a revision of our — some of the proposals that are already in the mill, so that they will — we will start out afresh and all of — they will all be uniform. But, in any event, now, when we’re voting on this, you people here should be informed that you will be determining and setting a pattern which we will be following or which we will very likely follow in the future on voting on the way proposals are prepared and will appear before us.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, in following what Delegate Saugstad just said, I wonder if it wouldn’t be a good idea to have a report from each of the chairmen. Now, the Legislative Functions Committee is doing exactly what has been mentioned here by Delegate Omdahl, in that I think the Executive Functions Committee is, and if most of the committees are doing this, maybe it would be a good idea for it to be revealed at this time when the vote is taken.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, Mr. President, I —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I'm sure that I can say the Executive Functions Committee is doing that very thing. We are not referring it. When we get through, my idea would be we are writing a whole new section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: We are not going to refer in anything we come out with as amending anything, that I know of.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I agree here with Delegate Saugstad that the action we take here will affect every proposal that we bring in. Of course we all know that these proposals were prepared by our staff, so they followed the same procedure all the way through. I would suggest, like Delegate Saugstad, that we either ask Delegate Paulson to withdraw his motion for the time being, until we can discuss this with the Staff, and perhaps with the Attorney General's office, on the procedure that we are to follow here. We could save a lot of time by that, and then we could vote on — have him renew his motion at a later date, or if we either vote this motion down, and then we consult with our legal staff and with the Attorney's office on it.

I still feel, as I did before, that these are matters — this is machinery, rather than content of what we're doing, and it's just a matter of procedure and does not affect the final document that we're going to pass.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Since this is all going to run through the good old Style and Drafting Committee before this is over, I think we're dealing in semantics to some extent. Certainly, before we're through, we're going to slough off all the references to amendments, and if you adopt Paulson's motion, you're going to slough off the references to "here we are creating." I think it would be easier for us in the Style and Drafting to use the amendment process for reference back to the old Constitution, and I'm urging that the motion of Paulson be defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Under our constitutional authority which set up this Convention, we are authorized to either write a new Constitution or to amend the old, and I think that the Paulson amendment brings that issue squarely before this Convention for the first time — as to whether or not we are going to write a new document or whether we are going to amend the old one.

Now, in our committee, we have gone by the amendment procedure because we didn't think that we should presume that a new document was to be written before the Convention had actually acted on that issue.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, I rise to support the amendment of Delegate Paulson. As these committee proposals now stand, the entire old Constitution is being repealed, starting with Section 1 on, right on through — Section 216, I think, is the last one, plus the amendment articles.

Now, it seems to me that, if we proceed in that way, it will provide a good opportunity for a demagogue to go out to the people and say, "They have repealed the old Constitution," and, in effect, we will have. So I think it would be better to proceed as Delegate Paulson has suggested, and what that would actually amount to is incorporating the meritorious features of the present Constitution, along with new proposals that we voted through, and then, as Delegate Pearce suggested in the committee yesterday, there will have to be something in the Constitution to the effect that this supersedes any provisions in the 1889 document when adopted.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, as long as we're going to have the issue enjoined right away, so be it. We could just as well draw some battle lines.

As Delegate Maxwell said, we may amend or we may rewrite, and I don't know too many people who went out and said they were going to completely write a new — completely new Constitution, and I know one committee, for example, yesterday — Delegate Longmire is the chairman — we spent probably a full day, and yesterday, when we went back and we eliminated everything but a proposal and went back to the compact with the United States — the enabling Act of Congress in 1889 — and one other feature — Section 23, 24 and 25 — we couldn't improve on them. We didn't have legal right to improve on them, practically, and as Delegate Longmire said, they will appear by reference, if we can get the proper legal help and advice, and probably will appear as supplements in the new books. You can go back and look, but they will not actually be printed in them.

Now this was one committee's idea of retaining a section, and quite a section, of the old Constitution, and if this vote on this amendment means — and it seems to me that, if we are saying right here and now we're going to write a completely new document, I'm absolutely opposed to it. If it's just a matter of procedure, it will be different.

And I don't care much about the use of the word "demagogue" because there are demagogues in other businesses, besides farming, and the mere fact that the first major action we are taking will be this, it will appear to a lot of people who are not demagogues as not a very desirable start, and I'm one of them.

That isn't all. I firmly believe that this — some parts of the Constitution are very good. I don't think that we're so much smarter than they were in 1889; that everything they said was bad. And if this means that we're setting a precedent here, I am very much opposed to this amendment, and I hope it is defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. We have a job, after — after we finally recess or adjourn here, of having this document agreed to by the public and unless we can have some method of showing to the public what we intend to do and what we retained of the old and where the changes are, we're going to be in trouble. We're not going to sell any kind of a brand new total document.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President, I apologize for speaking twice.

I would like to reiterate that, if we pass Proposal 1-1, that all that there will be in the final draft will be lines 6 through 9. I think it's way too early to debate whether we're going to write a new Constitution or whether we amend the old. We won't know until the last day. It may well be that many of the proposals to amend a certain section of the Constitution will not pass through this Convention. We still, then, if a new section doesn't pass, we may not want to eliminate the section that we already have, whatever that section may be. If so, then any blanket repealer should not repeal that section which failed to be amended. It may be that when we get through, we will have amended every section of the Constitution. If that's true, then I assume we will have passed a new Constitution. It may be we will not need to amend every section of the Constitution. In that event, I would say that we had amended it, perhaps wholesale, but still amended it.

Actually, I think any change in language is an amendment. If I understand the amendment of a statute or the amendment of a constitutional provision, it's to change it. Many statutes amend statutes by a word or two. You may call it a new statute in one sense, or you may call it an amendment. I think it's all a matter of semantics.

I don't think we should get excited today or tomorrow about whether we're writing a brand new one or not. We'll see when we get through whether we have written a brand new one or not.

The only reason why I feel constrained to vote against Delegate Paulson's amendment is that, as I look to the — what I still call the "bill book" or the proposal book, I see that if we have to make this kind of a language amendment on this one, we're going to have to do it on practically every proposal that's in so far, except for relatively few that start out saying, "We hereby create a new section of the constitution," and it doesn't bother me at all that we've got language in to amend it, which is actually what we're going, whether we call it writing a new one or not. All I'm saying is, if we pass this and if the proposals continue to be in this form, then it's easy enough for any delegate to look at his copy of the Constitution and see the new section and the old section and see exactly what's being changed, and if he wants that new section, he votes for it; if he doesn't, he doesn't vote for it.

So I think we're having a tempest in the chamber here at this point on this proposition.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further questions?

Delegate Paulson — John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President, I just wanted to point out that the only purpose of my amendment was to impress other delegates and the public that we are writing a new Constitution. Every delegate proposal, every committee proposal that I have examined repeals various sections of the new Constitution — of the old Constitution and creates new ones, or repeals old sections entirely. I just think that, by this small change in wording, we will set our course to writing a new document which will contain all of the good parts of the old document, I am sure, but in such a way that it will be an amendment and will be actually described as a new section or a new article in our document. I think that we are just putting ourselves on notice that this is what we are doing, and it serves that purpose, only.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, just a short comment.

There seems to be a lot of fear here, and that is not necessary. Now, I'll refer to our portion of it — Legislative Functions. I'm sure that when the committee reports come out on these proposals now, that the person reporting that committee report is going to refer back to the old Constitution, is going to explain the changes that were made. Just because all this underlined language is there doesn't mean it's new language, and there's much of the old Constitution incorporated in the Legislative Functions portion of it, but I don't think that, by passing or rejecting this motion, we're all going to have to go back to our committees and all follow the same procedure.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Any questions?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Just one point. I agree with Delegate Pearce. I don't think that — I'm going to vote against the Paulson amendment. I think it's a good idea, but I'm going to vote against it because I don't want to see us go back and redo the ten or twelve proposals we've got on the books, just to save time. But I think we're going to end up writing a new document and I think all a new document is — it speaks to every subject. Certainly many times we're going to keep the good in the new from the old document. Certainly I don't think that this, though, should create any difficulties. My vote will be "no." But I agree — we don't have to come to the people with a new document, but I agree that will be all decided when we get all done.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment stated by John Paulson.

If there is no further discussion — if there is no further discussion, the question is on the adoption of the amendment.

As many as are in favor of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the motion lost.

Now we're back on the main motion — the question for the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-1.

Now, is there any further discussion on that?

Delegate Rundle:

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Members of the Convention:

I at this point would like to have the good, beautiful speaking voice or the good looks of some of you people and this and that, but, anyway, I'm going to have my say to the best I can. I think that the wording of the current Constitution is pertinent. It's very hard, if not impossible, to improve upon it, and the mere fact that yesterday we heard — or the day before, possibly — the days are going rather fast here — that a distinguished Harvard professor had quite a bit to do with writing this, might show that they weren't so slow in 1889.

Now, as you read this, the way it is presently, there is absolutely nothing wrong with it. It's a beautiful piece of literature. That isn't all. The objection has already been brought up — no matter how you explain the word "secure," it has that connotation to many people. We have liberty. We're proud of the liberty we have in North Dakota. We've had it since 1889. We're not going out and getting something new.

Then the words "for ourselves and our posterity," which is added — which were added. This is just one of those things that's strictly understood. Anything we do, we won't be here too long — many of us — and we're naturally, doing it for our children and grandchildren, as well as for ourselves, and I would ask and urge that you reject this motion to change the first section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of Committee Proposal No. 1-1.

Hearing no further discussion, we will call the question.

Those in favor of the motion will vote "aye." I'm sorry. This is — I'm only reiterating what the rule says and informing the Convention that those that are in favor of the motion will vote "aye" on the official roll call. Those that oppose the proposal will vote "nay."

DELEGATE CART: Could we make an inquiry before we put the —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE CART: Will there be an opportunity, when this comes back again, for amendment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Only — amendment only to the point as to the alterations that have been made by the Committee on Style and Drafting. Only in that part.

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: My key, apparently, does not work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: How do you vote, Delegate Thompson?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I vote "aye."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You vote "aye." Any further? Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 74 ayes, 23 nays, one delegate absent and not voting.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. Speaker.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — Proposal No. 1-1 has been adopted. Delegate Jim Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes. I would just like to say that I do agree with Delegate Rundle in his appraisal that the old language was certainly right, and I had no fault with it.

I also would have to say that I think we, as delegates, right now should realize that each committee has perhaps spent hours and hours on some certain small section, and if the changes in words do not affect what is old, I, myself, feel inclined to go along with the committee report. If we are going to rise and object each time when just a word is changed that might not change the meaning of the Constitution, I think we're going to waste an awful lot of Convention time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, just a point of information.

This morning, I addressed Delegate Paulson as "Delegate John Paulson." I've also addressed Delegate Hougen as "Delegate Jim Hougen." I don't know whether you are aware that we have a Paulson and a Poulson and we have a Haugen and a Hougen, and it's just a little bit difficult in the record. Someone might — it might be confusing to the recording here just who did make the motion and which one did the talking. So, with your permission, from here on I'm going to address just "John Paulson" and "Delegate Jim Hougen," and then I'll refer to the others as "Poulson" and "Haugen."

The next order before the Convention is still on the tenth order — Committee Proposal 1-22.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-22.

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that articles 14 and 19, pertaining to mills and elevators in Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota; article 24, pertaining to rail tax; articles 59, 65 and 67, pertaining to veterans' bonuses; article 60, pertaining to the medical center; and article 76, pertaining to bonds, of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, be repealed.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.)

"Articles 14, 19, 24, 59, 60, 65, 76 and 87 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Proposal No. 1-22.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. Chairman.

Article 14, dealing with the creation of a terminal elevator in Minnesota and Wisconsin: The Committee felt that this should be repealed, as there was sufficient language in the present Article 185 to deal with these statutes, and under the new section that the Committee has created, this would be taken care of in Section 8.

On Article 19, which provided for the mill and elevator, that was also taken care of, we felt, in Section 185 and, also, under the new Section 8.

On Article 24, the Committee also felt that should be repealed. It allowed for the Legislative Assembly to levy a tax on land for the purpose of creating a fund to insure the owners for hail loss. The Committee recommended deletion of this at the present time, as there is no hail tax and no Hail Department any more.

The Committee decided that it was a matter that could better be handled by legislation, if the need arose in the future.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE QUAM: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Quam.

DELEGATE QUAM: Mr. President, Article 59 deals with World War II veterans' bonuses. The bonus has been paid and the bond has been retired. The Committee on Finance and Taxation recommends that this be deleted.

Article 65 deals with compensation paid Vietnam or Korean Conflict veterans. This has been paid and the Committee on Finance and Taxation recommends that this be deleted.

Article 87 deals with compensation paid veterans of the Vietnam Conflict. The bonds have been issued and the veterans are now receiving compensation, and this is also taken care of in new Section 8 — Article 87.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any questions? Any further discussion on this proposal?

Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Article 60 pertained to the Medical Center. I wanted to call it to the attention —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry. Just one moment. Delegate Longmire, did you have a question on the — on one of these sections that we just talked on?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: No, Mr. President. I believe the delegate is just about to answer the question I was going to ask.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may proceed, Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Article 60, pertaining to the Medical Center. In our — I'm on the Medical Advisory Council, and in our Council meeting we all felt that that portion should be retained and that dedicated funds should remain in the Constitution. I want to make the statement on behalf of the Medical Advisory Council Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I certainly agree with the Committee action in considering at least removing from the Constitution many of these dedicated tax funds that we have; however, I feel there are some exceptions that ought to be considered, instead of eliminating them entirely; one, of course, being the road tax funds that we will consider in another proposal, and certainly this one here with regard to the medical funds levy.

I think we can all be proud in the State of North Dakota that we have one of the best two-year medical schools in the country today. It is recognized throughout the United States, and our students that have graduated from there in the past have had no trouble in transferring to other schools. However, that situation is changing, and we are going to be considering, no doubt, in the years ahead the establishment of a four-year medical school in this State in order to be able to train our young men and women who are going into this profession.

Now, it has not been just a matter of money alone as to why we have been able to develop this high-grade school that we have, or that we will be able to develop the four-year school. We have one of the best men in the country today in the field of biochemistry in this State, who is recognized worldwide as being one of the top world authorities in that field, in Dr. Cornatzer at the Medical School. Many times I have talked with him and asked him why he has stayed on at the Medical School here in our State, rather than to accept positions in other states where he could be drawing twice or three times the salary that he's drawing with us, and each and every time he has said it was not a matter of money, but it was the interest that the people of our State had demonstrated in the medical facilities and the Medical School, as indicated by the fact that they had even earmarked funds in taxation for the operation of this program, and it was this, more than anything else that influenced him in continuing to stay in his work and in his research there at the Medical School. I'm afraid that, if we do not in some way guarantee to these people — he and others — that we are going to maintain this interest, that we are going to provide this — or this means of financing the Medical School, that we may lose some of the best people that we have at the present time.

Some of the others say, "Well, the way we have it here, it keeps it out of politics. We don't have to go down and politick each time to get the funds or the majority of them." Certainly now it doesn't cover all of the expenses of operating the Medical Center; but it certainly substantially does that, and it is the fact that it is impressive on these people that is important, as much as the amount of money that it raises. I think we ought to be careful in repealing some of these sections, unless they're going back in somewhere else in some of these special dedicated funds that we have.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President and Members of the Assembly:

I've been waiting for someone from the Tax Committee to explain why they repealed Article 60. I would like to say that I support the repeal. I don't feel that repeal of this section is any criticism of the Medical School. It is a criticism of the method of taxation. I'm a property taxpayer and I'm quite critical of many of the ways property taxes are paid. I'm firmly convinced that taxes levied on property should be for some purpose that can be directly related as a service to the property, and I don't feel that this tax is. I suppose I can say, as well as Delegate Longmire, that we are proud of our Medical School. I don't feel that this is the right way to finance it.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: There may have been a misunderstanding on my part about the committee feeling on this section, so I'm just going to take a few minutes to explain the committee viewpoint.

Dr. Clifford appeared before us, as well as — I'm not very good at remembering names — I could look them up — but we had four people from the Medical Center appear before us, and I think we made it plain to them that we were proud of the job that they are doing there, and that we want to see the Medical Center continued and we want to see it improved, if the State can finance it; but we do not believe that property taxes is the way to do it.

The philosophy of my committee — of the Tax Committee — is that the State, except in emergency, should no longer levy any type of property tax, and we will be proposing this in our — in our new sections.

This is, basically, the philosophy for withdrawing this part of the Constitution — this Medical Center levy. Then there's the further point that when the levy was first enacted, it created more than enough money to operate the Medical Center. Now it creates only about half — approximately half of the necessary funds, so that the Medical Center at the University does have to come to each session of the Legislature and ask for additional funding. And our Committee could see no reason why the Legislature will be any more stingy with them on the basis of an outright appropriation than if they had this $700,000 which the fund — which the levy raises each biennium. We think that it is no criticism of the Center to make this change. We do think the property tax — property taxes should no longer carry this type of a load, and we do hope that the membership will support the actions of the Committee.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker. The Committee certainly considered all the points which Delegate Longmire brought to the attention of this floor in its discussion. But we, also, considered some of the other factors as relates to the real estate tax for a tax to support a medical center.

At the time that this tax was originally passed, it adequately supported the Medical Center, and then some, and it was building up a reserve. It wasn't long before the Legislature realized this and established a School of Nursing and a number of other subsidiary schools at the University, and now the $700,000 it brings in each biennium is about half of what is needed to operate the Medical School. It seems inconceivable to the members of the Finance and Taxation Committee that we should use real estate taxes to support one facet of education at the State level, as it does here, and not use it for other sections. It is, also — it became very apparent to the Committee that real estate taxes are high enough at the present time, that it's going to be difficult to continue to add to the real estate load. It was very apparent to this group that we cannot continue with real estate taxes as a dedicated fund, as it is in this instance, and we felt that there are other means, and certainly the Legislature is going to take care of this Medical School, and we can see no reason why the Medical School should be supported by a real estate tax.

I might add that I was attending the University back in the late Forties and I was one of the circulators that helped get this one mill levy passed at that time, and now I stand here in support of removing it from the Constitution.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: I guess I have to learn how to use this, too.

Mr. President, another factor of interest on this real estate tax is that approximately half of the assessed valuation of the State of North Dakota is in farm or ranch lands, and it's easy to see that farm and ranch population is nowhere near the fifty percent that they pay in toward this one mill levy for this Medical School, and it doesn't seem equitable to assess this high a tax on farm and ranch lands for the benefit of this particular institution.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there further discussion?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, under Rule 24 of this assembly, I move the division of the question before us so as to provide for a separate vote on the repeal of Article 60.

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, a point of inquiry:

You only want Section 60 taken out of the proposal?

DELEGATE BAKER: Correct.

DELEGATE LANDER: Second the motion.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, just a brief comment.

I would be for retaining Section 60, if an amendment was attached requiring all doctors that train in North Dakota be required to practice in North Dakota for five years.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. We certainly have no objection to the removal or a separate vote on Article 60; but there is one more article involved in the repeal here that I would like to say a few words about, and that's Article 76. If you want to look at it, it's found in the section — the second page from the back in your blue-covered — in your blue-covered thing. This is an amendment to the Constitution, enacted in 1962 through the efforts of the Rural Electric Cooperatives of the State. They immediately directed an amount of financing over the years, and they have needed low-interest financing in order to do the job of bringing power to the farms of North Dakota in order to build generating plants, such as we have up the River here at Stanton and Center. They have explored for a good many years a means of securing some other low-cost financing, and have done that through the REA because Congress sometimes is stingy with appropriations, and there's been a terrific backlog and they have had to wait years to do some of the jobs that they have done. But, after this was enacted, it would have provided for revenue bonds — tax-free bonds at the guarantee of the State, and they assumed that they could have been sold at a low interest rate; but after it was enacted, the Congress changed our tax laws so that this type of revenue bond was no longer tax-exempt; so it became of no use. We never used it. We had two of the representatives of the Rural Electric Cooperatives at our Committee meetings and discussed this with them. They still have a problem of financing, but they agree that this Section 76 could be removed from the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-22.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Is the question on the division?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes. I just hadn't quite gotten to that point yet.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, the Board of Higher Education, by a vote of six-to-one, went on record as supporting the extension of the one mill levy, which is a mandatory levy for the Medical School at the University. I voted against that resolution and notified the Board that, as a delegate, I could not in principle support the position of the Board. I think the explanation of the Committee has been adequate — that the task of taxation and funding is, without question, a job of the Legislature; and to tie the Legislature's hands into a mandatory levy is simply not logical, it seems to me, in the planning of government. And so I have to regretfully, I think, go on record in opposition, again, to the position of the Board and hope that the motion and the action of the Committee be supported.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments? Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. Quite a change has occurred since this amendment was adopted in our assessed valuation and taxes levied and collected against property. We have repealed or exempted personal property from taxation. There is still some question of how broad that coverage is. The chances are that about 43 percent of our total assessed valuation in the State would no longer be subject to taxation under the exemption that was granted here in 1969. Farm lands constitute about 47 percent of your total assessed valuation. City lots and leased sites constitute probably three-to-four percent. Public utilities, about 11 percent — that is, railroads and public utilities. The rest of our property — buildings of every description — our personal property — is under constitutional classification. So you can see that this burden is falling back on the rural people, on the farmed land — when you have a property tax levy brought under the Constitution.

Being a farm owner, I don't want that to influence anyone; but the rural people are going to have to carry the burden of retiring a lot of bonded indebtedness to schools, and things like that, in our expanded school districts.

So it seems to me rather unwise to keep a levy in force to support a State-operated institution and one that's of benefit to every citizen in this State. I think we should go along with the Committee's recommendations.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Proposal No. 1-22, which originally consisted of — or does consist of three, six — eight articles, and it has been requested that Article 60 be removed and be voted on separately.

So the question now is on the adoption of Proposal 1-22. It would be Articles 14, 19, 24, 59, 65, 87 and 76.

All in favor of the question shall vote "aye;" and those opposed shall vote "nay," and we'll open the key and you will record your vote.

Have all delegates voted?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: My key still does not work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you vote "aye"?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson votes "aye."

Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses yeas 94, nays 3, one absent and not voting. So the proposal, with the exception of Article 60, is adopted.

The question before the Convention is on the vote on Article 60.

Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, all in favor of the adoption of the motion will vote "aye;" those opposed vote "nay." I will have the Clerk open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted. Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I vote "yes."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson votes "aye."

Is there and delegate who wishes to change his vote?

The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses there were 82 ayes, 15 nays, absent and not voting, one.

So the proposal is adopted.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: A point of information.

Now, we have just voted on a divided proposal, with two different vote totals. Now, it's clear on both of them we're over 50, so the proposal is carried. But is that going to show "carried" in the Journal by a divided vote, or how? Just a point of information as to how that's done.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sure it will, Delegate Kelsch.

Anything further? Do you have anything at the desk?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: May the record show an explanation of my vote on Proposal 1-1.

I strongly favor religious liberty, but I did favor the 1889 version.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that the Committee Proposal No. 1-1 and 1-2 — 22 — I'm sorry — 1-22 — be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded.

Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The two proposals as adopted this morning will be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: President Wenstrom.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I'd like to make a — well, let's see. May we be on the — yes, the twelfth order — Announcements?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: It has been called to my attention that some of the delegates here are or were unaware of the — from the procedures that were followed — that we followed this morning — namely, one, after looking at the calendar from now on, watch your calendar, and anything that's under the tenth order means that it will be up for a vote or first reading or first passage.

I should also like to point out that it is — while a proposal is in the tenth order, and before the final vote has been taken, that that is the time in which you may make an amendment or offer an amendment from the floor.

Now, the procedure: Should any of you have, say, a feeling that you would like to try to amend or further amend either Committee Proposal No. 1-1 or Committee Proposal 1-22, if you were to offer a motion either today or tomorrow — a motion to reconsider — and if that motion prevailed and which motion requires only a bare majority, then this proposal could be brought back before this body. It could be called back from the Style and Drafting Committee and be before this body to be acted upon, and then an amendment could be offered. If more than two days elapse, then the Rules must be suspended in order to get this proposal back before this body and a two-thirds vote is required.

Thank you.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: In order to clarify a little further, I want to elaborate on Delegate Saugstad's remarks.

Remember this: On the tenth order, Delegates, you can amend; but if you have intentions of amending, it would expedite the work of the group here if those amendments were placed in writing and handed to the desk in plenty of time. Then we wouldn't have this delay until the desk got them, so that the Chair could repeat exactly what the amendments were, and if it would have to be lengthy, it would be advisable to give the desk maybe a considerable length of time and possibly the work force here could even place those amendments on your desk, which would help out a lot.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Am I right in assuming that on the day's calendar, when a proposal is in the sixth order, that this feasibly might come up tomorrow or soon?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: When it's in the sixth order, it is up for amendment, and when I placed one in the sixth order today, it would come up for amendment tomorrow.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Thank you.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Could we be on the eighth order — Announcements? — or are we on the eighth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We can be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I should like to announce that, after a very successful and informative discussion last night at the auditorium of the Highway Department, at which over one hundred delegates were present — (laughter) — we are planning another discussion this evening at 7:30. This will be concerning unicameral versus bicameral forms of the Legislature.

Delegate Earl Chase will be the moderator. We would like to ask you, if you do come, to use the east door by the parking lot, because you will not be able to get in on the upper door — the west door. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Tudor.

We will be on the ninth order of business — Introduction of Proposals.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President, may I rise to a point of information?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten. The question?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

My question, Mr. President, is if we have very much left to do this morning? I want to suggest a 10-minute recess.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have introduction of — oh, I suppose 15 proposals. Okay? We will proceed.

The ninth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-25, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 79 and 80 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the veto power of the governor, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-25 will be referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-26, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 77 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to gubernatorial succession, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-26 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-27, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 75 and 76 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to power and duties of the governor, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-27 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-28, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 73 and 84 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to qualifications and compensation of elected officials, be created.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-28 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-29, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 29 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 4 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to reapportionment of the state legislature.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-29 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-30, introduced by the Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 211 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 27 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the oath of office.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-30 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-31, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 194 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 22 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to grounds for impeachment.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-31 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-32, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 194 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 22 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to grounds for impeachment.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-32 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-33, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 197 and 198 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that sections 23 and 24 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all pertaining to impeachment.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-33 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-34, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 29 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the matter of legislative ethics, be created.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — or Committee Proposal No. 1-34 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-35, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 202 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that sections 25 and 26 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the manner in which the constitution may be altered."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — or Committee Proposal No. 1-35 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-36, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 202 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 25 and 26 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the manner in which the constitution may be altered."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-36 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-37, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 41 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 8 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to a legislative timetable."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-37 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-38, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 37 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 7 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to restrictions on the office-holding capabilities of state legislators."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — or Committee Proposal No. 1-38 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-39, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 45 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 10 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to legislative compensation."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-39 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-40, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 28 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the office of legislative auditor, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-40 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-41, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 29 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 4 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to reapportionment of the state legislature."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-41 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-42, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 25 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 1 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the legislative system.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-42 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-43, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 25 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 1 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the legislative system.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-43 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-44, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 27 and 30 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that sections 2 and 5 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all pertaining to legislative terms of office.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-44 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-45, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 28 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 3 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to qualifications for legislative office.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-45 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-46, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 1 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to inalienable rights.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-46 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-47, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 3 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the supreme law of the land.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-47 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-48, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 10 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to right to assemble.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-48 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-49, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 12 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the military being subordinate to the civil power."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-49 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-50, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 17 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to slavery, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-50 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-51, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 19 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to treason against the state, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal 1-51 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-52, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 21 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to provisions of the constitution being mandatory and prohibitory, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-52 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-53, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 23 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to freedom to obtain employment, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-53 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-54, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 209 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to child labor, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-54 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-55, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 212 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to blacklists, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-55 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-56, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 213 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to property rights of women, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-56 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-56, introduced by Delegate Burke:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the limitation of terms of elected officials, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-56 is referred to the Commission — Committee on Judiciary — Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: May we be on the eighth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order of business.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to announce to the members of the Finance and Tax Committee that we will meet immediately in the Blue Room, and I believe that the Clerk will have coffee for us there, so we won't have to go get coffee. We will be talking about Delegate Proposal 2-45, introduced by Delegate Dobson, and, Dick, I hope that you will be able to come down and meet with them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

The Rules Committee will have a meeting tomorrow afternoon in the Large Hearing Room, between 1:00 and 2:00, to consider three things: What rule, if any, should be adopted for placing alternate proposals on the calendar;

Two, what rule should be adopted for the final vote on the Constitution; and

Third, are we then ready to make the temporary rules the permanent rules of the Convention?

We have cleared this and talked to President Wenstrom and the Chairman of the Calendar Committee and it is our hope that the substantive committees would then delay their meetings tomorrow until two o'clock so that, if there are delegates who wish to appear, we suggest they may do so.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Geelan.

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: There will be a very brief meeting of the Calendar Committee immediately following recess.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: There will be an organizational meeting of Style and Drafting today at three o'clock in G-7.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I'd like to announce that there will be a meeting of the Executive Functions Committee immediately, and I think there's coffee down in that room, too. I may be a little late, but if the room is ready, I'm sure we can take over.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I want to announce a meeting of our Committee — the Judicial Committee — immediately after the recess. Delegate Roney, Vice Chairman, will take over, since I have to attend the Calendar Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, the Committee on Legislative Functions will meet also immediately after this recess.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I'd like to announce the Bill of Rights Committee will meet immediately upon recess.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: The Public Information Committee will meet at 4:00 P.M. this afternoon, or as near to that time as possible, in the West Balcony of the House Chamber.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe we have some announcements at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Legislative Functions Committee will hear Proposal 1-8, Powers Reserved to the People, at 3:00 P.M., Large Hearing Room, Monday, January 10th.

Legislative Functions Committee will hear Unicameral - Bicameral at 3:00 P.M. in the Large Hearing Room, Tuesday, January 11th.

Judicial Functions Committee will hear Committee Proposals 1-11, 1-12 and 1-13 tentatively at 9:30 in the Gold Room, January 6th.

Executive Functions Committee will meet on Thursday, January 6th, in Room G-5 and 6, following the Plenary Session.

Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands will hear Committee Proposal 1-17 and 1-18, Trust Lands and Public Institutions, Monday, January 10, 1972, at 1:30.

They will hear proposal — Committee Proposal 1-16 on Environment, Tuesday, January 11th, at 1:30.

They will hear Committee Proposal 1-15, Education, Wednesday, January 12th at 1:30.

Public Information Committee will meet Thursday, tentatively at 4:00 P.M., to discuss post-convention activities with members of North Dakota Extension Council — several Council members will be there — Thursday.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair wishes to announce the following additions to the Committee on Style and Drafting:

Delegate Hendrickson, Delegate Jestrab, Delegate Urdahl and Delegate Jim Hougen.

Are there any further announcements?

Any further business to come before the Convention? Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: If there be no further business, I move that we adjourn until 9:00 A.M., January 7th.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved that the Convention be now adjourned until 9:00 A.M., January 7th.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we will be — we stand adjourned until tomorrow morning at nine o'clock.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 11:06 A.M., Thursday, January 6, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Friday, January 7, 1972.)

VOLUME V

(January 7, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The fifth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:07 A.M., Friday, January 7, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is James M. Butler, Pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Bismarck, North Dakota.

Fellow Delegates, I think you will remember this gentleman, as he is the Pastor that pronounced the invocation at the opening of the April 6th Convention.

REV. JAMES M. BUTLER: We join in prayer.

God, Our Father, you hear us and you care about us, and we pray, because we would meet others with all that we have to give, and because we would infuse the temporal with eternal, and because we want to be ready to respond to your judgments and your love along the way of our voyage;

And so here we are, where the very precious heritage meets in white-heat the pressures of the new and the ever-changing. Lord, that we might be good householders, bringing out a treasure — things old and things new. We do not ask you for more favors. It is beginning to dawn upon us that we are in trouble not from your lack of bounty, but from our own poor stewardship. And men's cries of pain and a ravaged earth, and our own angry voices testify against us. Being ashamed, we ask forgiveness. And knowing our weakness, we ask Thy strength.

Here in this place let the sons of men find that there is faith in the earth. Quiet the clamor of greed and of demagoguery and let the complaint of the faithless and the cynic die away. And may the lines forged here proclaim an ancient faith and undying hope that there shall be a commonwealth where men can be trusted with freedom because they acknowledge Thy sovereignty. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — calling the roll.

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed. The roll call discloses 97 present, one absent.

A quorum is declared.

Fellow Delegates, while we're on the question of roll call: In case that you miss a roll call and then appear — join the Convention at some later period during the day — it would be appreciated if you would rise at that time and announce your presence, because at this time, when there is so little debate, it might be that your name would not appear in the Journal, and when it comes to figuring out the payroll, you might be missed. Just — just to facilitate and make it easier for those that are keeping the record, that when you miss a roll, if you would announce it, so that it will be definitely recorded in the Journal that you are here at the specific time. It will indicate that you are here. It will alleviate that problem. I say if you do it, we will appreciate it.

Thank you.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, as long as we aren't too busy early this morning, I would like to have a couple gentlemen — Representatives Johnson and Rivinius, from the southwest corner, stand up. They're both big, old cowboys, and they've both had more bones broken by horses than you can shake a stick at. (Applause)

Mr. President, I believe Delegate — Representative Arne Boyum is around here, too, from Carrington, and these boys tell me they're here to see that we take good care of their House. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. We'll be on the fourth order of business — Revision and Correction of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 5th day of January, 1972, and finds the same to be correct.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Simonson moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the committee report on the Revision and Correction of the Journal.

Any question?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted.

We will be on the sixth order of business — Consideration of Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendments to Proposal 1-10, as recommended by the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions as printed on page 125 of the Convention Journal are: In line 12 delete "state militia" and insert in lieu thereof "military forces."

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: All this does is change the title of the article to conform with the body of the article, where it states "the state's military forces."

Now, this will be explained on Monday, when the Committee Proposal is on the calendar. The whole proposal will be explained at that time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

The question is on the amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-10.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

That completes the fifth and sixth order.

Are there any Committee Reports? No Committee Reports.

Anything under Communications? Introductions.

We will be on the tenth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-4, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article 1 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed and section 1 of repealed Article I of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption or the final — or the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-4.

Is there any discussion? Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

If I might explain a little bit the action of our Committee. We had some substantial testimony on this matter from the State's Attorneys Association of the State and, also, from the lodges — fraternal lodges throughout the state, and I believe it was the feeling of the Committee, first of all, that this was legislative and, therefore, should be removed and, secondly, that — I think that the Committee also felt that the Legislature should have the responsibility of examining the so-called social atmosphere of the State of North Dakota and determine whether or not there are some types of lotteries that are now being utilized throughout the State and which possibly should be made legal or not. I'm sure that we all are aware that we are turning our backs on some forms of gambling now, and that is especially true of your State's Attorneys organization, and I think it's the consensus of opinion in their organization that they would like to be placed in the same position as the rest of the citizens of the State of North Dakota.

I think that, because of the change in the social atmosphere of this State, this matter should be given to the Legislature, and I, therefore, move the passage of the Committee Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on Committee Proposal No. 1-4?

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I think my eyes and ears must be deceiving me. I wonder if everyone here is aware that what we are doing at this point is, for all practical purposes, so far as the substantive matter is concerned, taking final action. If we pass Committee Proposal 1-4 at this time, it is my understanding that, from this point on, under our Rules, the only thing that we can consider is changes in the language having to do with grammar, punctuation — things like that — maybe order in which it should appear, and that sort of thing; that the question of whether or not we'll have before us the present language in the Constitution dealing with lotteries, gift enterprises, will no longer be before us, and if this were on this one subject alone, I think I might be inclined to go along with Delegate Thompson; but inasmuch as this action will be a part of our whole action, I'm just wondering if we want to take such a step at this time. What we will be doing, if we do so, is direct that the people of the State of North Dakota repeal the section of the Constitution which makes it illegal to have — which says that there shall be no power to authorize lotteries, gift enterprises, for any purpose, and shall pass laws to prohibit the sale of lottery or gift enterprise tickets.

It just seems to me that, inasmuch as this is such an important stage in the action that we take, that there really ought to be some debate on the subject.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Baker.

Any further discussion?

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates, I have for a long time thought this was a silly provision in our Constitution. Not very long ago, a friend of mine from another state, whose judgment in such things is very good and very perceptive, heard that we were having a Constitutional Convention, and warned me that the influence of gambling organizations in many states is so powerful and that it extends into so many areas, including punchboards, distribution of vending machines, and he warned me that we better know what we are doing if we were going to open this matter up.

I have to confess that I can't see how this belongs in the Constitution, and yet I trust my friend's judgment enough so that I have to — I feel compelled to say it here — and I don't know what we should do, but this man knew whereof he spoke, and he said that no one knows the terrific pressure that these forces can bring to bear on not only state businesses, but legislators and everybody else.

I — I just don't know what to say. I have to — I've talked to one or two members of the Preamble Committee, but they have been unable to get at this problem, I think. And so I just bring it up for — as Delegate Baker says, for more discussion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President. I wonder if Delegate Sinner would yield to a question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner yields.

DELEGATE LAMB: Delegate Sinner, are these punchboards and these things that you are referring to in existence in North Dakota today? (Laughter)

DELEGATE SINNER: I think you know they are. Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner?

DELEGATE SINNER: Everybody knows they are, and the object of my friend's warning was that, if you remove the — if you remove this kind of provision, he said, "How then can you get the hard-core problems when they come?"

Well, I — I just don't know. I can't believe it would be a problem. I agree with the Committee Report, and yet I'm worried about what he told me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker, I wonder if Delegate Thompson or one of the members of the Committee would yield to a question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will a member of the Committee — Preamble —

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask if we have had any recent elections, in the last 10 or 15 years, in which this question was on the ballot and, if so, what was the vote on that — in that election — and what were the results?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I believe I can answer the question — not as to the result — but South Dakota had their last election in 1970. The '69 election had these precise constitutional provisions on the ballot, and it was removed from the constitution by a fair majority, but I don't know what it was — if it was two-to-one, or what. But it was no problem that it passed, and they took it out of the South Dakota Constitution. Illinois, I believe, recently changed their state laws on the bingo-type thing, and it went through.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

I think Delegate Aas might be referring to the sound trouncing that dog racing or pari-mutuel betting had on the ballot here a couple years ago. But I also want to mention one election which was held in the 1965 session of the Legislature. I drafted a bill for the Attorney General, in conjunction with the U. S. Attorney's office in Fargo, regarding the continual nuisance we had with coin-operated gambling devices and wagering stamps.

At that time I think the Associated Press reported there were 37 such of the demons in North Dakota, but the Attorney General was only glad to report that there were only 622 in South Dakota, and I think even more yet in Montana. So we had the least gambling from that respect. But we had the bill introduced in the Senate by sponsors from all around the State, and it passed the Senate 48-to-nothing, and they were all against gambling because it was against the State of North Dakota.

The fraternal organizations got wind of it over in the House, and a legislator from Williston, where they had this problem quite often — he was the City Attorney up there — he at least made the House get up and have a roll call vote before they killed that — put that measure on the table. They didn't want to go on record. But they also recognized the practicalities of the situation, and this kind of situation, if we're going to — any my friend, the State's Attorney in Traill County, he said he didn't care if the Mafia came and set up an operation on Main Street after the abuse he took after trying to enforce the gambling laws in Traill County. They trailed him around town. They burned crosses on his lawn. They took the rotor out of his distributor, and many other things. And, consequently, if you expect our State's Attorneys in North Dakota to prosecute the Elks Club, the Catholic Sons — or the Knights of Columbus, the Moose Lodge, the Eagles Club, the Elks, the American Legion — you're expecting a lot more than our State's Attorneys expect to do.

And then they are expected to enforce the laws on the books; but they know when they go ahead and do something the public will not accept, they're in trouble, and I believe the provision is truly unworkable at this time.

The legislative committee that is working on the revision of the criminal code has directed their staff to come up with a provision barring gambling totally and, also, a provision which will provide for limited lottery operations by charitable organizations.

I defy any member here to start a criminal complaint against the St. Mary's Carnival, which will be held while we're here in town here this year.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I have the information that Delegate Aas would like.

In 1964, we voted on the repeal of Article I, and it was defeated 76,198-to-41,871. In 1968, we voted on the horse-racing betting. That was 133,713 noes, 85,235 ayes.

Now, you could interpret this in a couple ways. You could say, "Well, if we repeal this, we're going to have all these people against the Constitution." You could say that. You could say that, "If we pass this and the Legislature chose to repeal it on their own, that the people would refer to or beat it in the referendum." So you could probably interpret this on either side of the argument.

I find myself in a very precarious situation on this, because I feel that it is extraneous language that could be dealt with by the Legislature, and there are sufficient guarantees; however, as some of you have probably checked in the biographies, you know that I'm a Baptist and I have some real problems. Here I've only been here one week. Yesterday I voted against the one mill levy for the University of North Dakota. So I don't know if I can go back to work. If I'm required to vote on this today, I probably won't be able to go to church on Sunday.
(Laughter)

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: I want to thank him for the information. This is what I was seeking for, and I think that when we do vote on some of these things we should consider what the people have done in the past as to what they might do in the future.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

As a member of the Committee, one of the things we took into consideration is the respect for law allotted by youth. They see gambling, church raffles, and things like that, which they know are illegal, and we felt it was a lot better to let the Legislature set up controls of that type, so we can retain the respect of these people for the law and for how it's handled.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I think the people of North Dakota are concerned about living with a Constitution with some guarantees, and we can presume and we can suppose and we can guess about what the Legislature might or might not do. I agree with Delegate Aas that the people in North Dakota have spoken very strongly on this issue. I would like to ask a straight question and I'd like a straight answer.

If we repeal Article I, does it mean that pari-mutuel betting is free to come into the State of North Dakota?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will someone answer the lady's question?

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Our last chapter, 12-23 and 12-24 of the North Dakota Century Code, prohibits all forms of lottery and gambling at this point; but I think, in all fairness, if this Convention removes the provision on lotteries and it were upheld by the people of North Dakota, I think the Legislature might take that as a sign that limited gambling or lotteries might be permissible.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: To come to the aid of Delegate Omdahl, I would move that that Proposal 1-4 be laid over until Tuesday.
(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved that Committee Proposal No. 1-4 be laid over until Tuesday.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just a second. May I have a second?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: That's what I was rising for, Mr. President. I want to go to church, being a Baptist, too, as Delegate Omdahl, on Sunday, and I second the motion. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Longmire. Is there any further discussion?

The question is on the motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-4 be laid over until Tuesday.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the motion lost.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Request for a division, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: A division has been requested by Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE CART: Is the question to lay over?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is to lay over until Tuesday.

The key will be opened and you will record — you will not record your vote. On your vote now, if you vote in favor of Delegate Kelsch's motion to lay over, then you will vote "aye;" and if you are in opposition to his motion, you will vote "nay."

Now, I said that this would not be a recorded vote. It will not be recorded in the Journal, but of course it would be up on the board.

So the key will be opened and you will cast your ballot.

Has every delegate voted?

The key will be closed.

The vote indicates there were 46 "ayes," 51 "nays," one delegate absent. So the motion lost.

The question before the Convention is on the passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-4. Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, we will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

The key is closed.

The roll call disclosed 64 "ayes," 33 "nays," one delegate absent. So the proposal is adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-14, introduced by Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 206 and 207 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article XV to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to state boundaries and the state seal.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 206 and 207 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Article XV to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XV

"BOUNDARIES; SEAL

"Section 1. The name of this state is 'North Dakota.' The state of North Dakota shall consist of all the territory included within the following boundary, to-wit: Commencing at a point in the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the forty-ninth degree of north latitude crosses the same; thence south up the main channel of the same and along the boundary line of the state of Minnesota to a point where the seventh standard parallel intersects the same; thence west along said seventh standard parallel produced due west to a point where it intersects the twenty-seventh meridian of longitude west from Washington; thence north on said meridian to a point where it intersects the forty-ninth degree of north latitude; thence east along said line to place of beginning.

"Section 2. The following described seal is hereby declared to be and hereby constitutes the great seal of the state of North Dakota, to-wit: A tree in the open field, the trunk of which is surrounded by three bundles of wheat; on the right a plow, anvil and sledge; on the left, a bow crossed with three arrows, and an Indian on horseback pursuing a buffalo toward the setting sun; the foliage of the tree arched by a half circle of forty-two stars surrounded by the motto 'Liberty and Union Now and Forever, One and Inseparable'; the words 'Great Seal' at the top; the words 'State of North Dakota' at the bottom; 'October 1st' on the left and '1889' on the right. The seal shall be two and one-half inches in diameter."

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I am about to make a motion on this, to lay it over, for the reason that I have been told by one delegate, who has talked with a geography specialist, that in modern-day descriptions of territories and land, and so forth, that they are no longer using the word "meridian," and I have not had an opportunity to contact the geographer specialist since this information was brought to my attention. For that reason, I would like to move that this proposal be laid over until Monday, in order to give our Committee an opportunity to check the description part of it. If we find that the word "meridian" is not being used, then we will desire to amend the proposal at that time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-14 as amended be laid over until Monday.

Do we have a second?

Seconded by Delegate Roney.

Any further discussion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: May I direct a question to Delegate Longmire?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Longmire yield?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Is this an item that could be handled by the Style and Drafting Committee?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I suppose, technically, it could; but our Committee, being a highly-efficient committee, we'd like to put them out in their final form when we act on them. For that reason, I would ask that this be done.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

The question is on the motion to lay Committee Proposal 1-14 as amended over until Monday.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the motion lost.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I move that Committee Proposal 1-14 be returned to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Longmire that Committee Proposal 1-14 as amended be returned to the Committee on Judiciary and Political Subdivisions.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen seconded the motion.

Now, Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: This is a serious question. We're one of the public lands survey states and they have used all of these phraseologies since Congress enacted the Public Lands Survey Law back in 19 — or 1818, and I don't think we should tamper with this without pretty thorough checking. I certainly support the position of the Chairman of the Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on Delegate Longmire's motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-14 be returned to the Committee on Judiciary and Political Subdivisions.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The motion won. (Laughter)

The motion carried and the proposal will be returned to the Committee on the Judiciary and Political Subdivisions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-20, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145 and 146 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article X to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to corporations.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145 and 146 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Article X to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE X

"CORPORATIONS

"Section 1. No charter of incorporation shall be granted, modified or amended by special law, except in the case of municipal corporations or such other corporations as may be under the control of the state. The legislature shall provide by general laws for the organization of all corporations.

"Section 2. No law shall be passed by the legislature granting the right to construct or operate any public utility or similar service within any city without requiring the consent of that city."

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Speaking on behalf of the Committee on Education, Public Lands and Resources: Basically, what our Committee has tried to do is to remove those sections of the existing Constitution which are no longer in force and effect either because of federal jurisdiction or because some of these sections were merely transition sections, and we have also tried to remove those sections which the Committee felt were more properly a matter for the Legislature.

We'll run through them quickly, section by section, and if there's questions afterwards, we'd be happy to answer them.

Section 131 of the Constitution we have incorporated in Section 1 of Article X. Section 132 was obsolete after the adoption of the original Constitution. This is also true of Section 133, which referred to existing corporations at the time of the adoption of the first Constitution.

Section 134 was combined with Section 14 and was referred to Delegate Geelan's Committee, and this pertained to the fact that corporations were subject to eminent domain. We felt that this would best be combined with the other sections on eminent domain.

Section 135 provided for accumulative voting in corporations. We felt that this was a matter that the Legislature could deal with.

Section 136 provided that foreign corporations had to have a place of business or a resident agent in the State. Again, we thought this was a matter for the Legislature.

Section 137 was a limitation on corporations doing business. Again, we thought this was a matter for the Legislature.

Section 138 was a provision on watered stock. Again, we thought this was a matter of general law for the Legislature.

Section 139 was a provision that prohibited the Legislature from granting the right to construct and operate certain enumerated utilities within a city without the permission of the local authorities. We have attempted to bring this up to date and, instead of enumerating the utilities, used the broad term.

Delegate Christensen will speak as to the other sections.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Christensen.
DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Mr. President, I'll make reference to 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145 and 146, which the Committee, too, is recommending for repeal in connection with the Proposal 1-20.

The Committee bases their decision on the fact that the sections are made up of legislative material or they are no longer pertinent.

Section 140 applies to domestic railroad corporations, of which there are none in North Dakota.

Section 141 has to do with railroad consolidations. Railroad consolidations are heavily regulated by the Federal Government under the Commerce Clause in the Federal Constitution, and the State law is not operative.

Section 142 declares that railways are common carriers and subject to legislative control. This section also provides that the Legislature should provide for the regulation and control of rates charged for transportation of passengers and freight. This area is covered by the government under federal law, which takes precedence over state law.

Section 143 has to do with corporations organized for the purpose of constructing and operating railroads within the State. This, we don't feel, is a constitutional matter.

Section 144 defines the word "corporation." The Committee feels that this is — that it is questionable whether the Constitution is a proper place to define terms.

Section 145 provides that if a general banking law is enacted, that it should provide for the registration and countersigning of notes and bills which would be designed for circulation as money. The area of money being printed and circulated is government-regulated by the Federal Reserve System; so this thing would be inoperative, as far as state law is concerned.

Section 146 forbids price fixing. This section appears to be in conflict with the fair trade laws which allow limited price fixing and which is regulated by federal law. This could be handled by the Legislature, should it be necessary to effect anything with regard to price fixing.

Then, in our Article X, you will — by comparison, you will find that there are no substantial changes made in the Article.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President. Members of the Convention:

I would call your attention to the fact that the interim report does contain a real detailed explanation of each of these, starting on page 9, for each of the sections in this 1-20, and if you have reason to explain our action on your action in voting for this proposal, you could well find it there from each of the deliberations that we conducted over our hearings, and I think that's a good place to follow the report of our Committee.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President, I go along with nearly all of this, but I wonder if someone from the Committee could — I would like to refer to Section 135. I see they're doing away with these unnecessary items, but now it seems to me that Section 135 is a different substance altogether, and I'd like to have the Committee give us their thinking on that.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Section 135 deals with cumulative voting, which is a measure designed to protect minority stockholders in a corporation. Here we felt that, while there was a protection for the people, that this is a matter that properly should be handled in the general laws of corporations. There are areas where there's some questions as to cumulative voting — when you get into the co-ops and this type of thing. We felt that, simply, it was a matter for the Legislature to deal with in their general laws. I believe the statutes carry such a provision.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Are there any questions?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I might just add that the Legislature — the Committee — the Constitutional Research Commission that was created by the 1965 Legislative Assembly had considered these same sections and, after their study of these sections, had agreed with our Committee's action; and so they recommended a repeal of most of these provisions, also.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I have a question. I think it refers to these repealed, and perhaps others too, but when we repeal sections which are felt to be legislative matters, will there be any provisions or safeguards provided where needed that would control rules or legislation between the time the new Constitution is adopted and legislative — and legislators would have time to enact these repealed matters? Do I make myself clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson, I think that that would depend entirely upon the effective date of the new Constitution.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: You mean we could possibly save that —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, if the new Constitution went into effect with the election day or immediately thereafter, where, then, of course, it would be in effect before the meeting of the next session of the Legislature.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I think, at least in the case of the repealers relating to corporations and banking, they almost — at least to my general knowledge — would be that the Legislature has spoken to all of these subjects and it's quite typical where the Constitution prohibits or directs certain conduct, that many laws have been passed in conformance of that. So I don't think this repeal of these constitutional provisions on corporations will change that, and an alternate might be present where the scheduling committee could say it would not be effective until the next Legislature were to meet. But I would like to ask somebody on the Committee for their comments or their thinking on repeal of Section 146, which is the prohibition of the fixing of prices by any individuals, corporations or associations. The Constitution prohibits the fixing of prices on products from the soil or any other product. I wonder what the Committee's thoughts are on that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Could someone inform Delegate Kelsch — a member of the Committee — on the Committee's thoughts on Section 146? Is that the right section that I stated, Delegate Kelsch?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 146.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I would just refer to the material we have on hand.

This section forbids the fixing of prices of any product of the soil or any article of manufacture or commerce and provides for the revoking of franchises as a penalty for violation of this section. This section appears to be in conflict with Chapter 51-11 of the North Dakota Century Code, the fair trade law, which allows limited fixing of prices. The area of price fixing is extensively regulated by Federal law, and the Committee appeared to feel that the matter is better handled, if at all, by the Legislature, which could more easily adjust to changing circumstances at the federal level.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further questions?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I would like to ask one of the Committee members: Is there any significance in using the words "special law" as stated in Section 1? I really have never seen that term used before in a constitution. Is there any significance in that word — using "special"?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I'm not real sure, to be completely candid. Based on what we were thinking about, is something that was in the newspaper here a couple months ago — was a position before Congress to grant special copyright provisions to an organization. We thought that this should not be the case in North Dakota; that no corporation has a benefit that other corporations do not. This was our intent.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I can't help but be a little bit concerned. I don't think the Committee's explanation that they're going to repeal Section 146 because it conflicts with the statutory law is a satisfactory explanation. The statute conflicts with the Constitution — not the Constitution conflicts with the statute.

I was frankly not aware this was in the Constitution. I think that we should know what we're doing. I'm not saying that I'm opposed to our repeal of it, but I think this Section prohibits, in the first sentence — if you look at your Constitution — "Any combination between individuals, corporations, associations, or either having for its object or effect the controlling of the price of any product of the soil or any article or manufacture or commerce, or the cost of exchange or transportation, is prohibited and hereby declared unlawful and against public policy."

Now, I frankly don't know how an organization like the National Farmers Organization could operate in the State with a constitutional prohibition like this, because certainly that's a group of people organized for the purpose of fixing the price of products of the soil, and there are many other organizations or groups of people that organize or associate. Now, maybe it's a good — maybe this is a matter that should be left to legislation; but I think we should appreciate, when we repeal 146, that we are — what we're doing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. We appreciate the comments which Delegate Kelsch has made, because in our Committee, we spent a great deal of time talking about this particular section, and it is true that, except for those two which we are recommending be included, that this is the one where we still have a very substantive question before us. We hope that we brought that out.

Here, again, despite the fact that — that our Staff has done a very good job with this report, I think, in the effort to keep it brief, there are some of the things which are not in there, and it is very — very relevant that, if you do repeal this particular section — and you accept our thinking, you're — you're making a rather significant decision; that's true.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President. Under Rule 24, I call for a division of the question so that a separate vote will be taken on the question of the repeal of Section 146.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Your request shall be granted.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: I, also, feel that Section 135 — we're talking here about the rights of individuals. All the rest of these are about corporations, and I ask that Section 135 be divided.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Your request will be granted.

Delegate Baker, might I inquire: Your request was on 124. Was that the question?

DELEGATE BAKER: No. 146.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Oh! 146.

Is there any further discussion on Committee Proposal No. 1-20?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Does the repeal of 142 in any way restrict the ability of the Legislature or the Public Service Commission to deal with intrastate actions and intrastate practices of railroads?

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: To answer Delegate Sinner's question: It is our information it does not. We have discussed this provision with the Public Service people, and they say it's fine. Again, the LRC Committee that Delegate Omdahl referred to recommend that this section be repealed in 1965.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further questions?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: A question of information, Mr. President.

If a divided — if part of the question is moved to be laid over, does that lay over the whole matter?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Pardon?

DELEGATE KELSCH: If a motion to lay over a portion of a question is made and carried, would that take the whole proposal with it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe it would.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Following the Delegate's line of thinking a little bit:

When it came to the time now to vote separately on the tenth order for first passage on one of the questions that has been divided out of the whole, could that vote be laid over?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't believe it could, Delegate Baker. Of course, Delegate Baker, you realize we are on the tenth order now.

DELEGATE BAKER: Right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No further discussion on Committee Proposal No. 1-20?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I ask that Section 142 also be divided.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Section 142?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle has requested that Section 142 be voted on separately. That request is granted.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I certainly don't want to infringe upon the rights of the committee that considered this; but, surely, it seems to me that, in dividing this into about four different parts, we are wasting our time. A much better decision would be to send it back to the committee for consideration, and those people who have questions on these subjects can appear before the committee and get their questions answered.

Might I move — this is before the Education Committee. Might I move that the Clerk — that the Secretary — that Proposal — that Proposal No. 1-20 be returned to the Committee on Education?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you wish to move, Delegate Haugen, that Committee Proposal No. 1-20 be returned to the Committee on — what committee?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Education, Resources and Public Lands.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: On Education, Public Lands and Resources? Yes, you may move that.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President, I would like to second the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been seconded. The motion has been seconded.

The question before the Convention —

DELEGATE LANDER: Is that debatable, sir? I don't have my book in front of me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, that is debatable.

DELEGATE LANDER: I would like to speak on behalf of the Committee.

I think that we are happy to have this re-referred to us. We thought that we had something that would help the Convention move forward; but if we don't, we're very happy to have it before us again.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on Delegate Haugen's motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-20 be re-referred to the Committee on Education, Public Lands and Natural Resources.

As many as are in favor of that motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

I believe the "ayes" have it. The proposal will be re-referred to the Committee.

We will be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-30 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman. Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on — on Committee Proposal — Committee Proposal No. 1-30, and the Proposal would be placed on the — no, that's for a vote. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: A question, please.

Is this — then do we understand that, if we accept this today, it will be on the Monday calendar, sir?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's right.

DELEGATE LANDER: My question is: We still don't have them in the book and haven't been able to see them and can't do our homework. I was just wondering about that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, this will be on the calendar on Monday. This is the Committee Proposal No. 1-30.

DELEGATE LANDER: All right. Then I repeat my question. See, this is a part of the division of that question. I don't know what it is, because we don't have it, have we?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: You don't have it in your book?

DELEGATE LANDER: I don't think so. I go up to 1-22, and I quit. Am I wrong? Please correct me.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President, these were just introduced yesterday. I'm sure they aren't printed. How could they be?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Monday. They'll be here Monday.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, if we place these on the tenth order and the bills are not printed and they're not made available to you, we'll lay them over on Monday so there will be no action, of course, unless a printed copy is available to the delegates. So then this Proposal No. 1-30 will be placed on the tenth order until Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-33 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman. Delegate Hoffner moves the same be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Proposal No. 1-33.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion is seconded. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-33 will go on the tenth order.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-34 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended as follows:

On line 8 after the word "officials" insert "legislators,"

Delete all of lines 11 through 15.

And when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman. Delegate Hoffner moves the same be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report or Committee Proposal No. 1-34, which is to be amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-34 will be on the sixth order on Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-39 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman. Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Proposal No. 1-39.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and that was really getting a feeble "aye" vote there.

It will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

We will be on the ninth order of business — Introduction of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-57, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to equal enjoyment of public accommodations, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-57 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-58, introduced by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 5 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to release from unlawful detention or imprisonment."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. — no — Delegate Proposal No. 1-58 will be referred to the Committee —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No. Committee Proposal —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's what it says — "Delegate Proposal." No — Committee.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No. Committee — Committee Proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-58 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-59, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 9 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to freedom of press."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-59 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-60, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 8 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to indictment and information."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-60 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-61, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 16 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to bills of attainder and ex post facto laws and non impairment of obligations of contracts."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-61 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-62, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 15 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to not being imprisoned for debt."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-62 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-63, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 18 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to search and seizure."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-63 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-64, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 2 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to political power in the people, be retained in its present form."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-64 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-65, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 11 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to uniform operation of laws, be retained."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-65 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-66, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 13 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to rights of a defendant in criminal prosecutions, be retained."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-66 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-67, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 20 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to not granting special privileges and immunities, be retained."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-67 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-68, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 24 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to declaration of rights remaining inviolate, be retained."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-68 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-69, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 31, 46, 47, 48, 49, 58, 63, 64 and 66 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that new sections 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18 and 19 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to matters of legislative procedure."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-69 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-70, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 31, 46, 47, 48, 49, 58, 63, 64 and 66 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that new sections 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18 and 19 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to matters of legislative procedure."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-70 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-71, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 6 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to bail."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-71 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-72, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 22 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to courts being open as suits being brought against the state."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-72 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-73, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 4 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to religious freedom."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-73 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Fellow Delegates:

Just a matter of correcting my reference, when I had the wrong list. I did indicate that 1-57 was referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions. However, Committee Proposal No. 1-57 should rightfully be referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage. So, if you'll make your correction.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. Just for the information of the delegates, the two proposals that were reported out of the Legislative Functions Committee Proposal 1-30 and Proposal 1-33 — if you will turn to your bill books and look up I — or 1-7 — Proposal No. 1-7 — and I can give you the sections in that Proposal, and you can see what we've done. We've broken down our Committee Proposal No. 1-7, and I'm sure you'll want to look at it this week-end, and you could find these sections.

Now, if you'll turn to section 27 — that would be on the sixth page — section 27 is actually now Proposal No. 1-30, and will be on the calendar on Monday.

Now I know you don't have copies. The Committee members had copies when we worked on this. We thought, to help the Convention move and to move some of these — and the other proposal, 1-33, will be Section 23 and 24 — and, incidentally, you will get copies of this bill to take home with you in the bill book.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will proceed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-57, introduced by Delegate Hubrig:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the uniform legislative treatment of corporations, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-57 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-58, introduced by Delegate Hendrickson:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 29 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution to the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to legislative apportionment."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-57 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "58."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 58. Delegate Proposal No. 2-58 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-59, introduced by Delegate Hendrickson:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 29 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to legislative apportionment."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-59 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-60, introduced by Delegate Ketchum:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to property taxation, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-60 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-61, introduced by Delegates Trenbeath, Saugstad, Miller, Erickson and Ketchum:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to eminent domain, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-61 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-62, introduced by Delegate Haugen:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to uniformity of taxation and the power to define and exempt classes of property from taxation, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-62 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-63, introduced by Delegate Baker:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 72 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the election of the governor and lieutenant governor."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-63 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-64, introduced by Delegate Lamb:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, setting forth a date on which the provisions of the convention's product would become effective, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-64 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Does that take care of that?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes. All I have is announcements.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any announcements at the desk? We'll be on the —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Public hearing by the Finance and Tax Committee Monday, January 10th, 1:30 P.M., in the Blue Room, Sections 1, 2, 3, 4 and 9 of 1-21, and Section 10 of 1-21.

The Rules Committee will meet in the large Hearing Room at 1:00 P.M. today.

Please sign your Journal mailing lists and turn them in at the desk, so we can start sending the Journals out. Until we have a complete mailing list, we can't turn the IBM machine on; so please get your Journal mailing lists in at the desk so we can start mailing the Journals out.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, may we be on the twelfth order of business? Yes — Motions and Resolutions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE CART: At this time I move that we reconsider the action by which Committee Proposal 1-1 was adopted — be reconsidered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart moves that the Convention action on Committee Proposal No. 1-1 be reconsidered.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I second it, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart moves that the Committee Proposal 1-1 be returned to the Convention floor from the Committee on Style and Drafting. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

DELEGATE CART: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — I believe the "noes" won; so the motion lost.

DELEGATE CART: I ask for a division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division. The question — a division has been called. Will eight delegates rise?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President. President Wenstrom.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Now that the motion has — there is a motion before the house that has been made and seconded. Is this not the proper time for a discussion of the motion?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the body is that the Proposal No. 1-1 be returned to the Convention floor from the Committee — from the Committee on Style and Drafting. I believe you're right, Delegate Saugstad — that this would be the time for discussion on the question.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Yes. My point is that whoever made the motion and whoever is interested in that, I think should explain at this point why the motion is being made.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I think at this point I'd like to call your attention to Rule 29 and ask if there is a written notice at the desk that this is to be reconsidered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler, I don't believe that there is a need for notice at the desk, in that this was passed only yesterday. This particular proposal that is being asked to reconsider was passed by this assembly yesterday.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I understand that. But I believe, according to our Rules, that any delegate may move for reconsideration of any question at the same or the next two succeeding Convention days, or the Committee on Style and Drafting may move the reconsideration on the subsequent date, if notice of the intention to do so is given in writing to the Clerk of the Convention, who shall enter this notice in the Journal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Cart, your motion — I believe that we will have to disregard the two motions that are before the body. They were accepted in error, and your proper motion at this time is that the rules be suspended and that Proposal No. 1-1 be referred to the floor of the Convention, and that will take at the present time a simple majority to pass. Normally, it would take two-thirds.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — do you have a question?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Yes, a question on a point of order.

Rule 29 says that "the Committee on Style and Drafting may move for reconsideration on any subsequent day if notice of the intention . . ."

Now, I'd like an interpretation. It's my understanding only if the Committee on Style and Drafting wanted to do it on any subsequent day, they would have to file notice; but it was my thought on this Rule that any delegate may move for reconsideration without that qualifying phrase being attached to their motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It was always my intention, too — or my interpretation of the Rule. However, it's been challenged, and possibly it's something that could be straightened out at this afternoon's meeting of the Rules Committee.

So, under the present Rule, I'm going to have to ask —

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, at this time I would move that the Rules

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, at this time I would move that the Rules be suspended, so — should I continue?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Proposal No. 1-1 —

DELEGATE CART: — so that Proposal No. 1-1 can be returned to the body —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — from the Committee on Style and Drafting.

DELEGATE CART: — from the Committee on Style and Drafting.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And the motion has been seconded.

Now, the motion before this Convention is that the Rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal No. 1-1 be returned to the floor of the Convention from the Committee on Style and Drafting.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, I would expect that this is the time for discussion on the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: This is the time.

DELEGATE AUBOL: And continuing with Delegate Saugstad's thinking, I would like to know for what reason the proposal is being returned.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I think all of you who read the press items yesterday evening realize that you were in somewhat of an embarrassing position. If we go out to the public with this new Preamble and the implication that we are starting on a new course and going to have religious and civil rights, and so forth, which we have enjoyed for 80 years or more, there's going to be a lot of confusion, and I think that language has got to be cleared up, so we're going to get this Convention off on a good start. We're in trouble before our public if we go out there with a question like this not cleared up.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I rise, again, to a point of order.

My interpretation of Rule 29 would constrain me to agree with Mrs. Geelan, the Chairman of the Rules Committee. I believe there are other motions for reconsideration in the offing — is the reason why I bring this up; that I believe that the notice at the desk is required only by the Committee on Style and Drafting at any future time, and if all delegates would look at Rule 29 — if that is not a fact.

Then, one more reason why I speak now: I understand the Rules Committee is meeting this afternoon. I would request the Rules Committee to clarify that, because any actions we took yesterday, if anybody wants to reconsider them, they have only Monday now to do that, without getting through the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Pearce.

Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President, I agree with Delegate Cart. There are many of us, I think, that felt that the new words were no improvement, and we would like to see the original 1889 constitutional wording in that proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on the question? If not, the question is on the motion that the Rules be suspended and that Delegate Proposal No. 1-1 be returned to the Committee — be returned to the Convention from the Committee on Style and Drafting. Hearing no further discussion, those in favor —

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, just one other little item.

There has been a lot of publicity about shortening the Constitution, and many committees are working in that respect, and I would like to point out to the delegates that the old one, which reads, "We, the people of North Dakota, grateful to Almighty God for the blessings of civil and religious liberty, do ordain and establish this constitution." is 24 words, and the new one, which means very little difference, is 33 words.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: In deference to all the extremely capable delegates who have spoken to reconsider this, I do want to say that the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, and our subcommittee on this, spent many, many days and many, many hours on this question, and I hope that you will not reconsider this and that you will not bring this back to the Committee or to the floor for discussion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — we'll call the question.

The question is on the motion to suspend the Rules and reconsider it — or to have the proposal returned to the floor of the Convention, and we have — Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I would support the Committee action.

I'd like to point out that the Declaration of Independence, which is, I think, one of the greatest American documents, points out very clearly that it is the purpose of forming governments to secure the rights that are spoken of here. That's pointed out very clearly in the Declaration and, again, in the American Constitution, that that's why governments are formed — to secure these rights — and I think our Committee did an excellent job in sorting out that reason for the North Dakota Constitution. It is that we may secure these rights for which we are grateful to Almighty God.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I'd like to point this out: That under the new language, the use of the word "secure" implies that we have not had these in the past. If the word "retain" had been used, it would certainly imply then and clearly be specific that we had them from the starting out of the State 82 years ago and that they were given to us way back when our national constitution was adopted, and I think we shouldn't imply at all that we're starting out on a new path.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I would like to redefine this word for Delegate Cart. It's used in the sense of "strengthen" or "emphasize" and it's not used in the sense in which he defined it.

DELEGATE CART: Well, I've tried to use Webster's.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: I think we need a full analysis of the word "secure."

Dr. Tudor has given the meaning of the word "secure," and I compare it to a bank vault where we have stored our valuables from generation to generation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further questions? Again, the question is that the Rules be suspended and Committee Proposal No. 1-1 be returned to the Convention floor from the Committee on Style and Drafting.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it. The motion lost.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I move that Proposal No. 1-22 be returned from the Committee on Style and Drafting.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson moves —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — moves that the — that the Rules be suspended

DELEGATE PETERSON: I do have it —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have it at the desk?

DELEGATE PETERSON: Yes, you do.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will you read the motion, Delegate?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Peterson moves that the Rules be suspended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Oh! She did file a notice. Fine.

Then the question is — in this case, we have had a notice filed. So that Delegate Peterson moves that the Convention reconsider its action on Article 60, contained in Proposal No. 1-22, which was passed yesterday; that this be referred to the Convention from the Committee on Style and Drafting, and the motion has been seconded.

Now, for the discussion.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I move to reconsider the Convention action. I'm going to read my remarks. I feel that I was sort of snowed yesterday. I had no idea it was coming up, and I think this may be something that comes up quite often, until we get used to the Rules. So I would like to state my position. It refers to the dedicative funds for the Medical Center, and I want to explain my position, because I'm in favor of the mill levy.

Number one, I represent agriculture on the Medical Center Advisory Council, and no one has to remind me of taxes. My husband and I own and operate a farm. I don't know whether that's bragging or complaining.

Number two, the Medical Center is not only made up of the Medical School; it includes the Rehab Center, the four-year college of nursing, and related laboratories, and I want to bring to the attention of the delegates that 20 percent of the Medical Center budget is set aside for the College of Nursing.

The argument that dedicated funds for the Medical Center would be unfair to other institutions, in my opinion, is not valid, because we do not have more than one Medical Center in the State, and there is a pressing need for doctors and nurses. I know what it means to be 30 miles from the nearest hospital, and I can assure you that we get very few house calls.

The argument that too few of our Medical School graduates stay in North Dakota needs a long, thoughtful look, because, with a two-year school, the last two years must be put in out of state, and by that time the graduate may have formed other preferences as to localities, and the most important impact of the one mill levy for the Medical Center appearing in our Constitution, again, in my opinion, is the psychological factor. It lends stability and moral support to the faculty. Even more important in my estimation, it establishes a priority guideline for the legislators.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?
Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. I'm sure, as Chairman of the Committee that considered this, we have no objection to giving a delegate an opportunity to reconsider it. I hope that, if it is brought back on the floor, that it is not returned to the Committee, because the Committee did give the representatives of the University and the Medical Center every opportunity to present all of these arguments to the Committee, and yet we were unanimous in our action recommending the deletion; so I would hope that you do not ask that it come back to the Committee, but that, if your motion passes, that it be taken up then on the floor.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: It may seem strange to you to hear me arguing against the return of this measure; but, in all candor, I must report to you that last night I visited personally with President Clifford, and he said, "We feel that there is no reason to continue this one mill levy. We would rather take our chances with the Legislature. We feel that's the most businesslike way of handling it."

Therefore, you can understand I have somewhat mixed emotions in arguing against a mill levy for a University project, since I am from Grand Forks. But I think, in all fairness, I should report to you on this, and I'm going to vote against the return of the measure.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment?

The question is on the motion to return Article 60 to the Convention floor from the Committee on Style and Drafting.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the motion lost.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: May we be on the proper order for a further motion?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the twelfth order, without objection.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes. Mr. President, in discussing this matter with Delegate Peterson, I realized that it was very important to her, personally, that she wanted a record made of her position, being a member of this Advisory Council, and she has stated her position very well, and I believe she has a copy of the written remarks of that. For that reason, Mr. President, I move that the remarks of Delegate Peterson be printed in the Journal.

DELEGATE POULSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved and seconded that the remarks of Delegate Peterson be placed in the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the remarks will be in the Journal.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I move that Delegate Proposal 2-45 be returned from the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-45. Delegate Dobson moves that Delegate Proposal No. 2-45 be returned from the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

Do we have a second?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion? Those in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Proposal is before the Convention.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I now request unanimous consent to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-45.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson moves unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-45.

DELEGATE DOBSON: The Committee felt, Mr. President, that the best way to handle this matter was through a committee proposal and not through a delegate proposal. The Committee was unanimous on this, and, therefore, I changed my mind so I could join with the feeling of the Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any objections to Delegate Proposal No. 2-45 being withdrawn.

Hearing none, the Proposal will be withdrawn.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: May we be on the proper order to ask a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: For a question?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Yes, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would say this: We receive the printed order of procedure. We will try not to be too formal. You may ask a question.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President, I think some of us novices, who have not had legislative experience, are floundering a little bit — at least I am — and to follow up Delegate Lander's question about doing homework, I know that you have printing problems, but would it be possible that the tenth order of business be publicized at the conclusion of our meeting or posted, or could we know when we have completed our Plenary Session what the next day's tenth important item of business is?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab, we have discussed this at the desk, and we first thought that we would try to have it printed; however, it is almost impossible to have it printed before the delegates leave the Convention floor; so we find ourselves with something printed and no one here to use it. So we decided that we would read the numbers and the proposals to the Convention under Announcements, and then any delegate that is concerned about a proposal, you can record it — write it down — and then you can refer to your book and see just what you have. So we're going to follow that procedure from now on, until it's changed.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Thank you, Mr. President. Might I also request, then, that Mr. Gilbreath use his loud and important-sounding voice when he reads this?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

Roy, do you have that list ready? As long as this is fresh in the minds of the delegates, why don't we read that list right now?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On tomorrow's calendar — or it would be Monday's calendar — for action on the tenth order, which would be first passage, I have — my notes show Delegate Proposal 1-10, Delegate Proposal 1-30, Delegate Proposal 1-33, and Delegate Proposal 1-39.

Under the sixth order, which would be consideration of amendments, I have Delegate Proposal 1-34.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I announce that 1-30 and 1-33, and I also have a copy now of 1-39 — so if you'll turn again to Committee Proposal 1-7, and it will be Section 10 of that Committee Proposal. This is salaries, in other words, and the 1-34 will be the one to amend. I'm sure that copies will be printed before that. That will be Section 29, and that's been amended quite a bit. So I just thought, for your information —

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: In the Clerk's reading of the tenth order and the sixth order, I'm wondering if reference to these delegate proposals might have been in error. Are they possibly committee proposals?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee proposals. I'm sorry. They're all committee proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think a point of correction should be made — that those were all committee proposals. They were not delegate proposals.

Fellow Delegates, while we are on the subject that we are now discussing, on Monday's calendar we have a number of proposals, and these are all delegate proposals that we heard at committee hearings during the interim session, and it turns out that there are 42 of these, and because you are the people that have introduced these in the first place, and because each of these proposals are coming in on committee report to be indefinitely postponed, now these — this is not as bad as it sounds — in many cases the material that was in your original proposal has been incorporated in the committee proposal, so there is no need for having the two. So the delegate proposal will be — is on the committee report to be indefinitely postponed, and this will be on the order of business on Monday.

Now, I am going to read the numbers and the person that introduced the proposal, so that in the event that you do not feel that your proposal should be indefinitely postponed, that you will have an opportunity to prepare an argument for a rebuttal to the committee report by the time it comes on the floor on Monday.

Now the proposals are the number — the first one is 2-1, and it was introduced by Delegate Tudor. 2-2, by Geelan. 2-3, by Geelan. 2-4, by Geelan. 2-5, by Tudor. 2-6, by Tudor. 2-7, by John Paulson. 2-8, by John Paulson. 2-9, by Hoffner. 2-10, by John Paulson. 2-11, by William Engelter. 2-12, by Rundle. 2-13, by Rundle. 2-14, by Rundle. 2-15, by Tudor. 2-16, by Tudor. 2-17, by Tudor. 2-18, by Tudor. 2-19, by Devine. 2-20, by Devine. 2-21, by Fritzell and Sanstead. 2-22, by Hill, and 2-23, by Thompson. 2-24, by Hubrig. 2-25, by Vogel. 2-27, by Byrne. 2-28, Warner. 2-29, Rundle. 2-30, Baker. 2-31, Nething. 2-32, Chase. 2-33, Hill. 2-34, Omdahl. 2-35, Saugstad. 2-36, Peterson. 2-37, Hubrig. 2-38, Omdahl. 2-39, Thompson. 2-40, Lamb. 2-41, Lamb, and 2-42, Saugstad.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: In connection with this matter, Mr. President, I have a question regarding the procedure in dealing with the committee reports for indefinite postponement. Some of us are accustomed to a procedure by which a substitute motion is offered at that point to return the proposal to a committee for further consideration. I understand that this sort of motion might not be accepted. Is this true?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, at the time that we were having the Rules Committee — may I — may I clarify this question?

At the time that we had the Rules Committee downstairs, someone directed the question to me: Would I accept a substitute motion? And I stated, "No." And that would be my policy. However, I did specifically state at that time that I do not consider the substituting of a committee report or an alternate on a committee report as a substitute motion, and I made that clarification at that time. So that, in the event that a committee report that you people — you delegates desire to offer a proposal or a question, that rather than have your committee proposal or delegate proposal indefinitely postponed, you are at liberty to move that your committee be — or your delegate proposal be placed on the calendar for further consideration. There is no objection to that. But there is an objection on my part, and I think on your part and on parliamentary procedure, that simply a committee motion to substitute simply so that you vote "yes" on the motion in place of "no," I see no sense in that; but on this type of a motion, where you're going to offer that because you feel that your proposal has merit and that you wish that it be debated in place of killing it on that point, that if you want it on the calendar for full discussion on the Convention floor, that motion is in order.

Does that answer your question?

DELEGATE BAKER: Not quite, Mr. President.

I understand that part of it all right. What I'm trying to get at is — I guess perhaps my question should be this:

What should a delegate do if he wishes to have the whole body — the whole Convention — consider a question of returning it — returning this matter to the committee, rather than voting to kill it at that point?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Your motion would be that the proposal be referred to the committee from whence it came, or to a different committee, rather — to a different committee.

DELEGATE BAKER: In other words, simply don't use the word "substitute"?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: In my opinion, it's almost a bad word.

DELEGATE BAKER: All right. Thank you, sir.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: This is a question that has bothered me somewhat.

Rule 13 requires that every committee must report delegate proposals under one of four things; one, that the proposal is adopted; two, that it's amended, and when amended, be adopted; three, that no recommendation is made, and, four, that the proposal be indefinitely postponed. If the delegate — I hope I can make this clear, because I've been sort of a voice crying in the wilderness on it. Will the delegates turn to Delegate Proposal 2-2 in your books? I maybe can explain it, if you do that.

I realize this is a matter of interpretation, and I wondered if we could have another interpretation on it.

Now, there is a proposal that I personally have introduced. It is incorporated in the committee proposal without any change whatsoever. So it would come under

No. 1. To save time, could not the committee, when they recommend this particular section — say this is Delegate Proposal 2-2 — accept it without amendment — adopt it, in other words? So we wouldn't have to go through this procedure of indefinitely postponing — getting rid of the delegate proposal.

And another reason I feel rather strongly on this is: I feel that the order of business on the indefinite postponement should be only for those proposals that are killed. I don't know whether I've made my point clear. I maybe haven't all along, but it seems to me —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan —

DELEGATE GEELAN: Yes?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I ask you a question?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, as I understand the situation, the Committee has kidnapped or they have stolen your proposal, and then they have introduced it as a committee proposal.

DELEGATE GEELAN: That's right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's what they've done. They're culprits.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Then why should we indefinitely postpone two — why don't the chairman — I notice he has to sign that — why couldn't the chairman hand in a report that this is Delegate Proposal 2-2, rather than have a motion on the floor to indefinitely postpone it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have a point. However, at the present time we do have two doing the same thing, apparently. We must have a committee proposal that is doing exactly what Delegate Proposal 2-2 is doing. So I think that's the point of it there. We have two. One has to meet a certain fate.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, in our Committee, we are doing just what Delegate Geelan says, in another way. In our committee report, when we do indefinitely postpone one because we have already incorporated it in our committee proposal, we state on our report, and that will go into the Journal. For instance, the first one I see here is 2-11. That was by Delegate Engelter. We state on our committee report "That it be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-11."

Now, when it's just merely a matter of mechanics in getting the proposal disposed of — and I suppose that when we come out on the floor here with a proposal that has been handled in that manner, any delegate could get up and ask for a unanimous consent to withdraw the proposal. I think if we didn't have some mechanical way here of disposing of it on the record, we would have a lot of confusion, if we just indefinitely postpone those that we didn't put in a committee proposal, because we, in our committee, have been, as other committees, I'm sure have been, studying these matters for months, and most of these delegate proposals that we have already had in there long before they were proposed, or at least we felt we'd have them in there — we didn't have a final report at that time — and out of the four that my committee has acted on already, three of them we did incorporate into the main committee proposal and had it in there before they were given to us. In the other one, we didn't buy it anywhere, so we indefinitely postponed it, period.

So I think, as a practical matter, why the record will show that these were incorporated in — at least their committee reports are showing that — so that the delegate will be given proper credit for the proposal which he or she is on.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President, I was not worried about the President. I'm worried about the kind of mechanics. So I feel that, if we could avoid a motion to indefinitely postpone these that we accept, we could save that much time.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'd like to carry this one step further.

When my committee made their first report, which has now been sent back to the committee, included in it was my proposal 2-23, I think it is, and now we have separated that original proposal, and I suppose we'll have 24 or 5 second proposals.

Now, I find that my committee has changed their mind on my proposal substantially, and I think they're going to cut it up pretty bad. If we vote on this to indefinitely postpone it on Monday, I don't think that these proposals will be back in by then, and I want to know for sure whether they're going to put my proposal in their report or not, and I wonder where I stand in that position?

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does someone wish to answer — make an endeavor to answer Delegate Thompson's question?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, did you rise to answer his question?

DELEGATE BAKER: I have a similar problem, and I was going to explain what I think I'm going to do. Maybe that would help some.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then, Delegate Kelsch, will you yield to Delegate Baker?

(Delegate Kelsch nodded.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President and members of the Assembly:

This may be a very important thing for all of us as a body, as well as for each of us individually, and on Monday, when the committee report comes in on Delegate Proposal 2-30, which has to do with whether we — as to how we choose most of the state officials in North Dakota, I'm going to resist the motion — the committee report for indefinite postponement, despite the fact that in the committee I made the motion.

The situation is similar to that that's been explained by Delegate Thompson. Back in the earlier stages of this Convention, when the committees were working, we had one plan of procedure. At that time the committee of which I am a member had prepared a majority report which I did not agree with, and which, I believe it was, three other members of the committee did not agree with, and we prepared a minority report. The Convention met and decided a day or so ago — I forgot just when — and decided that this bulk action would not do because of the difficulties that we already recognized in dividing up these questions and getting a separate debate on a specific matter. So we went back in committee and began working again on what we would do and what I am sure would be the same division. In the meantime, however, the delegate proposal which I presented early and which now is before us with the recommendation to indefinitely postpone, may become valuable to at least the minority of that committee.

So my intention is, on Monday, to move that, instead of indefinitely postponing that proposal at that time, that this body vote, instead, by a simple majority vote, to return it to the Committee. So that if it has some value in producing the final report of the committee on that particular subject, it can be used and will not be dead; and if it does not have any value, then, later, it can come in for indefinite postponement.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I believe it is quite important on these indefinite postponements that, where the delegate who, say, is sponsoring the proposal, where he doesn't care that it be in those, are the kind that we can act on, and if the delegate who's introducing it would speak on the motion to indefinitely postpone, that would give us all an idea as to that he's satisfied as to what the committee's done is okay and he doesn't care what happens to the proposal. Now, in many cases, this is not going to be the situation, because the committee's not acted accordingly. I don't know if this is a scheduling problem. I don't know if we want to send these back to the committee, because we are going to all the trouble of reporting it in and out again. But I can't see why the chairmen of the respective committees cannot hold it back until they act on their report to prevent it from being indefinitely postponed, with this understanding: That they would inquire of the delegate sponsoring it. If he felt he wanted to go ahead and have it indefinitely postponed, fine. If he wanted to have it held, the chairman would agree — would have an understanding that it would be held back to be introduced after we act on the tenth order on the committee's report covering the same subject. This would keep the thing alive in case — when we were acting on the tenth order, when we would attempt to amend the contents of the indefinitely-postponed matter, but keep it alive before us in case we want to use it. But I think it would be just a matter of scheduling; hold it back until they first act on the report, and then, if this Convention adopts the committee's idea on the subject, we might as well kill the delegate proposal by indefinite postponement.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: We discussed this at the Calendar Committee meeting, and I would certainly be agreeable, as one of the committee chairmen — in fact, if this is the procedure that we're going to use on all the indefinite postponements from here on in, the only question is I don't know if we cleared this with Roy or not — it would be the desk's problem, as the committee reports were handed to the desk, I believe, on the day that the Convention — that this Session started; is that right?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Can we still jerk them back?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

DELEGATE HERNETT: If we can, then I would certainly agree with Delegate Kelsch's idea, and that would solve Delegate Baker's problem, and probably mine, too.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. I agree with Delegate Geelan — possibly for a different reason, and I'm not — I'm not really thin-skinned.

In the Legislature, they call it blood-letting, and I'm pretty pale lots of times. I've lost lots of ballgames.

But it does seem kind of harsh at that to have the record show that I introduced four proposals, all indefinitely postponed. I'm perfectly happy with the committee on one, at least. If you get a 25 percent average in this business, you're lucky! But to show that I was so dumb I introduced four, and actually about two — two of them were incorporated — I think that — that's a pretty harsh record when you were trying — and I wouldn't — I wouldn't like to withdraw them — that admits that you were wrong and a coward to start with. So I would appreciate Delegate Kelsch's idea to kind of hide it by the committee chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman. On the first or second day the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage asked for an indefinite postponement of 1-2, and in this we have a number of these committee proposals currently not acted upon or not reintroduced, and they also have delegate proposal numbers that are scheduled for indefinite postponement and, therefore, I think it is premature for us to indefinitely postpone all of these until the passage of these similar-type matters that we have before us from the committees.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate O'Toole.

You may have the floor, Roy — or Mr. Clerk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I have one little explanation that might help on this.

The committee reports are made up in this manner, and I'll use one that we've got up here that is in this list that we were talking about.

This would be Delegate Proposal No. 2-2. “. . . has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-2.” And that’s the way the report would come out and go in the Journal. If this would help you.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I don’t see any reason why any of these proposals have to be disposed of now. After our proposals are passed, it’s just a simple matter of a few motions, and they can be disposed of after all proposals are passed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I don’t think we have to worry too much in this Convention about pride of authorship. The records of this Convention are going to show where the ideas germinated, and if any future historian wants to go look at it, they’re going to find out what delegate instigated what idea.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion — further discussion on the matter before the Convention?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I think we should clear the point that Delegate Hoffner raised. Is there any reason why we have to act on that list of indefinite postponements?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, only in the Rules of Procedure, that they come in, and then, at a certain date and time, why they have to be on the calendar — is all.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Well, would the President like a motion that we postpone action on that phase of the calendar for five or ten days, or something like that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, why don’t you move that the reports be returned to the committee of origination? Okay? There is a — to be honest, according to the information the Clerk gives me, and it’s absolutely right, that until such time as a committee report is acted on by the Convention, the report is the property of the Committee. So, if its the desire of any one of the committee chairmen that they pick these reports up, they come back and hold them — they can hold them just — just so they don’t hold them past the 30 days — why you’re — they can belong to the committee; but once we start action on them up here the Convention either defeats them or adopts them, then they become the property of the Convention. At the moment, they are the property of the committees.

So, if the committee chairmen would like to pick these up, why that’s your prerogative.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I believe, to simplify things, I’ll make a motion — or it may even complicate it more — that all proposals that have been read — that all the delegate proposals that are up for indefinite postponement be held by the committees.

DELEGATE O’TOOLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It’s been moved by Delegate Hoffner, and seconded by Delegate O’Toole, that the 42 proposals that are before the Convention for indefinite postponement be returned to the respective substantive committees.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye,” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it. They will be returned to the committees.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: A point of inquiry:

In connection with that, I assume now it is understood that, as soon as we bring out of the committee the committee proposal that does deal with that particular delegate proposal, that then we are at liberty to bring these back out on the floor for action. Is that the understanding under your motion, Representative Hoffner?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Once these proposals come out of the — the committee can then proceed to pass them out as they see fit, and I think that's the intent of this body.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, I'm confident that those committee reports, if they are properly in the committees, then it becomes the prerogative of the committees to treat them as they wish.

Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, as a point of information: Would it be possible for the delegates to withdraw their proposals and dispose of them that way?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: There is procedure here for withdrawal of proposals, and they may be withdrawn in that way.

DELEGATE DEVINE: In that way, we could clear them off the floor and they would be done once and for all.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is true.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Of course I think it should be understood that it takes unanimous consent to withdraw the proposal. Those introduced in the Convention are the property of the delegates, and you may like the idea of a delegate's proposal and may not want it withdrawn, and it takes unanimous consent.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: For a point of information for myself:

I see that the Education and Taxation Committee has partially considered my Proposal 2-23, and I wonder if it is possible for them to look at the rest of the proposal to see if they could incorporate it in their committee report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson, will you direct it to Chairman Meidinger?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: I'm sorry. I just arrived. I didn't hear the question.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'm wondering if we could have the dual consideration of my Proposal 2-23 both by my own committee and by yours, in view of the fact that you have partially adopted it in your committee report and — I'm sorry, I've forgotten which one — in reference to the veterans' bonus — is what I'm referring to.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — could you answer the question?

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: This was not referred to our committee — any part of it. So he must have the wrong committee, as far as this goes. The Education, Resources and Public Lands Committee did not receive Proposal 2-23 from Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Excuse me. I wanted it to go to the Committee on Taxation, if I'm not mistaken.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe you did state, though, the Committee on Education. But if it's a question for the chairman of the Committee on Finance and Taxation, then you would direct it to Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Excuse me? I'm sorry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson has a question.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, I think that probably I could clear that question up for Delegate Thompson.

We previously noted that anybody or any delegate that introduced an individual proposal — we've decided that that should be held in committee, if that same idea was incorporated in a committee proposal, in a lump, and hold that there until that got first passage, and if it was deleted prior to first passage and amended out, of course then the delegate could come in with his proposal again before the Convention, and this is the way we do it, primarily, in the Legislature.

Now, to answer Delegate Thompson:

If you had a proposal, Delegate Thompson, that's only been partially incorporated in a committee proposal, then the way we would generally work it in the Legislature — we allow then what portion was left out. Then you try to get it amended in on either the sixth or the tenth order of business. It would be the tenth order of business in our case. You try to get that amended into the committee proposal when it gets on the floor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson, does that answer your question?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I think so.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. I'm sorry. I was visiting a little with Mr. Kelsch. Was there a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe that Delegate Thompson did have a question. However, I believe that Delegate Fritzell and Delegate Trenbeath answered the question for him.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: President Wenstrom. I have a further question on this matter. My question is this:

Are the delegate proposals — that is — I think this would be 2 through 42 — are they printed in bill form?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes, they were printed, but in a very low number, only 200, the idea being that they were going to be indefinitely postponed on the first day, so that we would have to put in another order. But there were 200 of each printed.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: The reason I raised the question: I do not believe that these are presently in our books, and —

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: They are.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Are they?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Yes.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: If they are in the book, then there's no further question. But I had wondered if they had been printed, because they were recommended for indefinite postponement.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further? If not, we will go to the ninth order of business — Introduction of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-74, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 182 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to state debt."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Proposal No. 1-74 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-75, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 42, 67, 68, 69 and 70 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that new sections 9, 20 and 21 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the legislative process."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-75 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-76, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 50 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 15 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the openness of legislative sessions."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-76 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-77, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 183 and 184 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to political subdivision debt."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-77 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

Any further announcements?

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, am I to assume that we're about to recess or adjourn?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I imagine that's not very far away.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Well, I would like to call a meeting of the Legislative Functions Committee at 1:00 in the Large Hearing Room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

Delegate Hoffner, it was just called to my attention that the Rules Committee, possibly if there's some other committee that is not going to meet — that you could meet in their room.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. We made the announcement yesterday in the hope that the substantive committees might hold off meetings until two o'clock, so that members of the committees could come and express their opinions as to those two very important rules; however, of course, I have no control over the Legislative Functions Committee.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I'm sorry. A number of our members are on the Rules Committee. In that case, I would like to call a meeting — you say until two o'clock? I'd like to call the meeting of the Legislative Functions Committee at two o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands will meet immediately after adjournment or a recess here, in G-1.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: The Committee on Executive Functions will meet immediately upon recess down in our usual meeting room.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: The Bill of Rights Committee will meet immediately in the Lewis and Clark Room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. The Judiciary Committee will meet immediately after recess, in the usual place.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Some of my delegates have expressed a desire to meet now until 12:30, and I'd like to announce that we'll meet immediately after this recess.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner, did you wish the floor?

(Delegate Sinner shook his head.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move that the absent members be excused.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moved that the absent members be excused.

DELEGATE BAKER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." Carried.

Delegate Saugstad moved that the following proposal be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting: Committee Proposal No. 1-4.

De we have a second?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

Delegate Paulson, did you wish the floor?

The Chair will recognize Delegate Binek.

DELEGATE BINEK: Mr. President, I move that the Convention stand adjourned, subject to the call by the President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Binek moves that the Convention stand adjourned until 9:00 o'clock Monday morning.

Is there a second to the motion?

DELEGATE BIRKELAND: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Birkeland seconded. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Convention is adjourned.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 11:29 A.M., Friday, January 7, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Monday, January 10, 1972.)

VOLUME VI

(January 10, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The 6th day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:13 A.M., January 10, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our chaplain for this morning is Reverend Walter J. Schott, Pastor, Church of Good Shepherd, United Methodist, Mandan, North Dakota.

REV. WALTER J. SCHOTT: Let us unite our hearts in prayer.

Our Eternal God and loving Heavenly Father, we give Thee thanks for this day that You have given to us. We are grateful for the opportunities that will be ours to serve Thee, and to our fellowmen. We ask for Thy divine blessing to rest upon this assembly that is gathered here.

We are grateful to these men and women who've taken the time out of their busy lives to come here to be a part of a session that will ultimately affect the lives of all of us now as well as in the future. May they not only be guided by their consciences, but may each one of them be willing to let their minds, their wills and their emotions be guided by Thy Holy Spirit. And may, through the many dedicated hours of work, there come forth a constitution that will help to make this a better state, and the people that will be able to serve both God and man in a more effective way in the days to come. This we ask in the name of Christ Our Lord and Our Savior. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are commencing with the third order of business — Roll Call.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President, your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Better have the roll call.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I'm sorry. We'll be on the third order of business. Pressing on your key will record your presence.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Has everyone recorded his presence? So then close the key.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Three absent, Benz, Peters and Sanstead.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Roll call discloses 95 present, three absent. A quorum is declared.

Fellow Delegates, I'm sorry to report that Delegate Darold Benz is hospitalized this morning. He called in from the hospital. He had a flare-up of an ulcer, so he may be missing for a day or two.

On the fourth order of business — approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 6th day of January, 1972, and finds the same to be correct.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question on the adoption of the Committee Report on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted.

Then on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-19 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger moves the proposal be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-19, the Committee Report, that it do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted.

Proposal No. 1-19 will be placed on the tentative order of business for tomorrow.

We'll be on the sixth order of business — Consideration of Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendments to Proposal 1-34 as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions as printed on page 135 of the Journal are:

On line 8 after the word "officials," insert "legislators."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I move that the amendments be adopted to 1-34 as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that the amendments be adopted as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President. My recollection is to delete lines 11 through 15 on that. Would you look at that again?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: That is correct. On line 8 after the word "officials" insert "legislators" and delete all of lines 11 through 15. That was my mistake.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments?

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, some of us it appears don't have 1-34 in our books.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I thought they would be in our books. But in view of that, I'll move that the 1-34 be laid over one day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that Proposal No. 1-34 be laid over one day.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Kwako.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Proposal No. 1-34 is laid over one day.

Be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Reference of Proposals to Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-78, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the death penalty, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Proposal No. 1-78 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-79, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to right to keep and bear arms, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-79 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-80, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 208 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the right of debtors."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-80 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-81, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to cumulative voting for candidates for legislative office, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-81 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-82, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 127 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to voting disqualifications."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-82 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-83, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 129 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to duties of the legislature with regard to elections."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-83 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-84, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to right to counsel for indigents in civil Proceedings in which the state or its subdivisions are adverse parties, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-84 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-85, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126 and 128 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota and articles 36 and 40 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that three new sections to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the elective franchise."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-85 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-86, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to making all persons over eighteen years of age adults for all purposes, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-86 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-65, introduced by Delegate Meidinger:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152 and article 54 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article V to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to education.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-65 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-66, introduced by Delegates Saugstad and Trenbeath:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to state debt, be created.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-66 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-67, introduced by Delegate Cart:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to uniformity of taxation and exemptions, be created.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-67 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-68, introduced by Delegate Dobson:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the right to family farming, be created.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-68 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-69, introduced by Delegate Thompson:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 127 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to voting disqualifications.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-69 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-70, introduced by Delegate Burke:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to uniformity of taxation and tax exemptions, be created.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-70 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-71, introduced by Delegate Rundle:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to trust lands, be created.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-71 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-72, introduced by Delegate Dobson:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 29 and 35 of Article II and section 214 of Article XVIII of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 4 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to reapportionment of the state legislature.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-72 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

We will be on the tenth order of business — First Reading and First Passage of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-10, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article XIII, sections 188 through 193 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new article to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the state militia.

“SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Article XIII, sections 188 through 193 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

“SECTION 2.) Article XVII of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“ARTICLE XVII

“STATE MILITIA

“The legislative assembly shall provide by law for the establishment of the state’s military forces.”

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates, Committee Proposal No. 1-10 came about as the result of a study of the section that was referred to the Executive Functions Committee, namely Article XIII of our Constitution.

Upon reviewing Article XIII, sections 188 through 193, it was felt by the Committee that many of those sections are extremely legislative in nature. For example, 188 talks about the ages of people that should be in the state militia. 189 was the position that we have taken or the language more closely reflects to 189 than any of the others. Section 190 talks about the legislature providing for voluntary organizations. 191 talks about the fact that the militia officers shall be appointed or elected as the legislative assembly will provide. Section 192 points out that commissioned officers shall be commissioned by the governor, and talks about the removal of them. And then 193 explains that the militia forces shall in all cases, except treason, felonies, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at musters, parades and elections of officers, and in going to and returning from their particular meetings.

The Committee heard General Melhouse on the subject and came up with the proposal which very basically provides that the legislative assembly shall provide by law for the establishment of the state’s military forces. And that is the extent of the proposal. And we feel that it will replace completely Article XIII, doing away with much excess verbiage.

There is some question in some people’s mind as to really whether or not it is necessary that a militia, or as we have now termed it military forces, be provided in the constitution. General Melhouse felt quite strongly about this particular subject.

I should point out that the constitution that we’re working on is basically a framework of our state government. And that the military forces are certainly a part of that framework. The relationship between the state and federal regarding the National Guard seems to indicate that we’re better to make sure that we have these provisions in our constitution than leave it to the Legislature.

First of all, the federal funds will only participate in a state National Guard organization, one that is, so to speak, recognized. And this, of course, will assure that.

Secondly, the National Guard is a back-up to the federal Armed Forces. And it’s very important that we have the federal-state relationship in funding this organization. If we were to attempt to do this by ourselves, we would find it extremely expensive.

The benefits of a military force, I think, are many. There are times of not so much a military conflict as we might think with another state or with another country. However, there are times within the state when it’s necessary that there be a state military force to assist. And I would refer you to just recently a few years ago when there was the incident at Zap where the National Guard was very instrumental in resolving it.

The Committee did feel that there is a place in our constitution for establishing a state military force. And the recommendation of the Committee is that the language as we have proposed in Committee Proposal 1-10 be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the passage of Committee Report No. 1-10 as amended. No further discussion, that will open the key to record your vote. Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 94 "ayes," two "nays," two absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal 1-10 is passed and will be referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: I wonder if we could move at this time to the twelfth order of business, off the tenth?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will move to the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. I would move that Committee — excuse me — Delegate Proposal No. 2-31 be returned to the assembly from the Committee on Executive Functions. And if I get a second, I'll explain why.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

DELEGATE NETHING: The reason I'd like to do this is in order to get a proposal before the committee. I've submitted Delegate Proposal No. 2-31 regarding the matter of the state militia. And now that we have acted on it there is no reason to have this proposal in front of the committee any more. And I'd like to have it returned here so that I can then move to have permission to withdraw it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is Delegate Nothing's motion that Delegate Proposal No. 2-31 be returned to the Convention.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the proposal is now before the Convention.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. At this time I would request permission from the assembly to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-31.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-31. Are there any objections? Is there any objection? Hearing none, permission is granted to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-31.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I rise under the Rules for the privilege of explaining my vote on Proposal 1-10 —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: State your opinion.

DELEGATE PEARCE: — in which I voted no for the simple reason that the militia as presently in the constitution is all of us, all able-bodied men. I am in favor of that. The proposal would create a different body, perhaps a particularly military body or military force. I approve of the militia, not of a separate military body. That's why I voted no.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Since I'm the only other one who voted "no" I suppose I have to explain my vote simply by saying that I thought it was strictly a legislative matter and should not be in the constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President, I would move that Committee Proposals 1-30, 1-33, 1-39 be laid over one Convention day.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and seconded that Proposals, Committee Proposals 1-30, 1-33 and 1-39 be laid over one Convention day. Now is there any discussion?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I do not have those proposals, committee proposals, in my bill book. And I asked some of my surrounding people here, and they do not have them either. So I'm assuming that they are not before us since they are not in our bill books.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion? Are you ready for the question?

The question is on Saugstad's motion that Proposals, Committee Proposals No. 1-30, 1-33, 1-39 be laid over one Convention day.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and they will be laid over one day.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I had intended to make the motion to lay the two proposals over one day. We have Proposal No. 1-39, and we find now that there is a delegate proposal and this delegate would like to be heard on this matter. So I now move that Proposal No. 1-39 be returned to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-39 be returned to the Committee on Legislative Functions. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Kwako.

Is there any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And Committee Proposal No. 1-39 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: May we be on the eighth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the eighth order of business.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I'd just like to announce that there will be a meeting of the Executive Functions Committee at 7:30 in the auditorium in the Highway Building. Subject will be the reorganization of the executive branch. And four panel members that are members of that committee will speak on the subject for half an hour. And afterwards we'll have about an hour of questions and discussion. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Scheel.

Are there any further announcements? We are on the eighth order of business. The desk has some announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Finance and Taxation Committee will hear Section 1-36 of the Constitution. This is the exemption section relating to exemption from tax of schools, churches, charities. Time: 1:30 P.M. in the Blue Room, Tuesday, January 11th.

Finance and Taxation Committee will hear Committee Proposal 1-21, section 8, being Section 185 of the Constitution. Relates to state and its subdivisions and business. 1:30 P.M. in the Blue Room, Wednesday, January 12th.

Finance and Taxation Committee will hear Committee Proposal 1-21, sections 5, 6 and 7, these being Sections 182, 183, 184 and 187 of the Constitution. Relates to state bonding limits, debt limits, and majorities required to raise debt limits. 1:30 P.M. in the Blue Room, Thursday, January 13th.

Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage will hear section 14, Article I, pertaining to eminent domain at 2:30, Lewis and Clark Room, January 13th.

Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage will hear section 19, Article I, pertaining to the right of citizens to keep and bear arms at 2:00 P.M., Lewis and Clark Room, January 12th.

Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage will hear Committee Proposal 1-53 repealing section 23 of the Constitution of the State of North Dakota, pertaining to freedom to obtain employment at 2:00 P.M. in the Lewis and Clark Room, January 11th.

Executive Functions will meet on Tuesday, January 11th, at 1:15 in Rooms G-5 and 6. Proposals taken up will be 1-25, 1-26, 1-27 and 1-28.

Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands Monday, January 10th, at 1:30 P.M. in Room G-1. It will hear Committee Proposal 1-17 on trust lands, Committee Proposal 1-18, public institutions. 3:00 P.M. they will hear Committee Proposal 1-20 on corporations.

Tuesday, January 11th, in Room G-1 at 1:30 P.M. it will hear Committee Proposal 1-16 on environment.

Wednesday, January 12th, at 1:30 P.M. in Room G-1 they will hear Committee Proposal 1-15 on education, and Delegate Proposal 2-44 on State Board of Education.

On the calendar tomorrow I have one on the tenth order, that is Committee Proposal 1-19.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I didn't hear a report from our Committee on what we would be hearing. I don't know why it's not there. Evidently it wasn't turned in. But I'd like to announce for the benefit of any delegate who is interested, as well as the public, that our committee will be considering 1-11, 1-12, 1-13 and 1-14, or as much as we can of each of these, beginning at 1:30 today when we meet.

And also that we will consider any delegate proposal that relates to those particular committee proposals, as much as we can get to them. So if any of you do have a proposal in that affects those particular sections or those particular committee proposals, why we'll be glad to hear you this afternoon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Reference of Proposals.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. Could we remain on the eighth order for a minute?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to announce the Finance and Tax Committee will meet at 10:15 this morning. I presume that we are going to be completed with our morning work in a few minutes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Reference of Proposals to Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-73, introduced by Delegate Hill:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 25 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the initiative and referendum, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-73 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Fellow Delegates, that clears the calendar for today, and it also clears the desk. One thing we have to remember is that this session has to be — we have to remain in session until twelve to receive delegate proposals. So unless there is some business to come before the Convention at this time — Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes. Mr. President, perhaps I missed this. But I think that the Clerk should also state that 1-30 and 1-33 are going to be on the calendar.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: That's right. 1-30 and 1-33. I'm sorry. I have got them marked over.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I would like to announce that the Legislative Functions Committee will meet at 1:30 — will this be possible — this afternoon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: At 1:30?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: At 1:30. That will be in the Large Hearing Room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sure it will.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I would like to mention to Mr. Cart that 1-39 will be heard at 1:30.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Did I understand that when you announced that Delegate Benz phoned and said that he couldn't come that he would be automatically excused or do we need a motion to excuse him from the official meeting?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, he is automatically excused, Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Very well. That answers my question.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I wish to announce a meeting of the Executive Functions Committee this morning at 10:30 down in our usual room. That will give us a half an hour to make some phone calls and find some coffee maybe.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, did I see you — Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, I would like to announce that the Bill of Rights Committee will meet at 10:30 in the Lewis and Clark Room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I was under the impression that we had to be at ease until noon, is that correct?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: But it's still possible for our committees to meet?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Well, then I'd like to change the meeting time to 10:30 this morning.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then I will continue with my oration and say that because we cannot recess for the balance of the day, that we have to be here to receive delegate proposals up until twelve o'clock, unless there is someone else that would like the floor — Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I'd like to announce that the Judiciary Committee will meet then at 11:00 o'clock in its usual place for some preliminary discussion of our hearing this afternoon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peters.

DELEGATE PETERS: I was late for the roll call, and I wish to advise the Clerk that I am present now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Peters.

The record will show that Delegate Peters is present.

Then I will declare the Convention at ease until 11:30 this morning. Until 11:30 this morning.

(The Session adjourned at 9:53 A.M. until 11:41 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, we will continue at ease until possibly ten minutes until twelve. We only have two proposals at the moment.

(The Session adjourned at 11:42 A.M. until 11:58 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, could the record show that Delegate Sanstead is present?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The record will show that Delegate Sanstead is present.

We will be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Reference of Proposals to Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-74, introduced by Delegate Lamb:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to rights of debtors and homesteads, be created.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-74 is referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-75, introduced by Delegate Omdahl:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119 and 120 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article IV to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the judicial branch of government.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-75 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-76, introduced by Delegate Engstrom:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 25 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that three new sections of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the legislative branch of government.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-76 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-77, introduced by Delegate Kwako:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 29, 35 and 214 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that new sections to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all pertaining to legislative reapportionment.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-77 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-78, introduced by Delegates Burbidge, Aas, Baker, Bender, Benz, Berg, Binek, Burke, Butler, Byrne, Cart, Christensen, Dawson, Decker, Devine, Diehl, Engstrom, Erickson, Fallgatter, Hartl, Hernet, Hoghaug, Hougen, Huckle, Kessel, Ketchum, Knudson, Kretchmar, Kwako, Lander, Lerberg, Litten, Longmire, McElroy, McIntyre, Meidinger, Miller, Nething, Nicholas, Peters, Poulson, Quam, Roney, Rundle, Saugstad, Scheel, Solberg, Stanton, Thompson, Trenbeath, Tudor, Unruh and Wallin:

“Be is resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to non-discrimination in licensing and employment be created to read as follows:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Proposal No. 2-78 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Delegate Saugstad moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-10 be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting. Do I have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE CART: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Cart.

As many as are in favor of the motion say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President, did I understand you to say that 2-75 was being referred to the Finance and Taxation Committee?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: That's what he said.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-75; that is correct. That's the way it reads on my script here.

DELEGATE AAS: It seems to me, Mr. President, that from the heading that that should be a judiciary referral; am I right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It did sound that way to me, too, when I read it. I mean when I read it when it was right at the desk. Just one second. Maybe we've got an error.

Delegate Aas, would you move that Delegate Proposal No. 2-75 be returned to the floor of the Convention?

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President, I so move.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas moves that Delegate Proposal No. 2-75 be returned to the floor of the Convention. May I have a second?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Aubol.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Delegate Proposal 2-75 is again before the Convention.

Now the Committee Proposal — Delegate Proposal No. 2-75 is referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: May I hear the repetition of that title again? It seemed to me that it would be a Preamble, Bill of Rights. We're very happy to consider it, but we're just on the sections that deal strictly with the judges.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "That sections 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 92, 93, 94, 96, 97, 98, 100, 101, 102 —"

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: You don't need to read all the sections. Does that relate to the judicial branch article?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: ". . . all of which pertain to the judicial branch of government."

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes. Well, that's fine. It must have been 2-74 that I heard then that seemed to me shouldn't come to our committee. But that was sent to the Judiciary Committee?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 2-74. Delegate Longmire?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would you move that Committee Proposal No. 2-74 be returned to the floor of the Convention?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I so move, Mr. President.

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved and it has been seconded. The question is before you that Delegate Proposal No. 2-74 be returned to the floor of the Convention.

As many as are in favor of that motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the Delegate Proposal is now before you.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Would the Clerk please just read what that refers to? Not all the sections.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: ". . . pertaining to rights of debtors and home-steads, be created."

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes. Mr. President, it sounded to me, and still does, like that should be in the Preamble and Bill of Rights Committee. And if you want to accept the motion, I move that it be re-referred to that committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved that Delegate Proposal No. 2-74 be referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage. Now do we have a second?

DELEGATE LAMB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been seconded by Delegate Lamb.

There being no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Proposal 2-74 is with the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Anything further at the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: One announcement.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: One announcement at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I would like to announce that the lunch cart is now in Memorial Hall.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further to come before the Convention?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: May I ask that the Education, Resources and Public Lands hearing on environment is tomorrow afternoon to call attention to anyone that is interested in that today? Hearing is tomorrow at 1:30, G-1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

Anything further?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move that we do now stand adjourned until nine A.M. January 11th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved that the Convention now stand adjourned until nine A.M., January 11th. As many as are in favor of that motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The Convention is then adjourned.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 12:10 P.M., Monday, January 10, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Tuesday, January 11, 1972.)

VOLUME VII

(January 11, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The following proceedings commenced at 9:08 A.M. as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is Reverend Richard Hagestuen, First Lutheran Church of Mandan.

REV. RICHARD HAGESTUEN: Dear God and Heavenly Father.

We ask Your presence today in our individual lives as we deal with issues that concern the lives of many. We pray that Your will might be done individually and corporately. We see Your hand at work in the history of mankind. Help make us aware and desirous of that will which is Yours. You are with these men and these women as they consider the Constitution of this State which will help them to be Your servants. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be on the third order of business — Roll Call. The Clerk will open the key and we will establish our presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? If so, the key will be closed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Aubol, Benz, Hartl, Litten, Paulson and Peterson.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Roll call discloses 92 present, six absent. A quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order of business — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal for the 7th day of January, 1972, and finds the same to be correct.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Paulson moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Revision and Correction of the Journal. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE POULSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted.

We will be on the sixth order of business — consideration of amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendments to Proposal 1-34 as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions as printed on page 135 of the Journal are:

On line 8 after the word "officials" insert "legislators," delete all of lines 11 through 15.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I move that the amendments in Proposal 1-34 be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-34 be adopted. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I believe I assigned the explanation of the amendments to one of the committee members. I don't have the list here with me.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: The amendments on this particular proposal, line 8, to placing of the word "legislators" behind the — at the end of the line. And it is for the purpose of specifically including the legislators in the definition of employees and officials who are to be governed by any public duty in this part of the Constitution.

The second portion of the amendment is the deletion of lines 11 through 15. And our committee, on the strong majority vote, decided to take that out of there because the wording of the language in that section is difficult to interpret, and also we feel that it should be a legislative prerogative. It would be fine, but the conflict of interest will be for state officials and legislators.

I move for approval of the amendment.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: The committee was fairly well divided on this report to amend as the committee had introduced the measure with that sentence on it in the first place. However, since I plan to add a little additional language to this, I plan to resist the amendment today but not go into a lengthy discussion of this until we get on the tenth order tomorrow.

And I would like to refer the delegates to Delegate Proposal 2-34 so that they can see what language I am going to propose that we add to this present proposal when it comes up on the tenth order tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Omdahl.

Is there any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments. Committee Proposal 1-34. Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, a question of inquiry to the committee. Does the last part of this provision mean that no legislator who may be an attorney can contact a state department or a state official or state employee about any matter on behalf of his clients?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: We are literally speaking, Delegate Longmire. That would be the effect.

One of the reasons that we could not see leaving that clause in there, it almost precludes any member of the legislature, legislative assembly — whether it is two houses or unicameral makes no difference — from conducting any business with the State of North Dakota or any departments of that. Because any little thing you do could be challenged as having been in the position of influencing that agency, that individual or the legislature in favor of your client.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I want it clear to the delegates as to what this is doing and what this would mean in that case. You would almost eliminate any attorney from serving in — or perhaps other professional people, too, that might have some contact with the State — from serving in either house of the legislature, or one house if we should have one house.

Now I know that we've had similar provisions in the past, but in connection with any attorney's practice there will be some time or another when he will have to contact some state official or some state department about somebody, sometime. And if you do that you are eliminating this class of people from serving in the legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Thank you, Mr. President.

I rise to speak and to record my presence and to point out to Delegate Longmire that if he adopts the amendment as proposed by the committee the grounds for his protest are completely gone. That's why we're taking the language out, so we don't put that ban on legislators.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I would like to ask why Section 40, some abbreviation, shouldn't be retained in the present Constitution?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would some member of the committee answer Delegate Cart's question?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President. We recognize that Sections 38, 40 and 43 of Article II are not in repeal as of yet but are affected by this change. And we believe that Section 29, as it is proposed, is preferable language over Section 40 as this would not be used.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Butler.

Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-34.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted. And Proposal No. 1-34 will go on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

Without objection, we'll be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Referral of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-87, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article 56 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to revenue from gasoline and motor vehicle registration and license taxes."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-87 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-88, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 44, 51, 53, 54, 57, 59, 60 and 62 of Article II, section 199 of Article XIV and Article 75 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-88 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

We'll be on the tenth order of business — First Reading and First Passage of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: First for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-19 introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 210 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article IX to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to appropriation of waters."

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 210 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2. Article IX to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE IX

"WATERS

"Section 1. All surface and subsurface water shall forever remain the property of the people and subject to appropriation for beneficial uses as provided by law."

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: May we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order of business — Motions and Resolutions.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, I move that Proposal 1-19 be re-referred to the Committee on Education and Resources and Public Lands.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger moves —

DELEGATE MILLER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — that Delegate Proposal 1-19 be re-referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, we have scheduled additional hearings on this proposal for 3:30 this afternoon, and we would appreciate having it returned to the committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-19 be re-referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it. And it will be re-referred to the Committee.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-30.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-30, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 211 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 27 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the oath of office.

“SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 211 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

“SECTION 2. Section 27 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“ARTICLE II

“Section 27. All elected officials shall, before they enter on the duties of their respective offices, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: ‘I do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of North Dakota; that that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office — blank — according to the best of my ability, so help me God.’ (If an oath), ‘under pains and penalties of perjury’ (if an affirmation), and no other oath or declaration shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust.)”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: The Legislative Functions Committee unanimously approved 1-30. And to clarify why we have made only one change, if you know section 211 of the present Constitution, why it indicates there or states there that “members of the Legislative Assembly and Judicial Departments, except such inferior officers as may be by law exempted, shall, before they enter on the duties of their respective offices . . .” and so forth. We have merely made this one small change in creating section 27. And that is “All elected officials shall . . .” So that’s the only change from the one that is now in the present instrument. And we feel, and the Committee felt unanimously that this was much better wording instead of spelling out each one of the specific areas and officers who had to take this particular oath. And this covers all of those that should take the oath before entering on the office. So the Committee unanimously recommends its approval.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion? Any question?

DELEGATE O’TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O’Toole.

DELEGATE O’TOOLE: I certainly have no opposition to this, but I would like to direct a question to Delegate Solberg, if I may.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: I was wondering why the committee left in the details of the oath. Would it not, since we are trying to shorten the Constitution and the verbiage in it, could we not have just allowed the oath to have been made by the legislative body? Is there some reason for leaving this in?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: We have, I believe, shortened it from the one that is in section 211 of the present Constitution. We have merely said, "All elected officials shall." Then we have not tampered with the oath whatsoever, because at the desire of an individual being sworn in, why we have allowed him to take the oath under God or in affirmation under pains and penalties of perjury. So there is no change. And we don't think that any shortening of the oath should be provided for in the Constitution because this then becomes a uniform thing for all state officials and other officials that are elected, regardless of what area of government they may serve. And hence we feel that this must be said this way so that it is uniform without the entire State.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Solberg.

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. There is a typographical error in the proposal printing in line 6. I move that the Roman numeral "II" be stricken and replaced with Roman numeral XVII".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner moves that the Roman numeral — "22"?

DELEGATE SINNER: 2.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — "II" be stricken, and that it be replaced by the Roman numeral "XVII."

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And it has been seconded by Delegate Kwako. Is there any further discussion on the amendment?

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I'm sorry. May the motion include line 1 as well? I missed that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the second agree to the addition?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner? Question: Does the same typographical appear in two places?

DELEGATE SINNER: Yes.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Line 1 and 6.

DELEGATE SINNER: 1 and 6.

DELEGATE CART: Three places.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, now let's be certain.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: It's in line 1, which is the repeal of the old article. And that was in Article XVII. The new language will be in Article II, so the Roman numeral "II" in line 2 and line 8 is correct. It's only misprinted in lines 1 and 6.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is that agreed now? The question is on the amendment as proposed by Delegate Sinner.

As many as are in favor of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I note in line 19 the word "test" does not appear in the new version. Might we have an explanation of that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: We felt that the last line, "and no other oath or declaration shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust," that this should be adequate without spelling out the specifics of the "test".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Has that completed the adoption of the amendments to this Proposal 1-30?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would now move that the Rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal 1-30 be placed at the head of the calendar for final passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that the Rules be suspended and that Delegate Proposal — or Committee Proposal No. 1-33 be placed at the head of the calendar for final passage as amended. The question is on suspending the Rules and placing Committee Proposal No. 1-33 at the head of the calendar for final action.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I apparently misspoke. I intended to say Committee Proposal 1-30, and it should be on first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on Committee Proposal 1-30 as amended for final passage.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: First passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: For first passage. I'm going to get that right yet. The question then before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-30 as amended. Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, those in favor of it will vote "aye;" those opposed vote "no." I will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 95 "ayes," no "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. So the proposal has been passed for the first time.

Next for consideration will be Committee Proposal No. 1-33.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH. That on the board is supposed to be 1-33. Evidently the one 3 is not registering.

Committee Proposal No. 1-33, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 197 and 198 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that sections 23 and 24 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all pertaining to impeachment.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 197 and 198 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2. Sections 23 and 24 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 23. All officers not liable to impeachment shall be subject to removal as may be provided by law for misconduct, malfeasance, crime or misdemeanor in office, or because of chronic and continuing inability to perform the duties of office.

"Section 24. No officer shall exercise the duties of his office after he shall have been impeached and before his acquittal. No person shall be tried on impeachment before he shall have been served with a copy thereof, at least twenty days previous to the day set for trial. No person shall be liable to impeachment twice for the same offense."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President, by assignment of the Committee Chairman my duty is to explain these complicated sections. I will have a technical motion to make to add some amended sections, but first I would like to explain that section 23 is in substance section 197 of the Constitution, except that the last phrase "or because of chronic and continuing inability to perform the duties of office" take the place of the present words "habitual drunkenness or gross incompetency". There is a subtle difference there.

Section 24 is the rephrasing of present section 198, 200, 201, embodying the three ideas, that after he has been impeached before his acquittal he shall not exercise his duties of his office; that he must have the impeachment provision twenty days prior to trial, and he cannot be impeached twice.

Now I have been informed by our good Chairman that it would be in order for me at this time to move some very technical amendments merely adding repealant clauses. Am I in order on this order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You are in order, Delegate Pearce. This is on the tenth order.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Thank you.

I move that the Proposal 1-33 be amended as follows:

On line 1 after the numeral "197," delete the word "and" and insert a comma. And after the numeral "198" inserting the numerals "200" and "201". And after the word "Article" delete the Roman numeral "II" and insert in lieu thereof the Roman number "XIV".

On line 6 after the numeral "197" delete the word "and" and insert in lieu thereof a comma, and after the numeral "198" insert "200" and "201". And after the word "Article" delete the Roman numeral "II", inserting in lieu thereof the Roman numeral "XIV", and renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Solberg.

Now, any discussion? Discussion?

DELEGATE PEARCE: The purpose of the amendments is to add the two sections, 200 and 201, which were inadvertently overlooked at the time of the printing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: May I offer an amendment to the amendment that following number "198", insert a comma? I think we've mentioned that.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Yes. Perhaps I didn't.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: But there should be a comma following the numeral "198."

DELEGATE SINNER: Second.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Then the numbers "200" and "201".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have an amendment to the amendment. The amendment has been seconded by Delegate Sinner. The question is on the amendment to the amendment.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President. I have a question about the language of section 2 in this proposal. And actually also about the language in section 2 of 1-30.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, I believe we are on the amendment to the amendment. That being, you're out of order.

The question before the Convention is on the amendment to the amendment as offered by Delegate Saugstad. I believe it was the insertion of a number of commas.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: One comma.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: One comma.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the amendment is adopted.

Now we are back on the amendment as offered by Delegate Pearce as amended.

Now, Delegate Baker, does your question come on this amendment or is it on the subject matter, on the main motion?

DELEGATE BAKER: Well, I'm not exactly sure. It may be what I'm interested in would just be further amendment. And if amendment is still open then I would be glad to wait.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It will be following the adoption of Delegate Pearce's amendment.

DELEGATE BAKER: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question now before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Pearce and amended by Delegate Saugstad.

As many as are in favor of the adoption of that amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the amendments are adopted.

Now, Delegate Baker, if you wish to further amend.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I'm not sure that I wish to further amend. Perhaps if I tell you what I have in mind some member of the Committee or some other delegate can straighten it out.

I'm referring to the language in section 2 of 1-33. And this same sort of language, although not exactly the same language, occurs in section 2 of 1-30, which we passed. And it creates certain numbered sections of a particular numbered article. And I'm wondering what that — what effect that has in the light of the rule which provides that the Style and Drafting Committee has the authority and the responsibility to establish the order and to number the various sections of the new document that this body will produce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: If I might answer the question.

The sections 23 and 24 I think came about because they were sections in our original Proposal 1-7. We have to have some section. I have no qualms at all that, if the Constitutional Convention has not already done so, it will authorize the Committee on Style and Drafting to completely renumber the sections of what we are passing as the language in the section. And if it takes action, and I think perhaps it should before the Convention is through, to specifically empower the changing of section numbers, I'm sure the Convention will do that. It should give us no problem at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker, does that answer your question?

DELEGATE BAKER: Yes.

DELEGATE PEARCE: At this time, Mr. President, may I move that the Rules be temporarily suspended and Proposal 1-30 be incorporated, engrossed and placed on the calendar for first reading and passage. 33, excuse me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce moves that the Rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal No. 1-33 be placed on the calendar for final passage as amended. And a second?

DELEGATE AAS: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas seconded the motion.

Now is there any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-33. I will open the key and you will record your vote.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I just want to report in, sir.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 95 "ayes," no "nays," three absent and not voting. So the proposal is passed.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: As a point of inquiry, I didn't hear the vote taken on the motion to suspend the Rules, but I assume that the record shows that it carried. We then went into voting on the bill. But maybe I just didn't hear it. And I'm sure the record will show that the motion carried.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Did we neglect to vote on the adoption of the amendments?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No. Suspension of the Rules.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: On the one on the suspension of the Rules.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Placed on the first passage.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I was hoping that our secretary up there could straighten this out without recalling your attention, but since we started it, you did not vote on the suspension of the Rules on 1-30.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: On 1-30?

DELEGATE HERNETT: I don't think so.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, for the record that was voted on. Stan Saugstad's motion was voted on on 1-30. But I could be in error on 1-33.

For the record, on Delegate Pearce's motion that we do suspend the Rules, being Committee Proposal No. 1-33, properly be engrossed and placed on the calendar for final passage.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, are you on that matter now?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are going to vote.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes. Mr. President, if you wanted to be technically correct — this is nit picking, I suppose — our motion now would be to reconsider action by which we voted on it before the Rules were suspended. But if you want the proper motions to get us back technically, I'd be glad to make them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, I think, Delegate Longmire, that inasmuch as the proposal passed and everyone voted, there wasn't a vote in opposition to the proposal, that I do think that we move to reconsider and go back, that we would be nit picking.

So on that basis, I'm going to ask the Convention to adopt Delegate Pearce's motion. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And now the record is correct. I'm sorry for neglecting to call your attention to voting on a suspension of the Rules.

Anything further at the desk?

We will be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-3 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-3, that the proposal be indefinitely postponed? Is there any discussion? The question is on the indefinite postponement of Committee Proposal No. 1-3.

Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Yes. The Committee was in unanimous feeling that this should be indefinitely postponed.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: To further explain, we have submitted individual proposals relating to each of the sections contained in Committee Proposal 1-3.

We have individual repealers. It appears to be the sentiment of the Convention that repealers should be handled separately.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Any further discussion?

The question then is on the adoption of the Committee Report that Committee Proposal No. 1-3 be indefinitely postponed. Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And Committee Proposal No. 1-3 be indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-5 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption that Committee Proposal No. 1-5, that proposal be indefinitely postponed. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: If I'm not mistaken, first paragraph of section 203 is part of the compact with the United States. Is that not correct? Can that be repealed?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Pardon?

DELEGATE AUBOL: And can that be repealed without consent of the United States and Congress?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I don't think it can be.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: No.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Our committee has originally suggested in that the wording of the first sentence of the compact is somewhat repealed in the Bill of Rights, that this first sentence be repealed. It is the feeling, however, of the Judicial Committee that this compact not be changed, can never be changed, and that they will submit wording referring to this compact. And so the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage felt that discretion was the better part of valor and that we should not delete this first sentence and that it should stand for future reference for our Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

The question then is on the Committee Proposal 1-5, that it be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President. Our committee has given a lot of thought to this. If we repeal it at this time where does our committee stand when we bring the exact words back to you and we present the compact? I think it would be out of order repealing this at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug, this would not be repealing. This is killing a proposal. So I don't see how you could be repealing anything by defeating a proposal.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Sorry I made the inquiry so loud.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the indefinite postponement of Proposal No. 1-5. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And Proposal No. 1-5 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-6 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-6, that the proposal be indefinitely postponed. Any discussion?

DELEGATE FIEDLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fiedler.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: The Committee recommends indefinite postponement and that it be resubmitted in separate sections.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And Proposal No. 1-6 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-18 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-18, that it be adopted as a do pass. Is there any question? Any discussion? The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-18, that the proposal do pass.

Hearing no discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" — Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I just wanted to make inquiry of the Chairman, I would assume, if there is conflict with Section 2 of Article VII.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. Cart, I don't think so. Mr. President, I don't believe so. The committee at length discussed both of those areas. We had no one appear at previous committee meetings. And we posted it for hearings yesterday, and no one appeared.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question then is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal 1-18, that it do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-18 will go on the tenth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-23 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended, and when amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Haugen moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-23, that the proposal be amended and then that it do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-23 will go on the sixth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-46 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-46. That it do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-46, that it do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal will go on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-47 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the same be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report No. 1-47, that the proposal do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-47 will be placed on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-48 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Proposal No. 1-48, that the proposal do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-48 will be on the tenth order of business for consideration tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-49 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the same be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report that Committee Proposal No. 1-49 do pass. Is there any discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the report.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Proposal No. 1-49 will go on the tenth order for consideration tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-50 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the same be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-50, that it do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-50 will be on the tenth order of business for consideration tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-51 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the same be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-51, that it do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, the question: As many as are in favor of the adoption of the Committee Report will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is adopted, and Committee Proposal No. 1-51 will be on the tenth order of business for consideration tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-52 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report of Proposal No. 1-52, recommending that it do pass. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Section 25 of the Declaration of Rights is one of the most important sections in the Declaration of Rights. If we delete this section, we will, in effect, be saying that our Constitution does not have definite meaning. The provision — I'll read it to you — section 21: "The provisions of this constitution are mandatory and prohibitory unless, by express words they are declared to be otherwise." This State, since the beginning of statehood, has had this section in its background all the time. And I certainly think that it's unwise to repeal this section from our Constitution and lay the door open to the charge that our Constitution, the new one, will not have specific meaning. And I think we should retain this by all means.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart, I believe that you will have time on the tenth order tomorrow we all will have time on the tenth order tomorrow to further discuss this proposal. This is merely adopting the committee report.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, it's usual to explain these matters. And I was on that committee actually at the same time as Delegate Cart just merely asked an explanation from a committee member.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President, our committee has gone over this and studied it with help of the Staff. And we have found that in wanting to strike out some of the surplus wordage in our Constitution that this is a section which is now firmly rooted and well-accepted in our present system of justice, and there are quite a few Supreme Court and other court cases which support our position.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question then is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-52, that it do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." I believe the report lost. I think it failed.

DELEGATE CART: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Division has been called for. Members stand. That's a sufficient number. The key will be opened and you will indicate your preference.

Those that are in favor of adopting the report now will vote "yes;" those opposed will vote "no." The clerk will open the key and you will record your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 72 - 22.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: There were 72 "ayes" and 22 "nays", so the report is adopted.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Just for my own information, and I am assuming for information of others here, if this motion had lost — now this was a motion just to put this on the calendar, wasn't it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: This was a question of adopting the Committee Report and to place the matter before the Convention; that's true.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: If it fails, what happens to that proposal then?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, I would imagine that we would send it right back to the committee. That's what I would do with it.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I'm wondering if all delegates understood this was not a time to argue pro and con on the motion; isn't that right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is true.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I would point out that the time to argue on any of these things is any time we please under our Rules. We have changed the Rules so many times. And I think a delegate is entitled to know 24 hours in advance why the committee did this. I asked it and I found out. I know what they were thinking. It may or may not have influenced my — the way I vote tomorrow, but I have the right at any time to ask. And I think that this is the way we've been operating. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson, it was not my intention to infer, and I don't believe that I did, that you couldn't ask questions. And if I didn't make that impression — if I did give you that impression, then I am in error. You are perfectly at ease, I hope, and if you do wish at any time to ask a question on the subject matter that is being discussed or on parliamentary procedure or anything else, I sure hope that all the delegates feel free to ask questions at any time.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Frankly, I think I understood the process, Mr. President. But what I did wonder, realizing that this was going on the calendar, do the people that vote — and I have to clarify this procedure before we go any further — do the people that vote against putting it on the calendar mean they want to appear for a hearing, or how do they feel they want the committee to reconsider this? Are they going to go to the committee and influence them and every time it comes up will they again send it back to committee? I mean I can't —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: This —

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I mean I can't understand why we don't let a proposal coming out of committee stay on the calendar unless we specifically hope to go to the committee and argue against it there and then get back on the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe we have to say that delegates vote against adopting committee reports for many, many reasons. But basically in the procedure that we try to follow at the time — now the amendments are argued under the sixth order. Under the sixth order of business is when we argue the amendments to the proposal. And then when the amendments are either adopted or they are defeated, the bill or the proposal goes on the tenth order. And that is the time that the amendment can be made from the floor or the main argument on the proposal normally comes up at that time.

DELEGATE CART: Wouldn't the situation be simply this: If the report had been rejected then the item, 1-52 — whatever it was — would have been in the possession of the committee and they would have taken further action to bring it back and make further report?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Cart, I believe that's in line with what I've stated. That when Delegate Hendrickson asked me what the result would have been had there been a "no" vote, I said I thought I would send it back to the committee.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I think the delegates might keep in mind that we have a rule that a committee cannot kill a proposal. So if you are opposed to something and you want to ultimately dispose of it, you'll have to let it on the board sometime. Because I believe it has to come back into the committee when we reject a report. Some day, however, you'll have to let it come on the floor so you can kill it, if you are against it, or amend it to suit us.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: May we be on the eighth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order of business.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Tonight our public information meeting is going to be in the Highway Building again at 7:30. It will be on two questions or considerations from the Legislative Functions Committee; one will be initiative and referendum, and the other on the same night, each having about fifteen minutes on a panel discussion, questions afterwards, will be the reapportionment. And moderating will be Delegate Dawson. Thank you.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: As long as we're on the eighth order of business, will the record show that Delegate Aubol is present?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Let the record show that Delegate Aubol is present.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Will the record please show that Delegate Hartl is present?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl is present.

For the benefit of our visitors in the gallery, the delegates that just asked that the record show that they are present, they missed roll call this morning. And we have no way — unless they make a speech or they do something to get their name in the record, we have no way of recording that they were present. So that's why that they were making these announcements.

We will be back on the ninth order of business — fifth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-54 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-52 —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 54.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — 54.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-54.

DELEGATE CART: Don't have it on our books.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, in that this is adopting a report and it is merely putting it on the calendar for consideration tomorrow, and they tell us the printed proposal will be available this afternoon, unless there are some objections from the floor we will adopt the report and it will go on the calendar in the morning. Are there any objections?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President: The proper time for us to make amendments is when the committee report comes in really —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No.

DELEGATE SINNER: — because if we do it on the tenth order then we've got to suspend the Rules in order to pass it. Isn't that correct?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Rules provide that the only place where a delegate can make an amendment is on the tenth order.

DELEGATE SINNER: Okay.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: For the information of the delegates, this Committee Proposal No. 1-54 concerns the repeal of section 209, which prohibits the child — the labor of children under twelve years of age in mines, factories and workshops.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Tudor.

If we do not wish to consider this proposal, will someone move that we lay it over one day?

DELEGATE SINNER: Bring it out.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Bring it out.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question then is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-54, that it do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Proposal No. 1-54 will be on the calendar for action tomorrow.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Do I understand that this now cleans up the business on this order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, sir, this does clean up the business.

DELEGATE BAKER: May we be on the eighth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the eighth order of business.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I wish to move at this time that Committee Proposal 1-4, which passed on first reading Friday, that this be returned from the Committee on Style and Drafting. And if I get a second, I will explain.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion was seconded by Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, Committee Proposal No. 1-4 would repeal Article I of the amendments to the Constitution of the State of North Dakota. And it received substantial vote on first passage on Friday, at which time the merits of the proposal were pretty well discussed. And I don't wish to open that again at this time, but simply use that division of opinion as an illustration for the reason for asking that this be returned at this time.

I think that a majority, at least a majority of this body, recognizes the subject of the elimination in the Constitution of prohibition on lotteries and other games of chance contained in that article is sensitive to some degree. Some of us feel it is more sensitive than others. But to some degree I think it must be clear this is a sensitive matter.

The people who have the final say on the work that we do here have expressed themselves several times in the past on this general subject. And I think all of us can recall the heat that is generated by this kind of a question on the ballot, whenever it comes up. And so therefore we can expect that the inclusion of this kind of a change in our Constitution will produce some kind of heat, some kind of vigorous, strong debate on both sides of the question.

And inasmuch as the law of probability will produce a number of other questions more — with more or less heat, I hope that we can in some fashion separate these questions aside and give a little further consideration to them than would ordinarily be the case if they passed on first reading, went directly to Style and Drafting, came back late in the Convention for final approval of any changes that might be suggested by that committee, or if nothing is wrong with them technically, to not come back at all perhaps for any action by this body again. So that we might find ourselves at the end of the Convention with a sizeable number — I mean a large number, like twenty or thirty or more — of these sensitive or semi-sensitive questions that could produce a real problem.

Now as you know, there's been a lot of conversation about procedure here for set-asides. Questions that will be presented separate on the ballot, or the most controversial issues will be set aside from the rest of the material so as to give a better chance to passage of that which is not particularly sensitive, but just changes almost everyone agrees should be made.

However, we do not as yet have this procedure established. The Committee on Rules has been studying the problem, and they will produce a report soon now. And then that will furnish us some kind of an idea of how we might go about separating these obvious controversial or somewhat sensitive issues from the other body of the document that we produce when the time comes.

What I am suggesting now is that we return the Committee Proposal 1-4 from Style and Drafting, then reconsider our action, then put it at the bottom of the calendar and do nothing further at this point until we find out what sort of vehicle there may be available for possibly — not certainly — but possibly setting up this question, among others, as a separate item for the people to vote on.

The reason that I raise the question at this time is that this is the second day after the passage on first reading of this proposal. And if some reconsideration is desirable — if reconsideration is desirable at all, we can do it today with a simple majority vote. After today, under our Rules, it would take a two-thirds vote to reconsider. That's the reason for bringing it up at this time. And if there is any doubt about the — about the sensitivity of this matter, I hope that delegates who realize that it is and who have not spoken before on that particular facet will speak now.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I would like to oppose this suggestion from Delegate Baker. I do not believe that this is a sensitive issue, only as we ourselves make it a sensitive issue. We have all heard the discussion of the many facets of this article which are now going on in North Dakota. The committee simply feels that the people of North Dakota have reached the maturity where their legislature may decide these problems, these things, on a day-to-day basis or on a biennial basis. And I would ask you not to reconsider this and send it back to the committee.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: I oppose the motion. I believe it is premature. I believe Mr. Baker is trying to anticipate and circumvent the Rules Committee. We are here to make an instrument. And if every so-called sensitive issue is called back and held in abeyance we will never get through with our work. I would ask that the delegates vote down the proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: I also resent the motion. I don't believe that we can have fifteen, twenty set-aside issues. And if this is the mood of the Convention, that we do have fifteen, twenty set-aside issues, we might as well have two hundred — some set-aside issues. I think it's too early at this time to make any determination that there are any set-aside issues. All we are doing is advocating more set-aside issues by this attempt. I therefore resist the motion as put to the floor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman, I likewise resist bringing this motion back. Because I think that every motion that we're going to have is going to be a sensitive issue. And I think that we have to realize that fact that everything that we do is before the public and very sensitive.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on Delegate Baker's motion that the Committee Proposal No. 1-4 be returned to the Convention floor from the Committee on Styling and Drafting.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Members of the Convention. I'm not going to oppose it to stall. I voted against it yesterday, I believe it was. Some of the delegates may have voted for this without realizing all the implications. There's one if a church — a church organization and some of the lodges that are using these methods now will lose their illegal status if this is passed, at least the Legislature would be entitled to — would be enabled to remove them. Now here is the case at the moment. And I'm in an area where we have lots and lots of gamblers, we are used to gambling on the weather all the time anyway. I'm not speaking out on moral grounds on this. But supposing you have a big celebration and the State's Attorney won't say anything because you're a lodge or a church. Now anyone would be able to put on a doing that same night in another hall. So that illegal protection that they now have will be lost. And, anyway, I opposed years ago the horse racing, the gambling set-up. Whenever you get gambling you have people who are a little less than honest. And you can't always pay the officials enough to keep things lined up. And if you recall, any time — I believe any time in history that a gambling proposition has been up before the voters, I believe they have rejected it. I can recall of two in the last few years that were turned down by decisive margins. And I would support this motion to reconsider. I thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, now we're not moving to reconsider; we are only moving to bring the proposal back to the Convention floor. I've heard the motion talked on here as being reconsidered. That's not the question before the body.

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I have a question. The statement was made that after today it would take a two-thirds vote. And am I correct that as long as we operate under the temporary rules, those rules could be suspended and it could be brought back by a majority vote up until such time as the permanent rules are adopted?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I, too, would like to speak in favor of the proposal, motion, call it whatever you will. I think that this is an extremely sensitive area. I don't think that everything we are considering here is that sensitive. I think you cannot forget that 76,000 people voted against pari-mutuel betting in the State of North Dakota. And if we are going to confront the people in the State of North Dakota, I think we ought to know this Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment? The question is on Delegate Baker's motion.

Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President, perhaps what I have to say is not exactly germane to the motion either, but it can't be said unless this motion passes.

I do support Delegate Baker's motion. After we passed this proposal last Friday I was reflecting on what Delegate Sinner said at the time about organized gambling interests. And I looked up in Dr. Robinson's history of North Dakota the reason why this amendment was originally added to our instrument. It was the result of some of the events of the very first Legislature of North Dakota.

At the time there was an organized gambling set-up, the Louisiana Lottery, which was chartered in that state; gave prizes of approximately $15 million per year. Over the years this organization became very corrupt. They lost their Louisiana charter as of 1893.

North Dakota was a new state. They thought they'd move into North Dakota and get started before the Louisiana charter played out. A bill was introduced in the first Legislature, passed the Senate by approximately two-thirds vote.

The governor, Miller, our first governor, became excited and worried about what was going on. He imported a couple of Pinkerton detectives from the East who came out and circulated among the House members in the guise of reporters. These gentlemen found out that bribery and corruption was going on in attempts to influence the House Members. Before the thing came to a vote they exposed themselves as detectives. In other words, they blackmailed House Members. The thing was defeated. And the next Legislature passed this amendment which was added to our Constitution.

It's kind of interesting to speculate what the early history of North Dakota might have been if we'd had a one-house Legislature in 1890.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: After listening to some of the arguments on this, I voted against the repeal of this the other day. And I realize the legal implications of it. I think when we voted on it we also realized at the same time that we were giving a mandate to a Legislature to write a new lottery law which permits churches and lodges and everybody else that holds these. In fact, it practically instructs them to do so. Because it says it is not possible to enforce the law the way it is now written in the Constitution.

I wonder what would happen if on our highways — anybody driving down to this meeting today or driving home and back here over the week-end — had anybody pass them that was going over the speed limit. I wonder what would happen to our highway department if all of a sudden they started arresting everyone that went one mile an hour over the speed limit. And then you decided to instruct the Legislature to prevent that happening, so they would always write a law that said you can go five miles an hour over the speed limit, and then ten miles an hour over the speed limit. And now with the interstates I'm sure that we all wouldn't even have to have an Indianapolis race to develop our race cars.

I believe the test of this thing is not in the enforceability of it, but what has been the result of it. I don't think there's been any particular danger or harm done. Because you can't enforce a law against having a bingo game in a church or having a punch bowl at the Elks Club. I think the Internal Revenue handles it if it gets out of hand. They are looking for all kinds of money, and they'll find it.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: I voted against this repeal the other day. I want to support Delegate Baker's motion. I know that we are faced with problems of lack of enforcement. There's no question that it's a problem in any community. However, I don't believe that we can take the attitude that because we are unable to handle a situation that we legalize it. And I firmly believe that if we repeal this section or if it is carried through, we are not going to have less gambling in any community, but we are going to have more. So I would mightly support Delegate Baker's motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. I have to support Delegate Baker's motion. I would hope that I didn't — expect, rather, that we'd get into the discussion on the merits or demerits of it, but just simply to keep this in the light to give us a little more thought in this regard. Because you can't erase the fact that it is on a division. I have had calls from home on this thing. I have talked to delegates that have a little question mark in their mind in this regard. And I think probably we should keep it alive before it requires two-thirds vote to get it back.

I realize the tremendous circumstances that the State's Attorneys in this state are under under the present situation. But the same situation is going to prevail if it's in the statute. I can realize what is going to happen to the Legislatures every session. But my main objection is to taking it out of the Constitution, would be my main objection. As long as it is in that Constitution, the big, bad gambling situation primarily from outside this state will be influenced and be hesitant about stepping in. And this is why I'd like to see this thing kept alive for a little bit longer and let us think about it.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I, too, support Delegate Baker's motion. I want to clarify in my own mind, and perhaps some of the delegates' minds, I think what this does is only bring it back and place it on the bottom of the calendar for one consideration; and that is until we find out what the rules are for an alternate proposal. I think that's what we have to consider. If some of the delegates here think this might — might, just might, have to be an alternate proposal, this is the thing we're considering. So I support Delegate Baker's motion. And I think this is what it does, it places it back on the bottom of the calendar. And when we find out what the machinery is —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase, you are in error.

DELEGATE CHASE: Excuse me. Is that right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, no, Delegate Chase. The question that is before the Convention is that the Proposal No. 1-4 be returned to the Convention from the Committee on Style and Drafting. At the moment we are not to consider further action until — it is presumed that that's what's going to happen. But let's not get too far ahead of ourselves.

DELEGATE CHASE: Okay. Thank you. I presume then that this is what might happen, that it be placed at the bottom of the calendar until the Rules Committee permanently establishes what the procedures shall be for an alternate proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: I voted against repeal of lotteries because I live near Montana and have seen the effect of all sorts of gambling being prevalent.

I would support Delegate Baker's position and hope that it would be returned to the Convention and would go to the foot of the calendar eventually. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. I will speak in opposition to the motion because if Mr. Baker's proposal is merely to place this section in a proposal or in a position to determine if it's sensitive enough to be a set-aside issue, that that could be done with another motion. We've argued the merits of this, which I don't know if it's proper or not, but I will also argue the merits.

I'm a State's Attorney, in a position that Mr. Thompson's in, some of the others have discussed. I have been in a position where we have gone out and shut down all of the gambling in Nelson County. We went out, took the bingo cards away from little old ladies, we told the school athletic clubs that they could not sell their half of beef, everything that we could think of, punch boards under the bars. We did this for about a year and a half. Well, at the end of that time we had a delegate from Nelson County down to the Legislature proposing that the laws be changed. This was done; there was a law introduced to allow non-profit organizations to engage in lotteries with certain limits.

Now, I would suggest that if the Convention retains this in the Constitution that we are giving a mandate to the Attorney General and all of the State's Attorneys in the State that this law be enforced, period. That we can't wink at this provision. If this is not what we want, then let's take it out or change it to recognize what's going on.

Now to answer Delegate Scheel's question about highway law or enforcement of the speed limit, I don't feel that we put these officers out there to be a judge and a jury. They are out there to enforce the law; not to interpret it, not to decide that one mile or five miles or ten miles is all right. This is why we have courts, and this is why we have — excuse me — laws. So I feel that this matter should not be reconsidered at this time.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just one moment. Delegate Kessel, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE KESSEL: Yes. I rise to support Delegate Baker's motion.

And I, as a State's Attorney in Sargent County for over twenty years, am going to disagree with the previous speaker. They are going to test you, they are going to try everything. If they know that you're going to enforce it, you shall have no more trouble. And if this body gives a mandate that this is what the majority of the delegates want, the Attorney General then and the State's Attorneys can enforce it and there will be no problem.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President, I support the motion of Delegate Baker. I think that if we have not yet decided whether or not we can place this on the — on a ballot as a separate issue, this is one of the problems with which the committee is concerned. And certainly we're not here necessarily to decide if we're all gamblers or non-gamblers. But let us remember that if we bring in legal gambling we also bring in the possibility of bringing in some outside gambling forces, we bring in the possibility of bringing in some outside problems that the State's Attorneys are not now facing. They might be facing some more severe problems than they are at the present time with the minor gambling offenses which they are encountering. And certainly if we are going to speak to the people and respond to the people, then we should take a look at what has been done in some of the prior votes which the people have had. The last vote, as I recall, was about 1965, or not very long ago, and we had an overwhelming response at that time. I don't think that our people have become more sophisticated in the gambling area as has been indicated. They have told us that they do not want legalized gambling in this state. They probably have not told us that they don't want gambling at all, but they have certainly told us they don't want it legalized. And under those conditions, I think it's time that it is important that we recall this and give us a chance to reconsider it if we have an opportunity to place it on the ballot as a separate issue.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. President, I, too, will support Delegate Baker's motion. I think perhaps we were just a little hasty in working on this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President. Since I have the honor to be the Chairman of the Committee who is responsible for submitting this proposition to the Convention, I would like to comment that if Delegate Baker's motion carries it will set a precedent and encourage a tenacious minority on any proposal before this body to continue to re-invite matters that the Convention has acted upon. Now this can be extremely time-consuming, as the argument on this motion has demonstrated. And I urge a "no" vote on the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President. I hope I've got this working. I would like to oppose Delegate Baker's proposal. I think it's far more a statutory measure than a Constitutional measure. I do feel — I don't know whether I have different friends than you have, but I'm sure they would feel that I was less than honest if I voted for this measure.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I believe that we aren't discussing the merits of the question at this time. And if we support Delegate Baker's motion we are going to say at this time that we can't vote on anything controversial until the Rules Committee comes in with a rule. And I will resist it, because I think up until that time a simple majority can bring it back at any time anyhow. I think we should keep it where it's at. When the Rules Committee comes in with their proposal, then we can decide whether we want to bring it back with a simple majority.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: He answered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fiedler?

DELEGATE FIEDLER: Mr. President, I hope we in the majority haven't created the impression we are calloused people. We are as sensitive to this situation as anybody else. I think the prime objective of this amendment or this proposition was to point up the hypocrisy of the present position.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: On Rule 28 I move the previous question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The previous question has been moved. Ask for five seconds to stand. Just a moment. I want the names of the delegates. We have Nething, Sanstead, O'Toole, Fritzell and Burke. That's a sufficient number.

Now the question is called. And the question is shall we vote on the question immediately without further debate? Now the question before the Convention is on Delegate Baker's motion that the Committee Proposal No. 1-4 be returned to the Convention floor.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President, apparently there's a break-down here in the voting machine next to Fiedler. I think I made my point on the last issue by now. And I may wish to vote "nay" on the next issue.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is yours still lighting?

The question then before the body is on Delegate Baker's motion that Delegate Proposal 1-4 be returned to the Convention floor from the Committee on Style and Drafting.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: I believe the motion has to be on the motion of the previous question as seconded by Delegate Burke.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You are right; what the previous question is on. The question we are voting on is the previous question, and requires a two-thirds vote.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: I would submit that the previous question is the question whether we are going to vote on Delegate Baker's motion later.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question that we are voting on at the moment is on the previous question motion.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: That is correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Whether we're — right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We all agree.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: For the clarification of the delegates, it would have the effect of shutting off debate —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: — on the motion that Delegate Baker made.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: And if you want to shut off debate on that you vote "yes" on the motion to be taken, if you do not wish to shut off debate vote "no".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

The question now is on the previous question to shut off debate. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the previous question is adopted.

Now we're back on Delegate Baker's motion that we return Committee Proposal No. 1-4 from the Committee on Style and Drafting to the Convention floor.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The Chair is in doubt. We will open the key and you will record your vote. Now remember those in favor of the motion will vote "aye," those opposed vote "nay." The key will be opened. You will indicate your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call indicates 44 "ayes" and 52 "nays", two absent and not voting. The motion failed.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Too many of us feel too sensitively and too strongly about the one-house issue to let the humorous remark of Delegate Knudson go unresponded to.

I would like to point out that had the North Dakota Legislature been a unicameral body in 1889 it would undoubtedly have done just what we have in this unicameral body done, reconsidered its action.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Sinner.

Fellow Delegates, just as a point of information, there were 24 delegates that expressed themselves on that issue.

Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Can we move to the eighth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the eighth order of business.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: I see we do have quite a delegation of people from Minot here today in the balcony, some down here behind the railing. And most of them that are here today from Minot are representing organized labor. I understand there are more coming from Grand Forks and other parts of the State today. But in recognition of the people from Minot that are up in the balcony and back behind the railing here from organized labor — we have with us also Ray Vendsel of Minot, a good friend of mine.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the delegation in the balcony from Minot, or the visitors from Minot, please stand and receive the recognition of the Convention. (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the ninth order of business, Introduction and Reference of Proposals to Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-89, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 14 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to eminent domain."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-89 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-90, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to laws fostering dependence on state government, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-90 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Are there any further announcements? Do you have announcements at the desk?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to announce a meeting of the Finance and Tax Committee in about fifteen minutes when the Convention adjourns for lunch.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Announcements at the desk.

Delegate Saugstad moves that Committee Proposals No. 1-30 and No. 1-33 be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting. May I have a second?

DELEGATE CART: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Cart.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the two committee proposals are referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. The Committee on Legislative Functions is to meet at 11:15 in the Large Hearing Room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: The Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions Committee will meet in the usual spot at one o'clock.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Is the desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Is the desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No. We have some announcements at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Legislative Functions Committee will hear reapportionment, 1-29, 1-41; qualifications of legislators, 1-45; length of service of legislators, 1-37; 1-42 and 1-43 at three P.M. in the Large Hearing Room Wednesday, January 12th.

Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee will hear Delegate Proposal 2-48, creating a new article to the instrument of the State of North Dakota pertaining to a bill of rights for minors, 1:30 P.M., Lewis and Clark Room, January 18th.

Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands will hear Committee Proposal 1-20 dealing with corporations at 1:30 P.M., Monday, January 17th, in G-1.

I take it this is the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands. Tuesday, January 11th, will hear Committee Proposal 1-16 on environment, Delegate Proposal 2-54 and Delegate Proposal 2-55 and at 3:30 P.M. will hear Committee Proposal 1-19, waters and appropriations of, in Room G-1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair would like to announce the appointment of a Committee on Resolutions; Delegate Scheel is Chairman, Delegate Binek is Vice Chairman, Delegate Daniels, Delegate Engelter, Delegate Kessel, Delegate McElroy, Delegate Hildebrand, Delegate Larsen, Delegate Peters, Delegate Stanton, Delegate Thompson, Delegate Lerberg, Delegate Kretschmar, Delegate Rosendahl and Delegate Hartl.

The desk is clear.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I was wondering, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: if I could move — are we ready for the adjournment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think we should have the delegates that are absent excused.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I'll move that the absent delegates be excused.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved, seconded by Delegate Longmire, that the absent delegates be excused. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the absent delegates are excused.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I was wondering if Chairman Agnes would like to make an announcement, I believe.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President, we haven't set a meeting of the Rules Committee. We have been wondering if there is going to be any meeting on parliamentary procedure as was discussed at the meeting of the Rules Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan, there will be discussion on parliamentary procedure. But in the explanation between Delegate Kelsch and Dean and Dave Peterson and myself, the story or the chart to follow is in the process of being printed. And it isn't available. At least it wasn't when we went into session. So I am reluctant to announce a meeting until such time as that report or the format is completed.

DELEGATE GEELAN: And, Mr. President, I think I'm reluctant to call a meeting of the Rules Committee until we have such a meeting to see if there are some, if I can say it, bugs in our Rules that need to be corrected. And even though this matter of alternate proposals is a problem, we have a subcommittee report now. But I think if there's no objection we will delay calling a meeting of the Rules Committee until we have had the meeting on parliamentary procedure.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I just have received a draft of that paper, document, she referred to. And I think if the President would care to set this, I think it should be gone over before the 98 copies are prepared by the President. But four o'clock this afternoon might be a possibility, or tomorrow, then we could meet. I don't know how the hearings are set tomorrow. We have hearings at 1:30, so there are problems there.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would be reluctant to set a time this afternoon with the importance of the committee hearings that are coming up before the Convention. So I believe we should postpone that until tomorrow morning.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move we adjourn until 9:00 A.M., January 12th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Saugstad — will the delegates please remain in their seats? It's been moved by Delegate Saugstad that the Convention now adjourn until 9:00 o'clock tomorrow morning. May I have a second?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The Convention is adjourned until 9:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

(The Plenary Session adjourned until 11:01 A.M., Tuesday, January 11, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Wednesday, January 12, 1972.)

VOLUME VIII

(January 12, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The eighth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:15 A.M., January 12, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is Father Christopher Davis of the Annunciation Priory.

REV. FR. CHRISTOPHER DAVIS: In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit.

And, Father in Heaven, and Ruler of the World, allow these delegates here assembled to proceed with confidence and skill to frame a new instrument for the State of North Dakota. Remind them of the wisdom of those whose work they follow, so that these deliberations may never be arrogant, nor corrupted by a spirit of foolish pride; instead, let them be humble, impressed with the difficulties which attend the making of statements which are to serve the people as principles of legislation for many years to come.

Make them conscious, Father, of the heritage of their country and of its leading ideas. Give them a sense of the continuity of purpose which prevails among men who are responsive to their trust. Do this so that all of us who must walk through life with its dangers and deceits may not forget the words which the angels sang: "Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth peace among men with whom He is pleased."

May you be pleased with us always, Father. And may the citizens assembled here serve peace in this state and nation; for the increase of respect for law, for the expansion of domestic harmony, for confidence in public affairs, and for a growing understanding among nations. May this new Constitution of the State of North Dakota be both instrument and example. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — Roll Call.

The Clerk will open the key; you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key will be closed.

The roll call discloses 96 present, two absent. A quorum is declared.

Fellow Delegates, this morning I am sorry to announce that Delegate Benz is going to have to have surgery, and he's going to have this surgery performed tomorrow morning. He's at the Bismarck Hospital. He's in Room 438.

We'll be on the fourth order of business — Revision and Correction of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 10th day of January, 1972, and finds the same to be correct.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Report of the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the report is adopted.

We will be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-20 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The report — the question is on the adoption of the Report on the Committee Proposal No. 1-20, that it be amended. As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it. It will be on the sixth order for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-39 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-39, that it be amended and then be adopted.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it, and Proposal No. 1-39 will be on the sixth order for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-43 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended and returns the same without recommendation.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-43 for the Committee on Legislative Functions, that the report be — that the proposal be amended, and then it is to be on the calendar without recommendation.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it. It will be on the sixth order for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-56 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-56, that it be adopted and that it do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it. The report is adopted, and it will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-57 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-57; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it. And the Proposal No. 1-57 will be on the tenth order for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-58 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-58; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it. The proposal will be on the tenth order for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President. Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-59 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-59; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Proposal No. 1-59 will be on the tenth order.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-60 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the report on Proposal No. 1-60; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Proposal No. 1-60 will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-61 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the report of Committee Proposal No. 1-61, that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-62 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-62; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is adopted, and Proposal No. 1-62 will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-64 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-64; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Proposal 1-64 will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-65 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-65; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Proposal No. 1-65 will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-66 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-66; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The report is adopted.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I don't believe our books have 1-65 and 1-66 in our books.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Sorry, Delegate Aubol, we were informed that they were here and had been placed in the books. I'm glad you did bring it to our attention, however.

What is the wish of the Convention? Shall we adopt those and —

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I move that we adopt the resolutions on the assumption that they will be printed, in the book and ready for debate.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Butler that we do accept these two Committee Reports on 1-65 and 1-66 on the premise that they will be in the book at the time that they are up for debate. Could we have a second to that motion?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Nicholas.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the reports will be adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-68 has had the same under consideration; recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-68; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. 1-68 will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-71 has had the same under consideration; recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-71; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Proposal No. 1-71 will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-73 has had the same under consideration; recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-73; that it be given a do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Proposal No. 1-73 will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-5 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-15.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-5; that the proposal be indefinitely postponed.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Fellow Delegates. This is a very simple matter. 2-5 was a proposal that was introduced by Delegate Tudor. The Committee has visited with Delegate Tudor. He is satisfied to have the proposal indefinitely postponed because, as was stated from the rostrum, it's been incorporated in 1-15. With that in mind, I will move that it be — the Committee action be confirmed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal 2-5; that it be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted and Committee — or Delegate Proposal 2-5 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-15 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed; such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-15.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Delegate Proposal — of the report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-15; that it be indefinitely postponed.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Fellow Delegates. 2-15 is identical to 2-5. Through an administrative error 2-15 and 2-5 got different numbers. They are identical. I would move, if it is in order, the action of the Education Committee be confirmed; this proposal be adopted and indefinitely postponed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-15; that it be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-19 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed; such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-15.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-15 — 19; that it be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Fellow Delegates. Incidentally, I should call your attention to the fact that in our little Bible here on page 7 is a little more detailed explanation. It isn't too detailed, but it will give you an indication of why these proposals were indefinitely postponed. It's on the left side of page No. 7.

2-19 has been incorporated in 1-15. This was a proposal that was submitted by Delegate Devine, who is a member of the Education Committee. He's concurred that it should be postponed. And once again, if it's in order, I'll move that the action of the Committee be confirmed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-19; that it be indefinitely postponed.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Delegate Proposal No. 2-19 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-20 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed; such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-15.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Delegate Proposal — the report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-20; that the proposal be indefinitely postponed.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Fellow Delegates. Same reason. Delegate Devine submitted this proposal, incorporated in 1-16, which will be discussed at a later date. With that in mind, we will once again suggest that the action of the committee be confirmed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-20; that the proposal be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Proposal No. 2-20 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-21 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed; such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-16.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-21; that the proposal be indefinitely postponed. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Same reason. It has been incorporated in 1-16. It is all right with the sponsor of the original proposal. I suggest one more time that we approve the action of the Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-21; that it be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Proposal No. 2-21 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President. Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-36 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-36; that the proposal be indefinitely postponed. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Fellow Delegates. You will see by your book that this was in a proposal that was submitted by Delegate Peterson having to do with some of the requirements of schools for the blind and the deaf. She happened to be a member of our committee; agreed that this particular proposal can be indefinitely postponed. Another proposal is on the agenda for the Committee at a later date. And with that thought in mind the Committee does move for indefinite postponement. And I submit to this body that we concur.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-36; that it be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is adopted.

We'll be on the sixth order of business — Consideration of Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendments to Proposal 1-23 as recommended by the Committee on Finance and Taxation as printed on page 152 of the Journal, the amendments are:

On page 2, line 5 after the word "state" delete "or any county or other" and insert in lieu thereof ", political subdivision or public agency".

On line 6 delete "municipal corporation".

On line 14 after the word "by" delete "a" and insert in lieu thereof "the".

On line 15 after the word "board" delete "or commission" and insert in lieu thereof "of equalization or its successor".

Renumber the lines accordingly.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I move that the amendments to Proposal No. 1-23 be approved. And if we receive a second, I would like to ask Delegate McElroy to briefly explain the amendments.

DELEGATE CHASE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen moves that the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-23 be approved.

Any discussion?

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: These amendments are pretty complicated, as you can see. They were made for the purpose of tidying up the language and making it somewhat all-inclusive. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on the adoption of the amendments on Committee Proposal No. 1-23?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the amendments; Committee Proposal No. 1-23.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendments are adopted.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: As a point of inquiry — I may be wrong in this — but as I understand it the committee report is the motion itself, it does not need a second, and is it necessary for further motion from the floor to adopt the committee report?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: This is on the sixth order, Delegate Longmire. I presume that it is well for the Chairman of the Committee to express his thoughts on the amendment. Technically, I would have to agree with you that the reason that we — that the proposal is on sixth order of business is for that purpose, of adopting the amendments.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, I agree, Mr. President, that the amendments should be explained. But I just wanted to clear whether or not another motion was necessary since it is before us anyway and the committee has already recommended it and moved for the adoption of those amendments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would have to agree, Delegate Longmire, that a motion to adopt the amendments would technically not be necessary.

The amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-23 have been adopted.

Then we will go to the tenth order of business — First Reading and First Passage of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-34, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 29 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the matter of legislative ethics, be created.

“SECTION 1. Section 29, Article II to the constitution of the State of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“Article II. Section 29. A code of ethics for all state officials, employees and non-judicial officers prohibiting conflict between public duty and private interest shall be prescribed by law.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question.

Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates. Yesterday we amended this section to specifically include “legislators” on line 8. It’s a very necessary part of the articles that should be included in our Constitution. And it puts the responsibility of providing for such legislation as is necessary to control conflict of interest in the legislative body, and also the officers of the State into the hands of the Legislature. Granted, that in the past there have been several attempts to legislate conflict of interests legislation that have not passed. But I am very confident that at a date in the future not too far distant legislation that is definable can specifically set forth what “conflict” will mean will be passed by the legislative body. I recommend the approval of this proposal.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: I would like to ask some member of the committee what the difference is between a “state official” and a “non-judicial officer”, or primarily what is to be included in the definition of “non-judicial officer.” My thought was that it might involve the same state official.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Delegate Pearce is in the Convention this morning; I’d like to have him answer that.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President, the answer is I don’t know.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce, I’m sorry, I didn’t hear you.

DELEGATE PEARCE: The answer is I don’t know.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Since one of our leading barristers does not know, I’m going to attempt to answer that. So I move that the question is moot as far as this body is concerned since no one seems to know the answer.

I would like to move to amend to 1-34, which amendment is at the desk and can be read from the desk. I would like to advise the delegates that the amendment is exactly the language that is being proposed in Delegate Proposal No. 2-34.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The proposal — the amendment will be read from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: After the period in line 10 insert the following: "No member of the legislative assembly shall accept remuneration in any form from any individual, organization or business for the purpose of proposing or influencing the passage of legislation or for influencing the governmental decisions of any state official or employee. The supreme court shall have sole jurisdiction in controversies arising from this section and, upon conviction of violation, members so convicted shall be removed and barred from legislative service."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Who made the second? Delegate Sanstead seconded.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I'm moving this amendment at this time rather than waiting for the proposal to come before the body because we are now addressing ourselves to the subject of legislative ethics. And I would like to say at the outset that this is not directed at any particular legislators that are now serving. And it's thought of more as a general principle that ought to be in the Constitution and regulate legislative activity. I think we need to keep in mind the power of the legislative assembly and the freedom of government. And that the state legislative branch is by far the most powerful branch. And the members of that body are very powerful people. And they exercise broad powers, and they are involved in every legislative session in laws that govern and regulate the affairs of the executive agencies. And, therefore, they are directly related and involved in the executive branch of the government. And in this Constitutional Convention I believe that we are proposing to leave a large number of legislative matters to the legislature rather than including them in the new Constitution. And so the powers of the legislative assembly are going to be broadened in the future. Some individual legislators then will have greater influence in the future than they have now.

I might say as a former member of the executive branch of the government that their very presence in an executive setting is a matter of great personal power, and they have tremendous influence on the affairs of the executive branch in the government. I don't believe that in office this important in the government, in office of public trust, should be in any way transplanted into personal income should that temptation arise.

Now at the present time our language in 1-34 provides that the legislature will watch the other branches of government. And I think from past experience we can say that this will be true in the future. The legislature being a very jealous branch of its powers are quick to oversee the operations of the judicial and the executive branches of government, which is as it ought to be. But we have a problem with who will regulate the legislators. And the present bill presumes — the present proposal, as it stands before us, presumes that the legislature will regulate itself. And I'm afraid that history does not support this contention.

This new language in 1-34, as before us, is supposed to replace old section 40 in our old Constitution, which is about 300 words, spelling out the evil of logrolling and how logrolling is to be an unconstitutional practice. And yet logrolling has become an unenforceable matter because the legislature has not set up machinery to prevent and prohibit logrolling. And in our committee we decided there was no way to outlaw logrolling because it was such a subtle operation.

In addition, we are deleting section 43 which says: "Any member who has a personal or private interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the legislative assembly, shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member . . ." and so forth, and he ". . . shall not vote thereon . . ." Well, we have seen in legislative assembly after legislative assembly where members will get up and say, "I have a personal interest and I choose not to vote." And what happens? Some member of the assembly always gets up and says, "I move that we permit so and so to vote." And so — nobody ever dares stand up and say, "I resist the motion." I have never seen that happen in a legislative assembly, and I don't think anyone in this body has seen it either. And so we have seen that we have had two provisions in the Constitution in which the legislature is supposed to regulate itself, and they have been unable to do so.

For that reason, I think that it is necessary for the Constitution of the State to do something about legislative ethics and conflict of interest in addition to saying that the legislature shall police its own members.

This amendment — this amendment proposes — that I propose this morning — would prohibit a legislator from representing others for pay. And it would probably prohibit him from representing himself before a legislative agency. And so he cannot get economic gain.

Now some have said, "What is remuneration?" Well, I might reply, "What is equal protection? What is due process?" These are things — and just in 1961 I believe the Supreme Court of the State had to deal with the question of what is an emolument, and the Supreme Court dealt with the question. I say that when we say "remuneration" that we must depend on wise people in the future who are going to deal and decide with what "remuneration" is. Is it a cup of coffee? You know we are quite sure that it would be a hundred-dollar check. But we get into some gray areas without a doubt, but I say that it is important that we spell something specific out.

Now under my — my amendment the legislator would still represent constituents. And this, of course, is his real function, one of his important functions, that he represent his constituents before executive agencies and be their ombudsman, if you please, and this does not prohibit that. In fact — but he is not to represent them for pay, which means that he has personal gain. And it's going to be an inconvenience to some legislators when they have problems with executive agencies to find someone else in their business to represent their business instead of the person — the legislator himself. Or someone else in the law firm to represent — represent a client instead of the legislator himself. But I think it is a small price to pay to prevent the abuse of a public trust.

And so we might say is there much abuse? Is there much abuse of the legislative influence? Well, I might relate one particular instance when I was State Tax Commissioner. We had a member of the Senate that was trying to gain a concession from the Tax Department. And we resisted giving any concession. And one day I was walking — at noon hour I was on the fringe of the Senate, in a walkway, and this Senator spots me, he says, "Come on over here." And I went over to him. And he said — he said, "There's something that you're doing in the department that I'm going to have to expose on the floor of the Senate." And so I said, "Well, if we're doing something that we're not supposed to be doing you should expose it on the floor of your Senate. It's your duty." Now I am sophisticated enough in the game of power politics to know what he was telling me. He was trying to influence me on the matter that he had before the department. I know that. And I've talked to other executives in other agencies who have felt the awesome influence of legislators before them trying to influence the body.

Now, some say, "Well, if they become rascals — if the legislators become rascals, the people will throw them out." Well, now how are the people going to know who's getting money from whom to do what? Unless you publish their income tax returns also. And so I don't think — I don't think that public disclosure is going to be adequate to keep those few legislators honest who might want to betray the public trust. I say that the legislature has demonstrated in the past that it cannot maintain its own house; that it must be protected to a certain extent from itself.

The court — now the last line that I have here says that the Supreme Court shall have jurisdiction. This is important. Because up until the present time the legislature has been the judge of qualifications of their own members. And so the logrolling provisions and the conflicts of interest have been unenforceable. Because they are supposed to do it themselves. And this suggests that we need an outside body that is going to help police this operation. And so I suggest that the cases must go to the Supreme Court and let them decide the case.

In conclusion, I might point out in the excellent publication called "Sometime Governments" put out by the Citizens Legislative Conference, they make two recommendations; in recommendation 66 they say: "Practice before a regulatory agency. Legislators or their firms should be prohibited from practicing before state regulatory agencies or in matters concerning state agencies for a fee.

"67. Prohibit doing business with states. There should be a prohibition against legislators, or the firms in which they own a major interest, doing business with state agencies."

I am not proposing in this amendment that we go as far as 67. We used to have a prohibition like that, but it was set aside in a recent Supreme Court decision. I am saying that here is one particular evil that we might be able to deal with, and we should deal with in a constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. I have no qualms or objection to the theory expounded upon by Delegate Omdahl. But being a former Senator, and being he pointed a finger a little at us on this, I've got one complaint in this amendment. The amendment says that on a conviction by the Supreme Court that the person is barred from legislative service, which means forever, of course. Now, I do feel that possibly a legislator in his younger days, coming into the legislative halls, might make a mistake, is probably convicted. But I don't think it should preclude this man thirty or forty years later, or this person thirty or forty years later — probably after paying his debt to society — to be allowed to come back in. And I would suggest that before this thing is passed that there should be a forgiveness feature in this regard in this section, if it is passed. Probably the Supreme Court could be the judge in that case.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: As to the amendment which provides in essence the conviction for the taking of a bribe, is what it appears to be, I would point out that if the Supreme Court has the original jurisdiction there is no jury in the Supreme Court. The penalty provided is severe. It would appear that it might require a jury trial under the rights guaranteed by the Federal Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President. Before I comment on the amendment, I'd like to announce myself as present.

Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. The amendment before us appears to me to restrict three areas of professional people from serving in the legislature. Now I guess maybe this is what you have to decide; whether or not you want to have people associated with our school systems and universities in the legislature because, of course, under this they certainly couldn't be, they're involved in their duties bargaining for pay and so on; whether you want to have people that provide the service of public accounting or certified public accounting serve in the legislature and, of course, under this they represent themselves before primarily the tax department and also other agencies such as the Public Service Commission, they would be prohibited; or whether or not you want to have lawyers in the legislature.

I stand before you, as I did before the people that elected me, as a lawyer. And I somewhat think that probably it would be of benefit to my partner and to my family if you passed this. However, there are other people that I represent that knew that I was a lawyer when they elected me. They knew that I represent people very little in state agencies; however I do in courts, things of this nature, But one of the things that has been touched on, for example, is the lawyer that represents parties, for example, before the Pardon Board, Parole Board. And, of course, that's included here. Oddly enough, there is no remuneration to the lawyer as the result of his success or non-success, I don't think. But there are times as a practical matter when the state even pays that lawyer to represent that person before that particular board. So I think each of you have to weigh it in your own mind as to whether or not the people that I have mentioned should serve in the legislature or should not serve in the legislature. The fact that there might have been an abuse in the proponent's situation is a sorry situation. It shouldn't happen. But I don't think that you should exclude professional people from the legislature which, in effect, in my estimation, this amendment would do.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GEELAN: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I support Delegate Omdahl's amendment. I can see this from two viewpoints, having served both in the legislature and as a public official. I would think that the legislators would consider this almost a favor. Because we know that once you get into the legislature your constituents beat a path to your door, not just to ask you to go up to an agency to ask a question, but they want you to exert pressure to get a favorable decision from an agency. So I would hope that we can support Delegate Omdahl's amendment.

I can see no danger particularly to a legislator who happens to be a professional man. Because it seems to me they always say when you are in the legislature you cannot accept remuneration for doing these things. So I feel that there is no danger and would be a positive favor to a legislator if we passed this amendment.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: As you know, I am in the legislature. I am not a practicing attorney. But it's my considered opinion that passage of this amendment would practically require a professional legislature. We have a citizen legislature now; the people that are willing to devote sixty days every two years, some occasional time in between, for a very small salary and expenses which just about match their outgo. I think this would be a fine amendment if we had a professional annual, well-paid legislature. But as long as we are going to have the arrangements that we have today, and I suspect that they will continue for the next hundred years, I think this is a severe restriction on the rights of citizens that serve in the legislature. And I urge its defeat.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. Chairman, President, and Fellow Delegates. We discussed this proposal at great length in our committee. And we decided that the majority vote on this, which was very strong, resisted and did not like certain proposals or areas in this because you need to read this amendment very carefully; "form from any individual, organization or business for the purpose of proposing or influencing the passage of legislation." And that's okay. I have no quarrel with that. But for "influencing the governmental decisions of any state official or employee."

Now you look at the original text of this proposal and you will find that it affects all public officials. We expect all public officials to have a code of ethics. Therefore, if a legislator, because he happens to be elected to that body, is not going to be able to go to other state officials, then I think we should turn the whole cockeyed thing around and say the state officials better stay away from the legislators, too. And that the code of ethics may go that far. And I wonder who's influencing the most in the legislature, the legislature and departments, or the departments and the legislature. And I think we need to take a good look at things at this time.

I am not the type of an individual that would propose that any decision of this type, or that the Supreme Court shall have sole jurisdiction in anything of this type. Because I have not visited with the Supreme Court or Justices on this. But I would think they would have some great misgivings about taking on this type of an awesome authority away from other courts. And as my good friend Delegate Pearce has stated, it might require something else under the Federal Constitution.

Now maybe I can close this whole thing off by saying that in the past I haven't found any need for this type of thing. And I doubt if any state official has. If he has, maybe he's been subject to questions, too. And I don't think we should put into the Constitution something that we cannot carry out year after year.

And the legislative body changing its personnel, changing its habit and changing its organization from year to year is certainly capable of doing this, and I think they've done an excellent job. But maybe if this body goes for a unicameral system we'd better restrict them.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I am strictly a novice in government, and I know that some of our other constitutional delegates are, also. But I am extremely concerned with this particular part. I am speaking in favor of Delegate Omdahl's proposal, although I do not understand every nuance and so forth of it. But my point is in my committee — and I'm sure in all the committees — we constantly bump up against the statement, "Don't worry about it, that's covered by the statute," or, "This can be found in statutory law." And in my mind at all times I say — and I also say it, not only think it — but I remind them that every year or every two years we have a practically new legislative body. And if they are not governed by the Constitution, where will they be governed? And if there is no indication in the Constitution as to the will of the people are we going to have to wait and bring it to the will of the people afterwards? So I think that right here is a place where we should stop and really give this serious consideration. If this proposal is not taken, perhaps something else. But certainly in throwing out or daily going along our way as we do sometimes realizing that in some places our Constitution is too long, we'd likely assume that the legislative body is going to pick up the strings and straighten things out for us. Here is the place where we must stop today and really give a serious consideration.

And I am not casting any aspersions on our legislators now or in the past. This is just common sense on our part. This is our responsibility as a Constitutional Convention. This is where we really have to get down and think to ourselves, "If it's covered by statute, who are the ones who prepare the statutes?"

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President. As most of you know, I worked ten years in the Attorney General's office. And I want to point out several things. I don't want to do anything which would discourage the lawyers in our state from serving in the legislature. There was a poll some years ago, which I think a newspaper took, that found the occupation of the legislators that was considered the best legislator was the legal profession. And I find no reason to disagree with that poll amongst legislators.

However, the first five years I was in the Attorney General's office I held several hundred administrative hearings regarding violations of the state law by bar owners. Invariably where there was a lawyer in the area of the bar owner that was in the legislature, he was chosen to represent the bar owner. Now, I don't know if the legislators feel anything is wrong with this, but I know the people that hire people to represent them before state agencies, if they have a choice they are going to pick a legislator. They are pretty shrewd about something like this. And I feel there is some sort of conflict.

I agree with the second sentence of the amendment. I don't think it is a violation of any guarantee of the U. S. Constitution. It doesn't involve the loss of liberty or anything of that nature, but merely a loss of office. But I think it may be a cumbersome, somewhat unworkable procedure. But I simply want to state that the rest of the lawyers in the state might not like the unfair competition that the legislative lawyers are able to give them when it involves representation before a state agency.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I have a question which I think relates to the amendment as well as to the main motion. I would like to ask the committee in light of how we've been operating here why there is not a repealer provision in connection with the action here. Reference has been made to sections 40 and 43 of the present — of the present Constitution. If we are not to — if we are not to address ourselves at this point to the wisdom of the repeal of those sections in this adoption, when are we going to be doing that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will someone address themselves to Delegate Lander's question on the sections 43 and 40 of the present Constitution?

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. Sections 40, 43 and 38 are all affected and are on another repealer section — another repealer proposal. I think — I suspect that the reason the Chairman submitted them this way is he probably felt we shouldn't repeal the other ones until we've acted on this one so he knew what exactly was going to happen. But they are in a separate proposal.

I would like to comment, Mr. President, on the committee's action in not adopting the language of Delegate Omdahl. It is the feeling of the committee, I think, that while it is true that there are occasionally legislators who like to use their influence and throw their weight around, they very often are found out quickest by their fellow legislators. And I have a couple memories of such things while I was in the legislature. But the committee felt that to put this kind of language in the Constitution opened us up for endless — almost endless and unforeseeable litigation. And that there really is no way that you can stop people who choose to be unethical from being unethical unless you do it with the exposure of a free press and with the exposure of fellow legislators who are simply repulsed by this sort of person in the legislature. And this is actually what's happened in the past. And I think that sooner or later these people that do this sort of thing on occasion are found out. And whether they are immediately exposed is not altogether to the point. I think the matter that is to the point is that you can't stop it, except by exposing them and getting them expelled from the body by the people.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Members of the Convention. This really puts me in a spot. Now I have had in the past, shall we say, some arguments with the judiciary and with the attorneys. And the last — no, two sessions ago in the House they presented me the last day of the session with a book. The lawyers — Delegate Kelsch handed it to me as rather a joke. It's a pretty good book and some others nicknamed me "The Judge" because I objected to too rapid rise of the judicial salaries, in my opinion at least. And I would say the legislature would be a sad place without any attorneys, and so would this — so would this Convention.

If you've noticed, we turn to all the attorneys for free advice and so on. And I also am in a spot because I'm on a committee with seven attorneys. And unless the other eight of us stick together, you can see it's tough. These attorneys have been very fair. And I — it's not true that I oppose all attorneys. There are good, crooked and honest farmers and there may be a few attorneys that are the same way. But by and large I find good people.

There is one thing — maybe this amendment goes too far, but there's one thing that should be corrected; and that is the taking of a retainer fee. And it has bothered me for years. If it just so happened that a certain organization would hire me, and I would vote as they dictated, I would be put in jail for about two years. But an attorney can come down here, there's nothing said — and he's taking no extra money for voting that way — but he never would have gotten the job if he hadn't been a Senator or Representative. And I'm in full agreement that something should be done. But I don't want to bar all attorneys if this would be the case. I certainly don't. Because they give a valuable service, and it's largely — well, it is for free. You know in your own committees they do probably more work than most, and so on.

So I'm going to vote for this amendment. I may not be able to go back to committee, but I'm going to vote for this amendment. I don't think — I would hope it wouldn't bar attorneys. But I do feel that if an attorney is there on the same salary as I am, same expense money, he shouldn't get extra money because he is both a legislator and an attorney. And I have never in eight years — eight — well, eight years in the House, I've never seen anyone take a nickel, I've never had anyone offer. You will occasionally get a meal, that's true. But I can't think of any bribery, I don't know of any. Of course it may have been — there may have been some I didn't know about. But, anyway, I'm not accusing anyone of being crooked, but I do feel that there should be a stronger code of ethics than we have now. And it's impossible to get — or practically — to get it through the legislature. And I hope the attorneys will allow me to stay in the building, but I'm going to vote for this amendment tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I have served in the legislature many years ago, and I don't think conditions were any different then than now. I served as a state officer in this capitol for twelve years. In that twelve years I tried probably several thousand cases. And occasionally we had an attorney representing someone that had been a member of the legislature. And I never at any time saw any of these members of the legislature who were attorneys trying a matter before the Public Service Commission make any reference or try in any way to influence the Public Service Commission because they were a member of the legislature. And I think it would be very bad for this state to bar, in effect, the legislature — the lawyers from the legislature. They are very capable in this particular field.

Now I have some other misgivings with this whole affair here. The original Constitution, section 38, says: "No member of the legislative assembly, expelled for corruption, and no person convicted of bribery, perjury or other infamous crime shall be eligible to the legislative assembly, or to any office in either branch thereof."

Then we turn over to section 40. And that sets out quite at length the conduct in the legislature.

And also to section 43: "Any member who has a personal or private interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the legislative assembly, shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon without the consent of the house."

Now 1-34 and the proposed amendment here deal with all of that subject matter. And I'm very reluctant to vote, and I will not support either of them, until the other — the printed matter in the proposed amendment is available to me so I can have a chance to look it over and read it. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Fellow Delegates. I still have the same objection to the amendment today as yesterday when it was before us as a part of the fifth order, I guess, or sixth order. The language pertaining to influencing is ambiguous. And I'll give an example.

Let's just say that in the case of legislation that it is suggested by one of your constituents and you are asked to introduce the legislation as a private bill and sponsor it. Who and how can anyone, including the Supreme Court, tell whether there was any money changed hands or any remuneration of any kind for introducing and sponsoring that bill or for helping process the bill through the legislature? It's almost impossible to accuse any one of the members of the legislature of receiving direct compensation for that purpose. But there is always going to be a citizens' legislature. And if it is in the legislation that it is proposed or suggested by your constituents that I cannot see how the terminology expressed in this amendment can be made workable.

Number two, the Supreme Court apparently has not been consulted about the paragraph that's been added to this proposed amendment now — which is the only addition above the amendment that was stricken yesterday — to the new language.

I agree with Delegate Pearce and others that should such an amendment that we are talking of now be enacted as part of this Constitution, that a more definite opportunity should be for a body of the peers, or it might be juries, as the case might be, to take the evidence from both sides of the accused individual, legislator or government official, and weigh the evidence to determine whether he is guilty or not guilty.

And for myself and for the people that I represent back in the 21st District, I'm going to vote "no" against this amendment and hope that the rest of you support the "no" vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President. Indication has been here that this will only apply to attorneys or affect attorneys. But I look upon myself — I am an ex-legislator — I look upon myself and I'm a salaried person. And every day I deal with numerous governmental agencies in various matters. I deal with the Welfare Agency, the Workmens Compensation Agency, numerous other school facilities. And many times the administrators of these agencies also ask me to intervene for them in assisting them in some matters. And if I were to again serve in the legislature I think I would be prohibited from carrying on my salaried duties in a lay matter that is not at all associated with being a lawyer. And I think that we should each of us reflect on can we serve as a legislator if we were to deal with any and all of the governmental agencies that are necessary to deal with if this bill were to pass. And I would seriously doubt if I, as a salaried person, could serve in the legislature under these conditions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Answered my question. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Taken care of your question.

Any other discussion?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as proposed by Delegate Omdahl. I believe we should again read the amendment from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendment is after the period in line 10, insert the following:

"No member of the legislative assembly shall accept remuneration in any form from any individual, organization or business for the purpose of proposing or influencing the passage of legislation or for influencing the governmental decisions of any state official or employee. The supreme court shall have sole jurisdiction in controversies arising from this section and, upon conviction of violation, members so convicted shall be removed and barred from legislative service."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President: I move that Committee Proposal 1-34 and the proposed amendment both be laid over one day so we can get a chance to read them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Cart that Committee Proposal No. 1-34 be laid over one Convention day. Now do we have a second?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Rundle.

Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President: I oppose the motion to delay any action by this body. If we pile delay on top of delay we will simply never get the job done. We've had a good hour of debate. The language is in front of every member in Delegate Proposal 2-34. I think we have to come to the time when we make our decisions.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Yes, I'm in favor of Delegate Paulson's idea here. I think if we are going to keep laying things over we are going to have the same people saying the same things tomorrow. And I think it's time we start getting something accomplished at this Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment?

The question is on Delegate Cart's motion — Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President, Delegates: I have a question to ask. Now if we vote "no" on this amendment will the committee be apt to bring something similar? I mean is this final as far as the restrictions and the addition to the code of ethics? I'd like to ask one of the committees whether other amendments of this type would be considered if we voted "no" on this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would any member —

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I would like to advise Delegate Fritzell that the committee considered many different areas of being able to put in more than what the present section of 1-34 calls for. And it came out of the committee —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler, press a little harder. Now it is working.

DELEGATE BUTLER: — came out with a 15-5 vote in the language that is now before us or before the amendment would apply in 1-34, that it was adequate to take care of the requirements, and that they could depend on the good judgment of the legislature to enact whatever other laws are necessary to govern the conflict of interest.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: The reason I seconded the motion to lay over wasn't to stall or anything of the sort. But in a matter of fairness, there are several attorneys in here whom I respect highly, and I would like to have about a ten-minute chat with a couple of them. This is the reason that I seconded the motion to lay over. And I insist it was a good motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on Delegate Cart's motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-34 be laid over one Convention day.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and the motion lost.

We are back on the main motion upon the amendment.

Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Will there be a roll call on the amendment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Not on the amendment.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: What will I need to get a roll call?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You can so move.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I move that we have a recorded vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now we have to have —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Fifteen for a recorded vote.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have to have, I believe, fifteen people indicate their desire to have a recorded vote. If fifteen will rise. One, two, three, four, five — we have a sufficient number.

Then the question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Omdahl and just a moment or two ago read from the Chair.

If there is no further discussion, I will open the key and you will record your vote. Those in favor of the amendment will vote "aye;" those opposing the amendment will vote "no." The key is open. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed. Roll call discloses 32 "ayes," 64 "nays," two absent and not voting. Roll call discloses that the amendment — proposed amendment failed.

We are back on the adoption of Committee Proposal No. 1-34 as amended.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Question.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Point of question. If we vote "no" on this particular proposal now in front of us, the main motion, what would happen to it? Would it be referred, would it die?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: If you vote "no" on this amendment?

DELEGATE CHASE: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: In my opinion it would go back to the committee of origination.

DELEGATE CHASE: Thank you.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE Hoffner: Mr. President. We are on final action of 1-34, are we not?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, we are.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: And if the "no" vote prevails that proposal is dead, so I understand that. Of course the committee can introduce another proposal. Committees can introduce proposals up to within twenty days, I believe.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, my only reason for answering Delegate Chase as I did, in my opinion we can't have a hole in the Constitution. We've got to have a complete body, a completed document. And apparently this will fill — will become part — it is the intention, I am sure, of the committee that this fill a definite niche in the new Constitution. And we can't operate without it. So for that reason I stated that the committee — that this report would go back to the committee. And if the Convention rules otherwise, of course it will be a dead proposal.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. Chairman: This is related to Delegate Chase's comments. It is my opinion that the legislature does have the authority to set up a code of ethics for all state officials, legislators —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Excuse me, Delegate Omdahl. Now you said the legislature. You were making reference to the legislature, weren't you?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Okay. I just wanted to note in the discussion occasionally somebody says "legislature," somebody says "convention." I just wanted it clear that you were making reference to the legislature.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Right. The legislature has the authority now without a constitutional provision to adopt a code of ethics. Therefore, since we have not spelled out anything specifically governing the code of ethics I really see no need for the adoption of 1-34 at all.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: This morning on our desk we have a pamphlet from the staff, it says: "Summary of Possible Proposal Actions." I request that you turn to page 3, look at item 10. I will quote:

"First passing — I believe that is where we are now —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE BUTLER: — vote yes and the proposal is passed and it is sent to Style and Drafting Committee. Vote no the proposal fails unless it is returned to the committee by the Convention."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Answer the question, Delegate Chase? Did you hear that? The proposal will be dead unless returned to the committee by the Convention. Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, I'd like to get an answer to this question, then: Assuming that this vote be — 1-34 fails, then will sections 38, 40 and 43 of the original Constitution remain in effect?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead, can you answer the question as asked by Delegate Cart?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: My earlier comment, Mr. President, posed to Delegate Chase, now also Delegate Cart, would be that the existing three items in the present Constitution have not in effect been repealed; therefore, there's no hole in the Constitution.

We do at this time object to this committee proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Sanstead.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I was going to answer Delegate Cart's question. We in the committee will have a proposal coming up on sections 38, 40 and 43, repealers. And so what happens to 1-34 — and I'll have a question — it's my impression that if 1-34 fails, is it not true that the committee cannot introduce another proposal dealing with the same subject matter?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, it can. They have until the twentieth day.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: I hate to belabor the point, but I would like to explain that I am going to vote against 1-34 simply because I think the committee has confused us by not connecting the repealers with the proposal. Maybe I'm unnecessarily stupid. But I think it has been harder for us to understand because that combination was not made.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Proposal No. 1-34.

Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I, too, am one of those that is somewhat uninformed in these types of procedures. I'm not satisfied with the 1-34 as it now stands. Somewhere between the two, the amendment if it is voted down and this, I think lies the answer. And until I would have more time to consider the ramifications of this, I would feel that I'd have to vote against it. Not that I don't think it has a lot of merit, but I think we are going through it a little quickly.

Yesterday we knocked out much of it without debate. Today now we debate on the matter as it stands. I feel like Delegate Lander does, that somehow or another we should have a little more time on this and it can go back to the committee with further study. I know some of the committee members themselves have this feeling. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. I share some of the thoughts of Delegate Kessel and Delegate Lander, and I think many of the other delegates here. I also understand to draw up a code of ethics is an extremely difficult thing. But I think, Mr. President, that the motion is in order to re-refer to committee. And I so move that this be re-referred to the committee to try and make this amendment or this proposition more acceptable and more understandable to all the delegates.

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-34 be returned to the Committee on — which one?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Legislative Functions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — on Legislative Functions.

And do we have a second?

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Lander. Now is there any discussion?

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: Possibly the committee would like a vote on the proposal and then the action requested here be taken. I resist the motion to send it back to the committee at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President: A point I would like to get cleared up in my mind. We have a motion before us to either approve or reject 1-34?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is true.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Is this a substitute motion to re-refer it to the committee now before us? What is before us?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No, that is not a substitute motion. That is a motion that takes preference. This is a time when we are here to amend. And the delegate — the prerogative of the delegates is whatever the wish of the Convention is to carry out at this point. And this particular motion is up. If we vote "aye" on it it is passed.

Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: Mr. President. I'd just like to say one thing. I'm on this committee. And I agree with Chairman Hoffner. I think that we would like to see some direction. The committee proposal was quite one-sided, fifteen to five, chances are if we got it back again it would come out somewhat similar to what it is now. So I think that we should find out how this thing lays with the delegates right now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Sinner?

The question then before the body is — Delegate Chase moved, right? — Delegate Chase moved that the Committee Proposal No. 1-34 be re-referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions. That is the question.

As many as are in favor of that motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and the motion lost.

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-34.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question. Those in favor of the motion will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 51 "ayes," 46 "nays," one delegate absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-34 is passed.

I wonder, Fellow Delegates, if anyone would object to the Chair declaring a ten-minute recess at this point? Without objection, we'll be in recess. We will recess until eleven o'clock.

(The Session recessed at 10:45 A.M. until 11:00 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order. The Convention will please come to order.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-18.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-18, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 215 and 216 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article VIII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to public institutions.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 215 and 216 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2. Article VIII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Article VIII. Public Institutions.

"Section 1. The public institutions which received lands by an Act of Congress of February 22, 1889, shall retain such lands subject to the limitations on trust (school and public) lands contained in this constitution."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the proposal.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands in considering the repeal of sections 215 and 216 of the Constitution proposes as follows:

An explanation of 215 and 216 and parts of the committee's action can be found on page 15 of our handbook.

Section 215 of the constitution permanently locates the seat of government, the School of Mines, the North Dakota State University of Agriculture and Applied Science, two state normal schools, the School for the Deaf and Dumb, the State Training School, a State Hospital for the Insane, and an institution for the feeble-minded, all of which have lands granted them by the Enabling Act of Congress of February 22, 1889, and now subject to the search and trust limitations.

Section 216 of the constitution further locates a soldiers home, a blind school, an industrial school, and school for manual training, school of forestry, a scientific school, and two normal schools, Dickinson and Minot as they now exist.

Your Committee on Education, Public Lands and Resources proposes that constitutional enumeration of the specific institutions by name and location is no longer necessary; and, further, that in both sections 215 and 216 the legislative assembly under Committee Proposal 1-18 be allowed to deal with various institutions in the future if emergency should arise.

I think it's to be noted that the lands subject to the trust limitations granted to public institutions to the Act of Congress continue to be used for the purposes for which they were granted and dedicated as long as the institution continues to exist. This is consistent with the Enabling Act. And this applies to both sections 215 and 216 as amended.

And I hereby move adoption of Committee Proposal 1-18.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on Committee Proposal No. 1-18?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I have a question. Perhaps one of the committee members can answer it. But on line 14 of the proposal the words "school and public" are set aside in parentheses. What's the reason for setting them aside in parentheses instead of moving the two words in front of the word "trust"?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Some committee member wish to answer Delegate Aubol's question?

Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President, these two words are inserted here in parentheses as a suggestion to the Committee on Style and Drafting that they can be eliminated.

We have another proposal referring strictly to the "school and public" lands. In that proposal we suggest that the title be changed to "Trust Lands". If this proposal carries and the other one carries substantially in the form in which it now is, we'll urge the Committee on Style and Drafting just simply delete these two words.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I believe that it is highly proper in the Constitution to locate the seat of the government. Section 215 of the Constitution which is proposed to be repealed in toto, the first thing it does is to locate the seat of government in the City of Bismarck, County of Burleigh. My neighbor, Delegate Meidinger, assured my committee that he did not intend to renew the effort to remove it to Jamestown. Of course, that's only his personal assurance. But aside from that persidia, I do believe that in the Constitution the seat of government should be located. I do not think that is a proper legislative matter.

Referring to the explanation of the committee's actions on page 15 of this booklet I find no mention made of that subject, the seat of the government. Whether it would be an appropriate time to turn over all of the other institutions to a legislative act considering the enormous investments that have been made in some of them, if not all of them mentioned in the article, is somewhat a separate matter. But I do believe that the seat of the government should be fixed. And perhaps — I'm not in a position to offer an amendment at this time because I haven't filed anything with the desk — but perhaps the matter should be re-considered as to whether section 215 should be repealed in toto. And at the moment I would feel content to vote against the present proposal on the floor for that reason.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. In view of Delegate Pearce's interest, I move that Proposal No. 1-18 be laid to the bottom of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-18 be placed at the foot of the calendar. Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And Committee Proposal No. 1-18 will be placed at the foot of the calendar.

Next before the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-46.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-46, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 1 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to inalienable rights.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 1 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2. A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"All people are endowed with certain inalienable rights, among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of health and happiness."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: As you can see, this section has been shortened considerably by the committee. But the committee believes that the substance of Section 1 has been retained. Also, as we have noted, an additional right has been added, that of pursuit to health. Now we had testimony on this before the sub-committee of the committee by Dr. Amos of the Public Health Department and considerable thought was given to this at the time.

The general feeling was that there is a growing recognition today of health as an important — that's important to the pursuit of other rights, and that people today are much better informed about factors that can make for better health for themselves. And the fact that things can be done today by themselves that will assure better health for each person. Considerable thought was given, too, to the area of prevention. Because so much can be done and is being done today to avoid many of the ailments of human life.

It was for these reasons that the committee felt it important at this time to add the "pursuit of health" as a basic right. It was a unanimous recommendation for do pass on this section.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I note that the committee in rewriting the section took out the word "reputation." And I would like to inquire if they feel that we should not still have the right of "reputation" as one of the inalienable rights.

I would also like to inquire if they consider the word "privacy" as one of the inalienable rights as well as "life" and "liberty."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Some member of the committee — Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President. I think that that was considered before the committee. And we felt that in other sections of the Constitution — which I can't point to now — but that this matter was contained in other areas of our Constitution.

Now there may be other members of the committee that would like to speak to this point.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Referring to Mr. Kelsch's question about the rights of "privacy" — I have forgotten what our proposal number is, and maybe it hasn't come up yet — but we are considering the right of "privacy" under the section on search and seizure. And that's —

DELEGATE TUDOR: 1-63.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Thank you. 1-63.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I recognize that there is reference to "privacy" in the reasonable search and seizure. But this is a fundamental document that declares rights. And we have listed "life" and "liberty" and you've added the "pursuit of health" now. And I think in this day and age that "privacy" may be — you might say that that's a part of "liberty," but I don't think it would hurt us to say it and to try this out.

If we are on the tenth order, I would move that after the word "liberty" on line 11 you insert a "comma" and the word "privacy".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved, an amendment, by Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE SINNER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then seconded by Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel. Just one moment, Delegate Scheel, until we have the amendment typed and before the Convention.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: As I have the amendment, on line 11, following the word "liberty" insert " , privacy" and renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates: I think — I certainly respect all the time the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee has put in on this. I think if any of you read biographies or autobiographies of men who lived two hundred years ago, such as Ben Franklin, who go back to when the Constitution was written of the United States, you realize that they are vitally concerned with "health" and I'm sure "privacy" then, too. And I think the minute you come off that word "happiness", which embodies the essence of all the other things that we're striving for, then you can open the whole Pandora's box and make a sentence a mile long.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I would like to have someone on the committee tell me why they eliminated "acquiring, possessing and protecting property and reputation".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any member of the committee wish to answer Delegate Cart?

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I would like to answer Delegate Cart and others.

Lord knows, we have had enough discussion on this in our committee. And much of it was in the press. We spent many hours in our subcommittee on this also.

As you will recognize, this sentence comes from the second paragraph of the Declaration of Independence. And this was, of course, lifted from the Declaration when it was originally put into our Constitution.

Some of the objections which have been raised here are taken care of by the Fifth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution, Due Process Amendment, and by Section 13 of the North Dakota Constitution, which is also in effect a Due Process Amendment.

Section 9 of our Constitution explains the right to free speech and the ability to protect yourself against libel.

Our Committee Proposal 1-63 states that: The people shall have the right to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and other possessions against unreasonable searches, seizures, invasions of privacy . . ."

I believe that all of these suggestions have been worked over by our committee at length. And I would urge you to vote against amending this proposal and would vote for passing it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the proposed amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost.

We are back on the question of the adoption of the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-46.

Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates: I don't know if there is another provision, and it's difficult for us reading 1-46 to determine this, and so I'm going to have to ask the question regarding the reason that the language "and obtaining safety" has been removed from this provision. It seems to me basically in looking at Section 1 that we — I don't find too much wrong with the language that was there, nor do I find any reason not to add "the pursuit of health" as one of our inalienable rights. But deleting some of these things bothers me. And I'd like to ask some committee member why "and obtain safety" has been removed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will a committee member answer Delegate Nething's question?

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: To answer Delegate Nething, I don't believe that we felt that this was easy to define. We felt that it was excess at this stage in the section. There are so many parts of our rights, which I've gone into before, which explain the methods of redress against injury, and which explain the fact that, for instance, the Constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land. So that many of these things have already been assumed over many years and have also been taken — been reaffirmed in the Constitution of the United States. And we felt that at this time that this was excess, that it actually did not mean anything.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates: In my opinion the declaration of rights is one place in our Constitution where we can afford some excess language, if there is any place, and particularly the section relating to the personal rights. I know that the matter of individuals, for example, being guaranteed the opportunity to obtain safety has been relied on in the matters of permitting the police power of the state. And I'm sure there's other things that are there, too, that have been the basis of some very thoughtful Supreme Court decisions and opinions. I like the idea of having language there to protect the individual's rights and to specifically spell them out; keeping in mind, however, that the Federal Constitution, of course, governs.

However, I guess, Mr. President, I have a question for you. If we were to defeat this proposal would we then retain Section 1 as it is or is this another one of these that might go back to the committee for reworking?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething, in the event that we defeat this proposal I was informed a few moments ago that according to the Rules that this proposal would be dead. However, it would remain in the possession of the Convention and if the Convention so chooses it can refer it back to the committee of original issue.

DELEGATE NETHING: I just wanted to have you reaffirm that, Mr. President. Sounds like a pretty good idea. I would urge — not with the idea that we are against the committee work, that we're against the things that are in this proposed language — but I honestly feel that the language that we have should have been kept and expanded upon instead of eliminated. That's the reason I'm going to vote "no" on this. And I would encourage others.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meiginger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President. I don't rise to defend the new wording, but I do object to the old wording in Section 1. And to me the last sentence tells me that I have the right to obtain happiness and safety. And I don't think any Constitution can guarantee you that right to have safety and happiness. I think you have the right to pursue it. But if it's guaranteed to all people, as the present wording says, some of them have been missing the boat.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. It seems to me it is an appropriate time to make the remarks that I am about to make. I have heard before the Convention started, and have heard since, that one of the things we are to do is to strengthen our Constitution, particularly in making the State stronger, and to resist the encroachment of the Federal Government. Therefore, I believe that taking things out of our Constitution because they seem to be guaranteed by the Federal Constitution is effecting the opposite approach. And I think we should not take anything out of our Constitution, particularly on this question of rights, merely because it may be guaranteed or protected by some federal action.

And as much as I admire the work that the committee has done, and as little as I object to the addition of the word "health", I will vote "no" because I like Section 1 out of the present Constitution.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor: I believe — excuse me, Delegate Tudor, but I believe Delegate Hubrig would like the floor. And I believe you have spoken before.

Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President. I will pass to Dr. Tudor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Dr. Tudor, Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President. I should like to point out to Delegate Nething and Delegate Pearce that this right to which — that they are worried about is secured to the people in Committee Proposal 1-63 which I have read in part before: "The people shall have the right to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and other possessions against unreasonable searches, seizures, invasions of privacy or unreasonable interception of communications . . ." And I believe that this right is in the committee proposal already. It's in a committee proposal which our own committee has also proposed for the new draft. And for this reason I would again urge you to vote to go along with our committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE FIEDLER: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-46.

Hearing no further discussion, I will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 76 "ayes," 21 "nays," one delegate absent. The proposal passes.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-47.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-47, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 3 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the supreme law of the land.

"(SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 3 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"(SECTION 2. A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land."

DELEGATE HUCKLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Huckle.

DELEGATE HUCKLE: I will relate some of the —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Huckle, would you hold the mike just a little closer to your mouth?

DELEGATE HUCKLE: Okay. I will relate some committee comments on this particular proposal; Section 3 of the North Dakota Constitution suggested to be repealed and a new section created, both of which refer to the supreme law of the land. The new section omits the fact that the State of North Dakota is an inseparable part of the American Union. And the committee's opinion was that it is a well-known fact that we are. And indeed it was unnecessary wordage. We encourage a do pass on this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: After the vote on the code of ethics I would like to make this observation; that an idea shouldn't be blamed for its friend. So when I address myself on this subject I hope the delegates would keep that in mind.

I think the committee has improved on the language by recognizing that the State of North Dakota is an inseparable part of the American Union. That is an accepted fact. So is the fact that the Constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land.

Now there is a Columbia constitutional attorney that wrote a book on drafting state constitutions, and he says one of the questions that you ought to ask yourself when you are considering putting something into the constitution is can this be achieved some other way? Well, the supreme law of the land is achieved in some other way. It is stated in Article VI of the U. S. Constitution. And, therefore, this language is really not necessary in our constitution any more than the fact that the state is an inseparable part of the American Union.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments? Any further discussion? The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-47.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing no further discussion, I shall open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 88 "ayes," 8 "nays," two absent and not voting. So the Committee Proposal No. 1-47 is passed.

Next for consideration by the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-48.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-48, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 10 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to right to assemble."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: In this section 10 the only thing that has been retained by the Committee is the first sentence. The second sentence of this section of the 1889 Constitution has been deleted because the Committee felt that it is extraneous material, and is not relevant to the present time. And we unanimously recommend a do pass on this section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-48. Hearing no further discussion, I will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 94 "ayes," 2 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-48 is passed.

Next for the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-49.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-49, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 12 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the military being subordinate to the civil power."

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 12 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The military shall be subordinate to the civil power."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: What we have done in this case is to eliminate the second sentence of present Section 12 of our Constitution. We felt that it dealt with matters that were no longer pertinent to the modern day and age having to do with maintaining a standing army in the State and troops and other archaic practices that we thought were no longer matters of jeopardy to the people of the State of North Dakota.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-49. The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President, I vote "aye."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It isn't locked yet, Delegate Hernet.

The vote is closed. Roll call discloses 97 "ayes," no "nays," one delegate absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-49 passed.

Next for consideration of the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-50.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-50, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 17 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to slavery, be repealed.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 17 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President. Does this mean white slavery, too?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does anyone care to answer Delegate Meidinger's question?

Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Section 17 of the Constitution reads as follows:

"Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crime, shall ever be tolerated in this state."

In view of the Thirteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution, the committee unanimously felt this should be deleted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions? Is there any further discussion? The question before the Convention is on the passage of Committee Proposal 1-50.

Hearing no further discussion, the Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 94 "ayes," 2 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-50 is passed.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I wish to explain my "no" vote. My feeling is just because it is embodied in the Federal Constitution, that's not a reason not to speak to that subject in this Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. I would echo the same sentiments as expressed by Delegate Kelsch. The wording — the extra expense of that small section would have been very light.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman, listening to my Fellow Delegate Kelsch explaining his reason for a "no" vote, I neglected to vote. But could I have the record show that I voted "aye"? Or am I out of order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe according to our Rules that it's too late for you to record a vote.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: As I understand it, and as I understand our Rules, while the machine is running and before the vote has been announced you may either change or you may record your vote. However, I believe that it is now too late.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: May I inquire as to why doesn't a delegate give his reasons before the vote instead of after the vote?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Pass.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, it is really nice to know that even some of the attorneys are human.

The next Committee Proposal for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-51.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-51, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 19 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to treason against the state, be repealed.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 19 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any discussion? The question —

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: The committee felt that Section 19 of the North Dakota Constitution, since we are an inseparable part of the United States, that any act of treason against this state would be an act of treason against the United States. And so we felt that this was just surplus wordage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Any comments?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question —

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Which proposal are we on?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on 1-51.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Mr. Clerk, it's lighted on the board, isn't it?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Well, Mr. President, I was hoping that the question would be raised here by someone else as to a little more of the reasoning of the repeal of our definition in the Constitution. While it is true that treason is treated in many sections of law and in the Federal Constitution and all over the place, this does — to undertake to define this in the Constitution, the act of treason, it probably might be subject to some criticism on the grounds that there's some legislation on it. But I think that that is such a serious subject that I for one would like to hear some additional explanation of the reasoning that the committee gave when they decided to delete this section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any comment?

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: If you will notice, in Section 19 it refers to treason as an act of war against the state. I find it, and I'm sure the committee found it, very hard to visualize an act of war against the State of North Dakota unless it revolves around some other action from a person from another state or action within North Dakota. I don't think, and I'm sure the committee doesn't think, that it is necessary to have this in the Constitution. Because the Federal Constitution and the Federal Statutes, which are also the supreme law of the land or supreme to the Constitution of North Dakota, take care of this very well.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Again a question to the committee. Not only — I agree with Delegate Lamb that it is unlikely that you'd have treason as an act of war. But this is a definition of treason. Could the legislative repealers declare that to criticize the governor of the state be an act of treason? You note that this provision does limit very specifically what treason is. And if we do not speak of it, are the people free to read into it something other than an overt act?

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Treason is also defined in the statutes of North Dakota. And it is a crime. And I can see no reason for defining one particular crime in the Constitution, such as murder or rape or breaking and entering, as treason. We are particularly defining or attempting to define treason. Because of a statement that was made by Mr. Lamb and because it is taken care of by statute I believe that it's unnecessary.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I don't think that you could put this in the same class as murder or other crimes. Because this is a political crime. And in many countries of the world people are imprisoned for what they say. And I'm not sure that we should keep this section. I am also not satisfied that we should not address ourselves to the Constitution just what we think treason is. You notice it's a very narrow definition. It requires an overt act. And if we leave it up to some simple legislative act, they can say that a vocal challenge or conspiracy other than an overt act might be treason.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol? Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I'll move that further consideration of Committee Proposal No. 1-51 be laid over one Convention day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker moves that further consideration of Committee Proposal 1-51 be laid over one Convention day. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

Is there any further discussion? The question is on the motion of Delegate Baker.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the motion lost.

We are back on the Committee Proposal No. 1-51.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: This seems to be becoming a battle of law partners here, but I rise to support Delegate Kelsch. Treason is one of the oldest weapons of power in any organized government. More people have been incarcerated and executed for treason than any other type of political crime. I can't feel that it belongs in any category similar to it. While we prosecute people for murder in the name of the state, and it's a crime against the public, it's a pretty personal crime as far as the individual murdered personally is concerned. The same with all of the other types of crime.

This is a crime against the State. It is without any individual being the victim. And the reason I think we have to maintain the definition of it is exactly as has been pointed out by Delegate Kelsch. Remember that we are not writing a constitution for the status of society as we see it today. Let us not be lulled into the peacefulness of the present times, if we can call them peaceful. We may be peaceful here, but a great deal of the world is not peaceful. And many people in this world would welcome some kind of a constitutional definition of what treason is and particularly what it is not. And it is the exclusion of other things that is the important thing here.

I have never known anyone in North Dakota indicted or proceeded against for treason. However, if we eliminate the definition of it I'm not sure that sometime before another Constitutional Convention we might not see that happen. I don't want that to happen. That's why I vote to retain what we have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: Mr. President. I, too, feel — speak in favor of Delegate Kelsch's motion. I feel that we should speak on this subject —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre, I do not believe we have a motion. I think that this is discussion on the final passage of — not the final passage, but on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-51. We do not have an amendment or anything before the Convention.

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: You're correct, Mr. President. I'm sorry.

I would like to speak, however, against this particular proposal. I think we should speak to the subject of treason. I am not satisfied with the way the present section states it, but I do think we should speak to it in some way.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. I also support the position of Delegate Kelsch. And I don't believe that the argument that treason is covered by statute is really legitimate and a reason why we should knock it out of the Constitution, any more than the sentiment that a lot of delegates feel that the right to work statute covers a constitutional provision.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I am in agreement with Delegate Pearce that never in the history of the state has there ever been any proceeding under this section, never has it been subject to construction by the courts. So far this definition has served no purpose in this basic document, and the committee could conceive of no case where it would ever be used. And we felt that the proper thing under those circumstances was to delete it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-51.

Hearing no further discussion, the Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Pardon me. I think you have to announce the vote first. Am I out of order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You are out of order.

Roll call discloses 46 "ayes," 50 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-51 lost.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: We now have defeated the proposal which was a repealer. And of course we don't know whether we still have the definition before us or not. And I would just like to suggest from a procedural standpoint that in light of the expression of the assembly that the Committee on Preamble consider presenting a proposal relating to treason.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Now having the vote recorded, and the sentiment of the Convention known to the committee, I think what we would probably do in that case is to follow the procedure that we have in other instances where we are retaining in the new Constitution or the revised Constitution the exact language of a section of the old Constitution. So I think that the committee probably would present the old language again to this Convention as a committee proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, does that answer your question?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question was answered.

Committee Proposal No. 1-52 is before the Convention for consideration.

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I assume we are about to recess for lunch. If we may, I'd like to go on the twelfth order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order of business. No objection, we are on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. I move that you extend to Delegate Darold Benz the wishes of all the delegates for a speedy recovery from his surgery, and an early return to this Convention to assist us in our work. And, further, that you send to Delegate Benz a floral remembrance from us to cheer his hospital room and ask you to let us know the cost and we will reimburse you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner —

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner, might I inform the Convention this is an excellent idea. However, our Committee on Resolutions is in the process of drafting a resolution expressing the similar thoughts to Delegate Benz. And I am sure that we can at that time take care of the suggestion of the flowers.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I would withdraw the motion in that case.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President. In light of the fact that we are about to recess, and maybe we'll do so until 1:30, if we do I would like to call a meeting of the Resolutions Committee for one o'clock in the West Balcony Room up here.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Could we be on the eighth order, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order of business.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I should like to announce that there will be no open forum discussion tonight at the Highway Department, but that our next meeting will be Tuesday, January 18th, at which time we will consider the problem of dedicated highway funds and possibly some other proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any further announcements while we are on the eighth order? I'm sorry, I should be on the sixth order. No. I'm right, strange as it may seem. We're on the eighth order of business for announcements. As long as there are none, we will go back on the twelfth order.

Next number — I should be on the tenth order. Now I'm right. We have before the Convention Committee Proposal No. 1-52.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-52, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 21 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to provisions of the constitution being mandatory and prohibitory, be repealed."

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 21 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I again merely want to call the attention of the Convention to the language of Section 21, which I will read. It's very short.

"The provisions of this constitution are mandatory and prohibitory unless, by express words, they are declared to be otherwise."

If we eliminate that we're in effect telling the people of North Dakota that the Constitution does not have specific meaning. I think this should be rejected.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President. The committee in studying this section felt that the section was simply a statement which is inherent in constitutional law and it thus is unnecessary. And in a Supreme Court — North Dakota Supreme Court case it was stated: "It is an established general rule that constitutional provisions are to be construed as mandatory unless a different intention is manifested. In this state this rule has been embodied in the Constitution."

Now as the court says, it is an established rule that constitutional provisions are to be construed as mandatory. Then why is it necessary to have this section? I submit that it is not. And this is the feeling of the committee. Even if it had not been in the 1889 Constitution, the court decisions referring to it would be no different because it states that it is a basic constitutional philosophy which our court points out in this Supreme Court case and other cases that have taken place.

And I would like to further state that if this provision is so necessary in the State Constitution as has been contended, then why does not the 1970 Illinois Constitution, the 1959 Alaska Constitution, the 1959 Hawaii Constitution, the 1964 Michigan Constitution, or, for that matter, the constitutions of our two sister states, Minnesota and South Dakota contain it? I believe the reason such a section is not present in these constitutions is because the drafters recognized that there was no need for such language. Because, as the North Dakota Supreme Court has said, such a rule is implied in constitutional law construction.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates. I rise in opposition to repeal of Section 21 of the North Dakota Constitution. I believe that just previously we heard the statement on the previous proposition that there had been no cases referring to the issue before us; and, therefore, we probably should not have it in the Constitution. And that was the one relating to treason.

If you will look at the North Dakota courts, you will find that Section 21 has been referred to on numerous occasions. And it is referred to not only in the case which has been mentioned here by Delegate Daniels, but back in 1921 in Wilson versus City of Fargo, the Supreme Court of North Dakota said there are numerous other decisions which cite Section 21. And we have continually through our proceedings cited this section.

I agree that perhaps if we had never had it in our Constitution originally then we would be discussing a different matter. But since we have that in it, we have had numerous decisions based on Section 21, and it appears to me that we would be asking for numerous other litigations if we do not include Section 21 in the new Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I would remind the delegates that decisions of the Supreme Court are not immutable. There was a time when the Supreme Court of the United States said that facilities for persons of other colors separate but equal was constitutional. That's no longer the situation. The same court has said otherwise.

I would ask this: If the provisions of this Constitution are not mandatory and prohibitory, what are they?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Someone wish to answer Delegate Kelsch's — or Delegate Pearce's question?

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I do not wish to answer Delegate Pearce except to agree with him and reaffirm what he said. And I would particularly like to compliment Delegate Daniels on her presentation and the clear and concise manner in which she did present the committee's reasons for this repeal, the suggestion for repeal, and I would like to ask you all to concur with the committee's opinion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething, did you have a question?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates: I thought that Delegate Pearce was speaking to retain the current language, but I guess maybe Delegate Tudor and I think different on that.

I think it should be pointed out if we take this section out of the Constitution, or the change that could be made in the Supreme Court, then we have no interpretation left of the section. And I can't honestly see anything wrong with leaving it.

Now, the fact that these other states do not have it does not particularly impress me, because they probably didn't have the benefit of the people in this deliberative body to make their decisions. And I really think that in looking at the Constitution, as in the Volume XIII, I note ten particular cases, and as Delegate Aas says, there are many that refer to it. What would happen if we took it out, I do not know. But it would certainly leave open the question for the court to decide again. And I'm not so sure that's necessary. I think we should defeat this proposal.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I would just like to make mention of the fact that the constitutional revision study commission that existed in 1965 and '67 had this under consideration and concurred with the decision of our committee in recommending that it be repealed because the provisions are construed as mandatory without this statement.

DELEGATE SINNER: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-52.

Hearing no further discussion, I will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 62 "ayes," 35 "nays," one delegate absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-52 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-54.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-54, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 209 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to child labor, be repealed."

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 209 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-54.

Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President. The committee asked for repeal on page 107 of the blue book. We've got the reasons for repeal of Section 209, child labor. We are not trying in our committee to transfer the rights of North Dakota to the Federal Government. But it's a fact that the federal law is stronger than the present law — present Constitution of the State of North Dakota. And this is why we asked for the repeal. The committee felt that it was not necessary to be in the Constitution any longer. And it was a legislative matter, also.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-54.

Hearing no further discussion, the Clerk will open the key, and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 94 "ayes," 3 "nays," one delegate absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-54 is passed.

Next for your consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-46 —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 18. 1-18.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — 1-18.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-18, introduced by the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 215 and 216 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article VIII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to public institutions.”

“SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 215 and 216 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

“SECTION 2.) Article VIII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“Article VIII. Public Institutions. Section 1. The public institutions which received lands by an Act of Congress of February 22, 1889, shall retain such lands subject to the limitation on trust (school and public) lands contained in this Constitution.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-18.

Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President. I should have objected to this being moved to the foot of the calendar, because we had public hearings on these two sections and no one appeared. I move that — I urge that the Convention approve the committee’s recommendation of 1-18.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, I merely wanted to inquire of some member of the committee what method will be used to dispose of the Ellendale land grant of 40,000 acres?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President. Our Committee Proposal 1-17, which has not yet reached the Convention floor, contains a provision in Section 2 of that proposal to take care of the trust lands and trust funds of any of these institutions which may cease to exist.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I move to amend Committee Proposal 1-18. The Chief Clerk has my amendment. If he will read it from the desk, I will appreciate it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will read the proposed amendment as offered by Delegate Pearce.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Following line 15 of Proposal 1-18, add the following:

Section 2. The seat of government of the state of North Dakota shall be at the City of Bismarck in the County of Burleigh.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now do we have a second to the amendment?

DELEGATE O’TOOLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O’Toole seconded.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I believe that I made my point clear earlier when it was on the calendar. I do believe that the seat of government should be established by the Constitution. That’s the sole purpose of the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Pearce. Ready for the question?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment. As many as are in favor of the amendment will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it, and the amendment is adopted.

Now we have Committee Proposal No. 1-18 before the Convention as amended.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I believe that Delegate Cart asked a sound question here. And I’m wondering if the committee considered what would happen to these tracts of land if some of these institutions are changed, and no doubt some of them should. And what disposition would be made of them; whether or not they gave any consideration as to whether or not those would go to the State of North Dakota or back to the Federal Government? And I think that some inquiry should be made about it, and that some thinking should be given as to what would happen under those conditions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. In response to Delegate Longmire's inquiry, as was brought out by Delegate Knudson, in the Committee Proposal 1-17, which is not before the Convention, we will propose that these lands be allocated or apportioned amongst the other trust funds. So if an institution ceases to operate, then that trust or those trust lands will be divided amongst the other trust funds or trust lands. So it's just a matter of reapportioning or reallocating the original trust as it was set up by the United States.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates. In the Enabling Act which we referred to constantly in setting up this particular article there was no specific mention of institutions at any particular place. There are certain acres given to the School of Mines, Reform School, for State Normal Schools, and so forth. And, therefore, we thought it feasible to — and much more — and much better to the organization of the Constitution to omit this and then, as Delegate Devine has mentioned, we have not disturbed the income or the lands. They will be allocated to the remaining trust institutions that were set up in the Enabling Act.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Delegates. This — I have no objection whatsoever to leaving Bismarck as the seat of government. But I would like to point out what may happen in the future in the legislature. You people in Grand Forks and Fargo and bigger cities should maybe not feel so secure. If Fargo, Jamestown, Valley City, Bismarck, Minot and Williston got together, they could move the University to Fargo. The same pertains to the smaller ones. Now there will be a continual grab for the school at Mayville, school at Dickinson, in some of the larger cities there may be. And it might lead to continual bickering in the legislature. There has been lots of that about the institutions.

And in lieu of that fact rather than explain the vote later, I am going to explain my vote ahead of time. And I think that this hasn't had enough thought by the Convention as a whole, no doubt by the committee, but it will lead to a lot of — it might lead to a lot of politicking later on. And some of the bigger cities haven't been a bit averse to grabbing the institutions from the smaller communities.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President. In order that we may have this proposal before us properly, I would move that the Rules be suspended and that Proposal 1-18 be placed on First Reading and First Passage as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad, I think I'm going to rule your motion out of order for the moment. There could be additional amendments offered to this from the floor. For that reason, I haven't asked for that motion.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Well, Mr. President, would it not have to be on the tenth order of business in order to be amended?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the tenth order of business.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Thank you.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Knudson has asked for the floor.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President. I was going to attempt to answer some of Delegate Rundle's objections. I think this is a matter which the legislatures in the future will have to face as our population in our state keeps changing; locations where there are dense populations become denser, and the population in the rest of the state becomes scarcer. We are going to face situations like the one that the legislature faced this past session in regard to the school at Ellendale.

I think this Convention would be neglecting its responsibility if it keeps the legislature's hands tied in this manner.

Delegate Pearce mentioned earlier that there is a large investment in every one of these institutions. And certainly the fact that there is that large investment is going to inhibit — inhibit any legislatures from likely making any changes such as Delegate Rundle has suggested.

Several of the delegates from our committee have mentioned that we had hearings posted on this. No one from this Convention or anywhere else appeared to be heard. So the committee passed the thing out to get it here and get it heard and hear what the objections are.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President. I just would like to question Delegate Pearce's amendment in this respect; that you are repealing all of Section 215. In other words, that first paragraph in Section 215 will all be deleted. In that paragraph as it is now it refers to: "The following public institutions of the state are permanently located at the places hereinafter named . . ." Well, that will all be deleted, so if Delegate Pearce amends this, as I see it it doesn't quite fit. Because there's no description before in which would provide for names and places of institutions. In other words, if you read Section 1 as it is now, then you add to it a Section 2, "The seat of government shall be in Bismarck," it doesn't necessarily make any sense, I don't think.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I'm a member of the Education Committee, and I have spoken against deletion or against the change because I feel that this is a protective for all of our schools to be named in the Constitution. And if there is such time where they are going to have to be changed or whatever, it gives the people a chance to consider this. If it's taken and changed in the way we have before us, all of a sudden these things will be changed and it will not be called to the attention of the people. As a representative of the people, I think they should remain in there as they are.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I agree with the committee's proposal. But I'm wondering if they accomplished what they intend. As I understand it, in the case of Ellendale they do not intend the Ellendale land should not be permanently affixed to Ellendale; right? But the wording is that public institutions which receive lands shall retain the land. Are we freezing them into every institution that had them? Doesn't this freeze it into them so there is no way of selling, disposing or transferring to others?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any member of the committee wish to answer the question?

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. Following up on what our other people have said, it says here "shall retain such lands subject to the limitations on trust (school and public) lands contained in this constitution."

Now as our other two delegates have attempted to explain, and perhaps our order is not right, our Proposal 1-17 will speak in this Constitution, if adopted, to that question. And hopefully if our reasoning was correct, it would then allow such things to happen if all of it were passed in that form.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President. I would first suggest to Delegate Hernet that it can stand alone, I believe, because, as I recall, the motion which was made and passed, Section 2 said "the seat of government . . . shall be in the City of . . ." and I think the "shall be" does make it logical and sequential, and in a sense giving direction to the legislative session at least to the seat of government.

Next on the general question of overall passage of 1-18. I would submit that there are those who do not address the legislature, including one of my colleagues very close to me. And I would submit that the legislature to Delegate Peterson has had little difficulty so far in doing exactly what they felt was necessary in eliminating the institution. The delegate has brought that to our attention very frequently during the many hours that we spent in talking about sections of trust lands and of the location of these institutions. And for my money it's high time that we start thinking about the hours that some of these committees have put into these sections and the work that they have devoted to consideration of the rights of both individuals and in this case institutions. I don't think the legislature is about to do away with institutions that are named in the Constitution, but I don't think they are about to do away with any institutions as it is in terms of value to these institutions unless there aren't students or unless those institutions at some time in the future need to be consolidated or need to be coordinated with other institutions. And we ought to leave that availability there for the legislative assembly in its discretion to do that in the future. That basically was the position of our committee; that we rather doubt it will be done. But the possibility that it could be necessary in the future is there. And the legislature would find a way to get around it as has been proven already, if it were necessary to do it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Just one other point. I think you say "subject to limitations." You're further limiting. I think you used the wrong word. The word "limitation" shouldn't be in there. I think the way this says is you "shall retain subject to further limitations." And a "further limitation" couldn't be one that would allow the transfer of those lands to somebody else. I think you should say instead "subject to other provisions of the constitution," but not "limitations." I think you're boxing yourself in here with the word "limitation."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BILLEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Billey.

DELEGATE BILLEY: Fellow Delegates: I have mixed emotions regarding this committee proposal. On behalf of my community of Ellendale and its residents, I respectfully request that you approve this report. Repeal of the third paragraph of Section 216 represents the last step in authorizing the sale of the entire Ellendale campus to the Trinity Bible Institute of Jamestown. This special committee in charge of finding a buyer for this campus has made a tentative agreement with the Institute. As some of you probably know, if this Convention and the electorate do not approve this change, an amendment to remove paragraph 3 will appear on the primary election in September. I cannot emphasize too strongly Ellendale wants this matter resolved at the earliest possible time.

Now for the benefit of a couple of delegates who would like to know the reasons for voting before we vote, I would like to explain why I intend to vote "no."

First of all, Commissioner Raschke testified at the August meeting of our Education, Resources and Public Lands Committee, and he stated he has "No strong feelings on the institutions being placed by name in the Constitution, but would like to make it possible for the legislature and the Board of Higher Education to eliminate one if change of circumstances demanded it." That language is in the committee minutes on page 5 if anyone cares to check.

I believe that these two sections should be retained, and I agree with the Commissioner that language should be added to set forth a procedure for terminating any public institution.

Second, the interim report which you have on your desk under Section 215, we have a statement in there that says the committee appeared to feel the legislature should be allowed to deal with the various institutions if an emergency arose, such as the Ellendale situation, and should not be forced to maintain an institution if it were not in the best interests of the state to do so.

I do not believe that the best interests of the State of North Dakota are being served by selling the Ellendale campus, valued at over three million dollars, for one dollar until every use for the benefit of the people of North Dakota has been investigated. The legislative study that was conducted after the fire in 1970 represents the last in-depth look at alternate uses for the Ellendale campus. And it did not recommend closure. In recent weeks one announced candidate for governor and another likely candidate for governor, as well as a daily newspaper in this state editorially, have advocated an expansion of vocational education. It is my contention that there has been no hearing on, or any feasibility study of, utilizing this campus for such vocational-technical education.

Third, the interim report under Section 216 states: "The committee appeared to feel that the legislature should be allowed to adjust the locations of the institutions if the necessity arose, but that the provisions of the grant shall continue until one or more specific institutions ceased to exist."

One could interpret that language to mean that the legislature could play checkers with our public institutions. I certainly hope this is not the case. The closure of Ellendale in my opinion is a first step in the direction of reducing the number of institutions of higher education in this state. I firmly believe that higher education needs some changes; however, I think it should be done with a master plan to realign programs of higher education. The changes should not come about by closing the institutions one at a time.

As a taxpayer, I oppose the disposal of three million dollars worth of buildings and property while several million dollars worth of new buildings are being constructed at other locations.

Fourth, and finally — since I know we're all anxious to get to lunch — I object to the repeal of the language at the end of Section 216, and I quote: ". . . provided, that no other institution of a character similar to any one of those located by this article shall be established or maintained without a restriction of this Constitution." Repeal of this language could open the door for the legislature to acquire by gift or purchase, I feel, without obtaining the approval of the people, of more educational institutions such as any one of the junior colleges now owned by local school districts or even possibly a private college. If we cannot afford to operate our existing institutions of higher education, how can we afford to take on a new responsibility? I believe the people of North Dakota should retain this right to say whether or not they want to accept any additional public institutions.

Now, I have spoken on both sides of the question. Really what I would like to see is that these two sections be retained, and that the repeal language regarding the Ellendale question be presented to the people as a separate question. I realize it's not an emotional issue and will not probably affect the outcome on the final vote on our basic package; however, by presenting it as a separate question it would get the Ellendale question solved at the time of the election on the Constitution. And I believe it would be effective regardless of whether the basic document fails to pass.

As I stated earlier, the thing that I want most — and the thing that the people in my community want most — is to have this question resolved as quickly as possible. I thank you for your patience.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. Chairman. I would like to commend Delegate Billey for his statement. And I would like to say that I agree fully with everything he said being his fellow delegate from the 28th District. And I think he also expressed the feelings of the entire 28th District.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. I believe that Delegate Kelsch raised a valid question there. I would like to offer an amendment to Committee Proposal 1-18.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is the amendment at the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The amendment will be read.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Amendment to Committee Proposal 1-18.

On page 1, line 14, delete the word "limitations" and insert in lieu thereof the word "provisions."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten.

Now the question is before the assembly on the amendment as offered by Delegate Devine.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

Any further discussion? If we are going to move further with Proposal No. 1-18 at this time we need a motion that the Rules be suspended, that the proposal be deemed properly engrossed and it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended. Will someone make that motion?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I will repeat my motion.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been presented by Delegate Saugstad, it's been seconded by Delegate Longmire.

No further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And Committee Proposal No. 1-18 is before the Convention for first passage.

No further discussion, I will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 84 "ayes," 12 "nays," two delegates absent and not voting. Committee proposal No. 1-18 is passed.

Without objection, we will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I would like to change the meeting of the Resolutions Committee from one to 1:20.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. The Committee on Finance and Taxation has had a meeting scheduled for 1:30 today on Committee Proposal 1-21, Section 8 of that proposal, dealing with government and business. And I think that we may have some witnesses on it. I would appreciate it if the committee members would make every effort possible to be there at 1:30 if they can.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. The Committee on Legislative Functions will meet at 2:15, Large Hearing Room.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President. I have just had the signal transferred over here. I'll announce that the Committee on Executive Functions will meet at two o'clock.

And while I'm on my feet I'd like to inquire, Mr. President, did I miss it or were there four committee proposals turned in this morning from our committee?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet, they haven't been read. Possibly we should read them.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I would like to see them be read. That would be under the tenth order, wouldn't it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Tenth order of business. And I believe that we should take them, on second thought. I thought that because of the hour that we would pass over those, but I believe that because of the schedule set up for tomorrow and the next day we should take them and they be adopted.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President. I think the members of my committee expected they will be. And so I would like to see that they will — it will only take a couple of minutes, won't it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sure the Convention will agree to your request. I'm glad, Delegate Hernet, that you did bring that to our attention.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Were there any further announcements on committee meetings?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I have one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: There are some announcements at the desk before we go to the fifth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee will hear Delegate Proposal 2-68 creating a new section to the constitution pertaining to the right to family farming at two P.M., Lewis and Clark Room, Monday, January 17th.

Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee will hear Delegate Proposal 2-53 creating a new section to the constitution pertaining to right to obtain employment or practice a profession and preclusion of corporations from engaging in farming, two P.M., Lewis and Clark Room, Monday, January 17th.

Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage will hear Delegate Proposal 2-78 creating a new section to the constitution pertaining to non-discrimination in licensing, two P.M., Lewis and Clark Room, Monday, January 17th.

Executive Functions Committee will meet in Room G-5 and 6 Wednesday, January 12th, at 1:15 P.M. and hear Proposal 1-9.

I'd like to remind the delegates of the statewide telecast quiz on the constitution tonight at 6:30 P.M. on the KX stations. The local station is Channel 12, 11 on Cable TV.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on — we'll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. May we still be on the eighth a minute?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the eighth.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: The Judicial Committee will meet at the usual place, the Gold Room, at two o'clock. We will be considering again, as we have all week, Committee Proposals 1-11 and 1-12. If any of you delegates have put in delegate proposals that relate to either of those two and want to be heard this afternoon, we'd be glad to have you come.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: The announcement just read from the desk that the Executive Functions would be meeting at 1:15, well, that's kind of out of date. That's at a time that we didn't realize the lateness of the hour. So it is still two o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President. The Committee on Education and Public Lands will meet at 1:45 instead of 1:30 as posted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the — is there no further business on the eighth order of business? We will go to the twelfth order of business — Motions.

And Delegate Saugstad moves that the following Committee Proposals 1-18, 1-34, 1-46, 1-47, 1-48, 1-49, 1-50, 1-52, 1-54 be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

Now do we have a second?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Longmire.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. This goes to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

Now we will go on the fifth order of business. We'll be on the fifth order of business, committee reports.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-13 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-13, that the report be amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And the report is adopted and placed on the sixth order for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-19 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal 1-19, that it do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is placed on the tenth order for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-25 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal 1-25, that the proposal do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Proposal No. 1-25 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-26 has had the same under consideration; and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-26, that the proposal do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is adopted. It will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-27 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-27, that it do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-27 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Executive Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-28 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Hernet, Chairman.

Delegate Hernet moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-28, that it do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is adopted. This will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

The Clerk will read the calendar as established at this point for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Through my hen scratching I hope we come out right here. On the sixth order we'd have Committee Proposals 1-20, 1-39, 1-43, and 1-13.

On the tenth order it would be Committee Proposals 1-56, 1-57, 1-58, 1-59, 1-60, 1-61, 1-62, 1-64, 1-65, 1-66, 1-68, 1-71, 1-73, 1-23, 1-19, 1-25, 1-26, 1-27 and 1-28.

I believe we'll be able to have the calendars up here sometime this afternoon so if any of you would like to stop at your desks and see whether your calendars are in. With the printing — the way it has been working we haven't been able to get the calendars in the afternoon. So if any of you would like to see the printed calendar as it will be tomorrow, I think they will be here before we quit this afternoon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase, will you move that absent delegates be excused?

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President, I move that the absent delegates be excused.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved and it has been seconded that the absent delegates be excused.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the motion is adopted.

Now anything further?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Desk is clear.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move that we adjourn until nine A.M., January 13th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that the Convention be now adjourned until nine o'clock, January 13th.

Second to the motion?

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Simonson.

Those in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Convention is adjourned.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 12:49 o'clock P.M., Wednesday, January 12, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Thursday, January 13, 1972.)

VOLUME IX

(January 13, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

"The ninth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:20 A.M., January 13, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is Captain Thomas Lewis with the Salvation Army in Bismarck.

CAPTAIN THOMAS LEWIS: Eternal Father, as we stand before Thee this day, we implore Thy wisdom and guidance for each one gathered here. May each of these Delegates be given the wisdom which will help make our state a great place in which to live.

This we request in the name of Thy Son.

In Jesus' Name, Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be on the third order of business — Roll Call. The Clerk will open the key and you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 95 delegates present, 3 absent. A quorum is declared.

Fellow Delegates, I'm sorry to report that we have another delegate on the sick list this morning. Delegate Vance Hill is at home with a case of the flu.

We will be on the fourth order of business — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 11th day of January, 1972, and finds the same to be correct.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Paulson moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report of the — Revision and Correction of the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. Mrs. Simonson has a vote that's recorded — not recorded. And I move that on page 160 of the Journal the listing of Mrs. Simonson as absent and not voting be amended to show that she voted "nay".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner, I wonder — would you explain the situation?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The Journal we're talking about on this correction and revision is not yesterday's Journal, but the preceding day's Journal. So it will be tomorrow on the correction and revision.

DELEGATE SINNER: Withdraw the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then the question. The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report of the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is adopted.

Fellow Delegates, yesterday and the day before — maybe I should say the day before yesterday — two prepared statements or informative — or at least I term them to be informative — papers were left on your desk. One was pertaining to parliamentary procedures, the other was a definition of rules. Then yesterday a report was placed on your desks for the purpose of sort of forming an outline of how a proposal would work its way through the Convention and into the ultimate document.

Now at the request of the Rules Committee I am going to suggest this morning that we go through that paper that was delivered to your desks yesterday, that this paper be read by the Clerk from the desk, and then that we go back over it item by item in the hope that should there be sections or parts of our procedure or of our Rules that are not adequately explained that the Rules Committee on a meeting that they wish to have almost immediately could make those amendments to the Rules and then we could adopt Permanent Rules for the Convention.

Now without objection, I would like to proceed on this discussion at this time. And in order that the procedures and one thing and another do not have to be a part of the permanent record, I believe it would be well if we declared the Convention at ease and then went ahead and did this thing while we were sort of in a state of limbo. And anyone that wishes to comment on a rule or ask a question on the rule for the purpose of clarification, or so that the Rules Committee would know that a change should be made for the purpose of clarification or for a way of improving our procedures, then we would take care of that the next meeting of the committee.

Now Chairman Geelan of the Rules Committee, is that pretty much in line with what you suggest?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. Thank you. That is exactly what we would like. And I hope that the Convention will sustain you in having this extra session.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now without objection, we will follow that procedure for a few moments here this morning.

The Convention will be at ease until such time as we are through with this. (The Session was at ease from 9:29 A.M. until 10:25 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then we will call the Convention to order. The Convention will please come to order.

Then we will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: We have grade 6 of the Wilton Elementary School with Rita Gervais the teacher and 31 students and their driver in the balcony today with us.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the students please rise and receive the recognition of the Convention? (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you very much for being with us this morning. We hope that you have enjoyed our discussion on rules. Possibly out of this might come some parliamentarians for future years.

We will be on the sixth order of business — Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Longmire has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-13, as recommended by the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions and as printed on pages 167 and 168 of the Journal, be adopted.

Amendments are on page 1, delete lines 12 through 25 and insert in lieu thereof: "Section 1. Religious Sentiment."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: May I ask the Chief Clerk if these have been read at the time of the committee report? I don't recall. They were?

Then I move that we dispense with the reading at this time, Mr. President. They are quite lengthy. And I'll try to explain what we are doing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved and seconded that we dispense with the reading of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-13.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the motion is adopted.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: By way of explanation of the amendments, you will note in effect what we have done is to adopt the first section of the original proposal, 1-13, and then to write in two new — rather three new sections to substitute for the other three that we have had in. And we left in Section No. 1 on religious tolerance, even though, as it was called to our attention by Delegate Burke, there is another proposal on that, 1-73.

In discussing this matter with the Assistant Attorney General, we felt that we wanted to continue to emphasize, even though it was in somewhere else, religious freedom in this Constitution, and also for historical purpose to retain the exact wording as we had it in that particular section.

Now this proposal relates to the so-called Compact in the State of North Dakota or all states had to make with the Federal Government when we became a state. However, we considered in this committee that this proposal goes farther than that, it goes back to the Enabling Act which was passed which permitted us to become a state. And we feel that we have to assume in this proposal the obligations of the Enabling Act and other federal statutes that were passed prior to the time or at the time we became a state. And so then what we did in our second section is to recognize our obligations under all of those without expressly writing them in again verbatim.

We made one other change in that. Under the Compact that was amended, which is Section 203, a provision was put in there that the legislature of the State of North Dakota could accept these Indian lands which are discussed in the thing or in the section; however, the Attorney General or the Assistant Attorney General, felt that since that verbiage was not included in the Enabling Act we should use the very wording that the Enabling Act did, that they could be accepted by changes in Congress and by the people of North Dakota. And he said he didn't think in view of the Enabling Act in his opinion that the people could delegate to the legislature their responsibilities under the Enabling Act since it was not provided in there. So that's exactly what we did in this. We changed the wording of the old section which did permit the legislature to accept and put it back with the people.

Now there is a legal decision. There are some decisions on that. An Oklahoma decision which says that this — in spite of this not being in the Enabling Act that way that we could put that provision in a constitution, or rather the state could act on it through its legislature which involved moving the state capitol from the City of Guthrie to the City of Oklahoma City. However, the Attorney General still insisted that in order to be absolutely sure we had to put in an amendment and put it the way we have at the present time. This does involve three sections of the Constitution, 203, 204 and 205.

203 is generally considered as the one dealing — the main part of the Compact, although the whole article is entitled the Compact. We left 204 in again as it was in the previous proposal, although we did add in that section that the legislature could accept changes in the military reservations, because that part of the proposal was not covered in the Enabling Act. And then in 204 again we recognize our obligations by reference to these land grants. And of course the Attorney General took the position that under 204 those obligations had already been accepted, we had accepted these lands, we did not need to put the clause in that the legislature could do anything about it. Because that had already been handled.

So those were the reasons why we rewrote these sections and put them before you in the form of an amendment, because these were the recommendations that were made by the Attorney General's office.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. I sat on the Committee of Judicial Functions, and we have thoroughly, I think, discussed this provision. I do have some objections to amendments by the committee.

First, in Section 2, reference is made to every provision of the Enabling Act being continued in full force and effect. I don't think this is the intent of our committee to have the complete Enabling Act reenacted by a new Constitution.

Second, reference is made to the Constitution of 1889. Now I don't — in Section 2 in reference to Section 203, and Section 4 in reference to Section 205, I think it's real important that if we're going to revise our Constitution we don't — do not make reference to a Constitution that we are just repealing. And that if that subject matter is of such importance the same should be stated verbatim in a revised Constitution.

Third, by including every provision in the Enabling Act as continuing in full force and effect, passage yesterday of Committee Proposal 1-18, which is in reference to public institutions and lands granted by the Enabling Act, our passage of that provision would, in essence, be of no merit.

So I would oppose the adoption of the amendments at this time made by our committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Delegates. Delegate Engelter has been without a doubt one of the hardest working delegates in this Convention. He spent many, many hours yesterday or recently. We were going to have a minority report on this, a few of us. And I suggested to him that possibly it wouldn't carry. But he deserves a little backing up. And I agree with him on this one point, although it isn't the world's most important.

We are cutting the size of the Constitution down by deleting a lot of old language. But the historical provisions may or may not be important. But Delegate Engelter, I believe, has a good legal point when he says we cannot incorporate in our new Constitution all this matter by reference to a constitution which will no longer be in effect. That is hopefully. So he has a good legal point. But the legal minds, there were five other, six other legal beagles in our committee, and we were overruled. So it's not a big issue, but it might be well to consider that this Constitution can't be too short. And if this had a historical value enough to have it in the document seemed to be the big issue.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: If you will turn to Section 203 in your Constitution, you will note that about nine-tenths of that relates to the obligations that the States of North Dakota and South Dakota assumed under the bonds that were outstanding then for the state capitol, for the State Hospital at Jamestown, for the university and other institutions. Those things have already been completely met by the United States — or by the State of North Dakota. And certainly it would not be proper to write two or three long pages into a new Constitution on something that's already been completed and done a long time ago.

Now I think that Delegate Engelter's position may have had a little merit on the first part of it in spelling out certain things in regard to the Indian lands, that if they were changed and if the Indians accepted their going back to the state and so forth, we did have that in the original proposal. However, in about a whole afternoon's legal research by the Attorney General's office, by another two hours' discussion in our own committee, it was almost, we thought, the unanimous opinion of the committee, until after we'd adopted the proposal we learned that Delegate Engelter and Delegate Rundle were wanting to write more of the old Constitution back into it or the old Compact. And we felt that there is nothing we can do about changing the obligations under the Enabling Act or changing the obligations under the Compact, and that we had to assume them. And that's what we did in few words in amending this and putting it back in these sections.

Now I would suggest to these gentlemen that we go ahead and adopt these amendments today, and if you want to offer amendments when they get on the tenth order certainly you will have that privilege to do so.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President. I prefer what the committee has submitted in the first instance without amendments preferably to what their amendments are. And I think that approach, with a few additional amendments, I think the proper provision would be stated in our Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman, Fellow Delegates. I don't think that we should let our chairman stand alone and have two members of the committee talk against him. This item, as all of you committees have done with all of your items, has received much consideration. It was brought up in our committee hearings during the summer and again gone into quite closely. There is a division of opinion in the minds of the attorneys in the committee as to whether or not this is completely proper. But we do feel that it is proper as requested in the amendments, and I want to speak with the chairman of our committee to have these amendments approved. Thank you.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: On this rare occasion I find that I'm in agreement with Delegate Rundle. I think that the committee has done a good job in trying to reduce excess verbiage, and I don't think they've gone quite far enough. So I agree for a different reason.

In the first place, the amendments proposed to include again our support for religious freedom. And we already state that in one other part of the Constitution. And if that other part isn't inclusive enough, let's alter that to make it inclusive instead of having to chew our cabbage twice.

Then we have the matter that Delegate Engelter brought up which says that all the provisions are in full force and effect. Well, supposing that the U. S. Congress, as they have on occasion, alters the requirements under enabling legislation. And here we sit with a constitution that has us tied up to the old 1889 provisions and it will be necessary for us to do some amending in order to get the flexibility in the year 2000 providing this new Constitution is adopted.

In addition, it seems to be excess verbiage to refer to military reservations because the Federal Government now has jurisdiction of those military reservations. And I'd like to see our National Guard go out and try to take them back. So I think that's excess verbiage.

Tomorrow I would like to forewarn the members of the committee that I'm going to propose under the tenth order tomorrow — and I would like to have them prepare a defense, because I am not convinced that there isn't any reason at all for having any reference to the Compact in the new Constitution. The Federal Government has demonstrated very well that it is able to take care of itself. And I think that the states are going to have to be concerned with taking care of themselves. — that I would suggest that we delete all of the language below — below "Compact with the United States" and insert in lieu thereof "the legislative assembly shall provide by law for compliance in the state with the effective provisions of the Enabling Act of Congress approved on February 22, 1889 . . ." et cetera, referring to the specific statute.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates. It gives me great pleasure to learn that Delegate Omdahl has ascertained case law with reference specifically to military reservations which indicates that they are currently still retained by the United States Government. Our research had determined that there is but a portion of the Fort Lincoln Military Reservation which remains yet under firm military control by the United States Government. Most of the other military reservations having been ceded by some federal grant or federal action to the State of North Dakota. Granted, there is a jurisdictional question and a jurisdictional dispute which we in legal minds and in course of law find a burr under our saddle and in a great number of cases on a daily basis. However, I do not think that this Convention is the place that we can resolve this fact. If the delegates will note, we have with reference to the military reservations, under the amendment, added a section which most of the lawyers and judicial individuals of the State of North Dakota have questioned. It still does not resolve our problem. But down four lines from the bottom, starting with the word "provided, however, that the Legislative Assembly of the state of North Dakota may, upon such terms and conditions as it shall adopt, provide for the acceptance of such jurisdiction as may be delegated to the state by act of Congress . . ." This puts the situation on the legislature to then take action where the government has ceded the reservation properties and jurisdiction to the states to establish some form which the court system can then interpret. So that we have adequate lines of jurisdiction instead of lawyers and courts now attempting to, on a state level and again on a lower county level, to determine who has case jurisdiction.

Our research, as well as the research of the Attorney General's office, indicates that we cannot delete these sections. And referring specifically to the religious sentiment section, granted we could also delete this and refer to it by name only. But if you would refer again to Article XVI of the Compact, it states: "That the following article shall be irrevocable without consent of the United States and the people of this state." It was therefore determined that without the consent of the United States Government, which we could not determine we had at this time, we could not delete this section but would have to refer to it at least by the referenced position. Believing that the majority of the people in this state are still tolerant of religious sentiment and freedom, we felt that this was one section of the Constitution we could leave as we originally found it in the 1889 Constitution. And it was placed in our proposed draft for those reasons. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment? The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendments, Committee Report No. 1-13.

Hearing no further comment, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-13 will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

Next for consideration — Fellow Delegates, would you like to recess until eleven o'clock? Seriously. The Chair will declare a recess until eleven o'clock.

(The Session was recessed at 10:58 A.M. until 11:02 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order. Will the Convention please come to order?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: May we be on the twelfth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I move that the Rules be suspended and the Resolution B be read in its entirety, placing it in the Journal, and not be printed —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel, I believe that we have to have the resolution introduced first.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: All right. May I move that the resolution then be introduced, Resolution B, and be read by the Clerk?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe that we will take — and, Delegate Scheel, if you will hold that resolution in abeyance — we will take Resolution A and then we will take your resolution. Resolution A has been introduced.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hasn't Resolution A been introduced?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: It's been numbered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been numbered. That is from the Committee on Finance and Taxation, I believe.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Resolution No. A. Introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation.

"A resolution recommending that the 43rd Legislative Assembly appropriate moneys for the costs of the special election on the Constitutional Convention's proposed constitution."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the title to the proposed resolution, Resolution A.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Now what is the proper motion?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just one moment here while we are getting more delegates on the floor.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: While we are waiting for that, I have an announcement that we have a number of Democratic Women Organizations today. And could they be recognized at this time?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the twelfth order. When we're off this order then if you would move to go to the eighth order, please.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would move that Resolution A be introduced.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Just was.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion before the Convention is that Resolution A be — do you have it — Delegate Saugstad, as the situation is, we did introduce the resolution and it has been read by title only. Now the motion would be in order.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would move then that it — now I'm not certain. Where is our committee chairman? Did he want this printed? Did he want it printed in the Journal?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: He isn't here.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Well, I would move, then, that the Rules be suspended and Resolution A be read in its entirety, placed in the Journal and not printed as a proposal on final passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has not been assigned to a committee.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Not assigned to a committee.

DELEGATE BAKER: Second the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved and seconded that the Rules be suspended, that Resolution A be read in its entirety, placed in the Journal, not printed as a proposal, not assigned to a committee, but placed on final passage — be read in its entirety and be placed on final passage.

The Clerk will read the entire — the motion before the house is as just read, and the motion has been seconded.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal will be read, or the resolution will be read by the Clerk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Resolution No. A. Introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation.

"A resolution recommending that the 43rd Legislative Assembly appropriate moneys for the costs of the special election on the Constitutional Convention's proposed constitution.

"WHEREAS, the North Dakota Constitutional Convention is conducting a revision or rewriting of the constitution of the state of North Dakota; and

"WHEREAS, pursuant to the enabling legislation a special election on the acceptance or rejection of the proposed revision or rewriting must be conducted; and

"WHEREAS, the various counties of the state must bear the cost of such special election;

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE NORTH DAKOTA CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION:

"That the 43rd Legislative Assembly be urged to appropriate moneys from the state general fund to compensate the counties of the state for the necessary costs incurred as a result of the special election held to approve or disapprove the document drafted by the 1972 Constitutional Convention.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the clerk of the convention forward a copy of this resolution to the Budget Committee of the Legislative Council and the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House and the majority and minority leaders of the Senate and House who served during the 42nd Legislative Assembly."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the resolution as read by the Clerk.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: This is a result of the proposal introduced by Delegate Dobson. After having heard testimony on that proposal in the Finance and Taxation Committee, it was — the committee decided that this was a matter that would not be — that it could not be appropriately handled by a proposal. And that this body, of course, had no legislative powers, nor did it have the power to appropriate any money for such a purpose. But it was felt that this was certainly worthy of consideration by the 43rd, or the next legislative assembly, and that this body would like to recommend to that body that it consider the matter of finance — that is, reimbursing the counties in North Dakota for the expenses involved in holding a special election for the Constitutional Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President. North Dakota is in an unusual situation currently because the state is facing four state-wide elections within the space of only thirteen and one-half months; starting with the referendum last September, going through the special election on ratification of our work this spring, then to the primary, and on to the general election. The only other time in state history there was so much election activity in such a short period was in 1932-33 when we had four state-wide elections in the space of sixteen months.

The cost of the special election on ratification of a new constitution probably will be high due to the fact that the legal printing may be more than normal. Secretary of State Ben Meier estimated before the Finance and Taxation Committee that the cost of this election may run $325,000 to $375,000, and this burden, of course, will fall on the property taxpayers of the state.

So I am hopeful that this resolution will be adopted, that the 43rd legislative assembly will reimburse the counties for the costs of this special election, and that the legislature as well would take a look at the entire question of financing elections and the question, too, of precinct formation consolidation. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of passage of the resolution made.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I am in favor of the resolution. But I would like to make one clarification of Delegate Dobson. Not a clarification, but what he stated in regard to the total cost of what Ben Meier had said in regard to the total cost of this election may not be as great, because when the Secretary of State appeared before our committee there wasn't a clear delineation on exactly how we were going to propose this ballot, just what the printing cost might be. Since that time it looks like maybe we can add to the saving. But it still will be costly, and I still agree with the resolution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of Resolution A.

As many as are in favor of the adoption will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the resolution is adopted.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Is it in order at this time to move for the introduction of Resolution B?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It is.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I'll so move. The Clerk has a copy. And if someone would second that motion.

DELEGATE NETHING: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Moved and seconded at this point that Resolution B be introduced to the Convention.

As many as are in favor of that motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the resolution is before the Convention.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Resolution No. B. Introduced by Committee on Resolutions.

"A resolution wishing for a speedy recovery of Delegate Darold Benz and return to his duties at the Constitutional Convention."

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I move that the Rules be suspended and Resolution B be read in its entirety, placed in the Journal, not printed as a proposal, and placed on final passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the motion as offered by Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion was seconded by Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I wonder if Delegate Scheel would consent to adding two words in amendment, "and Delegate Vance Hill?" You've got them both taken care of then.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, I believe that would require another resolution, and that he is not incorporated in this resolution.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: No, I know that, Mr. President, but we could take the proper action here to get him in there if he didn't object. But if he wants to submit a separate one, that's okay.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Perhaps I didn't hear, or may I amend that to read that a copy be sent to Delegate Benz, of the resolution?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe we will come to that point when we read the full text of the resolution.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Thank you, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: So I think we will wait until that point.

Now the question here is —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Forget the amendment. The motion which I think is before us is to suspend the Rules, that it be not referred to a committee, that it not be written in the Journal, printed in the Journal, not as a bill. We can go ahead and pass that. And then if the delegate wants to amend it after the second reading, I suppose he could.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the question before the Convention.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

Now the resolution will be read from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Resolution No. B. Introduced by Committee on Resolutions.

"A resolution wishing for a speedy recovery of Delegate Darold Benz and return to his duties at the Constitutional Convention.

"WHEREAS, Delegate Darold Benz has been absent since Monday, January 10, 1972, and is hospitalized and has undergone surgery; and

"WHEREAS, the delegates of the Constitutional Convention wish his early return to the Convention, that he may assist with its work; and

"WHEREAS, Delegate Benz has earned the high regard of colleagues grateful for his dedication, humor and imagination;

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE NORTH DAKOTA CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION:

"That we direct that our best wishes for his speedy recovery and that a floral arrangement expressive of those wishes be sent forthwith to bring cheer and encouragement to him in his hospital room."

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: In view of the fact that so much of this language is in detail that applies to Delegate Benz, I don't think it would be practical and I think you should offer a separate resolution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question that's before the Convention is on the adoption of the resolution as read.

As many as are in favor of the adoption of the resolution, will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the resolution is adopted.

We will be on the eighth order of business without objection.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: A number of Democratic — officers of the North Dakota Democratic Women are in session today. A number of them are with us. May I ask at this time that they be recognized?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the members of the Democratic organization that are here today please rise and receive the recognition of the Convention?

(Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will continue with — Delegate Rude, do you have anything on the eighth order?

DELEGATE RUDE: Yes. Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rude.

DELEGATE RUDE: We have an honored guest in the balcony.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rude, I don't believe you are pressing the — just one moment, please. Maybe if you will hold the mike just a little bit closer to you. Now you may proceed.

DELEGATE RUDE: Mr. President Wenstrom.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rude.

DELEGATE RUDE: We have an honored guest, the Mayor of Watford City, Mayor Arne (Bob) Sanford. And I'd like to present him at this time.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think we have one further announcement at the desk.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President. I would like to announce, too, that we have the honor of the presence of the Mayor of Jamestown with several other people. I would like to have them stand. Also many of the County Commissioners. I'd like to have them stand and be recognized.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would the delegation from Jamestown please stand and receive recognition by the Convention?

(Applause)

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: May we be on the twelfth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: After a proposal gets on the calendar it's a little embarrassing for a committee to have to request that it be returned to the committee, but I would wish to make that motion in regard to Committee Proposal 1-23.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-23 as amended be returned to the Committee on Finance and Taxation. Now do we have a second?

DELEGATE BURKE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: In considering a section that has not yet been introduced, we find that there is some question of clarification needed in the Section 1-23 to conform with the other sections. And we would appreciate that it be returned.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-23 be returned to the Committee on Finance and Taxation. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal will go back to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Are we still on twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, ma'am.

DELEGATE DANIELS: I would like to place a motion before the floor to place the remarks of Delegate James Billey on the Constitutional Proposal No. 1-18 that were made yesterday, I would like to see this placed in the Journal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels moves —

DELEGATE LARSEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — that the remarks by Delegate Billey as presented on the Convention floor yesterday be placed in the Journal. The motion was seconded by Delegate Larsen. Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the remarks of the delegate will be printed in the Journal.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Are we on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I would like to move that Committee Proposal 1-81 be returned from the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee to the floor of the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: What was the number?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: 1-81.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-81. Delegate Maxwell moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-81 — Delegate Proposal? Delegate Proposal, isn't that right? No — Committee Proposal No. 1-81 be returned to the floor of the Convention. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Thompson.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the proposal is before the Convention.

Now Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President. I would now like to move that this Proposal 1-81 be re-referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-81 be referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions. Now do I have a second?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate O'Toole.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-81 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Larsen.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Are we still on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE LARSEN: At this time I'd like to have my friendly neighbor from Agate, North Dakota, recognized, Mr. Iver Solberg. I believe he's in the left balcony.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would the gentleman please rise and receive the recognition of the Convention? (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will return to the sixth order of business.

The Committee Proposal No. 1-20 is before the Convention for amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Delegate Meidinger has moved that amendments to Committee Proposal 1-20, as recommended by the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands, and as printed on page 156 of the Journal, be adopted.

"Amendments are: On page 1, line 1, delete '135' and also delete '139.'

"On page 1, line 2, delete '142,' delete 'and 146,' delete the ',' immediately following '144' and insert the word 'and' before '145.'

"On page 1, line 7, delete '135.'

"On page 1, line 8, delete '139,' delete '142,' delete 'and 146,' delete the ',' immediately following '144,' insert the word 'and' before '145.'

"On page 1, delete lines 19, 20 and 21, and renumber the lines accordingly."

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Committee Proposal 1-20 provides for the repeal of a number of sections that pertain to corporations. This committee proposal was before the Convention prior to this time and was returned to the committee. At that time we decided to take out the sections upon which questions had been raised. And that is the sole and only purpose of the amendment. Those sections that have been deleted will be submitted to the Convention as separate committee proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment? Further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-20.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-20 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Delegate Hoffner has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-39, as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions and as printed on page 156 of the Journal, be adopted."

The amendments are: "On line 12 before the word 'salary' delete the words 'an annual' and insert the word 'a.'

"On line 12 before the word 'expense' delete the word 'such' and also on line 12 delete the word 'allowances,' and insert the word 'allowance' and delete the word 'maybe.'"

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion? Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I believe I assigned this bill to Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: It is felt that the amendment here was simply a clarification of grammar, and that it would not be to change the subject matter of the proposal as such. And, therefore, we move that the amendment be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-39.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-39 will be on the calendar, tenth order of business, for tomorrow.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President. This is just to alert the committee that handled this bill. Maybe there's no justification from our suggestion in this regard, but in the Proposal 1-39 you are stating that the salary and expense allowances of one legislative assembly are not to come into effect until the following legislative assembly. Now I suppose in all probability maybe we will never receive a decrease in salaries in this respect, but at the same time it's very possible when you are talking of the Constitution. So what I am worried about is that word "re-vision" should be changed to "increase." And if the committee has discussed this prior and my justification is wrong, why then leave it go. But, if not, I just alert you to this thing so tomorrow on the tenth order that word could be changed. In other words, what I'm saying is it would be very embarrassing for legislative members of one session to decrease the salaries of the following session without doing it at their own session. It would be an embarrassing situation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. As a practical matter, it's very difficult to see how the legislature could reduce it. We only get five dollars a day compensation. We reduced it any more, we'd be paying the state.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be on Committee Proposal 1-43.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Delegate Hoffner has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-43, as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions and as printed on page 156 of the Journal, be adopted."

Amendments are on line 13 before the word "members" delete "forty," insert in lieu thereof "forty-nine."

On line 14 before the word "members" delete the word "eighty" and insert in lieu thereof "ninety-eight."

And returns the same without recommendation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I have an unusual request to make of this Convention. 1-43, as you know, is the proposal for the bicameral; 1-42 has been introduced into this chamber this morning, unicameral. And the committee is unanimous in this request. This is one of those we weren't divided on. That to avoid debate twice on this matter we are asking that tomorrow if it should happen that the proposals are going on the tenth order, that debate then be on both the bicameral and unicameral, that the committee reports be printed, and after that the debate be on both of them. Because they are sort of related. And that today we try to keep the debate on just the amendments. This is not very easy, because you can get into debate of the merits and demerits of both systems.

I have assigned the amendments to Delegate Butler.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: The delegates being very gracious, recommend to you, and it does change, the number of members of the Senate and House in this particular proposal to correspond with the existing numbers as the maximum number that can be delegated or put into the House or Senate. And that is the total content of the amendment and the debate on it. The proposal itself will be presented tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments of Committee Proposal No. 1-43. Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: May I direct a question to Delegate Butler, please?

Delegate Butler, what will the provision on unicameral call for as far as House membership?

DELEGATE BUTLER: As far as the unicameral is concerned, I think it's in there as a minimum of 98 or 99, if I'm not mistaken.

DELEGATE AUBOL: So that has not been changed or it is not intended to be changed?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: The Proposal 1-42, as it is, hasn't been amended. And the only amendment in 1-43 are the two numbers that you've just heard. And it's a minimum of 99 members for the unicameral.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I think there has been some request in citizens throughout the state to cut the size of our legislature. This is why our original amendment was 40 and 80. I cannot foresee that the legislature would ever do this by themselves. If we give them a maximum number, such as they now have, I think we might as well face the fact we'll always have that number.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen. Coming from a district which has five — four and a half counties in it, touches both Montana and South Dakota, some 160 miles, I believe, from one corner to the other — I would very, very much favor this amendment. Because we have that large a district — and there is one other district about the same size — it's impossible for anyone to get around it very often. The people will be represented very slightly in some cases. And I would hope this amendment would carry.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I would speak in favor of the amendment also. I think there are a lot of people in the State of North Dakota who are quite satisfied with the present numbers in our present House and Senate. I would hate to see us paint the people of North Dakota into a corner where they had no choice. And I think this gives them a choice that they would like to see.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendment, Committee Proposal No. 1-43.

As many as are in favor of the adoption of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-43 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

We will move to the tenth order of business before the Convention — Committee Proposal 1-19.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-19, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 210 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article IX to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to appropriation of waters.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 210 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Article IX to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE IX

"WATERS

"Section 1. All surface and subsurface water shall forever remain the property of the people and subject to appropriation for beneficial uses as provided by law."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE SULLIVAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sullivan.

DELEGATE SULLIVAN: I am not going to — Fellow Delegates — I am not going to lecture you this morning about the importance of water to the State of North Dakota. I'm certain that everybody in this assembly realizes it's our most important, our most valuable single resource in the state.

This message could be boiled down to 43 words: "All we are doing is firming up the right of the legislature to manage the waters of the state for the public good."

Our committee claims no private authorship. These are the exact words the North Dakota Water Users Association gave us. The committee from the Water Users Association that drafted the same was made up of Richard Crockett, Alan Grindberg, Cliff Yochim, Herb Meschke, and Paul Sand. I don't know anybody in the state that's more qualified than this group to handle this water situation. In presenting same, they said: "That the present provision in the Constitution unduly restricts the purposes for which public waters may be used."

Now I have a request. In the conservation of time, let us not talk about access to public water. One of my lawyer friends tells me it is going to take one hundred years to clean this matter up. We are talking about water for the public good. We are leaving the matter of access to the legislature, where it properly belongs. I urge you to support the committee action and vote "yes" to include this important section in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question — Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: For the benefit of the members of this assembly, I should like to point out that at this point you are deciding whether or not the owner of the surface — that is the owner of surface — has any control over the subsurface waters. The legislature, of course, has already, back in 19____ I believe '61, enacted statutory law that defines the ownership that gives the state the ownership of the subsurface waters. And so maybe the use of that water may be prescribed by the State Water Commission.

I believe that you are aware of the fact that the landowner owns the minerals to the land, he owns the gas and oil. But we have in this state — and in many other states, I may add, and particularly in the western part of the United States — we have adopted or the theory has been adopted that the state has control and ownership of all the waters, both the subsurface and surface waters. Our old Constitution, of course, definitely defined the surface waters, control of the surface waters, belong to the state by virtue of the fact that nothing was — I do not recall the precise wording — but the inference was that the owners of the land owned and controlled the water beneath the surface.

At times this concept, of course, does under some circumstances, and may under some circumstances, work a hardship on the owner of the surface. And under these — the circumstances under which this may occur are as follows: We may have a landowner who owns a considerable amount of land under which is an aquifer. The first people or the first party that applies for a permit from that aquifer may have the request granted. It may prove subsequently that there is not sufficient water under that aquifer say to irrigate all of the lands above that aquifer. So you may find under some circumstances that a man who has land over an aquifer cannot get a permit to irrigate his land and others are irrigating out of that aquifer.

We have an interesting situation developing, and will develop near Minot, where this water commission has granted the City of Minot the right to take something like six million gallons per day from an aquifer just outside the City of Minot. I happen to be one of the landowners over that aquifer. I'm to — I may find that I will lose — or lose the benefit of some of the waters that I have used in the past. I am told by my legal-trained friends or attorneys that of course I would have action — I could take action in the court for damages. In other words, it is granted that domestic use has prior use. And that the domestic user for household use and for agricultural purposes, for watering of cattle, has the prior use. And that wherein a permit is granted so that that use had either been damaged or destroyed or lost, that the owner of the loss has recourse in the courts for damages.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment?

Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I only want to point out that there are complications in this that may not be at first fully appreciated. The section applies to surface and subsurface water. Now subsurface is from here to the middle of the earth, I presume, since we are getting into somebody else's domain after we get past the center of the earth.

There is an enormous volume of water underlying the State of North Dakota that is not pressure or potable water, it's salt water. We didn't have much to do with salt water until we began drilling oil wells. Most, if not every well in the State of North Dakota produces water. That water is salt water. We have one salt mine, if you want to call it that, that mined hydraulically.

A number of years ago when water first began to be produced in connection with the production of oil, I contacted the State Water Commission and various and sundry other commissions in the state that had to do with water. Since I was not a member of the legislature, I could do that. The question was did we have to have a permit for an oil company to do anything with the water, the millions of barrels, literally, of water that is produced. And the Water Commission said, "Well, how deep is it?" Well, of course, it was up to a mile or better. "No, we don't want to have anything to do with that." There has never been any court decision involved. However, if the Constitution reads as it does, then I question whether or not anyone can produce a barrel of salt water without technically appropriating property that belongs to the people, public property.

The State Industrial Commission administers the State Oil and Gas Conservation Act. And they don't purport to give an oil company the right to take water out of the ground; they do regulate what is done with this nonpotable or salt water after it is produced. Up until about two years ago a great deal of it was put in surface pits and allowed to evaporate. Problems arose from that. For the last about two years those pits have had to be lined with an impermeable membrane so that water still evaporates and leaves what salt there is on top of the membrane without getting into the ground. More and more there are salt water disposal systems where the waters produced with the oil, separated in the separators, are pumped back down into the ground.

And earlier this week there was a hearing, one of many, on salt water disposal plants. And in accordance with the state geologist's approval it goes into certain formations, primarily the Dakota sandstone formations. All of these are thousands of feet below ground.

I wonder — I have no axe to grind here, but I am just wondering if there might not be some restrictions placed on this that it relates to fresh or potable water and that we are not talking about the enormous and unknown quantity of water which is salt, salt saturated to one or more or less degree, under the ground if we are not going to get an enormous bureaucracy involved in dealing with water that is not fit for public use.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: At the time of our early Constitution we were under the theory — and I'm not going into that — for a long time we were under the riparian and appropriation mixup. And until 1961 until the law got clarified on prior appropriation it was set up so that — it was rather a mess, so to speak.

Now I can see at a point in the future that the state might have to own this salt water, because there certainly is even now talk of desalinization on the Coast. And it seems to me that possibly the people should own this salt water so that if we ever come to the point where we have to desalinate our water, that we have authority over it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen. A very bitter fight developed in the legislature a few years ago. And it simply concerned a man who owned the land, hadn't been sharp enough, quick enough, to get a prior permit, others who were irrigating with water from under his land, and he couldn't get it. He was most unhappy. And this could happen in many cases. And I am not arguing with salt water, I do not like the entire proposition. I believe that the landowner should at least have something to say about it. And this way anyone from a distance who would get a prior application in, get it approved, would have the water. And the man who owned the land, maybe he hadn't had as sharp an attorney as the other, or maybe no attorney, would have no use of the water under his land. You might imagine if you had a farm that everyone could hunt on, your own land, is about the same thing.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I was just wondering now if we adopt this proposal here that if someone that is aggrieved would have redress under Section 1 of Article XIV of the amendments of the Federal Constitution which states: "Nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, Mr. President, I would just like to make a few statements in this regard. I am not going to get into all the legal aspects of the statutes governing the appropriation doctrine.

I only have this to say: Most of the states when they originally adopted the constitution to the states, the earlier states, the ones in the East, adopted the riparian doctrine. Then we got into this great era of irrigation, both above the surface and below the surface, primarily affecting all these states west of the Mississippi River. It wasn't long that those states that had the strict riparian doctrine integrated in their constitution and statutes found out they were in trouble. And this is why this had been a cloud over our constitution in this regard is because of the riparian doctrine. And when we receive the era we are coming into with regard to the irrigation, we thought we better get on the appropriation because this is, in effect, what all the states west of the Mississippi have adopted except California. California went into irrigation early. They had the riparian doctrine in the books. They got into trouble. So they have a combination thereof. And, in essence, it really is the appropriation doctrine because they couldn't back up after they got in so far. But outside of California, every state west of the Mississippi has adopted the appropriation doctrine.

Now, as Delegate Rundle has said, that in certain circumstances the riparian owner, landowner, may have been affected. But I would also state this: That the appropriation doctrine does respect and protect the original landowner to the extent in this regard; the original landowner may spend a lot of money for his irrigation setup. Along will come a neighboring landowner and start withdrawing from the same aquifer and rob the original landowner of his so-called riparian right. In this case the appropriation doctrine really protects him. So there is more advantages to the appropriation doctrine than to the riparian doctrine.

I am not here to say that we cannot make improvements in our statutes that would govern and help in the situation that Mr. Saugstad has referred to also. So I would urge this Convention to adopt this section in our Constitution simply because it's been explored thoroughly by all the irrigation organizations, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Water Users Association, Garrison Diversion District. They have given it a tremendous amount of thought and with all the legal minds available to put this in proper order.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I am going to vote "aye" on Proposal 1-19 because I do feel that it does the most good for the greatest number of people. But some individuals can suffer under this document.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President. The wording of this section to me is quite bothersome. It doesn't say anything about domestic use of water. And I would guess that it's going to make a lot of farmers quite uneasy when they come to voting for this document. That they might have some future difficulty with their domestic usages.

Also it specifies that surface water shall belong to the state. My home is built on a creek. Does this mean that I have to open my swimming hole to the public?

What about the hunters? Are they going to — can they use this as a reason to hunt on posted land where a pothole or a slough extends across a section line and there is public access? It seems to me that the wording of this could be cleared up and made a lot more palatable to the private property owner.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I can answer that, although I don't want to be put in the position of speaking twice on the same subject.

Delegate McElroy, the old section of the Constitution said: "All flowing streams and natural water courses shall forever remain the property of the state for mining, irrigating and manufacturing purposes." Okay. We are not changing the law in that respect. Court decisions have not changed that.

Now in regard to your worrying about your situation, our statutes provide priority of use. And number one is domestic and livestock. And then it goes on to irrigation, industry and lastly fish and wildlife. But nobody has a right to that water unless they put it to beneficial use, and there's a time period set up in the statutes that he has got to do this, otherwise he's got to turn it back to the state. As long as you are putting it to beneficial use, you're sitting pretty.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. President. I wonder if Delegate Pearce would yield to a question?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Yes.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: In regards to this new language do you feel that there would be any repercussions in regard to salt water? As one county from a district that has quite a lot of oil production, I'm quite concerned about this.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: In answer to the question, I haven't consulted with very many oil people about this. No one has approached me about it. I made the statement I did solely because of my long association with the oil industry in North Dakota.

I neglected to mention one other large use of water that might be involved, and that is the increasing use of water flood operations for the unit operation of oil fields, which I'm sure most delegates know involves backing water down into the same formation in order to maintain or perhaps even increase the pressure so as to get more oil out of the oil wells that are declining in pressure.

I foresee that if this says that it all belongs to the state, I don't see how any oil company can appropriate it then without going through the requirements of whatever the statutes might be. As I say, they told me fifteen years ago that they were not concerned with this subsurface salt water. But if this is in the Constitution I think they have to be concerned with it. And what it would do, I really don't know. It would mean a great — it could mean a very great many obligations. And it might have quite a little to do with development of the oil industry, particularly the large quantity required for large flooding and unit operations.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: As I recall, this matter of discussion came up back in 1961 when we were amending our appropriation doctrine. And the wording here is no different than it is in the other states west of the Mississippi where they have oil and the salt water problem.

If this situation ever arises it can be handled by statute. If the salt water ever proves valuable to get the salt out of it, then it has to be put to beneficial use. And the landowner is protected in this regard. The water — your good water that remains reverts back to the state and then can be used for other circumstances. But never can they take away the landowner's right to have first use as far as human and livestock consumption is concerned regardless of whether it's an individual landowner or regardless of whether it's even a municipality.

And I think we all have to agree we should have a power above an oil industry or any other industry. Their priority comes number two.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker, did you wish the floor? Is there any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-19.

Hearing no further discussion, the Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 83 "ayes," 12 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-19 is passed.

We will go on the fifth order of business without objection. We are on the fifth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-24 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Haugen moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal 1-24, that it do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-24 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-40 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report do pass.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-40, that the proposal be amended. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Proposal No. 1-40 will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-42 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be returned without recommendation.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-42, that it be accepted without recommendation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President. Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-63 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-63, that it do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-63 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-67 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-67, that it be given a do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted, and this will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-78 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-78, that it do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-78 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-84 has had the same under consideration, and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal 1-84, that it do pass. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-84 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom has been referred Delegate Proposal 2-26 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-26, that it do pass. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and this proposal will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-69 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-69, that it be indefinitely postponed. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: 2-69 is a proposal that I put in. It is also affected by 1- — Committee Proposal 1-82. The feeling of the majority of the committee is contained on page 106 of the Constitutional Convention Interim Report, and it affects Section 127 of the Constitution. I have a great deal of doubt about Committee Proposal 1-82, and I'm asking the indulgence of the Convention in returning this proposal to my committee. I hope that I do not generate or excite an impassioned plea by Dr. O'Toole relative to this. And I hope I'm not setting a precedent for all of the rest of the delegates who have proposals that are being recognized for indefinite postponement. I therefore ask the Convention to vote against this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption —

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President. I'd like to hear the reason of the committee in regard to their action before I would vote the same as requested by our delegate.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President. The action of the committee in regard to this was that we felt that it was almost impossible to define incompetency in relation to voting. And another reason was that we felt that the technicality of restoring voting rights to a convicted felon was so cumbersome that it would prevent this particular individual from exercising the right of voting.

Now there is another reason, too, is that in many cases the felons, after they are released from confinement, are not aware of the problem of regaining their rights of voting. And so what we are doing in the proposal, the committee proposal, is automatically restoring voting rights to the individual upon his completion of his sentence.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. If Delegate Lamb will yield to a question. Do you address yourself as to the incompetent or those who are insane even if they have been found so by the court in your restrictions?

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: No, we do not. And the reason is that there is a different definition of different types of incompetency. There may be, as I understand — as I understand it, there may be incompetency on financial matters and there may be other types of incompetency, and so we didn't know exactly how to define this thing.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson. Delegate Lamb, do you wish further comment?

DELEGATE LAMB: One of the ways that this could be corrected is that if we would define incompetency in voting. That is a possibility.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I know that our committee has adopted a procedure which I had understood would be discussed at the hearing, the other day that we all were going to do, and that is if there is an outstanding delegate proposal which speaks to but does not agree with a committee proposal and presents a subsequent alternative to the Convention, we had very good evidence of that yesterday with Delegate Omdahl's proposal which is still alive despite our action yesterday, that we would not be recommending for indefinite postponement prior to the Convention discussion of the committee proposal. Thus, since I like that procedure which is, I think, polite to all of us, I am going to vote against indefinite postponement at this time.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I would move that Delegate Proposal 2-69 be laid — be held over until the committee proposal dealing with the same subject be acted on.

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Kelsch that Committee Proposal No. 2-69 be laid over — now what was your motion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Laid over until this Convention has first considered the committee proposal dealing with the same subject.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — until such time as the Convention has considered the committee proposal dealing with the same subject. Now the motion was seconded by Delegate Lander.

Now is there any discussion on that question?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the motion will be — or the Delegate Proposal No. 2-69 will be held over until that time.

Without objection, we will go on the ninth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-91, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 74, 82 and 83 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to elections and terms, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-91 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-92, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 19 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to treason against the state, be retained."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-92 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-93, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 146 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the controlling of prices, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-93 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-94, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 142 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the regulation of common carrier corporations, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Committee Proposal No. 1-94 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-95, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 135 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to cumulative voting in corporations, be repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-95 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

Delegate Saugstad moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-19 be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been seconded by Delegate Knudson.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal 1-19 is referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

We will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee will hear Delegate Proposal 2-23 creating a new section to the constitution pertaining to a recognition of veterans' contributions to the state, two P.M., Lewis and Clark Room, Tuesday, January 18th.

Executive Functions Committee will meet Thursday, January 13th, one and one-half hours after recess of Plenary Session.

Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands will meet Tuesday, January 18th, at 1:30 P.M. in G-1 to hear Delegate Proposal 2-65 dealing with education.

The forum on dedicated funds scheduled for January 18th has now been changed to be at 7:30 P.M., January 19th, in the auditorium at the Highway Building.

You have on your desks a new form, W-4, together with a certificate of residence, from the State Tax Commissioner. Would you please fill out and sign both of these forms and leave them on your desk to be picked up. These must be in by Monday, January 17th, to meet the payroll.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I am a member of a subcommittee of a subcommittee. And I would like Mr. Larsen and Mr. Peters to meet me in the office right after we close.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President. On the forms which were referred to, W-4, and the other form of the Tax Commissioner, what name do we use as the employer, State of North Dakota or the Constitutional Convention?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: State of North Dakota.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: State of North Dakota, they tell me, is what has been used.

Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. President. I just see that we have our State Senator from the Sixth District in the audience. And I would like him to be recognized. Senator Walter Erdman from Bottineau. (Applause)

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: On behalf of the Public Information Committee, I desire to announce that the North Dakota Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalistic society, will on January 21 host a luncheon for Constitutional Convention delegates. It will be held at noon in the Embassy Room of the Town House Motel. All editors of the state have been contacted and urged to invite their home district delegates to this luncheon. That will be Friday, January 21.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. Are we going to be adjourning for today? Are we going to go back in session this afternoon?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I presume we will be adjourning. I believe there are committee meetings scheduled.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: The Rules Committee is meeting tomorrow, not today. Is that right? That meeting was called for tomorrow, is that right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: As I recall, it was called for tomorrow.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Legislative Functions Committee will meet at 1:30.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Judicial Committee meeting at 1:30.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Finance and Tax Committee meeting at 1:30 today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

The desk is clear.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: May we be momentarily on twelve?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move that the absent members be excused.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that the absent delegates be excused. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Everybody in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the absent delegates are excused.

I believe that we have had a policy here of reading the calendar in order that the delegates will know what is being placed on the calendar for tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On the sixth order I have Delegate or Committee Proposal 1-40.

On the tenth order I have Committee Proposals 1-13, 1-20, 1-39, 1-43, 1-24, 1-42, 1-63, 1-67, 1-78, 1-84, and Delegate Proposal 2-26. Plus all our tenth order from 25 down through — we passed Committee Proposal 1-19, and we re-referred Committee Proposal 1-23. So the rest of them under tenth order will also be on our calendar tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander, did you have a question?

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I think that Fellow Delegate Saugstad is going to move to adjourn until tomorrow morning, and I don't think we should. If we have to have hearings this afternoon which will be called because other people from out of the state are here, fine. Then we should come back and meet after that. But let's not act as if we have all the time in the world to do all this business.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: What are the wishes of the Convention?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I agree with Delegate Lander. I think if we could come back in say at three o'clock. I don't know what time these chairmen set their meetings, but this calendar is going to get awful long. I'd rather spend my time here listening to what other committees have done with proposals that I'm not familiar with than to go back downstairs in my committee and rehash things that we have rehashed so many times I'm sick and tired hearing about them.

(Applause)

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Might I only comment that if you have committees scheduled for this afternoon and you have people that are here to be heard, why that is one of the matters that is real important also. I'm in full accord with working on the calendar whenever we have an opportunity. But I think that we do owe it to the public that when we schedule hearings that we should be there.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. The Legislative Functions Committee has scheduled no hearings, and I just called the committee in session because we weren't being in meeting.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. I don't think any of us on our committee can say that what we are going to do is going to meet with the approval of the Convention. But we do have a hearing scheduled for this afternoon, and we have decisions to make on wording of language still to be introduced. And I feel that we would be meeting until five o'clock on our committee business unless the committee — unless the Convention orders us to do otherwise.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. Chairman — I mean Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: In discussing this this morning, this was discussed by the Calendar Committee. And it appears that there is not a great deal or not very many proposals to be heard, that is where public hearings have been posted. One or two committees have additional proposals to be heard on which they have posted hearings that run into the forepart of next week. But the committee work is rapidly grinding to not a halt, but where it will be far less burdensome, which will release more time for us to be in general session. And even though there are quite a number of items on the tenth order, I don't think the situation is alarming. And in view of the fact that some of the committees this afternoon have a rather full schedule, I personally think it's kind of questionable that we could call this group back together again to consider work by the complete delegation. But that's up to the body.

Unless somebody wants to move now that we reconvene or recess to a time certain this afternoon, I am going to make the motion, I'm going to offer the motion, that we stand adjourned until tomorrow morning. But I will wait if anybody wants to make that motion. If not, I now move that we adjourn until nine A.M., January 14th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE CART: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded that we do now adjourn until nine A.M. on January 14th.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and we will be adjourned until nine tomorrow morning.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 12:30 P.M., Thursday, January 13, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Friday, January 14, 1972.)

VOLUME X
(January 14, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The tenth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:30 A.M., January 14, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order. May we have order in the chambers?

Our Chaplain for this morning is James C. Rogers with the Zion Lutheran Church.

REV. JAMES C. ROGERS: Heavenly Father, You who have created all things and have so abundantly provided for our needs, we come before You this morning with praise and thanksgiving for all the many blessings which You have showered upon our nation, and especially upon our state of North Dakota over the past years. We thank You for stable government, for prosperity, for farmlands, for industry. Help us to realize that all these things are gifts from Your mercy.

And now as we move forward, as we look toward the future, as we prepare for the years ahead, we ask for Your help and guidance. Give us all wisdom and understanding as we write this constitution which, if accepted by the voters of this state, will govern not only us, but also our children and our children's children. Give us clear minds so that we may keep what is good, so that we may write what will be beneficial to all. Help us to put the interests of our state and its people above our own personal interests. Above all, help us to speak and to act so that all things will be done to Your glory and to the glory of Your Son, our Savior, Jesus Christ, in whose name we ask all this. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — taking the roll call. The Clerk will open the key, you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key will be closed.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: One of my colleagues informs me that my name was not lit.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, let's reopen the key so that — we'll run the roll call over.

Does the key work now, Delegate Hildebrand?

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Yes, it works now. It's snapped back now, too, but when I hold it it does.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: When you hold it? What's the desk number, please?

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: 49.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Here's more delegates. Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key will be closed. Peterson, Daniels.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Benz, Dawson, Gipp, Kelsch, Tudor, Hill.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Roll call discloses 92 present, six absent. Quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order of business — Revision and Correction of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 12th day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

On page 159, lines 44 and 45, delete the words "first passage of the proposal, as amended" and insert in lieu thereof the words "adoption of the amendment".

When so corrected, recommends the same be approved.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Report of the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the report is adopted.

We'll be on the sixth order of business — Amendments.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. Delegate Kelsch reporting present.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch reporting present.

DELEGATE GIPP. Mr. President. Delegate Gipp reporting.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp reporting.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Delegate Hill present.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Delegate Daniels reporting present.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Record Delegate Daniels as here.

We will be on the sixth order of business — Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hoffner has moved that the amendments to Proposal 1-40 as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions and as printed on page 174 of the Journal be adopted.

The amendments are: On line 2 delete the word "legislative."

On line 3 after the word "auditor" insert the word "general."

Delete all of lines 8, 9 and 10 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 28. The legislative assembly shall provide for the appointment of an auditor general. He shall audit the receipt, expenditure and use of public funds as provided by law and shall be responsible to the legislative assembly in the performance of those duties."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any comment?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: The amendment to the original language really is more of a form or style amendment than it is a merit. So I think we probably could have the discussion, unless anybody has any question, tomorrow on tenth order on this proposal. But this is the one that calls for the legislative auditor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments, Committee Proposal 1-40.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendments are adopted and Committee Proposal No. 1-40 will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

We will be on the ninth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-96, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 185 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to public business."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Introduction.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — on the introduction of Proposal No. 1-96. It is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

We will be on the fifth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-23 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Haugen moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-23, that the proposal be amended.

Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. This will be on the sixth order of business on Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-95 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-95, that the proposal be given a do pass. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Proposal No. 1-95 will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-94, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-94, that it be given a do pass. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Proposal No. 1-94 will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

We will be on the tenth order of business.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: I missed roll call, and I would like to announce that I'm present.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Dawson. Delegate Dawson is present.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-13, introduced by Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 203, 204, and 205 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that Article XIII of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the compact with the United States.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 203, 204, and 205 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Article XIII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE XIII

"COMPACT WITH THE UNITED STATES

"Section 1. Religious Sentiment.

"Perfect toleration of religious sentiment shall be secured, and no inhabitant of this state shall ever be molested in person or property on account of his or her mode of religious worship.

"Section 2. Compact.

"All other provisions of the Enabling Act of Congress approved on February 22, 1889, 25 United States Statutes at Large 676, Chapter 180, and Section 203 of Article XVI of the North Dakota constitution of 1889, as amended is hereby continued in full force and effect the same as if they were fully herein recited and shall continue to be irrevocable without the consent of the United States and the people of this state.

"Section 3. Military Reservations.

"Jurisdiction is ceded to the United States over the military reservations of Fort Abraham Lincoln, Fort Buford, Fort Pembina and Fort Totten, heretofore declared by the President of the United States; provided, legal process, civil and criminal, of this state, shall extend over such reservation in all cases in which exclusive jurisdiction is not vested in the United States, or of crimes not committed within the limits of such reservations; provided, however, that the Legislative Assembly of the state of North Dakota may, upon such terms and conditions as it shall adopt, provide for the acceptance of such jurisdiction as may be delegated to the state by Act of Congress.

"Section 4. Land Grants.

"Section 205 of Article XVI of the North Dakota constitution of 1889 relating to land grants is hereby continued in full force and effect as if the same were fully herein recited."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-13. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. Chairman. I have an amendment at the desk that I would like to move at this time.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "On page 1, of the engrossed bill, delete lines 12 through 25.

"On page 2, of the engrossed bill, delete lines 1 through 30, insert in lieu thereof the following — on page 2 of the engrossed bill, delete lines 1 through 14, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"The Legislative Assembly shall provide by law for compliance of the state with the effective provisions of the organic law provided in an Act of March 2, 1861, Chapter 86, 12 United States Statutes at Large 239, and the Enabling Act of Congress approved on February 22, 1889, 25 United States Statutes at Large 676, Chapter 180."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: May I have a second to the motion for the amendment?

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter seconds.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: The effect of this motion is to remove all references to the Compact — well, most of the references to the Compact from the constitution and will give the legislative assembly the administrative responsibility for meeting the state's obligations in the Compact with the Federal Government.

I think that inclusion of any more language than this is merely being done at the convenience of the Federal Government. And I don't think that it is necessary that we write a constitution just for the convenience of the Federal Government.

I would not have reoffered this motion this morning except I had the encouragement of several attorneys who share this opinion with me, and they feel that this would be a very efficient and good way to handle this problem.

Now there seems to be a question in some people's minds about the ability of the people of North Dakota to vest this power in the hands of the legislature. I believe it's in Section 2 of the declaration of rights which we had the other day that states: "All political power is inherent in the people." And the people are sovereign. We have had a court case saying all power rests in the people. And if the people want to adopt a constitution of the state in which they delegate to the legislative assembly the supervisory responsibility for the Compact with the Federal Government, they have this power to do it, and I don't think there is any question about it.

I would like to hear from those who are concerned or afraid to take this Compact. I would like to know what adverse things could happen to North Dakota if we used this approach for the legislative assembly to be responsible for the Compact.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: The Judicial and Political Subdivisions Committee oppose this amendment. And why do we oppose it? We would like very much to have a more simplified statement of these three particular sections of the constitution if we felt that we were on sound legal grounds to do so. We did not bring the report of the committee to you in its original form without many, many hours of legal research on the part of the First Assistant Attorney General of the State and on the part of our Staff members. We again yesterday went back to the First Assistant Attorney General, Mr. Sand, again, and asked him to review the research which he had done before and the opinion which he had given the committee before. He again told us after doing so that he was still of the opinion that the people of North Dakota could not delegate something that they did not know what they were delegating until after a decision had been made by Congress to turn these lands back over, the Indian lands and public lands, back to the State of North Dakota. He said he felt only that they could delegate that responsibility back after Congress had done it, because at this time they would not know what they were delegating.

So it was for this reason that we felt we should adopt by reference the provisions of the Enabling Act, the statute that's mentioned in the amended bill or proposal that we brought before you, and also in these three sections of the Constitution.

So the committee, the overwhelming majority of our committee, felt that it was our duty to bring this to you in the best legal light that we could. And certainly these corridor opinions that you get from attorneys without checking and researching are worth about as much sometimes as you pay for them. And we felt that we were obligated to stick with the official of the state who was the chief legal officer who had done hours of research in connection with this situation.

So in writing a constitution, we felt that we should bring to the floor of this Convention something that we could feel and that our best legal advice would help us that would stand up later on, and not something that we had to guess about it.

Our assistant to our committee, our constitutional staff member, he agrees that the version that we're bringing before you is valid and will stand up. He disagrees somewhat with the Assistant Attorney General. He feels the other one probably would, too, or will stand up. But we felt that we should bring the one where they both agree that it will stand up and that we will not get into difficulties later on.

Now Delegate Omdahl asked a question, and he should be answered on that question. He said how could we get in trouble by doing something of this kind? That we're just doing this for the convenience of the Federal Government.

Well, here is how we felt you could get into trouble: Let's assume these Indian lands are released later on to the State of North Dakota. And it has to be done, of course, by the consent of the Indian people, too. Then at that time the state starts selling this land off to individuals who want to get good and clear title to this land. At that time some person questions their title, they have a dispute over whether the title is good. And then he gets an attorney and they come in and they question his title on the basis of constitutional law, that the State of North Dakota through its legislature had not power at that time to turn this land over or to sell it to the buyer. And at that time you get the question of marketability title involved to anyone who might purchase any such land. You raise the constitutional question. And then you want to determine who pays for it from the State of North Dakota. He ought to be assured that he is going to get a proper merchantable title for it. So that's why we oppose this amendment.

We did not bring this on to you on the floor with a small amount of study or with a corridor legal opinion. We brought it to you after hours of research. And we feel that our version will stand up. And we hope that you will vote down this amendment for the reasons indicated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: I second Omdahl's proposal or proposed amendment, because I feel that every committee or the majority of the committees have been dealing with some provision of the Compact or the Enabling Act and trying to solve the problem with regard to handling the situation.

Our committee, in reference to Section 205 — and if the delegates will indulge and look at that section — it makes reference to land grants granted by the United States to the State of North Dakota by Act of Congress entitled "An act to provide for the division of Dakota into two states . . ." The title of that act is, in essence, an enabling act. What our committee has done in regard to Section 205 is refer to the present Constitution of 1889, which in essence refers to the Enabling Act itself. And I don't think this would be a very proper approach to have in our present Constitution that we are going to be submitting to the people.

I think that Omdahl's approach to the problem solves, in essence, the problem that the Education Committee had gone through the other day, or in their committee work, in their reference to Proposal 1-18. They, in essence, used the same terminology in reference that Delegate Omdahl has used in his proposal.

Delegate Omdahl's proposal would take care of every effective provision that the State of North Dakota is responsible for and at the same time give the legislature the power to adjust or modify any changes that may be where Congress has acted. And I am in full agreement with this approach to solve this problem.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: Delegate Gipp speaking.

I support the committee recommendation as amended. And I fully support Delegate Longmire's, Chairman Longmire's, statement with respect to the proposal as submitted by the committee.

I feel that we have given this particular — these particular sections thorough review. We have listened to the Solicitor General — the solicitor from the Department of the Interior regarding Indian affairs. We have listened to Mr. Sand, we have listened to counsel. And I think after due consideration of all of the aspects of these particular sections that we have come up with, I think, the most thorough and sound statement that could be provided and I hope shall be adopted by the Convention itself.

I think that certain sections — section — paragraph 3 of Section 203 as it stands now are in many cases accomplished facts, that indeed the state has assumed the necessary jurisdiction, the necessary controls of powers over that particular part of Section 203. However, not all of the things in Section 203 are accomplished; such as jurisdiction and taxation of Indian Americans in the State of North Dakota. I believe that Public Law 280 sufficiently states that jurisdictional matters, taxation, et cetera, shall not be consummated without consent of Indian citizens of the State of North Dakota. And I believe that this is one of the primary things that must be pointed out at this point and time. Surely we can provide for — for the state's assumption of these powers. I believe that they are there, and that they will be enabled through federal legislation, and certainly in time possibly consent of Indian Americans in this state.

But I believe that we cannot tamper with paragraph second of Section 203 without referring to the primary relationship that certain people have with respect to the second paragraph of Section 203. I believe that it is sufficiently important to remember this.

We have provided in Section 3 of our — of our Proposal 1-13 for the assumption of jurisdiction for military reservations. And that is what that particular paragraph points out, the assumption by the state and the delegation to the state legislature specifically there. We have not tampered with paragraph second of 203 because I think that this is an extremely complex problem, one that I think has to bear out in its own time with respect to the separate and distinct relationships there.

I fully support the committee's proposal. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-13, the amendment as offered by Delegate Omdahl.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the adoption of the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it, and the amendment lost.

Now we are back on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-13 as previously amended.

Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. I am not going to belabor the point further, except one, the further section of the amendment which I failed to call to your attention, our first section of the proposal as amended. We left that intact. And why did we do that? We know that Proposal 1-73, I believe it is, or 2-73, whichever it is, does cover religious freedom in our Constitution. We feel that that clause in our Constitution provides for religious freedom among our people.

However, this particular clause relates to religious sentiment. And we felt it did have great historical value to reemphasize once again the importance we put on this particular freedom of our people. We are not providing here in this clause the religious freedom again as some mentioned here before; but we are reemphasizing the importance of religious sentiment. And the committee, I believe, almost without exception, felt that that should be retained in the proposal to reemphasize the importance we put on religious sentiment. For that reason it's in there.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Longmire.

Any further discussion?

Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. Chairman. I would like to ask with regard to Section 2 of 203 why the same hasn't been included as an important part of the Compact with the United States? After hearing the discussion of Delegate Gipp, I feel that this provision, as related by Delegate Gipp, is important. It should be stated in our present Constitution. And I would like to hear reasons why it isn't.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. I think the delegate knows why it wasn't there, because he has been present at all of our committee meetings and has been present when the Assistant Attorney General has appeared before us.

We felt that we could safely, by reference, incorporate all of the provisions of 203, because we, too, felt they were important. And as you all notice in the proposal before it was presented, or rather the way it was originally presented or introduced before the Convention, we did spell out the first part which had to do with the Indian lands. But the last three-fourths or four-fifths of that section relate to obligations that the new State of North Dakota had to assume in order to come into the Union. And, of course, all of those financial obligations have now been met, and they are — we felt it would be extremely unnecessary to write all of them back in again. But we did incorporate by reference every provision of this section that still had some relation to the Indian lands and to the relationship we had with the Federal Government in connection with those lands. We felt it was not necessary to state them verbatim again in this section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. Would Chairman Longmire yield for a question? I think in our committee meeting yesterday, Chairman Longmire, we talked about amending this section by putting a "comma" after — in Section 2.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Yes, we did. We agreed to do that. However, I thought rather than have to suspend the Rules and everything again, that probably the Style and Drafting Committee can take care of that. And I will call it to their attention at the spot where it needs to be put in.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-13. I will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

Roll call discloses 87 "ayes," 8 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-13 is passed.

Delegate Sinner, did you have an announcement?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. Yesterday I almost got up on the floor and asked that fellow delegates did not spend too much time introducing friends because we all have them here. Today I find myself in the happy circumstances of introducing Senator Burdick, who has just walked in. And I would like the consent of the body to invite Senator Burdick to the front desk with the Chair's permission to be introduced and say a few words.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will appoint a committee of two to escort the Honorable Quentin Burdick to the rostrum that he may address the convention. I will name Delegate Simonson and Delegate Stanton to escort the Senator to the rostrum.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS CECIL CRANDELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Sergeant-at-Arms.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS CECIL CRANDELL: Your committee with the Honorable Quentin Burdick, United States Senator from the District of North Dakota.
(Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, the Honorable Quentin Burdick, United States Senator from North Dakota.

SENATOR QUENTIN N. BURDICK: Mr. President and Delegates. I am just passing through, returning to the Congress on Sunday. I just want to say that I welcome this opportunity to say just a word of hello. Because we are in Phase II, this is an historic moment, I presume the first since 1889. And so for that reason I am very pleased to be here.

I don't have any advice or suggestions, and I believe if I did it would be improper to voice them. I simply say that you are engaged upon a very important part of North Dakota history. I know it's going to take the collective judgment and the collective wisdom to work out a great document.

So, in brief, best of luck. I know you will do what is best for the great State of North Dakota. Thank you.
(Applause)

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. May we be on the twelfth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I move that the Rules be suspended. And before I continue this motion, it's a long one, I'd ask for a second. I would like to explain the motion.

DELEGATE CHASE: Second.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I move that the Rules be suspended and Proposal 1-43 be placed at the head of the calendar, and that Proposal 1-42 be placed immediately below it.

That both proposals shall be open for discussion as follows:

Three designated Legislative Functions Committee members shall speak no more than fifteen minutes on Proposal 1-43.

Three shall speak no more than one fifteen minutes' total on 1-42.

That thereafter both proposals shall be open for discussion.

That at the conclusion of the discussion the delegates shall be polled individually by the Clerk, at which time they shall state their preference — either bicameral or unicameral.

That prior to the vote, no amendment or other motion shall be in order.

That the proposal that carries the majority of the votes of those voting shall thereupon be deemed placed at the top of the calendar on the tenth order for first passage.

I move that long motion.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Our committee spent a lot of time trying to find a method to save the Convention a lot of time. And I think we have come up with a method, and I certainly hope the Convention goes along with this. What we are really doing is asking you as a Convention to make a decision that we as a committee were unable to do. And if you will note there, we had a rule that the committee report cannot be amended. So we're asking that you abide by the rule in this unusual situation.

We're asking that fifteen minutes be allowed for each, bicameral and unicameral, and after that that it be open for discussion.

We're asking that the poll be taken, and by this poll it will be a positive vote for either the unicameral or the bicameral. It won't be a yes or no for one or the other. And I think that that is important.

And that once the poll is taken, then the one that gets the most votes will be put at the top of the calendar, and from there on it's treated as any other proposal on the tenth order.

And, as I said, we feel this will save the Convention an awful lot of time and it's something that is very precious with the twenty days or twenty-five that we have left. Thank you very much.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, the Chair is in doubt on two of the questions possibly — if I can term them as questions — that you raised in my mind. You talk about a delegate shall be polled. Now do you mean that they will be polled on what we used to term roll call by saying one or the other of the two by the Clerk polling the delegation?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Right. We're asking that the Clerk call the name of the delegate, and that delegate indicate whether he is for the bicameral or unicameral.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's understood then by the Convention.

The next question then that your motion raises in my mind — and I'm only asking these so we don't find ourselves hung up on the interpretation of your motion — and that is you are delegating or you are allocating speaking time to three proponents of the bicameral and three proponents of the unicameral. Now you are not, by that motion, preventing another delegate from talking on the same issue, are you? That's not your intention?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: No. I have asked the six people that have been assigned to, in their order, yield to the next individual. And even like Delegate Stanton is for the unicameral — or the bicameral, she will be yielding to Delegate Simonson, who is for the unicameral.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: This is fine. But by this motion you are not applying that so-called "gag rule" on the other delegates if they wish to speak? That is not the intent of your motion, is it?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Here is the motion: We're asking that three designated members speak for fifteen minutes on each side, and that thereafter discussion be open. So we're asking that — it's like a committee report. The courtesy of the Convention gives the committee a chance to report their action.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. We've barred the committee as a whole proposal earlier in the deal. And this is strictly a committee of the whole proposition. You'll probably argue about it for an hour. Just as well go ahead under the regular procedure. Get the same results, I think.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. There are two things that the committee felt were important here; number one, our committee voted unanimously to recommend to the Convention that both of these proposals be put on the ballot. But we were very reluctant to get the Convention in a position of trying to amend these proposals and improve them and get them to a place that the Convention liked and worked in the atmosphere of not knowing whether the proponents of the bicameral were really trying to hurt the unicameral proposal and vice versa.

This is an attempt, an honest attempt by the committee, both sides, to get some — find some way to get one of the proposals before us as probably the primary one to work on. And at that point I am hoping, as a proponent of the one-house system, that everybody will work positively towards making that proposal — whichever one it is — the best possible proposal that this Convention can produce.

I am hoping that the Convention then will go along with the committee recommendation to adopt a motion to put them both on the ballot for the people, and then work on the other proposal to get that in the best possible position to place on the ballot. And that's the reason the committee decided to do what they are recommending.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Mr. Clerk. Roy. I think an amendment or a motion that has so many parts and is of such concern to the Convention, I think we should re-read the motion from the desk.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I would like to support Delegate Hoffner's motion for this reason; that we have got to determine this question before we can really put the language into the Constitution for our legislative procedure. And I assume that there will be opportunity after that is once determined to offer amendments to either proposal, whichever one may carry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would presume that.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: On that point, I think the delegates should understand it is our committee's idea that we want you to designate a preference. We don't want you to be too concerned with the language in either 1-42 or 1-43 as they now stand. You will be free to amend the one, if you pick the bicameral as your preference, then we'll start amending it. Go on the tenth order and get it in the shape the majority of us like. Pick unicameral; do the same. But before we started to work on one we wanted to know which one to work on. We didn't want to get into the amending process, the substitution. I could move, for example, on the bicameral to delete all the words, it's up to the unicameral. To save all this time, we came out with this approach. And I would urge your support of Chairman Hoffner's motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will read the amendment or the motion.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: That at 10:00 o'clock the Rules be suspended.

That at 10:00 o'clock Proposal 1-43 and 1-42 shall be placed at the head of the calendar.

That both proposals shall thereupon be open for discussion as follows:

a. Three designated Legislative Functions Committee members shall speak no more than fifteen minutes on Proposal 1-43.

b. Three designated members shall speak for no more than fifteen minutes on 1-42.

c. That thereafter both proposals shall be open for discussion.

4. That at the conclusion of the discussion the delegates shall be polled individually by the Clerk at which time they shall state their preference — either bicameral or unicameral.

5. That prior to said vote, no amendment or other motion shall be in order.

6. That the proposal that carries the majority of votes of those voting shall thereupon be deemed placed at the top of the calendar on tenth order for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard a reading of the motion.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. I have no objection to the motion. But I would like at this time to point out for future reference that I would object if it was an issue in which I had a predetermined position and was going to stick to it. I'm not going to sit and let the chairman or any member of a committee delegate and yield for a half an hour to the one side. Because this is strictly not fair and is not according to any parliamentary procedure.

But this time I have no objection. But I would just like to make the point that we are not, with my consent at least, we're not going to vote on the other issues with this same kind of a deal. This motion I'll support. But I'm not going to support it for use for very many times. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the motion as offered by Delegate Hoffner.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and I believe Committee Proposal 1-43 is before the Convention.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates to this great Convention. I rise to speak in favor of the bicameral system of legislature because I believe it is still a very sound —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hildebrand, I believe that the proposal should be read before we — 1-43 should be read.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would inquire, if it might be in order, we were on the twelfth order of business, and I think the motion said ten o'clock. And we are not quite there. I would inquire if it would be in order that I be allowed to move that the previous remarks of Senator Burdick be presented in the Journal at the proper place?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen has moved that the remarks of United States Senator Burdick be placed in the Journal at the proper place.

Now did we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE DANIELS: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Been seconded by Delegate Daniels.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

Technically I presume we should be at ease for two minutes.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I crossed out the times on my copy. And I thought I'd crossed out the times on the copy I sent to the desk. Because I wasn't going to yield to the time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Strange as it might seem, Delegate Hoffner, the one that I have had the time on it that was read there at the desk.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: The copy I read didn't indicate any time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will then proceed with the reading of Delegate Proposal or Committee Proposal No. 1-43.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-43, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 25 of Article II of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 1 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the legislative system.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL) Section 25 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Section 1 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 1. The legislative power of this state shall be vested in a legislature consisting of a senate, composed of not more than forty members, and a house of representatives, composed of not more than eighty members, which jointly shall be designated as the Legislative Assembly of the State of North Dakota."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. President and Delegates to the Convention. I rise to speak in favor of Proposal 1-43 for the simple reason that I believe it is still a very sound and basic form of representative government. It provides for the necessary check and balance that only a two-house system can offer. Since it is a citizen type it offers the opportunity for more people to participate.

Because we are going to debate the difference between the bicameral and the unicameral systems, I would like to make a few comparisons here for your consideration. And since there is only one state in the Union that has a unicameral legislature, we will look at their record as a comparison.

According to a book by the Citizens Conference on Legislatures which was published only in August of '71, they rate the members of the legislature of the State of Nebraska sixteenth in order. Let me state further, in explaining these remarks before I make them, they have analyzed the legislatures of all fifty states and they have given them ratings in certain areas. And since this takes a lot of time, I won't go into all of that. But these people do rate the legislature in the State of Nebraska sixteenth in order for being well informed. And they rate the members of the North Dakota Legislature seventeenth among the same states in that order. And yet they rate the Nebraska Legislature thirty-fifth in order for being functional, and they rate the North Dakota Legislature twenty-second in order for being functional. So it will seem that the two-house system is not cumbersome as we are being led to believe.

I would like to make just a few comparisons here on some statistics, with your indulgence. The cost, for example, of the two-house system in the State of North Dakota — and I have broken these down into the lowest possible denominations here because of time and other things, but I have used only last year's, one year, for the basis of these figures so they will be half of the biennial terms — the members of the North Dakota Legislature have cost the State of North Dakota Legislature have cost the State of North Dakota $3,129 each for 147 members or a total of $459,760 for the last session of the Legislature. In the State of Nebraska the members per year in their 49-member legislature cost them $15,164 each or a total of $743,036.

In comparing this further, the Legislature in the State of North Dakota had introduced and processed 1,060 bills, and they had 63 days to process those. And in the State of Nebraska, the last session of the Legislature processed 1,042 bills, or 18 bills less than did the Legislature of North Dakota. And for this they sat in session for 141 days. So it seems that the cost comparison certainly doesn't seem to indicate that we are too expensive or too elaborate or too extravagant in our deliberations here.

Then we hear these comparisons of why have a two-house legislature when all other businesses, corporations, and other people have one board of directors? Why don't they have two if they need this check and balance badly? Well, it's a difference. Because in the case of corporations and other businesses they are mostly interested in how much money they can get out of the services they offer, whereas the legislature in the State of North Dakota has to try to get as much service out of the money they spend. Because the corporation type board of directors deals mostly with their own funds and in their own affairs. They are not responsible to anyone else than just their own group. So we have really no need for feeling that they should have a check and balance for the sake of administering funds and whatever. And then, of course, their deliberations are mostly in the area of administrative affairs. And they also are a constant body and can change or adjust their plans from month to month or day to day, if this is what they so desire.

I believe I have used up my allotted time. I thank you for your attention. And I will now yield the floor to Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Fellow Delegates. I think we all as citizens of North Dakota are very interested in a responsive legislative body. The bicameral is a responsive legislative body. In our proposal we have not changed the size of the delegation to the legislature. We are leaving it at 49 and 98 people. There is some consideration as to the cost of our citizens coming before the committees from time to time to testify; once before the House if the bill is introduced there first, and then to appear for a hearing of that bill in the opposite house at a later date.

The unicameral proposal and the discussion that's been had in our committee on that is not going to change that condition very much because it is going to provide — and I'm sure everyone would agree it's necessary — to have at least two hearings on any bill that's in unicameral also. So those that missed something the first time around will have a chance to make corrections in it at the second hearing. So they would be faced with the same cost of coming to Bismarck on two different trips or staying over until the bill is heard the second time.

The legislative procedure as it now exists in North Dakota is something that we find our average citizen is not too concerned about. In the unicameral legislature, most of the legislation that is put in there covers corrective wording of some of the laws that exist that are found to be unworkable. They are appropriations or they are departmental in nature. And a limited number of bills are of general interest.

Our citizens have the opportunity of appearing before any committee and expressing their opinion. But as an active member of the Finance and Tax Committee in the Senate for the last three sessions, I have found that most of our testimony comes from people that are professional in nature related to some of the organizations that are indirectly interested in the legislative work that is being conducted there. And I am sure that it's so in the other committees.

I mean by that statement to indicate that our citizens do have the opportunity but not too many of them avail themselves of that opportunity of presenting testimony, because in most cases they belong to an REA group, to a Farmers Union group, or to a contractors group, and they have their representatives here to look after the legislation that is introduced and watch out for their interests in it.

The unicameral system attracts a professional lobbyist. I'm not necessarily indicating that that is bad, but a professional lobbyist — I will use the word that way — could really have a heyday. Because in the unicameral he could single out a few people in each committee, maybe one, powerful enough that as far as his interests in that committee is concerned to control legislation that is introduced and handled there. In the bicameral system that's not so easy, because he might have an influencing individual on the committee in the House and I question if he'll have that same influence in the committee in the Senate.

There is another thing that goes along with it, and of course it may or may not be a partisan body as far as unicameral is concerned. Nebraska does not have. The evidence in the testimony we received from Nebraska Senators in our committee meeting indicated that the leadership is sometimes lacking there because of the lack of partisanship. We may continue, if we have unicameral, to have a partisanship and I believe the continuity would be better. However, I fear that that may not be done.

Sometimes the claim is made that the present type of bicameral legislature takes the occasion to pass the buck. If they don't like a bill that's in the House, or let's say in the House of Representatives, and it's a hot potato, they will kick it out of there, send it to the Senate, let the Senate stew on it for awhile. I have not seen that happen except in extraordinary cases. I don't think that the quality of our legislative body is such that they would intentionally make that a means of dodging an issue on which we are in doubt. More likely, if there is a difference of opinion on those things, it will go into a conference committee and the solution will be found between the best minds of the conference committee appointed by the respective houses to iron out the problem.

In deliberation, I think that legislation introduced in the bicameral legislature has an opportunity of being presented before a group of people in committee in the House, and they see that bill and the laws that are proposed by that or changes that are proposed by that through their eyes. And when the bill is passed out of the House, and if it is sent over to the Senate, there is a new set of eyes, a new set of ears listening to the testimony. And I can assure you that in most cases the testimony that's presented before a committee in the House will not be contradictory when it comes into the committee in the Senate. The people that testify for these bills professionally know that the cross-check is taking place between the chairmen or members of the committee from one house to the other to be sure that the story is the same. But, believe me, there are many things right here in our meeting in this Convention that we are in now where a different view, a different picture shows up between my eyes and Delegate Cart's eyes when a particular proposal is before us. And I think it's good.

I have worked in bicameral and I have sat in on the unicameral in Nebraska. I know three Senators in Nebraska very well. I've talked to them many times. And they tell me that if you want to have a professional group of men and women running the legislature, go unicameral. If you want to keep it as a citizen legislature, stay bicameral.

I now yield to Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: And Fellow Delegates. I would like to add some comments of concern to those already made by Delegates Hildebrand and Butler.

One system for another, and especially if it is as important as your legislative system, I think you better be pretty thoroughly convinced that what you are going to get is far superior to what you are going to give up. And there is no way that the proponent of the unicameral system can prove to you or to me that their system is superior.

Nebraska has the only unicameral system out of the fifty. And they've had it since 1937. If this system has been so good, why has not one state since that time adopted a unicameral system? There have been thirteen constitutional conventions since 1961. Not one of them has even been wise to adopt a unicameral system.

I think that the proponents of the unicameral system should be challenged to tell us in what manner Nebraska is superior to North Dakota; our highway system is superior, our welfare system is superior; our mental health and retardation service system is superior to theirs. They were the last state in the union to adopt school legislation reorganization. Now not being responsive about what I've just mentioned means that they are not responsive to the people.

Now on to representation. The bicameral proposal proposes a House and a Senate as it is now constituted; that is 49 in the Senate and 98 in the House. Those are maximum figures. The unicameral proposal is 99. And this is a minimum. And if they get much beyond that point they might just as well stay with the bicameral system.

Now what this really does, comparing the figures for bicameral and unicameral, is to cut by one-third the number of legislators for every district in the State of North Dakota. Now in a state with a diminishing population, which, as we all know, will result in November of 1972 in our having only one representative in the House of Representatives, I think representation is of vital concern to the people of North Dakota. We have all received letters from the Farmers Union and from the Farm Bureau, both of which endorse the bicameral system. It means they have deliberated this, they are concerned about it, and they want us to be concerned about it. We can't do anything about representation in the United States House, but we can do something about our representation in the State of North Dakota.

I think that the people of North Dakota by approving the Constitutional Convention and by electing us delegates have placed in us a very special trust. I cannot honor that trust by taking away from them one-third of the members of their state legislature. Can you?

I now yield to Delegate Hendrickson.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson, now are you to talk for the unicameral or for the bicameral?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I am to talk for the unicameral.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then may I interrupt your comments long enough that the desk can read the proposal for the unicameral legislature.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-42, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 25 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 1 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the legislative system.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 25 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Section 1 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 1. The legislative power of this state shall be vested in a single chamber, composed of a minimum of ninety-nine members, and designated as the Legislative Assembly of the State of North Dakota."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates. I want to speak to all of you on the merits of a one-house legislature from the viewpoint of the ordinary citizen. I guess I'm that same citizen that Governor Guy referred to in his opening address to this Convention. I remember a number of years ago I received a pamphlet entitled "How a Bill Becomes a Law." As I looked over this pamphlet I realized it would be pretty difficult for an average citizen, who lives very far from Bismarck particularly, to follow a law and offer any influence for its passage if it were a good law or to defeat it if it were a poor one. It would mean many trips or at least two, probably more, to Bismarck. It would mean the expense of board and room as you followed it from one committee in the House, watched it on the House floor, to the committee in the Senate, on the Senate floor, and perhaps then to a conference committee. This you couldn't watch, but you could sit and worry what was happening in that conference room.

I would like to see good legislation passed. It's particularly the good legislation that I worry about. I know that poor legislation — or I have faith in the present legislature that for the most part they can kill the poor and the unimportant legislation. But it's the good legislation that concerns me. And it's in this area that I feel that competition of this average citizen is particularly tough with the professional lobbyist. And I agree with Delegate Butler, I am not using lobbyist as a dirty word, they are professionals, they are hired and they are good at it. But they do have the opportunity, which the average citizen doesn't have, to be here at all times to watch where that bill is. They have the opportunity to know the legislators, to learn their personalities, and to sort of size up in which committee they can best offer their influence. And believe you me, the committee in the Senate is a smaller committee than you'll ever see in a one-house legislature, an easier place to wield a little bit of influence as you appear before that committee, if you're interested particularly in killing the bill.

Change is good. Change not for the sake of change, but change when it will bring improvements. One house could bring more interest on the part of the citizens of North Dakota. The process could be more easily followed. The public would be able to watch what their representatives are doing. And this way they could award or punish them accordingly.

People are willing to try something new, especially when they see the merits of change. Politicians have much to lose, and they fear change. Legislatures — legislators understand their system, and they do not want to give it up. Citizens are not hung up on this system. They want results, and they want a system they can understand. I, too, want to understand what is happening in the legislature. I want to know the status of the bills. I want to know what's being considered. With one house I can more easily follow this process. With one house I would be able to pinpoint the responsibility, and I'd know what my representatives were thinking. I know what the bicamerals will say: "It's in the record." But how many times do we see situations of buck-passing by our legislators? Just to give an example, I know of a young girl who wrote to the Senators of one of the recent sessions asking about their opinion on abortion. The Senators were very nice. They replied they were glad she was interested. But for the most part, the answers she received were: "I think they will take care of that in the other house." When I ask a representative what he's thinking, I want to know what he's thinking. I don't want to know what he thinks somebody else is going to think. This is what I mean when I say I want a responsible group of people whom I know what they are going to do and what they are going to say.

I want a government I can understand, I want a government I can follow. And I feel the one-house legislature is a responsible one or would be a responsible one for North Dakota. I feel that this is a kind of government that a citizen can more easily participate in.

And I yield to John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Thank you, Delegate Hendrickson. Mr. President.

And I want to thank all of you delegates for this excellent chance to discuss this vital subject.

I think that we all realize that a bicameral system represents the status quo, that the unicameral system represents change. Now the citizens of North Dakota, when they approved this Constitutional Convention, weren't simply asking that we come here to Bismarck and clean the deadwood out of the old Constitution, but they asked us to take a fresh look at all phases of our government, at all phases of our basic law. And I think that the unicameral system does provide this fresh look, and I think the way that we are discussing it here this morning shows that we are — we ourselves are willing to look at new ways of doing things.

We are not going to transplant a Nebraska system to North Dakota. We are trying to devise a North Dakota legislative system for North Dakotans.

I have become a supporter of the unicameral system because it does give the citizen a better access to the legislative process. I have covered the legislature as a reporter, I have come out here on behalf of my own city, and as my newspaper organization. And it has become quite a trial at times when you have to take a new idea into the originating chamber, either House or Senate, and spend two or three weeks trying to educate and convince the legislators in that one chamber about the merits of your proposal. Finally you get it through, probably on the deadline for exchanging bills, wherein it goes over to the other place. And in twenty days or less you have to convince a brand new set of representatives exactly what you are trying to accomplish. And the time is too short. So you make one brief presentation, and if you are fortunate enough you may be able to do a lot of convincing in the halls and elsewhere, but not in the legislative process. So your proposal might get through with this kind of action or it might be put aside because there isn't enough time and say, "We'll take it up in two years." Nobody in this kind of case is trying to pass the buck. But the second look is a delayed look, it isn't a helpful look.

Now in the normal process the so-called second look that everybody is bragging about on the bicameral system is oftentimes temptation to be irresponsible to pass through a meaningless or even an unwise piece of legislation as a favor to a compatriot in your own house with the idea that the other chamber would kill it. And quite oftentimes this does happen. Sometimes the unwise piece of legislation goes all the way through undetected. It also gives this two-house system the so-called second — the so-called second look also gives the legislator politician a chance to look good with his constituents. He can appear before the originating house as a sponsor and supporter of legislation as supported by his neighbor or home business firm, get it passed by the first house, and then send a note over to the chamber to kill it. And the constituent at home is told, "Well, it's just too bad, but that Senate didn't know what was going on and I just didn't have time to get over there."

I think that your one-house system will give your North Dakota organizations a chance to come here, make their presentations at either one or two hearings and know what's going on and then the legislators have nowhere to hide. They must act in the open and either kill or pass the measures in which the citizens of this state are interested. Thank you.

And I yield to Delegate Sinner.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. I should point out before beginning some substantive remarks about my belief in the unicameral system that the proposal does not in any way preclude the fact that it anticipates the two-party system. Secondly, it sets out a time limit, the same time limit that is proposed for the two-house system. I mention this because we think in studying the Nebraska system that these are two areas of the Nebraska system that are efficient. I want that understood, that we feel rather strongly about that.

In August a sophisticated business magazine from Florida carried this editorial. It reads: "Toward the end of the twice-extended special session, which in itself was an extension of the regular session, signs began popping up on the dresses and coats of secretaries, aides and on a few legislators. They read simply 'unicameral'. For this has been a year of bicameral rather than biparty scrapping. It has been more often than not the House against the Senate, not Democrats against Republicans. Senate President Jerry Thomas once chided the House Republicans by saying the Senate, not they, had become the loyal opposition. And his House counterpart, Speaker Richard Pettigrew, when House members grounded, as he readied another message of disagreement on a tax bill, noted testily this was 'another product of the bicameral system'."

Four states this year have gone into agonizing extended and re-extended special sessions over controversies not between parties but between houses. Minnesota is the nearest example, Michigan has gone to it, so has Alabama and Florida. Admittedly, these were exaggerated evidences of the inability of a two-house system to achieve consensus on gut issues. But to say that it is not typical is simply not true. Anyone that has been here knows that more often than not two separate approaches to problems develop in the two houses, and these two separate approaches very often end up at loggerheads, tragically more often than not end up in no action, or action so watered down, so innocuous, that progress on important issues is put off and put off.

This is precisely why, I think, to those who say that this is a new idea, I point out that practically all of the governments of the world, older governments, have gone gradually but steadily to the one-house system. Denmark has just recently adopted the one-house system for their national parliament.

Look at the governments in our own country, cities the size of Los Angeles and New York, Chicago. They wouldn't think of adopting a two-house system. No legislature in this entire country has proposed or passed by law a two-house governing body for any of its political subdivisions. The North Dakota Legislature set up a one-house Constitutional Convention. What business that you know — and I plead with you to believe that the business of government needs the same kind of organizational structure that any other business or any other organization needs. We need the ability to get a consensus to get on toward the solution of a problem. No one is discussing, I think, that the one-house system is a perfect system. God knows and you and I know that it's not. But when problems are before us we must find a way and a system to start in the direction of solving those problems. Motion in the direction of solution is better than inaction. If we start out and can get a consensus on a course of action to solve a problem, that's better than standing here without moving toward a solution.

Probably one of the best evidences of the inability of the bicameral system to solve problems that are extremely difficult, and everyone admits it, is a look at the organizational chart of state government in North Dakota. Anyone that's ever seen it knows that it's a hopeless maze of, in very many cases, unconnected and irresponsible boards and commissions. Every legislator that I know has for years bemoaned the tragedy of this situation and yet in attempts to solve and to reorganize state government constantly run into loggerheads of special interests, loggerheads simply of difference of opinion.

We are coming into the last generation of the twentieth century. We have seen most of all in the last twenty years a rapid transition of the solution of problems from state government to federal government. The question before us, it seems to me, is are we going to allow this trend to continue or are we going to give state government and state legislators — which I hasten to point out we have some of the best in the nation, and I say that not patronizingly but because it's true and any study will recognize that — we must give these people the machinery to make decisive actions — take decisive actions and solve the problems of the last generation of this twentieth century.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Sinner.

We now come to Section 3 of the motion, and that reads: "That thereafter both proposals shall be open for discussion." I presume that's from the floor.

Now if any delegate wishes to comment on the two proposals at this point, feel free to do so.

Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Mr. President. I also would like to speak in behalf of the bicameral system of government. I feel at ease speaking for this system because our founding fathers had the experience being governed by governments which were not responsive to the needs of the people. Therefore, when they established our national Constitution for the citizens of the original states it was a bicameral system of government. This bicameral system is responsive, because our founding fathers had the ability to foresee the advantages of a representative republic.

This form of government means responsibility, and responsibility means ability to respond. And that is what a bicameral system does. And because it creates checks and balances. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I am in support of the bicameral system. I don't know whether creatures of this nature are going to have any effect at all. When a court selects a jury it is very careful to try to select people who know nothing about the case. The judge is careful and the attorneys are careful to try to find people, if it's possible, who have never heard of it, who have no convictions on either side. And in a case like that you have some chance after the case is over in arguing to the jury.

In a situation like this I can't count everybody. I can count a few people already on one side or the other. And it may well be hopeless for me to persuade any of those who are for unicameral. But I would like to remind the body that with possibly one or two other exceptions I think this is one of the most important things that this Convention can deliberate. Because it goes fundamentally, in my opinion, to the nature of our government. And that is the prime purpose of our constitution.

It is true that for most of the history of the world — and that goes back quite a few thousand years — we didn't have a bicameral system, we didn't even have a unicameral system, we didn't even have democracy. Now we are not a true democracy in the manner in which we operate, that's impossible. We can't have North Dakota meetings in which every citizen attends. We are a representative democracy. Subsequently it becomes even more important how, whom and how many representatives we select to speak for us, the people. Too few, obviously, isn't good; too many produces chaos. I leave it for you to determine whether 98 is a good number for a Constitutional Convention; whether it was too few, whether it was too many.

The committee which considered these bills, these proposals, is the largest committee of this Convention. We were a unicameral body as we sat there. We were unable to come to a decision. We were ten to ten. Since last summer, I may say.

Now this Convention is not, in my opinion, a true unicameral body because we are not empowered to take final action. The other house are the 650-odd thousand people out in the State of North Dakota who sometime later in 1972 will have the final vote. That's the second house. Whatever the legislative assembly may do, that house can refer it to themselves. And we are considering how many people it's going to take to do that. But they can refer it to themselves and approve or undo the work of any legislative assembly. That's the second shot at things.

There are many, many old adages, of course, that apply to these things that are cliches precisely because they are so true. If they were not true, they wouldn't have lasted, they wouldn't have become cliches. And I suppose one of them is "Two heads are better than one." And I think that's why we have more people than one on committees. I think that is why we have numbers of people. I think that's why frequently we want to take second looks. I think that is why there are moves even in this splendid body to reconsider the action that we just did. All of our committees, I have found, that actions that were taken, and supposedly after great discussion, the next time the committee meets it changes its mind. It does something differently. It may not completely back away. And all of the bills that are passed by a house of representatives that don't make it through a senate are not killed completely, they may be amended and come back. And there's a constant back-and-forth process in a bicameral legislative system. Because another group sees things in a different light, has a different viewpoint, new arguments come about. In my opinion that's one of the advantages of having, for example, to practice law in a firm instead of one man. I've done both. Because I have other heads, other ideas, other discussions, and it's the back and forth. And I'm sure you've all seen that in the committees that you've served on in this convention process. And I'm sure that many people have changed their minds after they came here, after they have given it to committees.

I can't address myself to the arguments of whether a unicameral legislator is more responsive or not. I think every legislator is responsible in this state to his constituents. Fortunately, we are still a state where people know each other. All of us are well known in our communities. And many of us are known and know many other people in our communities. We're small enough to still be neighbors; we know people. To me it's fundamentally a question how do you want the representative democracy to be taken care of? How should it operate? Should we give it to one smaller group of people? Bear in mind that a hundred legislators is still something like a thousand to one percent, even in our small state. It's a very small group. I don't know what we came here with as a mandate from the people. I know that forty thousand people didn't even want to have this convention. They voted against it. Fifty-six thousand said, "Yes, have a convention." I have received no directions from my constituency, particularly about changing any of the fundamental forms of the government. It may well be that fewer people are more efficient in one sense of the word. The most efficient things in the country today are computers. They are the most impersonal.

Democracy has been said to be the worst kind of government that can be conceived, but better than any of the rest of them. True enough, the rest of the world has gone on unicameral bodies; parliaments, diets, whatever they may be called. I don't think I want to live in another country, I'd rather live in America. I'd rather live here in North Dakota. I'd rather put up with a little less efficiency and a little more humanity. Because that's what we are here for. That's why I'm for bicameral.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. Speaker:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre has next requested the floor. Delegate Hougen will be next.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President. I'd like to touch on another area perhaps that hasn't been talked on, but I think is very important. And I think it's shared by both those that support unicameral and those that support bicameral. I think that there is a definite feeling of urgency among many of us that this particular issue be one of those that is considered an alternate issue on the ballot. It's an issue that I think can do much in the final passage and approval of what we do here in this Convention by the people of our state; the very fact that the unicameral approach has gained in publicity, gained in interest from the citizens of this state. The very fact that the people in this state now, I believe, have the opinion that they would like to vote on these issues when some support the unicameral.

I can think of no better way to assure the interest by the people of this Convention now and in the final results of this Constitution that would vote for unicameral. Both the unicameral and bicameral supporters I believe could agree on this. I ask you to support the unicameral proposal now to insure the success of this Convention. I feel that the people, although they may not be ready to vote on this thing today, are looking forward to it with interest. They want to find out more about it. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates. This is a question that I found I had quite a bit of response on before we went into our Constitutional Convention session. One of the questions that was asked me quite often was, "Why does it seem, Jim, that many of the present legislatures — legislators are very much in favor of the bicameral system?" The comment was made that these people, men and women, are perhaps trying to protect their job. I'd like to say right off the bat that I don't believe this to be true. I am convinced that the present legislators are very much anxious to come up with a system that will best serve the State of North Dakota. If you will allow me to jest just a moment, though, I would like to say that I did comment to these people that I think that perhaps the present legislators that are in favor of the bicameral system are so close to the forest that they can't see the trees. They say, "What about the present legislators that are for the unicameral?" I can only comment, "How wise they are."

But I'd like to make one comment. We have already found out that we have a great difficulty in sometimes making a decision here. And I think we should have difficulty in some of the decisions we make, because they are going to be something that will, I hope, be with us for a long time. But think for a moment, if you will, how hard we have worked on some of our proposals and how much importance they have. What would happen if we had to go across the hall and have the same proposals worked on over there? And that would happen if at the last we find out that on these or this important proposal we have two ideas that are somewhat different so we have to go to the conference committee? And we know that in the conference committee we are going to have to do a lot of giving and a lot of taking. It's going to have to be done in just a very short while. And I think this sometimes winds up in unwise legislation.

I would also like to say that I do not agree with the talk that has been put forth that a professional lobbyist would have so much more effect in a unicameral system. I say this because I look at many members of this Constitutional Convention that are now in our legislature and I would say that I know that these men and women are not so weak-willed that if they served in a house or in a legislature with one house they are going to be ruled by the lobbyists. I don't agree with this at all.

I also feel that with the unicameral system we can much better pinpoint responsibility. I did serve in the legislature for just one year, and I certainly can't speak with a great deal of background when I compare myself with the many here that have served for many years. But I do want to say that in a one-house system we could much better pinpoint responsibility. I know that there is not a present Senator or Representative that at one time or another has not told his constituents, "Yes, I really do favor what you are talking about, but I have to be realistic and even honest, too, in saying that I just can't get this through because the other house does not agree with me, the other house does not agree with you." I think in the one-house system that we could much better pinpoint the responsibilities of our legislators, and that the people back home would be much more satisfied with our results. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. I don't know if experience counts on issues like this. I have had some experience in a bicameral legislature; served two terms in the House of Representatives. We've had no unicameral body except this body. And I may say at least to this stage my experience has been good as I view it. But as I look back into the legislative time and after I had learned the process, a rather difficult process, I do recall thinking to myself, "Thank God for the other house." Because I'm sure that the House of Representatives has had passed bills and I was happy that the Senate was there to kill them. Because I thought we had made a mistake. But I assure you other times I had other emotions. When the House, after careful and hard debate and serious discussion of consideration, had a proposal killed in the Senate with a recommendation out of committee.

I was a bicameralist. And when I began hearing the arguments of considering this matter in the Legislative Functions Committee I began to wonder. I began to wonder about the checks and balances that we say are so important to the unicameral — to the bicameral system. As you look at the unicameral process, look at the checks and balances that we would have, first of all we have the check of each delegate or each representative to the other. In other words, their argument and open debate. We have the check of the two parties watching what they are doing. Of course we have the press, which is an important check on the power of any legislative body. Following that we have given the governor, the executive branch of government, the power to veto actions of the legislative body. Beyond that we have our court system who will strike down any law passed by one-house legislature that conflicts with the basic constitutional document. And, finally, of course, we have the people themselves with the right of referendum.

Now I began to wonder, "Do we need another check, another house?" I began to wonder about the necessity of hearing things twice in two different bodies. Now we will all agree, as Delegate Pearce pointed out, it's good to take a second look. But stop and think how that second look is being taken. It's being taken by a separate house, across a chamber, by different people. Now certainly we as committees in this Convention have taken second looks. I think our committee has redone almost everything we did this summer. But we haven't had to start anew. What if we gave our work to your committee, to another committee? You would have to go all through the same process again. And I assure you the second looks we're taking now are substantial improvements over what we did before. And we can incorporate a second look in a one-house legislature. The two hearings are fine, but in the bicameral system I as a representative would add here the point made by citizens in one house. I am not a member of the committee in the other house. I am not going to hear the later arguments or the second look. So I don't really know what happened to the bill in the other house. And I can't afford to — this goes to the point I have been wondering about, the time — would we say the one-house legislature cannot act, will not have the time. How much time is spent by legislators worrying about what happened to their bills in the other house? How much time is spent by the leadership in the two houses worrying about the policy in the other house? How many hours are spent trying to resolve differences and finally important pieces of legislation end up in conference committees? Conference committees yield only on a very small percentage of legislation. I think if you will look at the record these are many times the most important pieces of legislation that are passed out in the eleventh hour. I think the houses of the legislature just hate the conference committee report because that's the best that there is. There is no time.

Now some say that chairmen in a one-house system would be too powerful. I don't think this is true. From the negative side, there is no difference between the unicameral - bicameral. Because you must remember under our bicameral system our Constitution presently requires that both houses pass the bill before it becomes law.

So the committee and the Senate, the seven-member committee, the chairman of that committee can kill legislation. And the other house has no say, they have no say on that. This is true in unicameral, too, of course. The one committee will be able to kill. But remember that as far as turning down legislation in the unicameral, the committee will be just as powerful in either instance.

As far as positive action, there will be a difference. Because as far as getting something passed you will not have to go through two different bodies. If you can convince one chamber of the wisdom or the need of legislation, it will carry. It will not have to be second-guessed.

Some say we will lose representation. It's true now most districts in this state have one senator and two representatives. If we go to a one-chamber house with a 99-membership, or thereabouts, you will lose say one senator, you may end up with — whatever you call them — two senators, two representatives. You will lose one. But remember, have you really lost anything? Under the bicameral system if you want a bill passed you have to convince your senator, because his vote alone can destroy the bill in that house. You really don't have three representatives, you have one representative in one house and two representatives in another house. And all we're doing is removing the one under the unicameral single chamber. I think this probably may give you better representation, because you will know — you can talk to your representative, you will know his action. He won't be able to say to you, "Well, this is over in the other chamber. I'm sorry I can't be of any help to you."

I want to assure you that I have high praise for our legislature. I was extremely impressed when I was in the legislature. And I think these are fine men. But I believe they are working under serious handicaps. And I would urge all of you to seriously consider the single chamber house and how much more these men could do for the State of North Dakota with a single chamber house.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. In 1889 Reuben Stevens of Ransom County made one of the most dramatic and eloquent speeches of the convention. It was a speech that was worthy of Daniel Webster. I wish I had it before me so I could quote directly from it. But one of the most telling arguments that he made was — remember now this is Reuben Stevens speaking in 1889 — "The great Constitution of the United States was the product of a single legislative body." He said, "This Constitution of 1889 will be the product of a single legislative body."

Now here we are 83 years later. And I must disagree with my illustrious colleague, Delegate Pearce, I believe this is a fine example of the effectiveness of a single legislative body. We've seen in the progress we've made so far how effectively we can work. We can change our minds just as they do in the present legislature. But the very fact that we have several issues that we have held hearings as a single legislative body on and will come out of here as the product of a single legislative body to me proves the value of a unicameral system. I haven't the eloquence of Reuben Stevens, but following in his footsteps, as my counterpart from Ransom County, I hope we will support a unicameral system.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, Assembly. I really wonder what are the weaknesses in the two-house system? And I have wondered that for some time. In fact, prior to coming to the Convention I've been regularly stated in the Minot press and elsewhere as being in favor of the two-house system as a present legislator. Yet when I got down here I started reading some of the articles of Mr. Unruh, I began to take a look at some of the recommendations of the legal institutes on politics and indeed the Citizens Conference. And I noticed they were striking at one concept, the concept of democracy. And then I began to reflect back on my experience in the legislative assembly and said, "Yes, I wonder if they aren't right?"

Let's take a look at the facts. In the 1971 legislature 1,072 pieces of legislation were introduced in these two houses. Of that number 611 passed, thirteen of which were later vetoed. But more significantly of that number — and I think it's a significant number, Delegate Kelsch — 58 went into conference committee. Fifty-eight went into conference committee. And Delegate Pearce said we ought to be concerned about whether there are too few or too many making decisions. And I concur with him in that remark. I would say this: Six people — six people is too few. Three from this body and three from the body across the aisle are too few to make the decisions on those 58 bills and resolutions.

I know in my years of legislative experience I've served on one conference committee. That happened to be a very innocuous bill on auctioneers. I talked to my colleague to the right here, and he tells me he served on one, too, which he considered innocuous, but that's all. But I can go back and reflect on the names of powerful persons in both of these assemblies who have served on conference committee after conference committee after conference committee. And I ask you is that representative government? Now what's the decision once that conference committee reports back to either one of these houses? That decision is either you approve the conference committee report or you don't approve it. And you're up against time, and you're up against the pressures of the moment, and you want to go home, and all too often I think the results, the logjamming, the logrolling that takes place, takes place within that conference committee session.

My colleague to the right tells me as a chairman of a committee he recommended two people to sit on a conference committee, but they were never appointed to that conference committee. The leadership has selection and choice opportunities at that stage of the legislative process, that the committee reflects an undemocratic status in our present two-house system. And I think of the last session when across the aisle the minority party did not even have a member on the three-member committee, did not even have a member on four of the most important pieces of legislation that went to conference committee status. And at that time I was appalled at the members of that body. And I said to myself, "These are the kind of rules that are going to help destroy the bicameral system. These are the kind of rules internally within the legislative assembly that make it less than democratic." So I submit that I have, in effect, changed my mind since arriving at this Convention just because of the reflection of that one evil inherent in our present system, the conference committee.

And then the other decision I had to make, well, do you think the legislature is going to change the conference committee system? If they are, I could still viably be for the two-house system. But I doubt — I doubt that the legislature, because it has to have a way to resolve the differences between those two houses, I doubt that better rules are going to be drawn and enforced to make a difference on the conference committee. So, therefore, I urge, if you are truly concerned about the democracy, if you are truly concerned about the opportunity of each of those elective representatives and senators, or in the case of the bicameral system, the senator, to effect decision-making, I think he has to effect that decision-making when he votes on the issue, not on the report of a select six people who have been sent out to make remuneration in the differences and come back with a recommendation. In that sense I find myself now, after great study, and certainly much reflection, in favor of a unicameral system.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. There have been comments made in this debate that I would, as a supporter of the bicameral system, like to bring to your attention. And since the last was the one regarding the conference committee, I'll make that my first.

For those of you who have not been involved with a conference committee as a legislator, keep in mind that there is a final vote by the House or the Senate, by each, I should say, on the recommendation of the conference committee. So it's up to each individual legislator to decide in his own mind whether or not he wants to accept or reject that report.

And keep in mind that the legislature functions on a committee basis whereby a committee, as we have done, hears the testimony regarding an issue and makes a report to the body. And again you vote on that report as to whether or not you accept or reject it.

Conference committees have never been an area that I have been particularly involved in, because of one reason or another. However, I think if those that feel they are so bad, they want to change them, they should impress upon their legislators to change legislative rules instead of a Constitution Convention to change the Constitution.

It has been said that politicians will have much to gain by keeping the bicameral system. And I think really who are politicians? As I look, I see all of us as politicians or we wouldn't be here. I think there is a distinction as to who will have the most to gain with the unicameral system, and that is the non-elected politician who is not responsible, by virtue of election, to the people.

It's been said that political subdivisions in North Dakota operate on a unicameral basis. And I submit that is not a fair comparison unless the proponents of that position will state that the legislature will then become full-time as your school boards are and as your city councils are and as your township boards are, ready to meet the problem as it arises instead of as the legislature must meet the problem, which is every two years.

You've heard the number of bills that were determined — discussed at the last legislative session. I do not know the number of repetitious bills that were involved, that is the same bill being introduced into each house. But I have an idea there were not too many of them in the fact that each house weeds out the bills before they go to the other, permits the work to be done in the time limitation that has been set by the current Constitution.

I understand that the time limitation will be a matter for discussion before this body as to how long the legislature will meet. But it's my feeling that if we were to have a unicameral legislature and to have a thousand some-odd bills introduced before it that you would be in session closer to 160 days instead of the 60 days.

Now I'm sure there could be some rules put on the number of bills that would be introduced, but then in effect you are stifling your citizens. And I don't think I can support a position like that. So I think that the premise that we would have longer sessions would become a reality, and with that reality eventually would come a non-citizen legislature but a professional legislature made up of individuals who by reason of occupation or financial security may be able to serve. And this is one of the questions that's most important in my mind as to the decision as to whether or not we want to keep a citizen legislature. And having made that decision, then you must decide will it be bicameral or unicameral?

And then there are a couple of facts that I think were brought out in the opening debate that are very important for your consideration, much more important than the theories that have been advanced. Fact: In a comparison between the bicameral legislature and the unicameral of Nebraska the cost per legislature — per legislator in North Dakota is much less. Fact: By basis — on the basis of the survey as to services provided by our legislature over a unicameral legislature are much more impressive. And it's not a fact, it's an opinion, — and each of you must form your own opinion — in your experience is it easier to influence a smaller group or a larger group? You're going to have to decide that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, Delegates to the second Convention of the Great State of North Dakota.

My seat mate to the left referred to me several times, so I thought I'd better explain my position.

Now if you know of a person who agrees with you, will stay with you on an issue, he's a man with character. If you don't agree with him, he's a stubborn old fool. That's just the difference.

Now I came here — and I'll admit that I have been accused by some of the delegates and my good friends of making up my mind and staying with it. A very good friend of mine, I hope, Delegate Pearce, once told me that I wasn't subject to pressure very much, something to that effect. But I came here with an open mind on the subject of the legislature. And I assure you the fact that I'm in it doesn't make much difference, especially if you put an age limit on the legislators. Now I used to think you should shoot anyone over 40. Now I've changed. I think that figure should be about 90.

But I agree wholeheartedly with Delegate Sanstead that the conference committee is a great evil. In four sessions I served on one conference committee. I think a semicolon was the issue. And I have gone home and found out that words were slipped in by the conference committee that I didn't know about. I'll give you one good example: I was on the committee that okayed this Constitutional Convention. And when I left the committee it didn't have the word "unanimous" in it. The governor or lieutenant governor and the Attorney General were to make the nominations. Somewhere along the line the word "unanimous" crept in. And when I got home after the rush of the session I got the big argument here it was unanimous. This made me so mad I decided I'd run on my own.

Now I've taken a different attitude, though, than Delegate Sanstead. I think we should improve the system we have, do away — the fact that you couldn't have a conference committee without a printed bill in front of you, a day's recess in there, something like that. And I've done this for several reasons; (1) I feel that I have a good grasp of what the people in my district want. I've had pretty good luck guessing how elections would come out and so on. I have one letter, a very bitter letter, from a constituent of mine who just didn't like legislators very well. And he wanted a one-house system. I don't think it made much difference, he just doesn't like legislators because of some various aspects. Also he belonged to a different party than I. But I have about nine or ten letters — I will say seven or eight, not to fib — saying, "We do not want this change." I consider that quite a compliment, because I am in the House, and unless they use the new retirement — the old retirement system on me, I expect to be back.

Now what I am doing with the old system, I'm serving notice now before we're out of here that they'd better do something for the conference committees. Because it's just an open fact if you don't have the minority — I'm the majority of the party — but the minority of the majority party is in far worse shape than the real minority. I had a chairman tell me, "I wouldn't appoint you on a committee because you're tough. You might stay with the point and we might never get home." This I don't think is a good attitude. If you think you're right, you maybe should stay with it.

Anyway, after coming here I'm a little bit scared of a one-house system. I'm a little startled when we start right now with an action — of course I didn't approve. There we come to that stubborn old man again, you see — but there is no further body — except the people, of course, this is true — there is no further body to check on us.

Now I know during these sessions why "Senator" is a bad name sometimes. Again I would echo Delegate Kelsch's remarks: "Thank God for the Senate." And I'm going to stay with our old system. And not because I'm afraid of losing a job, it really doesn't make that much difference. And I'd like to tell you here and now I love elections. I don't want a four-year term. I've had two different chances to run for the Senate. And I don't like a four-year term. Election is half the fun. And I think it's more representative — represents the people a little more because you may not be around in two years if you don't. So I'm going to support the system as we have it. It's not perfect. I think the people, majority of the people in my district, want it. But I think it needs a lot of improvement. And I would agree — I don't know if I can still sit by my good friend, Delegate Sanstead. I thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: I presume before we get done talking about this issue a good many delegates are going to be tired of the rhetoric. This is the first time that I have spoken in the Plenary Session. I think the time for most of the rhetoric is in committee. But this is a matter that has come up without any recommendation, and I think we need to explore it fully.

I come from a rural area. I don't share in the view that we're reducing representation because Proposal 43 calls for a maximum of 147 people in the legislature, Proposal 42 calls for a minimum of 99. So I don't think this is really an issue.

I think there are a couple of matters that have arisen around this particular matter. And I'd like to read a short paragraph from the North Dakota Law Review, winter 1972 issue:

"The principle of bicameralism was adopted for the Constitution of the United States out of necessity. The first constitution of the United States, the Articles of Confederation, established a unicameral congress. The search for compromise by the writers of the Constitution led them to the acceptance of the principles of bicameralism wherein each state would be represented equally in the Senate, but according to population in the House of Representatives."

I think this is one of the matters that because the U. S. Constitution calls for this that we need to perpetuate it. And I think we will recognize that history — that this was a compromise, and perhaps not necessarily the most efficient way of operating government.

The other one is this matter of checks and balances. And as I view constitutional law, checks and balances are matters between executive, judicial and legislative and not within a branch. And I submit that in North Dakota we have too much of checks and balances in both the executive and legislative branches. And I think this Convention needs to correct both areas. And for that reason I would support the unicameral legislature as being a much more efficient, modern method of government.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates. I, too, come from a small community and one of those that has been shot to pieces and we became — our county became the tail of two separate dogs. So I was very concerned about representation. And I recognize that we have some other delegates in the same classification. So the matter of representation was my primary concern. And I carry that on.

And, further, as a novice in matters of this kind, I have probably spent more of my time following the matters that have been going on than maybe many of you. And I would hesitate to think of the additional amount of time I would have to spend if I were attempting to follow the bills and the proposals of another house. And so I have changed my mind on the matter of representation to this: That if I were a legislator I could do more for my community in a body such as this where I would be able to follow everything than I could if I had another individual on the other side of the floor confusing me even more. Thank you.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. I will take just one second.

I look at this question before us as all of you have here. And you certainly have to look at it very seriously. You attempt to view this issue from every conceivable angle and every approach. And you weigh one argument against the other. Now the merits of both systems most certainly have been commented upon here today. But there is still one fact that has to be convincing in my decision, and that's the characteristic and the make-up of our state. It is predominantly agricultural; 75 or 80 percent. If the proponents of the unicameral system could guarantee that we would have 99 members in the one assembly, I think I could go along with them. But as long as that guarantee does not remain there, I cannot go along with the unicameral system with 40 or 50 members and dilute the representation that's so necessary in this agricultural state.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry, Delegate Dobson, Delegate Hubrig asked for the floor quite awhile ago and I passed over him. I'm sorry.

Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President. I rise to speak as a delegate to this Convention not speaking for any special group or lobbyist group. I want to speak my own convictions and what I think that probably many of my friends back home would ask me to say in reference to the unicameral system. I believe that we could operate under a unicameral system. There has been much criticism about the bicameral system. We could try the unicameral system, and probably some of the people back home that have been cussing out the Senators and Representatives unduly, unjustifiably, would have an opportunity to take a look at the other side of the coin. I am sure that we will not wait as long with another Constitutional Convention as we did this one. I would at least hope that before I start pushing daisies that we will see another Constitutional Convention. I'm not campaigning to come back to the next one, I want that on the record. But at the same time, I think we change Presidents of the United States, we should change constitutions. I don't say every two years or four years we rewrite the Constitution, but the machinery I'm sure will be in effect that another Constitutional Convention could be held without waiting as many years as we waited for this one. I am sure when we are done here that the people will be satisfied with the great changes that will have come out of this Convention. They will want to make sure in the future years the Constitution will be updated again as time goes by.

I am in favor myself of the unicameral system. I believe it can work, like this Convention can work. I want to be here with an open mind. I am here with an open mind. I only say God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, and the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference. And I think if we stay at this Convention with this kind of an attitude that we can come out of here with something the people will accept if they will only listen to understand. I want to thank you. I don't want to belabor our time any later.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President, distinguished Delegates. This issue of unicameral or bicameral also was debated at the 1889 Constitutional Convention. On that occasion Mrs. Geelan's predecessor, Delegate Reuben Stevens of Lisbon, spoke in favor of unicameralism and said in part as follows:

"Let North Dakota set an example by the adoption of this resolution, and he who shall turn his eyes to the northern boundary of our Union will see not only a united, prosperous people whose flocks and herds graze on a thousand hills and whose millions of acres of golden grain wave in the breezes of heaven, but he will also see on the pages of this day's history a reform that will stand out in bold relief as if the Angel Gabriel had dipped his fingers in the sunbeams and painted in letters of living light across the vaulted arch of heaven."

Mr. President, I'm at a loss to understand how the 1889 convention rejected unicameralism after so eloquent a plea as that made by Delegate Stevens.

But the case in 1972 is much stronger for unicameralism. Originally the upper house of a two-house legislative body was constituted of property owners, and the lower house of so-called commoners. Our two-house congress was born of compromise in the 1787 Constitutional Convention with a Senate designed to represent the then sovereign state and the House population. And, incidentally, no state can be deprived of Senators without its consent. Most state governments subsequently adopted the model by basing their upper houses on area and their lower houses on population. But the U. S. Supreme Court knocked out the last remaining reason for a bicameral body for state legislatures with its one man vote decision in 1964. For all practical purposes, the concept of bicameralism was rendered inequalistic when a court ruled that apportioned seats in both houses of state legislatures must be based on population and only on population.

It's been pointed out, Mr. President, that the unicameral proposal would cut the number of legislators by one-third. I have heard no demand from the people of North Dakota, the forty-fourth most populous state, that we maintain the twenty-fourth most numerous legislature. Under the unicameral proposal every rural district would be cut in half in geographical size. The legislators would be closer to the people. This would be a great boon for the rural areas of our state.

We are not proposing a Nebraska type system. We are not proposing unlimited sessions. We are not proposing professional legislators. We are proposing a unicameral system which would be distinctly unique to the State of North Dakota. The minimum number of members to serve would be 99. Presumably the maximum would be 117, the number of available seats in this chamber.

It's been pointed out that one-house legislative bodies are common throughout this country and, indeed, the world. If one house is sufficient to serve as a Constitutional Convention and redraft a document as important as the North Dakota Constitution, subject to voter approval, a one-house legislature should be adequate to propose simple statutes subject also perhaps to voter approval.

I don't think it can be said that the bicameral system has worked well in North Dakota or that it has been responsive to the people. The last several sessions have been marked by unnecessary and shameful wrangling and bickering, pitting not Republican against Democrat, but Senate against House.

Following recent sessions, polls have been taken by various newspapers to get the people's opinions of the legislature. In every case the people thought their own home district legislators were doing a good job, but that the legislature did a poor job. I submit this indicates that we're electing good legislators but that the system is defective.

Unicameralism is designed to enact legislation, bicameralism to kill legislation. If two houses are good, then three would be better, because then we could accomplish absolutely nothing. I feel that unicameralism would result in a significant qualitative improvement in our legislative branch of government. It would give North Dakota a lot more good legislating at a lot less cost.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: I rise not as an open partisan to this question, although I am on the Legislative Functions Committee, and I obviously have had to take a stand, at least with it ten to ten. I enjoyed the debate and the degree of construction. What I have to offer is this: This Constitution which we are going to draw in this session will have to be approved by the people. That is, of course, of the essence. I think we are getting a full and free debate here this morning. That I think is excellent. I know that — or I feel today that I am sitting in a body that is extremely reasonable. I think you have proved that this morning when you accepted the recommendations of the Legislative Functions Committee to handle this very difficult question the way you have. I think we are on the right road.

I do think, though, now that we should not become too locked in in our position as to whether or not we are bicameralistic or unicameralistic, if those are the correct terms. I feel that in order to have this Constitution adopted this is one issue that the people are going to be very desirous to have as an alternate. And I propose and suggest to this Convention that we keep this in mind. That as we debate these two alternates, that we very likely will wind up with these alternates on the ballot. And after they go on the ballot then we can go out again as partisans and argue their merits. But let's keep this in mind, that it might be very desirable to have this placed as an alternate on the adoption of this Constitution. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Peters.

DELEGATE PETERS: Mr. Chairman. I am from a large, rural district. And I am convinced that we have nothing to gain and everything to lose by changing to a unicameral system. I am convinced that we will lose considerable representation if the legislature is cut by one-half of its membership. The people of our district now have three members in the legislature, under the unicameral the district will no doubt be cut in two, then the citizens of each district will have only one member.

I am convinced that we do need the second house as a check for the other. Just one example: I would like to remind you of a bill passed by one house recently to create regional school reorganization districts. Certainly no one in the rural area would want their school district in their county reorganized by a committee composed of people from seven or eight other counties. As you know, this bill was wisely killed by the second house.

As far as lobbyists are concerned, with the legislators that I have talked of — to, there are — they agree that there are many more lobbyists who are in favor of bad or selfish legislation. Certainly they would have much more influence in a one-house legislature than they would in a bicameral house. So I urge that for the sake of the rural areas that we vote for a bicameral system.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I have a few concluding points I would like to bring out.

Number one, difficult legislation is usually a result of compromise. Bicameral, unicameral is not going to make any difference on that. And I think it's good to compromise between the picture at that time.

I want to take issue with three of the delegates that spoke about the conference committee. They speak of it derogatorily. And I tie it in with this compromise; that at some time it's necessary to have a limited number of people working over a program that has been submitted to the House and Senate or to the unicameral, as the case might be, for approval of the body. Because oftentimes it is difficult to get a majority in agreement without refining some of the legislation that's there.

The third point, I'd like to advise this body, is we would not be in session today or any time this year were it not for conference committees. House Bill 485 of the 1969 legislative session, talking about a Constitutional Convention, was completed with a conference committee comprised of Kelsch, Strinden and Hoffner from the House; Van Horn, Litten and Meschke from the Senate. They worked out the final details that were acceptable to both houses so we could have a Constitutional Convention.

Last year in House Bill 1484, or in this session, 1971 session, added merely a few changes in there in order to have the understanding between the people that were putting this together. There was a conference committee comprised of Link, Hentges and Erickson out of the House; Longmire, Jacobson and Christensen out of the Senate. Now both parties of the political arena are involved in both of those conference committees, and to my knowledge this generally is the practice.

I do recommend that you approve the bicameral as the choice of this group.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman. Until last year — until last year I had given very little thought to the thought of unicameralism versus bicameralism. Working now? It was the situation in our sister state across the river, Minnesota, which brought the matter very vividly to my mind because it was reported at great length in our local paper. It set me to thinking and reading about unicameralism.

I think you all know that the two houses of the Minnesota Legislature were unable to resolve their differences by the end of the regular session in Minnesota. Again and again they came back into special session, and weeks stretched into weeks and month into month, and all that happened was that each house burned up its own position until many months later, exhausted, they found some sort of a solution. This simply could not happen in a unicameral body, at least in the unicameral body that has an uneven number of members. Or course, this has not happened in North Dakota. But, as we know, and as we have been told, it has happened in a number of other states and is happening in an increasing number of states. It can happen here.

To me the single or all-convincing argument is this one: That decisions have to be made. And it appears that it is the unicameral body and not the bicameral body which can make the decisions which must be made.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I rise in support of that evil, untried, confusing system of legislation known as the bicameral system.

I agree with Delegate Pearce that no souls will be saved by the speeches or the debate that's made on this floor. But I do have some convictions with sixteen years of experience with working in a bicameral legislature that I think I should at least relate some of them to the body that's assembled here today.

In many, many instances, in those years of service in the Senate, I have seen legislation that could have cost the State of North Dakota millions of dollars for years to come that would pass almost unanimously in one house and then come to the other house and with a new approach and a new hearing on that legislation it would be killed almost unanimously. Now I must hastily add that I think most of those bad things did start in the House and we had to take care of them in the Senate. But there were a few that started in the Senate that the House wisely took care of.

I have been under the impression here that those who have favored the — who are favoring the unicameral system have heard some mysterious voice in their ears crying from the people back in their district that they are to come down here and set up a new system of legislation. Well, I may be losing my hearing because not one single person in my district since we started debating these matters over a year ago, or at least a year ago, has come to me to try to influence me to vote for changing the system that has withstood the tests of time in their state — in our state legislature, to have a two-house legislature. So I have failed to hear this mysterious voice that some delegates here at least seem to be hearing from the people, "Go down there and give us a one-house legislature or a unicameral legislature."

I do want to say just one thing about some of the procedures that we do have now in the two-house legislature. Sure, we have conference committees. And it's a rule that we set up at the beginning of each session of our legislature. We have found in the years gone by that this is a technique which you have to use, as Senator Butler — as Delegate Butler said, to bring about a compromise. And certainly legislation is compromise. What's evil about that? Because it's better to compromise some things that are either good or bad than to let it go through all the way if it's bad without making those changes. These conference committees are just tools of the two houses. They have to go out and discuss the matter and then each has to come back to his respective house and there again sell the members individually on the agreement that was made. And time and time again they do not — the body does not agree with these reports. Because they feel they are bad. And they have to — they fail to accept it, and they have to go back and confer and confer some more.

I do not feel that we have anything to be ashamed of or to apologize to our people for for the manner in which we have operated in a two-house system since 1889. We in North Dakota are much better than most of the states on most of the troublesome issues that are facing them today. I certainly would be one of the last to want to get rid of the system that has made us — has put us in the condition that we are today to try some new history — new professor ideas and some new book ideas that the savior of the State of North Dakota is in a one-house legislature. I think the tests of time and the results and the conditions that we have today in our state are far more convincing to me than all of the books and all of the literature that have been circulated with trying to get us to change a system when only one state of our Union of fifty has seen fit to go to a one-house legislature. I hope that we keep the bicameral system in our legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. Chairman. I doubt that within this last couple of hours anyone has changed his mind, but it has been good to have many things said.

Like an architect who designs, we are the architects for the State of North Dakota at the present time. The architect creates a basement structure and foundation so that onto it may be built one floor or two floors, depending upon the design. This is our privilege at this particular time; shall we have two floors or shall we have one? We then must place the proper foundation. So we're building a temple. And being philosophic a bit, I would like to not speak directly to the subject that we are on, but may I wax poetic, if you please, Mr. President, and give to you a bit of poetry written by the Poet Laureate of Texas. And I apologize for using that state's name in North Dakota. But she has written a poem called "The Two Temples." And I'd like to draw this comparison, because we're looking at people. And people in the future. And so this is the way she put it:

"A builder builded a temple,
He forged it with grace and skill;
Its pillars and groins and arches,
He fitted to his will.
Men said as they saw its beauty,
Great is thy skill — O'builder,
Thy fame shall endure for age.

A mother builded a temple,
She forged it with ardent care;
The pillars and groins and arches,
She fitted with wonderful prayer.
None knew of her arduous task,
None knew of her wondrous plan;
The temple the mother builded,
Was unseen by the eyes of man.

Gone is the temple the builder builded,
Fallen into the dust;
Its pillars and groins and arches,
Consumed by eating rust.

But the temple the mother builded,
Lives on as the ages roll;
Because this wonderful human temple,
Was a child's immortal soul."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I'm almost afraid to speak because all I have is a mundane statement. There was mention made here that no doubt the arguments haven't swayed those whose minds are made up, but I would point out to you that there are some of us probably whose minds are not made up. I confess I lean very definitely, but I do not — my mind is not made up.

And in listening to the arguments I've been taking down notes. And I would like to say to Delegate Nething that his statement in his reminder that a conference committee always brings the final — that there is always a final vote brought back on the floor frightens me to death. Because in this august assembly we tend to lean quite a bit on what a committee does. And if we haven't had the time to pursue something, and quite often we don't, we are quite apt to take the committee's decision. Hopefully it's the right decision. But that final vote doesn't necessarily mean that the final vote on a subject is correct. Because we do tend to take a committee's opinion or their decision.

And I have a question. The statement made by Grant Trenbeath about the representation is a question in my mind, and I hope that that one will be resolved.

And again, I want to say to Esky that was a wonderful poem. And I apologize for getting up with just business.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: I rise to support the unicameral system.

I, too, am grateful to Esky for bringing the child into the picture.

I hope that my remarks, while they may appear light, will appeal to you with the common sense I use as the basis for my argument.

As the mother of five children — and I should perhaps have prefaced that remark by qualifying I'm also a wife — these two facts are the basis on which I should like to support my argument; I view the bicameral system in the light of a family wherein one of the children goes to Dad and makes a request and Dad says, "Go ask your mother." The child departs and returns shortly and says to Dad, "She says what did Dad say?" Now if this kid is smart he has a bicameral house going for him. And the parents usually wind up hanging the cloth over the clock. I'm for the unicameral decisions between Art Simonson and Ailsa Simonson, and I'd like to see North Dakota stop the buck in the same way. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President. I think we should get back to the basic issue again, which is simply this: I have challenged the unicameral people to tell me how the government of the State of Nebraska, which is the only unicameral experience we have, is better than that of the State of North Dakota. I haven't had that answered yet. I would really like to hear it. Because really when you get down to the nitty-gritty this is the whole thing. The only state of the fifty that has a unicameral system is Nebraska. Now if that system is that good, somebody here should be able to tell us how it's that good. We have a good working state as we have it now. We know that there are weaknesses in the system, and we know that we can correct the weaknesses. Now I've heard a great deal of sniping at legislators here for what a few legislators may or may not have done, I don't know. But if the unicameral people have any proposal for keeping rascals out of government, I wish they'd give them to the bicameral people. We'd be glad to include it in our proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I did not expect to take part in this debate this morning. But since the question about Nebraska has been bandied around quite a lot, I would like to say my sister has lived in Nebraska since 1920. Her and her husband moved there from North Dakota. They are from the town of Lakota where he finished up his working years with Northwestern Bell as Division Superintendent. They were well acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. George Norris, who was the sponsor and founder of the unicameral system in Nebraska. They very much dislike the legislative system in Nebraska. It was started out, no doubt, with too small a body. It was less than 40 initially. And it concentrated power in the Omaha-Lincoln area and in a few of the larger cities of that area. And all of western Nebraska has felt they were treated like stepchildren since that time.

In recent years an attempt was made to go back to the bicameral system, but it didn't carry. They still operate under the unicameral system.

Also mention has been made about the one man - one vote. I'd like to remind this Convention that for a hundred twenty years the Supreme Court of the United States declined to take jurisdiction, said they had none in this particular field. Starting way back in 1941 and '42 with its so-called door rebellion when they come the next thing to violence when that state adopted a new constitution from the old English Charter, the Supreme Court sent it back and said they had no jurisdiction in this field. That can be found, if you want to look it up, in U. S. or in Luther v. Borden, how one Supreme Court refused to take jurisdiction of a state political issue. And following clear on down I have eight other cases listed here. Seven of them the Supreme Court consistently held, as late as 1955, that they had no jurisdiction.

Then in 1964 four of those judges reversed themselves and were torn by two recent appointees and said, "We have." And at that time Justice Hart accused the majority of amending the Constitution of the United States to take jurisdiction in their lust for power. So just to review a little more history, courts change their minds the same as other people. Within my memory the Supreme Court of the United States adhered to the doctrine of equal but different in the case of the freed slaves. That's equal facilities but segregated, I should have said. Now that has been reversed, and not only by statute but by court decision.

I'd like to cite a recent case, though, when this issue was boiling, Colorado had two proposals before its people in the form of constitutional amendment. And one of them was for the area to be considered in the Senate on a strict population basis for the House in determining membership. There was another one right in the same election that wanted both bodies based on population only. The one for partly area and partly population carried about two to one, the other one was defeated by about the same margin. Then when this was over the Colorado legislature redistricted the state in 1963. And the dissatisfied parties took that appeal to the federal courts. And a three-judge federal court upheld the redistricting of Colorado. It was appealed from there to the United States Supreme Court, and they slapped it down and said it made no difference what the people of Colorado did, it had to follow their recent decision.

So we're moving along to where we are centralizing power. And if we keep on with this — we've got a situation right over in Minnesota right now where they are determining the size of the legislature by the federal court. And if we keep on with this it won't be too long till we may be living under a judicial oligarchy.

I would like to see the bicameral system continued here in North Dakota. I've served in it many years ago; it has its defects. But the more representation you can have of your population in your legislative body, the better it is.

I would just cite one more thing going back into the formation of our country. The same issue was thoroughly debated at that time. And it was a compromise; the big states between the little states. The big states wanted population only in a one-house body, but they couldn't agree. And finally Ben Franklin expressed himself on it this way: That the reason for a two-house Congress is the same reason that you have a saucer and a very hot cup of tea; to cool off hot legislation.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: I have been impressed with the arguments on both sides of the question, and just have a couple of points that I would like to mention.

There's been a lot of talk about conference committees. I cannot foresee a political body, whether it be unicameral or bicameral or Constitutional Convention, that would not have to set up committees of some sort to evaluate and investigate specific issues. Now it may not be called "conference committee," but certainly there would have to be a committee of that type.

The state legislature, as its name implies, is legislative. It sets the laws under which our judicial branch, our executive branch and our subdivisions, political subdivisions, are to function and administrate. When we compare state government with city government, we just are not comparing apples with apples. They are two entirely different systems.

I am going to vote for the bicameral system at this time. However, as has been mentioned before, if the situation raises and there is a vote to put unicameral on the ballot as a separate issue, I will support that motion.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President. I don't wish to reiterate the claims that already have been made. But I want to point out an issue from my vantage point. I suppose I've testified well over a hundred times before various committees of the legislature the last ten years. And I have maintained that the present two-house system really does not provide for the second hearing, it simply provides for a first hearing in the second house, which is substantially different.

I really believe there is a need to cool off hot legislation, there is really a need to look at the other side of the issue. I know a number of times the state agencies have had bills introduced that have passed by a substantial margin in one house and then in the other house the people who could present the other side of the case showed up, they weren't really aware of it when it showed up the first time in the first house, but the second hearing can easily be had in the first house by being sent back to the committee again after it's been heard the first time. And this is truly a second hearing. Then the people that heard the arguments of one side get to hear the arguments on the other side. But my big objection is how can a bill that passes say the House 98 to 0 or 80 to 10, or something like this, go over to the Senate and get killed in Senate committee unanimously without any discussion other than one Senator says, "That bill is no good. I vote that it be indefinitely postponed." The committee report comes to the floor of the Senate, and the committee report is simply adopted 99 times out of 100. There is such a thing as beating a committee report on the floor, but it's very rare. And I maintain that this is a defect of the bicameral system which would not happen in the unicameral system.

And I think when you're talking about lobbyists with influence, for example, it depends on whether you want to get something passed or killed. All you need on a small committee is one person in favor of your side if you want to kill the legislation. I have heard cases personally, heard it with my ears, in conversations between Representatives and Senators where one Senator agreed to kill a piece of legislation only by number. After he found out the number, then he asked, "What's this bill all about anyway?" But he'd already agreed to kill it at this point. And I have watched it through committee and he did kill it in committee as promised.

The other night in the Highway Department Building we heard a comment that in a unicameral system a strong committee chairman could work his will on the one body. And he pointed out that this was the case in the House several times. Committee chairman would get his proposal through, get it through his house, and this fellow would have to contact his counterpart in the Senate to kill it over in the Senate. Now I ask you to decide for yourselves whether 100 members in one body in discussion on the floor can make a better decision on an issue of that nature than can a seven-member committee? And I really think that there is a danger in a small committee, besides a small House, for example. But the press, for example, gives all the coverage to the hearing in the first house. When a bill — it gets a big coverage on the front page of all the state newspapers when it's heard in the first house if it's a controversial issue. When it gets to the house on the other side all you'll usually find is what happened to the proposal in small print.

And I really think if we want the people to see what we are doing the unicameral is the way to go. Thank you.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President. In response to Delegate Peterson's question, I failed in my comments to say when I alluded to the guarantee of the 99 members, what I meant was that this body cannot guarantee it. What I was referring to was inherent — the inherent danger in this thing was that we would soon have a Constitution amendment before us reducing those numbers, probably down to 40 or 50, and then being sold on the basis of economy very easily. So that is — this is what I was alluding to. This really weighs on my mind. I do not fear the reduction so much in numbers between two bodies where you still have the checks and balances, but if you get one body and get those numbers reduced, which can easily happen by constitutional amendment and which I feel will happen, then this is the inherent danger I was referring to.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President. We've heard discussion about the effects of the Minnesota legislative situation. I think we should just talk a little bit about that. There we have had extreme conflict between not necessarily the legislative body itself, but between the executive and legislative body. And this is what I fear for our state if we adopt the unicameral system. I'm not a prophet of gloom, but merely I'm rather an optimistic fellow by nature. But I foresee a very large number of vetoes and a very large number of referrals if hot legislation, as it is so-called, passes a one-house legislature and does not meet with the approval of the governor and if it does, the people don't like it. If you want to talk about an expensive legislative process, you just see a number of referrals one after the other that's going to be made on this unicameral system. You'll be sorry you made the change.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — I believe Delegate Urdahl is first. You have spoken once. Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. I find myself with a rather uncomfortable feeling of being almost persuaded to support the unicameral type of government. However, there are several — several fears that I have that I think is probably common to quite a number of people, and particularly because I have rather followed Nebraska for a number of years and have several friends living there who constantly refer to their representatives as being professional politicians. Now this is a word that rather scares me, because I don't think we've had anything like that in North Dakota. And I think that we have had rather a progressive, forward-looking type of government by ordinary citizens that have been elected to represent us.

The second fear that I have is that of lobbyists. And I am not one to criticize and discourage lobbyists; I know they serve a very important part in our government. But I wonder in the type of government they have in Nebraska if it hasn't been rather much easier to influence 49 representatives than it would be to influence the kind of government we've had here in North Dakota.

The third fear I have, too, that's already been mentioned many times, and that is of representation. I think that it is relatively easy for the people in North Dakota to know rather intimately their representatives. In our county we have six; and I doubt if there is hardly a citizen in our county that does not know one of these six rather well. And I think that brings government real close to home.

I've followed Nebraska, too, in such vital areas as welfare. Over the years also in the vital area of education. And I cannot see that Nebraska has been a model for us to follow in progressive legislation. However, I still want to repeat that I find myself in the awkward feeling of being almost persuaded. And I want to commend the delegates for having done a tremendous job of presenting the merits and demerits of both types of government here today. Thank you very much.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Diehl.

DELEGATE DIEHL: Mr. President, members of this Convention. Much has been said and many statistics have been thrown around here in comparing the unicameral system of Nebraska with the bicameral system of North Dakota. I'm not going to further burden you with this kind of a thing.

I have served ten years in the North Dakota Legislature, and many times we have been appraised of the efficient type of legislature that we have in our great state. And I don't think we can overlook this.

All of a sudden we find ourselves wondering whether we should change, change for a system that has been adopted only by one state and though adopted over twenty years ago, has been copied by no other. I am convinced the one-house system leads to professionalism, that it destroys the part-time citizen legislator concept. I believe it limits the opportunity for the development of leadership. I'm convinced the one-house system lends itself to excessive outside pressure and influence. It has a tendency to eliminate the two-party concept which has long been traditional in our land. Most of all, I oppose the one-house system because it removes our checks and balances and sooner or later is sure to take away our rural representation.

Fellow Delegates, I urge you to support our bicameral system of government.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. Chairman. We have heard of some of the bicameral systems that get hung up on issues, and we are being referred to in Minnesota as an example as that situation there may be. But may I read just a few lines of a report made by State Senator Richard Goldberg? And he refers to the recent experience the unicameral system of Nebraska had when they were hung up for several months on one tax bill in this last session of their legislature. And he goes on to say that:

"If Nebraska with 49 in one house can't get done in five months, what happens to one house with a minimum of 99 in a time limit of 80 days?"

I think what better example of that, even right here at home, when we only look at the Committee on Legislative Functions right here in the Convention? Since last August we have been deadlocked, and for that reason you are now in this unique situation where we are asking you to help us make this decision. I have observed that many of you delegates have very actively participated, and it seems to me you have enjoyed it. And I can support the feelings that have been expressed here by several delegates that they feel this may be a good question to place on the ballot, because I do believe the people of North Dakota also would like to help participate.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: The hour is late and there are just a couple of comments that I think might be worth considering. And I agree with Delegate Diehl that we can sit around and make figures lie for us all we want. And though I have figures that tell my side of the story, I am not going to burden you with those. And the length of session and the effect of lobbyists and all this sort of thing has been told to us.

I even took a poll of the Senators down in Nebraska to ask them what they think. And they think just like the legislators in North Dakota; they have the best system in the world and they wouldn't change it for anything.

So I think the real crux of the thing, though, that we have sort of overlooked in talking about structure is the importance of the people that are going to make this system work. And I think that we have people that could do a better job in a unicameral system than a bicameral system. And I'm not afraid of the lobbyists catching George Longmire in a unicameral system. Because George Longmire is going to be the same honorable George Longmire, the same Senator Unruh, the same Senator Butler or any of the rest of them. And I think that a unicameral system is going to make it much more possible for them to operate and do a better job with more knowledge.

And it doesn't have to be a professional legislature. We have limits on the number of days to serve, and it can be as representative as any other assembly there is. And so I think that the caliber of the people is going to be very, very important. And I think you can attract good caliber people to a unicameral system, and they will be as immune to lobbyists as our present people in the bicameral system.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

Hearing none, we will proceed to Section 4 of the motion as adopted, and that reads as follows:

"That at the conclusion of the discussion the delegates shall be polled individually by the Clerk, at which time they shall state their preference — either bicameral or unicameral."

Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. Can that be done by the board?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I asked the question at the time the motion was on the floor, and it was stated at that time that it was to be done by roll call.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I would move that the board be used in this matter and the Chair determine how the "ayes" and "nays" should read.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine, I have to rule your motion out of order in that the Rules were suspended to follow the procedure that we are following.

And the next section of No. 5 reads as follows:

"That prior to said vote, no amendment or other motion shall be in order."

The Chair or the Clerk will proceed with a roll call.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas — go ahead.

DELEGATE AAS: — I support the bicameral position.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, in order to keep the race even I support the unicameral system.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Bassingthwaite.
DELEGATE BASSINGTHWAITE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Bender.
DELEGATE BENDER: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Benson.
PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Benson is in the House.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Benson.
DELEGATE BENSON: Excuse me. Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Benz.
DELEGATE BENZ: (Absent).
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Berg.
DELEGATE BERG: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Billey.
DELEGATE BILLEY: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Binek.
DELEGATE BINEK: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Birkeland.
DELEGATE BIRKELAND: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Brakke.
DELEGATE BRAKKE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Burbidge.
DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Burke.
DELEGATE BURKE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Butler.
DELEGATE BUTLER: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Byrne.
DELEGATE BYRNE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Cart.
DELEGATE CART: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Chase.
DELEGATE CHASE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Christensen.
DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Daniels.
DELEGATE DANIELS: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Dawson.
DELEGATE DAWSON: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Decker.
DELEGATE DECKER: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Devine.
DELEGATE DEVINE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Diehl.
DELEGATE DIEHL: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Dobson.
DELEGATE DOBSON: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Engelter.
DELEGATE ENGELTER: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Engstrom.
DELEGATE ENGSTROM: Bicameral.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Erickson.
DELEGATE ERICKSON: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Fallgatter.
DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Fiedler.
DELEGATE FIEDLER: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Fritzell.
DELEGATE FRITZELL: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Geelan.
DELEGATE GEELAN: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Gipp.
DELEGATE GIPP: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Griffin.
DELEGATE GRIFFIN: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hardmeyer.
DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hartl.
DELEGATE HARTL: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Haugen.
DELEGATE HAUGEN: Two-house.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hendrickson.
DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: One-house.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hernett.
DELEGATE HERNETT: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hildebrand.
DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hill.
DELEGATE HILL: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hoffner.
DELEGATE HOFFNER: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hoghaug.
DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hougen.
DELEGATE HOUGEN: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Hubrig.
DELEGATE HUBRIG: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Huckle.
DELEGATE HUCKLE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Jestrab.
DELEGATE JESTRAB: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Kelsch.
DELEGATE KELSCH: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Kessel.
DELEGATE KESSEL: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Ketchum.
DELEGATE KETCHUM: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Knudson.
DELEGATE KNUDSON: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Kretschmar.
DELEGATE KRETSCHMAR: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Kwako.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Lamb.
DELEGATE LAMB: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Lander.
DELEGATE LANDER: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Larsen.
DELEGATE LARSEN: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Lerberg.
DELEGATE LERBERG: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Litten.
DELEGATE LITTEN: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Longmire.
DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: McElroy.
DELEGATE McELROY: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: McIntyre.
DELEGATE McINTYRE: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Maxwell.
DELEGATE MAXWELL: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Meidinger.
DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Miller.
DELEGATE MILLER: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Nething.
DELEGATE NETHING: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Nicholas.
DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: O'Toole.
DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Omdahl.
DELEGATE OMDAHL: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Paulson.
DELEGATE PAULSON: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Pearce.
DELEGATE PEARCE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Peters.
DELEGATE PETERS: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Peterson.
DELEGATE PETERSON: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Poulson.
DELEGATE POULSON: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Quam.
DELEGATE QUAM: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Roney.
DELEGATE RONEY: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rosendahl.
DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Unicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rude.
DELEGATE RUDE: Bicameral.
CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rundle.
DELEGATE RUNDLE: Bicameral.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Sanstead.
 DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Unicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Saugstad.
 DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Scheel.
 DELEGATE SCHEEL: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Schmit.
 DELEGATE SCHMIT: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Simonson.
 DELEGATE SIMONSON: Unicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Sinner.
 DELEGATE SINNER: Unicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Solberg.
 DELEGATE SOLBERG: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Sondreal.
 DELEGATE SONDREAL: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Stanton.
 DELEGATE STANTON: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Sullivan.
 DELEGATE SULLIVAN: Unicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Thompson.
 DELEGATE THOMPSON: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Trenbeath.
 DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Bi.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Tudor.
 DELEGATE TUDOR: (Absent.)
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Unruh.
 DELEGATE UNRUH: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Urdahl.
 DELEGATE URDAHL: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Vogel.
 DELEGATE VOGEL: Unicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Wallin.
 DELEGATE WALLIN: Unicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Warner.
 DELEGATE WARNER: Bicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Wicks.
 DELEGATE WICKS: Unicameral.
 CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Wenstrom.
 PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Bicameral.

May we have order in the Convention? Roll call discloses 61 for bicameral; 35 for unicameral, with two delegates absent and not voting. So the bicameral won the contest.

We will next be on the sixth section of the amendment — or of the motion as adopted this morning:

“That the proposal that carries the majority votes of those voting shall thereupon be deemed placed at the top of the calendar on tenth order for first passage.”

We, therefore, now have before the Convention Committee Proposal 1-43 for first passage. Do we have any discussion?

The question — the question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-43.

Those in favor will vote "aye," those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be open, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 68 "ayes," 27 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-43 has been passed.

What are the wishes of the Convention?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. Chairman, I believe that because of the hour and the meetings scheduled at one o'clock for the Rules Committee that we should perhaps conclude — that is cease work on the calendar and make whatever announcements are necessary from the desk prior to recessing.

I believe that Representative Hoffner — it was Delegate Hoffner, I believe, moved to have Delegate Proposal 1-42 returned to the committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I was going to wait until you had it on the calendar. I now move that Delegate — or Committee Proposal 1-42 be returned to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-42 be returned to the Committee on Legislative Functions. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Stanton.

Any discussion?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-42 is returned to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

Delegate Geelan, wasn't your Committee on Rules scheduled for two o'clock?

DELEGATE GEELAN: No, Mr. President, it was set for one o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: One o'clock. Fine.

DELEGATE GEELAN: In the Large Hearing Room.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: What's the schedule for this afternoon? Will the Plenary Session be back in session this afternoon?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol, I was in hopes that it would be. However, it's so difficult to say how long the Rules Committee will be in session that I would question recessing to a time certain. I just don't know.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Was it the Chair's intention to convene after the Rules Committee? Or perhaps the Rules Committee's schedule could be changed.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. Chairman, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Are you clear? Okay. May we be on the twelfth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I would like to move the introduction of Resolution C which is at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a motion for the introduction of Resolution C. May we have a second?

DELEGATE LARSEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Motion has been seconded by Delegate Larsen.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the resolution is before us.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Resolution No. C. Introduced by Committee on Resolutions.

"A resolution expressing the best wishes of the North Dakota Constitutional Convention to the Constitutional Convention of the State of Montana."

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I move that the Rules be suspended and Resolution C be read in its entirety, placed in the Journal not to be printed as a proposal, and placed on final passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You heard the motion. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE CART: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Cart.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the resolution is before us.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "Resolution No. C. Introduced by Committee on Resolutions.

"A resolution expressing the best wishes of the North Dakota Constitutional Convention to the Constitutional Convention of the State of Montana.

"WHEREAS, along the length and breadth of this land there is a concerned effort to revise and reform many state constitutions in order that these basic documents reflect the changes and advancements that have occurred in this century affecting our society and way of life; and

"WHEREAS, the citizens of the states of North Dakota and Montana, having recognized that there may be a need for such revision and reform have authorized Constitutional Conventions to undertake this effort; and

"WHEREAS, the delegates to the North Dakota Constitutional Convention have now been in plenary session for 10 days and recognize the monumental problems confronting them as they attempt to revise and rewrite the North Dakota constitution of 1889; and

"WHEREAS, the delegates to the Montana Constitutional Convention are now assembled in Helena for the same basic purposes, having determined that a proposed revision of their own constitution was advisable;

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE NORTH DAKOTA CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION:

"That this Convention express its sincere wishes for a most successful organizational meeting and that the delegates to the Montana Constitutional Convention may produce a revised constitution so nearly perfect that it may be second only to that created by the state of North Dakota.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the Montana Constitutional Convention."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You've heard the reading of the resolution. Any comment?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Resolution No. C is adopted.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I wonder, just to get the sentiments of the people here, if we could recess until 1:15 and then come back here in Plenary Session until three and maybe the Committee — Rules Committee could meet after that.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I have hurriedly polled the members of the Rules Committee. And if it would be better for us to come back in Plenary Session and then meet hopefully not any later than three, if the session then could be adjourned, then the Rules Committee will postpone its meeting until three o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you very much, Delegate Geelan. I think that is much in line with the sentiments of the Convention.

And if someone would move that we stand in recess until — how long? One o'clock? The Chair will declare a recess until one o'clock, at which time we will go right back into a Plenary Session.

(The Session recessed at 12:29 P.M. until 1:00 P.M., the same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

(The afternoon session commenced at 1:02 o'clock P.M. as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

We will be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Referral of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-97, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 176 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to tax uniformity and exemptions.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal 1-97 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

We will be on the tenth order of business. Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-20 as amended.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-20, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 131, 132, 133, 134, 136, 137, 138, 140, 141, 143, 144 and 145 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that Article X to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to corporations.

“SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 131, 132, 133, 134, 136, 137, 138, 140, 141, 143, 144 and 145 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

“SECTION 2.) Article X to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“ARTICLE X

CORPORATIONS

“Section 1. No charter of incorporation shall be granted, modified or amended by special law, except in the case of municipal corporations or such other corporations as may be under the control of the state. The legislature shall provide by general laws for the organization of all corporations.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. Committee Proposal No. 1-20 is a section on corporations and contains quite a large number of sections to be repealed. It was brought to the floor a few days ago and referred back to committee. And because of the referral we have made certain amendments which were referred to yesterday. Basically what we have done in the way of amendments is to take out those sections upon which any question whatsoever was raised. There have been no questions raised to the committee as to the other sections.

Section 131 of the present Constitution is basically incorporated in Section 1 of Article X as proposed.

Section 132 of the old Constitution was one that pertained to existing charters and grants of special privileges at the time the original Constitution was adopted. It was a transitory section and became obsolete shortly after the original Constitution was adopted.

Section 133 referred to corporations of grants of powers that were existing at the time of the adoption of the original Constitution, and were not used. And that provision made them subject to the Constitution of 1889. Again, this is a transitory provision and is now obsolete.

Section 134 of the Constitution pertained to the making the corporation subject to right of eminent domain. We met with the subcommittee of the Preamble,

Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee which has Section 14 which also pertains to eminent domain. And it was our opinion that this section could be incorporated in that committee's proposal.

I believe at the time the original Constitution was adopted there was some concern about making the corporation subject to laws the same as individuals.

We omitted Section 135 at this time. It will come before us on a separate measure.

Section 136 provides that no foreign corporations shall do business in the state without having one or more places of business in the state without having one or more places of business and an authorized agent within the state. The committee felt that this is a matter to properly be handled by the legislature. It's a detail of corporations and should be included in the general laws of the state.

Section 137 is a similar provision providing that no corporations shall engage in a business other than expressly authorized in its charter. Again, the committee felt that this was a matter that could properly be handled by the legislature.

Section 138 was a section directed at — it provided that corporations shall not issue stocks and bonds except for money — excuse me — labor or property actually received. Again, we felt that this is a matter for general laws and should be before the legislature.

We omitted Section 139 at this time because there was a question raised. Delegate Christensen will speak to the other sections.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Christensen.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Mr. President. I wish to make reference to Sections 140, 141, 143, 144 and 145 — 145. Now each of these the committee is recommending for repeal in connection with Proposal No. 1-20.

Section 140 deals with railroad corporations organized under the laws of the state and relating to its stocks, its stock records, its place of business and so forth. Now to our knowledge, there are no such corporations in the state and if any should be organized the laws of our state would adequately cover them. And this would include railroad corporations.

Section 141 relates to consolidation of railroads. Railroads are regulated primarily by the Federal Government, and consequently North Dakota has little jurisdiction over them, so making this section completely ineffective.

Section 143 states that any corporation organized for the purpose of constructing and operating a railroad within the state and to connect with points outside the state can do so. This section is superfluous. Under the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Federal Constitution, Congress has preempted the states' control of interstate railroads. They are extensively controlled at the federal level.

Section 144 defines the term "corporation" as used in this part of the Constitution. Again, this is a superfluous section. There is no need to provide a definition of the term "corporation." It's adequately done by statute.

Section 145 relates to the issuance of legal tender by banks. This section is obsolete because the United States Treasury and the Federal Reserve Banks are the only agencies authorized to issue legal tender today.

So we encourage repeal of these several sections.

You will find that actually there's no substantial change in new Article X on corporations.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I'd like to inquire of Delegate Christensen about Committee Proposal No. 1-94, that seems to be on the calendar, too, will be shortly, and that repeals Section 142 of our Constitution.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: I'll delegate that question to Mr. Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: To answer that question, yes, we are going to deal with that as a separate matter as there has been a question raised on that bill by many delegates.

DELEGATE CART: I'd like to make this statement to the Convention. That the Public Service Commission does have jurisdiction and authority in this field.

And it should be — if it's rewritten, it should include highway carriers and other carriers, pipelines as well. They do exercise jurisdiction over intrastate operations, even the pipelines bringing in natural gas in this state. And I think — don't think this should be repealed without a pretty careful review. It's true that the Interstate Commerce Commission can step on the toes, so to speak, of any state commission through Section 13. But that can only be invoked where they can show that the intrastate rates are a burden on interstate commerce.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. In response to that, precisely because there has been a question raised, we have separated that issue from what is before the floor at this time. That will come to the floor at another time.

DELEGATE CART: All right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-20.

Hearing no more discussion, we will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 87 "ayes," one "nay," ten delegates absent and not voting. So Committee Proposal No. 1-20 has passed.

Next for consideration in the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-24.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-24, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 177, pertaining to rail tax; 180, pertaining to poll tax; 181, pertaining to passage of laws to carry out provision of finance and taxation article; and 187, pertaining to certificate of indebtedness to be signed by auditor and secretary of state; of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, be repealed.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 177, 180, 181 and 187 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: As a member of the Finance and Taxation Committee, I have been asked to explain these proposals, why the committee repealed them.

First of all, Section 177 provided for the correction of an acreage tax for owners growing crops which were damaged by hail. This has not been used for some time, and the committee felt that this section could better be able — be better able handled as a legislative function.

Section 180 provided for the collection, levy and disposition of a poll tax. And, as you are all aware, the courts have looked quite unfavorably on poll tax. So the committee felt that could also be deleted.

Section 181 provided that the legislative assembly shall pass the laws necessary to carry out the provisions of this article on revenue and taxation. The committee felt it was unnecessary language, and that the assembly cannot be forced to produce anything they do not want to put forward. And so we felt that section could also be deleted.

Section 187 states that no bond or evidence of indebtedness of the state shall be valid unless the auditor and the secretary sign the certificate. This also holds true for the local subdivisions of government. And in the case of bonds they have to be signed regardless and is the only reason this would be in here, in case this was overlooked. And this has never happened. So it was felt that this section could also be deleted.

If there are any questions, I think I or one of the members would be glad to answer them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Any questions on Committee Proposal No. 1-24?

Hearing none, the question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-24.

The Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 86 "ayes," no "nays," twelve delegates absent and not voting. So Proposal No. 1-24 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-25.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-25, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 79 and 80 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to the veto power of the governor, be created.

"(SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 79 and 80 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"(SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Governor — Veto Power.

"a) Every bill passed by the legislative assembly shall be presented to the governor for his signature. If the governor signs the bill it shall become law.

"b) The governor may veto a bill passed by the legislative assembly. He may, by veto, strike or reduce items in appropriation bills, except in any bill making appropriations of money or property for the operation of the legislative assembly or its permanent or interim agencies. Portions of the bill not reduced or vetoed shall become law.

"c) The governor shall return any vetoed bill or item with a statement of his objections to the house in which it originated for reconsideration. That house shall immediately enter the governor's objections upon its journal. If that house by a record vote of two-thirds of its elected members passes the bill, it shall immediately be delivered to the other house. If it is then approved by a record vote of two-thirds of the elected members of the second house, it shall become law.

"d) While the legislature is in session, a bill becomes law if the governor neither signs nor vetoes it within five days, Sundays excepted, after its delivery to him. If the legislature is not in session, a bill becomes law if the governor neither signs nor vetoes it within fifteen days, Sundays excepted, after its delivery to him."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on Committee Proposal No. 1-25.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: This proposal repeals present Sections to the present Constitution which have to do with the subject of governor's veto powers. These two sections have been reworded in the interests of brevity, and we hope clarity and simplicity.

Some changes have been made. The first change is in line 15 which says that the governor ". . . may, by veto, strike or reduce items in appropriation bills . . ." At the present time the governor has the right to veto a single item in an appropriation bill, but he does not have authority to reduce an item. He must take it as is or veto it completely. We felt that he should have the right, also, to reduce an item in an appropriations bill.

The language in line 16, beginning with the words "except" and going down through 17 and the first two words of 18, ". . . except in any bill making appropriations of money or property for the operation of the legislative assembly or its permanent or interim agencies" is also new language. We felt that under the system of checks and balances the governor should not have the right to veto the legislature's appropriations for its own operations.

The next two changes are in Section (d) on page 2. "While the legislature is in session, a bill becomes law if the governor neither signs nor vetoes it within five days . . ." The present language is "three days". But we felt that in this day when a governor is frequently called out of state, to Washington to testify or to another state for one of the many governors conferences or meetings, 72 hours was a very short time to allow him.

You will note that apparently the governor is still working a six-day week, Saturdays are not excepted. So we decided he should have five days while the legislature is in session to determine — to decide whether he wants to veto or sign the bill before it becomes law without his signature.

The next change is in line 7: "If the legislature is not in session, a bill becomes law if the governor neither signs nor vetoes it within fifteen days, Sundays excepted, after its delivery to him."

Pardon me, it's in line 8. At the present time the governor has fifteen days after the end of the session to sign a bill before it becomes law without his signature. But under the present system many bills pile up toward the end of the session and it may be several days before they are actually delivered to the governor for his signature; the time that is taken for enrolling and engrossing them. And also it can happen inadvertently, as I believe it did recently, that through an oversight the bills were actually not delivered to the governor for a period of a week so that this fifteen-day period which was intended in our present Constitution can be cut down to a week or less. So we have decided that he should have fifteen days, Sundays excepted, after the bill has been delivered to make his decision on these bills.

Furthermore, if the legislature is in continuous session the wording actually would be a little different. So these are the changes then that have been changed: From three to five days, and fifteen days after delivery, plus the two changes under Section (b).

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On page 1, line 15, after the word "strike" delete the words "or reduce".

On page 1, line 18, after the word "not" delete the words "reduced or".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I think the Executive Functions Committee has done a good job of rewriting these two sections with one exception, and that is giving the governor the power to reduce items in appropriation bills. The presumption is that the governor will use this power responsibly. But I want to recall to you an instance which occurred in this state in 1937 when Willie Langer was governor. He undertook to reduce items in appropriations bills. There was a rather common pattern in his reductions; the departments which were headed by his political enemies got the cuts and the departments friendly to him did not. Well, someone went to the Attorney General, who was P. O. Sathre at the time, and asked him for an opinion. P. O. Sathre ruled that the governor had no power to reduce items in appropriation bills. Now Langer was a very practical politician so he thought he'd better get himself a new Attorney General. Therefore, he appointed P. O. Sathre to the Supreme Court. But by the time the next legislature rolled around Langer had been retired from public life temporarily, so the issue has not been raised since then. But I think you can see the danger inherent here.

After all, if the legislature has debated and studied their appropriations matters for weeks and weeks, why really should the governor be able to second guess them in this matter and reduce an appropriation? I think by putting this language into the new Constitution we are going to be inviting some real political donnybrooks in the future.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President. I would like to support the amendment; not only for that reason, but if the reduction were allowed to be sent back to the body from which it originated it wouldn't be so bad. But as I read that, an item that is removed or an item that is vetoed will be sent back, but not a reduction. And for that reason I think we should support the amendment.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Fellow Delegates. In answer to the question that Delegate Decker has raised, on line 20 the language is that "The governor shall return any vetoed bill or item . . ." and it was the committee's interpretation of the language on line 15 that this related back to line 15 where we gave him the authority to reduce — to strike or reduce items. And as such any reduced item would be referred back to the legislature for their consideration, as would any item that was stricken, and that would be a line item as opposed to reduction or any bill that was vetoed. So it was our belief that this covered all three areas.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Just for the information of the Convention, the present Accounts and Purchases Law provides the governor with the authority to set up an allocation system so that he now has the power to decide how much of the money that has been appropriated will be spent by the various departments. And I don't recall that any act since 1959 has been passed by the legislature that would retract that authority from the governor. And so the impact of this particular statement in this Constitution is not that overpowering. You could use that argument on both sides.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, I'd like to raise this question: Where does the limitation of the veto power extend, only to the time the legislature's in session? Seems to me if bills were delivered after the adjournment that he could still exercise that same power.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Delegate Cart. That's correct. The responsibility would then be for the legislature to get all of their appropriations bills to the governor while they are in session to make sure that possibility doesn't happen. It puts the responsibility on him. But you're right; he has the veto power after they are gone. It's covered, as Mrs. Vogel explained.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would like to speak in favor of Delegate Dobson's amendment. I think it's one thing to give the governor the outside power to accept or reject something by veto, it's another thing to give him the power to second guess the amount that the legislature may want to appropriate. And in allowing him to reduce you're just putting another deliberative — he is in a deliberative position in being able to reduce. It will take a two-thirds vote to override if Delegate Nething's interpretation is sound. And I don't know if that's a good idea. I think we are mixing the executive with the legislative too much. I think he should be required to reject either the whole item, the whole bill, and send it back, or to accept it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

The question is on the amendment, Committee Proposal No. 1-25, as offered by Delegate Dobson.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

Now we are on the Proposal 1-25 as amended. I wonder if there are any further amendments?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: I would then move that the Rules be suspended and that Proposal No. 1-25 be deemed properly engrossed before us, and that we proceed on the first vote — first passage.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President. Before that motion is put, I'd like to make an inquiry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may have the floor, Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would like to inquire from someone that served on the committee that considered 1-25, and in lines 23 and 25, the word "record" appears, if that helps "by a record vote?" And then in line 25 again, "If it is then approved by a record vote . . ." I'm wondering if that is the proper usage or if it were intended to use the word "recorded vote"?

DELEGATE VOGEL: I think the meaning intended by the committee was the same.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now we have Delegate Nething's motion — if that answers your question, then, Delegate Saugstad, then we are back on Delegate Nething's motion that the Rules be suspended, that Delegate — or Committee Proposal No. 1-25 be deemed properly engrossed, that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

No further discussion —

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: There was some discussion this morning about checks and balances. I questioned what check anyone has on the legislature if the governor cannot veto an appropriations bill containing money for the operation of the legislative assembly or even item veto things in there, where are our checks and balances under this proposal?

DELEGATE VOGEL: This is language taken from the LRC report of 1963, I think, if you would like to know where it came from.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: One very interesting check might be that they would refuse to appropriate money for the governor's appropriations.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I think what Delegate Unruh was saying is that the legislature has a check on the governor, but the governor not on the legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question then is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-25 as amended.

Hearing no further discussion, the Clerk will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll discloses 87 "ayes," five "nays," six delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-25 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-26.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-26, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 77 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to gubernatorial succession, be created.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 77 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Gubernatorial Succession.

"a) In the event of a vacancy, the order of succession to the office of governor shall be the elected lieutenant governor and thereafter as prescribed by law.

"b) In case of the death, impeachment, resignation, failure to qualify, removal from office, or disability of the governor, the powers and duties of the governor shall devolve upon the officer next in line of succession for the remainder of the term, or until the governor is acquitted or his disability removed.

"c) If the governor-elect dies, resigns, or is disqualified, the lieutenant governor-elect shall succeed to the office of governor for the full term. If the governor-elect fails to assume office for any other reason, the lieutenant governor-elect shall serve as acting governor, and he shall succeed to the office of governor if the governor-elect does not assume his office within six months of the beginning of the term.

"d) The legislative assembly shall by law specify by whom and by what procedures the ability of the governor, or anyone acting as governor, to serve or to resume office may be questioned and determined. The supreme court shall have original, exclusive, and final jurisdiction in all cases concerning the existence of a vacancy in the office of governor and in all questions concerning succession to office."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates. On the surface of this proposal I don't think you will find too many things that are new. But I would like to explain the changes that are made.

First of all, the repealer involved here is only Section 77. However, there are other sections that are involved, and I will point out to you. But there are other matters that will be coming up from the Executive Functions Committee, and the repealer will be included there even though there is some change in the language now

Referring to the paragraph (a): "In the event of a vacancy, the order of succession to the office of governor shall be the elected lieutenant governor and thereafter as prescribed by law." Now this is currently covered in Section 77 with the two following exceptions: Section 77 also prescribes that: "The lieutenant governor shall be president of the senate . . ." The matter of duties of the lieutenant governor will be brought to you in another proposal from our committee. However, the matter covered in Section 77 wherein the provision for the Secretary of State to act should the lieutenant governor be unable to act has not been removed. An adoption of the language in paragraph (a) will remove the Secretary of State in succession in accordance insofar as our Constitution is concerned; however, it will permit the legislature to prescribe by law what the order of succession will be after the lieutenant governor.

Paragraph (b) is covered in Section 72 of the Constitution. And the reason we didn't set forth a repealer on that is because Section 72 also provides that the lieutenant governor shall be elected at the same time and same term as governor. And that there will be another proposal coming to you regarding the matter of election of the lieutenant governor.

Now the basic change in 72 is that (b) as proposed here eliminates absence from the state as a reason that the duties of the governor would devolve upon the next in line for succession. That would be removed then from our Constitution. I think the committee felt that in this day and age absence from the state, the necessity of the governor conferring in Washington, things of this nature, probably should not be a grounds for devolving the duties to the lieutenant governor.

Now there are also some provisions in case law which are involved, and I believe the matter of succession was covered in the State v. Moody case. And the language that we have retained certainly will not interfere with the case law that is involved.

Also in the matter of the case of State v. Langer, which related to disability to disqualify the governor. The court said that Section 72 that we're involved with means any case, whether mental or physical, disqualifies the governor. That interpretation, of course, would still be valid in adopting this particular provision.

Section (c) relates to the matter of a hold-over governor and is — excuse me, the matter of holding over; whether or not the new lieutenant governor would take office if the newly-elected governor were not able to or should the present governor hold over. Now Section 71 of the current Constitution is also involved in this because in that section it says the governor shall hold office — gives the time — and until his successor is elected and duly qualified. And there has also been some court interpretation on that. And that again is State v. Moody, wherein they found that holdover provisions apply only where there is no qualified successor, and so on. So this language will provide that if the governor-elect fails to assume office for any other reason, the lieutenant governor shall serve as acting governor and succeed to the office of governor if the governor-elect does not assume his duties — excuse me — his office within six months after he was disabled. Now there is also some case law that permits the provision of acting governor and giving him the same authority as he would have if he were the official governor.

And the new language on page 2 provides that the legislative assembly will set forth the procedure — by what procedures the ability of the governor or anyone acting as governor to serve or to resume office may be questioned and determined. You can see that there certainly could be a question as people challenging whether or not the governor is qualified to hold office or if he should be removed and so on; whether then to leave — put that in the Constitution or leave it strictly to the courts. We have provided the legislature shall provide that.

Then the final paragraph is that the Supreme Court will have the jurisdiction. And this is to remove any doubt that it might be a District Court matter. It does place it in the Supreme Court. All cases concerning existence of vacancy in the office of governor and all questions concerning succession to office.

I hope I have covered 1-26 to your satisfaction. If you have any questions, I will attempt to answer them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, Delegate Nothing. I was under the impression — there is some case law possibly to the contrary — that the only way you could remove an elected state official was through impeachment. I don't know if anybody has been removed under disability. And I'm wondering whether in your proposal you're indicating that there are other ways by referring to other disability or things like that? I'm wondering if you might care to address to that? How do you determine it? Are we going to give a legislature power to set up procedures to remove the governor independent or impeachment procedures? Should impeachment be the proceedings we use? We have covered that in a legislative session, and have included all state officials in that character and included the ability to perform their duties.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NOTHING: I thought I understood the question that was being asked. And I'm not so sure that — the case law that I refer to I believe was the matter of when the election took place. And the question was as to who should be entitled to hold office, not who should be removed from office. Now I don't —

DELEGATE KELSCH: If I may direct your attention to line 14 — 15 where you say: "In case of the death, — that's understandable — impeachment, resignation, failure to qualify — all of those are understandable. But it goes on to say: ". . . removal from office, or disability of the governor. . ." Now how will he be removed from office other than by either impeachment or recall? I think recall might take him out of office. But how would you determine disability and who would be the judges of his disability? Are we going to let the legislature set up a separate procedure for determining his qualifications, say through a commission other than the route of impeachment? That's my question.

DELEGATE VOGEL: May I attempt to answer Delegate Kelsch?

I think that our purpose was to prevent a situation arising such as that that arose I believe in Illinois when a governor was confined to his bed and completely disabled for two years and there was no machinery for determining that he was unable to carry on his duties. I think the same question has arisen at the federal level when we adopted an amendment whereby a determination could be made if the President of the United States were disabled. At present there is no machinery for doing this. At the time that we wrote this there was no indication that the Constitution would allow them to be impeached for reasons of physical or mental impairment, which our present Constitution does not have. It's possible they do cover the same purpose. But the object of this was to provide a means for determining the ability of the governor to serve. And because it was felt that this would wind up in the Supreme Court, it might as well start there.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I agree that we should have that means of removing a governor who is unable to perform his duties. But my question is where do you start? Now it appears to me that you are suggesting a legislature set up a procedure for determining that. We've already, I think, acted on — I can't recall the number, it relates to impeachment — and we've already said that one of the grounds for impeachment would be the chronic inability to perform the duties of office. I think we should agree there should be a ground to remove a governor for that cause. My question is where — what you are suggesting you are leaving it up to the legislature to set up a procedure which I assume contemplates something other than the impeachment procedure. I'm wondering if we want to let that important office of the state subject to the governor being removed other than by that procedure. That's a very complicated and expensive procedure. Of course both houses of the legislature must act in that procedure. Could the legislature, for example, institute a commission who would have the power to review the ability of the governor to continue on his duties and the vote of the commission decide he is unable or able?

DELEGATE WARNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE WARNER: I presume that Delegate Kelsch is aware that our Supreme Court removed Governor Langer subsequent to a conviction and removed Governor Moody on a residence qualification. You are aware of that and that is not in your question, is it? Our Supreme Court already has removed these two governors.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. I think I can answer his question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, Delegate Kelsch. This is another procedure other than impeachment. And the purpose is to have the legislature determine by the procedures that the ability or inability to act would be determined. And then the matter goes to the Supreme Court to determine whether or not the ability or inability to act is such that there should be a determination made by them. That's the intent of the last paragraph. But it's for that subject, not for the impeachment subject.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Relating to page 2, paragraph (d) you are assuming there that the legislative assembly would set up a procedure that would apply over a long period of time. That's just one instance. Let's presume the condition arises that the legislature is not in session. Has the committee given any thought to hiring a legislature, to call it to session by say a two-thirds vote of their members so they could deal with a situation like this?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: In response to the question I would have to say I don't believe we have. We felt it's not really part of the executive article as to whether or not the legislature would be called in for this purpose or other purposes. I don't know whether the Legislative Functions has.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Delegate Nothing, with your language a legislature could not set up rules like this for a current problem because it says "shall by law". And no legislature could come in, I think, and by law establish the rules for removal of a governor who was in office. Because he wouldn't sign it. Well, they could do it by two-thirds vote, couldn't they? That would be the only way.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: I think in response to that we threw out our entire Constitution, at least in our Executive Functions, are stating things the legislature must prescribe by law. And of course it's always subject, I guess, to the veto, it's always subject to override, and it's always subject to referral to the people. Those are things that we just can't control.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. Because the Legislative Functions Committee might get embroiled in this in some way or other, in looking at the last section, page 2 of 1-26, as I would understand it this would empower the legislature to provide by law for something that you might call a removal commission; some standing commission that if anybody claimed that a public official from the governor on down was — ought to be removed, for example, because of chronic inability to perform, so say the governor has a cerebral hemorrhage and is paralyzed, the problem in line 4 "The supreme court shall have original, exclusive, and final jurisdiction in all cases concerning the existence of a vacancy . . ." now that to me isn't quite the way it ought to be. That implies that there already is a vacancy of governor. Doesn't have anything to do with removal.

Now if you were to change that so that the removal commission, as I have chosen to call it, set up by the first sentence, could bring action to the Supreme Court to determine the existence of the grounds for inability to serve, and let's assume that the governor had a cerebral hemorrhage or a stroke, and it's called, they would plead that and plead that the governor was then chronically unable to fulfill the duties of his office and that the Supreme Court agreed that the proof so indicated, that they would then declare the office vacant. I really am not quite sure under the present language what the last three and a half lines would mean because it assumes that there already will be a vacancy before it comes to the Supreme Court.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: At the risk of taking a position of advocacy and the rest of you sitting as jurors, I would — it was our intention as we read it — and sometimes you stay with these things so long you don't — you're not as clear as you would like — in all cases concerning the existence of a vacancy and whether or not there is a vacancy that exists, it would be concerning the existence of a vacancy, it was our thought that if the subject of a vacancy came up, whether it existed because the governor was disabled, would be covered by this provision. But apparently it isn't that clear. And I suppose we could say, "to the existence or non-existence of a vacancy." But that was the committee's interpretation of it. The fact that there's a question, I guess, indicates it's not that clear.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Well, if I may treat that as a question. My point is an office is not vacant because the man occupying it has given rise to grounds for vacating it. For example, suppose a governor got so sick and tired of being governor that he left, moved to some confines like New York, and refused to reside in the seat of the government as another section of the Constitution requires him to do. I presume that would be a ground for vacancy. But until he was removed he would be the governor. So it's just which comes first, I guess, is the problem.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I'm from the Executive Functions Committee, and I thought I understood this before we got into it. But let me ask a question of both parties, Nething and Pearce here, and let me set up a supposition for you. Let's assume that your commission, Delegate Pearce, passes on the judgment of whether or not a governor is disabled and therefore cannot serve and say that that particular office is vacant. Then couldn't any voter or anyone or the governor himself plead this case to the Supreme Court? So what I'm saying is they would — this commission or whatever machinery the legislature sets up, could declare the office vacant but it could be appealed and would not go to a lower court, only to the Supreme Court for final jurisdiction. Is that wrong?

DELEGATE PEARCE: No, Delegate Chase. But that implies, of course, that this commission someplace is given power to declare it vacant instead of just alleging that it's vacant by reason of some cause. And that's the key problem as I see it.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If we vote on this I think we should understand that we are setting up another procedure for removal of at least the governor, other than through impeachment and possibly through court action as has happened in the past. And I am not so sure that we shouldn't do that. But I would like to suggest to the committee that rather than tying that removal to new removal procedure that they are now creating into the succession section of the Constitution that we consider a separate section that would apply to all elected state officials. We certainly don't want to repeat this to the Auditor, the Secretary of State, the Attorney General. If we feel that the rules should apply to the governor, it certainly should apply to lesser officials. I wonder if the committee might not consider that? All you'd have to do in this section is refer to "The office of the governor is vacant by reason of removal," and then set up in another section removal provisions that would apply to all of the executive state officials.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. I also see one possible conflict in the report on page 2, Section 4 or line 4. And that is what Delegate Pearce was referring to. It says: "The supreme court shall have original, exclusive and final jurisdiction . . ." and in line 6, ". . . in all questions concerning succession to office." But on page 1 succession to office is established by law. I'm not sure who determines the succession to office.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: I don't know which question to answer first. I was going to answer Mr. Kelsch until the other one came up.

What you say about creating a new section is right. And if the delegates would like to vote on it as a divided question, we certainly would have no objection to it. To remove it from this particular provision or this particular proposal on gubernatorial succession, we feel it's closely tied in because of the language relating to when there would be a succession. And this was how it comes all in one package. I certainly have no objection at all to voting on these things separately.

In regard to Delegate Aubol's question, it's true that we have provided for succession by law. However, there may be some questions that come up at any given time. And it's our intention to vest the authority to resolve any particular question regarding succession with the Supreme Court.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. May I make one more observation?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Delegate Kelsch didn't recall at the moment the number, but I will refer the delegates to 1-33 which we've already passed the first time which is the section that provides: "All officers not liable to impeachment shall be subject to removal as may be provided by law for . . ." and then gives the grounds. So if we put that in the Constitution there is a Constitution section that the law can provide a manner of removal for these alleged grounds. The trouble is that some place or other you've got to prove that these grounds exist.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE PEARCE: 1-31 is impeachment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner has asked for the floor.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman, I was just going to point out the same thing that Delegate Pearce was going to point out.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: I think that the intention of the committee was to provide some avenue other than impeachment, less cumbersome, and perhaps without some of the implications. Also in addition to the vacancy in the office this would cover the event that the governor was temporarily unable to serve and could at the end of a certain period of time resume office. I wonder if wording such as this — I don't intend to offer this as an amendment at the moment — but I wonder if wording such as this would solve the difficulty: "The supreme court shall have original, exclusive and final jurisdiction to determine absence and disability of the governor, and to determine the existence of a vacancy in the office of governor, and all questions concerning succession to the office or its powers and duties." Would some wording such as this convey the idea intended by the committee in a better fashion? If so, perhaps we could recall it and amend it. I mean recall it to the committee for rewording. Would anyone like to comment on that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. I do not have the — I'm not responding to Delegate Vogel's question or comment. I wonder if there isn't a little misapprehension here about the determination of the vacancy. It seems to me that the language in the first sentence of Section (d) says that the procedure, the commission or whatever means is used, ". . . to serve or to resume office may be questioned and determined." In other words, this process determines. Then the Supreme Court's only entry into the matter is if that question of termination by the original process is legal and meets the constitutional grounds. So I think your determination has been made by the original process set up by the legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would someone care to comment to answer Delegate Vogel's request for information?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Due to the silence of everybody else, I would still urge — I think that would help — but I would still urge rather than we still leave the question open, what about state officials? I'd be inclined to go along with a method of removal other than through impeachment. But I think this should be taken back and rewritten to apply to all state officials as well as the governor. I would hope the committee would do that.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I think Delegate Kelsch has raised a couple of very good points. I'd like to see the committee spend a little bit more time on this and see what they come up with. I'm not going to make any motions, but I think the committee should address themselves to the questions that have been raised.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I move that Committee Proposal 1-26 be re-referred to the Executive Functions Committee —

DELEGATE LANDER: Second.

DELEGATE PAULSON: — for such amendments as are indicated and for a conference with the Legislative Functions Committee on aligning this proposal and the impeachment proposal so that there will be no conflict between the two.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Paulson that Committee Proposal 1-26 be re-referred to the Committee on Executive Functions. The motion has been seconded by Delegate Stanton.

Now is there any discussion?

Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NOTHING: Mr. President. I certainly have no objection to taking it back on the basis of possible amendment. But I do think that we have a committee that is going to make recommendations to this Convention regarding all matters of conflict. And I'm wondering how deeply we want to go into these things until that committee functions as far as the exchange between the two committees. My point is that at this particular time — I don't know what their time schedule is in Legislative Functions now that unicameral-bicameral is out of the way — but we might just sit there and not be able to get the two committees together because of time. Like I say, I have no objection for it going back for possible amendment. I would like to see other provisions voted on and just take this one separately and possibly do it that way. But I don't think that we should start resolving conflicts until the committee that's appointed to resolve conflicts has a chance to study it and make recommendations.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on Delegate Paulson's amendment or proposal — motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-26 be re-referred to the Committee on Executive Functions. Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the motion will be — the proposal will be re-referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-27.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-27, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 75 and 76 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to powers and duties of the governor, be created.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 75 and 76 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Powers and Duties of the Governor.

"The governor shall be the chief executive officer of the state and have the following powers and duties:

"a) He shall have the responsibility to see that the state's business is well administered. To this end he may require information in writing from all executive officers concerning their respective duties.

"b) He may supervise all necessary business with the government of the United States and other states.

"c) He shall be commander-in-chief of the military forces of the state, except when they are called into the service of the United States, and he may call them out to execute the laws and maintain order.

"d) He shall present the state comprehensive plan, and his own recommendations, to the legislative assembly at the beginning of each session and at any other time he chooses.

"e) He may call special sessions of the legislative assembly.

"f) He may fill a vacancy in any office by appointment if no other method is provided by statute or this constitution.

"g) He shall have power to grant reprieves, commutations, and pardons, after conviction, for all offenses. He may delegate such powers, subject to procedures prescribed by law."

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: At this time I'd like to propose an amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-27. And the amendment is at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On page 1, in line 1, following "75" delete the word "and" and insert in lieu thereof ",", and following "76" insert ",", and 78."

On page 1, in line 6, following "75" delete the word "and" and insert in lieu thereof ",", and following "76" insert ",", and 78".

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I would like to explain that what we are doing with this amendment is to simply add another repealer of Section 78.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet, excuse me just a moment.

Did I get a second? I don't believe I did.

DELEGATE CHASE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Chase.

Now you may proceed. Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: And if the motion carries why it will be explained on the floor when we discuss the bill, which will be just a minute or two.

The purpose of the amendment is to delete — repeal another section which we failed to note at the committee hearing.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hernet.

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I would like to ask this question: Why has the power been placed in the governor's hands solely with the granting of pardons and so forth instead of the pardon board as it used to exist with other officers?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President. Right now what we are talking about is this amendment which is of a repealer, which as I understand I think has nothing to do with pardons.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart, I believe that your question is pertaining to the —

DELEGATE CART: Section 76. I am in error.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — to the proposal itself, while the question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Hernet.

Is there any further questions? Are there any further questions?

If not, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Now, Mr. President, I move that the Rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal No. 1-27 be deemed properly engrossed and placed on the calendar for first reading and passage as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Hernet that the Rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-27 be deemed properly engrossed and placed on the calendar for final passage — for first passage as amended.

Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Second by Delegate Litten.

The question is before you. Any discussion? Is there further discussion?

As many — I think I'm in error. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Committee Proposal is now before the Convention as amended.

Now further discussion?

DELEGATE CART: Again I would like information on that one question where you've placed the sole responsibility in the office of the governor granting pardons.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: If Delegate Cart will be patient for just a moment here, for a minute, we'll get down to that part of it and then you can raise your question.

The Committee on Executive Functions on this Proposal 1-27 has done some combining. However, we speak to every part that has been repealed, and that is 75, 76 and 78. And the majority of the Executive Functions Committee believes the intent still remains the same.

There has, however, been some new language and some new provisions. And I now call the delegates' attention to these particular lines in Section (a) — in part (a) under Section 2, line 13: "He — speaking of the governor — shall have the responsibility to see that the state's business is well administered. To this end he may require information in writing from all executive officers concerning their respective duties." This appears to us to be a sound governmental practice and good business procedure to allow the governor to inquire into the respective duties of the executive offices. This had been a debatable issue in our 1889 Constitution, so we included this particular language.

And then Section or Part (b) is also referred to in 75, the same with Part (c).

And then down on Part (d) of Section 2 where it says: "He shall present the state comprehensive plan . . ." This is new language, and this provision ties into a proposal that is still in committee and is explained in your Convention interim booklet on page 29 under "Executive Reorganization" where we will be proposing that the governor, lieutenant governor and the heads of the executive departments from a state planning council.

In this particular section here, (d), we have provided that the governor shall present these plans to the legislators and to the people of our state so that we may understand what particular direction we are going and what priorities are being established in state government.

Then if you'd turn the page, on page 2, item (e), the top item, is also referred to in the 1889 75 section: "He may call special sessions of the legislative assembly."

(f) is 78 that was moved on amendment to be repealed. I think the language is almost verbatim about filling vacancies in the office not covered by statute or this Constitution.

And then (g) — and this is where Mr. Cart has a question — where: "He shall have power to grant reprieves . . ." As you can see, this particular section, if you refer back to Section 76, has been considerably reduced. We believe that these four lines establish the same general policy on pardons and so forth.

The Committee on Executive Functions respectfully asks the delegates to consider and adopt this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I wonder if line 15 after the word — the way it reads is that the governor ". . . may require information in writing from all executive officers concerning their respective duties." Well, I can see an officer sending back a statute and telling the governor what he was supposed to do. And I think the committee is concerned about the performance of those duties. I wonder if we shouldn't amend by adding the "performance of" the respective duties. He knows what their duties are, what he is wondering about is how they are performing them.

To get the matter before the Convention, I move on line 15, after the word "concerning" insert the words "the performance of".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved, an amendment by Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second? Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Line 15, page 1, after the word "concerning" insert the words "performance of" and renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on Delegate Kelsch's amendment as read from the desk. Is there any further discussion? Any questions on the amendment?

You're voting on the amendment. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

Are there further amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-27? Hearing none — Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. If there are no further amendments, I would move that it be properly reengrossed and placed on the first passage as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething moves Committee Proposal No. 1-27 be deemed properly reengrossed, and to be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a second by Delegate Litten.

The question then. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-27 is then before the Convention.

Is there any further discussion? Any comments? Hearing none, the question is on — did you have a question, Delegate Chase?

DELEGATE CHASE: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question then is on the first passage of the Committee Proposal 1-27 as amended.

Hearing no further comments, I will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call disclosed 87 "ayes", one "nay," ten delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-27 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-28.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-28, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 73 and 84 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to qualifications and compensation of elected officials, be created.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 73 and 84 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Qualifications and Compensation.

"To be eligible to hold an elective office established by this article, a person must be a qualified elector of the state, at least twenty-five years old, and a resident of this state for the five years preceding his election. The attorney general shall be licensed to practice law in this state. Their compensation shall be prescribed by law, but shall not be diminished during the term for which they were elected."

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: There is a proposed amendment to 1-28, and we have copies at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: In line 15, after the period, delete the word "Their" and insert in lieu thereof "The" and after the word "compensation" insert the words "of elected officials" and renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Litten. Any discussion?

The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Dawson.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the amendment is adopted.

Committee Proposal No. 1-28 is before the Convention.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: You're right. That's correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Is it necessary to bring it back before the Convention?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's necessary now that you suspend the Rules.

DELEGATE DAWSON: I move that the Rules be suspended, and the proposal be properly engrossed and placed on tenth order for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It has been moved by Delegate Dawson that the Rules be suspended, Committee Proposal 1-28 be properly reengrossed and placed on the calendar for tenth order for first passage as amended.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten seconded the motion.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-28 is again before the Convention.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: This proposal repeals Section 73. And Section 73 of the present Constitution refers to eligibility of the office of governor and lieutenant governor and establishes a minimum age for those offices at 30.

Section 82 is not listed in the repealer because this section includes some subjects on which the Executive Functions Committee had not yet made a decision.

However, Section 82 does refer to the eligibility of elected officials other than the governor and lieutenant governor and establishes a minimum age for those officials at 25.

Section 84 of the repealer states that the "salaries of public officers shall be as prescribed by law . . ." The Executive Functions Committee has combined parts or all of these sections into this new Proposal 1-28, and establishes the minimum age for all elected state executive officials at 25.

If I may, let me emphasize this proposal does not include legislators but is limited to officials of the executive department.

This motion and the amendment has the unanimous approval of the committee, and I would move its adoption.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I'm just wondering if we could get some reaction from the committee what their feeling was as far as this age limit. I know you dropped it. But I have a tendency to believe that that age should not be in at all. And I'm just wondering how the committee felt. Was there some discussion at all on taking that completely out of the section?

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Yes, there was discussion on that. Some of the committee originally felt that maybe as far as the governor and lieutenant governor were concerned it should not even be lowered from the age of 30. But we felt that age 25 would be a good spot for the elected officials. A person could still run for the legislature at the age of 18 apparently, and we felt that it was necessary to have an amount of background before they were elected to one of the state executive positions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-28 as amended.

No further discussion, no questions, I will open the key, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 87 "ayes," two "nays," nine delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-28 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-39.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-39, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 45 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 10 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to legislative compensation.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 45 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Section 10 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 10. The members of the legislative assembly shall receive an annual salary and such expense allowances as may be prescribed by law, but no revision in the amounts thereof shall apply to the legislative assembly which makes the revision."

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: As you have heard, the Section 45 we relate as having dealt with the compensation and it still reads legislators shall be paid the sum of five dollars a day. Now, I think we all know that this is a little bit unrealistic, and that a revision there is necessary. And since the voters in a very recent election have refused the special committee on compensation to be formed, there is no other machinery that would adjust or realign the compensation of the legislators' needs and for — in existence while they work for the state. So it is now proposed that the legislators do this themselves, thus the inference as prescribed by law. And in order to take the bad feeling out of these things, if and when it happens, we have done this because the legislature has need to adjust the expense allowance at least from time to time as the time went on. And so we have included in the proposal here that "... the amounts thereof shall apply to the legislative assembly — pardon me — in the amounts thereof shall apply to the legislative assembly which makes the revision." Therefore, they cannot take advantage of the revision in the same session in which it takes place. It is felt that this would make it more acceptable.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. Chairman. I move that in line 13 the word "revision" be replaced — stricken and the word "increase" be inserted in lieu thereof, and in line 14 the word "revision" be stricken and the word "increase" be inserted in lieu thereof. If I have a second, I will explain it.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako seconded.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Delegate Hildebrand pointed out the other day that a legislator might be reluctant to pass a decrease for a subsequent legislature that didn't affect the one that was passing it. And I have checked this over with my committee and I think they all concur that this is a good revision.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: I would like to resist the motion to amend because we talked about this in committee and it was felt that since the members of the Senate now hold a four-year term so half of them would know they are coming back for the next session, which would be taking advantage of the revision and since it is also being proposed later in the session that the House members also shall go on a four-year term. It was therefore assumed that since half of them were expected to come back to the next session, it is not likely that they would have an unfavorable revision for the next session coming.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'm wondering there what is meant by "legislative assembly." It seems to me that the legislative assembly is the House and the Senate, and that it's a continuing body. I'm wondering if the committee may not be thinking of a session, because you would never have any increase under this because the legislative assembly will go on forever unless we change it sometime.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: The other provisions in the legislative article will specify that a legislative assembly exists during the biennium. And so it starts new every two years, you go from the 43rd to the 44th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will have the amendment again read from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: In line 13 delete the word "revision" and insert in lieu thereof the word "increase".

In line 14 delete the word "revision" and insert in lieu thereof the word "increase".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further questions? Any further comments?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: May I ask one question of the committee or at least Delegate Hildebrand? Aren't there other portions or other sections of the Constitution which prohibits us in the situation you spoke of, a Senator, serving in the next session if he was a part of the session that lowered or raised the salary?

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: No, to my knowledge there is not. Because we take into consideration that there will be members of the legislature always holding over.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Okay. Then, Mr. President, I think the word "increase" is better than "revision" simply because — I don't know, we can't look down the road in the crystal ball too far — but a situation certainly can arise where a legislative assembly should decide that their expenses should be increased and that being so, they would certainly be in an embarrassing situation if they decreased the salary or expense allowance for the subsequent session and not apply to their own. That is the only reason I wish to change the "revision" to "increase".

DELEGATE LITTEN: Question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I regret that I'm opposed to opening this wide open without some guidelines or limitations in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President. I would go along with the committee's wording of "revision". If we accept this word "increase" then we are accepting the philosophy that we are always going to have inflation. And I would be hopeful that we can stop it sometime. And I can foresee where maybe a decrease would be in order. So I would move that we uphold the committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. It was precisely because Delegate Trenbeath thought that there should be a time when a decrease should be voted by the legislature, and he wanted to make it more possible for the legislature to vote itself a decrease, and I agree with that feeling. And that's why I moved the amendment. There may be a different interpretation here, but that was my interpretation of what the amendment would do.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. I would speak in favor of the amendment. I can see a situation existing sometime in the future where the legislature may have to reduce appropriations across the board and not be able to take corresponding action with their own expenses.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Sinner and read from the desk.

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the motion and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. I'll move that the proposal be deemed properly engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner moves that the Rules be suspended, that the Proposal No. 1-39 be properly reengrossed and placed on the calendar on the tenth order for final passage as amended.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre. Motion is seconded.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Committee Proposal No. 1-39 is again before the Convention.

Any further discussion? The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-39 as amended.

Hearing no further discussion, the key will be opened, you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 85 "ayes," three "nays," ten delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal 1-39 has been passed.

Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I just have a request to see if it's possible something be looked into. When there are amendments with just word changes wouldn't it be possible for the employees to put those word changes into the proposal? I think it would be a lot easier for the delegates. Slips would be still tacked in. I can see where, if it would be a long amendment, it would probably be difficult. But where there as just word changes I wonder if it wouldn't be possible for the pages to put the words into the proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any comment from the desk? An attempt will be made at complying with your wishes, Delegate Hoffner.

Any further announcements?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: The Calendar Committee will meet at 8:30 — 8:30 A.M. Monday, January 17th.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President. The Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands will meet at two o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. The Rules Committee will meet at three o'clock. And the first thing we will consider, without objections to the committee, will be the matter of alternate proposals. So if any delegate wishes to appear and then wants to leave, we will try to take up the matter as quickly as possible.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further announcements? We have announcements at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Legislative Functions Committee will meet at two P.M. Monday, January 17th.

Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee will hear Committee Proposal 1-85 pertaining to the elective franchise at two P.M. in the Lewis and Clark Room Tuesday, January 18th.

Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee will hear Section 7 of the Constitution regarding trial by jury at two P.M. in the Lewis and Clark Room, Wednesday, January 19th.

Finance and Taxation Committee will meet at two P.M., Monday, January 17th, in the Blue Room.

Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands will meet Monday, January 17th, at two P.M. in Room G-1 to hear Committee Proposal No. 1-20, corporations, which is old Section 139.

The delegates are reminded to be keeping receipts for lodging. If they are staying in a hotel or motel a receipt must show the single rate if husband or wife is with the delegate. This will speed the processing of the travel vouchers. Travel vouchers will be turned in on January 31st.

Pictures are in the staff office which were ordered by delegates last fall of the organizational session. Upon receipt of payment, the pictures will be distributed. Pictures for the opening day are in the President's office.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. A point of inquiry on these voucher expenses. As I understand it, that's just for the lodging, not for the meals; is that right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I have an announcement. I guess I just as well have the Clerk read it. But I guess he's getting tired. This one is addressed to me. And it says: "Will you please announce that the Senate locker room has been turned into a ladies' lounge and rest room. The appropriate signs have been installed for identification.

"Also we have received keys for the locker room which may be used by the ladies if they so desire. They may check with me and receive a key for one of the lockers."

And it is signed "Dean", our Executive Director for the Convention, Dean Bard.

I have one further announcement that I received from Walt Hjelle a little while ago. And that is to the effect that if we would inform him of the time that we were about to break up here at the Convention and travel our many ways during this cold spell, that the Highway Department would have one of their service trucks here available to help start automobiles that might be just a little bit balky.

We will be on the twelfth order of business. Delegate Saugstad moves that the following proposals be referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting: Proposal No. 1-13, 1-43, 1-20, 1-24, and 1-25, 1-27, 1-28, 1-39. May I have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. These proposals will go to the committee on Style and Drafting.

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move that the absent members be excused.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moved that the absent delegates be excused.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the absent delegates are excused.

I think that it would be well to read the calendar.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On the sixth order I have Committee Proposal 1-23. And on the tenth order it would be all proposals, 1-56 on, that remain on your calendar, through 2-26, plus Committee Proposals 1-40, 1-95, 1-94.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Is the desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The desk is clear.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I now move that we adjourn until nine A.M. January 17th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that the Convention be now adjourned until nine A.M. on January 17th. May I have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. We will now be adjourned.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 3:03 P.M., Friday, January 14, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Monday, January 17, 1972.)

VOLUME XI

(January 17, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The eleventh day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:07 A.M., Monday, January 17, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is The Reverend Carl E. Perry, Evangel Temple of Bismarck.

REV. CARL E. PERRY: O Lord God, Creator of the universe and Maker of man, it is with humble hearts and bowed heads that we stand before Thee this day. We acknowledge Thy greatness, and confess to Thee our inadequacies. Help us to remember the words of Solomon, king of your people Israel: "In all thy ways acknowledge the Lord, and He shall direct thy paths."

And from James, the moderator over the affairs of the Church at Jerusalem, who said, "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him." For truly we know there is no rhetoric like that of the heart.

Again, it was the man after your own heart, David, who declared, "Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it; except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain." Grant to us the understanding to see that without your assistance our efforts become nil.

For these reasons we come to Thee today, and implore your divine blessing and direction upon these to whom great responsibility has been intrusted. For what these delegates decide today and the remaining days of this Constitutional Convention, will visibly and dramatically affect us for years and generations to come.

We pray Thee, O Holy Spirit, give to each delegate wisdom and freedom to express his conviction and bring this body to a unity of purpose and decision which will give the citizens of the sovereign State of North Dakota fair and equal opportunities.

For this we ask, in the name of God, Our Father, Jesus Christ, Our Savior, and the Holy Spirit, Our Baptizer. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be on the third order of business — Roll Call.

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence?

The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 95 present, three absent. A quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order of business, which is the Report of the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 13th day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

On page 171, in line 50, preceding the word "moved" insert the name "Daniels."

And when so corrected recommends the same be approved.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Paulson moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Report of the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted.

We'll be on the sixth order of business — Consideration of Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Haugen moves that the amendments to Proposal 1-23 as recommended by the Committee on Finance and Taxation and as printed on page 178 of the Journal be adopted.

The amendments are: On page 1 of the engrossed Committee proposal delete lines 10 through 15 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

“RAISING OF REVENUES. The legislative assembly shall provide for the raising of revenues sufficient to defray the expenses of the state for each year. A two-thirds vote of the members-elect in each house of the legislative assembly may provide an annual property tax, based on value, for state purposes for not in excess of two years unless re-enacted.”

And renumber the lines accordingly.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: This section will be explained when it gets on the calendar tomorrow. We rewrote this section simply to make it real clear just exactly what we mean. We've only changed, from the original bill — we've taken out the words “to pay the interest on state debt.” And the reason we did this is to make it absolutely clear this section would not interfere with the bonding section in this proposal, which is Section 5; and, secondly, we have defined property tax by saying “based on value,” so it isn't confused with in-lieu taxes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment or further discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the amendments to the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-23.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it. The amendments are adopted and Committee Proposal No. 1-23 will be on the tenth order of business for tomorrow.

We will be on the tenth order of business — the work on today's calendar.

The first for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-40 as amended.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-40, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 28 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the office of auditor general, be created.”

“SECTION 1.) Section 28 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“ARTICLE II

“Section 28. The legislative assembly shall provide for the appointment of an auditor general. He shall audit the receipt, expenditure and use of public funds as provided by law and shall be responsible to the legislative assembly in the performance of those duties.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Fellow Delegates.

During the interim study, the Legislative Functions Committee and the Finance and Tax Committee had the opportunity of looking at this area of legislative auditor. We heard the Auditor General from the State of Colorado speak to us. The idea was well received in the Legislative Functions Committee.

What this proposal would do would be to create the office of Auditor General, who would be under the jurisdiction of the Legislature. We felt that we didn't want to pin the Legislature down as to any particular term or time; so it's a broad grant of authority to the Legislature. The grant is broad enough to allow the Auditor — so-called Auditor General — to audit not only funds appropriated by the Legislature, but also other political subdivisions as the Legislature shall so require.

We recognize that the Executive Functions Committee will be reporting to you at a later date on the position of Auditor, and it was our feeling that we should present this to you in a broad form, so that we could — I believe the Executive Functions Committee will be recommending that the Auditor no longer be an elected state official, but this Auditor General would have the broad authority to do everything the present State Auditor does, plus the important thing beyond that would be the auditing of funds appropriated by the Legislature.

I'd like to, with your patience, yield to Delegate Aas, who is much more knowledgeable in this field, and I know that the Finance and Taxation Committee also worked on this proposal initially.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

We realize that this is somewhat of a radical change in the auditing procedure for the State of North Dakota, but I think, since the original Constitution was adopted in 1889, the whole concept of auditing has changed rather substantially. The office of the Auditor, which initially established a pre-audit type of function, and it grew from there into a position where it was finally used to more or less develop the financial statements of the various departments or functions of agencies of the State, and it gradually expanded to the point where they did go into some post-auditing performances of various kinds, but mostly the audits that have been done in the past throughout the entire time have been as to the fidelity and the honesty of the audit. There has been nothing done as to determine the quality of the work of the various departments, and this is kind of important in this day and age that we do examine the quality of the work that is being done by the various agencies or functions of the State.

We all know that the Executive has become stronger, both nationally and statewide. We know that there are more demands made. But we should all — and we are appropriating more money for these purposes. But we should also be concerned with the proper expenditure of funds.

This idea of a legislative auditor or Auditor General, as it's being called here, is not new. It was first developed by the State of Michigan in 1953 and is a part of their Constitution. It is a part of the constitution of quite a number of states. At the present time, according to the Book of States — the most recent one that I have — there are 19 elected auditors in the United States, and 24 are appointed by the Legislature, and 9 are gubernatorial appointees. The trend has been rather rapid in the last few years.

Tying this back into what North Dakota has done, I might say that in 1953 North Dakota took steps — the North Dakota Legislature took steps to develop the Audit and Fiscal Review Committee of the Legislature, and the initial proposal was, and still is, that the Lieutenant Governor serve as Chairman of this, and our distinguished President, Frank Wenstrom, chaired the first Audit and Fiscal Review Committee. At that time, and prior to that time, when an audit was made by the auditor's office, virtually nothing was done with that audit; it was just filed. Nobody looked at it. Nobody took any concern about what was going on, and if the audited office or the function did find that they should make some corrections, and if they chose to do so, they probably did. If they didn't — if they chose to ignore that audit, nothing was done about it.

With the development of the Audit and Fiscal Review Committee, I think that we can say that a lot has changed, because then somebody in the Legislature did examine all of the audits that were done in the State of North Dakota; some of them which were of lesser importance not in too great detail. But over the years since 1953, substantial progress has been made in determining what quality there has been in audits and what is being done with the final audit after it has developed. And with this, I can say that we have had much improvement in the quality of the auditing in the State of North Dakota, and I can say that in 1953 there were very few of the agencies that actually didn't make their own financial statements. It was being done by the Auditor's office, and this, of course is wrong.

We now come to the stage and we have realized this for a number of years in the Legislature, and particularly the Audit and Fiscal Review Committee — we have reached the point where we realize that we need performance and quality auditing along with the fidelity and honesty auditing and what can we say when we say that? We mean that when the Legislature passes a bill appropriating certain funds for State operations, that the Legislature has the responsibility, the duty and the right to know how well that money was spent. We need to know just what was done with that money in the way of quality. If we want to take the Highway Department as an example, and not for any specific purpose, but just as an illustration, we should know what their costs are per mile of highway production on interstate highway and what their overruns are and why they are having overruns. This is important. This needs to be done in auditing functions. The Auditor, himself, will have no control over what the overrun is or what the results are; but he should report that. This is being done in many states at the present time and it is effecting a good economy in government, and we think that the audit report should contain performance, quality, and it is important. The Finance and Taxation Committee is impressed with the fact that we need this. I know that the budgeting committee of the Legislature knows we need it. The Legislative Committee of this — of this group would like to see this happen, and I am sure that it would be good for the State of North Dakota, and I would support this bill.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Geelan,

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. I could certainly support this bill, from the standpoint of the various agencies and departments of the government. I think anyone who has anything to do with the administration of an agency has long felt that those audits that only audit receipts and expenditures are not important; the important thing is how well is that agency performing its services. Is it giving service for the money that's spent? And this is one of the things, certainly, an Auditor General could bring out.

We have on our desk this morning, I think, one of the very finest arguments for an Auditor General. I'm holding in my hand — and I suppose many of you are — a refund for expenses incurred on December 3rd. Now this isn't the fault of the Staff; this is the efficiency of the computer.

I don't suppose it makes any difference to us, except we should realize that we're not going to get our expenses until about February 3rd. But the people I'm concerned about are the people who have traveled for the State of North Dakota, who are out on the road all the time and who are reimbursed for expenses only once a month, and then they have to wait all the way from ten days to two weeks to be reimbursed for their expenses.

Now, this is something that I think an Auditor General could look into — is this marvelous and horribly expensive machine called the computer. Is it giving service? Isn't there some way that we could combine both efficiency and service from a computer?

So I would certainly support this. I think it's something we have needed all along, and it would do a fine thing for the departments if they were looked at that critically, and I speak from one who has had something to do with departments, and we would certainly welcome it, because I think we would come out looking better than most people think.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: A point of inquiry to someone on the Committee.

Do we continue to have a State Auditor, in addition to this position of Auditor General? I believe you're coming in on another committee and recommending that official be appointed. But is it the idea to consolidate these two, or still have two general auditors of the State; one, the State Auditor; two, the Auditor General?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: The Committee discussed this, of course. We don't have — the Legislative Functions Committee does not have the Auditor before us — the present State — elected Auditor. I think, if we would have, we would have voted that we not have an elected State Auditor. We purposely made the language broad enough so that the Auditor General, under this authority, would have authority to not only audit appropriations to state agencies, but also could be given the authority by the Legislature to audit political subdivisions.

It is our hope that this body would — we really don't — I think the majority of this Committee felt, or it was unanimous, that we should not have two auditors and that the Auditor appointed and responsible directly to the Legislature was far more important than having a separate official. But, of course, that matter still has to come before the Convention at a later time, at which time we would consider whether we would have two auditors.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. It's early in the morning and we are not as efficient. I question my authority in requesting that anything be laid, because I haven't had very good luck at that. I'll just vote "no" on that, unless you bring in the other figures, first. I would like to just quote a couple of figures from the Census Bureau. On page 58 from the book of a couple years ago. The Tax Commissioner has the book. North Dakota has 83 people working for government at all levels. The national average is 57. So we have got about 25-30 percent higher governmental employees in North Dakota than the national average.

Another statistic that might interest you, from a book just this week — last week — from the Tax Commissioner, has North Dakota in second place for tax purposes. "Tax effort" is the word they use. What it simply means is we're second high in the United States per thousand dollars of personal income, and a few years ago we were number one in governmental spending, which meant back in North Dakota and back to North Dakota went all of our money. So we were number one a few years ago. And this shows us as number two in the nation. And I hesitate very much to set up another office unless we're eliminating one. I think the idea is good. But what would happen? We have a Legislative Council now that's costing a small fortune. This would be another arm of it. And I would also like to mention that, if you're going to have another expert working for his lifetime in his job, you better not limit the time the legislators may serve. Pretty soon you'll have about two men running the Legislature, because the freshmen won't know anything about it.

Now, I'm going to vote "no," unless I'm very sure some other office is going to be eliminated, because we can't keep piling office upon office, with our state population decreasing as it has been. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. I understand that the Executive Functions Committee is recommending that there be seven elected officials and that the Legislature set up departments and that the Governor then appoint department heads and that they be confirmed by the Senate.

Now, there's a question here, and maybe I should move that this be held at the desk until that proposal is before us. Would that be possible?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You can lay it over — over to the foot of the calendar — if you wish.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President, I think I could answer his question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I haven't been delegated by the Executive Functions Committee to do this, but I see everybody else sitting here without saying anything; so —

In our Legislative Functions Committee, our proposal that will come before this group is that the Legislature decide upon the Auditor. That will be one of the things that they will decide upon. I would assume they wouldn't decide we're going to have two auditors.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I would like to direct a question to one of the proponents of this idea.

Now, you say the Auditor General is going to audit the performance. Now, I served in state office here twelve years, and we had duties imposed on us where we represented the State at the federal level, before all the federal commissions, like the Interstate Commerce Commission and Federal Power and Federal Communications Commission. Now, then, in addition to the intrastate, we held hearings, took evidence under oath, and then rendered judgment. Now that was appealable to the court.

Now, just how is the Auditor General going to audit the performance of that Commission?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Well, Mr. Chairman, of course the Auditor General is not going to be the total panacea for all of the problems of the State; but the Auditor General is going to audit performance where it is justified to audit performance.

I might take the example of the colleges, and I have before me an audit of the Michigan State University, and in this Michigan State University audit, which is a performance audit, they have examined a number of engineering instructors which they had in a particular section of the Engineering Department, and the performance audit people were able to show that they had just about twice as much staff in this one particular area as they needed.

Now I think that this illustrates that a performance audit can reveal some things, if it's used properly, and certainly in the example which Delegate Cart used, I have no idea at this time what could be done or what should be done, and perhaps nothing should be done. But there are areas — and I can point to you — that there are areas in highway, in colleges, in universities, in schools and in political subdivision areas, where there is need for a performance review by someone that is concerned with the way the dollar is spent, and I can cite you numerous examples where this could be used. But if anybody would like to review this little audit report which Michigan State University has, they can find numerous areas where recommendations are made where economies could be justified.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President. As also a member of the Executive Functions Committee, I agree with Delegate Scheel that we feel this is the proper approach to the auditor situation and that there would not be duplication of staff and duplication of position here, and I believe we should encourage passage of this bill at this time so that it will give us direction on the Executive Functions Committee to properly take care of our proposal at that time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. Just briefly, Mr. Proctor, the Auditor General of the State of Colorado, mentioned in that state he was the state elected auditor, and when they went to a legislative auditor, he was appointed the legislative auditor and they did, through performance audit, find some irregularities in travel, for example, and he mentioned, also, that it doesn't necessarily mean that each department is going to be thoroughly audited for performance. They look for areas where there are some problems.

Montana just found some problems in their state liquor set-up, and I think that was publicized not too long ago. South Dakota has had a legislative auditor for years — I think 20-some years. Most states are going to the legislative auditor. I certainly hope this bill passes, and if the Executive Functions Committee — maybe it isn't necessary that this pass first.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'm wondering if Delegate Proposal 2-26, which is on the tenth order of business today, with reference to the ombudsman — if the two of these offices could be joined together and one person given enough authority or enough power to handle both.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, I'd like to address this question, I believe, to Delegate Aas.

Now, the original adoption of the Board of Higher Education directed that body to eliminate duplication; but we're still running two engineering schools in the State — one at Fargo and one at Grand Forks. Would this auditor be empowered to do anything like that?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker and Fellow Delegates.

Delegate Cart, the Auditor General would not be empowered to do anything. The Auditor General would merely make recommendations as to what the obvious results of his findings are. He will tell them what is not justified, if the case may be, or if — if he can so justify it from his figures. He is not going to be out there to say that they must eliminate one. He makes recommendations, and based on the recommendations which he makes, the Legislature should take action.

I think, in response, then to Delegate Thompson's question, I don't believe that these are the same by any means. The legislative auditor would be responsive to the Legislature and would advise the Legislature of performance quality of the audits which they have made. He would advise them how the money has been spent, where the ombudsman — ombudsman, at whatever you say — would have the duty of carrying the responsibility of the citizen himself, and I think these are totally different and I could not see where they could be incorporated in one, because one would respond to the Legislature and the other one, I would think, should respond to the executive branch of government.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-40.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The key will be opened and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 94 "ayes," one "nay," three delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-40 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-56.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-56, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 213 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to property rights of women, be repealed.

"Section 213 of the constitution of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: The Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee dealt with this, and it is a rather interesting proposal to start the week, on the by-play between the changing legal and social relationships between the sexes.

Section 213 reads as follows:

"The real and personal property of any woman in this state, acquired before marriage, and all property to which she may, after marriage, become in any manner rightfully entitled, shall be her separate property, and shall not be liable for the debts of her husband."

In spite of the interesting implications on this, we in the Committee had trouble generating testimony on it, and we laid it over for a month, hoping that the League of Women Voters, or someone else, would speak on the subject. But none came forward to do this, and so the Committee looked at existing laws and decided to take what was pretty well-covered in existing laws.

I'll read it to you, on Statute 14-07-08. It says, in part, as follows:

"The separate property of the husband is not liable for the debts of the wife; and

"5. The separate property of the wife is not liable for the debts of her husband, but is liable for her own debts contracted before or after marriage."

The Committee felt that this was adequately covered in the statute and, therefore, recommends repeal of the constitutional section involved.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion? Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, reviewing the long period of history when women were granted full suffrage, and so forth, there was a remark made that "Here's to the ladies — once our superiors, now our equals." I believe we've accomplished that. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-56.

Those in favor of adoption will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 94 "ayes," one "nay," three delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-56 has passed.

Next for consideration will be Committee Proposal No. 1-57.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-57, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to equal enjoyment of public accommodations, be created.

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"All persons shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages and accommodations of any public accommodation, without discrimination or segregation on the ground of race, sex, color, religion or national origin."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE BENDER: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Bender.

DELEGATE BENDER: The Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage is presenting a new section to our Bill of Rights dealing basically with equal enjoyment of accommodations and public facilities without discrimination on the basis of race, creed, color or religion or national origin. This section is similar to the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Our Committee urges the adoption of this section by the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion? Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. Chairman. A question of the Committee. Does this language prohibit state agencies from renting services and facilities from organizations that discriminate in their membership on the basis of race or national origin?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can some member of the Committee answer Delegate Sinner's question? Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: To answer Mr. Sinner: I don't think it does.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I'd like to move that this be re-referred to the Committee to see if that cannot be included, and if I can get a second, I'll explain a little of the background.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. Chairman, I'll second that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second? Seconded by Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. Sometime ago a meeting was held by a group of public employees in a facility that was owned by an organization that discriminates against minority groups and all non-whites in one of our major cities. There was a challenge filed through the NAACP on the grounds that it was a discriminatory function. I saw the correspondence and had a copy of the correspondence from the NAACP, in which they said that, in this particular case, they could not see that there was any grounds for legal suit because there were no public moneys involved. However, they said — the attorney said in the letter, were there public moneys involved, there would be definitely a case for a suit, and it was alarming to me from the point of view of what might happen to federal funds; but it was also brought home to me by the person that filed the complaint and showed me the correspondence that minority groups do feel put upon when they're asked to go to public functions that are held in places where they're not welcome, and I think this Convention and the entire State is doing everything it possibly can to help bring minority groups — particularly the Indians — into full citizenship, and I think that it is a de facto way of discriminating, to hold public functions in places that discriminate against minority groups, and I think we should make it clear that we want full citizenship for all of our people, and I — I think that a good case can be made to put in the Constitution a prohibition against state agencies using federal funds to in any way be supportive to organizations that discriminate on the basis of race or national origin, and I think the Committee — while I haven't really had a chance to work on language, I think the Committee should have another chance to.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: This is Delegate Gipp speaking.

I cannot help, I think, but concur with Delegate Sinner's comments with respect to this section. I do think the section is quite well written. I have no objections, really, to it other than I think perhaps the delegate comments with respect to the coverage and the intent of this article might be reconsidered by the Committee. I certainly don't oppose it in any other sense. I think that Delegate Sinner's remark with respect to the use of public funds and facilities was an excellent remark. I think that there are organizations in the State of North Dakota that have and do carry certain discriminatory clauses. It was only two-and-one-half years ago — a year-and-a-half ago, I guess, that one of these national organizations voted nearly unanimously at their national organizational — their national convention — I think by a vote of 1,500 — to retain a rule of race — or race — a race rule that allows for entrance into that organization. I think it should be clearly spelled out on how state public funds should be used or how they shouldn't be used — let us put it that way. I certainly think there are federal laws and there are federal rights that will certainly compel the use of state funds properly, or any kinds of funds, without discrimination, if we cannot do it this way. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on Delegate Sinner's motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-57 be re-referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage. If there's no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the bill will be re-referred to the Committee.

Next for discussion is Committee Proposal No. 1-58.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-58, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 5 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to release from unlawful detention or imprisonment.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 5 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"HABEAS CORPUS. The privilege of release from unlawful detention or unlawful imprisonment shall not be suspended unless, when in case of rebellion or invasion, the public policy may require."

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: It is obvious here what we are trying to accomplish is to substitute for a Latin "writ of habeas corpus" — substitute the English for it.

Now, the question then that we had to decide is: What English should be used? I'm quoting from a letter from an attorney who assisted in research on this matter, and part of what he said is this:

"The primary purpose or function of the writ of habeas corpus is to obtain the release of an individual from unlawful imprisonment." He referred to a number of court cases, and one is from the State of New York, where the court goes so far as to say, "The sole function of the writ of habeas corpus is release from unlawful imprisonment."

However, our legal counsel recommended to us that we should also state "release from unlawful detention." So our recommendation is that you substitute the English "release from unlawful detention or unlawful imprisonment shall not be suspended unless," as the rule goes on, "when in case of rebellion or invasion, the public policy may require."

Now, we realize there may be other rights involved in this term "habeas corpus." The recommendation of the Committee is that this section now refer to those two basic and primary rights. We realize we're asking to drop a very traditional and long-standing handy legal term; but this is a declaration of rights for people, and so we think that the rights should be stated in simple and understandable English.

Then there's one other point. You'll notice we have the words "habeas corpus" as the first words of this section. However, it was the intent of the Committee that that should only be used as an identifying title and not a part of the section or the Constitution. In this particular case, we felt that, to put it into the section, might lead to some legal questions, and I'm going to say here and now this came out of our Committee with unanimous approval, and we have both an attorney and a judge on our Committee; but if we get involved in any legal questions, I'm going to hope that our delegate and attorney, Neil Thompson, will take over. But we felt the use of a title here was rather important, because if these people who look at the revised Article — they may not have the slightest notion of what "habeas corpus" means; but if they saw it was left out, they might think they had taken away their precious right.

So at this time, Mr. President, I'm going to offer an amendment, and the Clerk has it at the desk. Maybe the Clerk should read it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: In line 10, delete the underlining under the words "HABEAS CORPUS".

DELEGATE GEELAN: So I move, then, that this amendment be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Geelan that the amendment as read at the desk be adopted.

Now, do I have a second?

DELEGATE SONDRAL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Sondreal. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the amendment.

As many as are in favor of the proposed amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Then, Mr. President, I move that the Rules be suspended, that the Proposal No. 1-58 be properly engrossed, and be placed on the calendar for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Geelan that the Rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-58 be deemed properly engrossed, that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Do I have a second?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'll second it, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire seconded the motion. Now, do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I was hoping that'd be held up. I was going to put a title on it for you, under Habeas Corpus; but I guess I'm too late.

By way of discussing the motion that is before us, we did take that out of all the judicial references, too — all of these Latin remedial writs, and I was glad to see that the Committee has taken out habeas corpus here. But I think a good title would be "Unlawful Detention," instead of "Habeas Corpus," and you've got a title for it which would alert people that we do still have in the Constitution this unlawful detention procedure. However, you have already cut me off, and I'll let it go at that. But I was going to offer that amendment before this motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole, did you have a question?

(Delegate O'Toole shook his head.)

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I think the reason that we felt the term "habeas corpus" should be left in as the title would be for the convenience of attorneys, so they could find the section.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I would like to register what will no doubt be considered a feeble protest, and to save the time of the Convention, my remarks apply, also, to Proposals 1-60 and 1-61, which purport to remove non-English words from the Constitution. If we do that — remove all non-English words — I assume that we must throw out about half or as much as two-thirds of the so-called English language, which are, if not Latin, Greek, and we'll be left only with those Anglo-Saxon words. I'm sure you realize that a great many of those are four-letter words and the kind that should not be used in polite society, although they are coming into play more lately.

My principal reason, other than being facetious, is that, to me "habeas corpus" is a legal term with precise meaning. It has been construed by the courts for several hundred years. I see no reason for substituting different phraseology for something which has such a concrete meaning, and that's the reason why I'm opposing it. I can conceive of instances where "unlawful imprisonment or unlawful detention" are not present, but the reason and the right for a petition for a writ of habeas corpus is, and I really can see no reason why we should worry about that.

There are a number of other things that we ought to change, because "television" is certainly not an English word. "Automobile" is certainly not an English word. And I don't know where this might stop!

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates: There seems to be a difference of opinion here on just what is being done, and as I read the proposed amendment, it says that in line 10, delete the underlining under the words "HABEAS CORPUS". It says nothing about taking out the words "HABEAS CORPUS."

DELEGATE PEARCE: Did you have a question, Mr. President?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Only —

DELEGATE PEARCE: As I understand, taking out the underlining, it's treating it as you do in the Legislature. Now it means that you haven't substituted a new word and that "HABEAS CORPUS" would remain. Of course "HABEAS CORPUS" as a base naked title stays there; but the language is not the writ of habeas corpus shall survive; it is that the privilege of release. It's a rather strange dichotomy that they didn't like the words "habeas corpus" but they had to put it in so that people would know that this was the section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates, there's a second part of this that bothers me, and it has to do with six-letter words, and that is where the word "safety" is deleted and the word "policy" is inserted.

Now, as I understand "public policy," this is something that changes from time to time and changes somewhat rapidly. "Public policy" regarding the rights of an individual may change from day to day, depending upon who the majority is. I think "public safety" — I think the word "safety" has a much more concrete effect to it, in that when you talk about the safety of the — the public safety — I think we can relate much more permanency to it. I certainly do not understand why we would insert "public policy" in lieu of "public safety," and I'm going to vote against it on that basis.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — Fellow Delegates:

Now the question before the body is on the motion that the Rules be suspended, that this be deemed properly engrossed, and that it be placed on the calendar for first passage. And I think we could have some more debate after we get to that point; but I think the question now is on this motion to get the proposal as amended before the assembly. We're really not debating the motion.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the proposal as amended is before the Convention.

Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I'm sure that no member of the Committee would have any objection to Delegate Nething's objection to the word "policy" instead of "safety." The original did say "safety," and I think it was an error in the proposal, and the person who is responsible for that error is Agnes Geelan. Even I should have put in the word "safety." And I would move at this time another amendment, if I may do so — that in line — I haven't this at the desk, however — that in line 12, we substitute "safety" for the word "policy," and with a provision in getting that up to the desk, I would move such an amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Geelan that Committee Proposal No. 1-58 be further amended; that the word "safety" — that the word in line 12 — that the word "policy" be deleted and the word "safety" be inserted in lieu thereof.

Now, do we have a second to that motion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Nething.

Now, is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the proposal is further amended.

Now do you want to repeat your motion?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. Then I again move the Rules be suspended, that 1-58 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and placed on the calendar for first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Geelan that the Rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-58 be deemed properly re-engrossed, and that it be placed on the calendar for first passage.

Do we have a second to that motion? Seconded by Delegate Daniels. No further discussion? As many as —

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-58 as amended is again before the Convention.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I'm going to vote for the proposal in its present form, but I think it is important to retain the words "habeas corpus" at least as a title to this section when it goes to the Style and Drafting Committee, for the reason that these words are of very precise legal meaning. They are non-foreign words. If you go to a dictionary, you don't have to look under foreign words and phrases to find "habeas corpus." For example, "habeas corpus" is listed right ahead of "haberdasher."

So I think it is important to retain that phraseology — at least in the title to this section.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President. I realize that the committees have worked hard and long on their proposals; but we have voted in many cases on the rewritten section of the present Constitution without being able to show that we approve the retention of the section as it is. Here, again, I regret this. I feel strongly that, unless there is improvement on what is there, it should be retained in its present state. I think these legal terms have been used so commonly that they really aren't that difficult, and I would like to be able to vote for the old section. So I'm going to vote against this proposal.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: The Committee has incorporated what it believes to be an improvement in the language of this section. It was not the aim of the Committee to necessarily remove non-English terms, but to substitute for certain unfamiliar and obscure and vague non-English terms, language that all could understand — even lawyers and judges.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-58 as amended.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 73 ayes, 18 nays, seven delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-58 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-59.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-59, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 9 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to freedom of press.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 9 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Freedom of the press and freedom of all individuals to write, speak and publish their opinions on all subjects are hereby guaranteed, and each must be responsible for the abuse of these freedoms."

DELEGATE HUCKLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Huckle.

DELEGATE HUCKLE: I think it's time for us to discuss a five-letter word, so I will be on that now.

The Committee on the Bill of Rights wishes to have the meaning of the word "press" read as it applies to the new section. In defining the word "press," this is what it includes: "All the media and agencies that print, broadcast or gather and transmit news, including newspapers, news magazines, radio and television news bureaus, wire service, and so forth." And the source of this definition was from the Random House Dictionary of the English Language, copyrighted in 1967.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion on Committee Proposal No. 1-59? Hearing none, the question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-59.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed vote "nay."

The key will be open. You will record your vote. Has every delegate voted?

DELEGATE HERNETT: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 92 ayes, there were no nays, six delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-59 has passed.

Next for consideration, Committee Proposal No. 1-60.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-60, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 8 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to indictment and information.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 8 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Indictment or Information. No person shall be proceeded against criminally otherwise than by indictment by the grand jury or by accusation, except in cases arising in the military forces, when in actual service in time of war or public danger."

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: If you look at the original one, you will see that there's been some substantial change made in this section. I'm sure, again, in this instance it was our intention that the words "INDICTMENT OR INFORMATION" would be the title, and I'm wondering if Style and Drafting can't take care of that, rather than going through another motion.

We've provided substantially in here that the State could proceed without the requirement of obtaining an indictment from a grand jury, and could proceed by accusation, which we felt was synonymous with "information" but would be more clear for the ordinary person. We changed the words so that now it reads "military forces," which, I think, conforms to the suggestions that have been made by the Military and which are being incorporated into all of the rest of the sections that are being considered by other committees.

By doing this, as far as the "information" is concerned, it allows the State to proceed with information, when a grand jury has been called, without going through the formality of having an actual hearing, and makes it easier to proceed.

You should also notice, of course, that we have now locked into the Constitution the grand jury and taken away from the Legislature the right to make other provisions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates.

I can't see any good reason to lock the grand jury into our Constitution. This would be something like locking a Model A into the Ford production line. The grand jury hasn't been used very much at all, and where it has been used, there's been fiascoes because of a lack of casebook law on the subject. The reason the grand jury isn't used much is that it simply adds another level of cost to county government.

I want to quote from The National Observer of November 20, 1971: "You are summoned before a secret tribunal and denied the right to bring your attorney. It's just you, the prosecutors and more than a score of inquisitors. They don't have to tell you who they're after. They don't have to reveal the purpose of their questions. But you must answer them all or risk being jailed. That tableau isn't set in a criminal basement. It's an American grand jury exercising its historic powers in our system of criminal justice."

Now, the grand jury started out as a buffer between the prosecutor and potential accuseds. It's developed into something quite different over the years and, as I mentioned, it isn't used hardly at all any more in North Dakota. I am going to vote and hope that this proposal is defeated, and hope the Committee will come up with something closer to the present Section 8.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I'd like to inquire of the Committee: Under the old Constitution, the requirement to proceed by indictment or information was qualified by a case of felony. Does the Committee contemplate that every charge that is a traffic offense, we'll have to have indictment by a grand jury or an accusation, which — which is the other point that I have. I wonder if the Committee merely intends that the word "accusation" substitute now for the word "information." I don't know that the word "accusation" appears in the law at any place, whereas the word "information" does.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: We talked about that quite a while. I'm referring to "information" and "accusation" now — mainly because in my office I have a lot of forms using the term "information," and it was felt that, by leaving it in as a part of the heading, that I could retain those forms and not spend any more of my time and money having new ones printed.

The reason for changing the word from "information" to "accusation" was that the Committee — or the majority of the Committee, at least, felt that it was more readable to people other than judges or lawyers — using the term "accusation" — and felt that they were synonymous.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I think Delegate Kelsch has raised a good question, particularly regarding the matter of traffic cases, because I believe we function there under a little different system, whereby we use a summons as opposed to an accusation, and of course currently we can do that, because the words "unless otherwise provided by law" are included. And under our traffic regulations, we can use that. I'm thinking along the lines of enforcement, as having all of the traffic arrests proceeded by an accusation, which would be basically a complaint, as such, and I — a complaint, of course, has to be brought before a committing magistrate in order to have it properly served, and if we do away with the traffic summons and substitute in lieu thereof the matter of having to take each offender before — or the person that makes the complaint, which would be the local traffic officer, be it Highway Patrol or City Police or Sheriff; then we're going to find ourselves in a real mess. I don't think we could hire enough magistrates to be on duty so that these people can function. I think that's why the traffic summons is used. I think this should be returned to committee, probably, and, firstly, it would just leave that; otherwise, it would be covered by law, and I think we could cover that particular aspect of it.

I would like to have some Committee member explain to me why the grand jury system has now been locked in under the Constitution under this proposal, as opposed to leaving the regulation changing or abolishing it to the Legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will a member of the Committee answer Delegate Nething's question?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. Chairman, in view of the resistance, I'd like one question to you, Mr. Nething.

Are you indicating that after the word "accusation" we would add the words "unless otherwise provided by law"?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

Delegate Thompson, I would do just like they did in Section 8. I'd head the section, "Unless otherwise provided by law."

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I don't think the Committee would resist having it sent back for that purpose, and I would so move that it be sent back.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You move to return it to committee?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-60 be re-referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Now, is there a second to the motion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton. Any comment? Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: One other question. I'm not sure that Delegate Dobson's point was talked about too much. Will the Committee also at that time reconsider locking in the grand jury to the Constitution, or is that a foregone conclusion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I wonder if the Committee ever considered just repealing the section. We have the guarantee of due process, to life, liberty, and I wonder, if we say that a criminal may be proceeded against in a manner provided by law, if we're really saying anything, as long as we have the other constitutional guarantees.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I guess I have a further question to complicate the matter. But it seems to me, unless we preserve the right of grand jury, we have a little difficulty investigating public officials who are doing wrong.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President. If this is re-referred to our Committee, we will give consideration to all of the points that have been raised on this debate.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on Delegate Thompson's motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-60 be re-referred to the Committee on Bill of Rights — on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Proposal No. 1-60 will be re-referred to the Committee.

Next for consideration is Delayed Proposal No. 1-61.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delayed Proposal No. 1-61, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 16 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to bills of attainder and ex post facto laws and non-impairment of obligations of contracts."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion? Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: The Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage has changed this proposal — or this section to the Constitution; but, if you'll read it carefully, both the old section and the new, you will find that the only substitute that we have made is the definitions of "bills of attainder" and "ex post facto law" in place of those words, and yet we have left them in the title, so that they are easily identifiable. We, again, wanted to make the Constitution as readable to the average citizen as we could, and so that we might do this, we did substitute these definitions, and these definitions were taken from Black's Law Dictionary, and the only change, of course, is in just the definition.

I would like to remind the delegates that it is not only adults who will read our Constitution, but young people will also study it, and I think anything that we can do to make it more understandable to them for their use in later years as citizens would be very helpful.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage. Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. I have stated that my previous remarks would apply to 1-61; but now a careful reading raises another doubt in my mind, and I'm looking at the sentence which starts at line 14, which reads, "No law shall be passed which renders an act punishable in a manner in which it was not punishable when it was committed . . ."

Now, let's suppose the prohibition against ex post facto laws has not so much to do with punishment as to whether a thing was a crime, and I presume that what the Committee intended to get at was that no law shall be passed which makes an act a crime which was not a crime when it was committed; in other words, if you did something today, the Legislature next month couldn't make that a crime and then proceed against you on that. I'm not sure in my mind as to whether the reference to punishment accomplishes the same thing and, again, I must state that I — I know what ex post facto laws are. I'm not sure that I know what 1-61 does. In this connection, my fellow delegate to my left — Delegate Poulson — questioned "Should we still be using that ancient 'Yea' and 'Nay' when we vote?"

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: It seems to me that one of our purposes in making this new Constitution was to get away from a lot of extra language. Now, if we're going to start writing a dictionary, instead of a constitution, I can see some substance in this proposal. But, as I look at the old Section 8 — or 16, I can't help but feel that is far preferable to the one which is proposed. For that reason, I am going to vote "no."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-61.

Those in favor will vote "yea;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

DELEGATE DIEHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Diehl.

DELEGATE DIEHL: Diehl votes "no."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Did your key not work?

DELEGATE DIEHL: No, it didn't.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: His key did not register.

DELEGATE DIEHL: Perhaps my fault.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The roll call discloses 22 "ayes," 69 "nays," seven delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-61 has lost.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I think that is some kind of a mandate from the Convention to come back with Section 16 in its original language.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Shouldn't we move to reconsider our action on 1-61 and have it re-referred to committee?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You can refer it to the Committee, Delegate Omdahl, without reconsidering your action.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I move that 1-61 be re-referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that Committee Proposal No. 1-61 be re-referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Kwako.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the proposal will be re-referred.

Without objection, we will be on the eighth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: We have some balcony visitors today. Hebron High School, with Mr. Darrell Anderson as the Principal and Ray Frank as the Superintendent of Schools, are now present with 70-to-75 in the group.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the visitors please rise and receive the recognition of the Convention?
(Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, I have been requested to have a show of hands of the delegate who has a wife with him here at Bismarck. The purpose behind it is that a group has asked me to find out how many of the wives are here, with the thought of having a dinner or luncheon, or something, for them; and for that reason, I have to ask you. Mrs. Jestrab, I won't ask about the husbands. You may have the floor, though. Did you have a question?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: You have answered my question, although perhaps in a luncheon, perhaps men are interested.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I would like this Committee to take into account the fact that there's a possibility that Delegate Knudson may have one by that time.
(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, you have been here on time this morning and you have been laboring industriously, and at this time I'm going to declare a 15-minute recess.

(The Session recessed at 10:32 A.M. until 10:52 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

We will be on the seventh order of business — Reports of Select Committees.

Fellow Delegates, your Committee on Rules has a number of amendments they would like for you to consider. These have been distributed and are on the desks of the delegates, and in order that we can proceed and have our Rules finally determined and have them printed, it is quite necessary that we do adopt these or reject them, so that the Committee can proceed with establishing permanent Rules for the Convention. So, at this time, if there are no objections, I'm going to call on Delegate Geelan, and if she wishes, she can name the members of her Committee who will carry the individual proposals on the floor.

Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. I think the Clerk has now the changes, and as I understand it, we will proceed as we did before. Each change will be read and then explained by a member of the Committee, and then discussed, and adopt those changes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will read the proposal — proposed change in the Rules.

CHIEF CLEAK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your procedural committee appointed to review and recommend changes in the temporary rules has had the same under consideration and recommends that the temporary rules of the Convention be amended as follows:

"Rule 18.2. ALTERNATE PROPOSALS

"An alternate proposal covering the same subject for incorporation in the final constitutional draft may not be introduced until three Convention days after first passage of a proposal covering the same subject, except that the three-day limitation shall not apply after the twenty-second Convention day.

"At least twenty delegates shall be required to introduce an alternate proposal which shall be filed with the clerk.

"The limitation on the time for introduction of proposals as provided by Rule 18 shall not apply to alternate proposals.

"Before floor consideration of an alternate proposal, it shall be first referred to a Committee on Constitutional Ballot, which committee shall be comprised of 15 delegates to be selected as follows:

"1. Two delegates shall be elected from each of the six substantive committees.

"2. Three delegates shall be appointed at large by the President.

"The Constitutional Ballot Committee members shall select their chairman and vice chairman.

"The committee shall prepare and submit to the Convention for its approval a ballot form which shall set forth a method by which alternate proposals may be submitted to the electorate.

"The committee shall consider each alternate proposal referred to it and shall report its recommendation to the Convention as follows:

"1. That the proposal should not be submitted as an alternate, or

"2. That the proposal should be submitted as an alternate.

"If the committee report is to submit the proposal as an alternate, it shall also specify the form of the question to be submitted to the electorate.

"If the committee report is that the proposal not be submitted as an alternate, and the report is accepted, the proposal shall be deemed to be indefinitely postponed.

"If the committee report is for submitting the alternate proposal to the electorate and the report is accepted, the alternate proposal along with the form in which it shall be submitted shall thereafter follow the same procedure as a proposal placed on first reading and passage."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of Rule 18.2.

Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. If I may briefly run through the Rule, and particularly the important parts of it. The Committee on Rules — we contemplate the method to introduce alternates, and our plan would be that, if you had an alternate proposal that you wanted introduced, this would be left with the Clerk. At least 20 delegates must sign that proposal. We would use a numbering system, probably, that would — with the prefix number of "3" to indicate that it's an alternate, and then key it into the same proposal number — the last two digits that would apply to the other proposal that's already been acted on.

Now, we have a five-day waiting period before you could introduce this at the Clerk's desk. The reason for that is that once we pass something on first passage there, it would, in effect, have the day you vote on it and two succeeding days on which you could reconsider, and we felt there should be no alternates offered at the desk until the time for reconsideration has passed that — that is, reconsideration on a 50-vote majority. After the three days, of course, it takes two-thirds to reconsider a proposal. So any time after those three days go by, any 20 delegates who would sign a proposal could tender it as an alternate. Immediately upon its being received by the Clerk, the President will refer it to the Committee on the Ballot and, as you can see, the Committee is made up of two members from each of the six substantive committees. It's our feeling that, although this committee is quite large, we felt that it is important that somebody from each of the six substantive committees act on this Committee on the Ballot, because they would have a feel of the various committees, as to what might be extremely important and what should be submitted to the electorate as an alternate. Their first duty would be to come back to the Convention with a suggestion as to how this might be handled on a ballot. There are a number of ways it could be handled, and the Rules Committee did not feel it was our function to spell out how these might be handled; rather, that this Committee should have that job.

Then, as these alternate proposals are referred to them, they would come back to us with recommendations that either we put them on the ballot for the people's choice or we do not. This Convention, of course, has the final say. We could leave it to the Committee on Ballot, and then, at the end of the — with the alternate proposal idea. If we do not — we could, of course, arrive at that. If it goes on as an alternate, we indicate they must specify how it would go on; in other words, how would the question be stated as an alternate? And we felt this was quite important to you, if you make an intelligent vote, that you want this submitted separately as to how this is done. Then, if we accept the report that it go on as an alternate, then it would be before us for first passage; so we could amend it and get it in the proper shape so all of us agree. They won't be so much concerned with the form of the alternate proposal or its content, as to whether it should be submitted as an alternate. And then, of course, we on the floor then can decide how it should be submitted.

We also felt that the Committee could poll the delegates in advance, if they would like to, as to what you feel individually are the issues that you might want to see submitted as separate items, and we were concerned with the problem of time. We recognize that this Committee may have a number of alternate suggestions to the delegates, and they're going to have to make a choice. We couldn't see how we could write a time limit in this. We recognize that this kind of work is going to be eleventh-hour work, and we'd only hope that the Committee would, as soon as they get these proposals, they would recommend to the floor as quickly as they could as to their recommendations.

If there's any questions along this route or method of handling all this, we'd be glad to try to answer them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions? Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President: I wonder, Delegate Kelsch, if the Committee considered the possibilities of a committee by two-thirds vote submitting a proposal. I'm thinking that the 20-delegate — it seems like quite a few delegates for submitting an alternate proposal, and possibly if the Committee was permitted to do that by, say, a two-thirds vote, that the Committee is probably in a better position as a group than a number of delegates collecting supporters around the — through the whole chamber of determining which proposal should be.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Delegate Hoffner, frankly, that idea had not occurred to us. I don't think that we had considered it. We did have some debate on the number of delegates that should be required. Some of the delegates felt — some of the members of the Committee felt that 20 was too many, and some felt that 20 was enough. We didn't want to be deluged with alternates every time there was disagreement. We felt there should be some substantial reaction on the part of the delegates that this should be given to the electorate, and the number 20, which would be, probably, one-fifth of the total body, should be required. But I don't see any objection with your idea that the Committee itself might initiate alternates, and if the body feels that they'd like that, we could do that, I'm sure — draw another paragraph that would allow that.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I would like to inquire of Delegate Kelsch whether the procedure set up doesn't open the Convention to a whole string of new alternate proposals, inasmuch as if sponsors who have got some pet ideas defeated on the floor can get 20 supporters, then they will go to the new committee; but the new committee must report each and every one back to the floor for inclusion or exclusion, at which time a debate on the merits of the proposal can start all over again.

Is there any way to head that off?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Delegate Paulson, we recognize that that is a very definite possibility. That's the reason for the 20 signers. We felt that, if you couldn't at least enlist 20 other delegates on your cause, you shouldn't have it submitted. We don't know how else to eliminate these. If we are going to consider any alternates, we felt, I suppose, that any delegate here should have the right at least to try it, and if he can muster 20 to go along with him, then he's at least going to get it to this committee.

Now, we would expect that the committee recommendation would be considered very carefully. They'd have a number of factors they could consider — the vote on the matter of the first passage. Some delegates wanted us to go by vote, and then have them eliminated or put in that way. But we felt that might not be a fair basis. There are some cases where this body might feel quite strongly on the matter, but we would recognize at the same time that people should be heard on it. So we didn't know that the vote itself would be the whole criteria. But, really, we don't know how much you screen it, except everybody will have the opportunity to try to muster support to get an alternate presented. If it is presented, of course, we will be debating that as a separate item. You will still be working on that draft positively if the majority should decide that it should be put on as an alternate.

If anybody else has any better ideas as to how we could avoid the deluge of alternate proposals, we are certainly open to suggestions. The three-day limit would also help, because after you lost one, you have three days to contemplate whether or not it should be put in as an alternate.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I think Delegate Hoffner has an excellent idea, and I think it would probably end up being the normal channel, and I wonder if the Rules Committee would consider inserting after the words in paragraph 2, "At least twenty delegates, or a substantive committee by a two-thirds vote."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I wasn't sure when Delegate Hoffner mentioned this idea, if he was talking about a two-thirds vote on the substantive committee or a two-thirds vote on the Ballot Committee.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I was talking about the substantive committee — the six substantive committees. Each should have the — if this two-thirds was required, then each substantive committee, by a two-thirds vote, could submit an alternate proposal to the Committee, as has been pointed out here, with 15 members.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I'd have no objection to that. I think, if you — we were not — at least I wasn't in favor of having any substantive committee by majority vote do that, because every substantive committee views its particular problems as the most important ones, and I think, maybe, if you had the two-thirds, that would avoid every tough problem they'd have being offered as an alternate. But I'd have no objection to that kind of amendment, if one of you delegates care to make it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President. Not at the Friday meeting, but at the previous meeting of the Rules Committee, which I'm a member of, I was in opposition of coming out with an alternate proposal plan at an early date, and for the benefit of the delegates as to why I was opposed to it, was I fearful that we would wind up with many, many substantive — alternate proposals; and, actually, the word "alternate" isn't a fair word to be using, probably. I don't know. Probably I'm wrong. But, actually, what it amounts to is giving the electorate a right to vote on the majority reports and the minority reports, and I believe that, if we held off at this time in making the rules permanent today and give some more thought on this alternate proposal, that probably some of the sections of the Constitution, if we had erred on the floor here, probably wouldn't wind up before a committee to burden the committee of deciding which ones should be alternate proposals or not. I am aware that there's possibly going to be some alternate proposals, but I believe that we would have less to discuss if we left the Convention go on for a few more days, at least, to see if we couldn't iron out some of the changes in the Constitution, because we certainly wouldn't want to go back to the electorate with ten or fifteen proposals, because they might have felt that we did err during the 30 days that we were here. So I don't think that that would be a healthy situation, to go back to too many proposals, either — alternate proposals or minority or majority reports. So I'm opposed to adopting today a rule on alternate proposals, because I believe there will be, probably, on some delegates' part — I hope not — I hope that once this thing is on the floor and is approved, that we can make it an alternate proposal.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I have a question for Delegate Kelsch.

Do I understand that the last paragraph on this proposed rule change sets forth — or at least it's within the power of this committee to indicate which of two alternates might be in the Constitution proper, and then the other retained at the bottom, or are we operating on the assumption that the passage here of a proposal goes into the Constitution and the opposite one goes on the alternate?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. We discussed the various mechanics and felt that, if we're going to constitute a committee to consider this, that they should actually make that type of decision. There are several ways you could do it, as you just mentioned, Delegate Butler, and I'm just not sure. We did not attempt to try to decide that, and I think that when the committee makes its recommendation to us on an alternate, they'll have to tell us how they propose it to be handled, and if we didn't like the method or the manner which they were suggesting, we would then decide at that time.

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: Well, it seems to me, in reply to Delegate Butler, that if these proposals are going to be alternates, that say, for instance, unicameral and bicameral — we can't put one into the Constitution and then have the other one as an alternate. If I want to vote for the Constitution, I would be, in effect, voting for the bicameral one, and yet, on the other hand, if I was a unicameral person, I would thereby lose my vote. I think we'd have to have these two listed separately, to give the people a choice on, say, this specific question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comment? Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. To — have you got an amendment?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I just sent a messenger up to the desk with the amendment, and the amendment would be:

After the word "delegates" insert the word — the language "or two-thirds vote of a substantive committee" shall be required to introduce an alternate proposal. I move that amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner moves an amendment to Rule 18.2.

DELEGATE SINNER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Sinner. Do we have the amendment at the desk?

The Clerk will read the proposed amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 18.2. "Alternate Proposals" be amended: Line 1 of paragraph 2, following the word "delegates" insert the following: "or two-thirds vote of a substantive committee".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the proposed amendment. Is there any discussion?

As many as are in favor of the proposed amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendment is adopted.

Any further comment on Rule 18.2?

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I have just one more question. I think it's the intent of the Rules Committee that the two delegates from each committee be elected by the committee and not by the body of the entire Convention. That isn't clearly spelled out.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, that is the intent.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments?

Delegate Geelan, did you wish to move the amendment of 18.2 now, or proceed with the next one? Shall we proceed on the report?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: What was the question, Mr. President?

We would move the adoption of 18.2, yeah, of the temporary rules.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: As a single one, or do you want to take all of them? As a single one?

DELEGATE KELSCH: We move the adoption of 18.2 as amended as a part of the temporary rules.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that Rule No. 18.2 be adopted as amended and be adopted as a part of the temporary rules.

Now, do we have a second?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Jestrab. Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the 18.2 rule is adopted.

Next for consideration is Rule 19.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 19. ORDER OF CONSIDERATION OF PROPOSALS AND FINAL DRAFT

The regular order to be taken by proposals introduced in the Convention shall be as follows:

1. Introduction and reference to a committee or committees by the President, and reproduction and distribution in a manner and amount as ordered by the President unless otherwise ordered by a majority of the delegates voting.
2. Report of committee and action of the Convention on the committee report.
3. Placing proposal on calendar, first reading and action of Convention on first passage.
4. Reference to the Committee on Style and Drafting which shall not require Convention action.
5. Report of Committee on Style and Drafting and action of the Convention on the report.
6. If the adopted committee report calls for any revision, second reading and vote on second passage.
7. Re-reference to Committee on Style and Drafting for incorporation in final draft which shall not require Convention action.
8. Final report by Committee on Style and Drafting and acceptance of report.
9. Consideration by the Convention on final reading.
10. Signing the final draft by delegates.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of Rule 19 with the proposed amendments.

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. Chairman — President.

Under item 4, new language has been added "which shall not require Convention action."

Under article 7 — or item 7 under Rule 19, again the new language "which shall not require Convention action."

The reason for offering these amendments is that it will not be necessary to make motions from the floor to route these bills or proposals on to the proper committee after action has been taken on the floor. It's just a means of speeding up our floor action.

Under item No. 9, "and final vote on passage." It is proposed that this language be deleted. In view of the fact that we have Roberts' Rules of Order as part of our temporary rules, the Roberts' Rules of Order contain a provision that where a document such as we are working on is adopted piecemeal or part-by-part, it is not necessary to vote on the entire document. So, in other words, the final decision will be made by this body whether or not it wants to vote on the entire document upon its completion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there any questions?

The question before the Convention is the adoption of the proposed amendments to Rule No. 19.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would move that the proposed amendments to Rule 19 be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there a second?

DELEGATE ENGSTROM: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Engstrom.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. I was at a Rules Committee meeting as an observer one day and they were talking about this point 9. I see the Committee has recommended that the language "and final vote on passage" be dropped. I think I would like to hear some further explanation on the part of the Committee on why they are not asking a vote. I understand that Roberts' Rules say you don't have to vote, but I think, in this case, we should vote on a final document and it should be part of the consideration that we have in all of our deliberations.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: The feeling of the Committee was that this is an item that can be decided by a simple majority vote of this body, so that when the final draft is completed by a motion of any delegate and a bare majority would then place this up for a vote by all of the delegates for final passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on Delegate Saugstad's motion to adopt Rule 19 as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Rule No. 19 has been adopted.

Next for consideration is Rule 19.1.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rue 19.1. PROPOSALS IN PROCEDURAL COMMITTEES

Proposals in the possession of procedural committees shall be deemed in the possession of the Convention.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: The new rule, 19.1, is, again, designed to speed up action on the floor. Under normal circumstances, if a bill — or I should say a proposal — is reconsidered and should be in a procedural committee, and in this body it would most likely be in Style and Drafting, it should not be necessary to first make a motion that the bill be brought back from that Committee, and all this does is to say that it is deemed to be in possession of this body at any time it is in the possession of a procedural committee. It's just another means of trying to speed up action.

I move that Proposal No. 19.1 be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Saugstad that Rule No. 19.1 be adopted. It's been seconded by Delegate Christensen.

Is there any further discussion? Are there any questions?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Rule No. 19.1 is adopted.

Rule 25 is next for consideration.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 25. MOTIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.

STATING MOTION AND RESOLUTIONS. When a motion is made, it shall be stated by the President, or if in writing, it shall be handed to the clerk of the Convention and read aloud before being debated.

Every resolution shall be properly numbered, read by title, and shall be referred by the President to the appropriate committee. If the rules are suspended to permit immediate consideration of a resolution, the resolution shall be read in full before it is considered.

REDUCED TO WRITING: Every motion shall be reduced to writing if the President or a majority of those voting shall request it, and all motions, oral or written, shall be entered upon the journal, together with the name of the delegates making it.

WITHDRAWAL OF MOTIONS. After a motion has been stated by the President or read by the clerk of the Convention, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the Convention but may be withdrawn by the maker at any time before being amended or put to a vote.

Printing of Resolutions. Resolutions shall be read and printed in the journal. They shall not be printed as a proposal and only one enrolled copy shall be prepared unless otherwise specified in said resolution or ordered by majority vote of the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of Rule No. 25.

DELEGATE WICKS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks.

DELEGATE WICKS: The last paragraph in there is the part that has been amended. The purpose of this is for clarification of procedures and, also, for speed. With the first part of it, "Resolutions shall be read and printed in the journal," no motion is necessary to have it printed in the Journal. They will automatically be done so. The part about "enrolled" — "only one enrolled copy shall be prepared unless otherwise specified," is to save clerical time and to save some money, because the Committee shall specify the number of enrolled copies that it wants, and only this number then will have to be handled by the clerical staff.

I move the adoption of this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wicks moves the adoption of the amendment — proposed amendments to Rule No. 25.

Do we have a second?

DELEGATE POULSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Poulson. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the committee amendments are adopted.

Next for consideration is Rule 29.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 29. MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION.

Any delegate may move for a reconsideration of any question at the same or next two succeeding Convention days. ((or the)) The Committee on Style and Drafting may move for reconsideration on any subsequent day if notice of the intention to do so is given in writing to the clerk of the Convention who shall enter this notice in the journal.

The same majority shall be required to adopt a motion to reconsider as was required to take the original action.

After the same day and next two succeeding Convention days, it shall take a two-thirds vote for a motion to reconsider.

The motion for reconsideration cannot be made on the same question more than once in each Convention day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the proposed amendments to Rule No. 29.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: The changes made by the Rules Committee in Rule 29 was for the purpose of clarification and language improvement, and did not alter the original intent of the Rule.

Specifically, the changes made in the first paragraph, line 2, is just a deletion; and then, in the third paragraph, the additional words there — word change.

I move the adoption of Rule 29 as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fallgatter moved the adoption of Rule 29 as amended.

Do we have a second?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Trenbeath. Is there any question?

Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I have a question for the Committee, please, and it really is on the whole procedure, rather than on the amendment.

Do I understand correctly that after the same day or the next two days, only the Committee on Style and Drafting will move for a reconsideration? Is any delegate precluded? If not, do we not have some confusing wording here?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: No. The only change in that first paragraph was to make it clear that the Committee on Style and Drafting, if they wanted to move for reconsideration at a specified time — notice where it said “move for reconsideration on any subsequent day.” They must give a notice of their intention to do so, in writing. That only refers to the Style and Drafting. It does not refer to any delegate who wishes to make a motion to reconsider.

Was that your question?

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: I think you clarified part of my question. But now, to go back to the very start here: It says, “Any delegate may move for a reconsideration of any question at the same or next two succeeding Convention days.” And after that point, it never speaks again as to when I or you, as a delegate, could make a motion after that date.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. Chairman.

Up to that point, the only question: Any person — let’s just take a specified case as we understand it in the Rules Committee:

A delegate may move for a reconsideration at any time; but if you want to get it out of the two-thirds vote, you must vote that day on which you considered the proposal, or the next two succeeding days.

Now, after those three days, you still may move for a reconsideration at any time that is recognized by the Chair; but you must have the two-thirds vote.

Now, if we can make that any clearer in the Rule, we’ll be glad to do so.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. Chairman. With apologies to the Rules Committee for not having appeared at their meeting, I think that it would be better, since you have, in the third paragraph, the statement which relates to the vote on reconsideration, to — and I shall move then, if I may, and I do not have a copy at the desk — in the first paragraph, second line, to delete the words beginning “at the same or next two succeeding Convention days”.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you wish to delete that part?

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes, sir.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I can see some merit to Delegate Lander’s proposal there, because I can see the point that it’s become a little confused there, and I think that, since we put it down in the next paragraph, “After the next two succeeding days it will take two-thirds vote," I'm inclined to think his amendment has merit.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Lander and seconded by Delegate Engelter. If you'll read the proposed amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 29 of the Rules Committee Report be amended as follows:

In paragraph 1 of Rule 29, line 2, delete the words "at the same or next two succeeding Convention days".

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is that correct, Delegate Lander?

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the amendment — proposed amendment, and the motion has been seconded.

Now, is there any discussion?

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President. Delegate Butler.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: The present language as the Rule 29 is presented before us duplicates the method in which a rule can be brought for reconsideration, and I think it clarifies, even though it is repetitious. In the first paragraph, we're talking about anyone can move for reconsideration of the question during the day that they are debating the issue or for the following two days. Then, in the third paragraph, they just clarify it some more. After that period of time it shall take a two-thirds vote for a motion to reconsider. And I move that we oppose the amendment.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry, Delegate Butler. Did you make a motion? I didn't hear.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I request that the motion to amend be defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That it be defeated. Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: If this amendment is approved, it seems to me that it raises a question considering a majority required for approval of the motion to reconsideration — motion to reconsider by the Style and Drafting Committee, and it is my understanding that the motion to reconsider by Style and Drafting should always be approved by a majority vote — yes. Then I think, when you set up that — when you delete that first language, you require that the Style and Drafting Committee proposals — the motion to reconsider after those three days will take a two-thirds vote.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President. That point maybe should be clarified.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I think maybe that point should be clarified, because certainly, in the first paragraph, "The Committee on Style and Drafting may move for reconsideration on any subsequent day." That — we should make it clear — by a majority vote at any time. Isn't that your philosophy? So maybe we should put it in, if we have to put in an extra section. You know, the Committee on Rules has no objection at all to being asked to clarify things. That's what we are set as a committee for. So, Delegate Haugen, if you'd like to move an amendment, I'm sure it will be entertained by the Committee.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Without a little thought, I wouldn't exactly know how to word the amendment. It would simply be my opinion to say that "The Committee on Style and Drafting may move for reconsideration."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen, I believe we're in two fields of thought here. You do not have an amendment to Delegate Lander's amendment; so I think we better proceed with adopting or rejecting his amendment.

The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Lander and read from the desk.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I'd like to make a suggestion that might solve our problem.

I think our intent is that the delegate may move for a reconsideration the same or the next two succeeding days, with only the same vote by which the thing carried. In other words, 50 — generally it would be 50 votes. The Committee on Style and Drafting can move at any time for 50 votes. The same or the next two succeeding days, then a delegate may move, but it will take two-thirds vote, and I'm wondering if maybe we would leave the language in that Delegate Lander attempts to delete, and then go down to the third paragraph and strike the second line, so that that will — and insert this language, and I'll make an amendment, if this is defeated. "After the same and next two succeeding Convention days, a delegate may move for reconsideration, which shall take a two-thirds vote."

If that wouldn't clearly indicate what we're trying to do — if the Convention agrees with that, I would urge you to defeat the proposed amendment, and then I would make that new amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the proposed amendment as offered by Delegate Lander to Rule 29.

Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Simonson.

DELEGATE SIMONSON: A point of information.

If this amendment passes and we delete "at the same or next two succeeding Convention days" down in the third paragraph, then, after "the same day and next two succeeding Convention days", to which days do those refer then? It seems to me we've lost some continuity. I've lost it, anyway. What "same day and next two succeeding Convention days" are we then referring to in the third paragraph, if we delete the "the same or next two succeeding Convention days" in that second line?

Will someone clarify that, please?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: The real meat of the first sentence now: If we accept Delegate Lander's amendment, and I don't see why we need such a sentence. "Any delegate may move for reconsideration of any question." That section is very important because, in most parliamentary rules, you have to vote on the prevailing side; and so, for that reason, I would feel that the first sentence as amended by Delegate Lander would be a sentence that is very necessary. Any delegate may move for a reconsideration of the question.

Then, going down to the next-to-the-last paragraph, the same — now that's the day that you consider the proposal, and the next two succeeding days, a delegate must have a two-thirds vote to be able to get a favorable vote on the reconsideration. We have assumed that it takes a majority vote in the first two instances.

Now, if we can clarify when it takes a two-thirds vote and when it doesn't, both for the Style and Drafting and for the — any delegate who should produce it. I think we must have that first sentence either stated by itself, without amendment, or with amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President, I plead with the Convention to not disturb, or to accept this amendment as given. The interrelationship between the two paragraphs is most important. I recognize, having known Mrs. Geelan for a long time, her kindness and her wanting to let people have their say; but, in this instance, I think she's been too kind in giving up too easily, and that we should retain "any delegate may move for reconsideration the same or next two succeeding days." Then "After the same or next two succeeding Convention days, it shall take a two-thirds vote for a motion to reconsider." These are so inter-related that we must retain them; otherwise, we lose the content, context and intent of the Rules Committee in this respect.

Therefore, I ask that you defeat this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Would it be workable if that sentence relating to the Style and Drafting Committee were moved to the end? Does that make it — make the sense you're trying to get out of it?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President, one thing more.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I wonder at this time — I think we're taking too much time of the Convention. I think we better do our homework. I would re-refer the report of the Committee as it relates to Rule 29 to the Rules Committee.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that we re-refer Rule 29 to the Rules Committee. Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, those in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Rule 29 will be re-referred to the Procedural Committee on Rules.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: May we be on the twelfth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President, I would like to offer a motion at this time as follows:

That at 9:30 A.M., Wednesday, January 19th, the Convention go on the fifth order of business for the purpose of hearing the Committee Report on Committee Proposal 1-53.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Saugstad.

Now —

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Committee Proposal 1-53 is the proposal which would delete Section 23, denominated as the Right-to-Work section, to which Committee Report is attached a minority report incorporating the language of the Burbridge proposal, 2-78. This motion would bring before the Convention the critical right-to-work issue for full debate.

The Calendar Committee is the sponsor of the motion which I have just offered, it being the opinion of the Calendar Committee that, as with the one house - two house issue, a time certain for debate on the right-to-work issue would facilitate scheduling by the news media, as well as by the delegates who will be participating in the debate.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

The proposed motion will be read — or the motion will be read by the Clerk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: It has been moved that at 9:30 A.M., Wednesday, January 19, the Convention go on the fifth order of business for the purpose of hearing the Committee Report on Committee Proposal 1-53.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the motion; the question moving for a time certain on the Committee Report on No. 1-53.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and then Wednesday, at a time certain we will hear the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-53.

Without objection, we will move to the tenth order of business.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-62.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-62, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 15 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to not being imprisoned for debt.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 15 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"No person shall be imprisoned for debt."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any discussion? Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President. 1-62, we decided to — in Committee — to eliminate some of the wording of the present section because of the length of the present section. We left the first seven words of the present section, but we actually took out "unless upon the refusal to deliver up his estate for the benefit of his creditors, in such manner as shall be prescribed by law; or in cases of tort; or where there is strong presumption of fraud."

We didn't feel that additional language was necessary in the Constitution and, therefore, recommend that we only use the words which are in 1-62.

We recommend the passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-62.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates. I'm, I guess I might say, mildly opposed to deleting this language, and my reasons are because of the statutes found in Section — or Chapter 32-36 of the Century Code, which relate to a father's obligation for an illegitimate child. The provisions provide that if custody payment is not made, that they could jail this father, and it has been appealed — this particular provision — and has been upheld in the Supreme Court. However, at the time — and it's rather an old case — at the time the Supreme Court said that because of the peculiar nature of a father's responsibility for his children, that Section 15 did not apply and that the limitation on imprisoning for debt then would not be valid.

Now, my concern rested around the fact that in that particular argument the defense counsel said that — or argued the subject of whether or not there is a contract responsibility between father and child and — well, I don't remember the exact date of the case — it runs in my mind it's back in 1918 or 1919 — at that time the Court said that there was not any contract relationship.

Now, the thing that kind of bothers me about it is, if the courts were to determine that this might be a particular relationship as such, then a provision in a paternity action, if we eliminate the language which calls for "unless upon refusal to deliver up his estate for the benefit of his creditors," then I think it might be found to be an unconstitutional provision, and I know of no other way, other than the honor of the father, to support his illegitimate children, because you have taken away the penalty part of it.

My objection is, I guess, probably based on an assumption that some court might, along the line, think that there is a contractual relationship or third-party beneficiary contractual relationship, or something like this, and I haven't had an opportunity to check and determine this, and I don't know how far the Committee has gone in their consideration.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: We did consider this possibility, not only as it would provide for illegitimate children, but as it would provide to failure to support as a result of a divorce judgment, and it is the Committee's feeling that in any event, the Court, after having rendered judgment — and, incidentally, that's the only way that you can force a father to support an illegitimate child, is to have a finding that he is the child's father and that he should support — that the Court then would have the right to put the father in jail for contempt, and which would be much better than just any kind of a misdemeanor or a penalty clause.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-62.

Hearing no further discussion, those in favor of the adoption of the proposal will vote "aye;" those opposed "no."

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 78 "ayes," 15 "nays," five delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-62 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-63.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-63, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 18 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to search and seizure.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 18 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The people shall have the right to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and other possessions against unreasonable searches, seizures, invasions of privacy or unreasonable interception of communications by any artificial sensory device. No warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: As you can see, the Committee has gone quite a bit further than the 1889 Constitution and has amended it. In addition to search seizures, it has given guarantee against unreasonable invasions of privacy and interception of communications.

Further, we have gone this way — "by any artificial sensory device" — and this is aimed at such devices as wire tapping, sound devices, electronic devices, and all sorts of devices. We have left it open in "sensory" for unseen devices that may be developed in the future that may invade privacy or interrupt communications.

The Committee struggled very greatly, as did the committees in Alaska and New York and Illinois, as to the use of which word in describing the curtailment of this unreasonable interruption of privacy and communication.

Now, we used the word "sensory," and I suppose I may have had something to do with that use of that word, because being a physician and a psychiatrist, I know that the only way that any sense or any communication coming from one person to another has to come by way of our five senses; and that is, for any person to detect or understand what another person does or says, it has to go through the eyes, ears, nose and touch, and so forth.

We feel that this would encompass wire tapping, sound devices, telescopic devices, cameras, and even radio communication devices, because it has to come through the other individual's sense organs to be understood. We used the "artificial," of course, to delete it from the normal sense organs.

Now, the last paragraph was left there for our law enforcement officials to use and make use of: "No warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on —

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Delegate Pearce, you're crowding me.

(Laughter)

Mr. President, I would like to ask a member of the Committee. The only place in this section that warrants are mentioned — it says "No warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause . . ." Does this imply that a warrant must be issued for a — a search warrant must be issued or not?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will a member of the Committee answer Delegate Rundle's question?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Yes, that is the way we understand it.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, Mr. President, wouldn't it be better if it's stated then — you must have a search warrant? All it is is by implication — "No warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause." I don't see anything about any search warrant or otherwise.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: This, I might say, is the same wording as the last sentence in the old Section 18, and it reads — may I read it again, because I think it's misunderstood or I'm confused. "No warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, I'd like to ask Delegate O'Toole a question — or some Committee member.

The word "artificial" there just doesn't seem to be the right word in that position. I would think it would be "mechanical" or "electronic." The word "artificial" — is this taken from case law, either in our State, other states or the U. S. Court decisions? The word "artificial" just doesn't seem to be proper in that position.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Along the same line, I would like the Committee to answer further description of the word "artificial," and I question whether this might apply to the binoculars that the game warden uses to identify the line of communication between the hunter and the overhead duck out in the middle of the slough that he can't probably shoot. Are we taking in too broad a scope? Are we trying to write a constitution for today, when 20 years from now, these present aids to interception will be outmoded by the laser beam, or have you — are you trying to cover too much ground?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. President. Mr. Paulson, I don't think we're covering too much ground. There's a lot of these devices that are already in use very frequently. We, in the Bill of Rights Committee, we went under the assumption that we are protecting the rights of the individual. We try to leave some leeway for the law enforcement officials. But it is very important, I think, in this day and age, that the rights of the individual are protected.

And then on to the second part of it, this is the word "artificial," which, of course, may mean anything other than what is normally used, and I — we struggled with many other words and many other phrases. We felt that wire — you know,

“use of wire tapping” and “electronic devices” were too narrow, because we do now have these very subtle sound devices. So we felt that we’re protecting the rights of the individual, but giving the law enforcement officials the leeway that they generally need.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. May I point out that the word “artificial” is composed of two Latin roots, meaning manufactured or made by art and not natural.

The question here of the Committee is whether or not the human ear listens to something and whether it’s amplified in any way and whether that would be barred, which is the same question, I take it, that Delegate Paulson raises as to whether the magnification of the binoculars would be an artificial device enhancing the powers of vision.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: Mr. President, I would like to point out that we have the word “unreasonable” searches, seizures, et cetera, and this, we thought, would take care of things like this, even allowing your game wardens’ binoculars.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I might ask who is going to determine whether it’s reasonable or unreasonable? I really don’t care for some of the wording of this section. I don’t know whether it should go back to Committee or not; but I don’t like it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President. The theory is that if law enforcement officers have a suspect or have a house where they feel that there is unlawful activity being conducted, then it would be their duty under this provision to go before a magistrate — a judge, a judicial officer — and to convince that judge under oath that there is reasonable grounds to believe that there is unlawful activity going on; and if he can convince the judge, then he would be entitled to a warrant permitting the use of wire tapping or any of these sophisticated eavesdropping devices that modern science has introduced into our society. However, the Committee felt that the right to privacy is an important one that should be carefully circumscribed and that without some showing — some reasonable showing before a judicial officer, that everyone should be protected from invasion of their privacy, and we have set that out quite clearly in this provision. “. . . invasions of privacy or unreasonable interception of communications by any artificial sensory device.”

Let me address myself momentarily to the proposition of the game warden and the binoculars. I don’t believe that this involves an interception of a communication, and that is the point that the Committee is concerned with in this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. I’m sure the Committee considered this, but I wish some of the attorneys or the Judge would clarify it a little bit.

It’s always been, in a federal court, and the state courts, too, a rule of law that you could search under three different means — if you had a search warrant or after arrest or by written consent. Where does the written consent and the after-arrest part — where is that considered in here or would that be considered under the part “unreasonable search”? It would be reasonably assumed if you arrested the man, then searched or got his written consent.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President. Yes. As to the matters of consent and a search in connection with a lawful arrest, I think that the initial — the original provisions of the Constitution would still control that type of a situation, and we have made no alteration in that portion of it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, I would like to speak in opposition to the proposal as it is before the group.

Not only do I have these same objections that Delegates Paulson and Pearce have expressed, but I also wonder if the second sentence, where "No warrants shall issue" — does that contemplate issuing a warrant for wire tapping? Surely that was not part of the original Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman, may I read Article IV of the United States Constitution?

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrant shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

U. S. Constitution, Article IV.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

While I recognize the statement is in the United States Constitution, I am going to vote "no" due simply to the inclusion of the phrase "by any article" — excuse me — "by any artificial sensory device," as the same appears on line 13. I think perhaps we are going too far at this point of time anticipating current problems and future unknown problems. I think by including that, we are possibly limiting ourselves to something we will not be able to put up with so far as criminal law is concerned and rights and safety of people in the future; and for that reason, I would urge a "no" vote on reconsideration.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 63.

Hearing no further discussion, those favoring the adoption of the proposal will vote "aye," those opposed vote "nay."

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 51 "ayes," 5 — oh, no! This can't be right! You have 42 absent. (Laughter)

The roll call discloses 51 "ayes," 42 "nays" five delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-63 has passed.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I might explain my vote.

I realize that 42 voted against it; but my feeling is that we're tending to coddle criminals. I don't like this, and, therefore, I voted "no." And I would also indicate to the Committee that this was not a mandate by any means, and I would urge that it be returned to the Committee on Bill of Rights for reconsideration in their Committee.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are you moving to reconsider the action?

DELEGATE UNRUH: Moving to re-refer it to the Committee for further action.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No — no, that is out of order.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. Chairman, I will withdraw that motion.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: The Committee felt that this was just the opposite of coddling criminals; but, rather, giving greater authority to police officers and those concerned with law enforcement, our fear being that without this additional authority to get search warrants to do these things, perhaps in the original language it might be that they could not.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: May we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I move that the Convention reconsider its action in passing Committee Proposal 1-25.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson moves that the Convention reconsider its action whereby it passed Committee Proposal No. 1-63. Now, do we have a second?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No. 1-25.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: That was 1-25.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-25.

DELEGATE SINNER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: The purpose in asking for reconsideration is to move an amendment, if reconsideration is granted.

The amendment would strike the words in subsection (b) ". . . except in any bill making appropriations of money or property for the operation of the legislative assembly or its permanent or interim agencies."

It is almost inconceivable to me, Mr. President, that one branch of government should have its appropriation immune from veto. For example, some future governor may want to veto travel funds of the Legislative Council.

Mr. President, also, the concept of having a legislative assembly appropriation reserved from veto does not sit well with our concept of coequal branches of government. That is why I move for reconsideration.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: A point of information.

If we pass this motion on reconsideration, is the floor open then on the general bill, then, or only on the amendment that Dobson is talking about?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: If you move to reconsider, the bill is before the Convention in the same position it was at the time that proposal was adopted.

DELEGATE CHASE: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the motion to reconsider Committee Proposal No. 1-25.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I fully support this motion. I have been in the Legislature and I fully support it. I feel that one of the weakest things we could do, as far as public opinion is concerned, is to go out and say the Legislature may set its own salary, with no restrictions. This is very unpopular. It's been tried many times. I think this is a very good suggestion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question, then, is on Delegate Dobson's motion to reconsider action on Committee Proposal No. 1-25.

As many as favor the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and the Committee Proposal No. 1-25 is before you.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I have an amendment at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-25 be amended as follows:

On Page 1 of the engrossed bill, in line 15, following the word "bills", delete the comma and insert in lieu thereof, on Page 1 — insert in lieu thereof a period. Then, on Page 1, delete lines 16 and 17. On Page 1, line 18, delete the word "agencies" and renumber the lines accordingly.

DELEGATE LANDER: Will you repeat it?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I think —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roy, would you read it again?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I'll try to read it as the proposal would read with the amendment.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Am I in order to make a substitute motion? I can't make a substitute motion, but what I would like to propose — and I'm going to, as soon as this motion is approved, if it is — I would move this bill be — proposal be placed at the foot of the calendar, to give the Committee some time and the delegates some time to consider it. Would that motion be accepted at this time?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet, I would rule that, if you wish to lay the matter over one Convention day in order that the proposal can be printed and laid on the desk of each delegate, I would go along with that motion.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, if you will accept that motion, I'll make that motion, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes. Delegate Hernet moves that the proposed amendments — that the Proposal No. 1-25 be laid over one Convention day in order that the delegates can have the proposed amendment on the desk and see how it actually reads at that point.

Now, do we have a second to that motion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Litten.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be laid over one Convention day.

DELEGATE VOGEL: May I ask a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Is it possible to offer any other amendment to that proposal, other than the one proposed by Mr. Dobson, at the time that it is reconsidered?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, ma'am, it is. When it comes back and is on the tenth order — it will be on the sixth order, and then it will be on the tenth order; then, at that time, you could reconsider it. It will not be on the sixth order. It will be on the tenth order, and at that time you can make any further amendments you wish.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Would there be any way of getting that proposed amendment that I have in mind before the Convention at this time?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I do not believe you can get it before the Convention at this time; however, there would be nothing wrong with you having your proposed amendment prepared and placed on the desk of each of the delegates.

DELEGATE VOGEL: At the same time. Thank you very much.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Why don't you proceed to read —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: You do not have the engrossed bill in your Bill Book, and when it was engrossed, the line numbers changed. So, as it would read if the amendment were adopted:

You start with Section b). "The governor may veto a bill passed by the legislative assembly. He may, by veto, strike items in appropriation bills."

Then the rest would be deleted, and portion — "Portions of the bill not vetoed shall become law."

And that is how it would read, if the amendment were adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you have anything further at the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: We've got some announcements.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Announcements? We'll be on the eighth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Executive Functions Committee will meet one-and-one-half-hours after Plenary Session on Monday, January 17th, in Room G-5 and 6.

Keys to the Senate locker rooms are available to the women delegates and can be picked up in the Constitutional Convention staff office.

Again, you are reminded to keep your receipts for lodging. If you are staying in a hotel or motel, the receipt must show the single rate, if husband or wife is with the delegate. This will speed the processing of the travel vouchers, and they must have the travel vouchers in by January 3rd — 31st.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further at the desk? Are there any further announcements?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: May I announce the Rules Committee will meet at 8:30 tomorrow morning — at 8:30 — in the Lewis and Clark Room?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan announces the Rules Committee will meet at 8:30 tomorrow morning at the Lewis and Clark Room.

Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President, I would like to announce a meeting of the Executive Functions Committee, oh, about two o'clock, a quarter-to-two, or somewhere in there, and I'd also like to mention, also, Mr. President, that I'm real appreciative of the letter and the parking sticker from the Mayor of Bismarck and the City of Bismarck, for two reasons; the first reason is because I like the parking sticker; and the second reason: I've been wondering when the Convention was going to be over, and now I know. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. The Judicial Functions Committee will meet in its usual place at two o'clock.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further? Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: For the information of the delegates, it was discussed in Calendar Committee that the substantive committees will have finished their public hearings, or presumably will have finished their public hearings — on Wednesday. That means, then, that we can remain in session into the afternoon and less time will be devoted to committee hearings.

Now, these committee hearings will probably be called at an hour such as three or four o'clock — probably four o'clock — beginning on Thursday. We do have public hearings scheduled for Monday — today, Tuesday, and I believe there is one committee having hearings scheduled on Wednesday. But, after Wednesday, that means, then, that we can begin to run our regular full sessions into the afternoon.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate — we'll continue on the twelfth order of business, and Delegate Christensen moves that the absent delegates be excused.

May I have a second?

Seconded by Delegate Rundle.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the absent delegates are excused.

Anything further at the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: One announcement.

I have had two of the delegates tell me that they — their vote was on the voting board, but it did not register as voting on the print-out, and, therefore, did not get in the Journal. I talked to the voting machine men, who are here working on it, and they say if the light is on, there is not supposed to be any way that it does not punch your vote on the print-out; but I — we've had trouble in the past. I don't know what the new switch is, but please watch. Sometimes the switches pop back off, and if you see yours do that, please get up and announce your vote immediately, so we can get it into the record correctly. But they tell me, if your light's on and stays on, it is supposed to be punched out, because there's no way electronically that it won't punch out. Evidently, we broke the rules already on the new machine. If you see your light go out right away or your button switch back, will you please get up and announce your vote?

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I'd like to announce that those of you on Style and Drafting Committee plan your evenings. We'll be meeting this Wednesday at eight o'clock to begin our arduous task.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hardmeyer.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: The Legislative Functions Committee will meet at two o'clock in the usual place.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further announcements? Hearing none — Stan?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Is the desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The desk is clear.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Oh, I beg your pardon. Did you want a motion — we have not adopted the permanent rules yet. Did you want to move those proposals that we passed on to the Style and Drafting Committee — namely, 1-40, 1-56, 1-58, 1-59, 1-61, 1-62 and 1-63?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: In case there's any question, I suppose we could take the motion; but we did adopt that rule, Stan. We did adopt that one rule.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Okay.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: So I'm sure that that is accurate.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: All right. Then no further announcements? I now move that we adjourn until 9:00 A.M., January 18th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that we now adjourn until 9:00 A.M. on January 18th. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE SIMONSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Simonson.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we will be adjourned until tomorrow morning.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 12:25 P.M., Monday, January 17, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Tuesday, January 18, 1972.)

VOLUME XII

(January 18, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The twelfth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:05 A.M., Tuesday, January 18, 1972, Second Vice President Stanley Saugstad presiding, as follows:)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The House of Delegates will come to order.

This morning the invocation will be given by Reverend John Miller, Baptist Temple Church of Mandan.

REV. JOHN MILLER: Let us pray.

Our Father, we call upon You in prayer knowing that You will hear us as we come before You with a hunger to know Your will.

We give thanks for Your Creation, which You have allowed us to enjoy.

We thank You for Your presence always — for Your love that is always directed toward us through Jesus Christ.

And we give thanks for Your gifts to our bountiful State of North Dakota and to its people.

Lord, these delegates are making decisions about a constitution that will guide the people of North Dakota for a long time, and we ask for Your divine direction for these delegates.

We ask that You would give the delegates an ability to listen to You, an ability to listen to each other as they make decisions, and, above all, we ask that You give us the ability to put together a constitution that will help us live in peace and harmony, with freedom to complete Your will in our lives.

We give thanks for the day, for the opportunities and the privileges and the responsibilities of it.

In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Next, we will be on the third order of business — Roll Call.

The key will be opened. You may record your presence.

Has everyone indicated their presence? The key will be closed and the Clerk will take the roll.

The roll call discloses 90 present, eight absent. We have a quorum.

Next we shall be on the fourth order of business — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 14th day of January, 1972, and recommends the same be corrected as follows:

On page 187, line 2, following the word "accordingly" insert the following: "which motion prevailed."

And when so corrected, recommends the same be approved.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moved that the report be adopted.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: You have heard the motion. All in favor signify by saying "aye," opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it. The motion carried.

Next we're on the —

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: May we be on the twelfth order of business?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We may be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE HERNETT: At this time I would like to move that Delegate — or Committee Proposal No. 1-25 be re-referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE CHASE: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE HERNETT: The reason being that we have appointed a sub-committee of our Committee, to meet with a like committee — the Legislative Functions Committee — and we have another bill which will be under consideration by them, too, and this is probably the — it's a proposition where there's an overlap of these two Committees' work, and I imagine that we're going to have some more of this before this Session is over.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Representative Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: There's an amendment pending at the desk. That should be withdrawn, I believe.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Dobson has requested permission to withdraw the proposed amendment to Proposal No. 1-25.

Does anyone have any objection? Hearing none, Delegate Dobson has the unanimous consent to withdraw his amendment, and the request is granted.

Now we're on the motion.

Representative Sinner — or Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: May the record show that I'm present, please?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Let the record show that Delegate Sinner is present.

DELEGATE KELSCH: May the record show that Delegate Kelsch is present?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Let the record show that Delegate Kelsch is present.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President, let the record show that Delegate McIntyre is present.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Let the record show that Delegate McIntyre is present.

We are now on the motion of Delegate Hernettt that Proposal 1-25 be — which committee was this? — be re-referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

All of those in favor, signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it and Delegate Proposal 1-25 will be re-referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

We will now be on the fifth order — Report of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A majority of your Committee of Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-11 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Longmire, Roney, Engelter, Fallgatter, Gipp, Hartl, Hougen, Kessel, Kretschmar, Rundle, Wallin and Warner.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moved that the report be adopted.

Mr. President: A minority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-11 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the report of the majority be amended; and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Aubol, Bassingthwaite and Hoghaug.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Aubol moved that the report of the minority be adopted.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Representative Longmire — or Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: In checking the desk here of Delegate Hoghaug, it seems that he is absent today, and since he is on the minority side of this proposal that's before the Convention at this time, and I know that he would want to be heard, I move that we lay this report over one legislative day in order to permit Delegate Hoghaug to state his position on the report.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE RONEY: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Roney. Any further discussion?

Hearing none, we are on the motion of Delegate Longmire that further consideration of the Committee Report on Proposal 1-11 be laid over one Convention day.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it. The motion carries.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: May I ask a question, please?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes.

DELEGATE LANDER: Do I understand that since this has a majority and a minority report — for example, we would have discussed it this morning, and in this instance we will discuss it tomorrow morning; is that correct or not?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes, I believe that is correct.

DELEGATE LANDER: Then, if so, is there — do I have and can't find the information that I should have and know what I'm talking about, so that I know what the majority amendment is and I know what the minority report is, and so that I know what the minority amendment is?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lander, by tomorrow there will be printed in the Journal the majority and minority report.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I think I'm almost repeating what Delegate Lander said. But as I look at this, there's no way we, as delegates not on this Committee and perhaps more uninformed than the rest, can do any homework in preparation for this majority and minority report that's coming in in the morning. It comes to the floor and the discussion goes on immediately. Is that my understanding — under the fifth order?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We are — the House of Delegates will be voting, of course, on the Committee Report, to either adopt or reject one or both of the Committee Reports. I believe that under the motion that was accepted, by Delegate Longmire, that this will appear on the following Convention day, which will be tomorrow, and — but it will be — the report of the majority and the report of the minority of the Judicial Functions Committee will be printed in the Journal; but I'm assuming that the Journal will not be on — the printed Journal will not be on your desk, probably, until tomorrow morning.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: There's no other place where we can refer to what the minority report is going to be?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I could answer it this way:

I believe, by a motion from the floor, it could be requested that either a duplicate copy — that is, a mimeographed copy, or something like that — be placed on the desks of all of the delegates.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: By way of some explanation and help to the delegate — even though it's out of order at this time — I suppose we could be on some order where it could be discussed — it's just to state this one brief thing about what these reports are.

With few minor exceptions, the only difference between these reports — or the only major difference is that the majority report elects judges; the minority report will appoint judges, and the necessary language to carry out those two methods is what we will be debating tomorrow, and I'm sure that the majority will state their position very clearly, very convincingly, and that is the issue.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hernettt.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I'd just like to make one comment.

I think what Delegate Hendrickson is getting at there really is no solution to it. On a committee report coming in, unless somebody takes the time and the trouble to explain to each delegate what is probably going to happen the next morning, they're not going to have any way of knowing what the committee reports are going to recommend. There is no simple answer to our problem, at least. Maybe there is, but, ordinarily, there isn't.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. A very simple solution, I'd find, is just to give the page — I just sent a note to Delegate Aubol and said, "In a thousand words or less, what's the score?" (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further comment?

Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President. I feel that this can be of vital importance because, in our particular Judicial and Political Subdivisions Committee the report coming in tomorrow as a minority report is only one of a few others to follow, and I feel that we are going to also have this position occur as far as the other committees are concerned, and if I'm in order under any of the particular topics, let us move to that order, and then I would so move that from this time forward that when the body has a minority report, that copies of that minority report be furnished to each desk one day prior to consideration of the report, so that we all have the opportunity to observe, read and discuss the issues.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: In answer to Delegate Hartl: Now, remember this: I just happen to be sitting here, and I would not care to make a final decision on this; but the suggestion that I am offering is this:

That any — first of all, the desk force does not know ahead of time which reports will be coming in from the committee with a majority and minority report; so they have usually no advance notice. Secondly, I believe that actually about the only way that this matter could be handled would be that at the time a minority report is read from this desk, that any delegate may move to have it laid over for one or more Convention days or to a time certain, and then also request that copies be made of the minority report or the majority and minority report and be placed on the desk of each delegate.

Now, Delegate Hartl, did you wish — you did not quite make a formal motion, but did you wish to put your idea in the form of a motion?

DELEGATE HARTL: I thought I had, Mr. President, and I would so move at this time, since I do know that there are two minority reports with reference to the Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions Committee. I would move that the minority report with reference to Section 1 — or Committee Proposal 1-11 be furnished to each delegate of the Convention.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second to that motion?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Vogel seconds the motion.

Any discussion?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. I am wondering why the Delegate limited it to just the minority report. Does he want both reports before them for study?

DELEGATE HARTL: I do, Mr. President; but it was my understanding that the majority report already appears as the committee proposal in our book. If it does not, I would then amend the motion to also include the majority report.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Does the second — Delegate Vogel — accept the amended version of Delegate Hartl?

DELEGATE VOGEL: I do.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. Any further discussion?

We're on the motion, then, of — or the question is on the passage of Delegate Hartl's motion to accept —

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: I think the Delegates should be aware of the implication on this matter for tomorrow's business. We have moved that an order come before us tomorrow — or a proposal come before us tomorrow that has a majority report and a minority report, and if this motion prevails — and I'm rather sympathetic to it — I think we should be aware that the staff will have to get out today the issue before us tomorrow.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We are on the motion of Delegate Hartl that a copy of the majority report and minority report or minority reports on Delegate — or Committee Proposal No. 1-11 be placed on the desk of each delegate.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Delegate Hartl's motion is only on 1-11. When we have a delegate proposal, that is, in essence, the same thing as a minority report, and we know that it's coming up. I don't feel then we need this printed material any more than I feel we need the majority report, because the majority report has to be the proposal; right?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: No.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: No?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: No.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: How does it differ?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Completely.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I mean I have to know these things before the show gets going.

DELEGATE HERNETT: What's the difference between a majority report and a proposal as printed in the Journal?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: If you'll just hesitate here for a moment.

A majority report means — or could contain the following language: "Strike everything after the title and insert the following." So it could be completely new language.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Oh! All right.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: And it is pretty much so! (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We are on the motion of Delegate Hartl that a majority and minority report be printed in some manner and placed on each delegate's desk.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it. The motion carried. It will be done.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Would I be in order to move that the majority-minority reports be considered on Thursday, instead of tomorrow; that they be placed on the calendar an additional legislative day or Convention day?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: In other words, you would move to have the Committee Report considered at a time certain, and that date being —

DELEGATE AUBOL: Thursday, the 20th.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes. Thursday, January 20th. You're — that is in order.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I would so move.

DELEGATE HARTL: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Hartl. And the motion is —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, speaking on the motion. It so happens, Mr. President, that I have to go back for personal business Wednesday night on a plane to Grand Forks, and I'll be back here by nine o'clock the next morning, Thursday, on the plane, if the weather permits; and if it didn't permit, I wouldn't want to have this debated in my absence.

Now, I'd have no objections to it going to Friday or tomorrow or any other day; but in view of the fact that I might get caught in the weather, I would not be here, naturally, for this discussion.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. One reason for the request for the extra day is because the position of the minority is going to be a substantive discussion on Wednesday evening at the Highway Building, along with some other issues before the Convention, and I'm sure that the Convention, if Delegate Longmire is not back on Thursday, would not take action on it — on this.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: A motion at that time — excuse me.

A motion at that time would certainly be in order to lay it over for an additional day. Fine.

We are now on the motion of Delegate Aubol that the consideration of the majority and minority report on Proposal 1-11 be laid over until Thursday, January 20th.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it. The motion carries.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President. I am present.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hubrig will be marked present.

We are now back on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A majority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-14 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended; and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Hoghaug, Rundle, Gipp, Hartl and Aubol.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Hoghaug moved that the Report be adopted.

Mr. President: —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: This sounds okay. I'm not so sure — were you reading the majority report or the minority report?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: That was the majority report.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, then something has gone wrong, Mr. President, because that doesn't sound like the people who are on the majority; and if that is the majority report, I would move that back to the Committee so that we can get it straightened out. But if that was the majority report, we'll buy it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No. I read the wrong names. I'm sorry.

On the majority — on the majority report is Delegates Longmire, Roney, Bassingthwaite, Engelter, Fallgatter, Hougen, Kessel, Kretschmar, Wallin and Warner.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moved that the report of the majority be adopted.

Mr. President: A minority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-14 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended; and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Hoghaug moved that the report of the minority be substituted for the report of the majority.

Delegates Hoghaug, Rundle, Gipp, Hartl and Aubol.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. The same reason exists here for carrying this report over, since Delegate Hoghaug was the main sponsor in the minority report.

So I move that this be laid over one legislative day, for the same reason, so that he can be heard on his side of the report.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Representative Rundle seconds the motion.

Is there any further discussion? Hearing none, all those in favor of laying the committee reports — this is 1-14? — committee report on Proposal 1-14 be laid over one Convention day. All in favor signify by saying "aye," opposed "nay." The motion is carried.

Now —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. I don't think it's necessary to print these two reports. Briefly, what they both relate to is the description of the boundaries of the State. The majority brought an engineer and called Washington and brought the description up to modern-day language and tied it down more definitely. The minority wanted to keep the old description that appeared in the 1889 Constitution and change nothing. So those are the two reports, and you can be guided accordingly.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I don't know what order, but that demands a little answer, I feel, from the minority.

As a matter of the minority, the real reason that we object to the change in language is because our affable Chairman Longmire lives within a few feet of the Minnesota border. Many delegates live on the Canadian border, and some on the other borders, and we are afraid that the one expert of one, mind you — one expert we listened to — might possibly move Delegate Longmire into Minnesota, and we didn't want to risk that.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Rundle, you are somewhat out of order. We are not discussing the substance of it. This was merely to hold this committee report over for one Convention day. Thank you.

We are still on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-11 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-11.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moved that the report be adopted.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

Delegate Proposal 2-11 is a very long proposal that was submitted by Delegate Engelter. The Committee is very much indebted to Delegate Engelter for all the time that he spent on this proposal, because much of the content of his proposal was included in 1-11. It also served another great purpose or value to the Committee, because we more or less started out from the beginning on that proposal as kind of a working draft, and we used it at one time or another throughout our deliberations on 1-11. And so we have discussed this matter with Delegate Engelter. We wanted to give him credit for his proposal. Even though it's being given a decent burial, it served a great purpose during its life, and Delegate Engelter is in full accord with the Committee report to indefinitely postpone it, since it has been included — a lot of it — in the other proposals?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, we are on the motion of the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions that Delegate Proposal 2-11 be indefinitely postponed.

All those in favor signify by saying "aye," opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it. The motion carried.

We are on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Reference of Proposals to Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-98, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 16 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to bills of attainder, ex post facto laws and obligations of contracts, be retained."

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The Committee Proposal 1-98 will be referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

Tenth order. We'll now be on the tenth order of business — Consideration of Proposals.

First on the calendar is Committee Proposal — yes, Committee Proposal 1-23, which has been amended. Page 178 of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-23, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 174, 175, 178, 179 and 186 be repealed; and that new sections to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to finance and taxation and state moneys.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 174, 175, 178, 179 and 186 are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"RAISING OF REVENUES. The legislative assembly shall provide for the raising of revenues sufficient to defray the expenses of this state for each year. A two-thirds vote of the members-elect in each house of the legislative assembly may provide an annual property tax, based on value, for state purposes for not in excess of two years unless re-enacted.

"SECTION 3.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"LEGAL BASIS FOR TAXES. No tax shall be levied except in pursuance of law, and every law imposing a tax shall state distinctly the object of the same, to which only it shall be applied. Notwithstanding any provision of this constitution, laws imposing taxes on or measured by income may be defined, measured and imposed by reference to the provisions of the laws of the United States as the same may be or become effective at any time, and such state laws may prescribe exceptions or modifications to any such provisions.

"SECTION 4.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"NO SURRENDER OF TAX POWER. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered or suspended, except as provided in this constitution by any grant or contract to which the state or any county or other municipal corporation shall be a party.

"SECTION 5.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"PROPERTY ASSESSMENT. All taxable property except as hereinafter provided in this section shall be taxed or assessed in the taxing district in which it is situated as provided by law. The property of railroads and public and private utilities, except highway common carriers, while used for their intended purposes and unless otherwise provided by law shall be taxed or assessed by a state board or commission.

"SECTION 6.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"DEPOSIT OF STATE MONEYS. All state moneys from whatever source derived, except as otherwise provided by this constitution or by law, shall be paid over monthly by the public official, employee, agent, director, manager, board, bureau, or institution of the state receiving the same, to the state treasurer, and deposited by him to the credit of the state, and shall be paid out and disbursed only as provided by law."

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any discussion? Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

The Finance and Taxation Committee, which is chairmanned by Mr. Donnell Haugen, believes that at this time that there should be a general discussion of the philosophy of the Finance and Taxation Committee with regard to this proposal, as well as succeeding proposals which will come on the floor.

The Finance and Taxation Committee had the benefit of many citizen groups appearing, such as North Dakota Farm Bureau, the North Dakota Farmers Union, the Stockmen's Association, the County Commissioners Association, Township Supervisors Association, League of Cities, Assessors Association, General Contractors, Greater North Dakota Association, AFL - CIO, School Boards Association, Education Association, Liquor Dealers Association and many others. From these groups our Committee not only analyzed their desires and hopes as to tax matters, but in many instances we were given the suggested language for certain constitutional sections.

In addition to citizens' groups, our Committee had the benefit of probably more experts in the field of taxation than any other committee. Because the work of the Finance and Taxation Committee is highly technical, we had the complete cooperation of the Attorney General's office, the State Tax Department, the Bank of North Dakota, a bonding expert from Minneapolis, the Chief Executive of this State, the Lieutenant Governor, the Industrial Commission, the Agricultural Commissioner, the State Auditor, and many others very knowledgeable in this field. Perhaps the greatest help our Committee received in analyzing and sifting all of this material was from our hard-working staff attorney, Dave Peterson.

Our Committee has not only looked into the future to anticipate our state's needs, such as, in the field of irrigation, but we have also looked backward and borrowed language from our present Constitution, as well as from our state's 82 years of experience of living under this Constitution.

We believe we have anticipated and provided for all of the technical requirements needed in the field of bonding, as well as liberal provisions for our state's future.

The Finance and Taxation Committee has unanimously arrived at a certain philosophy which we have tried to follow in all of our proposals. One element of this philosophy is that a certain amount of protection must be given to the owners of real estate from the burdens of taxation. Experts in the field of taxation testified that the real estate tax is probably the most unfair, inequitable, and least productive of all forms of taxation. Pursuant to our philosophy, we have recommended the deletion of the one-mill levy for the University Medical Center as an unfair burden on real estate. Likewise, we are deleting the state 4-mill levy provision on real estate under old provision 174 of the Constitution. We are recommending the retention of debt limits in political subdivisions to protect real estate owners from the excessive burdens on real estate. We are recommending the 60%, or the super majority vote in order to approve increased debt limits in political subdivisions.

Our Committee will propose that present business activities of the State and political subdivisions be protected. These would include the Bank of North Dakota, the State Mill and Elevator, as well as the various public service businesses carried on by cities. A limitation on future businesses is worded to include only those which would extend a public service, and is intended to prevent the State or its subdivisions from indiscriminately entering fields of private competitive businesses.

Detailed analysis of each Committee proposal will be offered by a member of the Committee, but it is believed that this extensive summary of our Committee's philosophy and goals would serve to save the time of this Convention.

These remarks represent the combined intent of our Committee and has been authorized by the Committee.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: If I might be in order, Mr. President, I would like to move that the remarks of Delegate Burke be printed in the Journal.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

We are now on the motion of Delegate Haugen that the remarks of Delegate Burke be printed in the Journal. All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay." The "ayes" have it and the motion carries, and the remarks will be printed in the Journal.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, would you now recognize Delegate Trenbeath for the first explanation?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President and Delegates:

I have been assigned the duty to explain the Committee's proposal as far as Section 2 is concerned in the Proposal No. 1-23 in your books.

As a delegate — first, I would like to make this comment, especially in regard to Delegate Burke's statement. It is kind of out of proportion when we see the headlines in the paper this morning — when we see that the Constitutional Convention is considering unlimited North Dakota property tax, because this is really contrary, Gentlemen and Ladies, to the philosophy of the Committee. We have taken the absolute opposite philosophy, and felt that the property tax has gotten to be excessive; and not only in this state, but all over the nation. And it is of concern to the property owners in this regard. So the first section of this Constitution does deal — or Section 2 that we're considering now does deal with the property tax.

You have an amendment in your book, and it is practically written verbatim the way Section 2 reads, but we did this for clarification purposes.

Presently, our Constitution provides that the Legislative Assembly may levy up to four mills on the state level for property taxes. It also provides another little added provision in there that says this can go to pay interest on state debt. Now, we have pulled those words out simply because interest is generally referred to as to paying on bonded indebtedness, and we didn't want any inference in this section to reflect on another section that will deal with the debt; so we have pulled those words out. But the main difference that we have provided here, Delegates, is that the Legislature, by a two-thirds vote — and we say a two-thirds vote because it would be an emergency situation only where the property tax would be implied upon the real estate owners in the State of North Dakota. We have said by a two-thirds vote they can levy any amount that they wish for only a two-year period. It could be a one-year period, but no longer than a two-year period, and then it has to be re-enacted.

Delegates, we had to look over our shoulders, because, simply, of the California and Texas decisions right now that might possibly knock out the property tax at the local level for educational purposes. If this happened, and the U. S. Court — Supreme Court — decided that this was proper, then we could be losing our local property taxes for education. So we have provided an emergency means by the language we have placed in the section whereby the Legislature can, by a two-thirds vote, enact a so-called unlimited property tax for education purposes in this circumstance just to get the whole thing off until it is corrected.

Another wording we have added is that the property tax can be based on value. Now this, the Tax Department thought, should be inserted in this section simply because we do have in-lieu-of taxes for property taxes, and we didn't want to get this confused with the ordinary taxes that are placed on property as to value.

Now, this, in essence, Delegates, is what this section is doing. It's doing away with the one-to-four mill levy which previously provided a substitute "in-lieu-thereof" tax by the Legislative Assembly, and a two-thirds vote, can levy what they wish and what they feel necessary to have for the necessary expenses of the State, but no longer than a two-year period.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: In view of the press we have had this morning, I would move that Delegate Trenbeath's remarks be printed in the Journal.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second to that motion?

DELEGATE QUAM: Second it.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Quam. We are now on the motion of Delegate McElroy that the remarks of Delegate Trenbeath be printed in the Journal.

All those in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "nay." The remarks of Delegate Trenbeath will be printed in the Journal.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I have a question of Delegate Trenbeath.

As this particular section indicates to me that a two-thirds vote of the Legislative Assembly is required, there is no limitation at all on the mill levy that could be levied at a state level to create a fund to take care of schools, welfare, or whatever you want to; is that correct?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Delegate Burke — or Butler — that is exactly correct; but it can only be placed for a one and no longer than a two-year period.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Years ago, they put a sales tax in for a limited emergency situation. I think that was about four years ago, or thereabouts. We've still got it, and I don't like the looks of that particular section in there, where it puts no limitation at all on the amount of property tax that can be levied at the state level, if they so choose to do so, with a two-thirds vote, and keep it there by renewing that action the following two years.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: The only thing that I can answer to that is that this was thoroughly recognized in committee, but we could see no other way of providing some method by which the Legislature in an emergency situation — and most certainly it's an emergency situation with a two-thirds vote — that somewhere — somewhere we had to have a relief valve where, if we ever got into a situation like probably we could on a Supreme Court decision on education, particularly, we would be stuck if we didn't have this kind of an emergency escape valve.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I arise not to defend the headline, because it simply shows what kind of reaction you can get from other people when they read our language, and the proposed language does open the way for this extra property tax within the limitation prescribed by the Committee.

I would ask whether the Committee has considered if the present practice followed by the Legislature of avoiding the Constitution has been considered.

The present Constitution prohibits a statewide levy in excess of four mills. The North Dakota Legislature, for several years, has avoided or evaded this limitation by directing that the counties levy 21 mills for school equalization, and have, in effect — and has, in effect, imposed a 21-mill-limitation — or a 21-mill levy for school purposes on a statewide basis. There is no avoiding this tax by any county. The county has no control over it. It is a tax imposed by the State Legislature, despite what our present Constitution says, period.

Excuse me. I'm used to dictating, and I'm putting in my punctuation.

(Laughter)

Now, under the new language, would the Legislature be able to boost that 21-mill levy imposed by the counties, presumably up to 60 mills, as has even been suggested in the Legislature, or do we go back to a two-thirds requirement for a two-year period only?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Delegate Paulson, I can only answer that in this way:

As you know — as you know, in past years there has been considerable discussion on whether this 21-mill levy is constitutional or not, whether it is a state levy or whether it is a county levy. But we, as a Committee, in our discussions, have no way of having the ability to prejudge what the courts might say on this. So, to be safe, we just had to do this for emergency situations. They may — the Legislative Assembly may, in the future, for instance, if this court — the California and Texas case goes to the Supreme Court and the Supreme Court rules in their favor, the Legislature might turn around and say, "We shall levy the 60 or 80-mill levy — county levy. But it's a situation that has to be determined by the courts — whether it is constitutional or not — whether it is a state levy or whether it's a county levy. They are the ones — in essence, in the end, they're going to have to make that determination, if it is brought to their attention.

So we, as a Committee, can't pre-judge what that decision might be.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: In defense of the Committee's position, and in regard to the 21-mill levy, at present, as I — it is my understanding that the proceeds of the 21-mill levy are retained in the county and distributed by the county. If a situation arises where we have to all of a sudden raise practically all of the money needed for education on the state basis, then that money is going to have to come into the state treasury for distribution. So it is going to require a state tax.

Now, there's no question about this, and the Committee, as Delegate Trenbeath has said, can see no way to provide for an emergency situation, except by language similar to that that we have included in this section. I don't believe that any member of this Convention, as desirous as we all are of protecting property from unfair taxation, from excessive taxation, would want to see the state crippled, if we came to a case where we had to support our educational program through a state levy. This is the purpose of the language, and we have studied this carefully and long, and we think it will do what we want it to do.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker and Fellow Delegates. The Committee certainly considered the question posed by Delegate Paulson. The Committee is concerned and did ask the question: Is the 21-mill county levy a state levy? But not everybody is in agreement that this is a state tax levy or that it is being levied by the Legislature, and there is a feeling that is quite opposite from what Delegate Paulson says — that it is a state levy — and we are under no ability to remove totally the taxes.

And as far as the question posed by Delegate Butler, I think that we have made every effort to protect the real estate tax or the real estate from a state tax, and a two-thirds vote of the Legislative Session, of both houses, if we have a two-house session, will mean that it's going to take a lot of effort before that will be passed. I'm sure that most of us here know that most legislators are real estate holders and they are not going to pass a two-thirds — by a two-thirds majority any of the taxes, unless they do feel it's necessary; and, furthermore, we have put a limit on so that it must be reenacted by subsequent legislative sessions, which means that it cannot continue in the same way as we have done in the past on our sales tax, and some of those, with a majority vote — it's a little easier to get a majority vote than a two-thirds vote — we all know that — and the Legislature is not going to pass by a two-thirds vote a real estate measure, unless it feels that an emergency does exist. We do need to have some way to provide for an emergency type of levy, if we need it. We do need to expect that, if the California Serrano decision or the Texas decision is upheld, that we have a method and a mode by which we can proceed to tax real estate, if this is necessary. It's not the intent of the Committee in any way to tax the State — to place a tax on real estate for the operation of the State itself. We're going to have to leave the door open for the school taxes, if that becomes necessary, and this is the feeling of the Committee on this section.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I'll recognize — the Chair will recognize Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. Chairman and members:

I can see that the Committee has given very serious consideration to this problem, and I confess I can't come up with any better solution than they have. But, still, it presents, really, a serious — a serious situation for property owners in North Dakota. I don't believe it really provides the protection that's necessary. I know from experience how difficult it is to get a two-thirds majority in the North Dakota Legislature. We must remember that the complexion of our Legislature is changing, with the one-man-one-vote decision. The membership is moving away from the rural areas, from the rural property holders, and perhaps in the future it will not be so difficult to get two-thirds of the members to put a tax on the other one-third, which could very easily be the situation.

Currently in North Dakota the property tax is extremely unfair in its effect, because of the depressed rural economy. A man out in my area phoned me one day last week and asked me to get the Constitutional Convention to straighten out something he was concerned about. He said in his particular school district 62 percent of the valuation was in the rural area, 38 percent was in the town. It's not a very big town — I suppose 1,500-to-2,000 people. The school enrollment was directly the opposite; 62 percent of the school enrollment was in the town, 38 percent of the children were in rural areas, where the 62 percent evaluation was.

Now it's coincidence, of course, that that district came out with the exact reversal of figures; but still it's fairly typical of most of the communities in that situation, in a fair-sized small town and a great deal of the rural area.

Now, the average — NDSU's figures for 1970 show that the average farmer had an investment in his farm of $87,000. He had 1,024 acres, with actual cash value in 1970 average, statewide, was $74 an acre, for $87,000.

Now, we can expect that besides this, this farmer had an investment of enough land and cattle and other — in cattle and equipment to make over a hundred-thousand-dollar investment. Well, that same report showed that this average farmer netted $4,500 for 1970. I have figures here from Representative Dornacker, which were given to a legislative committee last week, and of course these are based on different statistics and they perhaps don't match up — jibe exactly — but they can give us the general impression of what actually exists.

Representative Dornacker's figures show that in 1970 there were forty-four thousand North Dakota farm families, and these farm families were paying a property tax of approximately one thousand dollars. So the situation right now is extremely unfair. If we do have to go to a statewide property tax, which is very possible in the light of these court decisions, we will probably be stuck with something that will go on for as many years as our sales tax has. As Delegate Butler mentioned, the sales tax was put in as an emergency back in the Depression years. It was reenacted every two years at two percent for many years. We've had it expanded to a much higher tax today. The same thing could very easily happen with property taxation.

I hope this Convention will make it clear to the people of North Dakota that we're doing the best we can in this respect, and we do not want the property taxpayers to be burdened with the entire expense of financing the schools.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I would recognize Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Well, if the Committee wishes to reply to Delegate Knudson, I yield. I had an inquiry on another matter.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hardmeyer.

DELEGATE HARDMEYER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

To me, to expect us to propose and to act favorably upon a measure which would allow an unlimited mill levy for emergencies, seems rather contrary to the history of the State. In 1963 we were deep in an emergency and we could not operate our schools. No one could pay their taxes. Now, to add more mills to people who already can't pay their taxes, or to take their land away from them in a more rapid fashion, by levying more taxes, it seems rather ridiculous to me. I think, if we are in an emergency and we cannot meet our obligations already with the taxes we have on property, to add more, I would say, would certainly remove the property from the people in a more rapid manner.

So I would oppose this unlimited mill levy.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

Ladies and gentlemen, I think you have all seen in the last few years how reluctantly the districts vote more money for anything — school districts, cities — all kinds of elections — as high as two and three in single school districts have been killed because they will not vote for higher taxes. And this issue — not to argue the theory of this — but the plain, honest-to-goodness fact — how much chance do you think — and this — I'm not arguing this headline — it's correct — it's an unlimited — it has some limitations on how you get it, but it's an unlimited levy — and if this — the papers of the State will come out in a few days and say, "unlimited North Dakota property tax is final — finally passed," you may go home and try to explain it. I do not care to. I think it's absolutely impassable, and I also agree that we should not — if we're in such an emergency, why not raise the income tax, the sales tax? — because, don't forget, if the people are having trouble paying a little more sales tax or income tax, the boys with the real estate, both in town and in the country, are having one heck of a time paying their real estate taxes, and I hope this proposal is defeated.

Thank you.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, Mr. President and Delegates, it looks like this — the talk has been out of all proportions to the thinking of the Committee.

I want to make it very clear that we are just as conscious — that Committee — as anybody else is with regard to the property taxes. Not only this, but in another section — in our bonding section — we spelled out completely and clearly that the property taxes shall not be used to pay off state bonds, which was never in our Constitution. And I want to make it clear to you that this was the philosophy of the situation. But there can be situations — an emergency situation — when the State has to reach down to the property tax to get some money; and if you don't believe in this philosophy of the State doing it at all, then kill this section. But, for goodness sakes, if you feel that this State needs some money in this respect, somebody come up with an amendment so we can get on with our business.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. This is — am I recognized, sir?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes.

DELEGATE LANDER: This is the time when I wish that I were eloquent, and I am not, because if I would rise to anything — and I'm willing to stack my property taxes up against most of them — I would say that the Committee has been unnecessarily conservative in what it is proposing. I'm not on that Committee, so I'm not defending it; I'm simply speaking as one of 98.

I know this is an extremely emotional issue, and as a school board member who has been here before the Legislature many times asking for increases in sales and income taxes in order to run our schools, I know how hard it is, also, to get those raised. But I think the most important thing is that we don't get carried away here as the only 98 people who are trying to rewrite this Constitution right now to start with — don't get carried away with this, what I consider to be a very irresponsible avenue as to what our responsibilities as citizens and as parents are. I wish you would look up in the balcony today and see the children that are here. I have four of them. Some of you have them. We don't have to have these children. Nobody says we have to have schools. We've elected that this is our responsibility, and we've got to run them.

I don't like property taxes in our State, and those of you who have had to find ways to pay for the operation of the State realize how hard it is in our State, if you do not use property taxes of some kind in order to raise moneys which we have to have. If there are other viable alternatives, heavens, let's use them. But, as I say — let's — I speak for this particular thing, although I would — if I were going to write it, I would not put in the sixty-six and two-thirds percent; but if that is the — if that is the compromise which has to be made, I think it's a very good thing and ought to be supported.

DELEGATE BASSINGTHWAITE: Mr. President.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The Chair recognizes Delegate Bassingthwaite.

DELEGATE BASSINGTHWAITE: I would just like to request at this time that we divide this question and vote on Section 2 of the second item.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Bassingthwaite, are you making a motion, then, that Section 2 be voted on separately?

DELEGATE BASSINGTHWAITE: Right. This is my motion — to vote on Section 2 as a separate item.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes. Any delegate can request a division. That request is granted — that Section 2 will be voted on separately.

Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: As a former Tax Commissioner, I can support all the statements that have been made here about the evils of the property tax, and I don't imagine that the evils are ever going to be corrected, because it is based primarily on a system of judgment, in which even experts disagree. It is regressive in its very character in many cases, and it is mal-administered, with all kinds of people involved in the process, each trying to jockey for his own economic advantage.

But I concur with the statement of Delegate Langer that we are confronted with a very serious situation, in that this matter is now processing through the courts, and it isn't only a matter of it having been determined by the Supreme Court of California, which is no minor court in the country, but it has also been decided by a three-judge district court or special court in the State of Texas — a federal court — and they have held that property taxes must be redistributed for school purposes under the equal protection clause, I believe it is.

What is going to happen if the U. S. Supreme Court sustains these lower courts? North Dakota is in the same predicament as most states, in that we have gross inequities existing between the school districts of the State, and the North Dakota Legislature is going to be confronted with the problem of reassessing the property taxes we now have at a state level so that they are uniform throughout the State.

What is going to be the consequence of this requirement or this problem? — because there are existing inequities between the school districts now. This means that a new levy will adjust the tax burden. It will reduce the tax burden in some districts and it will increase the tax burden in other districts.

Now, this is not only an academic problem as far as North Dakota is concerned, because we've just gone through about 10 years of fighting over what is known as the "Sales Ratio Study," which determines the levels of assessment in each county and links the money that is being sent to the counties under the school equalization fund; and what happens under the Sales Ratio Study is that money is subtracted and some counties get more money for schools and others get less.

After the impact of this new language came into effect in the early 1960's, and it came in, unfortunately, just when I happened to be Tax Commissioner — we had wailing throughout the land as to the gross inequities that were arising out of this equalization process that was developed under the Sales Ratio Study. Today you couldn't get a majority vote in the Legislature to reenact, if you had to reenact the impact of the Sales Ratio Study.

So I don't see how you're ever going to muster a two-thirds vote in the Legislature, regardless of the justness of the cause, because when it comes to property taxes, there is only one just cause, and that is to keep my property taxes down. And so we lose — we subscribe to the principle of equalization. We subscribe to the principle of equalization in the abstract; but when it comes to applying to specific situations, we abandon it and we find other principles that become more important, such as keeping our taxes down.

And so I feel, for those of you who are afraid, that the Committee has gone overboard. I see that what the Committee has done is going to create a crisis in the very near future, because those counties or those legislators who are from those districts who are going to have to raise their taxes under a statewide levy, are going to oppose it, and they're not going to subscribe to these — you know — these high-sounding principles about what is good for the State as a whole, and so forth, when they have to go back and face the electorate and tell them, "I now raise your property taxes." It isn't going to be done, and so I don't see where you're ever going to get a two-thirds vote; and so, for those of you who are concerned about an unlimited property levy, this provision here is for no property levy.

Now, it would be okay. I would find it easy to subscribe to, if we were able to maintain the status quo. But the courts are eroding at the other end, you see, and some action is going to be necessary at the state level, and I'm afraid we're going to deprive the Legislature of its own ability to respond to what is known as an emergency, because when your own taxes are going to be raised, it's very difficult to see anything known as an emergency.

So I hate to write a Constitution or be involved in a Constitution that is going to require amendment two years from now or four years from now or six years from now; and on this matter, I doubt if you would ever be able to amend this provision out, once you've got it in there, because why would the people vote to change it? The demagogues would run up and down the land and say, "There's no real emergency. We can go someplace else and we don't need to raise the taxes. We don't need to authorize the Legislature to impose a property tax for support of schools."

Another thing that's very curious is we seem to believe that we're the only body that is ever going to be assembled in this State that doesn't like property taxes. I'll submit to you that the State Legislature despises property taxes as much as we do, and I think we can show a little confidence in them, and I think that, by a simple majority, really, which I doubt could ever be mustered, except in emergency, that they ought to be able to deal with this question. We're going to need flexibility in the future because the situation is fluid at this time.

Now, it was by action voluntary — no compulsion — that the State Board of Equalization quit levying property taxes at the state level. They had no mandate. They just did it because it was within their jurisdiction. This signifies that there are people who will not support increasing property taxes unnecessarily. So the legislators, the administrators — neither one — are going to be for property taxes. And, in addition — in addition, if the Legislature does impose a property tax in a lapse — in a lapse of rationality, the people can refer it. The people can still refer it, and we have another emergency valve here. And so I think that our fears and our misgivings are unfounded. I would like to see us strike any reference to property tax at all in the Constitution, which would leave it up to the Legislature.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates:

We have heard about these emergencies that are coming off in two, three, four years and what the courts will come out with. Unless we put a limit on this, our first emergency will be coming this summer by the voters. I would hesitate even attempting to explain to the people down there that, regardless of what the words are, that we are passing an unlimited tax levy here by this group of people.

Thank you.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The Chair recognizes Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President. I think we have to recognize here that these are not going to be additional property taxes burdened on top of property taxes; but they're primarily in case of this possible crisis in education. They're going to be substituted for local levies. So they're not going to be additional property taxes. I think Delegate Omdahl's position reflects very accurately that of the Committee, in that we did not want to allow the possibility of statewide property taxes, except in the case of a very dire emergency, and the two-thirds vote, I think, recognizes this, and if you will — I don't have the figures in front of me, but if anybody will look at the figures in terms of what is provided by property taxes for education, what is provided the State through income taxes or sales taxes, I think even the most eager politician, in terms of pleasing the electorate, in terms of coming out for lower taxes when he knows lower taxes are not possible, will realize that it would be an impossibility to operate this State — the kind of state we are — it would be an impossibility to operate the educational system without some kind of property taxes. We could not raise income taxes or we could not raise sales taxes enough to replace the property taxes that go to education. I think we have to look at this in that light, and I think the people have to be made aware of this in that light — that politicians may say, "We can do away with these;" but, as a practical matter, it's an impossibility.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President. I knew there was going to be a parting of ways between my colleague and myself back here, and I kind of suspected it might come on this issue.

I've always been opposed to a super majority type of vote being required by any kind of body, and I think we have, once again, the question of the super majority here, and it seems to me that, as has been stated by other speakers, we're going to have a real emergency before any kind of increase of property tax levy for any period of time is voted by a legislative assembly.

More than that, I think we ought to ask ourselves some serious questions about these property taxholders. How much land do they have, for example? I am in the category of people which, except for about a hundred and seventy-five feet, is unlanded, who does not live basically off the land, and yet I think it's a very serious question in this State, if we're going to be against the property tax — if we're going to oppose the property tax — then we ought to be able to progressively tax that land which an individual has, so that individual who is constantly increasing and increasing in size the property value that he has, I think that that poor individual in the city who doesn't have a hundred-thousand-dollar investment in either equipment or land, and I think of the easy statement which is, "Let's put some more sales tax on it," and my colleague said not so long ago, "Let's put some more sales tax on to tax that individual who doesn't have even an income potential off of that kind of property." So I think that when we say that we have to have a super majority vote when we say that we have to raise sales and income taxes, then I think we are, in effect, forgetting that the size of our farms is constantly increasing and the landholdings of many of these individuals is increasing to the extent that we ought to do something about a progressive tax system on that land for the individual who's been able to accumulate so much of it.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President. I have two questions.

First of all, did the Committee consider the possibility that the United States Supreme Court could throw out the two-thirds requirement on the basis of the one-man-one-vote ruling? Now I realize that an earlier decision has not done this, but I — I think it's a very real possibility.

The second question is: Did the Committee consider putting in, after the word "may" in the fourth line, or somewhere in there, the words "to replace a local property tax already in force"?

If you put that in, in the line — the fourth line, after the word "may" — I'm not sure that's the right line — I'm groping a little bit — but something like that may allay the fears of lots of people and not in any way destroy the intent of what you're trying to do.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President. The Committee did consider the matter of the constitutionality of a super majority, and we based our decision on the most recent court decision, which did uphold — did uphold a requirement — a provision for more than a majority to support a bond — bond issues or tax issues, and we can do nothing else but base our thinking on that most recent decision.

Now, in regard to the second part of Delegate Sinner's question — a very intriguing question — and we did not consider this — and my initial reaction is that this is a good suggestion — probably a suggestion that might help solve this difference of opinion among the delegates. I'll say, for the Committee, that we are aware that no committee can be sure what's going to happen to its proposal when it hits this floor; but we did anticipate that the opposition would come forward, based upon Delegate Omdahl's discussion, and on those who were afraid of the increase in mill levies.

I think that I could speak for the Committee in saying that we would probably accept Delegate Sinner's suggestion. We are sorry that we didn't think of it; and of all of the people who appeared before us when this was being considered, no one made this particular suggestion.

Now, I don't know whether the rest of the Committee would agree to take this proposal back. The Convention, of course, has the right to send it back to us, if they wish to. I think we would prefer, before such a question is put or such a decision is made, that we have discussion on the rest of the sections of this proposal.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Mr. President. I think all of us are aware that it's the obligation of the State Legislature to provide funds for the running of this State. Myself, I would like to just have only one sentence in this first section, and that would be that "The Legislative Assembly shall provide for the raising of revenues sufficient to defray the expenses of the state for each year and to pay the interest on state debt."

I believe it's going to be pretty hard for us to look forward to what might happen next year, in ten years, in fifteen years, in providing strong limitations as to what the Legislature can do. I'm sure that the Legislature is going to be limited by the wishes of the people in each of the years that are coming.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: I'd like to direct a question to any member of the Committee.

Was the only emergency that was envisioned by this Committee the possibility of this pending emergency now being obtained by court decisions, regarding education?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, Mr. President, I don't know what was in the minds of the rest of the members of the Committee in this regard, and I refer to Delegate Poulson's question and also to Delegate Sinner's; but it certainly passed my mind many times that there could be other emergencies, other than this education thing. For example, I remember one session of the Legislature, when I was down here, we got one of the worst snowstorms that the State of North Dakota has ever seen, and we had to call out the National Guard to assist these people in the counties in getting their livestock fed and their roads open. These emergencies can come upon us again — these natural disaster things. Here, again, if you start using the word "replace a local levy at the state level", this just doesn't work because there are no local levies primarily in this respect. So here's one instance.

Another instance might be: As you people know, we have a lot of revenue bonds outstanding for dormitories, primarily, at our institutions of learning, to the tune of about forty million dollars. These bonds are running past the year 2000. A circumstance might — now these are revenue bonds — they're not really the obligation of the State; but here you have a moral obligation. If something happened that these revenue bonds could not be paid off by the institution or by the earnings of that building or that facility, it just might be possible that the State could proceed. They should be picking up the tab for these bonds simply because it would reflect on all the bond sales for anything else in the State of North Dakota. Now these might be examples that the State might get into an emergency without being able to replace, actually, without a local property tax.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: One more thing which was very much in the minds of the Committee, both in this section and the other sections they looked at, was this forthcoming irrigation, which is rather a vast project for the State, and there's been considerable discussion about the needs of raising money for this and the possibilities, and that was one reason, I think, why the — even though education was a primary topic, that it wasn't limited to this when it came out of Committee, because this was another vast area which will be of great benefit to our agricultural people and which we didn't want to preclude the possibility of this being used for.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President. I don't like real estate taxes either, but I certainly don't agree that there are no limitations on this mill levy.

In the first place, a two-thirds vote is extremely difficult to get, and this was primary in our minds when we put that on. We also restricted the time to two years.

Now, the Legislature can raise almost any other tax they want to by a simple majority, and it seems to me that they are going to take the easiest way out and the most sensible way out before they tackle this property tax. I think that any kind of a ceiling you put on anything in terms of mills or dollars is doomed to failure because we don't — we can't predict what's going to happen ten or twenty or fifty years from now. But this sort of a provision leaves it up to the Legislature, and sometimes they have pretty good judgment! (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. I had not expected to talk on this subject, which has got to be quite a debate.

I'd like, first, to refer to the county 21-mill levy, which is Section 57-15-24, and while I'm not the legal authority, it looks to me very much as though that was merely a requirement that each county had to levy 21 mills to go into its equalization fund before they could share from the State-distributed funds. So I can't, by any stretch of the imagination, accept the proposition that that was invading the four-mill levy.

Now, we go on, and the property tax burden is heavy. In 1970, we had a slight reduction from 1969, due to the exemptions. In 1969 there was a total of $125,171,158 for general and special fund levies. That dropped to $116,076,000. So we did a slight reduction. But it was not anywhere in accordance with the so-called 18 percent reduction of assessed valuation.

The events under which we are living are just forcing costs up all the time and, as I view this change in the language here, while I was not enamored with it, I realized that we've got to have solid foundation in the end on which we can base some way of getting a cost of government. I've lived a long time in this State, and I can distinctly remember two periods — one after World War I, and, again 1930 to 1943 or 4, when this State had to struggle to get enough money just to pay a few clerks and keep the schools open on a minimum basis. Now that could come again — I hope not — but it could. And especially we might have economic disaster. I hope we never have to go through another ten-year period of natural disaster, like we did from 1931 to 1940. But I think we're still going to have to use an open door somewhere so that, in an emergency, they can go to get a few dollars to help tide things over and keep government operating; otherwise, we could have chaos.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I yield to Delegate Aas.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

Thank you, Delegate Aubol.

I think that this Committee did seriously consider this real estate problem, and we felt that we had to face the realities that we can have emergencies.

As far as the question that was asked by Delegate Sinner: We did not face that question in those exact words, but I do think that we faced it a little bit more than what our Chairman, Donnell Haugen, has mentioned, because we were concerned with other emergencies that can arise, and one of the things that we're concerned about is future development of the State of North Dakota. As was mentioned by Delegate Lerberg, we are going to have the possibility of irrigation districts and huge irrigation districts requiring a large amount of money. The State is going to need to be in a position where they can provide a special assessment type of tax or any other type of tax that is necessary at the State level to the affected land, if necessary. There are going to be other situations when we need to face the fact that we might need a state levy. But we are in a real quandry on that Committee, and this Committee, I might say, is made up of real estate holders, in the vast majority all opposed to any additional real estate tax or any real estate tax at the State level; but they were making a sincere effort to be responsible, and I think that, if you count the number of people on the Committee, which I have done, I believe there are only four of us on that Committee that do not make our principal income from the farm real estate, and these people who were on this Committee were being as responsible and as conservative on this real estate tax as they could be. They probably are real conservative on this two-thirds figure. I think the two-thirds figure is necessary in here as a compromise; but I cannot see how we can go any further than we have, and I do believe that, for the future of North Dakota, we are going to have to meet emergencies further than any repeal of existing real estate taxes at the local level, and so contingencies can arise; we need to face them, and we cannot ignore them. I know of no other way that we can solve the problem.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: In all the discussion this morning, Fellow Delegates, I have had an opportunity to reflect, and I have come, in my own mind, to the conclusion that we are primarily talking about education. I happen to come from a district that is primarily rural and, I happen to come from a school district which has voluntarily taxed itself to the very maximum to operate a school. Somehow I feel that I can go back to the people in my area, should this bill pass — this proposal — and I hope it does — and I might add I, too, am a property taxpayer, and I happen to derive a majority of my income from agriculture. And, as you all know, that's been a pail of skim milk for the past few years. But somehow I think our primary responsibility here lies to the future of the State of North Dakota, and I happen to think of our kids. I happen to think how we taxed ourselves in our district, to approximately three dollars an acre — the majority went for education — and I very selfishly would somewhat welcome this idea of the State, if the need arose, to equalize the school taxes, because in so doing, our Legislature, I am sure, would do a great deal to improve the efficiency of many of our schools who are hanging by a thin thread of existence and shortchanging our kids every day of the week.

For my own part, I think we can't look at tomorrow. We've got to look beyond the hills. We've got to look to these kids, and if this situation should arise that the Supreme Court of the United States should uphold the District Court of the State of Texas, I would hate to think of the situation we would be in taxwise for our schools, and if for no other reason, for our schools it would be utter chaos. I'm willing to cast my future and the future of my children with our Legislative Assembly, particularly with this super majority, to get the job done.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I rise for a question. I have restrained myself on Section 2 because I'm interested in Section 3.

Is it proper now to speak on Section 3?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I think, Delegate Pearce, in fairness to the Committee, would you first hear the Committee explanation of the reason for this?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Yes, I'm perfectly happy to.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes. I think we appreciate that, if we're through with discussion on Section 2 —

DELEGATE OMDAHL: A point of order.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: If we divide the question, is it then proper to discuss an item that is not a part of the division? I believe we had a motion by Delegate Bassingthwaite to separate Section 2 earlier in the morning.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The Chair takes this position: That, in view of the fact that Bassingthwaite requested a division, then that Section 2 of Delegate — or of Committee Proposal 1-23 will be voted on separately, and the first vote, then, will be on the section — the following sections: 3, 4, 5 and 6 of Proposal 1-23.

Following the vote on that, the vote will be separately on Section 2.

I stand corrected. The desk force tells me that we need — that is, when we consider the Sections 3, 4, 5 and 6, we shall also consider Section 1, which is a repealer. So we'll be voting then on Section 1, 3, 4, 5 and 6, and, also, following the vote on that, we shall then next vote on Section 2.

The Chair at this time will exercise his privilege of declaring a short recess, and this is to help the desk force as much as anything. This becomes a very tiring thing for the Reporter, and the Reporter, I know, needs to have a rest here at this point.

So, at this point, the Chair will call for a 10-minute recess.

(The Session recessed at 10:45 A.M. until 11:04 A.M., the same day.)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The Convention will come to order.

We are on the tenth order of business. We have under consideration Committee Proposal 1-23. I believe now that we are ready to begin discussion of Section 3.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Section 3 is the — I'm referring to the Interim Report, on page 40 here — and it takes up all of these sections. Section 3 is the old Section 175 of the Constitution, and, happily to say, that there's been very little philosophic or substantive change in the proposed Section 3. There's two main changes — one involving taxes, and the second — and I'll just read a short paragraph here:

"The committee has retained unchanged the first sentence of present Section 175, and it has retained the substance of the second sentence of 175. The second sentence has been rewritten and shortened, but the substance of the sentence remains exactly the same."

And, basically, the second sentence refers to the possible federalization of state income taxes. And we had considerable discussion on this. Some people are opposed to the State federalizing the income tax; but the Committee felt we, at least, ought to allow the Legislature that option in the future, if they wished to do it, rather than not allowing them that option.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any further discussion? Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I'm addressing myself to the second sentence of Section 3, beginning on line 20 of the bill that is in your book that starts out "Notwithstanding" and I have an amendment proposed, which is at the desk, and I would ask the Clerk to read it first.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The Clerk will read the proposed amendment to Section 3.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal 1-23 be amended as follows:

On page 1 of the engrossed proposal, in line 20, delete the word "Notwith" and delete all of lines 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25, and renumber the lines accordingly, which would leave this as follows:

"LEGAL BASIS FOR TAXES: No tax shall be levied except in pursuance of law, and every law imposing a tax shall state distinctly the object of the same, to which only it shall be applied."

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. As you can see, even though the reference refers to the engrossed bill, I have numbered it here the same, so I'm talking about the last sentence on the bottom of page 1 of 1-23 as it appears in your book. This is, in my opinion, contrary to proper practice.

The present Constitution does not permit the Legislature in enactments of statutes to incorporate the provisions of some other statute by reference, even in our own State Code. This would change the Constitution so that the Legislature could, in imposing an income tax, simply state that your income tax would be one percent, ten percent, 25 percent, 50 percent or 98 percent of whatever your federal income tax is. In order to determine what your state income tax would be, you could not only refer to your own income and records and the laws of the State of North Dakota, but you would have to be aware, of course, of what the federal income tax laws were. You would, by that, be incorporating all of the changes that Congress might make between one session of the North Dakota Legislature and another, whether it be down or up. You would also, in my opinion, be incorporating by reference all of the multitudinous regulations of the Internal Revenue Service, and if you have never looked at all of those regulations in toto, you ought to. So — it's quite a stack.

Furthermore, those are by no means immutable and change from day to day and case to case as their rulings change. The exemptions, of course, are not and for many years have not been the same in federal and state income tax. It would, in my opinion, be enormously complicated to attempt to provide other exceptions or modifications, as the last sentence would seem to provide, and I am opposing it because I think it's fundamentally the wrong way to legislate. Certainly our Legislature can impose whatever income tax they see fit and the people will be willing to sustain; but it ought to be done by the Legislature and it ought not to be palmed off as a fraction of some other tax; and if we're going to stand on our own feet as a sovereign state, certainly this is no time to surrender, in my opinion, the taxing powers to the federal government. I don't know what your federal income tax is, but I would be alarmed by paying any given percentage of it simply as a flat rate. It might make it lower, but it could be considerably higher than it is now. I don't think it's a proper thing for the Legislature to do that. I think it would be highly improper and dangerous to give the Legislature the power to do that, such as this.

So, therefore, I do move, in accordance with the motion that was read from the desk, striking out the last sentence, beginning with the word "Notwith" on line 20 and the remainder of that page.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second to that motion?

DELEGATE BAKER: Second the motion.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Baker.

Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President, I oppose the amendment. This language which the Committee has adopted is essentially the language which was voted on by the people on September 16, 1966, and was adopted as part of the North Dakota Constitution by a vote of some forty-six thousand or thirty-seven thousand, and allows what we call the so-called "federalizing" of the North Dakota tax.

This language of the Committee was gone over with tax experts from the State Tax Department, and they urged the language which is in the Committee Report.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: This is a section with which I am a little bit familiar, because of my activities in the Tax Department a few years ago.

All this language does that is in there is it authorizes the Legislature, if in its wisdom at some future date, to simplify the State income tax by making it conform to a greater degree with the federal. I am hopeful that during our proceedings we would adopt a constitution that would be somewhat flexible, so that we could adjust to changing situations as our society changes, and I think this is one area where we need a little flexibility. We have not solved the problem in the Legislature in simplifying the state income tax, but it will never be simplified if we do not give the authority to the Legislature to decide how much simplification is possible and necessary.

So I resist the amendment because I think that it is — it is going to give — the present language that the Committee has recommended is going to give the Legislature flexibility, and if they see the same evils in federalization as Delegate Pearce does, I'm sure that they will be very cautious in using this power.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Solberg.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Mr. President, I think this is one time we should listen in total to the sage advice given by Delegate Pearce, because of the fact that simplicity and convenience is not a good label to give to the application of a tax, with the implications that are involved in it. Taxation in all of history is not a simple process of passing a law and collecting revenue. This is most important to evaluate — that simplicity does not always become a factor in determining what is a good tax. To me, taxation has much deeper and farther-reaching effects. It can change production, and we recognize this in a one-producing type of state, such as we have here — one kind or other, particularly. A tax can change labor concepts. It can change production concepts. It can change the whole perspective of our role in our dependency as a self-sufficient constitution or state. In fact, it can change our entire way of living. And at the same time it can destroy an existing economy.

Therefore, if we are going to rely entirely upon what is done in the nation, then, for the first time in our lives, we'd better reemphasize and reiterate the fact that we have always said that we are different from New York State, that we are different from California, that we are North Dakota and that we should write our own tax laws and not be dependent upon some kind of a concocted story that causes us to believe that federalization is good for the State of North Dakota or for any other state, for that matter, and these are some of the things which must be considered by government — this government — in contemplation of the levying of a tax. And since Adam Smith wrote his great book, The Commonwealth, why we find — Common Sense — not "Commonwealth" — we find that even he, way back in those early days in the 1700's, said that any person or any institution or any political body that feels that it can find complete equity in any form of taxation had better begin to evaluate and analyze the structure that he now lives under or will live under in the future. And so I had in mind a definite influence, if I have any at all, to the thoughts that have been expressed and to the amendment now given by Delegate Pearce, because I think it is important in this particular instance. Our complex economy presents many problems which require concentrated research and analyses by both the taxing authorities and the student of economics in the analysis of the causes and the effects of taxation. It is for this purpose that theories of taxation have been developed by economists, and I must subscribe to them, and one of them is that we are a state sovereignty and that we should not be tied into, as far as the Constitution is concerned, to any federalization at this time, but that we should rely entirely upon the judgment of the Legislature that will serve in the future.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate — I believe the Chair will recognize Delegate Vogel, first, and then Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE VOGEL: My attention was distracted for a minute, and perhaps I missed something, but I wonder how many delegates — I think somebody did mention this — but I'd like to repeat it — I wonder how many delegates are aware that this sentence is at present a part of our Constitution. It is not something new. You will find it in Article 82 of our present Constitution — an amendment adopted six years ago. We are not talking about something that is being added. We are not talking about something new. We are talking about something under which we have been functioning for the past six years.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I'll recognize Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President. Will Delegate Pearce yield to a question?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Pearce?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Yes.

DELEGATE CHASE: Delegate Pearce, if we passed the amendment that you recommend, will it prohibit the Legislature from somehow basing the state income tax on federal income tax?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. It wouldn't prohibit them from simply making reference. They could, each two years, adjust the income tax to the current federal tax, but they'd have to spell it out in the law how that tax was arrived at, and it would prohibit a simple reference that your tax be 25 or 22 percent of what your federal tax is, so that you would be simplified simply by filing a copy of your federal return, multiplying it by 25 percent and sending in a check for the difference — for the balance.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Stanton, and Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I rise to speak in support of the amendment, too. I think there has been a constant erosion of state powers to the federal government, and if this is in our Constitution, we certainly have deleted other things, and this, also, should be deleted. I think that your voice is heard much louder in the State Legislature than in your federal government. I feel like a voice crying in the wilderness when I go to our federal government. So I want our Legislature taking care of this; I don't want it passed on to our federal government, and I would urge that you support Delegate Pearce's amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Well, Mr. President, every legislative session we have been required to pass a piece of legislation updating the references to the Internal Revenue Code as amended from time to time, and they have been amended, as you know, in every session of Congress.

The reason for passing this legislation some years ago — or this initiated measure — was to eliminate this necessity.

Now, I might call your attention to the fact that in the last few sessions, those of you who have served in the Legislature know that the Tax Department has been very assiduously proposing some sort of reform in our state income tax, including, but not exclusively, the adoption of the federal tax based on a percentage. The Tax Committee in both the House and the Senate have pretty much rejected this out of hand. There has been no success whatever in adopting any federalization to any great extent, and the result has been that we are continuing with our present rather difficult state tax form. We have asked the Tax Department on many occasions to simplify it, and they say that, under the present conditions, it is almost impossible to simplify the North Dakota tax return. There is some question about this; but, at the same time, we have to face the fact that we are living with a very complex tax system. I would urge that we adopt the language of Article — of Proposal 1-23 as it is stated, as merely restating that which the people voted for some years ago. I can't see that we'd have any particular problem in selling the point of view on this to the folks, and I think you can trust the Legislature for many years to come to reject the idea of federalizing the state income tax. It just isn't in the cards, and I really don't think you have anything to worry about on that score.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: For the past three sessions I have served on the Finance and Taxation Committee in the Senate and I — and I agree that the wording in the language as proposed in Section 3 cannot be injurious to the citizens of North Dakota, particularly inasmuch as it says it "may." These laws imposing taxes may be — may define the measure. And I go along with the fact that you have the choice of the Legislature. Our forms and our methods of paying our income tax can be considerably simplified over what we are now trying to do. We have various exemptions that are different on the federal and the state and, as a result, as Delegate Unruh just stated, we have at each session of the Legislature to try to decide whether some of these changes in the state tax structure should be adapted to the federal or not, and I had mixed emotions about that at first, but I believe I will vote in favor of the language as it is there now, and against the amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, we are on the motion of Delegate Pearce to further amend Section 3, the amendment having been read from the desk.

All those in favor signify by saying "aye; opposed "no."

The Chair is in doubt. The key will be opened and you may record your vote. If you are in favor of the amendment, vote "aye;" if you are against the amendment, vote "nay."

Saugstad votes "aye."

All right. Has everyone voted? Anyone wish to change their vote? If not, the key will be closed and the Clerk will record the vote.

There were 25 ayes, 68 nays; therefore, the motion lost.

Now we are back on consideration of Proposal 1-23. Are there any further comments?

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Are you ready to take Section 4?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Turn your page to page 2, and if you would care to refer to your Constitution, it is Section 178, which reads:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered or suspended by any grant or contract to which the state or any county or other municipal corporation shall be a party."

You notice new language in our proposal. We say: "The power of taxation shall never be surrendered or suspended, except as provided in this constitution, by any grant — and then the wording is the same except that we have taken out "any county or other municipal corporation" and substituted "political subdivision or public agency."

Now, I'll explain why we changed that. Some of you come from areas where the Municipal Industrial Development — MIDA Act, as it's called — is being used to foster new industry, the development of industrial parks, and things of this nature to help build our State, and particularly raise our tax base in the long run. The legislation that provided the MIDA Act operates under somewhat a small gray cloud, which is created by Section 178. If you are reading it literally, there might be a question in your mind — Does this permit the State or political subdivision or a political — a public agency to be the recipient of any sort of suspension of the taxing power of the State? In other words, you're telling a new business, "Okay. You can come in and develop or you can develop this industrial park and you can suspend taxing power — the levying of taxes up to a period of five years." This is all done by purely local intercession. So it seems to apply in place of old 178. So we felt, in order to clear this up, we would have to add the phrase "except as provided in this constitution", and it relates then to the use of MIDA bonds as — it gives them permission to be used, in other words, without any cloud over them. We feel that the change is necessary to remove this doubt, and we would recommend the passage of this particular section.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, we can move on to Section 5.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Delegate McElroy, this is your responsibility. Sorry to interrupt your newspaper. (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President. You caught me kind of flatfooted! I didn't know this was coming.

Well, this section is similar to the old one. It does provide that the basis of taxation — or assessment, rather — shall still stay in the locality where the property is situated; in other words, the section would still operate the same as it did. Other types of public service businesses will still be assessed by the Board of Equalization or some — whatever kind of board supersedes it at a later date.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If we may go back to Section 4, I'd like to ask Delegate Unruh: Is there any need for the language in line 5 and 6? I realize that was in the old Constitution, but I have a hard time seeing its purpose.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Well, we didn't think that we should bobtail that sentence right after "as provided in this constitution." I realize it may be slightly superfluous, but we felt we should include it. If you'll note your amendment, it says "to which the state or other public agency shall be a party." And that "public agency" in this case could be a municipal industrial development corporation, or something in that area. That's why we kept the language.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: I would like to ask somebody on the Committee what a "private utility" is.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Does anybody care to answer? Delegate McElroy.

DELEGATE McELROY: Mr. President. To answer that question: There are some pipelines, I understand, that are owned privately, but they extend across county lines or political subdivisions, and we felt that it was not practical for the local assessor to be handling these types of things. They're better handled as a public pipeline, I believe.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. In regard to and in support of what Delegate McElroy has said: We have quite an oil industry in North Dakota and all those lines — gathering lines — and then the pipeline, like from the oil field and the refineries, and so forth, would be regarded as public — as private utilities. They are not regulated by any state agency as to rates, and so forth, or as to having to prove public convenience and necessity to operate, in comparison with what is known as a public utility, like a telephone company or an electric company, or such as that. But the Committee feels that they should properly remain under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Equalization for assessment purposes, because you take the local township assessor or the city assessor, if they should go through a municipality, they wouldn't begin to have the data, and so forth, to give a proper figure for the assessment on these properties.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

I believe, then, we should move to Section 6.

Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

If you will refer to Section 186 of the present Constitution, you would see that that is a very lengthy section — and the Committee has boiled it down, but, I think, kept all of the essential parts intact in that short section this is now before you.

There is one change that I think was very necessary when we considered this. The old section, you will note, says "All public moneys, from whatever source derived . . ." well, there's never been any attempt to go out and interfere with a township, county and municipal funds, but this should be limited to state funds, so that they wouldn't have to send the local taxing district moneys up to the State Treasurer and then have to get it back some way, or something like that. But it does require all of the state public moneys to be deposited with the Treasurer, and then apportioned out by appropriation by the Legislature, the same as formerly.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I'd like to inquire of the Committee:

I notice that under the old section, the moneys could be disbursed or paid out only pursuant to appropriations made by the Legislature. The new language now says that the moneys shall be paid out and disbursed only as provided by law. I think that there may be a difference. It may be subtle. But in the old Constitution, there had to be a legislative appropriation each time to take funds out. If you say "provided by law," could not the Legislature then pass a law that would say hereafter so many moneys — so much money would be taken out of the State Treasury for a certain purpose, and avoid the necessity to reappropriate? And if that's the case, is this what we want to do?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

We discussed this in Committee rather carefully, and we have in other sections of this article provided — placed in the wording “as provided by law.” I realize that it might be just a little close, as you say, Delegate Kelsch, that it is possible that we could pass a blanket piece of legislation; but, nevertheless, it would be the responsibility of the Legislature, and we felt in Committee that the Legislature should make the provisions for the disposition, and this is consistent with other articles or other sections of the article which we have — the “as provided by law” feature.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? Hearing none, we are now on the main question. We are on the question of the passage of Committee Proposal 1-23 as divided on the floor.

Now we are not voting on Section 2 and, also, then, it would follow that we delete in line 6, Section 174. So now we are voting on 1-23 with those sections and, also, in the title.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I'd like to request a division on each of these sections, if I may, please.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Maxwell has requested that we vote on each — separately on each of these sections. That request is granted.

So then at this time we will be voting on Section 3 — it's becoming a little complicated here — we are voting on Section 1; however, Section 1 is just a repealer clause, and these clauses refer — the sections refer to and correspond with the sections that are contained in Proposal 1-23. So, actually, if we vote on Section 3, we are voting then that — my interpretation of this is that if Section 3 passes this body, then Section 175 and the repealer clause would automatically be taken care of. Do you follow?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Could I suggest that we leave consideration of Section 1 until the other sections have been voted on, and then we can amend, I think, by general agreement, I think, Section 1?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes, that would be an excellent suggestion.

Delegate Haugen now has moved that we separate Section 1 from the other sections, and we'll vote on Section 1 following completion of the vote on the other sections. A very good suggestion.

I believe that now, that in lieu of the fact that we are voting on each section separately, we may as well begin by voting on Section 2. So now —

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, at the request of one of the Committee members, in an effort to get the sense of the Convention, I'm going to first move an amendment, and if the amendment should be adopted, I'm going to then move that this section be re-referred to Committee so that the amendment can be refined and researched.

I'll move that on line 13 — pardon me. I think the lines are the same, but I'm not positive. I think it's still line 13. After the word “may” insert the words “to replace property taxes already in effect”.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is the suggested amendment — is that at the desk, Delegate Sinner?

DELEGATE SINNER: No, it is not.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Then — yes. Well, we'll just hold this in abeyance for a moment, so that the proposed amendment can be typed and read from the desk.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, I have an amendment at the desk that is typed. It speaks on the same sentence. I suppose I have to wait.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes, I believe now that you must wait.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: If it is essentially the same amendment, I'll be happy to withdraw my motion. Is it?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Paulson?

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, I would ask that the Chair read the amendment, and then Mr. Sinner can make up his mind whether it accomplishes his purpose.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. The motion, then, of Delegate Sinner is held in abeyance while the Clerk reads the proposed amendment offered by Delegate Paulson.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On page 1, strike the last sentence of Section 2, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"The legislative assembly may levy no property taxes except to provide revenue for distribution among school districts on such system as may be established by law."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Representative Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Well, Mr. President, I think I'll stand by my motion then, if I have a second.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Seconded by Delegate Kwako.

The Clerk will now read the proposed amendment offered by Delegate Sinner.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-23 be amended as follows:

On page 1, in line 13 of the engrossed proposal, following the word "may" insert the following: "to replace property taxes already in effect".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there any discussion? Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, it's been hashed over enough, I guess; but the reason that I think there is some logic to this, and I admit, as somebody, I'm sure, will suggest, that we are going into legislative affairs. I admit that. But I think at this particular point in time we can't ignore the fact that we do have a lot of property taxes in this State and in most states; but neither can we ignore the fact that property taxes aren't any longer valid in large degree. They begin with a basic inequity and they build on it, and I don't think that we want in any way to suggest to the Legislature that when emergencies arise, that they should turn to the new property taxes to answer those and solve those emergencies. Income taxes and — principally income taxes are the only kind of taxes where you can really do what you set out to do, it seems to me, and so I — that's kind of my thinking on the proposed amendment.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

I think that we all kind of fall into the trap of living in a fool's paradise on the property taxes. It's a never-never land — a land of make-believe. Any time you take a look at what is possible under our existing Constitution and what we are doing, you begin to realize that from the time that new taxes became possible to the State, that the property tax has been adjusted downwards to the point that it no longer reflects anything that was in mind in 1889. For instance, you form a property tax that is now authorized, but not levied, which would bring in a maximum of two million eight hundred thousand to the State under today's valuations and assessment systems; but if the State Legislature raised the taxing base from 50 percent to 100 percent and the Board of Equalization assessed at 100 percent of full and true value, as the law says it should, that two million eight hundred thousand all of a sudden would become twenty-eight million in the property tax. And this is what's possible under existing law. I think that when we talk about replacement levies, as Mr. Sinner proposes, we're just fooling ourselves and deluding the public.

Now, let's recognize that the future problems revolve around school taxes, and I think that if Mr. Sinner's amendment and my proposed amendment, which I can still send down to the Committee, if the bill goes back there, should be discussed in light of today's discussion. I don't think that we need a two-thirds vote required in the Legislature, and I think, when we talk about our replacement deal, we are beginning, again, to fool the public over the long run.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President. I'm not speaking for or against the amendment; only to confuse the issue a little further, to ask a question.

In the amendment, it says "to replace property taxes already in effect." Now, I think I know that Senator Sinner means the State, as well as local subdivisions; but he didn't say that, and I think when the — if this amendment does pass and the Committee studies it, they ought to consider putting in "already being levied by the State or any of its subdivisions," because that being a technical question, it might come up as to whether or not the money that's being — or the taxes that are being levied now by any school district — whether or not that would cover it. So just a suggestion, Delegate.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

When I gave this amendment earlier, I had the word "local" in there, but I took it out so that we wouldn't preclude the Legislature from passing the one-mill levy for the Medical School, also.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: I agree with Delegate Sinner that something of this nature will have to be put in; otherwise, we will still have that emergency come this summer.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President, I support Delegate Sinner's amendment. I think it makes Section 2 a great deal more plausible.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? Hearing none, now we are on Delegate Sinner's motion, which is to amend Section 2.

All those in favor, signify by saying "aye," opposed "nay."

The Chair will rule the "ayes" have it.

Does anyone want — want a division?

All right. How many want division?

All right. The key will be opened. You may vote on the report. If you're voting — you're voting to adopt Delegate Sinner's amendment to Section 2.

All right. The key will be open. You may cast your vote. Saugstad votes "aye."

Has everyone voted? Anyone wish to change their vote? If not, the key will be closed. The Clerk will record the vote.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate — wait just a moment.

DELEGATE SINNER: Oh! I'm sorry.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The tally shows 57 "ayes," 37 "nays." Therefore, the motion carries. The amendment has been adopted.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, can — can — or should I move this section back to Committee, or do you want to wait and throw the whole thing back?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I'll defer to — Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Well, Mr. President, I assume that your answer, as a member of the Committee, would have probably been the same as mine; that we don't want the whole thing back. No, we surely don't. We don't. And if this amendment is approved — and I voted for it and I think it makes it more — makes the section more acceptable — if this amendment is approved and the section is also approved, I can really see no reason why it should go back to the Committee. I think we have a Style and Drafting Committee that can iron out any problems about language. Would that be okay?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, I now move my amendment as an amendment to Section 2 as amended, for discussion purposes.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The Clerk will read Delegate Paulson's proposed amendment to Section 2 as amended.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-23 be amended as follows:

On page 1, strike the last sentence of Section 2, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"The legislative assembly may levy no property taxes except to provide revenue for distribution among school districts on such system as may be established by law."

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The motion has been seconded by Kelsch — Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman. I think that this idea deserves your serious consideration. In the discussion that went on for an hour-and-a-half, we were talking about schools and the forthcoming emergency from the various state and district courts about property taxes. Any emergency in state operations can never be solved by a property tax, because it takes too long to realize any revenue from that system. In other words, if the State Legislature, by a two-thirds vote, did decide to levy a property tax to help finance state government here in the State Capitol, it would be a good year or 18 months before the fund became available.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President —

DELEGATE PAULSON: And if we are talking about the school system, the wording I have proposed, I think, would make — remove any questions about the present system and would give the Legislature the authority to move in and tackle whatever emergency may develop out of the various court decisions that seem to be bothering the tax programs of all states.

I would like this proposal to be thoroughly examined by either the Committee or this body.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I suggest we also consider this approach:

First, I thought that Delegate Sinner's suggestion would solve the problem; but if we analyze what we've done, we've simply said the State can levy taxes to replace another tax. So if the subdivision was levying 30 mills for other things, the State could take the 30 mills and use it for state money. It's just a replacement of the money. It doesn't indicate where it will go.

Now our problem concerns if we have schools in the future, and I think Delegate Paulson's proposed amendment gets to this problem. It allows the assessment on property for schools. I don't think that Delegate Sinner's really does that. If there's 30 mills being levied now, it would go on the State level and the State can collect that money and not say where it goes. I feel this is such a crucial section and there's so much controversy on it that we should send

Section 2 back to the Committee so they can consider the approach of Delegate Sinner and Delegate Paulson; but I do think Delegate Paulson's approach is a better approach, and I urge your approval of that.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Now we're getting right down to the nitty-gritty, so to speak, that faced our Committee, because these very things were kicked around. I'm sorry, Delegate Paulson — I interrupted you before. I thought you were through. But by taking either one of these amendments, there's one thing you're doing, Delegates; you're precluding — or you're looking down the road — you're looking at a crystal ball, so to speak, saying that the education thing is the only thing that will ever be what this State will be confronted with as to having to find the moneys, other than sales and income taxes.

As I mentioned before, there may be other circumstances, other than schools, that we possibly can do this with; but I certainly feel that this body should vote on Delegate Paulson's motion, so that the Committee could get the feel and get the pulse of what the Convention feels; and, also, possibly another amendment should be tried out in regard to whether a majority vote or a two-thirds vote is what this Convention feels in this regard. Then the Committee could probably have some guidelines by which we could put this thing back together.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Well, Mr. President, just to clarify it:

If the Paulson amendment is adopted and should remain the final language, couldn't the State levy enough property tax to pay for all the secondary school needs and also replace the money that comes now from the State Equalization — or the State payment to the schools, and thereby really impose a rather large and significant new property tax? Is that conceivable, or am I misinstructed?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman. The Legislature has already imposed the 21-mill school equalization fund levy. In the last session of the Legislature, there was serious consideration given to a State-imposed 53-mill county equalization fund levy. We can only surmise that the Legislature is going to act within the bounds of acceptability, because as soon as they get outside those bounds, any problem that they come up with in severely changing the impact of the property tax, is going to be referred and voted down. We know. This is our State, and we know exactly what will happen. But in this amendment, we limit the use to school purposes. We limit it for payment in the school districts — not for substitution of State expenses.

Now, true, the State Legislature could completely wipe out all state agency schools; but it could do that today. But then the load would have to be back on the local districts. What is happening in the court system is that the court systems are saying that the — the locally-imposed property taxes are an illegal or unconstitutional way to finance schools. So we have to give the Legislature some way around this possible Supreme Court declaration.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion?

Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President. I will oppose Delegate Paulson's amendment. It removes this two-thirds vote protection. Shaky as I think that may be at some future time, it has some value in 1972.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President. I would speak in favor of Delegate Paulson's motion, while I appreciate what Delegate Sinner was trying to do, and I think he raised a very valid question. I really would like to see it go back to Committee. I am concerned about all these other property taxes that are now existing. We probably have a dozen different property taxes that are existing. If these were knocked out, would you want this to all come back to the Legislature? I would think not.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Might I suggest to the delegates, so that we can move on, that we vote on Delegate Paulson's amendment. This would show how the delegates feel about that approach; then we proceed to indefinitely postpone or kill Section 2. This would enable the Committee to bring it back, after considering the debate, with the possible amendments. We could then go on and pass Sections 3, 4, 5 and 6, instead of — this would avoid — if we try to refer Section 2 back to the Committee, we'll wonder what happened to the others. So, if we vote on Delegate Paulson's amendment and get this out — I urge you to vote "no" — then that would urge the Committee to come back with something in accord to the wishes of the Convention, and we could get back on the others and vote on them.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President and Delegates:

I might say, just for the Convention's information here — and I appreciate the fact that the Committee's report shouldn't be accepted as such, and great discussion's been had on the floor on this and many other things — I might just observe, though, that this particular proposal is the place where the Committee put what it considered were the most noncontroversial parts of its deliberations, and the other ones are still to hit the floor! (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, I have a question I'm not entirely certain on.

If we follow the procedure that Delegate Kelsch has outlined, do Sections 3, 4, 5 and 6 then stand as approved, and they will require no further action? Would this be your ruling?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Well, no. The way I understand it, the question has been divided, so we're voting on these sections separately. I believe that any of the sections which are passed by this body will have been deemed to have passed as a part of Proposal 1-23, and they will have been disposed of either by passing or failure to pass.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes. Then I don't believe that the Committee or myself, personally, have any objection to this. Evidently, the Committee did make a mistake in not breaking down our proposals into separate sections. As Delegate Lerberg observed, we thought that this one was going to go through without any question. (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We are now on the motion of Delegate Paulson to further amend Section 2. All those then — if you vote "aye," you vote in favor of Delegate Paulson's motion to adopt his amendment to Section 2 as amended; if you vote "no," you are voting not to adopt it.

I'll now put the question. All those in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The Chair will rule the "noes" have it, unless a division is called for.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Division.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: How many want a division. Division granted.

So now the board will be opened and, if you vote "aye," you're voting to adopt Delegate Paulson's motion; if you vote "no," you're voting against adopting that amendment.

You may record your vote. Has everyone voted? Saugstad votes "aye."

Does anyone wish to change their vote? If not, the board is closed. The Clerk will take the tally.

The vote shows 65 "nays;" 30 "ayes." The motion lost.

So now we are back to the main motion — the adoption. We are now back on the main motion of — to vote "yes" or "no" on Section 2 as amended.

Delegate Haugen, do you want to make a motion?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Well, Mr. President, I have a question in my mind as to what is the best thing to do. I presume that the fair thing is to bring this section back to Committee for further discussion. Personally, I may say that I am convinced in my own mind that the section as presently worded is a good section; that it fits the Constitution; it fits the new Constitution, as I believe it should; it gives the Legislature authority to take action in case of emergencies. But in the interests of fairness, I will move that Section 2 be re-referred to the Committee. No? Let's vote on my motion. I believe that there is a feeling among some of the delegates that we should consider this further. The Committee is in good order, as far as its work is concerned. I have no assurance what the Committee will do if it comes before you again; but in the interests of fairness to those who do oppose the wording of the present section, I will move that it be referred to Committee and the balance of the section — or the balance of Committee Proposal 1-23 be voted on at this time.

DELEGATE BAKER: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The motion has been seconded by Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. I thought that I recall when we had this issue up several days ago, the desk had indicated it was almost impossible for them to keep track of a proposal half in one position and half in another. That was why I thought we had to do what Delegate Kelsch had suggested, which was simply vote "no" on Section 2, in which case the old section of the Constitution remains alive; that the Committee will then have to come in with a new proposal, but 1-23, somewhat emasculated, will then go on its merry way.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I believe that that statement made by Delegate Lander is correct. Of course that we have these various sections tied into Delegate — or, that is, Committee Proposal 1-23, and perhaps for the record, as far as the desk force is concerned, there should be a vote on Section 2. If it is defeated, then it would naturally follow that it would be necessary for the Committee to bring in a committee proposal replacing that section of the Constitution.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Personally, I certainly — personally, I certainly prefer to vote. I did make sort of a commitment to move it — to refer it. If my second will agree and you hold that my motion is not in order, I would rather withdraw it at this time.

VICE PRESIDENT HAUGEN: Delegate Haugen has asked to have his motion withdrawn, with the consent of the second.

(Delegate Baker nodded.)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: It is granted, and the motion has now been withdrawn.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President. Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I believe Delegate Engelter was first.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President. I think because Section 2 has been amended, it would be necessary to suspend the Rules.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: That is correct. Before we could vote on it, it would be necessary to suspend — are you offering that as a motion?

DELEGATE ENGELTER: I think that would be proper.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I move that the Rules be temporarily suspended and Section 2 of 1-23 be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for final passage.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second to that motion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Litten seconds the motion, and we then have the motion that the Rules be suspended and have this properly before us for passage. Did you wish to speak, Delegate Hoffner?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Yes, Mr. Chairman. I just want to mention, for the information of the Committee, that we have another avenue, if this is defeated — Section 2. They could attach it to another proposal that deals with noncontroversial issues and resubmit it. (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We are now on the motion of Delegate Omdahl that the Rules be suspended, that Section 2 be considered properly re-engrossed, and be placed on first reading and first passage as amended.

All in favor signify by saying "aye," opposed "no." I believe the "ayes" have it, and the motion prevails.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I think that the discussion plainly points out that there should be one more look given to this section of the bill before it goes to final passage. It could carry by 51-55 votes, and we wouldn't be happy with it. Therefore, I move that further consideration of Section 2 be indefinitely postponed and the subject matter be referred to the Tax and Finance Committee.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I believe that's out of order.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate — first, I believe that I would rule that motion out of order. I don't believe that we have a provision — that provision in our rules.

DELEGATE KELSCH: To accomplish the very same thing, I would urge you to vote "no" on Section 2. That will cause the Committee to have to re-present it to us, and we'll see what the Committee comes up with.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. Now we are on the main motion of passage of Section 2, Proposal 1-23 as amended.

The board will be opened and you may cast your vote. Saugstad votes "nay."

Has everyone voted? Anyone wish to change their vote? If not, the board will be closed and the Clerk will take the record.

The vote shows 21 "ayes," 74 "nays," three absent and not voting. Therefore, that Section 2 of 1-23 lost.

We will now be on the next order of business, which is consideration of Section 3 of Proposal 1-23.

The question has been called. The board will be open and you may cast your vote. Have all voted? Does any delegate desire to change his vote? Saugstad votes "aye." The board will be closed and the Clerk will take the record.

The record discloses 85 "ayes," 9 "nays," four absent and not voting. Therefore, Section 3 is adopted.

Next we shall have under consideration Section 4. All right. We will now call — the main question is on passage of Section 4.

The board will be opened. You may record your vote. Saugstad votes "aye."

Have all voted? — Does anyone — does any Delegate desire to change his vote? The board will be closed and the Clerk will take the record.

The record discloses 89 "ayes," three "nays," six absent and not voting.

Therefore, Section 4 of 1-23 has been adopted.

Next we shall have under consideration Section 5 of 1-23.

The question has been called. The board will be opened. You may cast your vote. Saugstad votes "aye."

Have all voted? Does any delegate desire to change his vote? The Clerk will close the board and take the record.

The record discloses 93 "ayes," one "nay," four absent and not voting.

Therefore Section 5 has been passed or adopted.

Next we shall have under consideration Section 6 of 1-23.

The question has been called. The board —

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: May I ask the Committee a question on Section 6?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes.

DELEGATE PEARCE: The last Legislature provided that many State boards, including the State Bar Board, of which I am the Chairman, should not deposit license fees that they collect with the State; that they should, instead, deposit them in a bank and account for them in that manner. Now, would this Section make that 1971 Act unconstitutional?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President. No. The purpose of the wording here on line 19, "except as otherwise provided by this constitution or by law," will permit agencies, such as the Bank — or the Bar Board not to have to do these things monthly, because, as you can understand the operation of a bank, you can't follow this same general rule. It just isn't a practical thing. So that's why the section is provided in there.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Does that answer your question, Delegate Pearce?

DELEGATE PEARCE: I think so.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: That answer raises the question: Why have it in the Constitution then? If the Legislature isn't going to be able to say whether they should deposit it or not, what's the purpose of having that particular part in the Constitution?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, I was rising to ask the same question that Delegate Kelsch asked. Why have it in the Constitution at all?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Well, Mr. President, it seems perfectly clear to me that this is a blanket provision for the way the money is to be handled, unless it is otherwise specifically mentioned in the law or elsewhere in the Constitution. If you didn't have this, you would have to have a separate piece of law on every piece of money, I suppose.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? Hearing none, are we ready for the question?

All right. Then the board will be opened and you may — you will be casting your vote on Section 6 — Section 6 of Proposal 1-23. Saugstad votes "aye."

Have all voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? If not, the Clerk will close the board and take the record.

The record discloses 82 "ayes," 12 "nays," four absent and not voting. Therefore, Section 6 has been adopted.

DELEGATE WARNER: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE WARNER: I would now like to explain my reason for voting "no."

As I understand, there's going to be a recommendation that the Office of the State Treasurer be removed from the Constitution, and we have just adopted a provision in the Constitution that money shall be deposited in that office.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Well, Mr. President, in answer to Delegate Warner, we have a — we have a Committee on Style and Drafting, and one of their duties and responsibilities is, in the end, to take care of these conflicts that may arise because one committee is not able always to take into account what another committee is doing, and in the final draft to be presented to us, I'm sure that this matter will be taken care of.

Mr. President, now I think — I believe that, for the purpose of the record, the motion that the figure "174" in line 1 — I assume — I don't have this written down, so I imagine that the stenographer is taking it down — that the figure "174" in line 1 be deleted, the figure "174" in line 6 be deleted, all of lines 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 be deleted, and that the section numbers and line numbers be corrected.

I so move. And then may I make an inquiry of the Chair?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: In order that there be no misunderstanding of what we have done here today, I would then think that a motion should be made that 1-23 as further amended be re-engrossed and be placed on first reading and passage, so that there will be no question that we are adopting in conformity with the amendments that I have now offered.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second to that motion?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Nicholas seconded that motion.

We have a motion then from the floor by Delegate Haugen that — the desk force informs me that they think that your motion is in order in removing Sections 1 — reference to Section "174" in lines 1 and 6; that the engrosser will automatically remove that portion dealing with Section 2 which occurs at lines 8 through 15; that that will be taken care of automatically; but then to remove the reference — the references to Section "174" and that the lines should be re-numbered accordingly, and that that portion of your motion is perfectly in order. So, if you will accept that change in your motion —

DELEGATE HAUGEN: If this meets the requirements, I will so move.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. It has been then moved and, I believe, seconded by Nicholas, that Haugen's motion in reference to Section "174" be removed from Committee Proposal 1-23 and that the Rules be suspended and that it be considered properly re-engrossed and that the entire proposal now be placed before us.

All right. The motion then, of Delegate Haugen is that the references to Section "174" will have been deleted and that the Rules be suspended and that it be considered properly re-engrossed and that it will now be placed before us for first reading and final passage.

Do you have a question, Delegate Kelsch?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, a point of information.

I wonder — I thought the ruling was, of the Chair, that we would not vote again once these have been passed. If we open up that situation, we have the very difficult situation where some of us voted "yes" on some and some of us voted "no" on some, and I thought we were going to consider the section passed, a section is passed, and there would be no need for a further vote. I do think that the amendment is necessary that Delegate Haugen is making, and I do think we have to vote on Section 1 as amended, but I don't know that we should re-submit the package of Sections 2, 3, — or 3, 4, 5, and 6 and 1 on a further vote.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: I believe that Kelsch has raised a — his point, I think, is well-taken, and I believe that an earlier point we did adopt — that is, I think the Chair ruled that once there had been a division on a proposal and that then we voted on each of the sections separately and they carried, that that was it. However, in this particular instance, I believe that we have not dealt with Section 1, and so then I believe that if this will meet with the approval of Delegate Haugen, then, that his motion will be, then, that we vote on Section 1 as amended.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Yes. That's all right.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All right. Now we are voting on Section 1. If there is no further discussion from the floor —

DELEGATE PAULSON: A point of order, Mr. Chairman.

I don't think we have voted on the amendment yet.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes. Properly, we should adopt the amendment to delete that. I'm glad you mention that. The first vote will be on the adoption of the amendment to delete reference to Section "174".

All those in favor signify by saying "aye;" those opposed vote "nay." The "ayes" have it and that section — Section 1 — has now been amended by deletion of Section "174."

Now, Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, I haven't heard the master motion here of suspending the Rules before we vote on each of those, if we're not going to vote on them again, and I know we didn't in this particular section, and since this is first reading and they have amended on the floor, it seems to me the Rules would have to be suspended when we voted on each section. I don't know whether we did it on the others or not, but I know we didn't on this one.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would move that the Rules be suspended and that Section 1 be deemed properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first reading and passage.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second? Seconded by Delegate Lander.

All those in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

So now we have before us Section 1. Is there any further discussion? Hearing none, the board will be opened and you may record your vote. Saugstad votes "aye."

Have all voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? If not, the Clerk will take the record.

The record discloses 93 "ayes," no "nays," five absent and not voting. Therefore, Section 1 has been passed or adopted.

Now — Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, a point of inquiry:

Does the record show that we suspended the rules on these other sections? If not, we've got to do something, because I know Delegate Pearce, when he got in there on that section that has the reference to the United States, would jump on it and say that wasn't properly enacted.

DELEGATE LERBERG: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Lerberg.

DELEGATE LERBERG: I don't think any of these other sections have been amended.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: That is correct. Our record at the desk shows that none of the other sections were amended on the floor.

We will next then have —

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, may we be on the twelfth order?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes, we may.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates, I would like to move we reconsider our action by which we passed Proposal No. 1-28, and if I get a second I'll explain my reasons.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sanstead seconds.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Fellow Delegates, this is the proposal by which we set out a five-year residence requirement to hold office — any state office in this State — and my amendment at the desk would change that to two. This is a late date for moving this. I hate at this late hour to bring this up. But this is the last day for moving it, and still have a majority vote. So I felt I had to, and I would like to ask you to reconsider our setting a five-year residence requirement for holding State office. I think our main content of this Proposal is to prevent carpetbagging. I think two years would do that. I don't think anybody is going to come to North Dakota and wait two years to try to run it. I think two years would be long enough. But what I'm concerned about is the fact of what this may do to our young people who go out of the State to find employment and decide to come back to North Dakota, and while they're out of the State, and they can relax the residence requirement of the other states, they may well vote in the other states and come back to North Dakota. Fine. But they could not run for state office for five years.

I'm also concerned with the fact that now, when our young people go out of the State to go to college, with the relaxing of residency requirements, it's very likely they would want to vote in the other state or establish residency in the other states to get favorable tuition treatment, and these are 18-year-olds now, and they decide to vote and then to come back in North Dakota and live and vote. But if they stay away, out of North Dakota, they'd have to wait five years. And this is one of the problems we have in getting some of these people to run for office — qualified people to run for office. So I would urge you consider the action.

So the motion is at the desk. The motion would be that we drop the word "five" years residency to "two" years.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Any further discussion? If not —

DELEGATE LARSEN: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Larsen.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Is this thing working?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes.

DELEGATE LARSEN: As the records show, I voted against Section 1-28 at our last meeting, and I voted because I felt that the age limit should have been lowered to 21, and I so wish that to be shown; and if so, will make an amendment on this Section 1-28 to that effect.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Larsen, I believe that we will have to dispose — unless — yes. You can either further amend Delegate Kelsch's motion or wait until Delegate Kelsch's motion has been made, and then offer an additional amendment.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I think everybody's hungry, and I would like to recess. I believe, since we haven't adopted our permanent Rules, that you're only going to need a simple majority at any time, Delegate Kelsch, and I would like to see us put this off until tomorrow, so that the Committee could talk about it, so we can think about these things. It's a late date to consider amendments.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Well, just again, the Chair is not supposed to speak on these matters; but this is an instance, I believe, where the motion of Delegate Kelsch could be placed, if it carries. Then we have already considered it and then someone could either move to have it referred to Committee or placed someplace on the calendar. So then there's no question about that we have it before us again.

Hearing no further discussion, we are now on the motion of Delegate Kelsch that this body reconsider its action on Proposal 1-28.

All those in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The Chair will rule the "ayes" have it, unless a division is called for.

No division being called for, we now have before us Committee Proposal No. 1-28. What is your wish?

DELEGATE HERNETT: Well, now, Mr. President —

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Since it is here, I'll move now that it be placed at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hernet has moved that Committee Proposal No. 1-28 be placed at the foot of the calendar. Is there a second to that motion?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Warner Litten seconded that motion.

All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion carries and Delegate Proposal No. 1-28 will be placed at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, do you want to recess or adjourn?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: There are some, I believe, some announcements and other things from the desk, and then I believe that there are committee hearings scheduled for this afternoon, so that when we have finished the work at the desk, we will be in a position to adjourn.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, one of the first things of reasonable people is not to die of starvation, and I'm just wondering. (Laughter)

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: We will now be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The Executive Functions Committee will meet one-and-one-half hours after recess of the Session on Tuesday, January 18th.

Apple Creek Country Club, located six miles east of Bismarck on old Highway 10, welcomes all delegates to use their diner and evening facilities. The Club is open on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

That's all I've got.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: The Committee on Finance and Taxation had expected to have a vacation this afternoon; but I think that, under the circumstances, I had best call the meeting for two o'clock of the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President:

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Yes, Delegate Haugen?

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Might I suggest that those delegates who have strong feelings on Section 2 of 1-23 appear before the Committee and discuss this matter with the Committee this afternoon?

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. Chairman, the Committee on Legislative Functions will meet at two o'clock in the Large Hearing Room.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, the Committee on Education, Public Lands and Resources will meet at 1:30 in G-1.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I would remind the members of the Bill of Rights Committee that our hearing today is at 1:30.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I'd like to announce a meeting of the Judiciary Committee at the usual place, at 1:30, and, fellows, if you'll be there, why we can get out in a little while. There are no women on that committee, as the records will show. (Laughter)

Mr. President, there has been a paper passed out to each of your desks, and I think a little word of explanation, so you make use of it. It has to do with 1-11, and in the first column you will find the old section of the Constitution; in the second column you will find the majority report and where that material was included in the majority report, and in the third column you will find where that provision was dealt with, if it was dealt with, in the minority report. So — so in referring to that, you'll have to be making full reference to that in making your study of these two records.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. Chairman.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, I would like to call a meeting of the Education Subcommittee on Trust Lands immediately after adjournment, in Room G-1.

I might explain that Counsel Cuffe informs me that the State Land Department has had an individual ready since roughly noon hour to speak in the Committee about the change; and since we're going to be submitting that to our full Committee this afternoon, I think this emergency session of the Subcommittee on Trust Lands ought to meet immediately in Room G-1.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman, I rise to inquire:

I happen to be the possessor, as I know many of you are, of a blue ticket for our party this evening, and being a relative stranger in Bismarck, and being highly desirous of going to the party, I'd like to know how to get there.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Will someone so inform Delegate Poulson? The Clerk, I think.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The tickets are for tonight's party. The ticket is good for one couple at the door, at the Municipal Country Club, which would be eight or nine blocks directly west of the Capitol, on Boulevard, I believe. It would be on Boulevard, and you'd run into the golf course, and there's a sign that says "No Snowmobiles." That's as close as I can tell you to get there. It will open at eight o'clock.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: Mr. President.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Hildebrand.

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: I would like to announce that Representative Elmer Miller and Mrs. Miller are visiting us in the Chamber, and I'd like to have the Convention recognize them.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Very fine. (Applause)

There is one further announcement from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The Calendar Committee will meet at 8:30 A.M., Wednesday, January 19th in the President's office.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: The desk is clear. Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I move we adjourn until nine o'clock — woop — woop! I move —

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Delegate Diehl moves that the absent members be excused and seconded by Delegate Daniels.

All in favor, signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion carried.

Now, Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Now, before I make it, I have an announcement.

The Bismarck Police are very helpful getting you to and from the Municipal Country Club. (Laughter)

I move we adjourn until tomorrow morning at nine o'clock.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: Is there a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

VICE PRESIDENT SAUGSTAD: All in favor signify by saying "aye;" opposed "no." The motion carries and we are adjourned.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 1:38 P.M., Tuesday, January 18, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Wednesday, January 19, 1972.)

VOLUME XIII

(January 19, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The thirteenth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:13 A.M., Wednesday, January 19, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

We'll be on the second order of business, the Invocation.

Our Chaplain for this morning is the Reverend Norman Winkelman, Pastor, Calvary United Methodist Church of Bismarck.

REV. NORMAN WINKELMAN: Dear Lord and Father of mankind, forgive our foolish ways. Reclothe us in our rightful minds; in purer lives Thy service find; in deeper reverence, praise.

We thank You, Our Heavenly Father, for the leading of Your spirit in the establishing of our nation under God, and we pray for Your divine guidance as we work to build a constitution to govern our beloved State of North Dakota.

In the midst of the press of the business at hand today, make our minds calm, so that we may be attentive to Your voice of truth. For we pray it in Jesus' name. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be on the third order of business — Roll Call.

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 95 present; three delegates absent. A quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order of business — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 17th day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

On page 191, in line 49, delete the word "public" and insert in lieu thereof the word "policy".

On page 196, delete 27 "Committee Proposal No. 1-61".

And when so corrected, recommends the same be approved.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Paulson moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted.

We'll be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-37, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended. When so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman. Delegate Hoffner moves the same be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-37; that the Proposal be amended. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the adoption of the report will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-37 will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

We'll be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Referral of Proposals to Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-99, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that article 33 of the amendments to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that new section 8 of Article XVI of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, both of which pertain to the recall of certain elected officials."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-99 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-100, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that two new sections to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, both of which pertain to the executive branch of government, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-100 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-101, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 139 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that article XVII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, both of which pertain to public utilities."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-101 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-102, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 71 and 72 of the constitution of the State of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to the executive branch of government."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-102 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-103, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 81 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to ethics, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-103 is referred to the Committee on Executive Functions.

Fellow Delegates, it's only a few minutes now until 9:30, at which time, by motion, we have a committee report to hear; and so, rather than take a chance on starting on the tenth order of business, I am going to declare the Convention at ease for just a few minutes.

The Convention will be at ease.

(The Convention was at ease from 9:24 A.M. until 9:32 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order. We'll be on the fifth order of business — Report of Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A majority of your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-53, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegates Maxwell, Daniels, Fiedler, Geelan, Hubrig, Lamb, O'Toole, Schmit and Urdahl.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman. Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

Mr. President: A minority of your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-53, has had the same under consideration and recommends that Committee Proposal 1-53 be amended as follows:

On line 1 delete the comma after the word "Dakota."

Delete line 2 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to freedom to obtain employment."

After line 5, add the following:

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"There shall be no discrimination against a qualified person's right to practice a trade or profession or to obtain or hold employment because of race, color, sex, creed, or membership or nonmembership in a trade or labor organization or professional group."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

And when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Burbidge, Bender, Decker, Huckle, Thompson and Tudor.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Burbidge moves that the report of the minority be substituted for the report of the majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the substitute proposal — the amendment that the report of the minority be substituted for the report of the majority.

Do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Since being appointed to the subcommittee on this issue some six months ago, I have heard much testimony on the subject. I have spent a fair amount of personal time — time on personal discussion on the matter and have received quite a little personal mail. I would like to share my experiences and observations with you.

I find two areas of agreement on the subject, one which, I am sure, deeply concerns us all, and the other which greatly compliments us all.

The first area of agreement is that this issue has a substantial bearing on citizen approval of our whole Constitution. Each side on this issue has stated very sincerely and frankly that if we take action contrary to their point of view, serious consequences could develop. I commend each side on being so candid and so honest.

Now, the other area of agreement — and I find this almost unanimous — is that delegate opinion on the subject is not greatly influenced by the game of numbers or by the desire to be on the popular side. Our individual decisions on this matter will be based on what each of us feel is right — on what we can support with honesty and with dignity. This doesn't make agreement any easier, but it should increase citizen confidence in our actions on this and other important matters.

Now, as we face the areas of disagreement, one of the conflicts of which I have become aware is the clash of the Emphasis on Detail versus the Emphasis on Principle. I am aware that some learned and sincere people have become such constitutional purists — on this one issue, at least — that they would delete "right-to-work" from our Constitution because it offends their sensitivities on their definition of what is constitutional material. I take note of their conclusions on this detail, but I respectfully disagree.

There is room in our Constitution to deal with such basic people-to-people rights as the freedom of religion and the freedom of the press. There was room in our old Constitution to deal with "right-to-work." Have we suddenly become so sophisticated that we cannot acknowledge this basic right because it doesn't fit into our narrow definition of constitutional matter? Is space in this Constitution so exclusive and so precious that there isn't room for 50 words protecting the individual's right to dissent? Are we so tidy in our constitutional housekeeping that we've become excessively concerned about cluttering up our Constitution with a simple statement of rights?

Even if our constitutional purists are right, they are right only on detail — on definition and on form. If we must err in constitution making, let us err on detail, because we have an infinitely greater obligation to be right on principle.

Let's look at the principle involved — let's look at the basic issue that is before us.

Now, we start out our effort on constitution making with the basic and stated premise "All rights are inherent in the people." It is our grave and awesome responsibility in the Bill of Rights to transfer some of these rights to government and to preserve other rights to people.

The subject we are dealing with now concerns both the people's right to govern and the individual's right to dissent — both constitutional matters. Let's look at the constitutional ramifications involved with the power to discriminate.

The power to discriminate is the power to dominate, to coerce, to police. The power to police is a governmental power. The power to discriminate is the power to create monopoly — the power to deny or limit entry into a field of endeavor based on an arbitrary internal decision of a self-interest, non-governmental group.

The power to discriminate is the power to set public policy if private, self-interest groups are granted the exclusive right of domination over their field. The public would thus be governed — often on very important and vital matters — by the internal decisions of a private special-interest group.

The power to discriminate is the power to discourage innovation and change — a matter of vital importance.

The power to discriminate is the power to limit service.

And most of all, the power to discriminate is the power to limit dissent — the power to silence minorities within an organization who, for whatever reason, question the practices and/or the policies of their leaders. It's indirect but important result is a less-effective organization, with the leaders less responsive to the wishes and the objectives of the members. Let's not forget that if the members of a private organization have the power to dissent, they have an effective Bill of Rights — they cannot be a captive minority. The right to dissent has an important role in the democratic process.

Now, some have said that this proposal is antiorganization. I couldn't disagree more. I repeat — I couldn't disagree more. This is neither its intent nor its effect. I hold firmly to the belief that the most effective organization is one whose members want to belong to it because it is effectively carrying out the role for which it was created. Further, the most effective organization is one whose leaders are motivated by the knowledge that they must do the job or they will lose support of the members.

Since the power to discriminate is the power to police, the power to create monopoly, the power to limit innovation and change, the power to set public policy, the power to limit service and, most of all, the power to limit dissent, it is the power to govern. The power to govern and the framework of government is the basic question before this Convention. It is not a mundane legislative detail. It is, and should be, a matter of basic concern in this basic document.

Now, let's look for a moment at the framework of government. In matters of state and local government, we divide responsibilities and delineate and limit powers. We provide for due process to protect both the rights of the individual and of society. The deliberations of this Convention are primarily to this end.

Now, the proposal before you says, in effect, that the transfer of the power to govern, either by omission or commission, shall not be made to special-interest non-governmental groups. It says, in effect, that the Legislature shall not franchise the powers of government — shall not give non-governmental groups dictatorial power for licensing or employment in their special-interest field. It says, in effect, that decisions in licensing of professionals for the public's protection shall be made by boards appointed by and approved by elective officials responsible to and answerable to the electorate. It says, in effect, that due process of law shall be available to anyone who questions the goals and decisions of the appointed board.

In summary, the proposal before you guarantees that the power to govern shall remain within the framework of government — shall be subject to the Bill of Rights, shall be either directly or indirectly answerable to the citizens for periodic elective approval, and shall be responsible and responsive to the safeguard of judicial remedy.

Fellow Delegates, we have before us a proposal whose intent and objective is right; and, further, it is a basic constitutional matter. I strongly urge your approval of the minority report. If the minority report should prevail today with your support, we have the privilege on the tenth order tomorrow to hold dialogue and discussion on the best alternate to support the intent and objective of the minority on the Bill of Rights Committee.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President:

This is a day of destiny for the 1972 Constitutional Convention. On this day — Wednesday, January 19, 1972 — the fate of the new Constitution will be settled. That fate will not be resolved on election day next spring; but here, today, now.

A majority of the Bill of Rights Committee solicits your endorsement of a course that we are confident is a correct one, and one that is best calculated to assure the success for the product of this Convention. We submit that the Majority Proposal is the correct one because it is founded upon firm constitutional grounds, because it would result in a constitution that is fair and equitable and right, because it would deal even-handedly with all citizens.

We submit that the Minority or Burbidge Proposal is not constitutionally sound and would produce a constitution that would unfairly and unjustly and unnecessarily discriminate against two groups of citizens in this state — organized labor and the organized Bar of North Dakota. We submit that with such a blemish this Constitution is doomed. We suggest that the work of this Convention cannot possibly survive the malignancy of such a defect.

The Bill of Rights Committee has voted to delete Section 23 from the Constitution on what I see has been academically correct constitutional grounds. These grounds are that it deals with statutory rather than constitutional material. We have, all of us, heard and read — and have probably said at one time or another — a lot about what belongs properly in a constitution and what shall be left to the Legislative. I am frank to say that, until a year ago or so, I had not given a great deal of thought or study to the distinction. I think that this was true of all of us to start with. We have since learned that the basic function of a constitution is to establish the essential machinery of government and to protect individuals from governmental abuses. Some have simplified the formula to something like this: A constitution's role is to protect people from government. Protecting people from people is statutory.

I have heard, and so have you — and we've heard it again this morning — that the right to work is a basic right and, therefore, it should be in the Constitution. I don't know what the authority is for the proposition that this is a basic right. It's not found in the common law or in the Magna Carta or in the Declaration of Independence. You won't find it in the Constitution of the United States or any of the amendments to that document. Two-thirds of the states of this Nation don't even have a right-to-work law on their statute books, much less in their constitutions. Out of the fifty states, only six or seven, in addition to this State, have such a provision in their constitutions. The other 43 or 44 have no reference to it whatsoever. In fact, about a half-dozen states go to the exact opposite pole and set out as a constitutional basic right the right of labor to organize and to bargain collectively. So how basic these rights are in these dozen or so states that have spoken on labor-management relations depends on which of the two special interests has the ascendant and can exert the necessary pressure at the time the constitution is written.

Our Committee saw Section 23 as not voicing a basic right at all, but an attempt to regulate people in their relations with each other. This section does not limit the power of government, as a constitution should; instead, it expands the power of government to regulate citizens, and the Burbidge Proposal would go even further in that direction; and this, Mr. President, is legislative. The posture of the Committee is not one of opposition to right-to-work laws. It is not that at all. It is simply that this is a subject that belongs in the statutes and not in the Constitution; and, of course, right-to-work laws — right-to-work propositions are fully covered in our present statutes. I have counted eight separate and individual statutes dealing with right-to-work, and each one of those will remain unaffected by the deletion of Section 23 from the Constitution.

We have Section 34-01-14, passed by the 1947 Legislature, and it reads: "The right of persons to work shall not be denied or abridged on account of membership or nonmembership in any labor union or labor organization, and all contracts in negation or abrogation of such rights are hereby declared to be invalid, void and unenforceable." This is the law that was referred by petition to the people, and was approved on June 29, 1948, by a two-to-one margin. As a result of that referendum, this law is strongly rooted in our State, and it would take a two-thirds vote of both houses of the legislature to amend or repeal it. And even if we didn't have that, there are seven others.

There is 34-08-02, which states: ". . . the public policy of this state is declared to be that a worker of this state shall be free to decline to associate with his fellows, . . ."

There is 34-09-01, which reads practically the same. It goes on a little bit further: "The public policy of this state is declared to be that a worker shall be free to decline to associate with his fellow and shall be free to obtain employment wherever possible without interference or being hindered in any way, . . ."

There is 34-01-06, which says: "Every person, corporation, or agent thereof, who maliciously interferes or hinders, in any way, any citizen of this state from obtaining employment or from enjoying employment already obtained from any other person or corporation, is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Section 34-12-02 says this: "Employees . . . shall be free to decline to associate with their fellows and shall be free to obtain employment wherever possible without interference or being hindered in any way."

Section 34-01-04: "Every person who, by any use of force, threats, or intimidation, prevents or endeavors to prevent any hired . . . workman . . . from continuing or performing his work or from accepting any new work or employment, . . . is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Section 12-03-01: ". . . persons shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor if two or more conspire: . . . To prevent another from exercising a lawful trade, or calling . . ."

Section 34-12-03: "It shall be an unfair labor practice for a labor organization or its agents: To restrain or coerce employees in the exercise of rights guaranteed . . ." by law; "To cause or attempt to cause an employer to discriminate or restrain or coerce employees in the exercise of rights" afforded by law; or "To hinder or prevent . . . the pursuit of any lawful work or employment, . . ."

How much, Mr. President — how much right-to-work protection must it take? Leaving it out of the Constitution, where it doesn't belong, will affect these eight statutes in no way. They will remain as they are and continue to control labor-management relations with their force and their effectiveness undiminished. Adoption of the Burbidge Proposal will change absolutely nothing as far as labor-management relations are concerned. The only thing — the only thing that such action will accomplish is to insure the defeat of this Constitution.

Why is a vote for the Burbidge Proposal tantamount to a vote to defeat the Constitution? Because, if we adopt the anti-labor Burbidge Proposal, we court the hostility of organized labor. We alienate, Mr. President, this powerful, and now friendly, group. From that point on, defeat becomes a painfully-simple and a crystal-clear matter of mathematics. In September 1970 only about 96,000 people voted on the question of calling this Convention. And, remember, this was in conjunction with the primary election. At the special election to be held this spring, I doubt that that many will turn out. But let us say that 100,000 voters do turn out — which is more than voted on the calling of a constitutional convention. The same 40,000 voters that voted against the Constitutional Convention will be there again to oppose the Constitution. Few of those 40,000 were from organized labor, for labor had endorsed and worked for a "yes" vote on the Constitutional Convention. That means, Mr. President, that labor would need to muster but 10,000 votes to defeat the Constitution. They could do that overnight, and you know it. With 29,000 members and a potential labor family vote of over 50,000, it would be easy; and if we affront labor with an anti-labor constitution, what else can we expect?

Many labor representatives and laboring men and women have appeared before our Committee. They have asked for nothing special — nothing unreasonable. They have asked only one thing: That this Convention treat labor equally with everyone else. That's all — just that they be treated the same as everyone else.

Mr. President, this is a just request to make of this Convention. A constitution should be written so that the citizens — all of them — can equally respect and admire and love it. The laboring man who belongs to a union is just as entitled as an employer, or anyone else, to have a constitution he can be proud of and be thought about. It isn't necessary to put something in it offensive to him. It isn't necessary, it isn't right, and it isn't fair; and if we do, we have wrecked the Convention. The seed we sow today, Mr. President, will be ready for harvest at election time this spring. Whether the fruit it yields will be bitter or sweet is dependent upon what we do now. The majority of the Committee has pointed what we feel is the proper course of this Convention. We respectfully ask that you endorse our action.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on Committee Proposal No. 1-53.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is that the — the question under debate is that the Report of the Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority.

Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I'm sure that it's known that I have very strong feelings in this matter; however, I'd like to do something that might be unconventional. The other day, at one of our hearings of the Bill of Rights Committee, a young man with a great deal of guts and fortitude, if you may, appeared at our hearing and followed labor's presentation. This young man's name is Ronald Benjamin. He is a student at Mary College here in Bismarck and is 21 years of age. I asked him yesterday if he would put his words down in writing, and he did, and I would like to read his remarks, and they are as follows:

"The people proposing that 'the right to work' be eliminated from the Constitution have given the argument that this is discriminatory against unions. Well, I say that the elimination of the right to work is discriminatory against non-union members. The deletion of this section would take away this constitutional right to work regardless of race, color, sex, creed, membership or non-membership. I feel strongly that this right to work is a constitutional right as much as the right to worship or the right to assembly.

"Another argument that the right to employment should be eliminated is the fact that it is a statutory right. I say how can one's freedom to employment not be a basic constitutional freedom? What can possibly be more basic than a man's right to earn a living?

"One other argument they give is that if you have a right to work, the State should find you employment. The proposal says nothing to the matter; rather, it says a person should be free to obtain work. I feel this proposal has been given a poor title by saying 'right-to-work.' The word is a poor choice of words. I feel that this idea would more accurately be called the 'freedom-to-work.' The definition of 'freedom' as found in Webster's Dictionary, is 'exemption from a specified obligation or discomfort.' Is this not what we're after — the freedom to work without exemption from a specified obligation or discomfort?"

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President, I want to speak on the issue. I have typed — had typed my remarks. I want to, quite frankly, say at this point I am a little emotionally disturbed, so I hope that the delegates would be kind enough to bear with me in what I have to say here this morning.

I believe that every delegate knows that I am the only delegate in the Convention that is a full-time labor representative and, if you please, for the Teamsters Union — and I am equally sure everyone knows that I am opposed to the so-called right-to-work. I am not going to take a lot of your time to argue the merits of the so-called right-to-work, because I do not believe that it is necessary; that all know, I am sure, the people who are directly affected by the open-shop law are opposed to it. I am referring to the thousands of people who earn their living by driving a truck or digging a ditch.

But there is one point that I would like to make. I have become discouraged by the reactions of some delegates when I discuss right-to-work with them. Some of the delegates have told me that they agree that the right to work should not be in the Constitution because it is a law, but they are going to vote to keep it in the Constitution because they feel that the folks back home are opposed to unions.

This attitude is very disappointing to me. I have always believed that a man or a woman should do what he or she thinks is right, and this is especially true when you have a position of responsibility.

We all have been given a great responsibility when we were elected as delegates. We have a responsibility to do what is right. If anyone in this assembly believes that the so-called right-to-work legislation does not belong in the Constitution, then he or she has a moral obligation to vote against it. We are here today because the voters believed that we should listen to all of the arguments on all issues, and then do what we honestly believe is in the best interests of our State. The people expect us to follow our conscience.

I did not wish to take the floor for the purpose of delivering a sermon, but I am so concerned for the fact that we might write a bad law into our Constitution, but I had to say these things.

Now, there is one other point that I think should be mentioned. We have not yet reached the halfway point in this Convention, and if we, at this early date, put something into the Constitution that is only suitable for consideration as a law, we will be faced with other attempts to write legislation into the Constitution. The end results of our work will not be good. If we put this legislative matter in the Constitution, then every special-interest group in the State will interpret our actions as an open invitation to put other legislative matters in the Constitution. Don't we trust the Legislature on the right-to-work? If this is true, maybe we should not trust the Legislature on other matters, such as taxes and a multitude of other things.

Just a short time ago, this body objected to locking in the grand jury system into the Constitution. Are we going to today lock in the right-to-work section to the point that the Legislature cannot change the statute as they want to — would want to? Stop and think! Are we being consistent with our argument that the legislative matters should not be in the Constitution? Now is the time for us to draw the line in keeping legislation out of the Constitution. Let us try and quit misleading the people of North Dakota with the so-called fancy words of "right-to-work" when we know that this is false presumptuousness. Let us be honest with our fellow citizens and with The Almighty God. We must face an eternity! Let us be able to live with our conscience while we are on earth, as those days may be short.

Mr. Chairman, I hope that the remarks I have made are not offensive. They were not intended to be offensive to any delegate, as I do not wish to offend anyone. I have a conscience of my own. I am only trying to do what I believe is right for this State, and I urge every delegate to do what they believe is right; and, therefore, I request the deletion of Section 23 of the Constitution and I oppose the Burbidge Proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President — Delegate Urdahl.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

The right-to-work issue is certainly one fraught with high emotion, as well as frustration. It is, therefore, very difficult to deal with it objectively. To many people, all labor unions are put into a category with all the undesirable behavior that some leaders have been accused of. I submit that Labor as a group of people is no better and no worse than any other segment of society. What they do seek is to bargain collectively in a manner that will be of mutual benefit to both the employer and the employee. This certainly must be termed labor-management relations and, as such, surely ought to be included — surely ought not to be included in the permanent law of our state.

In 1889, the Constitutional delegates had an entirely different interpretation of the right-to-work section than is prevalent today. It was indeed their intent to protect the worker against the tyranny of unscrupulous employers and blacklists. Today the interpretation that many people have is to prevent a union shop and thereby to prevent labor from doing collectively what no one can do alone in the improvement of wages and working conditions. This, then, is another reason why we must not lock into the Constitution legislation that will be subject to different interpretations in the different periods of our State history.

I care not what rhetoric is used — “right-to-work” or be it “nondiscrimination in licensing — in employment.” It is all designed to prevent labor collectively to negotiate with employers in areas that are very sensitive to all of us — namely, income, safety and sanitary working conditions.

For the past two decades or more we have seen a loss in population in North Dakota. Many of those who have left have been our young people. Could one of the reasons be better wages and working conditions elsewhere? And should we be asking ourselves if the anti-union clause contained in Section 23 of our Constitution has been a deterrent to the industrial development of North Dakota? I don't think for one moment that industry will locate in our state solely because of an abundance of cheap labor. I think it is becoming increasingly obvious to all of us that any issue that pits one group of people against another group of people should not be included in the constitutional law. These kinds of issues are more properly handled by statutory law. Therefore, my Fellow Delegates, I earnestly urge you to keep discrimination and legislation out of the State Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fiedler.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

I think you will all agree that there is not only an implied right to work, but there is also an implied obligation; and yet we have six percent of our workable force unemployed and about as many are on welfare. To understand and tolerate the situation, one must conclude that this right and this obligation are contingent in nature. The obligation to work is contingent upon the mental and physical ability to work. The right to work is contingent upon there being an employer. Until the employer and employee meet, Section 23 has no possible application. Once they are enjoined, it becomes a legislative matter to set forth the conditions of employment. Recognizing this in 1947, the Legislature passed a definite statute on the right of persons to work. We agree it is legislative in matter and, as such, should be deleted from the Bill of Rights. We recommend that it be so done.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Schmit.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

In reviewing the history of labor-management relations, I find that in 1927 newly-formed unions were taken into court and charged with conspiracy and restraint of trade. In 1935, after 108 years of struggle, American workers' right to join a labor organization and bargain collectively was finally accepted by passage of the Wagner Act in the United States Congress. In 1947 the Taft-Hartley Law was passed in the United States Congress, which prohibited the full union-shop and allowed the states to enact open shops or so-called "right-to-work" laws.

So, to review the evolution of labor-management relations, in which many of the rights of the workers and management were accepted, I cannot help but believe there are more yet to come. In light of this, it is my contention that time will soon come, if it is not already here, that the union shop will be accepted as a basic right of the worker.

Mr. President, who knows but when the final chapter of labor-management relations is written, it may even be the profit-sharing concept?

There are allegations of abuse of power by labor organizations. I'm sure some of them are true. I am in sympathy with both management and the worker. The pendulum always swings back; either labor will clean its own house or have it cleaned for them by state or federal legislation.

These alleged abuses by the labor organizations, be they true or false, should not be used as a hammer to deprive the worker of his basic rights.

Fellow Delegates, a state constitution should be written to protect people from their government — not to stand between one group of people and another. How can we, in good conscience, lock into our Bill of Rights the so-called "right-to-work" law, which meant one thing yesterday and means something else today, and probably will mean something different tomorrow?

Thank you, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

DELEGATE BRAKKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Brakke.

DELEGATE BRAKKE: Having involved myself openly with Section 23, I would like to express some sentiments before the Convention.

I have a Delegate Proposal, No. 2-53, and have testified before the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee on it. As we all know, the majority of the members of this Committee are supporting deletion of Section 23, and the minority report having received tentative support from the majority delegates of the Convention in supporting Proposal 2-78, you can see the odds against the support of my proposal. I would wonder how Jimmy the Greek would have placed them.

A report was placed on all the delegates' desks explaining my position on Section 23. I would have felt hypocritical if I had not pursued my feelings on this issue. Personal and business interests should not be a part of a delegate's decision-making here. We have observed the feelings expressed by North Dakota. Some want to delete and some want to retain Section 23 of the Constitution. I feel far more fits in the same expression.

Corporation farming is a highly-emotional issue in the State and I would grant that if it was contained in our present Constitution, there would be a highly-emotional attempt to retain it.

My basic contention is that if Section 23 is retained in some form in the Constitution, then corporate farming has an equal qualification to be there. If Section 23 is removed, then we can with a clear conscience leave the corporation farming law as a statute.

The question was asked of me, "How can you make this decision when we have a West Coast dock strike affecting grain prices?" I lived in California for six years, and within two miles of my home was a Mexican farm labor camp — workers receiving a dollar a day. We are all aware of the large subsidies that have been paid to corporate agriculture in California. Can this happen in North Dakota? If the strong expressions of farm organizations and farmers is an indication, I would say there is a fear of infringement. In wanting to separate Section 23 from the issue of corporate agriculture, we are saying we want our cake and eat it, too. We are here to establish a framework of government and prepare a document to protect people from their government. Let's have our priorities directed toward this end.

Proposal 2-78, by taking in contrast that "there shall be no discrimination against a qualified person's right to practice a trade because of race, color, sex, creed or membership in trade organizations," disturb me. Here, what does the word "qualified" mean? This statement leads me to wonder who is going to be determining these qualifications. Can volume of sales be called "qualification" in the case of trade organizations, if a trade organization so determines? Is the Legislature, a board or commission going to set up commissions? A farmer practices a trade and some belong to a trade organization. The word "qualified" is a disturbing word for farmers and business alike. It appears that if we put the word "qualified" in the Constitution, it gives the government, courts or juries power to determine a person's qualifications. If it is omitted, that organization shall determine their own qualifications. Are we protecting people from government in this way?

In closing, I will say that I believe it to be unfortunate that a delegate proposal receives a majority before it is submitted to the full Convention. This really supercedes the function of a Constitutional Convention.

I understand that my proposal has been indefinitely postponed by the Committee. Therefore, I will support the deletion of Section 23 at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?
Delegate Rosendahl.

DELEGATE ROSENDAHL: Mr. President, I am a member of an organization — the Farmers Union, in fact. If the delegates to this Convention are prepared to discriminate against working people in the new Constitution of this great State, then I request that my organization be also placed in that same category. I never want it said by my grandchildren that I discriminated against a group that they may some day become a part of.

I challenge any delegate from this organization — from the organizations represented here — to stand up and make the same statement that I have just made, or else vote to repeal Section 23 from the Constitution. We are not here to regulate or to legislate or, heaven forbid our being here to discriminate. I beg you, ladies and gentlemen, not to blemish the history books by taking this action against one segment of our people.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I should like to speak for a few minutes in support of the minority report on the right-to-work question; and, first, in regard to consistency.

Judge Maxwell has made reference to the passage of legislation in 1947 in North Dakota which he believes guarantees the rights of the individual in this respect. I remember those days well. I was a member of the Legislature as a freshman in 1947 in this very chamber, and one of only two voices in the conservative faction at the time willing to speak out in behalf of organized labor. And one of the points that I personally made was that we did not need in North Dakota a right-to-work statute, because this fundamental right of man was guaranteed in our Constitution. It didn't have much effect at the time. The Legislature passed the bill anyway, and it was signed into law and referred, and the people confirmed the judgment, and this seems to be a fairly well-established fact of life in North Dakota now.

But I feel now as I did then — that this question is properly dealt with in the Constitution. I feel that, so far as the relationship between employer-employee and the general public, the most important legislative function is the structure of collective bargaining in the State and Nation, and while the right-to-work law passed in 1947 has had no change since that time, the companion measure, also referred to by Judge Maxwell, has considerable change, and these changes were brought about by continued efforts on the part of organized labor and those of us in the Legislature willing to speak their cause, and the reasoning process of people who came here, so that adjustments have been made from time to time in this very important and properly legislative province.

When I came to this Convention this time, I hoped that what the Convention would do would be not have a right-to-work question as one of the controversial issues before it. I hoped that there would be a sizeable number who would accept the judgment of the people over the past that this is the sort of thing that we want pretty clearly spelled out and left alone in our Constitution.

Delegate Burbidge and others who have a somewhat different view of the things have provided, however, in my opinion, much better language to guarantee the basic right of employment in the Constitution, so it might very well open again the question in the Legislature at a future time of modification to some degree of the statutory right-to-work law.

The spokesmen for organized labor speak of discouragement. I say don't be discouraged about this. Remember how it has been. Despite what from the viewpoint of organized labor appears to be the unfriendly climate in North Dakota, think of the gains that have been made over the years here in wages, hours, working conditions, union membership strength, status in the community. We have among us today, and they have been with us for several days past, some of the most distinguished citizens of North Dakota — officers of organized labor in North Dakota — excellent citizens — most of them my personal friends. And there have been great things done. While we've been hearing about the emotional issue, such as this right-to-work, you don't hear about all of the things the North Dakota legislatures have done that have improved the wages, hours and working conditions directly or indirectly. In the Legislature, for example, I am thinking of the laws which made it a requirement that they put roofs and side curtains on motor cars for the first time many years ago; improvements in the law regarding workmen's compensation — the benefits to the workmen; unemployment compensation. The most recent that I recall is a strong argument in this assembly on the subject of time off to vote, which, I think, failed at the time, but which produced a desirable result. It brought many employers who were unreasonable in this regard into line at the time, I clearly remember.

In other fields, think of the support that organized labor, with its status in North Dakota, has given to efforts to upgrade the standards of employment in our public service, to improve wages, hours, working conditions, again. So I say don't be discouraged. You're on the right track. Even with some of the hurdles that are here for you to cross to gain your goal, and maybe even because of them, you're doing a better job. I hope that this assembly will support the minority report and place this language in the Constitution so that we can go on along the road of labor-management public relations in the way that we have — and we've been doing fine.

Thank you.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

This Constitutional Convention had before it a few days ago a proposal that we have nondiscrimination in public accommodations. Every citizen should also be entitled to nondiscrimination in licensing and employment, as is provided in the Burbidge Proposal. The free enterprise system works best free. A prime responsibility of business is to provide employment. To tamper with this inherent freedom could set up a roadblock and could prohibit qualified citizens from obtaining employment or practicing their profession simply because they did not choose to pay dues to an organization. The citizens of North Dakota have to earn their living under some rather unique problems that are not — that the other states are not involved with, such as our geographic location, our weather and our sparse population. We cannot change our geographic location. We cannot change our weather; but one way we can maintain our freedom, one way we can maintain our independence and maintain our spirit is to provide nondiscrimination in licensing and employment.

Our Nation and our State were founded on the principle that the individual is supreme — not the organization and not even the State. The Constitution is the proper place to provide supremacy for the individual. The Constitution is the proper place to provide the opportunity for citizens, for unions, farmers, businesses and professions of North Dakota to remain competitive and flexible.

The new proposal is intended to do just that. It is in the best interests of the citizens of North Dakota.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President. Will Delegate Burbidge yield to a question?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Yes.

DELEGATE DOBSON: You are by profession a farmer, are you not?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Thank you.

We are in evident agreement that farming is a profession. In fact, Webster's Third New International Dictionary defines "profession" as "a principal calling, vocation or employment." That certainly fits farming. Webster's definition of "trade" would also apply to farming, I think. Webster defines "trade" as "an occupation requiring manual or mechanical skill and training."

Will Delegate Maxwell yield to a question?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate Maxwell yield to a question?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Very well.

DELEGATE DOBSON: You have over the space of some 22 years served as a prosecuting attorney, a practicing lawyer and a District Judge?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: 25 years.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Thank you. One further inquiry, please.

Is it true that a corporation, for legal purposes, is defined as a person?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, that would be correct.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Thank you.

Thus, Mr. President, the language of the Minority Report is subject to this construction: "There shall be no discrimination against the right of any corporation to engage in agriculture or farming."

Some delegates may dispute that interpretation, but the words stand in bold relief. As we know, it is not the intent of the author which governs future judicial decisions. Frequently the U. S. Constitution, as well as the State Constitution — provisions thereof have been interpreted quite differently than was intended originally. I submit, Mr. President, that the Minority Report, in addition to all the other things it will do, would provide back-door authorization for unlimited corporation farming in North Dakota. I wonder what the voters would think of that!

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: In one of the opening days of this Convention, Delegate Tudor brought to our attention Professor James Thayer of Harvard, whose draft formed the basis of so much of our present Constitution, and he said at that time that Professor Thayer was guided by the principle that the Constitution — no constitution should embody the opinions of a temporary majority.

I believe that it is the opinion of the majority of the people in North Dakota at this time that the closed union shop should be barred in North Dakota, and that opinion is reflected in legislation, reinforced by a referral, which outlaws the closed shop. I think that this will probably be the prevailing opinion in North Dakota for quite a few years into the future, and that so long as it is, the laws will reflect that opinion. And this is the business of the Legislature. However, I believe that this is the type of a temporary majority opinion which Professor Thayer was talking about when he said he believed it should not be reflected in a constitution, and you will all recall that this Section that we have under discussion today was not a part of Professor Thayer's draft constitution.

By and large, the rights of a majority do take care of themselves. It is the business of a constitution to protect the rights of a minority. I think it is wrong to single out a minority and say to them, "So long as this Constitution exists, you will not have the right or privilege of seeking a change of laws by the Legislature." This is a right that has not been denied to any other group of people in the State — to deny them the Legislature as the battlefield of the field of opinion.

Like all the other delegates, I have received a multitude of letters urging me to support the working man's right to work. Without exception, every one of these letters that I received was written not by a working man who is seeking employment, but by someone who is employing the working man.

Several hundred working men came — and women — came to Bismarck last week at their own expense and at considerable inconvenience to say that this proposal was not protecting their right to work. If we are concerned about the working man's right to work or seek employment, I think that these are the voices we should have been listening to. I think it's possible for today's majority in North Dakota to become tomorrow's minority and to be singled out for this same kind of discriminatory treatment, and I think that would be wrong. I think that Section 23 should not be included in the Constitution because that is wrong.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, what seems to me to be the gut question here is whether or not the Legislature has the right to extend to communities of people some limited rights to self-government. We have always recognized and enunciated the Legislature's right to extend to geographic communities the right of self-government, and we have, in fact, a long tradition of legislators extending to communities of people the right of limited self-government.

As has been pointed out, the Bar Association, the pharmacists — we have even in some cases extended to private communities of people the right of government of other people in limited ways, as is the case in the Stockmen's Association exercising of the brand inspection laws. I think this is good tradition. I think there's a lot to be said for it. But do we limit it to only certain groups of people? And does the Legislature have the right to extend some limited device of self-government to only certain communities and certain professions? That's the question.

We perhaps need to realize that there is an obligation on all of us to belong to organizations in the professions in which we live and operate; but we are saying in this kind of language that it is all right to give some groups guaranteed existence by law and to govern their members in limited ways with the protection of the law, as we have a long tradition of doing, but not others.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Since the deliberations of this Convention were somewhat compromised by the fact that a majority of the Convention had already signed a proposal supporting the Burbidge wording, I suppose, if I were prudent and wise, I would merely recount the speaker's words when he got up one time and said, "As accustomed as I am to public speaking, I recognize the futility of it," and he sat down. But being neither prudent nor wise, I think that if we just skip the rhetoric aside and we look through all these high-sounding principles and these words put into our mouths by propagandists, in some respects, when they first coined the phrase "right-to-work," I think we see before us that Section 23 is nothing more than a controversy between management and labor; and if this is true, that it is just a controversy between management and labor, then it's indeed a legislative matter which we should not really be considering.

I don't know if you people read the letters you received that Delegate Vogel referred to; but I would read through these letters, and it was sort of astounding to see how employers and employer groups were writing to us, championing the cause of the working man, and yet, at the same time, in paragraph after paragraph, there was written words of fear that the threat of unionism and union bosses would sweep the State and overpower all common sense and reason.

Since we have been in assembly, we have fought continuously a compulsion to become a legislative body. We have struggled with the legislative rules and legislative structure and the legislative psychology, and it's been difficult for many of us who have not been legislators to make this a constitutional convention, instead. And in many respects, this attempt to become a legislature is reflected in some of our thinking about the issues that are before us. Many of us are or have been concerned about labor's attitude in some of the statements we read in the newspapers about how labor is going to defeat this Constitution, if they don't get fair treatment in their eyes, and we say, "Oh, they're spoil sports. They're just — they're just going to ruin it even though it wouldn't make any difference, you see, if they kill the Constitution; the old Constitution would still be there and old Section 23 would still be there, and so they have nothing to gain by opposing the new Constitution except revenge."

Well, put yourself in their shoes. Put yourself in their shoes. You farmers: How would you like a constitutional provision that would freeze the proportion of property taxes to the rest of the taxes in the tax structure? And you businessmen: Supposing we put a constitutional provision in here that would say you could not join an organization to influence public policy. Or you women, if we have any women's libbers in the group, say that we're going to put provisions in the Constitution that would guarantee you second place from now until eternity. If you were placed at an economic disadvantage, which Section 23 really does to labor, you, too, would probably be incensed with a feeling of revenge. And I doubt there will be an expression of magnanimity on the part of labor in exchange for self-interest on the part of management.

Now, the farmers in this State, as history will tell us, have not stood for this kind of oppression in the past, and I don't see why we ought to expect it from anyone else. I respect Delegate Burbidge and his new thinking, and I commend him for it. I think there's some virtue to some of the facets to it. But I am afraid, when we are suggesting that amendment, that in the carrying of a hundred-pound burden, labor must carry 90 percent and the lawyers must carry five percent and the rest of us will carry the other five percent. I think the removal of Section 23 is only symbolic. The same philosophy that got the right-to-work law passed through the Legislature in 1947, the same philosophy that sustained the referral in 1948, still prevails — the same attitudes. The farmer and — the farmer and management, by and large, are of an individualistic thinking and are very suspicious of unions and labor organizations. So I'm not concerned that what we're going to do will drastically change labor-management relations by repeal of Section 23. Not at all. Not at all.

We have eight laws that would have to be repealed, and we have, finally, the Legislature that would have to repeal it.

Now, what kind of a Legislature are we ever going to get that's going to repeal, and we're going to have to find a governor that would sign the repeal of those eight laws, and we would have to find people who would be willing to sit quietly and let those laws go into effect, without referring any of them.

Are we afraid of the Legislature? Are we afraid of the Governor? Are we afraid of the people? Is the case for right-to-work so weak that it is necessary to seize upon every advantage and insist that it be placed in the Constitution? And, I suppose, if we had options, we add it as an eleventh commandment.

Now, those who believe in right-to-work laws as a matter of philosophy, who really believe that we ought not to have union shops, I say to you your responsibility is to convince your colleagues in business and management that this is not the end of the world. This isn't the end of the right-to-work law, and I don't think it is. I really don't think it is. And instead of adding flames to the panic, run for the fire extinguisher instead of the exit. I say this isn't the end.

Last week I wrote a letter to the Editor of the Grand Forks Herald to try to explain to the people my vote on the one-mill levy and my vote on lotteries. Now, lotteries: Now, I remind you, again, that I come from a Baptist faith, who look askance at gambling and other similar vices; and yet I voted to take lottery out of the Constitution, because I think it is a legislative matter, and I don't think lotteries will ever be legalized in this State, and I would be one of the first ones to petition my legislators not to repeal the regulation of gambling in this State. But it is the same kind of an issue. It's the same kind of an issue. Even if I don't favor lotteries, I still think it's a legislative question, and I suggest that every one of us — every 98 of us — have a responsibility for leadership to do what is right, and then go and explain what we do to the people.

Sometimes I think we think the people are ignorant; that reason means nothing to them. Well, I don't hold that view. I think you explain to them why you do right, and they'll understand it, if you do it adequately.

So I say let's call a spade a spade. Section 23 is labor-management relations. Labor-management relations is not a constitutional matter, and I hope this Convention will vote "no" on the Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Ladies and gentlemen:

First, I'd like to soften the atmosphere a little bit with an announcement that I am not a candidate for Governor. (Laughter)

I am not a candidate for reelection to a constitutional convention, either.

I have heard some of the very best speeches that I have ever listened to. I have felt I wasn't going to take any part in this. I was going to be absolutely quiet; and, so help me, I have been for two hours, practically. But now they're getting the better of me, partly because of some references to various things with which I am familiar.

I have a full-page letter here from a man I respect very highly. His name is Fred Vercellino. He comes from Dickinson. He belonged to a union since he was 21 years old, and he's about 80 now. I have known him since I can remember. I got this letter and I thought, "Oh, boy! I'm going to catch it now," because he'll want this law taken out of this — or this proposal taken out of the Constitution; and it was with great relief that I read it, and anyone here may see it.

Among other things, he says, "Earl, I am speaking from strictly personal experience about this union business. We were supposed to have a right-to-work law during World War II. It was on our books, but the unions, under the guise of patriotism and other pressures during wartime, had their lawyers twist the meaning of the law around so much that it was practically useless."

Then another section — he went on almost entirely about the right-to-work law, and down at the bottom I thought was a very intelligent sentence, and I hope you will forgive me reading it. "I know that you are not in my district for this Constitutional Convention, but you have been one of my most admired legislators, because you have not been afraid to get up in meetings and tell the boys just what is what. You're doing a good job. So keep it up, and more power to you."

Ahem!

(Laughter)

That was a very nice sentence.

I would draw your attention to the word — Farmers Union has been mentioned in this argument, and I received from them about eight or nine letters, and the Farmers Union members in my area are hot to keep this in the Constitution. They're very hot for it. I have a lot of letters from Fargo, from the various business interests. I haven't even opened them, because I knew what was in them. But when I have this letter from a lifelong union member, I feel pretty good about my standing to retain the right-to-work law in the Constitution.

And then, another thing: I have at times been opposed to change, and I know I've been called conservative — stubborn.

Now, I'm an old standby, because I stay at the Patterson Hotel, (laughter) in the Fargo Forum, and we have now organized a club called The Old Standbys, and it includes the very distinguished Senator Hernet. He's going to be president. But let's not get so emotional about this being — this will kill the Constitution. Boy! There's a dozen things in here that will kill this Constitution! There are a lot of them!

And one other thing, and then I'll let you get back to your better orators. The fact that it's not constitutional — we have heard that many times. Well, I'll just tell you this: If you don't like a proposition — if you don't like it, it doesn't belong there. I like it. It belongs there. It's just as simple as that.

Thank you very much.

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, Delegates:

There has been a lot of good discussion here this morning. There's been some of it that's been tried to cloud the issue, I fear, but in all of the discussion here this morning, we really have heard nothing about the rights of the third party that's very deeply involved in this issue, and that is those people that suffer from the economic stranglehold placed upon them. Yet some of them — some — they have little voice in the matter in many, many cases. Many of us here, as delegates, have witnessed recently and presently the full force of the effect on their livelihood because a basic right has not been guaranteed in state constitutions elsewhere. So I submit that this is a basic right for our consideration and for the protection of minorities and for the public in general, and should be placed in our Constitution, and I certainly support the Burbidge Minority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there further discussion? Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

In his remarks, Delegate Burbidge suggested that we uphold the Minority Report and place the Minority Report on the tenth order tomorrow, and if we were not satisfied with it, it would then be subject to amendment. I would suggest, however, that we do not slip this issue in through the back door. If we are not fully satisfied with its provisions, I would suggest that we at this point uphold the Majority Report; that we place that report on the tenth order and that we subject that report to amendment tomorrow.

Now, a good number of delegates signed with the Burbidge idea as a Delegate Proposal — 52 — or 53. A number of delegates who signed are not convinced that it is really what they want. In light of the remarks made today — especially in light of the remarks of Delegate Dobson — I would suggest that the interests of this Convention would best be served by placing the majority report on the tenth order tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Further discussion?

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Because I believe in the individual, in his wisdom and in his decency, I oppose all infringements on individual rights, whether from attempts of private monopoly or labor union monopoly, and I ask you to support the Minority Proposal.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-53. The question under debate is the adoption of the Minority Report.

Is there any further discussion?

Those that are in favor of the adoption of the Committee Report will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." The question — that's right — they'll vote "aye," remember now. Is there any question in the Convention on how to vote?

Delegate Lander, do you have a question?

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes. Would you —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question —

DELEGATE LANDER: — restate it, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Minority Report; and if you favor the Minority Report, you will vote "aye;" and if you oppose the Minority Report, then you vote "no."

Are you ready for the question?

Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President, I request a tabulated vote on it. If I get ten people to stand with me, we'll tabulate the vote — ten for a recorded vote. (A number of delegates arose.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is a sufficient number. We'll have a recorded vote.

Are you ready for the question?

Again, those that are in favor of the adoption of the Minority Report vote "aye;" those opposed vote "nay" — vote "no." The key will be opened and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Have we got three absent? Is that right?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Three.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 62 "ayes," 33 "nays," three delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-53 as amended will be on the sixth order tomorrow.

DELEGATE WALLIN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wallin.

DELEGATE WALLIN: I would ask that the delegates' remarks be placed in the Journal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Wallin, I doubt seriously that that can be done at this time. I think we made an announcement a few days ago that the — that any time you wished your remarks to be placed in the Journal, that they should be — the announcement should be made ahead of time. However, if there is anyone here that does have script that they would like to have placed in the Journal, a motion will be in order to permit that. Let's not forget that the permanent record of the Convention — that in that record the remarks of every one of the delegates that spoke here this morning will be in the complete verbatim record of the Convention.

Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, maybe this request can't be granted, but I move that the remarks of Delegate Burbidge and the remarks of Delegate Maxwell be printed in the Journal, if they have copies.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, if the gentlemen have them in script, then, of course, the motion will be in order. I doubt seriously that the desk has them. You have Burbidge's?

Delegate Maxwell, do you have yours in prepared text?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: No. I'm sorry. I do not. I have only my penciled notes.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: May I remind the members of the Convention that while it might not be possible to have them in the Journal, we are having a verbatim record made, and while that would not be available in the next few days, it will be available for posterity.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's true.

Fellow Delegates, you have been, again, most patient, and I think that at this time in would be in order for the Chair to declare a 15-minute recess. Let's be back at fifteen minutes after twelve — after eleven.

(The Session recessed at 11:01 A.M. until 11:17 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

The Convention will please come to order. We will continue on the fifth order of business — Committee Reports.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-32, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman. Delegate Hoffner moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report that Committee Proposal No. 1-32 do pass.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted and will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

Any further?

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Could we be on the eighth order for a moment?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I'd like to announce that there will be an open forum discussion tonight in the auditorium at the Highway Building at 7:30. The moderator will be Mrs. Bea Peterson. The discussion will include dedicated funds, and there will be a film on the "Missouri Plan." Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

We'll continue on the sixth order of business. We have a number of announcements at the desk. Eighth order of business. I'm sorry.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: There are schools from Hebron, Maxbass, Driscoll and Robinson with us today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the delegations from these schools please rise and be recognized by the members of the Convention? (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you for being with us today. We hope you have enjoyed the debates this morning.

We will be on the tenth order of business.

First for consideration of the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-64.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-64, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 2 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to political power in the people, be retained in its present form."

"SECTION 1.) Section 2 of the present constitution of the State of North Dakota is retained in its present form and reads as follows:

"All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security and benefit of the people, and they have a right to alter or reform the same whenever the public good may require."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: I'm sure this is a noncontroversial subject. The Committee felt that Section 2 of the Constitution of 1889 could not be improved upon, either in words or in content. Therefore, the Committee recommends unanimously a do pass.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. — I'm in error. The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-64.

Is there any further discussion?

Hearing none, those in favor of the Proposal will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The key will be opened and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 82 "ayes," there were no "nays," and there were 16 delegates absent and not voting.

So, Committee Proposal No. 1-64 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-65.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-65, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 11 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to uniform operation of laws, be retained.

"SECTION 1.) Section 11 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota is retained in its present form and reads as follows:

"All laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: The subcommittee and the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage felt that this section should not be changed. This is as it is in the original Constitution. The courts have held that any classification provided must be natural and not artificial; that it is not necessary that a law operates upon all alike, but it must operate upon all in like situations. And so that's why I would like to move that this Committee Proposal be passed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — any further discussion? The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-65.

Hearing no further discussion, those in favor of the adoption will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote. Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 84 "ayes," no "nays," 14 delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-65 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-66.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-66, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 13 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to rights of a defendant in criminal prosecutions, be retained.

"SECTION 1.) Section 13 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota is retained in its present form and reads as follows:

"In criminal prosecutions in any court whatever, the party accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial; to have the process of the court to compel the attendance of witnesses in his behalf; and to appear and defend in person and with counsel. No person shall be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense, nor be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-66.

Do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE BENDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Bender.

DELEGATE BENDER: The Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, and, also, the subcommittee, has carefully studied Section 13 and has decided that it should remain as it was written in the old Constitution. We, therefore, ask the Convention to approve Section 13 as a part of the Bill of Rights.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the first passage.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I wonder if the Committee's deliberations had considered using in addition to the word that you should not be "deprived" of life, liberty or property without due process of law — had considered including "reputation" or, possibly, "privacy." Was that ever considered or talked about in the Committee?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can any member of the Committee answer Delegate Kelsch's question?

DELEGATE BENDER: I don't believe that it was brought up.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-66.

Those in favor of adoption will vote "aye;" those opposed "no."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call disclosed 92 "ayes," there were no "nays," six delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-66 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-67.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-67, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 20 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to not granting special privileges and immunities, be retained.

"SECTION 1.) Section 20 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota is retained in its present form and reads as follows:

"No special privileges or immunities shall ever be granted which may not be altered, revoked or repealed by the legislative assembly; nor shall any citizen or class of citizens be granted privileges or immunities which upon the same terms shall not be granted to all citizens."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have any discussion?

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Schmit.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

The Bill of Rights Committee voted unanimously to retain Section 20 of the 1889 Constitution. There are some 20 court cases dealing with Section 20, dating back to 1896. Section 20 relates mostly to police powers and classification. One example is the 1968 court case where the Supreme Court held in the Century Code it violates Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Schmit, would you hold the mike just a little closer to your mouth? I find it difficult to hear, and I'm afraid that a number of the delegates do, too.

DELEGATE SCHMIT: All right, Mr. President.

The Supreme Court held it violates Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution and Section 20 of the North Dakota Constitution. The court decision related to inheritance of legitimate and illegitimate children.

Another example is a 1911 court case where the court held that the statute regarding the privilege to operate a Sunday movie picture theatre is not a violation of Section 20.

In the recent court cases where Section 20 was brought into play, I must say I can't agree with all of the decisions; however, by the same token, I can see many areas regarding police powers and classifications where Section 20 may be used quite exclusively in the future.

Mr. President and Fellow Delegates, I believe that Section 20 serves us well in our Constitution and should be retained without change. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-76 —

DELEGATE CART: 67.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 67.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Those in favor of adoption will vote "aye." Pardon?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 1-67.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: What did I say?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "76."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-67 is the one before us.

Those in favor will vote "aye;" those opposed "no."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 94 "ayes," there were no "nays," there were four delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-67 has passed.

Next for consideration of the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-68.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-68, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 24 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to declaration of rights remaining inviolate, be retained.

"SECTION 1.) Section 24 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota is retained in its present form and reads as follows:

"To guard against transgressions of the high powers which we have delegated, we declare that everything in this article is excepted out of the general powers of government and shall forever remain inviolate."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: This proposed section in the new Constitution is in precisely the same language as is found in present Section 24 of the Constitution. The Committee urges its retention without modification. We saw no way to improve upon the singular beauty of this rhetoric and, moreover, we felt that the principle announced — that is, that the Bill of Rights protects forever the dignity of the individual against trespass by the government — that such principle was too important to be left unsaid in a constitution to be brought before the people.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President. Because the proposal refers only to this article, identifying it, I put my trust in the Committee on Style and Drafting that it will be in the same article as it is in the present Constitution; that it doesn't get in some other article.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further question or discussion?

Hearing none, the question before the Convention is the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-68. Those for the Proposal will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 94 "ayes," there were no "nays" —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: One "nay."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think, Mr. Clerk, there's an error, because I noticed one red one on my tally.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: One "nay."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The roll call discloses 94 "ayes," one "nay," three delegates absent and not voting.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 93.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, it adds up right. You're sure it's right now?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yeah.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The roll call discloses 94 "ayes," one "nay," three delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-68 has passed.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-71.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-71, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 6 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to bail.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 6 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2. A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor shall cruel or unusual punishment be inflicted. Witnesses shall not be unreasonably detained, nor be confined in any room where criminals are actually imprisoned."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion? Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President and Delegates:

This Proposal embodies — the first sentence embodies the Eighth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution on bail, but we have an additional protection for the people in North Dakota, which is that any witnesses that are detained have to have separate quarters. That isn't covered in the federal Constitution, and some states don't require that; but we do in North Dakota.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, I wonder if someone on the Committee would inform me why the first section — excuse me — the first sentence of the old Section 6 has been omitted.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates.

The Eighth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution takes precedence in bail, and the Committee felt, actually, at this time that bail has to be allowed in all cases anyhow — reasonable bail — and because of the federal Constitution and the rights, and what we did — we took that, plus the additional protection.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

In taking out the words that all persons are entitled to bail, what we're saying is excessive bail should not be charged, and I don't — if that's all you say, it's conceivable that the Legislature could not allow bail in many cases, and I'm not satisfied with that, because this is guaranteed in the federal Constitution, we shouldn't also have it in our Constitution. I think that we have to state that in all cases you are entitled to bail, as well as not only state that bail shall not be excessive, and maybe include the exception that the old Constitution had that in the case of capital offenses you could refuse bail, which is our practice now. But I think we're making a mistake if we take out the granting to the individual the right to bail in the first instance.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

I agree with Delegate Kelsch that the clause should contain the words substantially the same as the first phrase in our present Section 6 — "All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties . . ."

I did want to congratulate the Committee for taking out the second phrase of the sentence — the first sentence in our present Section 6. It always seemed to me one of the strangest things we had in our Constitution. It said, "... unless" — meaning that you could always have bail — "... unless for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great."

Other places in our Constitution it says that everybody is presumed to be innocent. So when was the presumption of guilt great?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: As I recall discussion in the Committee, another reason that this "capital offense" thing was put out or taken out, was because the Committee has a proposal which, I think, will be coming up shortly, or in a few days, at least, on "death shall not be prescribed as a penalty for crime." Therefore, there would be no capital offense.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none —

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I think this is probably too serious just to pass over, and I don't have an amendment at the desk, but I would — ah, I — I have my advisor here.

I move that 1-71 be moved to the bottom of the calendar.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-71 be moved to the foot of the calendar. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Litten.

Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the proposal say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Delegate — and Committee Proposal No. 1-71 is placed at the foot of the calendar.

For consideration by the Convention is Committee Proposal No. 1-73.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-73, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 4 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to religious freedom.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 4 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"The free exercise of religious belief and worship, shall be forever guaranteed in this state."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion?

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

The Committee, during the interim, passed over Proposal No. 1-73 several times, and prior to the opening of this Session, we had included in there the language, "But the liberties herein preserved shall not justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of this state."

I think, to be fair to the other delegates, we better explain why we took this language out.

The reason we took it out is because testimony was presented in our Committee, and after many people did a great deal of research on the matter, we found that the fears that some people had because — that necessitated this language, were unfounded. The biggest fear seemed to be the fact of the use of drugs — hallucinogenic — marijuana and such — for excusing them of their use as a religious practice.

Now, the courts in every instance, in several cases in the Supreme Court, in the Federal Courts of this country, have said that freedom to act under the First Amendment guarantees of religious freedom is conditional and relative and Congress may prescribe and enforce certain conditions to control conduct which may be contrary to the person's religious beliefs and the interest of public welfare and protection of society. This is in the Leary v. United States, 1967. Leary, as you all recall, was a rather famous proponent of the use of drugs as a religious experience.

We felt that there was such a case law on this thing that it was not necessary in our Constitution, and we felt that this statement made here that "the free exercise of religious belief and worship shall be forever guaranteed in this state," was concise and it came to the real meaning of what religious freedom is.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I note that the Committee — I agree with the Committee's position on this, and I agree with the language; but there's one other point that I would like to inquire about.

In Section 4 as it was written, it further provided that "No person shall be rendered incompetent to be a witness or juror on account of his opinion on matters of religious belief."

Now, I'd like to inquire of the Committee as to why that was deleted. I'm not sure that I'm opposed to it being deleted, but it does have some ramifications with certain religious practices in this State. I believe it's some religious — for example, say they did not serve as a juror because they believe it's not man's function to judge other men. We might have some person as a matter of religious belief who would refuse to consider themselves competent to assert to a fact at a trial and, under our present Constitution, if I were to contend one of those two positions, I could be found in contempt of the court system and imprisoned. I believe in Minnesota not too many years ago a member of a religious faith refused to serve on a jury. The court found him in contempt, declaring that his duty to serve on a jury is as sacred or as important in our system as the duty to serve in the military armed services, and I believe at the present time this is the law in North Dakota. I know of no juror who has personally ever been found in contempt. I think generally the courts have excused jurors who take that religious stand. But the court could, under the Constitution as it is presently written now — if we take this out of the Constitution and don't speak on the subject, I want us all to understand that then I could contend as a matter of religious belief that I could not judge other men and, therefore, would not serve on a jury; or I might go further, as in the case of testifying, and contend that I am not competent to speak as to certain facts — because of some religious belief or other, I can't know facts for a certainty, and refuse then to testify.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-73.

Hearing no further discussion, those in favor of passage will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no."

The Clerk will open the key. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The ballot sheet is incorrect. We don't have enough people voting. The key will be opened. You will vote again.

Those for the passage will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." The key will be opened and you will record your vote.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President, apparently my key isn't working, and I vote "aye."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The key will be closed.

The roll call discloses 77 "ayes," there were 17 "nays," there were four absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-73 has passed.

Next for consideration will be Committee Proposal 1-78.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-78, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the death penalty, be created.

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Death shall not be prescribed as a penalty for any crime."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion? Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

The Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee had this as a delegate proposal. After a great deal of discussion as to the ramifications of such a measure, they passed this out almost unanimously.

Now, there are two crimes in the State of North Dakota that are punishable by death at this time under the statutes. There is no reference in the present Constitution to the death penalty. They are treason, in which you can either be sentenced to death or imprisoned for not less than five years; the other is murder in the first degree while under life sentence for murder in the first degree.

If any of you have had an opportunity to read the statutes which govern the death penalty, it is a grizzly experience, and I think that most of the people in the Committee felt that this was an unusual punishment — unusual and cruel punishment, and I think we in this Convention have spoken to punishments of that type prior to now.

I would like to yield to our resident psychiatrist, Dr. O'Toole, to continue the argument. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman, Fellow Delegates:

Just to help you review the reasons for punishment, there are three. One is rehabilitation. The death penalty certainly does not rehabilitate.

Second is retribution. I do not feel that the death penalty gives any retribution. It does not help the person that has been killed. I feel that it's an archaic type of an interpretation, of making retribution its goal.

The third is deterrence, and it does not deter. The presence of the death penalty is a malignant influence which holds back progress throughout our entire correctional system. It creates chaos in the courtroom. It creates despair in the prison where its pernicious effects set the tone for a punitive, rather than rehabilitative, approach. The death penalty is more detested by prison workers than the so-called "bleeding hearts" or humanitarians. Wardens and guards realize that this grotesque symbol of society's vindictiveness eventually permeates every aspect of correctional practice. And a few years ago I had the opportunity of traveling throughout the nation and visiting and talking with a great number of wardens and guards in various prisons, and the great majority felt that it was cruel. I wish that many of you could have stood with me in our little group as we looked at the gallows and had them described in Kansas, or looked at the chambers for cyanide poisoning in California. The physical presence of offenders who are about to be executed indicated extraordinary emphasis on custody and leads the other offenders to distrust the intentions of society.

Such a state of affairs is not conducive to enlightened criminology. Even if we were to ignore the humanistic arguments, it is not easy to create a non-violent society where government itself is willing to kill. And the practical argument is there is no evidence whatsoever that invoking the death penalty reduces the number of crimes of violence. Against this procedure, the amount of damage that it does in the correctional system is sufficient reason for its abolishment. The death penalty is not only a blight upon our correctional system, but it is a blight upon our democratic society.

The social rituals which have become a part of our effort to determine whether we are to spare the offender or destroy him are incredibly cruel and sadistic. One merely need to examine the history of a given case, such as the Caryl Chessman case, to appreciate that the ghastly business of delays, appeals, further delays and final execution represents about as sadistic a cat-and-mouse game as society can play. It is a kind of mass perversion — a perversion which is sanctimoniously rationalized as a form of justice.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

At the risk of being branded a nut by our resident psychiatrist, I will state my opposition to this provision.

I agree with much that he has to say, particularly the ritual that is used in the performance of this penalty. However, I do not feel that the field of criminology is enlightened. They don't really know which way they're going. They don't know whether it's effective. There's many theories and lots of experiments, and it's a field which has a long way to go. I would suggest that this matter be left to the Legislature, so they can make such provisions as they may find warranted in years to come. I don't feel that the statute should be expanded at this time or that this should even be on the books; but I do not feel that this provision should be in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

Would Delegate O'Toole yield to a question, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will Delegate O'Toole yield to a question?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Yes.

DELEGATE CHASE: Delegate O'Toole, how important is it as a deterrent for a first degree convicted murderer attempting to break out and commit an additional murder?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: It seems to have very little deterrence. We have never had a case of it in North Dakota, and it hasn't been — or very seldom used in other states. I might add one other thing here, while I have the floor: That in my opinion, and from what I have seen, and I've had a little bit — not a large amount — of criminology, that many of these people that are confined for first degree murder are ill, rather than evil, and I think in the time of organized crime, this may have had some argument; but right at the present time, there's no basis for this as a deterrent.

I might also add, while I have the floor here, again, and speaking to Delegate Devine, certainly criminology has got a small start and is in its infancy. But one of the big arguments that has been used throughout the country is that if we kill the people, for them — for themselves killing, we certainly will never get any further.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-78.

Those in favor of its passage will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "nay." The key will be opened and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 76 "ayes," 7 "nays," five absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-78 has been passed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 17. My mistake. 17 "nays." My mistake.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The tally sheet was in error. I'll reread the report. The "ayes" are 76, the "nays" were 17, and there were five delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-78 has passed.

We will be on the fifth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-57, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report No. 1-57.

The proposal is to amend.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye; opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-57 will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee an Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-60, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Proposal — the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-60. The proposal is to amend.

Hearing no discussion, as many as are in favor of the adoption of the report will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted. It will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-79, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended, and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-79, which is to amend.

Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it and the Proposal will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-89, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended; and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-89 — that is, to amend.

Hearing no discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-89 will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A Majority of your Committee on Finance and Taxation, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-97, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegates Unruh, McElroy, Burke, Aas, Ketchum, Lerberg, Miller, Nicholas, Quam and Saugstad.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Unruh moved that the Report of the Majority be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No. I've got to read the Minority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you have it there?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

Mr. PRESIDENT: A Minority of your Committee on Finance and Taxation, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-97, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended; and when so amended, recommends that the Report of the Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Cart moved the Report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Minority Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-97.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to move that consideration — or further consideration of this Committee Proposal or Report be laid over one Convention day and that copies of the Report be placed on the delegates' desks.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen moves for consideration of Committee Proposal — the Report be laid over one Convention day and that copies of the Proposal be laid on the desk of each delegate to the Convention.

DELEGATE AAS: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion has been seconded. Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and this will be laid over one Convention day.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: I would assume that both the Minority and the Majority would be placed on the desks.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Am I correct in assuming that the Majority Proposal is 1-97? Is the Majority Proposal 1-97? So there would be no need to spend the money to reproduce that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The desk informs me that the only part that is necessary to reproduce is the Minority Report.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-23, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended; and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved that the Report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-23, which is to amend. Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the adoption of the Report will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President. Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-48, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the Report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-48, that the Proposal be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion? Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: This was a proposal presented to our Committee, and I think that, if most of the delegates would read the Proposal over, they would discover that it probably has no place in a constitutional convention or in the Constitution; and so that's why the Committee unanimously, as I recall, voted to — for indefinite postponement.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-48 — that the Proposal be indefinitely postponed.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it. Proposal No. 2-48 is indefinitely postponed.

We will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The Judicial Functions Committee will hear Committee Proposal 1-12 at two o'clock in the Gold Room, January 19th.

The Executive Functions Committee will meet Wednesday, January 19th, at 2:00 P.M. in Rooms G-5 and 6.

Your calendar for tomorrow is Committee Proposals 1-84, 1-94, 1-95, Delegate Proposal 2-26, Committee Proposal 1-28, Committee Proposal 1-32, and Committee Proposal 1-71.

Your sixth order will be 1-37, 1-53, 1-57, 1-60, 1-79, 1-89 and 2-23.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President, the Rules Committee will meet at 1:30 in the Lewis and Clark Room today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President, I have a note here from Al Austin of the University of North Dakota, who wants me to remind the delegates, again, of the Editors Day luncheon Friday noon at the Town House. He says that if you haven't heard from your favorite editor or your nonfavorite with an invitation, you are still invited; but you're on your own for lunch for three dollars.

Our esteemed Vice President will attempt to bring the editors up to date, and maybe some of us, on just what we have accomplished in the first three weeks of this convention. I trust that you will hear from your editor, but if you don't, don't be bashful, and come around anyhow.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, the Committee on Legislative Functions will meet at two o'clock in the Large Hearing Room.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President. I wonder, if you don't have a favorite editor or any editor, if Delegate Paulson would be willing to be my editor?

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I wonder if 1-53 should be on the tenth order or — you called for the sixth order, I believe.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On the sixth, according to my notes — on the sixth order tomorrow.

DELEGATE DECKER: I don't believe that there were amendments. I think the Committee — the Minority Report should put it on the tenth order. I may be wrong, but —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are there further announcements while they're checking on this point?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I'd just like to tell the rest of the delegates that Mrs. Simonson's little boy, that was here yesterday or the day before, visiting, was operated on early this morning for an emergency appendectomy and that's why Mrs. Simonson had to fly home; and in view of that, I move that the absent delegates be excused.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that the absent delegates be excused. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE CART: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Cart.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it.

Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, the Committee on Education and Natural Resources and Public Lands will meet at 1:30 in G-1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, I would like to announce that Delegate Quam is absent today because he is taking his wife to a hospital for minor surgery tomorrow morning; so he might possibly be absent, also, tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker, about the answer to your question —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I have it that 1-53 — the Minority Report was adopted, which was to amend. Is that correct? And then it will go on the sixth order to adopt the amendments tomorrow.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: However, the amendment was to put language in. I don't think there's anything to change. I think it really was a substitution more than an amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: You substituted the report for the Majority, which was a committee report to amend, and it just goes on the sixth order, the same as the regular committee report to amend.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: I want to remind the lucky members of the silent faculty we are meeting tonight in G-7.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Being that everybody is making announcements, the Chair would also like to make an announcement that I am requesting a meeting of the chairmen of the six substantive committees, plus the Vice Presidents Pearce and Saugstad and Secretary Vogel, plus the chairman of the Committee on Style and Drafting and the Committee — the chairman of the Committee on Coordination and Transition. I request that these delegates appear in my office for a very short meeting at one o'clock. And, Delegate Geelan, I'm sure that we will be out or we will be through in time for your Committee on Rules. So, if you people that I have mentioned here will be at my office at nine o'clock — or at one o'clock, it will be much appreciated.

Any further announcements? Hearing none —

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Is the desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The desk is clear.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I now move that we adjourn until 9:00 A.M., January 20th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that we now adjourn until 9:00 A.M., January 20th. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Stanton.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we will be adjourned until tomorrow morning at nine o'clock.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 12:18 P.M., Wednesday, January 19, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Thursday, January 20, 1972.)

V O L U M E XIV

(January 20, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The fourteenth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:02 A.M., Thursday, January 20, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

We'll be on the second order of business — the Invocation.

Our Chaplain for this morning is the Reverend Phillip Lint, with the McCabe United Methodist Church of Bismarck.

REV. PHILLIP LINT: Let us pray.

Lord our God, You give us hearts and minds and feelings, and Your wisdom is poured out upon those who seek it. We bow as we begin this day's work and ask You to deliver our hearts from self-deceit, clear our minds for sound thinking, and make us sensitive to one another and to the needs of those who we are here to serve.

Grant to us the wisdom to learn from the past, to anticipate the future, and to use wisely the present moment.

In Christ's name we offer this prayer, Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — taking of roll.

The key will be opened and you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 88 present, ten absent. A quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order of business — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 18th day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

Page 201, line 29, delete the word "renewal" and insert in lieu thereof the word "removal."

On page 204, last line, delete "Longmore" and insert in lieu thereof "Longmire."

Page 208, following line 33, insert the following: "Section 2 of Committee Proposal 1-23 was declared lost."

On page 209, following line 7, insert the following: "Section 3 of Committee Proposal 1-23 was declared passed."

On page 209, following line 42, insert the following: "Section 4 of Committee Proposal 1-23 was declared passed."

On page 210, following line 16, insert the following: "Section 5 of Committee Proposal 1-23 was declared passed."

On page 210, following line 50, insert the following: "Section 6 of Committee Proposal 1-23 was declared passed."

On page 211, following line 36, insert the following: "Section 1 of Committee Proposal 1-23 was declared passed."

And when so corrected, recommends that the same be approved.

Delegate Dobson, Vice Chairman.

Delegate Paulson moved that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

Are there any questions?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of adopting the report will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted.

We'll be on the sixth order of business — Consideration of Amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hoffner has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-37, as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions and as printed on pages 213 and 214 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

On line 1 delete the word "section" and insert the word "sections" and after the numeral "41" insert ", 53, 55 and 56".

On page 6 delete the word "Section" and insert the word "Sections" and after the numeral "41" insert ", 53, 55 and 56".

On line 7 delete the word "is" and insert the word "are".

Delete all of lines 11 through 18 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 8. The terms of service of the legislators shall commence on the first Tuesday after the third day of January following their election. The legislative assembly shall meet to organize on the same day and may meet in plenary session no more than eighty natural days during the biennium. The days need not be consecutive and meetings for the purpose of impeachment or on call of the governor shall not count against the eighty-day limitation. The legislative assembly may authorize its committees to meet at any time during the biennium. No house of the legislature may recess or adjourn for more than three days without the consent of the other house."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the proposed amendments.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: The Committee on Legislative Functions rather substantially amended the bill as it was originally proposed, as you can tell by the reading by the Clerk, and as long as it's on the sixth order, unless anyone has any specific question on the amendments, we could wait until tomorrow, at which time we'll discuss the bill on its merits.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-37.

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendments will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted and Committee Proposal No. 1-37 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Burbidge has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-53, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage and as printed on page 215 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

On line 1 delete the comma after the word "Dakota".

Delete line 2 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to freedom to obtain employment."

After line 5 add the following:

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"There shall be no discrimination against a qualified person's right to practice a trade or profession or to obtain or hold employment because of race, color, sex, creed, or membership or nonmembership in a trade or labor organization or professional group."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-53.

Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-53 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-57, as recommended by the Committee on the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, and as printed on page 225 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

After line 11 add the following new paragraph:

“No public funds may be expended in support of any organization which, in the selection of its membership, discriminates on the basis of race, color or national origin.”

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-57.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I'd like to report my presence, first of all; and, second, I'd like to see an explanation of what this amendment is trying to do. It's meaningless to me.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will a member of the Committee that considered Committee Proposal 1-57 — Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

The purpose of this amendment is that if any organization, fraternal, etc., discriminates in its method of obtaining membership, the State or its agencies cannot expend any of its moneys at that organization — at that organization's facilities, for banquets — things of this nature — as long as it's State funds.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I think the Convention would be well - advised to defeat this amendment. Funds spent at such a club would not be in support of that organization. Those funds would be spent for services rendered, facilities used.

Secondly, I don't think we need to take a gratuitous kick in the Constitution at any fraternal organizations in the state. Whether their policies are right or wrong, it's not a matter of constitutional concern.

I urge rejection of this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President. Fellow Members — Delegates:

I, too, urge rejection of this amendment on the basis of the unknown ramifications; to-wit, the amendment states “No public funds may be expended in support of any organization which, in the selection of its membership, discriminates on the basis of race, color or national origin.”

Having been one of the few white individuals who, in the neighboring state of Minnesota some few years past, was ejected from a hotel because of so-called Mexican ancestry, I still have not been able to convince Delegate Gipp that I can join his forces, and am sincerely concerned that, because of the fact that we now have four separate Indian reservations within the State of North Dakota, all of which in some method or other obtain public funds, qualifications for membership in the Turtle Mountain Tribe, the Standing Rock Tribe, the Three Affiliated Tribes there, and others, is a degree of blood being traced back historically or on some blood line situation. I think the amendment as it is drafted would, in effect, prohibit the State from allowing funds to be expended in support of our native Indians; and on that basis, I think the amendment should be defeated.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: I would like to comment on the amendment, also.

This is the first time that I did see it in substance, written down as it is.

I would say at this point of time I would tend to agree with Delegate Hartl. The words “in the selection of its membership” are somewhat — I have a number of questions with respect to this — this clause there. I don't recall that, in meeting with the Committee and appearing before them, I don't recall the phrase — whether this was Delegate Sinner's suggestion. I don't believe that it was my suggestion, and I would like, maybe, a little more explanation from the Committee on this. But at this point, I would not support the amendment as is, nor was it my intent to provide this kind of a statement. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. Chairman, the words "in the selection" are not mine, although I think the rest of it is. For some reason, I can't find the — I haven't the amendment in front of me. Here it is.

The "in the selection" was not my language that I recall.

The object of this amendment, as I think everyone knows, is to help guarantee equal treatment of all of our citizens, and I think it does belong appropriately in this Section.

As you know, many of the fraternal organizations in this State have passed resolutions to ask our national organizations to not go along with this kind of discriminatory clause in their charters, and I think that most people that are members of fraternal lodges in North Dakota vigorously protest this sort of discriminatory language, and yet, for reasons that remain unclear to me, have been unable to get these charters changed. And it's my firm belief that the existence of this kind of language is not only appropriate in the Preamble to the North Dakota Constitution, but that it will help these organizations make their point to less concern with the national organizations.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, if there is a question about the language, I would like to move that it be placed at the bottom of the calendar and allow Delegate Gipp and some others to take a look at it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-57 be placed at the foot of the calendar.

De we have a second?

DELEGATE SONDRAL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Sondreal.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. It will be placed at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, Delegate Devine would like to report present.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine reports present.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President, I would like to report present.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas reports present.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-60, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage and as printed on pages 225 and 226 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

In line 11 after the word "criminally" insert the words "for a felony".

In line 13 after the period insert the following: "The legislative assembly may change, regulate, or abolish the grand jury system."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-60.

Any discussion? Any discussion?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-60.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

The "noes" have it and the amendments are defeated.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The division — there's a sufficient number standing.

The question now is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-60.

Those in favor of adopting the amendments will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "no."

The key will be opened and you will indicate your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll indicates there were 77 "ayes," there were 14 "nays," there were seven delegates absent and not voting. The amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-79, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage and as printed on page 226 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

In line 2 of the title after the word "keep" delete "and bear."

Delete all of lines 6 and 7 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"No law shall abridge the right of the citizens to keep arms for self defense, for lawful hunting and recreational use and for other lawful purposes, but nothing herein shall be held to permit the unlawful carrying of concealed weapons."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-79. Any discussion?

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Since it might come up later, I would like to ask of the Committee: Did they consider the law which requires registration of hand guns a law that abridges the right of the citizens to keep arms?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: We considered that, and for Mr. Hill's information, this is very similar to the one that was just adopted by New Mexico, and we felt that it would not abridge that right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-79.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

The "noes" have it, and the amendments are lost.

(A division was called for.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on division. We have a sufficient number.

Now, those in favor of the adoption of the amendments will vote "aye," those opposed will vote "no."

The key will be opened. You will indicate your choice. Has every delegate indicated his choice — his preference? The key will be closed.

The roll indicates there were 79 "ayes" and 14 "nays," six delegates absent and not voting. So the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-79 are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-89, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, and as printed on page 226 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

In line 11 after the word "and" insert the following:

"the interests of the general public and".

In line 12, after the word "or" insert "estimated just compensation".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-89. Any discussion?

Are you ready for the question?

As many as are in favor —

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, a short explanation I would appreciate.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: As many of you know, Section 14 of the Declaration of Rights is on eminent domain. It has a lot of legislation in it.

The only protection, as far as the Constitution is concerned, for the property owner, as we see it, is to protect the property owner in the matter of compensation.

After giving this, I suppose, more study than almost any other section, we have come to the conclusion that legislation should be taken out of this section. It is true, if this passes without legislation, a great deal of new legislation will be required in the matter of quick takeover, because the amendment that was adopted, I think, in 1956, was for the benefit of the Highway Department. For one thing, it allowed them the quick take, without having to go to the Legislature for any other legislation.

Now, we think that, in the first place, the property owner should be protected not only in the matter of compensation, but he should also be protected as far as his property rights are concerned.

Then we think there's another matter that should be taken into consideration. We think the public — the interests of the public should be taken into consideration in this day when we're talking so much about ecology and environment and recreational purposes. So what we've tried to do is simply state a principle — protecting the general public — protecting the property owner not only in the matter of his compensation, but also in the matter of property rights; and that if this passes, it will, of course, necessitate compensation; but we are staying with the principle the Constitution should state principle and stay away from legislation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-89.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Delegate Proposal 2-23, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, and as printed on page 227 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

Delete all of lines 7, 8 and 9.

In line 10 delete "greatest obligations of citizenship, the" and insert in lieu thereof the word "The".

In line 11 delete the word "these".

In line 12 delete the word "shall" and insert in lieu thereof the word "may" and also in line 12 delete the word "such".

In line 13 insert a period after the word "assembly" and delete the remainder of the line.

Delete all of line 14.

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Delegate Proposal No. 2-23.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Would you please — could it be read from the desk? I'm all confused. I'd like to know what it says.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, ma'am.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposal No. 2-23 will now say:

"A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"In grateful appreciation of the sacrifices and contributions made by the men and women who served in the Armed Forces, and recognizing that these veterans have fulfilled one of the greatest obligations of citizenship, the people of North Dakota do herein declare that these North Dakota service men and women shall be given such special consideration as determined by the legislative assembly providing some measure of recompense for lost economic opportunity and disruption of careers and home life."

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: I think Roy forgot to delete lines 7, 8 and 9.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Oh! I'm sorry. That's the original bill, and until it is — the amendments are adopted, or if they're adopted, I don't have any engrossed bill; so I have no way of putting it together.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: I think the way it would read is, ". . . the people of North Dakota do herein declare that North Dakota service men and women shall be given — may be given such special considerations as determined by the legislative assembly", period.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor, did you wish —

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President, the "such" should be omitted or deleted, also. This language was originally so flowery that we felt that it should be reduced to what we were trying to say, and I believe we have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does your copy show that the word "such" is omitted? Yes.

Any further —

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Well, to simplify it a little, may I ask: Doesn't it just mean that bonuses are to be paid without a constitutional amendment? Yes. A measure passed by the people?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Not quite. It also allows the Legislature to grant job preference and other bonus — schools, and things like that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further?

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Just a word of explanation. The Finance and Taxation Committee has an amendment coming, in which we built in a measure to grant bonds to cover veterans compensation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Delegate Proposal 2-23.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-57.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I see that Delegate Gipp is out, and, therefore, I'll move that this be laid over one day.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that Committee Proposal No. 1-57 be laid over one Convention day, and the motion was seconded by Delegate Litten.

Is there any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-57 will be laid over one Convention day.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: May we be on the twelfth order of business.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order of business.

DELEGATE HERNETT: At this time I would move that Delegate Proposals No. 2-1, 2-25, 2-27, 2-32, 2-33 and 2-29 be returned to the Convention from the Executive Functions Committee.

If I get a second, I'll explain what I'm doing.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE HERNETT: The reason I'm doing it this way is the delegates who I have talked to would rather withdraw their proposals, rather than have them postponed; and so, in the interests of economy, I'm making one motion to cover all of them, and they will then be before the Convention, and each of the delegates can then get up and make the motion then to have them withdrawn, and we'll get rid of them in one brief period here — the six proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet, would you again read the numbers of those proposals?

DELEGATE HERNETT: They are at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Oh, I see. Fine.

The question is to vote on the motion; but I think the delegates would like to know just what they're voting on. So would you read the numbers again on the proposals?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Proposals No. 2-1, 2-25, 2-27, 2-29, 2-32 and 2-33.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the motion that the Delegate Proposals as read from the desk be returned to the Convention floor from the Committee on Executive Functions.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the proposals are now before the Convention.

DELEGATE HERNETT: I might just — in case — I have talked to all of these people. I know, just in case they forgot the numbers, that Dr. Tudor has No. 1, Delegate Vogel has 25, Delegate Byrne 27, Delegate Chase 32, Delegate Hill 33, and Delegate Rundle 29.

DELEGATE TUDOR: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor.

DELEGATE TUDOR: I was well-prepared and well-briefed by Delegate Hernet, except for my laryngitis, and at this time I would like to withdraw my Delegate Proposal 2-1.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Tudor asks unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-1.

Hearing no objection, your request is granted.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I request permission to withdraw No. 2-29, so it can have an honorable burial.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-29.

Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: I request permission to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-25, which has served its purpose, and I would like it withdrawn.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-25.

Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: Mr. President. I ask at this time unanimous consent to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-27, which has been considered by the Committee, and part of it incorporated in a committee proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Byrne requests unanimous consent to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-27.

Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President. I request permission to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-33.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-33.

Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I request permission of this body to withdraw Delegate Proposal 2-32.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw Delegate Proposal No. 2-32.

Hearing no objection, the request is granted.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roney.

DELEGATE RONEY: Are we still on the twelfth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE RONEY: At this time, Mr. President, I would like to move that the Committee Proposal 1-11 be re-referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

If I could get a second —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KRETSCHMAR: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's seconded by Delegate Kretschmar.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The motion is that Delegate Proposal No. 1-11 be re-referred to the Committee on Judicial Functions.

DELEGATE RONEY: That is "Committee Proposal" — Committee Proposal No. 1-11.

The Minority Report acted as an amendment, and I would ask that it be withdrawn so that further changes can be made, and when the Committee met yesterday, the Committee agreed unanimously that this should be done in order to save the Convention time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the motion to re-refer Committee Proposal 1-11 from the Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it and the proposal will be re-referred.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: I was tardy for roll call. I'd like to check in.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething reports in.

We'll be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Reference of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-104, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to governmental immunity, be created.

“SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

“Suits may be brought against the state and its political subdivisions for negligent injury to a person or his property; and the legislative assembly may provide reasonable limitation on the amount of recovery.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on adoption of Committee Proposal 1-104.

It is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

We'll be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A Majority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-14, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same be passed.

Delegates Longmire, Roney, Bassingthwaite, Engelter, Fallgatter, Hougen, Kessel, Kretschmar, Wallin and Warner.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moves that the Report of the Majority be adopted.

Mr. President: A minority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-14, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended as follows — be amended.

Delegates Hoghaug, Rundle, Gipp, Hartl and Aubol.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Hoghaug moved that the Report of the Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the alternate report; that the Report of the Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority.

Delegate Engelter.

DELEGATE ENGELTER: Mr. President. I think, having both the Majority and the Minority read from the desk and the delegates following Section 1 as stated in 1-14, which we don't have any amendments to, would help the delegates to discern what differences there are between the Minority and the Majority Report.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you request that the reports be read from the desk?

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I think we had a gentlemen's agreement yesterday that if this came up when Delegate Longmire was gone, we would hold it over one day, if that is permissible. And I would like to move that this be held over one day.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton that consideration of Proposal 1-14 be laid over one Convention day.

Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, is it possible that the proposed amendment of the Majority also be placed on the desk of the delegates? I think only the amendment of the minority is on the desks of the delegates, and the delegates have no idea of what the Majority is.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 1-14, I don't believe, is either; but they're in the Journal of the 18th — in the Journal of the 18th, you'll find both the Minority and the Majority, on page 204.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-14 — that is, the report be laid over one Convention day.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it and 1-14 will be laid over until tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A Majority of your Committee on Finance and Taxation to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-97, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegates Unruh, McElroy, Burke, Aas, Ketchum, Lerberg, Miller, Nicholas, Quam and Saugstad.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Unruh moved that the Report of the Majority be adopted.

Mr. President: A Minority of your Committee on Finance and Taxation, to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-97, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended.

And when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Cart, Trenbeath and Binek.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Cart moved that the Report of the Minority be substituted for that of the majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the Minority Report; that the Minority Report be substituted for that of the Majority.

Do we have any discussion? Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President. My voice is a bit husky this morning, but I'll try and be understood.

There is quite a basic difference between these two reports.

The Report of the Majority would permit all property to be classified and subject to exemption by the Legislature, while the Minority Report would still retain the exemption features as defined in Section 2 of the present constitutional provision, and that is that any or all classes of personal property would be subject to exemption by the Legislature, and buildings, fixtures and improvements are classified as personal property.

Now, we could envision a situation arising as time goes on where there would be a scramble for exemptions, and maybe practically none of the property left taxable. But if I was speaking for my own personal interests, I would be in favor of the Majority Report, because what little of this world's goods I have is land. But I want to see at least a substantial portion of our taxable value left not subject to tax exemption, because our local subdivisions — cities, townships, school districts and all the other subdivisions — have got to have something of a base on which to survive on. If you open this up to where any of the property that is now taxed on the ad valorem basis, as it is so-called, and is the real foundation of your local government — now the proposed Minority Report is somewhat different. The language is the same in the Minority Report as it is in the present Constitution, until you get clear down to the third paragraph, and there that line has been shortened up. Instead of spelling out the "by ownership," like the United States and the city, county, and so forth, it reads, "Provided, however, that property used exclusively for schools, religious, cemetery, charitable or other public purposes shall be exempt from taxation." And continues on with the saving clause that all taxes and exemptions in force when this Constitution is adopted would continue until changed by law.

I think it would be much better if we would continue the situation which we have now, because our tax base is getting very small for these local subdivisions. We've exempted all personal property with a blanket exemption here in 1969. It has not been tested out in the court yet how wide a range that exemption covers; but there is good cause to think that we might end up with only about 57 or 8 percent of the original tax base on the tax rolls, if buildings, fixtures, pipelines and various things like that are wiped out. Then we're in serious trouble already.

So I would urge and plead with you to adopt the Minority Report.

Thank you.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. Speaker and Fellow Delegates:

Today I am substituting for the person who was to give the Majority Report — Delegate Quam, who is absent from this room.

I first would like to respond to the statements made by Delegate Cart as relates to the Minority Report.

Now, Delegate Cart has told you that if we adopt his language, he firmly believes, and I concur, that personal — that the real estate that we now tax, including buildings, as we do in the cities, could be declared a little bit on the unconstitutional side because, if you read very carefully this section of the Constitution, it does say that all personal property, including buildings, are considered personal property for this section; and so it is very possible that under the repeal of the 1969 personal property taxes, that we don't have the basis to tax houses or other buildings as part of real estate. I think this section is clear, and if there were a test, we conceivably could lose the taxes that we now are paying on buildings and improvements.

With this in mind, our Committee feels that we should change the Constitution. We should change the Constitution so that we can tax buildings and improvements on real estate under our Constitution.

The people have spoken. The Legislature has spoken to us, at least, to say that they don't want personal property taxes. They're getting down to clarifying the classes of personal property to the extent that building improvements are defined and included — continued to be included. And so I think the majority of our Committee feels that we should be sure that, when we do tax buildings and improvements, that they are taxable and that it will meet the constitutional test. So this is the first difference that we have.

Now, our Committee has deliberated long and loud on occasions about tax exemptions which are granted specifically in the Constitution to churches, schools, cemeteries, religious organizations and other charitable-type of organizations, and at one time in our November meeting we voted 11-to-3 to totally eliminate the constitutional protection for tax exemption of any of these organizations. We did come back and feel that we are never going to tax some of these organizations, such as churches and schools, and we did include them in the Constitution in our Proposal, because we did not want to create any more irritations or concerns or develop any loss of vote, if it was at all possible. We do feel, however, that there is room for improvement in our regulation and control of tax exemptions; and so we have omitted a portion of that original Constitution which says "charitable or other public purposes shall be exempt from taxation." That portion we have had omitted, and our reason for so doing is that it is adequately protected in the Code — the North Dakota statutes.

57-02-08 lists 28 — or 22, rather, specific exemptions. Amongst those are the ones that are in the Constitution, and they are repeated. But there are numerous other ones, also, in this section. Under this section, at item No. — at one of our items here, we do exclude farm buildings, as an example, from tax exemption, and this has stood the test of time. The people certainly realize that we have farm buildings excluded and farm improvements excluded. Some of the other areas here have stood the test of time. We would like to see the Legislature have an opportunity to determine what should be exempt and what is not exempt, and there are some standards, I believe that the Legislature should apply in determining what should be given exemption.

Now, we have included schools, churches, and cemeteries in our tax exemptions; but we prefer to leave the rest to the Legislature.

In our present Code, we do exclude the — we do allow tax exemption for the real and personal property owned by lodges, by farmers organizations, commercial clubs and that type of nonprofit organization. We do provide exemption for fraternities, sororities and various other organizations of that kind. We do provide exemption for public hospitals and other organizations used for public charity. And I think we can continue to do that. But it should be the legislators' opportunity and the legislators' decision on how they are going to regulate these.

Today we have before us for amendment 1-57 of our proposals here, and if you will take a look at 1-57, the concern there is that we do not discriminate within our organizations. Well, I think that should be up to the Legislature to determine whether or not they have tax exemption, if they are discriminating; and here, ladies and gentlemen, is one opportunity that we can apply sincerely a test for discrimination. We can tax those organizations, if the Legislature so determines. But if we put that into the Constitution, there's no room for the Legislature to do any moving or to apply any standards or any tests of any kind. We need some accountability of our tax-exempt organizations.

I'm sure if you would think back in your own communities, and you do have some that you wonder now why are they tax-exempt? Do they really meet the test? But because they are organized under the various sections of the Code that provide tax exemption, they are granted tax exemption under the Constitution. And is this really fair when all of us are having a hard time paying taxes? Is it really fair that some of these organizations are shielded behind tax exemption when they should not be?

I believe, and our Committee believes, that this should be a decision which the Legislature makes. We should have a showing, then, that there is accountability. Perhaps they should make a public financial statement, if they are to deserve tax exemption in some of these organizations. And why not? But I would like to know how we can do it if we give them the constitutional protection?

So I submit to you that we need to give the Legislature some room in which they can operate to determine the legitimate tax exemption and the deserving of the tax exemption of these various organizations. Every person in this room is concerned about the amount of tax he pays and the amount of tax his constituents pay. You heard that when we discussed the real estate taxes in here. We are afraid that we are going to apply additional taxes; but, yet, how can we honestly apply or allocate a certain group and call them charitable, tax-exempt organizations without first scrutiny, and then give them a tax-exempt base? It certainly seems proper that if they are competing with business — private businesses that are paying taxes, that there should be some room for tax exemption disallowance. And with this in mind, our Committee has sincerely felt that we need to make some corrections, and the only way to do so is to open this up and give this latitude to the Legislatures. We feel that there is not going to be any removal of tax exemption where it is due and just; but we do feel that there is adequate reason why we should take this out of the Constitution, and I think that we should not continue the proliferation of tax exemptions that we have had in the past. We have too much of it already, and we submit, in the majority, that we should remove this section of the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Fiedler.

DELEGATE FIEDLER: I rise on a point of a question.

What would you consider the status of a hospital organized as a nonprofit organization?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas, would you answer the question?

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

Under our statutes at the present time, it is exempt under the Constitution.

Under our statutes, they also have tax exemption under 57-02-08; and subsection 8: "All buildings and contents of institutions used for public charity, including hospitals, shall be tax exempt."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: One of the things that is of great concern to me in our day of increasing medical costs, and the prime need for these care-type organizations — I have a letter in front of me from a hospital administrator who is very concerned that this is not included in the present 1-97 — the inclusion of such things as non-profit hospitals, schools of nursing, nursing homes, mental health and retardation centers, and as such.

I find that using the same rationale of locking "school, cemetery or religious purposes" into the Constitution, we should also lock some of these nonprofit health-care facilities into the Constitution. They certainly are charitable. We certainly do not like the rising costs of medical care at the present time, and if we allow the Legislature to change it, they may at any time they wish.

I agree that they should substantiate the nonprofit status. I have no question about that. But I rise in opposition to the 1-97 and support the Minority Report.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Well, Mr. President, I think that I can say that I have some concern in the health field, myself. But I would like to believe that our charitable, hospital type of organizations — our homes for the aged — and what are they? — maybe can justify their tax exemption. I have seen what I believe are hospital operations that I wonder just how much charity they offer, and, secondly, just how much they are — are operating in an effective, efficient way which would deserve the tax exemptions which we are granting them. And if we tie it into the Constitution, then there's no way for the Legislature to regulate it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: I would like to direct a question to Delegate Aas.

Would this include the Kildahl Empire at Minot — food service, ambulance service, and such, organized under the turnkey hospital association? If it would, I would be opposed to it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can Delegate Aas answer the question?

DELEGATE AAS: I'm not too sure just what the question is; but his organization would be subject to the same scrutiny as any other organization, by the Legislature, if this bill is passed.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, I am not certain, after listening to the reports of both the Minority and the Majority, which option is available here in regard wanting to protect charitable institutions, particular hospitals and nursing homes. Perhaps the question should be initially to Delegate Cart:

Does the Minority Report include protection for those existing agencies?

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: The language in the Minority Report is identical to the language in the present Constitution, with the exception of the publicly-owned lands — lands owned by schools, by the United States Government and by the State and the municipal and county corporations.

Now, as far as the exemptions in the Minority Report are concerned, it's still to those institutions that are used exclusively — and remember the word "exclusively" — for these purposes. That has not changed. If it comes to the personal property, the buildings and the hospital are personal property, the same as they are of a home or a barn or a granary, and it would be up to the Legislature to provide exemption or deny exemption. That is in contrast to the Majority — Minority — Majority Report, which leaves it up to the Legislature to classify all properties in the State and provide or withhold exemptions as they see fit, except for those churches, and so forth, that are — their language is "property used exclusively for schools, cemetery or religious purposes." Those are the ones that are exempted in the Majority Report — not anything else.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burke.

DELEGATE BURKE: Mr. President.

The Minority Report should be denied because it builds into the Constitution a serious constitutional defect.

The Finance and Taxation Committee, in another proposal, has provided that the power of taxation shall never be surrendered or suspended, except as provided in this Constitution, and upon the advice of experts — the Attorney General's Department and our Staff Attorney — we adopted the language, "The legislative assembly may by law define and exempt any and all classes of property."

Now, the prime purpose of this was to take care of the municipal industrial bonds and the exemptions on a local level, and if you refer to the first proposal that I mentioned — the provision — "The power of taxation shall never be surrendered" — then the Minority Report has no provision for these exemptions on a local level.

Another reason why the Minority Report should be denied is, to lawyers and legal scholars, the second sentence is sort of abominable to legal scholars, because buildings and other structures naturally go with that, and this provision says, for the purpose of this section, buildings, and so forth, are deemed personal property, and as we all know, the purpose of this was for the exemption of farm buildings, and the Majority Report is not denying the exemption on farm buildings because under the broad provision that is put into the Majority Report, the Legislative Assembly may by law define and exempt all classes of property. Farm buildings will still be exempt under this provision, and the Majority Report also provides that all taxes and exemptions in force when this Constitution is enacted shall remain in force, unless otherwise provided by statute, and I would hope the delegates would deny the Minority Report, because it has serious constitutional defects in it.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I would like to caution the delegates against considering the merits of the Majority and Minority on the basis of exemptions. The real difference — the fundamental difference between the two reports is in Section 2 — or, rather, the second sentence, dealing with exemptions. The Committee feels that it is necessary to change the wording of the present Constitution; that it is an unwieldy and unreasonable definition of "personal property." I am a farmer and interested, of course, in the continuation of exemptions on farm buildings, but that exemption is by statute now and would continue to be by statute under the Majority Proposal.

So, as I say, I would hope that you would not make a decision on the basis of exemptions. There is going to be a proposal made tomorrow on the tenth order to amend the bill to extend the exemptions, and this — if you are interested in further exemptions, this is the way to do it, not to turn down the Majority Report because it doesn't contain all the exemptions you would like.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman. I would like to direct some questions to the Tax Committee, to be answered either today or tomorrow when the bills come up for final passage.

Under the Majority Report, you would give the Legislature complete authority to classify all property and grant exemptions. That means, in my mind, that you would permit the Legislature to classify by ownership as well as use. You could eliminate entire farmsteads or the home quarter from taxation or you could eliminate homes, you could eliminate businesses, depending upon what group had got control of the Legislature at any one specific time. The fault that exists today in the exemption of personal property is easily erased by the Legislature. All it has to do is set up a classification of personal property for residence and commercial buildings and declare that they are not exempt from taxation in the general personal property exemption. This should have been done many years ago, but they simply created a special class of personal property for farm buildings and exempted those and did nothing about the rest of the buildings that were declared to be personal property in the old phraseology. I wonder, and I would like the questions answered either today or tomorrow, about the power you are giving to the Legislature to classify on the basis of ownership or use, and so that the demand for uniform taxation can go pretty much out the window if the Legislature takes full advantage of the powers we would grant in the reading of the Majority Report, according to my interpretation.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, going back to answer Delegate Burke on the proposition of personal property and real estate:

According to our public land surveys, we've gotten our area divided into townships and sections of land and quarter-sections, and then we have set up municipal governments with a new survey, and this is into lots, and they describe the number of rods or feet or miles in these areas, and even if you put a building on it, why you can move it away or you can tear it down and you've still got that lot. That's the land. And the building thereon is certainly man-made and subject to removal by man. That's why all buildings are classified in the Constitution as personal property. No other reason. And when the exemptions were originally written, way back in 1919, farm buildings were included at that time; also, one thousand dollars of the value of a city home used for residential purposes, and many other items — household goods to the extent of, I believe, $300 — tools of a working man — I can't enumerate all of them. I remember now — they can all be looked up in the 1919 Session Laws. And as time went on, apparently the city governments found themselves in distress to some degree to get revenue. So those exemptions were removed and the farm buildings are the one remaining items of that original exemption passed way back in 1919, after the Constitution was amended.

So I certainly take issue with a building can be classed as a part of the legal description of the survey of this area on which we live — the public lands survey as enacted by the United States way back in 1818. There's 18 states in this Union that do not have public land survey, and the nineteenth one has part of that, and that's part of it under the Old Spanish land grants down in Texas.

So we're dealing with a well-founded situation in principle right here in North Dakota. We're a public land survey state, and the public land survey is what I am contending should remain, taxable or not, subject to the exemptions; that the buildings should be classified properly as personal property and the right of the Legislature either to exempt or not exempt, as they see fit, and if the 1919 — or 1969 Session of the Legislature had merely specified the personal property they wished to exempt by class — if it was thought some merchandise, state it; livestock, state it, just very simply "all animals" — that would take care of that, and machinery, or anything else — household goods — state it; and then you would be in no difficulty or there would be no cloud over what they have done. But they took the Mother Hubbard approach and it was easy to write it that way, and covered everything — I won't say where.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

I would like to ask one or more of the experts in connection with this argument about defining the exemption of personal property, et cetera. What would be the effect of the Constitution if we didn't try to put either the Minority statement or the Majority statement — the Minority or Majority statement in, and simply were silent, after saying "Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class," et cetera? What would be the effect of that? Would that preclude the Legislature from proceeding with all of these very fine definitions which they have done over the years?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I don't believe I get the full intent or the full meaning of your question. Would you — is it directed to what would happen if we leave out the entire section?

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes. Again, it's — yes. In 1-97, in order to refer to something that we can see: On line 12 begins the sentence, "The legislative assembly can by law define or exempt all classes of property," and in the Minority Report, the second sentence redefines that in the old terms. If you didn't have either one of those sentences in either the Majority or the Minority Report, what would be the situation?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Can Delegate Lander direct this to an expert? I am not an expert and I certainly don't claim to be.

I am, of course, the Chairman of the Committee and have some responsibility for this Proposal.

What would happen, in my opinion, I think —and I think in the opinion of the members of the Committee — if this were left out, there could be no exemptions under the Constitution whatsoever. The Legislature would have no power. They could not exempt personal property. You could not exempt church or religious property or any type of property, if this section was left out. I don't think there's much question about that.

I would like to answer Delegate Paulson's question on exemptions — what this would mean. We do have certain exemptions now made by the Legislature that are pretty-well accepted by the people. They have never been brought to a court test. I would refer to Section 57-02-08.1, which exempts homes of elderly people with limited means from a part of the tax load. This has never been tested, and we believe it would be unconstitutional at present — 176. Then, as Delegate Burke mentioned, the industrial development bonds. In 1969, the Attorney General issued an opinion to the North Dakota Industrial and Business Development Department that said, in part, that these industries given tax exemptions under this Act might well consider the possibilities that the land exemptions be subsequently declared unconstitutional in view of the provisions of 176 of the North Dakota Constitution. This is another exemption. It's clearly unconstitutional, if ever brought to a test in the courts, and we think that these are important enough so that the Legislature should be given authority to continue this type of exemption and others that might arise in the future. After all, basically we have to depend upon the Legislature in many of these cases and believe that it will reflect the feelings of a majority of the people at the time it might act on these exemptions.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I visited with the Tax Department regarding these two proposals, because they are relatively vague, and I'd like to respond to Delegate Lander's question.

In the first place, even the first sentence isn't necessary because we have that under the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution — equal protection — and there's plenty of case law on that, and I think that the Legislature has the authority to do whatever it wants to do, unless it is prohibited by the Constitution of the State and unless there is a specific prohibition someplace else in the Constitution that says the Legislature may not exempt — the Legislature does not have the authority to exempt anything that it wants to exempt. The only reason we put it in constitutions is to be sure that they get the exemption, and the Legislature can't take it away from them. And so, personally, I plan to vote against this section because I don't — I don't — well, it's necessary only to the extent that we have already passed another provision, which says that they can't surrender the power of taxation. So, by putting that extraneous language in the Constitution in one other place, we have to put more extraneous language in another place, and thus the Constitution gets longer. I think that Delegate Burke has raised a very valid point, and I don't think it can be over-emphasized. If you're going to provide for an exemption under the Municipal Industrial Development Corporation Act, you have to permit an exemption of the land, and the Minority Report is more defective than the Majority Report in this respect, in that it would not be possible to exempt land under the Municipal Industrial Development Corporation Act. Therefore, since we're going to have this horse in the same stall to kick around tomorrow, I think that it would be wise to reject the Minority Report, adopt the Majority Report and do some amending on tenth order.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Well, Mr. President and Delegates:

I have sat silent on this thing for quite awhile, and I'm on that Minority Report. But I want to make it clear that I agree not wholeheartedly with what Elmer

Cart has to say; but I got on the Minority Report simply so he could get out on this floor and state his case, and he has some justification and real justification, and there's been a lot of clarification on what this — on what this means.

Now, as to the second part of this bill, either the Minority or the Majority Report, I think that can be taken care of by the tenth order tomorrow. My personal opinion is that if you're going to spell out in the Constitution the exemptions on religious and education facilities and the cemeteries, that you might just as well go the whole gamut and include charitable and other public-purpose institutions.

But the only reason I signed this Minority Report is to bring this back to your attention. In the first part of this Proposal, both the Majority and Minority Report, the key difference is — is whether we should empower the Legislature to also exempt real estate, which our present Constitution does not. The Minority Report classifies personal property and allows the Legislature to exempt personal property, but it does not allow them to exempt real estate, and there is a conflict, as Delegate Burke has stated, in our present situation, and this, I feel, has to be corrected. The only reason I signed that Minority Report was to bring this to your attention and what can happen — and it happened in the last legislative session. Because personal property was removed, we had an industry in our area that is an enormous taxpayer — in fact, it is, I think, the biggest taxpayer in the State of North Dakota under one roof — they pay a quarter-million dollars in property taxes each year. Now, if personal property taxes were removed, it would be complete chaos, if we took all the personal property tax money away from that school district. So what the Legislature did then was classify that piece of real estate in one classification.

Now, here we have — and this is good in respect to what can happen at the local level; but how good is it for this industry? Here they came into being just ahead of the so-called industrial exemption that came about. They're paying this enormous tax load. They got no relief whatsoever when the personal property tax went off, and here's what can happen when you leave the definition of real estate up to the Legislature. And I'm not saying the Legislature was all wrong in this Act, but how far can we go when we start exempting this real estate? Because when you do, the burden has got to fall somewhere else. This is the only reason I bring this back to your attention. I think I'm going to support the Majority Report, also, and leave it on the tenth order as to just what should be charitable and what not charitable in that category.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Thank you, Mr. President.

The Legislature, last session, did something which some of you may not be aware of, and that is they defined what real property was, and they said, calling on my memory, that real property was the land and ditches and things attached to it, like buildings. If you put a house on real estate, it becomes real property. If you put plumbing in the house, it becomes a part of that real property. If you put in air conditioning and lights and all these things, these are considered, in the true legal sense of the word, real property. So, you see, we have a diametrically opposed position. The Legislature has stated correctly what real property is, where the Constitution — the present — doesn't, and we think it needs to be cleared up; and for that reason, I am on the Minority Report on 1-97. I do have reservations about leaving out charitable institutions, and I hope that tomorrow if the opportunity comes, that we can amend those in and eliminate a thorn in our side.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Well, Mr. President, I think this discussion on this section clearly demonstrates the incredible inequities with which property taxes begin and at which they end and are enforced. I can't possibly support the section as it is presented, as long as some exclusions are built into the Constitution. There are plenty of schools being run strictly for profit, there are cemeteries being run strictly for profit, and there are, I'm sure, religious groups operating strictly for profit under the name of religious; and if these things are to be excluded in the Constitution and given a false protection, I can't see how we can support this section, or any other, that does not, as someone suggested, go on to other logical — sometimes-logical exclusions.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aas.

DELEGATE AAS: Mr. President, I agree with most of what Delegate Sinner has said there; but let's remember that this is a compromise, at best — our Majority Report. The Committee voted 11-to-4 — 11-to-3, rather, at one time, to remove all exclusions out of this Constitution — all of the specified exclusions. We feel, however, that the cemeteries that are operated for profit and the schools that are operating for profit are taken care of otherwise, because they are organized under the profit section of the — they're not under the nonprofit sections of the corporations; so they do pay taxes in those cases. I, personally, myself, would rather see these organizations left out. But we had to be somewhat realistic in our Committee and try to get something acceptable to the largest number. And I might say, in response to Delegate Omdahl, that this is not a perfect document by any means, and I'm sure that we could do better, but we — again, I have to say that we need to compromise, and we're not going to get in this thing what each one of us wants.

Now, I cannot agree that just because we have the schools, the churches and the cemeteries in this Constitution that we should give a carte blanche authorization to all organizations that are organized under the tax-exempt statutes to have tax exemption. I think they should be compelled in some way or another at some time down the line to show that they deserve that tax exemption, and I don't care whether it's a school or whether it's a hospital or whether it's an old folks home or whether it's a lodge, or anything else — they should first be able to show that they deserve it; and then, secondly, they should show nondiscrimination, and I think that this is the very best that we can come up with. And, so help me, I don't understand why, if we give churches tax exemptions, that we should give carte blanche exemptions to all other organizations for tax exemption.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I think one reason why cemeteries are in that, if the land is taxed, if someone doesn't pay the County Auditor, someone has to run the cemetery; so whether it's a problem or not, I would like to have the cemetery as nontaxable land.

I was tempted, after the Legislature removed the personal property tax, to start a proceeding to stop paying taxes on my house, because under this section, for tax purposes, it was personal property, and I think that would have relieved me of a substantial tax burden. But I realized that if I did that, I would be in the same frame of mind as another man in Shakespeare, who said, "We bear these ills we have, rather than flee to others we know not of." That might apply to quite a few things here in this Convention.

There is a real dichotomy, and that's a very popular word these days, in the second sentence in Section 176. It is true that other sections of our statute specifically say what is real property, and I have examined the last Legislature's definitions with great care. This section, of course — this sentence in the present 176 doesn't say that farm buildings or any buildings are personal property, period. It says that "within the meaning of this section," meaning as to taxes. That thing happens in other places. You may transfer half of your property or have your property to yourself and your wife in joint tenancy. Upon your death, under the law, that is her property. But the Federal Government doesn't pay any attention to that when it comes along to figuring out estate taxes. They pay no attention to that at all. And so we do have these strange situations. I, personally, am in favor of some additional exemptions, and I find myself in favor of the Majority Report, with the idea that tomorrow we may look at the exemptions on the tenth order of business. I believe that the Constitution, as it is written now, is confusing. It is possible that the Legislature would have the right to classify a property, if it is a reasonable classification, as they do for many other purposes, besides taxation, without any provision that they may do so. It's perfectly correct that our Constitution is a restrictive one and not one that grants powers; and because of that, it is the reason why I want certain charitable institutions exempt in the Constitution; otherwise, leave it up to the Legislature.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, for fear this debate may extend into the next day and I won't get paid for today, may I request that the record show that Delegates Fritzell and Longmire have reported for duty?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Yes. I'd just like to bring out a point that I don't think any of the other Committee's members touched on, and in our Committee we received about 600 letters from various church groups throughout the State, with some one thousand signatures, supporting the exemptions for the churches; and, as per Delegate Sinner's part, I hope he wants absolution in the future, because it may be hard to get if this is left out. (Laughter)

I do hope the members of the assembly here will support the Majority Report, and if they feel further exemptions should be left in, they can amend it as they see fit tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, Mr. President, I don't want to belabor this question much longer. I think it's been well-explored. I think a lot of our trouble comes right back to the 1967 legislative act which attempted to vacate and set aside this constitutional provision which states that all fixtures, buildings, and so forth, put on the land are personal property. There they attempted to vacate and set that aside and classify buildings as real estate. So then, from there on now, we've got a rather confused situation. Maybe it isn't quite as bad as quoting Shakespeare again, like Delegate Pearce did, but with not the same quotation; but probably the Legislature has created its masterpiece of confusion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, I really haven't got too much to add to this, except the question of letters came up, and would Delegate Maxwell yield to a question?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, I will.

DELEGATE AUBOL: How many letters did your Committee receive on that particular issue?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell, would you care to answer?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: I couldn't, without checking. I'm sorry.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Oh. I understood it was in the area of thousands.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Are you referring to the right-to-work issue?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Yes, I am, sir.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes. We received close to two thousand letters.

DELEGATE AUBOL: My only point, Mr. President, is that we should not always base our actions in this Convention on how many letters we have received.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I am a little confused, but I would like anyone that cares to answer — either side. Which side would permit the Patterson Hotel to organize as an old folks home and be tax exempt? (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Well, in response to Delegate Rundle's inquiry, it's probably exempt now, if you wanted to go to court and get it. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question — the question is on the adoption of the Minority Report — that the Minority Report be substituted for that of the Majority.

Is there any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of adopting the Minority Report will say "aye;" those opposed will say "no." The "noes" have it and the report lost.

DELEGATE CART: Let's have a division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Did you say "division"?

DELEGATE CART: Yes, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would we have five rise? That is a sufficient number. We will have a division.

Now, those that are in favor of adopting the report — the Minority Report — will vote “aye,” and those opposed will vote “nay.”

The key will be opened. You will indicate your choice.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

Delegate Knudson, have you voted?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Yes, I have. I vote “no.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It wasn't on my board. That's why I asked.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Knudson votes “no.” It's not on the board.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any delegate wish to change his vote?

The key is closed.

The roll call indicates that there were 14 “ayes”; there were 80 “nay” votes; there were four delegates absent and not voting. So the question of adopting the Minority Report failed.

The question now before the Convention is on the adoption of the Majority Report. I don't think we need further discussion.

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion to adopt the Majority Report will say “aye;” those opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and the report is adopted.

This will be on the tenth order then tomorrow.

Fellow Delegates, I think we should take a break for 15 minutes.

Say, just excuse me. Before we do that: Take the sixth order — or eighth order. We have some announcements here. We have a number of school children visiting us.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Binek would like to announce that the Dickinson State College has 50-to-60 students, with Mr. Church in charge, in the balcony. (Applause)

Memorial Junior High School from Minot has 40 selected students in the balcony

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will those students please rise? (Applause)

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: And Delegate Kelsch would like to announce that there are 29 students from the eighth grade of Christ The King Grade School in the balcony.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the student please rise and receive the recognition of the Convention? Will you please rise? (Applause)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then we will be in — I now declare the Convention to be in recess until eleven o'clock.

(The Session recessed at 10:43 A.M. until 11:04 A.M., the same day.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Could we be on the eighth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE URDAHL: There's a group of 45 junior and senior high school students from Medina, North Dakota here under the leadership of A. K. Zimmerman and Don Smellner. I'd like to extend our welcome to them.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would the visitors please rise and be recognized by the assembly? (Applause)

We will continue on the fifth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-36 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-36 — that it be amended and then that it do pass.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” those opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-36 will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-45, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended.

And when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-45; that the Proposal be amended and then adopted.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and the Committee Report is adopted and will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I'm not supporting the Minority Proposal, but I think it should be called to the attention of the delegates that there was a new sheet here placed, on which will be — which Delegate Burke plans to present to the Convention on tenth order, to amend 1-45. I announce this at this time so the delegates will have a chance to look at this and remember that it's in relation to 1-45 that this amendment will be proposed tomorrow.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Omdahl.

We'll continue on the fifth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-55, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-55 — that it do pass.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it. Proposal No. 1-55 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-61, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-61; that the Proposal be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion? Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: The reason that this is being indefinitely postponed is that there is a new Committee Proposal that is taking the language of the old Constitution or the present Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question, then, is on the adoption of the Committee Report; that Committee Proposal No. 1-61 be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and it is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-72, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended.

And when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-72; that it be amended.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and this Report — 1-72 — will be on the sixth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-76, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moved that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-76; that it be given a do pass.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-76 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Finance and Taxation, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-77, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Haugen, Chairman.

Delegate Haugen moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-77; that it be given a do pass.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Proposal will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-86, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-86; that it be given a do pass.

Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-86 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-92, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-92; that it do pass.

Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Proposal will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-98, has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report to Proposal No. 1-98; that it be given a do pass.

Is there any discussion?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Proposal No. 1-98 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-101, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moved that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-101; that it be given a do pass.

Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

Delegate Peterson, did you wish to —

DELEGATE PETERSON: I didn't get up fast enough. The Proposal 101 — is that the one that's from —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes — 101 — 1-101.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Yes. That's the one on public utilities?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry. I can't tell you. Yes, that is correct.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I vote against it. Will we get a chance tomorrow to discuss it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, ma'am. That will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

I will restate the motion.

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-101; that it be given a do pass.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: As one of the Committee that hurried that back out, I would like to remind you that it isn't in the books yet and, hopefully, those will be on the desks today sometime. Actually, however, it is — if you want to look in your book under 1-20, the content of 1-101 amounts to Section 2 of 1-101. Is that not right? Yes, that's correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Lander.

Delegate Hoghaug, did you have a question?

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: I just wanted to report it isn't in the book.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry. He did make reference to where it is in another proposal.

Then the question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-101.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and this Proposal 1-101 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-2, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-98.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 2-2; that it be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion?

Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman: This is similar to the bill that we — that the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage had introduced, and we just indefinitely postponed it, and I felt that the wording in Delegate Proposal 2-2 was much better than what we have reintroduced, and I do not support the new language, but, rather, would have Section 2-2 presented by Delegate Geelan.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Daniels.

DELEGATE DANIELS: I, too, support Delegate O'Toole's position. This is the bill of attainder and ex post facto portion, and it contains the definitions for these, and I still contend it should be in the Constitution, even though it adds a few words.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Since I was the delegate who introduced the Delegate Proposal 2-2, no, I'm not at all happy that it's going to be indefinitely postponed; but I'm accepting the will of the Convention that voted negatively on our Committee Report, so I am, with Delegate Rundle, am now attending the funeral of a proposal that I really thought had merit.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I do not believe that a preliminary vote always reflects the will of the Convention. This Convention has already changed its mind on one occasion that I know of. I would support — or I would oppose indefinite postponement of this Proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Is it not correct that we're going to be discussing this part again? Is this not one of the — Section 16 that we're going to discuss tomorrow morning on the tenth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Hendrickson, as far as the Proposal before the Convention, if we indefinitely postpone this at this time, this Proposal will not be before the Convention again, unless there is a motion someplace along the line to reconsider it.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Well, I'm against indefinitely postponing it, until we have discussed the companion suggestions from the Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the Committee Report that Delegate Proposal No. 2-2 be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no."

I believe the "noes" have it.

Division? A division has been requested.

We will have a division. Now, remember, those that are in favor of indefinitely postponing Proposal No. 2-2 will vote "aye;" those that are opposed to indefinitely postponing it will vote "no."

The key will be opened and you will record — or you will indicate your choice.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change? The key is closed.

The vote indicates that there were 46 "ayes," there were 47 "nays," there were five delegates absent; and so the motion to indefinitely postpone lost, and I really question it. I don't know that my hearing was that good.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would now move that Delegate Proposal 2-22 be placed on the calendar.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that Delegate Proposal 2-2 —

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I beg your pardon. 2-2.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — 2-2 be placed on the calendar. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Sanstead.

Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it will be on the calendar.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: As long as we have no 2-2, and 1-98 dealing with the same subject on a different approach, I would move that they be presented on the tenth order, one following the other.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 2-2 second or first?

DELEGATE KELSCH: It doesn't make any difference.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1-97 —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: 1-98.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Have we adopted that?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes.

DELEGATE KELSCH: 1-98, I think, is on the tenth order tomorrow, and that they come together, because they deal with the same subject.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Kelsch. We will proceed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-3, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-58.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-3; that it be indefinitely postponed.

Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee — or Delegate Proposal No. 2-3 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-4, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed, such proposal having been incorporated into Committee Proposal No. 1-89.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-4; that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Delegate Proposal No. 2-24 — 2-4 is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President. Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-53 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-53; that the Proposal be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE BRAKKE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Brakke.

DELEGATE BRAKKE: I see no real purpose in trying to keep this Proposal before the Convention any longer; so at this time I request the unanimous consent to withdraw Proposal 2-53.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think we can — if there is no objection from the Delegates to the Convention that we give Delegate Brakke permission to withdraw his proposal — it requires unanimous consent, however. Is there any objection to granting him the permission to withdraw the Proposal at this time?

Hearing none, your request is granted, Delegate Brakke. There will be no further consideration, then, at this time of the motion or the proposal to indefinitely postpone.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-68, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-68; that it be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the Committee Report; that the Proposal be indefinitely postponed.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Proposal is indefinitely postponed.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage, to whom was referred Delegate Proposal No. 2-78, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be indefinitely postponed.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Delegate Proposal No. 2-78; that the Proposal be indefinitely postponed.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, the question is on the indefinite postponement of Delegate Proposal No. 2-78.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Proposal 2-78 is indefinitely postponed.

We will be on the seventh order of business — Reports of Select Committees — and we will have a report of the Committee on Rules.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Procedural Committee on Rules appointed to review and recommend changes in the temporary rules has had the same under consideration and recommends that the temporary rules of the Convention be amended as follows:

Rule 13 —

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would move that only the new language be read.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that only the new language in the proposed rules changes be read.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Unruh. Any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we will read only the new language on these rules changes.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The new language in Rule 13 will start with the paragraph "All delegate" — "All delegate and committee proposals shall be reported out of the substantive committees for first reading not later than the eighteenth day of the plenary session. Any proposals re-referred to a substantive committee alter the eighteenth day of the plenary session shall be returned to the Convention floor within the next two Convention days. At the close of the twenty-third day of the plenary session all proposals shall have been acted upon on first reading and first passage."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Kelsch.

The question now is on the adoption of this amendment to the Rules. I believe that in our adoption of Rules in the past to sections or amendments, we have used only the one section at a time, and I think we better proceed with that — follow that procedure.

The Chair will recognize Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President. Fellow Delegates:

The rule change in Rule 13 provides for a specific time when all delegate proposals shall be reported out of the substantive committees, and this calls for them being reported out not later than the eighteenth day of the Plenary Session.

Now, so that you will know what that means, the eighteenth day will be January 26th. That means — January 26th, which is next Wednesday — and that means that all — all committee — all delegate proposals must be reported out of the substantive committees. Then any proposal re-referred to a substantive committee after the eighteenth day of the Plenary Session shall be returned to the Convention floor within the next two Convention days. That is, in the even a proposal is re-referred to the substantive committees, they must be reported out of committee within the next two Convention days. Then, at the close of the twenty-third day of the Plenary Session, all proposals shall have been acted upon first reading and first passage.

Now, that — I think we should spend just a little time on that. What that means — what that spells out is that all delegate — all committee proposals will have to have been acted upon; that is, in other words, they will have to have been on the calendar and then have to have been on first passage — first reading and first passage and have been acted upon, and it means that by the end, then, of the twenty-third day of the Plenary Session, which will be Wednesday, February 2nd — and that means, then, that everything — all proposals then will be — or will have been referred to the Committee on Style and Drafting.

Now, the reason for these suggested rules is that it will speed up our — or regulate our time, so that we will be in a position where we can complete our work within the 30 days allocated to us.

I would then move for the adoption of Rule 13 as amended.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that Rule 13 be amended, and the motion was seconded by Delegate Trenbeath.

Any discussion? The Chair will recognize John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, I would like to inquire as to the exact status of the Committee on the Constitutional Ballot. Is it a study committee or procedural committee? Because that is a committee that will present proposals to this Convention, if it thinks that they should go on the ballot.

So I think that the rules should be specific, so that the Constitutional Ballot Committee can submit to the Convention a proposal or proposals after the twenty-third day deadline, because the delegates won't know whether they should offer alternates until all of them have received first passage.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: In response to Delegate Paulson's question, I believe that the rules adopted setting up the Ballot Committee are such that will allow — we tried to include in the rules procedures that would allow for handling the type of problem that you are suggesting. Remember this: That these rules which we are adopting and which we have been considering will be at the will of the majority of this body, and I believe that, should there be — or in the final analysis this body will have to decide how many and which specific set-aside proposals will be considered, and then this body will have to decide which ones will be placed on the ballot. So, in the final analysis, it will become the decision of this body. However, the mechanics of handling these set-aside proposals, of course, and the mechanics of preparing them, will rest with this special committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the motion to adopt the rule on Rule 13 — the amendments on Rule 13 as presented.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: This still doesn't answer my question. Twenty delegates can introduce an alternate proposal. Is the way cleared for that introduction beyond the eighteenth day or is Rule 13 —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson —

DELEGATE PAULSON: — is Rule 18 completely separate from Rule 13? Is it a procedural committee, or what?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: It is a procedural committee, and I believe it was the understanding of our committee that it would — yes, that this restriction is separate and different; that is, in other words, that there's a special set of rules — that's a special set of rules under which the Ballot Committee operates.

DELEGATE PAULSON: All right.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson, the Chair will rule that in the event that that Committee does desire to introduce a proposal after that particular — the day designated here, that it will be accepted by the Convention.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: The rule that we adopted the other day on alternate proposals is specific; accepting introduction of alternate proposals. The third paragraph says the limitation on the time for introduction of proposals as provided by Rule 18, which is the regular rule on introduction, shall not apply to alternate proposals.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Haugen.

Any further discussion then?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment to Rule 13.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Rule 18. INTRODUCTION OF PROPOSALS.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President, I would again move that we do not read the entire Rule 18, but only that portion which contains the new language.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Saugstad and seconded by Delegate Kwako that we do not read the entire rule; only that portion which is new language.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we will proceed in that manner.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The only new language in Rule 18 is the substitution of "sixteenth" for the "twentieth" day at the bottom — the last sentence of the Rule.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Again, this was done to conform with the suggested amendments to Rule 13, and, in other words, then, it says that the sixteenth day of the Plenary Session becomes the last day on which Committee Proposals may be introduced, and that date will be January 24th; in other words, Monday — next Monday, January 24th, will be the last day that a Committee Proposal can be introduced without suspending the Rules.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I move the adoption of the amendment and, after the adoption of the amendment, the adoption of Rule 18.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question, then, is on Saugstad's motion to adopt the amendment as proposed to Rule 18.

Now, do I have a second?

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Jestrab. Any questions? Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Yes, Mr. President. I would then question: Does this mean that, as before, that this would have to be done before we adjourn on Monday, and then, practically, that the committees would have only this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon in order to complete anything they have to do?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: This is with regard to the introduction, as I interpret it, of new proposals, and the reason that this was changed, Delegate Lander, to the sixteenth is to conform with what we just did in Rule 13.

DELEGATE LANDER: Okay. Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

The question now is on Delegate Saugstad's motion that the Rule now be adopted as amended, and a second to that?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kwako seconded the motion.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Rule is adopted as amended.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The new language in Rule 29. MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION.

"MOTION TO RECONSIDER BY DELEGATES. Any delegate may move for reconsideration of any question. The motion for reconsideration cannot be made on the same question more than once in each Convention day.

"On the same or next two succeeding Convention days, a motion to reconsider the action on a proposal shall require a majority vote of the delegates-elect (50 votes).

"After the same and next two succeeding Convention days, a motion to reconsider the action on a proposal shall require a two-thirds vote of the delegates-elect (66 votes).

"MOTION TO RECONSIDER BY STYLE AND DRAFTING COMMITTEE. The Committee on Style and Drafting may move for reconsideration of the action taken on a proposal at any time. A motion to reconsider the action on a proposal made by the Committee on Style and Drafting shall require a majority vote of the delegates - elect (50 votes).

"MOTION TO RECONSIDER MATTERS OTHER THAN PROPOSALS. On the same or next two succeeding Convention days, a motion to reconsider matters other than proposals shall require a majority vote of the delegates voting.

"After the same and next two succeeding Convention days, a motion to reconsider matters other than proposals shall require a two-thirds vote of the delegates voting."

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Here we go, again, on Rule 29.

Just a brief explanation for the changes here that were made by the Committee:

We made some language improvement here and, also, reference in paragraph 8 regards the motion to reconsider by Style and Drafting. The change here was that it would be no longer necessary for the Committee on Style and Drafting to file a written report with the Clerk of the Convention. It was felt this would speed up the process of handling proposals, and I would move the adoption of Rule 29 as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Fallgatter moves that the amendments to Rule 29 be adopted.

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's seconded by Delegate Solberg.

Is there any further discussion? Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, I notice that the new Rule 29 differs from the old one in that the old Rule 29 said that the same majority shall be required to adopt a motion to reconsider as was required to take the original action. Now, I'm not a member of the Rules Committee and I don't understand all these high-sounding terms, but what did you do when you took that language out?

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: There's no change in this, because to adopt a proposal required a majority vote of the delegates. So we just put it over in there and spelled it out very clearly. Then, on the same or succeeding days it required 50 votes. However, to reconsider that, it takes two-thirds, after the third day. It was the same thing that was stated in another sentence — that the same vote shall be required as was required on the original matter.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question, then, is on the adoption of the amendments to Rule 29. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Rule is adopted — the amendments are adopted.

Now for adopting the Rule, may I have a motion?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I'll move that Rule 29 be adopted as amended.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that Rule 29 be adopted as amended.

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: And Delegate Fallgatter seconded the motion.

Any further discussion? As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Rule 29 is now adopted as amended.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The new language in Rule 33 is "INTRODUCTION OF VISITORS. Recognition or introduction of visitors or guests shall be read from the desk."

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: We added the language at the bottom for the simple reason it would be more sophisticated, probably, so the delegates wouldn't have to introduce their guests from the floor; that it be done from the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hubrig moves that the amendments to Rule 33 be adopted. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton. Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

Delegate Fallgatter moves, and Delegate Stanton seconds, that the Rule 33 be now adopted as amended. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it, and Rule 33 is amended — is adopted.

DELEGATE GEELAN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan.

DELEGATE GEELAN: I now move that the Temporary Rules as amended become the Permanent Rules of this Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Geelan moves that the Temporary Rules as amended now become the Permanent Rules of this Convention.

Do I have a second?

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Fallgatter. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Temporary Rules of the Convention now become the Permanent Rules for this Constitutional Convention.

We'll be on the ninth order of business — Introduction and Reference of Proposals to Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-105, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 1 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-105 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-106, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 2 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-106 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-107, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 3 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-107 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-108, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 4 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-108 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-109, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 5 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-109 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-110, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 6 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-110 — or this is Committee Proposal No. 1-110 — is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-111, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

“Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 7 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people.”

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-111 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-112, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 8 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-112 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-113, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 25 and 202 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section 9 of Article XVI to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created, all of which pertain to constitutional rights reserved in the people."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-113 is referred to the Committee on Legislative Functions.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-114, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that Article XIX to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to adverse possession of public lands, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-114 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-115, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 160, 161, 163, 164 and 165 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that Article VII to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to trust lands."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-115 is referred to the Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands.

We'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: The Budget Committee will meet in the President's office at two o'clock.

While I am making that announcement, I — it may be unnecessary, but since there will be meetings in February, I would like to remind all of the delegates of the law which says that you only have four paid trips home; so keep track of how many you used.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, is it your thought that the session will be over shortly?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I intend, Delegate Meidinger, to recess until one o'clock, and then do some more work. I believe maybe I should ask, first, if there are committee hearings scheduled before 2:00. I don't believe there are, but maybe I'm in error.

Are there any committee hearings scheduled before two o'clock? So I think we'll follow that procedure then.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: May I inquire, then, if it is the intention of the Chair to adjourn about two o'clock?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, it is, sir.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: The Committee on Finance and Taxation has a meeting scheduled for 3:30, and I want the Committee members to know that, and we will probably move that up by about an hour.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then we'll continue on announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Representative Francis Weber is in the gallery.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Francis Weber, would you stand and receive the recognition of the Convention, if you're still with us? I believe she has left.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "He."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The Legislative Functions Committee will hear Delegate Proposal 2-57, pertaining to uniform legislative treatment of corporations, at 4:00 P.M. in the Large Hearing Room Thursday, January 20th.

Delegate Darold Benz is still in the hospital, but is feeling better. He plans on going home tomorrow.

Trinity Lutheran Church Men's Annual Pancake and Sausage Supper, Trinity Lutheran Church, located at Third and Avenue A, Thursday, January 20, 1972, from 5:00 to 8:00 P.M. Adults $1.50.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Unruh.

DELEGATE UNRUH: The Committee on Style and Drafting is contemplating another meeting tonight at eight o'clock in G-7.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements? Hearing none, the Chair is about to declare a recess of the Convention until one o'clock. We're still in convention (rapped gavel).

I hear no objection to that, so we will be back at one o'clock and proceed with the regular orders of business.

Hearing no objection, the Chair will rule that the Convention is now in recess until one o'clock this afternoon.

(The Session recessed at 11:57 A.M. until 1:00 P.M., the same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

(The Plenary Session continued at 1:07 P.M., Thursday, January 20, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the Convention please come to order?

We'll be on the eighth order of business — Announcements. The Clerk has an announcement.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate wives and staff wives: There will be a no-host luncheon at the Elks Club on January 25th at 1:00 P.M. Please make your reservations with President Wenstrom's secretary no later than Monday noon, January 24th.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Just so the delegates understand how come we broke precedent and had ordered announcements on the opening of the Session, is because those orders came from my wife! (Laughter)

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If I might rise on a matter of personal privilege, I'd like this referred to in the Journal. I, myself, and a number of other delegates appear as having voted "no" on Proposal 1-73, which is the Proposal on religious freedom, in yesterday's Journal, on page 224. I know Delegate Hartl feels the same as I do.

We would like the record to show our reason for voting "no" was not that we were opposed to the concept of religious freedom; it was the concept that it deletes other language in the repeal clause of the Proposal.

Would that be printed in the Journal?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: If you so desire.

Delegate Kelsch and Fellow Delegates:

On a question that you just brought to the attention of the Convention, I think that when there is a question of language on a proposal and when we are debating it on the tenth order, I think it would really be worth the effort to offer an amendment to that particular piece of — or that Proposal, rather than finding yourself — the amendment might be adopted — and do it that way, rather than have yourself forced to vote “no” on something that the only reason you have against it is simple the verbiage in the particular proposal. So I think that it would be well if you did at least try to amend it and, if it doesn’t pass, why it just didn’t pass and you’re no worse off than you were before.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Speaking for this trio back here, who were also recorded against it, I feel the reason — that the Committee did not respond to what we thought was a very important and legitimate question by Delegate Kelsch, and so we’re going to support his and our answer, to have a negative vote; and we also were recorded against it, and I certainly wouldn’t want my Seventh Day Adventist friends to note it as being opposed to religious freedom.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do you want your remarks placed in the Journal?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Yes. Did you get those?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: That’s not necessary to have that in the Journal. I’m not sure —

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President, my reason for voting “no” was exactly the same. I felt at the time I was wishing that Delegate Kelsch had made that a motion, and I agreed with him that the language was not correct.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I’m in the same boat.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Me, too, Mr. President.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I think we have an accounting here of almost all the “no” votes for that.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: My constituents are all very religious people. Ditto.
(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We will be on the tenth order. Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, may we be on the eighth order of business?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we’ll be on the eighth order of business.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: The Legislative Functions Committee will meet 15 minutes after adjournment this afternoon. We have a lot of work to do.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Now that Chairman Hoffner has started it, I’ll continue and announce that the Bill of Rights Committee will meet 15 minutes after adjournment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, the Committee on Education, Public Lands and Natural Resources will meet 15 minutes after the conclusion of the session today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further announcements?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President, there will be a short meeting of the subcommittee or the Judicial Functions — excuse me — for the Executive Functions and Legislative Functions Subcommittee, right after we adjourn.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Let's make it unanimous and announce that the Finance and Taxation Committee will meet 15 minutes after recess today.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: The Judiciary Committee will meet 14 minutes after the Convention.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fine.

Anything further? Then we will go on with the calendar, on the tenth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-32, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 194 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 22 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to grounds for impeachment.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 194 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Section 22 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"SECTION 22. All elected state officers and judicial officers elected to represent more than one political subdivision shall be subject to impeachment for crimes, corrupt conduct, malfeasance, misdemeanor in office, or because of chronic and continuing inability to perform the duties of office. The house of representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment by a vote of the majority of those elected in the house. The senate shall have the sole power of trial in impeachment cases. A two-thirds vote of elected senators shall be required for conviction."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-32.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: There is an amendment at the desk on 1-32. I would like to have that read.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendment for Committee Proposal 1-32 is:

On line 1 delete the word "section" and insert the word "sections" and after the numeral "194" insert ", 195 and 196" and after the word "Article" delete the numeral "II" and insert the numeral "XIV".

On line 4 delete the word "both" and insert the word "all".

On line 6 delete the second word "Section" and insert the words — the word "Sections" and after the numeral "194" insert ", 195 and 196" and after the word "Article" delete the numeral "II" and insert the numeral "XIV".

On line 7 delete the word "is" and insert the word "are" and renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE SOLBERG: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Solberg seconds the motion. So we have before the Convention the amendments as offered to Committee Proposal No. 1-32 by Delegate Stanton. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: I am disturbed by the words on lines 14 and 15, "because of chronic and continuing inability to perform the duties of office." It seems to me that impeachment has traditionally been a method of moving against people who do things while they're in office that they should not do; but this would add as grounds for impeachment the inability to conduct your office because of a heart attack, of a stroke, of a disabling accident, and it seems to me that these ought not to be grounds for impeachment. I don't know how a man or a woman who has suffered from a disabling stroke or a heart attack could stand trial, for one thing, and impeachment supposes that this will be followed by a trial. It seems to me that these words "because of chronic and continuing inability to perform the duties of office," do not belong in there. It seems to me that this is something that happens to you, not something that you do, and that there is something wrong with including these as grounds for impeachment.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Aren't we just moving on the amendment, which is really just the correction of section numbers?

DELEGATE VOGEL: I beg your pardon. I thought you asked for discussion. I'm out of order.

DELEGATE STANTON: All we want to do is correct the section numbers which were not correct, and that's all the amendment amounts to. Discussion will follow after this.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Stanton. Any further comments?

Hearing none, the question is on the adoption of the amendments. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I would now move that the Rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal 1-32 be deemed properly engrossed and placed on the calendar for passage.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton moves that the Committee Proposal No. 1-32 — that the Rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal No. 1-32 be properly engrossed and be placed on the calendar for first passage, and it is seconded over here — seconded by Delegate Litten.

DELEGATE STANTON: Now, Mr. President —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I will attempt to tell you what we've done.

Sections 194, 195 —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton, just a moment, until we vote on this motion that we have before the Convention.

DELEGATE STANTON: I'm sorry.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is just stated by the Chair:

Those in favor will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. And now — Committee Proposal No. 1-32 as amended is before the Convention.

Now, Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Okay. Section 194, 195 and 196 all pertain to matters of impeachment, and the original section has not been changed a great deal, except that we have included under the new section that all elected state officers and judicial officers elected to represent more than one political subdivision shall be subject thereto. Grounds for impeachment as contained in Section 196 have been omitted in favor of "chronic and continuing inability to perform the duties of office." And under the bicameral system, of course, the House and the Senate would still handle impeachment, as they do now.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE VOGEL: Excuse me. I'm sorry I was out of order, but I think that probably everyone heard what I said — that I feel that if we're going to abolish habitual drunkenness, which, admittedly, is something in the area between something one does voluntarily and something that happens to one, and I suppose it was in this case considered as an illness, but I think this covers more than what it was intended to cover in its present state.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments? Any further discussion?

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I perhaps should apologize for saying anything, because I don't recall that I debated this issue in the Committee; but because of Delegate Vogel's remarks, it does occur to me that perhaps when we use "impeachment" rather than any other form of removal for "chronic and continuing inability to perform the duties of office" — not failure, mind you, such as failure to show up — but, as she has pointed out, something may happen to a man which makes him unable — that's the "inability" part. I grant that he may well be removed, because you can't continue to let some offices remain vacant without an incumbent to exercise the functions; but the word "impeach" has an almost criminal approach to it; in fact, all of the other things prior to that are crimes — corrupt conduct, malfeasance, misdemeanor — which have a sort of criminal thinking. In the word "impeachment" in legal proceedings, it means that you have made a witness out a liar by impeaching him by some other statement he has made, or something to that effect, and it does appear to me at this late date that possibly "impeachment" is the wrong method for removing a man for something which is not his own fault, which might well be under this language.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further comments?

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I think the practical application of an article in a constitution like this would be something like this: That a person is probably criminal or corrupt, or something like that, and you get rid of him and be sorry when you're doing it, and then comes the fellow who is ailing and it's apparent to everyone else that he is not doing his job right. So his friends encourage him to resign, and sometimes he does and sometimes he doesn't, and if it gets to be a plain contest of wills, the threat of impeachment might encourage resignation. That's how I think this kind of a section is worded.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

Section — or Proposal 1-26 had a provision which discussed the matter of disability, and it's been referred back to the — to a joint subcommittee of the Judicial — excuse me — the Legislative Functions and Executive Functions Committees, and we are going to be discussing in that committee the matter of removal for disability, and we're going to be meeting as soon as we adjourn today, and I'm wondering if maybe it might not be well that we look at 1-32 in conjunction with our other sections, and if the Convention would so approve, we could lay this over one Convention day and then see how we have it merged together, and if the President would accept that motion, I would make it at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I would accept the motion.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson. Excuse me.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I think if Delegate Nothing would hold his motion one moment, I think an amendment I have submitted to the desk would clear up the question as far as this one proposal is concerned.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is that agreeable with you, Delegate Nothing?

DELEGATE NETHING: That's fine.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson has the floor.

DELEGATE PAULSON: While they are typing the amendment, Mr. President, I will give it to the body.

In line 15, delete the word "inability" and insert therein the words "willful failure."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, Delegate Paulson moves the amendment. Will you read the amendment, Mr. Clerk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendment to Committee Proposal 1-32 is as follows:

"In line 15, delete the word 'inability' and substitute in lieu thereof the words 'willful failure' and renumber the lines accordingly."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE WARNER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, I think this simply separates the two reasons for inability to perform, and then the removal from office for other reasons can be taken care of by the Executive Functions Committee in its future proposal.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill. Delegate Hill, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE HILL: I've changed my mind and have an amendment after that was done.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. And Delegate Fritzell.

DELEGATE FRITZELL: Mr. President, I'm wondering if it's necessary to have both "chronic and continuing" in that case. To me "chronic and continuing" serve the same purpose, and it's only a repetition when it comes to "chronic, willful failure" or "continuing willful failure." It doesn't seem necessary to have them both.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion on the amendment as proposed by Delegate Paulson that the word "inability" in line 15 be stricken — stricken and — what were the two words? — and "willful failure" inserted in lieu thereof. If there is no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the proposed amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

Now, Delegate Hill, I believe you wish to further amend.

DELEGATE HILL: Yes. Would the amendment be read from the desk?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hill's amendment to Committee Proposal 1-32 is as follows:

"In line 15 delete the words 'misdemeanor in office' —

DELEGATE HILL: Line 14, please.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: "In line 14 delete the words 'misdemeanor in office,' and renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to that?

DELEGATE CHASE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's seconded by Delegate Chase.

Now the question on the proposed amendment as offered by Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: The reason for that amendment is in the line prior to that, you're subject to impeachment for crime. By definition in our Code, a crime is either a misdemeanor or a felony. I fail to see what the language "misdemeanor in office" means, if it's already provided for subject — we've already provided impeachment for crime, and crime does include that term "misdemeanor," and to me that kind of language is simply worthless, and I'm deleting it for that reason.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, the question, then, is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Hill.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: I would now move that the Proposal be — excuse me — that the Rules be suspended and that the Proposal be deemed properly engrossed; that it be placed on tomorrow's calendar for the first reading and first passage.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Nething, and seconded by Delegate Stanton, that the Rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-32 be deemed properly engrossed, that it be placed on tomorrow's calendar for final passage.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-32 will be on the tenth order of business tomorrow as amended.

Next for consideration will be Committee Proposal No. 1-84.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-84, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the State of North Dakota, which pertains to right to counsel for indigents in civil proceedings in which the state or its subdivisions are adverse parties, be created.

"SECTION 1.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"An indigent person shall have the right to counsel at public expense in administrative or court proceedings in which the state, its agency or subdivision is an adverse party."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion? Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President, this is a new section, and the intent of the section is that if any person who does not have finances, you might say, to protest a decision of a welfare board or any other agency of the State government, that he would be entitled — he or she would be entitled legal counsel to appear before such boards. At the present time, this is not clear in the statute, and I believe that the people should be entitled to legal counsel when they're going to appear before a board for protest.

We do at the present time furnish legal counsel for people who have — may have committed as much as murder and claim that they do not have the ability to employ an attorney or legal counsel. The State then gives legal counsel to such people, and certainly it's my belief if we can afford legal counsel for people who have committed a crime such as murder, certainly we should be entitled — or the people should be entitled to legal counsel who are protesting the decision of some board that they might not agree with. I would, therefore, move for the adoption of this Proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. Delegate Christensen.

DELEGATE CHRISTENSEN: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

1-84, which attempts to establish the fact that indigent persons are entitled to counsel at public expense in administrative and court proceedings in which the State or one of its agencies or subdivisions might be an adverse party is a proposal that concerns me and many other people greatly.

This right to counsel could and possibly should be viewed in the light of another service which the State should render to its indigent people. If this is deemed proper, it would involve an appropriation of funds to make the service available. For this reason, I believe this service as, say, with the existing medical services rendered, would be more appropriately an item to be considered by our Legislature, and, therefore, I'm going to oppose this Proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Might I ask the members of the Committee, or Delegate Hubrig: Who is to determine in the case of this type when the party is indigent?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Maxwell, will you answer?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes. That would be a matter for the Legislature to determine in supplementing and implementing this constitutional provision. Normally, it would involve court proceedings. I presume it would be up to the Court to determine, and in administrative proceedings, perhaps it would be up to the administrative hearing officer to make that determination. But this is not an attempt to define it and to tell the Legislature who should make that decision.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Thank you. I thought possibly this would just be an automatic case for any state agency to pay the fees. Thank you.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roney.

DELEGATE RONEY: As a member of the Bar, who pays his fee to the integrated association, objectionally, and who is looking at this particular bill, I wonder if every person who goes up to the Welfare Board is not now going to be able automatically to take along with him counsel furnished at the expense of the State; and if it is so, I know that Delegate Rundle is going to object strenuously to the lawyers having this free-found new batch of clients.

On the basis of the wordage in this bill, I am certain that I would have to vote against it, if this is what it's going to automatically provide is counsel for everyone at any time that they may want it before any administrative body.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I, too, will speak against the bill, although I may be speaking against my own interests, as Mr. Roney pointed out.

I can see people demanding counsel at every administrative hearing that may be. If they raise my property tax on my house — not mine, but if somebody raises the property tax and they say, "Well, I have a right to counsel and the city shall furnish it." If the State takes away a driver's license, they can say up in Cavalier that "You come down to Bismarck and represent me and the State's going to have to pay your way." I think this is entirely too far-reaching. I think that everybody recognizes that anybody charged with a felony has a right to counsel, and I think this is good and proper and as far as it should go.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President. Delegate Roney was entirely right. I object to this strenuously. I don't think the lawyers would even call this a lawyer bill, because what good would more food stamps do them if they took it on a contingency basis? (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I rise to oppose this bill, primarily on the basis as to what the other gentlemen have indicated. Who is to determine at what time the public expense shall stop as far as the administrative proceedings and the court proceedings are concerned? The stop sign violation in Cavalier County could require an indigent person's right to have counsel from Bismarck.

I would also call your attention to the fact that it has been determined by the Federal Judiciary, the Federal Court System, under the Uniform Criminal Justice Act, that in the U. S. Magistrate Court, which we now have, that petty offenses which provide for up to six months imprisonment for criminal offenses against the United States Government or, in addition, a fine of up to $500, these offenses at this point of time are not offenses for which counsel can be provided at federal expense. For this reason, among others already stated, I believe I would have to oppose the motion, since we are opening up an expense voucher of unknown amounts as far as tax levies would be concerned.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

I want to call to the attention of the Convention — the delegates — an item that hasn't been discussed. Now, this is specific and mandatory, and it refers to administrative or court proceedings.

Now, the Public Service Commission is an administrative agency and is so classified, and its rules of conduct is all spelled out in the Code. But when you have, say, a major utility case and you go around over the State, if the utility has a widespread operation and you hold hearings all over the State and people come in there maybe by the two or three or four-dozens to protest whatever the petition calls for, are they going to be required to have the State or the subdivisions furnish them counsel? You might run out of lawyers. You know, this can get to be quite large when you go to that extent. I've tried a lot of those where we've had to listen, probably, to say 40 or 50 witnesses, and it wasn't a major, wide — or state-wide case, either. So I think this has got to have some clearer definition than what it's got now, if it's passed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Mr. Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman, it's amazing today, from listening to yesterday, of all the rights of people. Today we are opposed to rights of the poor person who goes before the Welfare Board and asks for an increase in his welfare payments because he got cut on the welfare payments because of the ten percent increase in the cost of living on Social Security. The law does say that, if you're not entitled — if you are not satisfied with the welfare payments, that you may go to the courts; but if I am broke, how do I get to the courts without an attorney? If I am so broke I'm asking for food, I wouldn't be asking for food if I had attorney fees in my hip pocket. This is what I'm trying to get at.

We had a case up in Minot, North Dakota — and I've got proof — that a doctor over there said that the person's only problem was malnutrition. Now, isn't this something in the State of North Dakota?

Yesterday we talked about how rosy everything was. Today we're talking the reverse. Now, have we got the right to go to court? You cannot get into court, in my understanding, before a judge unless you are an attorney. Probably the Bur-bidge Proposal yesterday would give me the right to appear in court without an attorney, if I were broke.

So I think that we should give this bill some deep consideration. It was not designed to protect me, if I had money to appear before a public utility or any other public agency, if I had the money to hire an attorney. This was not the intent of the bill whatsoever. It was the intent to strictly try to help the people that actually needed the money, and I believe that the Court — the courts, before they would appoint an attorney, would find out if you had the money to hire an attorney yourself or if you were actually financially in such a bad shape that you had to have counsel. How do you determine if you commit a — how do they determine if you need free legal counsel if you committed murder and you say you don't have money to get legal counsel? They must check out to find out do you actually have money or do you not have money before they give you legal counsel. I can't see any reason why a judge can't make an investigation before he does grant that person legal counsel free.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President, I oppose Committee Proposal 1-84. I think the long-range ramifications here are endless, and I don't think that this sort of a proposal should ever be adopted, unless it has had an indepth study to find out whether the service is really needed, how much the service would cost, and so forth. Anyone on welfare who doesn't like the decision of the Welfare Board has every right of appeal, and they get a very fair and impartial hearing from the State.

I believe very firmly that this is a legislative matter and should be handled there.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: I would like to state to Delegate Hubrig that every man has a right to appear on his own behalf in any court, from the bottom up to the top. His problem, however, of course, is a little bit like I find myself sometimes as a delegate here; I need somebody to show me the ropes before I go through.

I do think we're leaving out one large class of people who might need protection, and that is how about the people who weren't indigent at the beginning of the lawsuit, but were indigent after the lawsuit ends? (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I'm just wondering how this proposal ties in, possibly, with the other proposal, 2-26. If this proposal is defeated, is there some relief for the people who are frustrated because of the operations of the bureaucratic government through 2-26? I don't expect at this point the Convention has considered too much about 2-26, but I think that Delegate Hubrig has a point, and I'm surprised that some of his fellow committee members aren't standing up and coming to his defense, because it is their vote, because there are people who are frustrated in their work with the government, and I think that deserves consideration.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman. I can't disagree with the intent of the proposal, but I do disagree with the hazy language, and I think that the conversation has gotten off course when we start talking about welfare. For instance, every county every year proceeds against individuals for nonpayment of taxes and takes title to property. After a period of time, it sells that property. Now this is a State proceeding, too, to collect its due, and under this proposal, it would seem to me it would have to finance the court defense of the owners who, by simply showing that they were unable to pay the taxes, can prove they're indigent. I think that the hazy language is the intolerable part of the proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Maxwell.

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Mr. President.

What this Proposal is aimed at is the innate inequities in a situation where, on one side, you have the State or a political subdivision; on the other side a poor person who cannot afford an attorney. The State, with all of its resources and manpower and money against the impotent poor person. We think that this is a situation that a constitution should speak on. At first, we gave consideration to the proposition which is gaining some currency throughout the Nation, that in every civil proceeding, where a person cannot afford an attorney, and who is, therefore, at a very definite disadvantage in the proceeding, whether it be a court proceeding or an administrative hearing, that they should have counsel furnished at public expense. We didn't think that we could go that far, but where we have the situation of the government as opposed to one of its citizens and that citizen cannot afford to have an attorney and, therefore, cannot possibly be properly represented, that the State should pay for an attorney so that he could be represented in a contest with the State or political subdivision. That's the intent and the aim of the Committee as far as this proposition is concerned. If it needs some polishing as far as language, we would welcome whatever suggestions that the delegates may have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. Chairman — Mr. President.

Without wishing to shock Delegate Stanton too much, I am inclined to agree with her. But, also — (laughter) — but, also, because I think there is some substance to the idea of an ombudsman and the idea that is expressed here, I would like to move an amendment at the end of line 10, to add the words "as shall be provided by law."

Mr. Chairman — I suppose I better wait for a second.

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's seconded by Delegate Kwako.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I don't want to emasculate this section, but I think that we can, maybe, by doing it that way, encompass the idea of the ombudsman and provide a way that this real concern of the Committees can some day work.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE CHASE: Would you restate the amendment, please?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe I can. After the word "party" insert the following: "as provided by law."

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: If we ever get to 2-26, I will attempt to explain the ombudsman; but I do not believe that this language in this will in any way affect the ombudsman by adding this other line, because, as I will attempt to describe, the ombudsman does not have any counsel — or advocate — legal powers, I should say. He has other powers, which I'll explain later.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill.

DELEGATE HILL: Mr. President, I'm in favor, I think, of the concept the Committee was trying to get at here; but I think the way it is drafted, even with the amendment, it would be unsatisfactory. I don't have any proposed language, but I have a question, perhaps, of Chairman Maxwell.

What we're trying to get at here, is it that we're trying to say that an indigent person shall not be denied representation in the court because of such indigent — indigent — indigency?

DELEGATE MAXWELL: Yes, that would be it.

DELEGATE HILL: Well, why, instead of stating in here "a political subdivision," how about a poor wife who is married to a poor husband? What's her recourse?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hill, I believe you're off the amendment. I don't believe you're talking on the amendment. The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendment to be inserted on line 10, after the word "party", "as provided by law," and I don't believe that —

DELEGATE HILL: Well, my thought is, Mr. Chairman, I'm speaking against the amendment, because it doesn't do all the things that it should do. It still has quite a ways to go.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: All right. If you are on the amendment, you may proceed.

DELEGATE HILL: You might be right! (Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question — Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: I'll wait.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Sinner.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the amendment lost.

Delegate Butler.

DELEGATE BUTLER: Mr. President, I am, fortunately, not one of those people who will be affected by this legislation; but I was elected to come to this Convention with the idea in mind that we are writing a constitution for everybody in North Dakota — all our citizens. Periodically a businessman like me, or many of the other folks in the State, get very irritated because we have to pay our attorneys to fight against the State of North Dakota, and we also have to pay the State's Attorneys to fight against us; and so I would propose an amendment.

I move that the two words on line 8 "An indigent" be stricken and substitute the word "Any" — A - N - Y.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard Delegate Butler's proposed amendment. Do we have a second?

(No response.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm afraid the proposal died for lack of a second. The question before the Convention now — let's see — we've taken care of all the proposed amendments, haven't we?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: So far.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question, then, is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-84.

Those in favor of its adoption will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no," and the key will be opened. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 39 "ayes," 54 "nays," five delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-84 has been defeated.

Next for consideration is Proposal No. 1-94.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-94, introduced by Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 142 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to the regulation of common carrier corporations, be repealed.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 142 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Engstrom.

DELEGATE ENGSTROM: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

This deals with Section 142 of the present Constitution, which was previously before this Convention and was returned to committee because of some question. At that time it was submitted with a group of others for repeal. It is now being returned to the Convention from the Committee, after further study, with the same recommendation for its repeal.

Section 142 concerns legislative control of rates charged by railroads for transportation of freight, intelligence and passengers within the State. Most of the railroad transportation today is interstate and very little of it is intrastate. As such, most of our transportation now on these railroads comes under the control of the Federal Government through the Interstate Commerce Commission, and it is not under the State's jurisdiction. That very small portion of intrastate railroad transport today is being controlled by the Public Service Commission as is set up by Sections 82 and 83 of the present Constitution. These sections set up the Public Service Commission and authorize the Legislature to fix its duties, which do include regulation of intrastate railroad rates. Therefore, we feel that this Section 142 is no longer necessary and, Mr. President, we move that Proposal 1-94 be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any further discussion on Proposal No. 1-94?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: I believe I objected in the first place to having this in the package, and I still wonder if there isn't enough intrastate commerce to at least keep some kind of a hold on it, rather than saying that the Federal Government is doing everything, so we need no regulation. And I'm not completely satisfied, because they have testified that our own bodies in the State wouldn't still have something to say about these things. It is quite a ways across this state. There is quite a little commerce within the State, and I'd like further explanation on it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: Mr. President, in way of explanation: Back at the time the original Constitution was adopted, the railroads and corporations generally were pretty much of a boogeyman, and I think that this provision was put in essentially to show that corporations are no different than people, and the State has the right to regulate them. I think the State has the right to regulate railroads to a certain extent, where they're not preempted, and corporations, even without this provision. I'm of the opinion that this provision essentially is a window-dressing thing and this power is inherent in the State, what has not already been reserved.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: I have the report from the Constitutional Revision Commission that met between '65 and '69, and they had this section under consideration and recommended its repeal, and explained it in this way:

"This section declares that railroads or public highways are common carriers and that the Legislative Assembly has the power to enact laws regulating and controlling them. The Legislative Assembly has this power with or without this constitutional provision, to regulate, control and classify railroads, except where state authority is preempted by the federal government."

So this authority is in the Legislature anyway, and I don't really know if we should be arguing about regulating railroads, because there aren't any railroads left.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Fellow Delegates, let's interrupt the proceedings just long enough to read a message at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: This is an emergency for Mrs. Harold Well, and she's to call 255-0624 immediately. Mrs. Harold Well. She may be with a group from St. Mary's or the League of Women Voters.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now we'll proceed.

Delegate Cart, did you wish to comment?

DELEGATE CART: I would like to — Mr. President, I would like to correct a few errors that crept into this discussion. Now, whether it's necessary to retain that section in the Constitution probably is debatable, but intrastate handling — handling of intrastate matters is still just as important today as it ever was. The Interstate Commerce Commission Act was passed in 1887, two years before this Constitution was adopted — the one we are living under. The Interstate Commerce Commission, of course, took jurisdiction over interstate transportation. But we do have substantial transportation in North Dakota. The lignite that moves from the mines to the plants, if it is moved by a common carrier, is still subject to that jurisdiction, and there's many other commodities that are moved and, if anything, this section probably should be brought up to date to cover highway transportation, as well as rail transportation. But I'm not going to pursue this matter any farther, other than to protest the impression that's given here that the State has no jurisdiction in transportation matters because of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-94.

Hearing no further discussion, those in favor of its adoption will vote "yes;" those opposed will vote "no."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote. Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 84 "ayes," 9 "nays," five delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-94 has passed.

We will be on the eighth order of business — Announcements.

Any announcements at the desk? Any announcements from the floor? Hearing none —

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: The Calendar Committee will meet at nine — no — at 8:40 — twenty-minutes-to-nine — Friday morning, January 21st.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Christensen moves that the absent delegates be excused. Delegate Kwako seconds the motion.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the absent delegates are excused.

Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I move we adjourn until nine o'clock — didn't we excuse the absent members?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: They have been excused.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will you hold just a second, Delegate Rundle?

DELEGATE CHASE: One point of information: Could the Clerk read the calendar before we adjourn until tomorrow morning?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will read the calendar.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On your tenth order: Committee Proposals 1-37, 1-53, 1-60, 1-79, 1-89. Delegate Proposal 2-23. Committee Proposal 1-97, 1-55, 1-76, 1-77, 1-86, 1-92, 1-98. Delegate Proposal 2-2. Committee Proposal 1-101.

On the sixth order — wait a minute!

On the tenth order, you'll have, also, from today's tenth order, you'll have Committee Proposal 1-95, Delegate Proposal 2-26, Committee Proposal 1-28 and 1-71.

On the sixth order, you'll have Committee Proposal 1-36, 1-45, 1-57 and 1-72, and I would guess that your calendars will be in your books tonight.

Now, for those who have been asking about what day we're on, on this calendar it will tell you. This says the fourteenth Convention day. So, if you are wondering what Convention day we're on, if you'll look on the top of your calendar, it will tell you each day what day we are on.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to ask the Clerk if he misread on one — he read "1-55." Should it be "1-45"?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I've got 1-45 on sixth, and 1-55 on the tenth.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now the Chair will recognize Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I move we adjourn.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle moves that the Convention be now adjourned. Do I have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Convention is adjourned until tomorrow morning.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: I'm sorry. On your calendar, those who are keeping it, I forgot Committee Proposal 1-32, which was laid over; so that will also be on your tenth order tomorrow — 1-32.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 2:08 P.M., Thursday, January 20, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Friday, January 21, 1972.)

VOLUME XV

(January 21, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The fifteenth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:06 A.M., Friday, January 21, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

We'll be on the second order of business, the Invocation.

Our Chaplain for this morning is the Reverend A. Benjamin Dove, Pastor, First Presbyterian Church of Mandan, North Dakota.

REV. A. BENJAMIN DOVE: Let us pray.

Almighty God, Lord of order and author of man's freedom, lend a generous measure of Your own spirit of wisdom and courage to this assembly. O God, we know too well the pride and the fear and the selfishness of men, including ourselves. And for these failings, we ask forgiveness. But grant that this Convention will be able to look beyond our obvious limitations to the gleaming potential of those who will live under this new Constitution.

Even as we learn from the past, save us from accepting that view as our total vision. Grant each delegate here a boldness born of trust. Amid the heat and the pressure of this forum, enable them together to shape a document clean and sharp — a frame broad enough to meet the new trials and the opportunities which already appear around us.

Gracious God, we are grateful that here, through the work of human minds and hands, You, too, are at work. Let that be both spur and hope to Your servants here. And this we pray confidently in Christ's name. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — Roll Call.

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 92 present, six absent. A quorum is declared.

We'll be on the fourth order — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 19th day of January, 1972, and recommends that the same be corrected as follows:

On page 213, delete lines 29 and 30.

On page 219, in line 19, delete "feasibly" and insert in lieu thereof "being".

On page 219, line 40 and 41, delete "recorded" and insert in lieu thereof the word "rooted".

On page 220, line 31, delete "If you have" and insert in lieu thereof "Few of".

On page 220, line 32, delete the word "who".

On page 221, line 33, delete the word "high" and insert in lieu thereof the word "yes".

On page 220, line 51, delete the word "not".

On page 226, line 58, delete "which motion prevailed and the report was adopted."

On page 227, line 25, and line 26, delete "be adopted, which motion prevailed and the report was adopted." And insert in lieu thereof "be substituted for the Report of the Minority."

And when so corrected recommends the same be approved.

Delegate Dobson, Vice Chairman.

Delegate Paulson moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Report of the Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal.

Are there any questions?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Committee Report on Revision and Correction is adopted.

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, may we be on the twelfth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, I move that we reconsider our action on Committee Proposal No. 1-84.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that we reconsider our action on Committee Proposal No. 1-84.

Do I have a second?

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: The reason that we would like to have this Proposal back before the body is that we feel that there is a new right that could be available to certain people, and we felt that we had an amendment which we placed upon your desks that could answer substantially many of the objections to the Proposal yesterday, and if we are successful in reconsideration, we will then move to place the Proposal at the foot of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Any further discussion?

Hearing none — remember, this takes 50 votes to reconsider. So, in order to be accurate on this, I'm going to have the Clerk open the key and we will record your votes.

Mr. Clerk, I believe we have to — we haven't cleared the board, have we? At least my board isn't cleared.

Is the big board cleared now? Mine wasn't.

So those in favor now of reconsideration will vote "yes;" and those opposed to reconsideration will vote "no."

The key will be opened. Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change? The key is closed.

The motion to reconsider has carried. So the Committee Proposal No. 1-84 is before the Convention.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President, could I indicate that Delegate Haugen is present and was present when the roll call was taken, but he was in the wrong place?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The request is granted.

Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, I move that Committee Proposal No. 1-84 be put at the foot of the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved that Committee Proposal 1-84 be placed at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's seconded by Delegate Knudson.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Could I request that the comments this morning be recorded in the Journal on this proposal for reconsideration?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I believe, Delegate Hubrig, that we have ruled that, unless you request prior to the time, so that the Secretary takes the notes, that you can't request — make the request, unless you have a script — have the remarks in script. Otherwise, you understand, the Secretary doesn't take the script on that — on these talks — take it down verbatim. So I would have to rule it out of order.

So the question before the Convention is that Committee Proposal No. 1-84 be placed at the foot of the calendar.

As many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and 1-84 is at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Can we be on the twelfth order for a minute?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We are on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE LANDER: I think I want to make a motion. I have been distressed by the fact that, as we have carried over items on the tenth order from day to day, they get lost in numerical order on the following day's calendar. I don't see anything about that in the Rules. I don't know why it is such, but if it is authorized, I would like to move that, in the absence of specific action on the part of the Convention, any items on the tenth order carried over from day to day to remain in their priority position.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: If that was a motion, I'd like to second it. I think we should retain the tenth order as it was on the preceding day and add to it from that point.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the motion by Delegate Lander that the calendar sequence of one day be added to, rather than rearranged on the following, or words to that effect, and the motion is made by Delegate Lander and it is seconded by Delegate Jestrab.

Any further discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and that precedence will be followed.

Anything further? Hearing none on the twelfth order, we will move to the sixth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hoffner has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-36, as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions and as printed on pages 231 and 232 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

Delete everything after the word "That" in line 1 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"section 202 of Article XV of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, and Article 88 of the amendments thereto, be repealed; and that sections 25 and 26 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to the manner in which the constitution may be altered.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 202 of Article XV of the constitution of the state of North Dakota, and Article 88 of the amendments thereto, are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Sections 25 and 26 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 25. Any constitutional amendment may be proposed by the legislative assembly and, if the same shall be agreed upon by a roll call vote of two-thirds of the members elected to each house, it shall be submitted to the electors at the next general election. If a majority of votes cast thereon are affirmative, the amendment shall be effective thirty days after the election.

"Section 26. The legislative assembly may by law at any time submit for a vote of the people the question: 'Shall a constitutional convention be called?' If the question has not been submitted once in any thirty year period, the secretary of state shall place it on the ballot at the next general election."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any discussion on the amendments —

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: — to Committee Proposal 1-36?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I think, to clarify it a bit, you will see that the amendments make the added words “effective thirty days after the election,” which were not there in the original proposal, and the amendment also makes an automatic call for a constitutional convention if a legislature does not provide for one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Now, I'd like to ask why the thirty-year period was settled upon?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can someone on the Committee answer Delegate Rundle's question?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: And I'll tell you — I would explain my interest. After serving in some of these sessions, I would not want to sit on another one very soon. So I think the figure should be even larger than that.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: This thirty-year period is not calling a convention, but getting — giving the people an opportunity to vote if they think they need a convention at that time.

Actually, this developed out of a proposal from Delegate Lamb, and the Committee was quite satisfied with this period of thirty years at the time when the electors should be given the opportunity to see if they wanted a convention. This does not mean a convention would be held by any means.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: A question to any member of the Committee, and referring up to the first paragraph, on line 3, where it says “two-thirds of the members elected.” Now, I note that in our present Constitution it's a majority, and I'd like an explanation of why that was raised to that kind of a figure, if possible.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: That question has nothing to do with the amendment.

DELEGATE CHASE: A roll call vote of two-thirds of the members elected can propose an amendment, as I understand it. Isn't it in our present language that it is a majority?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: But that's in our original Proposal, and we're only speaking to amendments. Right?

DELEGATE CHASE: I'm still questioning the two-thirds.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, I'm wondering if that couldn't be brought up, Delegate Chase, when we discuss the Proposal when it's set in its entirety.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: I still have a question in that regard.

In my mind, Mr. President, it seems to me it's germane. I hope that when the Proposal came in for amendment, the amendment would be from two-thirds or a simple majority; but if that's not being discussed now, I have no quarrel with the decision of the Chair. However, I have another question, also.

Section 202 also provides for the initiative in placing a constitutional amendment, and by repeal that appears now to be gone. Is it to be replaced by something else some other time, or just what?

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Yes. If you'll read over the powers of the people section. This has been moved —

(President Wenstrom rapped the gavel.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Let's have a little order — decorum in the chamber.

Do you wish to — do you direct a question to the lady or —

DELEGATE BAKER: Anyone.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then, Mrs. Hendrickson — Delegate Hendrickson, you may proceed.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: If you'll look in the powers of the people section, this has been moved to that section.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Just a comment on Delegate Rundle's comment on the thirty years. I have been told by members of the Common Cause organization that some of the states in the East are now contemplating calling a constitutional convention as often as five years or ten years, because of the many differences and difficulties that arise; so I think thirty years is quite a few.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-36.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Hoffner has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-45, as recommended by the Committee on Legislative Functions and as printed on page 232 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are:

On line 1 delete the word "section" and insert the words "sections" and after the numeral "28" insert "and 34".

On line 4 delete the word "both" and insert the word "all".

On line 6 delete the second word "Section" and insert the word "Sections" and after the numeral "28" insert "and 34".

On line 7 delete the word "is" and insert the word "are".

On line 11 delete the words "member of" and insert in lieu thereof the words "person elected to" and also delete the word "shall" and insert in lieu thereof the words "must be".

On line 12, after the comma, delete the word "be".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-45.

Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman, these amendments are all routine. There was a section inadvertently omitted. There has been — there have been some changes in the wording, but, essentially, the section remains as it was.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-45.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye" —

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: There's another amendment at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Pardon?

DELEGATE BERG: I say there is another amendment at the desk.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Berg, we are on the sixth order. That will be taken care of on the tenth order on the next Convention day.

So, again, the question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-45.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendments are adopted.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-57, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage and as printed on page 225 of the Journal be adopted.

The amendments are:

After line 11 add the following new paragraph:

"No public funds may be expended in support of any organization which, in the selection of its membership, discriminates on the basis of race, color or national origin."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-57.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President, Fellow Delegates:

My impression, myself, is that several delegates in the council feel that the amendments to 1-57 should be defeated. I believe it is not an appropriate statement, and I think it is misleading. I, therefore, urge the defeat of this particular amendment to 1-57.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I am willing to go along with the defeat of this amendment, not because I think that the principle is wrong, but that for reasons that are far beyond my control. It does, in fact, bring in reservations, and at this time I can't see how we can impose any more problems on minority groups while trying to help them. Delegate Hartl explained some things this morning to me that clarified to me what might happen with this amendment, and I'm sorry that we do have to defeat it; and if he would like to explain it on the floor, I think he would be in order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: The majority of the remarks that I made yesterday, I believe, would be appropriate in reference to the reasons as to why we should defeat the amendment at this time; primarily, as I reviewed the amendment, I think we possibly had the probability of discrimination in reverse, which definitely is seen by Delegates Gipp and Sinner. It is not the intention of this paragraph as it was originally conceived and drafted. It was drafted with the idea of assisting minority groups; but because, particularly, of the phrase "in the selection of its membership," we ran into problems and, additionally, we felt we would run into problems on the basis of a police-type action when we state, "No public funds may be expended," meaning that we in the State would possibly have to set up an agency to determine the organizations who were discriminating on the basis of selection of membership. It is too broad and too all-encompassing.

One of the simple illustrations is, for instance, on the Turtle Mountain Reservation, which I am quite familiar with, as well as the Three Affiliated Tribes by-laws at New Town, the requirements for membership in the Tribe and for election to the Tribal Council, which, in effect, is the governing body of the Tribe, similar to a municipal corporation. Membership requires a certain amount of blood line tracings — that is, a white man by marriage to a person of Indian blood will not qualify for membership on the Tribal Council or as a member of the Tribe, and because of this type of a restriction, we, in hearing this, felt that we possibly were limiting the intent and providing a problem which we could not overcome at this time; and, therefore, I, too, urge the defeat of the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-57.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of adopting the amendments will vote "yes;" and those opposed will vote "no."

The question now: As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the amendments lost.

And then, Committee Proposal No. 1-57 will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Maxwell has moved that the amendments to Committee Proposal 1-72, as recommended by the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage and as printed on page 233 of the Journal, be adopted.

The amendments are: Delete all of line 14. Delete all of line 15.

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-72.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President, the reason that the deletion of the last — of lines 14 and 15, is that it is in a separate proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted, the Committee Proposal 1-72 will be on the tenth order of business Monday.

We will be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A Majority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-14, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended.

Delegates Longmire, Roney, Bassingthwaite, Engelter, Fallgatter, Hougen, Kessel, Kretschmar, Wallin and Warner.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moved that the Majority Report be adopted.

Mr. President: A Minority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-14, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended.

Delegates Hoghaug, Rundle, Gipp, Hartl and Aubol.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Hoghaug moves that the Report of the Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the adoption of the Minority Report; that the Report of the Minority be substituted for that of the Majority as an amendment.

Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President and members of the Assembly.

May we go on 1-14 again? This bill was reported nearly two weeks ago, I think, and should have been adopted and in the hands of the Engrossing for proper language by now; but it was called back and we have had quite a lesson in geography since then.

The proposal of the Minority copies the words exactly as they were in the Constitution of 1889, telling us where the State of North Dakota is.

No matter what we do here, we're not going to change the location of the State of North Dakota. We have added the following words: "The boundary on the ground is more exactly defined by astronomical measurements at points on the boundary and surveys between boundary markers."

These were words that we stole from the experts that came and testified before us. We had Mr. Robert Williams, from the U. S. Geological Survey, appear before us. He had a slide and a picture of the State, so we could all see where we lived, and he and Counsel then worked up a proposal, using a little different language, telling where our State is. And then he said, well, he wasn't sure at that meeting at that particular day that this was exactly right; he'd have to call Washington, D. C., and check with the Bureau of Land Management, which he did. The next day we had 1-14 again, and a few words were changed, so we still had 1-14 in new language.

Gentlemen, Minnesota was adopted to the Union in 1858, so our eastern boundary is there, and so we're not going to change it. In 1961, when the Red River acted up a little bit, North Dakota gave them 20 acres; but it took consent from the State of North Dakota, the State of Minnesota and the Congress of the United States to accomplish this small change.

On the South Dakota border; it's quite substantially marked. There are cut stones. They're seven feet long, they're ten inches on top, they're set three-and-a-half feet in the ground, and I don't propose that this Convention can do anything there, at least I don't think.

This discussion kind of reminds me of a discussion I had with my grandchildren not too long ago. I was urging the youngest one if he could tie his shoes I'd give him a roll of nickels, and there's 40 nickels in that roll, and he'd better get busy and practice tying his shoes. The younger — or the older grandson, who had already accomplished this feat, didn't know whether it was fair. He said, "I hope you've got two dollars worth."

Ladies and gentlemen of the Convention, we haven't had any bloodshed over border wars with Manitoba or any of our sister states. This business of technically describing is very difficult. You know the earth is round and we think, for instance, when we get to the corner of South Dakota, North Dakota and Montana, that the line then goes north; but this isn't exactly true, because we're one degree, so many minutes, so many seconds and fractions of a second angling to the west. Then you go to the next marker and then the angle will change by a fraction of a second. So I don't think, especially now, with our sister state of Montana about to adopt a new constitution, I would hate to have us make a change in description that might try to take two feet or four feet from Montana by some slight technical difference, and when the Majority presents their opinion or description, the word "approximately" will be used. Well, while we know this is true — it's approximately correct; but our old description has stood the test of time. It's been on the books for nearly 83 years. There's been no trouble about it, and I propose that it is better to stick with something that we know is good. And so I would urge the adoption of the Minority Report that has stood this test of time.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I hope that the Convention will not adopt the Minority Report, because we think that, while their report is good, we have one that is much better in the Majority. Now, we have amended the boundary descriptions of — as it was in the old Constitution, but we have left — we have added to it, rather than modifying it or changing the boundaries in any way. We are not taking any property from Minnesota in the Majority Report. We're not taking any from South Dakota. We're not taking any from Manitoba or anywhere else.

As you will recall when this bill first — or this Proposal first came onto the floor, and it was the first proposal that was acted on by a committee in this Convention, some delegate called to our attention that a geography professor had mentioned that the word "meridian" was no longer used in engineering circles in locating points on the earth. Well, you will note in the old description that it did apply there and was used. We of the Majority felt that we ought to let them know that in North Dakota we're working on the latest principles in engineering and that, if they were not any longer using that, we ought to leave it out, and our Report, of course, leaves it out and goes on longitude and latitude, which are the terms that are used in locating a point such as this.

When this came back to our Committee, we had an engineer in from the Geological Survey, who pointed out something I think that many of us didn't know. With the old description that we had, it would go in a curve sort of thing like this (illustrating), all the way around the State, rather than being in straight lines. In the new description, it will still be curved somewhat, but as in both reports, it was tied down by an extra sentence to say that it would be tied in with points that were made by reckoning on the border along the way that could be made by engineers.

The old description, as you will note, refers only to degrees. We felt that we ought to put it down to minutes, so that any school child who was working on the descriptions of the boundary of our State would be able to take a map that was not marked and be able to locate the boundaries of North Dakota better, if he had the minutes set forth in it; and, of course, you will note in the Majority Report that those are put in parentheses and they are stated to be approximately. That will aid anyone in locating the boundary. We're not putting it down to seconds, because if you're over one second, according to the engineer, it throws your boundary off 70 feet. So all we're doing is to put in a little more definite description of what the boundaries will be.

Now, the most serious defect in the old description is this: We have a very fine member on our Committee from the great City of Wahpeton and that area — Delegate Warner. We wanted to be sure that he was a qualified delegate and stayed in the State of North Dakota. Under the old description you will note that it said they would go down the center channel of the Red River. Well, the Red River ends at Wahpeton. And so the Bois de Sioux and the Otter Tail Rivers join there, and from Wahpeton on south, you don't have a Red River. So we ended up, under the old description, with no exact boundary line from Wahpeton down to the South Dakota line. So we felt, then, that we ought to clear that up definitely, once and for all, make Delegate Warner a citizen and resident of the State of North Dakota.

So you will note in the description that we did go down on a line of latitude, down to the South Dakota line, and that it will be exact in establishing that for the future.

Both our reports, of course, have in the last sentence stated that these points along the border can be established definitely with the engineering reckoning that is put in.

The Majority Report — or the Majority on the Committee felt that at this time, at least, that we ought to get this a little more exact and certainly to tie up the definite border in the southeast corner.

For those reasons, we hope, that you will vote against the Minority Report and accept the Majority Report.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

It is true that we didn't want to exclude Delegate Warner from the State of North Dakota. I was the one that brought it up in Committee, and it was purely — among the Committee, it was a joke, and still is, because the old geography books showed the Red River all the day down, and now somebody has changed one of the tributaries and it makes no difference — they are still described — and we notice that Delegate Warner is still here, and I'm quite sure that under our present Constitution if he was in Minnesota, we'd have kicked him out before this, because he would have been quite controversial. I'm sure that we aren't either putting him back in the State in the Minority Report or taking him out. He's been there — well, he isn't 82, but he's been there. If we ever take — I think we passed four little proposals in a row from the Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage Committee and I think they should be complimented. There was very little argument. They were the same as they had been. This proves one thing: That when this body will vote on what's in the old Constitution in a few minutes, and unanimously, it just may affect other people that way, and if anyone can tell me why a deed — and this is about what it is — a description of North Dakota, which has held up for 82 years without any trouble — why we should change it now because one expert — and I want to tell you that we didn't have a counter-expert in — just one expert came one day and he said, "They don't use the word 'meridian' so much any more, but I better call Washington." So he called the Bureau of Land Management, came back with a revised proposal, and left the word "meridian" in there. So here was an expert with two decisions in two days, and we didn't have anyone — any other expert in on that question.

Are we going to change the historical document proving where we are because one man came in? I went and contacted, on Saturday, a man I consider as much an expert in legal phraseology as anyone. He writes hundreds of deeds a year. And he says he still uses the word "meridian." I don't think that there is any need to change this whatsoever; but I would like to recite this one little story that Delegate Saugstad told me. He said that when they originally surveyed the South Dakota line, there was a farmer — or the engineers ran the line and put in the stones ten feet at the side of his house, and the engineer told him, "I'm sorry, Mister, you're not in North Dakota now; you're ten feet inside the State of South Dakota." And the man said, "Thank God, I don't think I could have stood another one of those North Dakota winters."

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President, I have a question I'd like to direct either to Delegate Longmire or Delegate Hoghaug.

Delegate Hoghaug described the South Dakota and North Dakota line markers. I live eight miles — about eight miles north of the South Dakota border, but I have one of those markers in my back yard by my garage door. My question is: Does a marker determine which state I'm in or is there something else in here that points out how far north I am of the State Line?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hernet, that was what we were worried about. We didn't want to start any wars between North Dakota and South Dakota, and we like you in North Dakota, and that's where we intend to keep you.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I had a precarious position on voting on this Committee Report. I've got to vote "no" both ways. I suppose my proper position will be on the tenth order; but unless I can do something about moving that international border about 70 feet to the north, I never will get rid of an earth curtain up there that's giving us fits.

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Hartl.

DELEGATE HARTL: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I joined to the Minority primarily due to the fact that, as a lawyer, I have examined a number of deeds. Those of you who are farmers and have any safes or safety deposit boxes, numerous abstracts, which, if when you first observe the patent or the receiver's receipt, will sometimes indicate in some of the older descriptions "Commencing at a point where the old oak tree was so many moons from the Red River." We had one in the City of Rugby which starts from the center of the street where a gas pipe is exposed. We do not have the street or the gas line. We continue to use the marker.

As Delegate Longmire stated, they used minutes to describe the problems — meaning minutes were approximately 70 feet. However, since they could get no nearer than the parentheses in a new description, and I quote “approximately forty-five degrees, fifty-six minutes north latitude,” they then, at the end, at the request of the expert concluded as we did, to go along with the expert’s theory of the unknown, since Washington will change, and add “The boundary on the ground is more exactly defined by astronomical measurements,” et cetera. If you would take the word “astronomical” out of context, I’m certain you can immediately see what our so-called expert has accomplished in this case. He’s accomplished the same thing as some of the other federal bureaus have accomplished. For lack of actual purpose, to earn the keep in calling himself an expert, he has come up with the description which can either be exactly wrong or exactly right. Since our State was a state which was originally part of the Dakota Territory and was described by the Red River and other similar descriptions common to the time, I believe we are in error to join with the Majority at this point of time in attempting to clarify a description which the Majority indicates is nothing but an approximation. And, for that reason, I would ask the Convention delegates to accept the Minority Report as being an historical but yet just as exact a document as the Majority is attempting to perpetuate here under the approximate-measurement theory.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hougen.

DELEGATE HOUGEN: Yes, Mr. President. I’m sure all of you realize that we aren’t going to change the border of North Dakota, no matter how much talk we do on the floor of this House. I might point out, though, that the Majority Report does more closely define the borders of North Dakota. There is nothing wrong with this. Further, our old language does not mention the Bois de Sioux, which is absolutely part of the North Dakota border. For this reason, I suggest that we support the Majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Longmire, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: No.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Minority Report; that the Minority Report be substituted as an amendment for the Report of the Majority.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye,” those opposed “no.” The “noes” have it and the Minority Proposal lost.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Division.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is the delegate requesting a division?

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: A division has been requested. There are a sufficient number standing to have a division.

Now, those — the question, again, is on the motion that the Minority Report be substituted for that of the Majority as an amendment.

Now, those in favor of the adoption will vote “aye,” and those opposed will vote “no.” The key will be opened so you can indicate your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote. The vote is closed.

The roll indicates that there were 30 “aye” votes, 62 “nays.” So the motion failed.

Now we’re back on the motion to adopt the amendments to the Committee Report as recommended by the Majority on the Committee.

In other words, we’re back to accept the report on the amendments as proposed by the Majority.

If there’s no further discussion, the question, then, is on the adoption of that report. As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye,” those opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and this 1-14 will be on the sixth order tomorrow.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-85 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-85; that it be given a do pass.

Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted. This will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-82 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Maxwell moved that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Committee Proposal No. 1-82; that it be given a do pass.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the report is adopted, and this Proposal 1-82 will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A Majority of your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-83 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegates Maxwell, Bender, Daniels, Fiedler, Geelan, Hubrig, Huckle, Lamb, O'Toole, Schmit and Urdahl.

Mr. President: A Minority of your Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-83 has had the same under consideration and recommends that it be amended.

Delegates Burbidge, Decker, Thompson and Tudor.

Delegate Maxwell, Chairman.

Delegate Thompson moved that the Report of the Minority be substituted for the Report of the Majority.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention is on the Minority Report; that the Report of the Minority be substituted for that of the Majority.

Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE THOMPSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Thompson.

DELEGATE THOMPSON: The Minority Report merely adds the no-party registration of voters. We had a great deal of testimony relative to this by the League of Women Voters of the State of North Dakota, and I think a good example of what this would help do would be to prevent a situation like we had in Grand Forks at the last election. I believe that there are only about two states that do not require — other than North Dakota — that do not require voter registration. Also, you notice in the residence requirements our Committee has seen fit to change that from one year in the State, ninety days in the county, thirty days in the precinct, to ninety days in the State, thirty days in the precinct, and I think that this voter registration would also help clear up that problem.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Lamb.

DELEGATE LAMB: Mr. President. I rise to support the Majority of the Committee and hope that this body accepts the Majority Report.

Now, the basic question here is not to clear up situations that happened as such in Grand Forks, because those could still remain under any form of a registration system. Furthermore, in the present statutes in the State of North Dakota, the municipalities can establish a registration system, if they so desire. The basic question is: Are we going to make it harder for people to vote?

The idea of voting is one of the basic rights. It's one of the most important things there is. And if we put deterrents by placing this and locking it into the Constitution, we are giving an opportunity for the minority in many cases to decide important issues before the local political subdivisions, not only throughout the State. So I hope that the Majority Report prevails. We've got to remember: Do not put a deterrent on voting.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Lander.

DELEGATE LANDER: Mr. President. Unless I am incorrect, this is one more instance where I guess, because of the Rules, we are talking about something at least I don't know much about, since we don't have something in front of us, and by virtue of its being on the fifth order, I would like to move that the consideration of this matter be laid over one Convention day. Is that in order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Yes, it is in order.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's moved and seconded that the matter of adopting this Committee Report be laid over one Convention day.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Would you want it two days? That way it would be Monday in the Journal, and give you time to study it, if you would like.

DELEGATE LANDER: I'll have to have it two days, if that doesn't hold anything else up.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It will be in the Journal then —

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Yes. Then they will have Monday to read it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then, if your second will yield, may it lay over two days?

(Delegate Stanton nodded.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question, then, is on the motion of Delegate Lander that the Report on Proposal No. 1-83 be laid over two Convention days.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and it will be laid over two Convention days.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal 1-114 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moves the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-114; that it be given a do pass.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report's adopted, and this Proposal, 1-114, will be on the tenth order on Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-115 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

Delegate Meidinger, Chairman.

Delegate Meidinger moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-115; that it be given a do pass.

Delegate Knudson.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President — excuse me, Mr. President.

Committee Proposal No. 1-115 is the latest and, we hope, final draft of Committee Proposal No. 1-17. It is substantially the same. It's not yet in the bill books, but it's substantially the same as 1-17.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Report's adopted and will be on the tenth order of business Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-29 has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-29; that the Proposal be amended.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion to adopt will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Committee Proposal No. 1-29 will be on the sixth order of business on Monday.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Legislative Functions to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-70 has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

Delegate Hoffner, Chairman.

Delegate Hoffner moved the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on Proposal No. 1-70; that it be given a do pass.

Is there any discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. That was pretty feeble! And it will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

We'll be on the ninth order of business — Introduction of Proposals.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-116, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 174 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to raising of revenues."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the Committee Proposal No. 1-116. It is being referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-117, introduced by Committee on Finance and Taxation:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 174 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to raising of revenues."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-117 is referred to the Committee on Finance and Taxation.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-118, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to having a justiciable right to an electoral system not prejudicial to his candidacy, be created."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-118 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-119, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 7 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to jury trial."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-119 is referred to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage.

We will be on the tenth order of business.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-28, introduced by Committee on Executive Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 73 and 84 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota, pertaining to qualifications and compensation of elected officials, be created.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 73 and 84 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"Qualifications and Compensation.

"To be eligible to hold an elective office established by this article, a person must be a qualified elector of the state, at least twenty-five years old, and a resident of this state for the five years preceding his election. The attorney general shall be licensed to practice law in this state. Their compensation shall be prescribed by law, but shall not be diminished during the term for which they were elected."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-30 — or 1-28. Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I move that the body reconsider this proposal. We had already passed it, and it's up for reconsideration, and the reason, simply, was that I felt that five years residence requirement for election to any state office was unnecessary, and I think, too restrictive. I think the Committee felt what we should be concerned about was the possibility of carpetbagging. I don't think it's too likely that people are going to come to North Dakota when they run for office, from other states, but I think two years — I don't know if the Clerk has read the amendment. Has it been read?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: No.

The amendment to Committee Proposal 1-28 is as follows:

On the engrossed bill, in line 13, following the word "the" delete the word "five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "two".

DELEGATE KELSCH: That is the amendment that I would like to have this body consider.

The other factor, I think — I think that two years is sufficient to discourage carpetbagging. And the other point I think we should consider is that we're making a change. We are including all state officials. The present Constitution requires only one year of residency to run for Attorney General, State Auditor, or any of the other elected officials, except the Governor, without exception. Now, the Committee is changing that to five years, and I think that's too much to require. I think it discourages young people to run for office — anybody to run for office — and I'm especially concerned about young people, and I would urge that you consider the amendment and vote favorably on it and reduce the five to two years.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dawson. Just a moment here. There's a little bit of confusion with the Chair. Roy?

(A discussion was had between President Wenstrom and Chief Clerk Gilbreath, off the record.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch, I believe that you neglected to make a motion to put this amendment before the Convention.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would move the amendment read by the Clerk, Mr. President, to reduce "five" years to "two" years.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then may I have a second?

DELEGATE LAMB: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Lamb.

Now, we've heard your discussion.

Now, Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Mr. President, the Executive Functions Committee deliberated on several occasions the establishment of age qualification and residency requirements for holding an elective office in our executive branch of government. Apparently you agreed with our decision and, a week ago today, passed 1-28 by a vote of 87-to-2. Tuesday the proposal was called back to the Convention for reconsideration and the Executive Functions Committee again has had it under discussion and came to the conclusion that the arguments that justified our original decision were still valid and the Committee, by a super majority, voted to stand by 1-28 as originally proposed.

Now, I have checked the delegates' biographies and believe that each and every one of us would be eligible to hold an elective executive office under this proposal; so, you see, we haven't been too discriminatory. We do not feel the proposal restricts our ability to obtain qualified people to seek elective office; and, possibly, by changing the qualification for office, we would open the gate for people who might not be quite as well qualified. Our young citizens are knowledgeable enough to realize, and our older citizens insist, that experience and maturity are necessary to successfully manage a business and supervise personnel. State government is big business — the biggest business we have in our State. Our proposal only affects 14 department heads at the present time.

I am a firm believer in job qualifications for many state officials, whether they are elected or appointed; however, it is not practical in a constitution to establish strict qualifications for elected officials, other than age to secure responsibility and residence to secure an up-to-date knowledge of our State and its citizens.

We have taken the realistic approach, and I urge your continued support of 1-28, which establishes a minimum age of 25 and a residency of five years in order to hold one of the 14 elected offices in our state departments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, I rise in support of the amendment. I realize fully that if I would have been a candidate for elective office at the time I ran for the State House of Representatives, I could not have sought that office because of having taught in Minnesota for one year, and I think that five years is preposterous.

I would agree and concur with the delegate who just spoke that it is true that all of us in this assembly would be able to seek any one of those 14 elective offices, but let's remember that the average age of the delegate in this assembly is 51.9 years, and I think that's a pretty significant fact, and it is a fact that the young people need to take a look at. I think the youth of our State are becoming increasingly concerned about the hypocrisy of an older generation which tells them to get involved and then, on the other hand, would bar some of the top executive offices, providing they could get a party endorsement, providing they would be accepted in that kind of a role, that would bar them from seeking that kind of an office, and I think we just might get that kind of super majority youth around some day, too.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: As a member of the super minority of the Executive Committee which considered this, I would like to point out two traps which, I think, are not apparent to everybody here in this five-year residence. It would disqualify not only newcomers to the State, but in many instances people who had been almost lifelong residents of the State of North Dakota. In this mobile age, many people change jobs, are transferred out of the State, and perhaps I think of the person who has lived all his life in North Dakota, who has been transferred out of the State, goes to another state for perhaps six months, and during that time, with these shortened residence qualifications, votes in his new state; he decides that he does not like the state, returns to North Dakota, and is unable to run — to qualify as a candidate until he has been back in the State for five years, though he may have played some role in the political life of the State before his departure.

I also think of the many students who go and take graduate work in other states and at some time during that time, perhaps at the age of 19 or 20, would have voted in another election, becoming absorbed in the political affairs of a local area. Then, six years later, having completed his graduate work as a teacher, as a doctor, as a lawyer, he returns to the State of North Dakota, which has been really his home, and must stay here five years before he qualifies to run for office in the executive department. I think these are the traps which this five-year residence has built into the — into this constitution, and I just wanted to call this to the attention of the other delegates.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I think that most of the arguments used in support of the super majority deal really with the age requirement, rather than the five-year limitation. We're looking for qualified men to run — run and be elected to these positions. I think the five-year residency would do nothing but hinder it, and I think the arguments used here in support of this Majority Report — this proposal — deal with the age limit and not with the residency requirement. I would go along with Delegate Kelsch's amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE STANTON: Mr. President:

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE STANTON: I speak in support of Committee Proposal No. 1-28. I think that it is our responsibility to see that responsible people run for office. We're talking about high office in the State right now. I think the youth of our State are smart enough to know that they need some experience and some wisdom, and this would simply make them more responsible, and I don't think that they would object to this in the least bit.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Rude.

DELEGATE RUDE: Mr. President. Fellow delegates:

May I refer the delegates to Delegate Proposal No. 2-23, which we just passed yesterday? Out of 700,000 service men to be returned in the months ahead, certainly a certain number of these veterans will be returned to North Dakota. We would show by this Convention that the veteran has priority for whatever North Dakota may have to offer, or whatever opportunities may exist or arise. I, therefore, urge your support of the five-year residence requirement. Thank you.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: I would support Delegate Kelsch's amendment — the reduction from five to two years. I believe we are at a time of things when we are facing such problems as the loss of our population. It has been declining for some time. I believe that one of the things that we can afford to do is to take a look at the kinds of people that we have in the State. I think the kind of leadership we have among both young and old is at a premium. I think we have to understand this. I think we have to take into consideration those who might return to this State, whether they be veterans, whether they be young people, whether they be former residents, natives of North Dakota who have returned. I think we should provide the greatest and the best opportunity for them to take part in governmental affairs in this state; and for that reason, I support Delegate Kelsch's amendment.

DELEGATE POULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Poulson.

DELEGATE POULSON: I rise in support of Delegate Kelsch's amendment. Somehow, it's difficult for me to equate responsibility with either residency in the State or the magic number "25." Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the amendment. Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, just a short statement.

I support Delegate Kelsch's motion. Remember, the people decide whether this person is qualified to be that state official, and if they feel he's qualified to be a governor or lieutenant governor, or whatever, after being here in residence for two years, I think they should make that determination.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendment.

DELEGATE CHASE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Chase.

DELEGATE CHASE: I think that the amendment should be defeated, recognizing that if most of us feel or some of us feel that five years is too restrictive, it could be moved to a position in between two and five. But two, I think, is a little bit — a little bit too liberal.

I agree with Delegate Hoffner, but, at the same time, when we talk about residency, this is a very, very — I don't think the term has really been described to the point where any of us understand what a resident is. Could you come into North Dakota, for example, and rent a place, and so forth? And what is a resident? Could you come in here if you wanted to run for an office and establish a residency that might be questionable?

So I think that the amendment should be defeated and, if the delegates have it in their own heart that it should be between two and five, why we could work on that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, I agree with Delegate McIntyre in his remarks that primarily the majority's case rests on a question of age — not residency — and I wonder, really, as Delegate Poulson pointed out, our present qualifications call for all state officials, except the governor, and aren't we really abusing the other governmental offices because it only requires residency of one year? I support Delegate Kelsch's amendment very strongly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: I would just like to remind the delegates that Senator Humphrey can move from Minnesota to North Dakota thirty days before the election and be elected to the Senate from the State of North Dakota. I can remember the case of Senator Kennedy moving from Massachusetts to New York, and we're setting up guidelines that are far more restrictive for much less important offices.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: I think we should further remember the amount of railroad people that transfer not by will, but by the rules of a railroad corporation, probably from North Dakota to Montana, Washington, on into the State of Illinois, due to the system of the transcontinental railroads that we have today. It's not by their wish that they get transferred. They may come back here and may want to run for office and are constitutionally denied, unless they stay here — for five years; and people working on the railroad, many times they're residents for a certain amount of years before they build seniority. The same thing happens to the over-the-road motor truck driver that crosses from the West Coast to the East Coast. He may be transferred until he builds enough seniority. We're going to be denying these people the right to run for public office, also. It's probably not too important that they would run for public office; but, nevertheless, I think that they should not be denied that opportunity either.

The schoolteacher does the same thing, too, possibly because they cannot get a job in the State of North Dakota for one season or two seasons; they have to go to another state, and they certainly should be protected, also.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Kessel.

DELEGATE KESSEL: Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates: I'm sure all of us know some of your younger people that have been born and reared in the State of North Dakota and then, for some reason, have left the State and have come back, and they have been here possibly two or three years, but probably well-qualified in every respect, and we, by one stroke of a vote here, would take them out of the opportunity to run for an office. I, therefore, support Delegate Kelsch's amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Vogel. Do you wish the floor?

DELEGATE VOGEL: I just wanted to clarify any question that might have arisen in Delegate Paulson's statement. This, of course, has no bearing at all on the qualifications of a candidate for United States Congress or the United States Senate, because the State can't set the qualifications for them. It would not operate one way or the other in connection with national office; only for the officers of the State executive department.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: I think there's very little correlation between the length of time you live in the State and the amount of knowledge you might have in the business of that state. I think all of us have had a pretty extensive and rapid education in state government. I think others have been in the state maybe 70 years or more, and they probably haven't been able to get the knowledge we have.

So I see no correlation in this length of time within a state, if you are interested in that state and interested in the government of that state. I urge you to support Delegate Kelsch's motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the adoption of the amendment as offered by Delegate Kelsch.

As many as are in favor of adopting the amendment will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the amendment is adopted.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Larsen.

DELEGATE LARSEN: I now move the amendment, and the Clerk has it at the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-28 is as follows:

On line 13, delete the word "twenty-five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-one".

DELEGATE LARSEN: If I receive a second, I'll explain it.

DELEGATE GIPP: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Okay. The motion has been seconded by Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE LARSEN: Fellow Delegates:

Legal qualifications for the office of Governor and other state officials are often laid down in state constitutions. Now, in a few of the states, a governor need possess only the qualifications of an elector. That means if the elector is 18, he can become a governor, if he gets the nomination and the support of the people; but in most states additional requirements are made.

I do not request that the age requirement be lowered to eighteen, but I do believe that we can no longer set an age qualification as high as twenty-five and hope to have our young voters become enthusiastic over their franchise. The placing in the Constitution, however, of an age qualification for the Governor's office and any other office is legally a self-imposed limitation upon the power of the people to elect whom they will.

Now, fellow delegates, what privileges or responsibilities have we allowed our youthful voters so far in this Convention? Really, none, except the right to vote, and that was granted by the Federal Government. If a young twenty-one-year-old voter would be able to secure the nomination and has shown the capable judgment necessary to assume the responsibilities of such a position as governor, or any other office, I firmly believe it should be my prerogative to vote for him, should I desire.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SCHEEL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Scheel.

DELEGATE SCHEEL: I would like to resist this amendment. We viewed this for a long time in the Executive Functions Committee, and there is a difference here. When you're elected as a legislator or as a member of this delegation, you have immediately in your right hand or your left hand — all around you — both counsel and opposition, and with that counsel and opposition, you're better able to come to a decision that probably meets with what the people need and the people want and we want, and we who have studied this a long time arrive at. But when you appoint a fellow or elect a fellow to run a department or to run this state government, he doesn't have that kind of counsel and opposition among his peers; he may have counsel among those he's appointed, but in any other form of life, in any other form of administration, it is better when you have people who are the executive at the top, running something, to have experience, and it is more important that he have his experience when he is at this position than it is when he's among a house or a senate or a constitutional convention or a unicameral body. I would urge you to resist this motion to amend.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I think that Delegate Larsen hit the point right on the head; that if a person is qualified at the age of twenty-one to assume office, the people should have the opportunity to vote on him.

Now, our present Constitution in this judicial article does not talk or set — does not talk about an age or set an age for a judge. This is set by law, and I certainly think that the age of a judge is more important than the age of a state official. After all, the judge is dealing with the very lives of people, and it would seem to fit in our old Constitution that you set a mandatory age for judges, and I support Delegate Larsen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nething.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President and Fellow Delegates:

I think all of us would like very much to leave the matter of choosing public officials to the public themselves. I would call your attention to the fact that currently we have an age limit of thirty for the office of governor, twenty-five for the others, and unless we receive a favorable vote on this Constitution as presented, that's what we're going to keep. I think that there are people looking for areas where they would like to improve the Constitution, and we have reached an agreement day after day as a body; but what is the individual voter thinking about some of these things? And we're giving another opportunity for people to vote against this — that is, those that think that the age of twenty-one is too young, and we've given that person another opportunity to vote against this, as we may for those that think the age of twenty-five is too old. We've had a lot of appeal to the younger voter, and I think, personally, that's fine; however, don't forget there are a lot of people that are over the age of twenty-five that are going to be called upon to vote for this Constitution, too, and we must, in some way, try to make this document appeal to them.

I think the amendment should be defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE MCINTYRE: Mr. President, I really have mixed emotions on this particular issue. I am one of those that would support the eighteen-year-olds, and in the last day or so, if I recall, we passed a proposal stating that any citizen eighteen years of age shall be called an adult for all purposes. So I — I have mixed emotions on this thing, but I'm going to support Delegate Larsen's amendment, because I do feel that it should be the people's choice.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: I rise to support Delegate Larsen's amendment, because I think that we are living in an age where we need to involve the young people of our State. I can't think of anything that would be more encouraging than they could be eligible at an early date to hold a responsible office. I think we don't need to be too fearful that unqualified people are going to be elected to this high position. I have the greatest respect for the judgment of the average person that votes, and I think they will allay any fear that we might have along this line, and I would strongly urge you to support this amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, in reply, certainly, to one of the delegates who just previously spoke, I think it is fair enough to say that one of the best ways to get the eighteen-year-olds who are going to vote on this Constitution to vote for it is to make sure that they're eligible for the kind of citizenship responsibilities that we have given them, both at the national and state level, and I think that that, in effect, would be the best way to get a positive vote, rather than have them take a look at it and say, "Well, you're very good on the platitudes, but you don't want to give us the opportunities to serve in the kind of responsible positions that we could be elected to."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. President, I would also support Delegate Larsen's proposal. There's many times that I sit in my office and I get the remarks by various employers when they're hiring somebody that they don't want the old-timer over there. It's a kind of a sad affair, when you're too young to work, before you're eighteen years of age; but then when you get to the wholesome age of thirty, you become an old-timer.

Now, we've got a gray area between eighteen and thirty sometimes to get a job; but, at the same time, I believe that if a person could qualify at the age of twenty-one to hold office and the people have got enough respect for him, I think he should be entitled to run for office and hold office. I'm sure that citizens are not going to support somebody that has not got the ability at that age.

And in the second place, here we have people in the Armed Forces from the age of eighteen on up. Do we keep them all privates until they're twenty-five? I'm sure that's not true, and certainly we expect them to go out and fight for our country and to hold office in the military before they're age twenty-five. So I can't see why we should use the word "twenty-five". I would support Delegate Larsen's proposal on those grounds, that I think a person shall be entitled to hold office at the age of twenty-one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Dawson.

DELEGATE DAWSON: Thank you, Mr. President.

I don't think that we're going to alienate any of the young people by setting this age at twenty-five. I don't think a nineteen or twenty or twenty-one-year-old person expects to be a bank president or a corporation manager or a president of a union or a Supreme Court judge, and they realize this, and I think we're being very realistic in establishing the age of twenty-five, and urge your support.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Devine.

DELEGATE DEVINE: I heard the call for the question, so I'll try to keep this short.

I feel that I'm young enough to speak to this question, and I would speak in opposition to the motion. A person can have the ability, the capability or the charisma to be elected, but I do believe that he may not have the maturity.

There are certain experiences in this world that you can only learn through the passage of time, and I feel that the needs of this office require a little bit more maturity than the average twenty-one-year-old would have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Pearce.

DELEGATE PEARCE: Mr. President.

When I was eighteen, I was exceedingly wise. In the many years that have elapsed since that time, it's been a process of discovering how many things I didn't know. I would be better off sometimes, I think, if I went back to my status at eighteen.

Mark Twain once said that when he was sixteen years old, he thought his father was one of the most ignorant of men; when he was twenty-five, he was amazed at how much the old man had learned.

I support the lowering of the age. The Legislature passed a law at the last session that declared that persons eighteen years of age were adults. To exclude any adult, then, from participation in democracy is, in a sense, a discrimination. We are creating two classes of adults. We do that with certain things still. He's an adult at eighteen and he can vote; but he can't take a drink. And if I were defending somebody at the present time who was eighteen, I would allege or raise the defense that he was being discriminated against as an adult. I'm not asking for clients in that respect, by the way. (Laughter)

But, to me, age has nothing to do with this. If we reach a maturity at a certain time and, obviously, if a man can be President of the United States at thirty, it seems to me that by the time he's eighteen, he ought to be something.

Now, by the way I speak, you would think I was for lowering it to eighteen; and if that were the amendment, I'd be in favor of that.

DELEGATE GIPP: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Gipp.

DELEGATE GIPP: I rise to support Delegate Larsen's amendment. I was one of the two who voted against 1-28, not because I opposed the proposal itself, but because of the age limits. If I had my way, I think I would lower it down to eighteen. But I am satisfied with Delegate Larsen's proposal — amendment, and I simply place the questions of — I've heard the words about maturity, age, knowledge, lack of experience, and all of these things, I think. I think we're living in a time when we have educational systems which provide us more knowledge than we have ever known to young people in our educational systems, deficient as our schools sometimes may be or the kind of criticisms you have in your own communities. I think we live in a day and age where we are constantly — constantly undergoing new forms in absorbing different types of knowledge. Through the communications media themselves, the electronic media, the newspapers, the formal education systems themselves, I think all of these systems have led to a high degree of knowledge by young people in this State, and I think, for one on this point, we are — we are second guessing young people along these lines; we are second guessing them that they do not and cannot have the knowledge at the age of twenty-one to hold an elective office.

Secondly, I say who is to be the judge of maturity? Who is the judge of maturity? Are you mature at the age of eighty or eighty-five? Are you mature at the age of eighteen or twenty-five? I sometimes wonder about myself. Let's put it that way. But I sometimes wonder about those who claim to be very, very mature and very, very well-experienced, as to what does this add to how we really mature and in what way — what kind of maturity? Experience in office?

My personal belief here is that I think, again, we have a premium in our young people in this State. Why not put the trust that is needed in them at the age of twenty-one? Why not provide that trust by letting this age drop to twenty-one years? Why not begin to give them the experience that is necessary to provide the future leadership?

I think that this is an important issue. I think that we do have some young people in this State who do have the maturity, who do have the knowledge and who do have the ability to gain experience. Experience to me is one of those things that you can gain over seven years' time or you can gain it in a day or a year or two years. It is, I think, a matter of how you utilize that experience. That is what I think.

I think we would be underrating our young people if we would choose to keep this age of twenty-five. I think it should be lowered to twenty-one, and I firmly support Delegate Larsen's proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nicholas.

DELEGATE NICHOLAS: Yes, I would like to just rise in support of my fellow delegate's proposal, and I would like to point out a personal experience.

When I was twenty-one years old, I was nominated for the State Senate, and I had people circulating my petitions who were old enough to be my grandparents, and I think this is a valid point here, that this age should be lowered to twenty-one.

I was quite young at that age, but I feel I could have served in this assembly across the hall here quite well, if I would have been elected at that time. And so I think we should lower this age to twenty-one.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Larsen; that on line 13, delete the word "twenty-five" and insert in lieu thereof the word "twenty-one".

Any further discussion? Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The Chair is in doubt.

We will open the key. Those in favor of the adoption of the motion — of the amendment, will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no." We will open the key and you will record your preference.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Mr. President, a "yes" vote would be in favor of Delegate Larsen's amendment, and a "no" vote would be opposed to the amendment, wouldn't it?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will open the key. You will record your preference.

Has every delegate voted? Any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The vote indicates there were 55 "ayes," 37 "nays" and six delegates absent and not voting. The amendment as proposed by Delegate Larsen has been adopted.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I would move that Proposal 1-28 be considered — the Rules be suspended and it be properly re-engrossed and placed on the tenth order for passage.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch moves that the Rules be suspended and that Committee Proposal No. 1-28 be deemed properly engrossed, that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

Now, we have a second over here. Seconded by Delegate Litten.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-28 is now before the Convention as amended. It is for first passage.

Is there any discussion? Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

I didn't get into the argument at all, but I have a question.

As I said yesterday, I am not running for governor, so I don't have to worry so much about these things.

But what about the compensation? You know, a lot of the state officials now are getting what they call "unvouchered expenses," and how's this going to affect the fact that the Governor is getting a certain salary now and he's getting some unvouchered expenses? Now what will this last sentence mean?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Can anyone answer Delegate Rundle's question?

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Nothing.

DELEGATE NETHING: Mr. President.

Delegate Rundle, the language is that that replaces Section 84 of the current Constitution, which states that "Salaries of public officers shall be as prescribed by law, but the salaries of any of the said officers shall not be increased or diminished during the period for which they shall have been elected, and all fees and profits arising from any of the said offices shall be covered into the state treasury." And what we're doing is just keeping the language that we have and attempting to make it a little more explicit and cut down on the excess verbiage.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President, could I address a question to Delegate Nothing?

DELEGATE NETHING: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Delegate Nothing yield?

DELEGATE NETHING: I yield.

DELEGATE CART: Would this language then include the Supreme Court Judges?

DELEGATE NETHING: I believe that the intent of the Committee — of course, we're only working on the executive article and we believe that everything following the executive article is limited to the executive department.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-28 as amended.

Hearing no further discussion, those in favor will vote "aye," and those opposed will vote "no."

The key will be opened and you will record your vote.

Delegate Cart, I don't believe you voted.

DELEGATE CART: Well, I tried to, but —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 89 "ayes," 3 "nays," six delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-28 has been passed.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, could we be on the twelfth order for a minute?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we will be on the twelfth order.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, I would like to move that Committee Proposal 1-60 be returned to the Committee, and taken off the calendar, and if I get a second, I'll explain it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker moves that Committee Proposal — Committee Proposal or Delegate Proposal?

DELEGATE DECKER: Committee.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Committee Proposal No. 1-60 be returned to Committee. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, 1-60 has a question on misdemeanor in it, and the Committee would like to have it back — that's the Preamble and Bill of Rights Committee — would like to have it back to clean it up, if possible.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the motion that Committee Proposal No. 1-60 be returned to the Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage. As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye," opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the Committee Proposal will be returned to the Committee.

Fellow delegates, it is now five minutes after eleven. You have not had a break this morning. Do you wish to continue to work until a quarter-to-twelve or do you wish to take a recess at this time for about ten minutes?

DELEGATE LANDER: Keep working.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Keep working?

The Chair will recognize Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, I would move the unanimous consent that Proposal 1-17 be withdrawn. If I get a second, I would comment.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Meidinger moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-17 be withdrawn. He requests unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw it.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President, this morning Committee Proposal No. 1-114 and Committee Proposal No. 1-115 were referred to this body. All of the material in 1-17 has been covered in the two proposals which have been introduced, and we would appreciate a withdrawal of 1-17.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Hearing no objection, the question is on Delegate Meidinger's motion requesting unanimous consent of the Convention to withdraw the motion — or his request is that he withdraw Proposal No. 1-17.

Hearing no objection, your request is granted.

We will be on —

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: While we're on the twelfth order, I would like to offer a motion, and I'd like the Clerk to read it from the desk.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Longmire would move that the Rules be suspended and,

1, that the committee reports dealing with Proposal 1-11 be placed on the fifth order:

A. That a ten-minute interval be granted for the minority to explain the minority report.

B. That ten minutes be granted for the majority to explain the majority report.

C. There be open discussion of both minority and majority reports following the explanations under Sections A and B hereof.

D. No amendments of the majority and the minority reports on Committee Proposal No. 1-11 be allowed.

E. No other motions be allowed.

F. At the conclusion of debate, a vote be taken on the minority report.

If fifty delegates vote "aye" in favor of the minority report, the minority report be determined properly engrossed and placed on the tenth order for first passage.

G. If the minority report receives less than fifty "aye" votes, the majority report be deemed properly engrossed and placed on the tenth order for first passage.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE RONEY: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Roney.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, before I get my second, I want to add H. provision to the motion that I have just made. The H. provision would be that debate on the two reports be held commencing at 10:00 A.M., Monday, January 24th, and then I'd like to have a second to all of that.

DELEGATE RONEY: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Roney seconds the motion.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, this involves, of course, the method of choosing judges for our State, and quite a bit of interest has developed in the Committee, as well as among the delegates here, as to the manner in which these judges shall be selected. The only — or the main difference between the two reports that come in will be just the manner of selection. The Minority Report wants the judges appointed. The Majority Report wants them elected, plus some additional machinery on appointment. And so that will be the only main issue that will be involved.

This motion, of course, is similar to the one and, in fact, almost identical to the one made by Delegate Hoffner, and I think we found from that that we saved a lot of time on the unicameral and the bicameral debate by handling it in that manner, and I think we can save a lot of time by handling this proposal in that manner.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, where are the — where is Proposal No. 1-11 now? It's in your Committee?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Well, Mr. President, the committee report has been prepared — prepared, I understood. I understood our secretary had turned it in; but if it is not — has not been turned in, it will be turned in today, before this session adjourns.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Are you ready for the motion? Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President. I concur with Delegate Longmire's motion, but I do have one question on point H. And that is setting the date and time at 10:00 A.M. on Monday. Now, as I explained to Delegate Longmire yesterday, I do have to go home tomorrow night. If a snowstorm comes up, I might not get back to defend the Minority position on Monday, and I assume then it could be laid over another day and, also, Delegate Longmire explained a portion of the Majority Report. I would say that the Minority Report does call for the appointment of judges through a nominating commission and, also, voter approval on the question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE WARNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Warner.

DELEGATE WARNER: Now that I'm part of the State of North Dakota again, I feel I can speak.

I have somewhat the same situation, Chairman Longmire, where I would like to be present to support the Majority Report; but I have to go home and hold court, and I don't know if I'm going to be here Monday either. I'm wondering if it would upset things if we could put it over until Tuesday.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: That will be perfectly agreeable. With the permission of my seconding delegate, I would be glad to amend that to 10:00 A.M., Tuesday.

DELEGATE RONEY: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Your seconding delegate is agreeable, Delegate Longmire.

Delegate Hoffner, do you have a question?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I was just going to suggest that Monday at ten o'clock Delegate Longmire could make his motion that he's making today, and after he sees that everyone is here, and do exactly what — and not have to set a time. He could at ten o'clock rise and be on the tenth order.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: I'm perfectly familiar with the procedure — what motions I can make and what I can't; but I make this motion at this time in order to give the delegates the opportunity to think this over over the weekend and get ready for your debate, and that's why I'm making it at this time.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Longmire.

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would like to point out to Delegate Longmire and to the delegates here that we could find ourselves in a rather peculiar position, that the Minority Report, for instance, might have a majority of the votes, but less than 50 votes, and I was wondering, for the adoption of a committee report, if Delegate Longmire would be insisting on 50 votes.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Delegate Longmire feels if he can't get 50 votes for the Majority Report, he might as well forget it!

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Anything further? The question, then — Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, I do have a question similar to Delegate Saugstad's. And, Delegate Hoffner, would you yield to a question?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Does Delegate Hoffner yield?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Yes.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Are the same divisions that were put down on unicameral and bicameral applicable — a majority of those voting?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I believe in our case it was — and I'm sorry, Delegate Longmire — I think it was the proposal that received the most votes would be handled the same way as the Rule, in Rule 5 — a committee report. I believe that does not call for a constitutional majority; is that right?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's right. However, the amendment or the motion before the Convention at this time does specifically state 50 "aye" votes.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Again with the permission of my seconding delegate, I have no objections to making that a majority, instead of 50 votes.

(Delegate Roney raised his hand.)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The second is agreeable. I don't know if the Convention is, though, or not. If the Convention — if no one objects, why then we will eliminate the formal procedure for a second and let the distinguished delegate from Grand Forks reword the motion to that point. Strike the "50."

The Chair has a question. Has this amendment been distributed? Has this proposal been distributed to the Convention?

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I believe a copy of the proposal was placed on the desk of everybody; however, the amendment — I mean the motion that I have made has not been; but I believe a copy of the Majority and the Minority Reports have been placed on the desks. Have they not?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, my question was relative to your motion — if the motion had been. I was just wondering if this was on the desk of the Convention.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: No, Mr. President, it hasn't been. In fact, we just got it prepared just a short time ago. But, in explaining what this motion is — in fact, Delegate Hoffner kindly informed our committee of the details of his motion. It worked so well that we felt it would save time here; so it's almost identical with Reverend — or "Reverend"! — with Delegate Hoffner's motion. I thought I was presiding on the Board of Deacons back at the church.

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Would the Convention like to have this motion read or re-read now as amended?

Read it, Mr. Clerk.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: I'll move the question.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question has been called for. Will five delegates second the motion? We need five delegates. Lander, Kessel, Kelsch, Decker, Quam — unless I have too many.

The question now is to cut off debate and have the vote. So, as many as are in favor of voting on the question at this time will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. Debate is cut off and further amendments are cut off.

We're now on the motion as presented by Delegate Longmire.

Those in favor of that procedure will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and we will be hearing Committee Proposal No. 1-11 at 10:00 A.M. on Tuesday.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. Chairman — Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I'm trying to find the right order of business to be on, but I'm looking for an announcement number.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That's No. 8.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Can we be on the eighth order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Without objection, we'll be on the eighth order.

DELEGATE AUBOL: This is just by way of explanation.

At one time both minority and majority reports were both placed on the desks of all delegates. You will recall, however, the reports were referred back to the Committee, and so the Minority Report that you have received is not the Minority Report that will be presented, because there are some changes that were made, and if anybody wanted, I could briefly explain what those changes are.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is this in the Journal?

The answer to your question is that the Minority and Majority Report that will be discussed are not the ones that are in the Journal; that this is not then at the desk. It has not come to the Convention for adoption. Consequently, we do not have copies at this point.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, just a brief reminder. The editors' luncheon is again at noon at the Town House, and if you have no invitation and ticket, you are certainly welcome; but it will cost you three dollars at the door.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll continue on the eighth order, on announcements.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Delegate Sanstead announces that 40 students from the Junior High School of Minot and their teachers, Lemoya Mooney, Hazel Flammancy and Mark Hamilton, are with us.

Delegate Gipp would like to announce the introduction of students and faculty from the Solen Public High School. There are 28 students, accompanied by Robert Kutchna and Virginia Nelson.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will the visiting students please rise and be recognized by the Convention delegates? Will you please rise? (Applause)

We're happy that you are with us this morning. I think you have listened to some, in my opinion, very interesting discussion pertaining to questions that you will be very much concerned with in the immediate future.

We will be back on the tenth order of business for discussion of Committee Proposal No. 1-32.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-32, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 194, 195 and 196 of Article XIV of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 28 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; all of which pertain to grounds for impeachment.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 194, 195 and 196 of Article XIV of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Section 22 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 22. All elected state officials and judicial officers elected to represent more than one political subdivision shall be subject to impeachment for crimes, corrupt conduct, malfeasance, or because of chronic and continuing willful failure to perform the duties of office. The house of representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment by a vote of a majority of those elected to the house. The senate shall have the sole power of trial in impeachment cases. A two-thirds vote of elected senators shall be required for conviction."

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I have some amendments at the desk that I would like to move on 1-32, to clarify some of the language after we amended it yesterday, and if the Clerk would read those amendments.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Amendments to Committee Proposal 1-32:

On line 11, delete the words "elected state officers and".

On line 12, all the following words after the word "subdivision": "and all elected state officers".

On line 14, delete the words "chronic and".

On line 17, delete "those elected to the house" and insert in lieu thereof the following: "the elected representatives".

On line 19, add the word "the" before the word "elected".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, I would move those amendments. If I get a second, I will explain.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE BENSON: I'll second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE KELSCH: The first amendment, in taking out "elected state officials" in that position was simply to clarify the language so that the words "elected to represent more than one political subdivision" modified "judicial officers." We're just simply reinserting the words in line 12. So it was just to clarify language, so there couldn't be any confusion.

On line 14, after it was amended yesterday, it had read "chronic and willful failure to perform the duties of office." We felt we wouldn't need the words "chronic and", and so the ground would be "continuing willful failure to perform the duties of office," and we felt that this amendment would take out the disabled official, where he couldn't perform his duties. It would have to be a willful act, and it would have to be continuing willful acts, rather than just the one.

Then the last amendments on line 17 are just a style change, so it will be consistent with the sentence on line 19, where it refers to the "elected senators"; we would also say the "elected representatives". So those are just style changes. I would urge the floor's favorable action on these amendments.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the amendments to Committee Proposal No. 1-32 as offered by Delegate Kelsch.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the adoption of the amendments will say "aye;" opposed "no."

The "ayes" have it and the proposal is before you as amended.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. I would now move that the Rules be suspended and that Proposal 1-32 be considered properly re-engrossed and placed on the tenth order for first passage.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been moved by Delegate Kelsch and seconded by Delegate Trenbeath that the Rules be suspended, that Committee Proposal No. 1-32 be properly re-engrossed and be placed on the tenth order for first passage as amended.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and Committee Proposal No. 1-32 is now before the Convention for first passage as amended.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Would Delegate Kelsch read the paragraph of the amended language, so that everyone can get it proper?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Starting with Section 22: "All judicial officers elected to represent more than one political subdivision and all elected state officers shall be subject to impeachment for crimes, corrupt conduct, malfeasance, or because of continuing willful failure to perform the duties of office. The house of representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment by a vote of a majority of the elected representatives. The senate shall have the sole power of trial in impeachment cases. A two-thirds vote of the elected senators shall be required for conviction."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further questions?

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, I'd like to ask Delegate Kelsch: Does this almost rule out the fact of illness while it isn't the man's fault? This shouldn't be forever.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Yes. I'm sorry. I didn't mention this to the delegates when I moved these amendments. In the light of the discussion yesterday, the impression was given that the Convention did not want to impeach for disabling illness that would prevent performance, and it wanted this to be a willful act.

Now, we're coming in with a new section, which is attached to the succession — gubernatorial succession on state officials, which will show a method by which you could declare a vacancy in office by reason of the inability to perform.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? The question is on the first passage of Committee Proposal 1-32 as amended.

Those in favor of adopting will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no."

The key will be opened. You will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses that there were 89 "ayes" and no "nays" and nine delegates absent and not voting.

Committee Proposal No. 1-32 has passed.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: May I rise on a point of personal privilege?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may state your privilege.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: The Desk Reporter is still not convinced that I'm present. I had assumed that my announcement earlier that I was present, but in the wrong place at the time of roll call, was sufficient; but I would like to have the record show that I am present and have been present this morning.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you, Delegate Haugen.

We will continue on the tenth order of business.

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-37.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-37, introduced by Committee on Legislative Functions:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that sections 41, 53, 55 and 56 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that section 8 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to a legislative timetable.

"SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Sections 41, 53, 55 and 56 of Article II of the constitution of the state of North Dakota are hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) Section 8 of Article II to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"ARTICLE II

"Section 8. The terms of service of the legislators shall commence on the first Tuesday after the third day of January following their election. The legislative assembly shall meet to organize on the same day and may meet in plenary session no more than eighty natural days during the biennium. The days need not be consecutive and meetings for the purpose of impeachment or on call of the governor shall not count against the eighty-day limitation. The legislative assembly may authorize its committees to meet at any time during the biennium. No house of the legislature may recess or adjourn for more than three days without the consent of the other house."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of Committee Proposal No. 1-37.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. This is an important section of the work of the Legislative Functions Committee. What it does, first of all, it starts the term of office for elected legislators on the first Tuesday after the third of January. It then provides that they shall organize at the same time. It then provides that the Legislature may meet for eighty natural days and provides that these days need not be consecutive, and that where the Legislature meets for purposes of impeachment or upon call of the governor, this time will not be counted against the eighty days.

It also authorizes the Legislature, if they desire, to permit its committees — organized committees to meet at any time during the biennium, and it provides as a working tool that neither house may adjourn for more than three days without the consent of the other.

Now, what we're doing with this proposal — we're repealing Section 41 of the Constitution, which says that the term of a legislature should start on the first Tuesday in January after the election. We're repealing Section 53 that calls for the first meeting of the Legislature at twelve o'clock on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January, and in place of those two we're putting the first Tuesday after the third of January. We're fixing a specific date. We're repealing Section 55, which says that the Legislature shall be a biennial session. We're actually putting that back in — a two-year session — and we're repealing Section 56, which says that the Legislature shall meet for sixty days, except in the case of impeachment, and the change is we're going to eighty days and we're making it clear that the eighty days need not be consecutive.

Now, your Committee on Legislative Functions, after a lot of work on this, feels that this is an important change in the legislative process. Instead of the Legislature being — now we're not telling the Legislature they have to meet in the odd year or in the even year; we're leaving it up to them. We're saying they start in January after election on the odd year. They could meet for eighty days consecutively, if they wanted to, or they could meet for sixty days; but they can't go beyond eighty natural days. They could break those days up, if they wanted to. It would be strictly up to them. We're leaving it as open as we can, so the Legislature itself — the two houses — can decide their own rules of procedure. We feel this has substantial advantage over our present system, because this would enable the Legislature, should it so desire, to organize in January of the odd year, work for, say, two weeks or three weeks to organize, to get their bills introduced; they could then adjourn, consider, act on some legislation, if they wanted to, such as appropriations; they could then adjourn, their committees could meet throughout the year at times they might specify, and the manner and place that they might specify. They would be working committees of the Legislature. The public could attend and be heard, and then they could, if they wanted to, come in on the even-numbered year, after having it a year — a year to have it studied and considered, and they could meet and take final action. But this, of course, is strictly up to them. We're not telling them they should do this. This would be a matter that they could decide as various legislatures meet after this Constitution is adopted.

We urge your support of this.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I'd like to address a question to Delegate Kelsch or any other member of the Committee who may be able to answer it.

I notice in Section 56, which is the one that was repealed in favor of this new language, in referring to the days of the session, it does not use the word "natural". Will you explain what the import of the change is in regard to use of the word "natural"?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: The intent of the Committee was to set a limit of time and without modifying the word "day," we were concerned that there might be such confusion. Were we talking about a legislative day? Now the Legislature likes to operate and has operated with a legislative day, which, I think, starts at twelve o'clock on one day and goes until two o'clock the next day, and the purpose of that was to enable — it was a procedural thing to enable you to consider — to think about what you did over the nighttime and then reconsider the next day, without having to have a two-thirds vote.

Now, we don't — we aren't — we don't propose to tell the Legislature that they would not continue that practice. If they want to, that would be called a legislative day. What we wanted to do was to say "natural days," so what we're saying is that "You are not to meet more than 80 24-hour periods in plenary session," so there could be no confusion on it. That was the reason for the modification of days.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President, I'd just like to ask Delegate Kelsch what, if anything, this does to the pre-session conferences which have been quite successful for the last two sessions?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Well, Delegate Longmire, I might mention that we, in the course of this particular proposal, we had it out, then back in, and then out and back in, and I think back out. The final decision — we recognize the great value of the organization session, because it allows you to organize and then take a break because of the Christmas holidays, and it was a good tool. But we felt that, because we're not requiring that you meet for sixty consecutive days or eighty consecutive days, that you can do the same thing — meet in January for three days, organize, go home for a week, and allow bills to be introduced, and come back.

Now, we felt what tipped the scales in favor of us getting rid of the December meeting is that we felt that it's important that a new legislature have budgets presented to it by elected officials who are taking office, and if you meet in December, you really have carry-over elected officials, and we thought that was quite important and that, I think, although there was not unanimous agreement on this point in the Committee, that carried the majority of the Committee to suggest doing away with the December meeting in favor of just starting in January and allowing the Legislature to set up however they may want to.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate O'Toole.

DELEGATE O'TOOLE: I'd like to direct a question again, to Mr. Kelsch or one of the Committee members.

It seems to me that — I wonder why they put a limiting number of days in there, because it seems to me that eighty is a pretty short number of days as time goes on, for the great number of bills that they have to consider.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: If I may try to answer that.

The Committee, I think, felt that we did not want to propose — we were not going to propose a full-time Legislature. We felt the people would want some limit on the time that they would meet. Now, we recognize that some felt that maybe eighty days it too few; some feel it's too long; but we felt at the conclusion, that it would be long enough, in view of the fact that they can recess and the committees can work.

Now, in our present system, with the sixty consecutive days, the committees work all morning and the Legislature really is in plenary session a very limited part of the time — generally probably no more than half-a-day. Now, the committees would work in the interim, or in between times or at recess times. These will not count against the days. So there is additional time. But we are leaving it open to the Legislature. If they want to do this, they could stay on the same system or they could just be in plenary session for a whole eighty-day session and then the committees could meet during recess times.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President.

DELEGATE KNUDSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Knudson, if he wishes the floor. Do you wish the floor, Delegate Knudson?

DELEGATE KNUDSON: No. It was answered.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Then Delegate Hoffner, do you wish the floor?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Yes. Mr. President and members of the Committee, I'd just like to follow up on the pre-organizational session. Now we, as a convention, are actually doing — we're allowed to do what we're asking for in this proposal. We had meetings throughout the summer — this summer. We had hearings, and right now we are in recessed sessions. Every Saturday we have a recess.

Now, I honestly feel it is proper, if there is a proper scheduling and a proper deadline set for introduction, that the Legislature will not in the next ten years even use sixty days for actual plenary days, and the ways this has been done — Delegate Kelsch has done a very good job of explaining the procedural part of it — the committees meet in the interim and the Legislature could come down, organize in January, and then recess for three weeks to allow introduction of bills, to allow a new administration to present their proposals — and, incidentally, the big bulk of proposals are department heads — department proposals — and with the proper deadline set for introduction of the proposals — bills — back to "proposals" and "bills"! — that the Legislature can then process any number they want to in, say, a short session, and any bills that are not processed in that time could be held over for the following year, and in that interim period could be processed, hearings could be held, but, also, the research part of it, and this is a very important part of it right now. Now, we spend many, many dollars for research, and it is the research committees, and these are not the same committees that process bills, and quite often we lose very, very good research proposals that are defeated because the members that do the research are not on the committees that process the bills, and these would be the same committees doing the research that process the bills, and I think a very important part.

But with the proper flexibility here, the Legislature would not need, I'm sure, the sixty days even that — would never need the eighty days — probably not for ten years; but I think we should allow at least eighty days because maybe in twenty years they will need it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Roney.

DELEGATE RONEY: Mr. President, I am not a legislator. I don't seek the office now or in the future. But one of the reasons I have never sought the office of a legislator is because I have felt I could never give the time to it. I think that the Legislature has created a body of so many committees, with so many meetings, that it makes it impossible for the man who has some other obligations to become a member of this body. I think that what you're opening up with this provision is that a plenary session of the Legislature could be held each Friday; the other four days of the week would be committee days, and you would have 80 Fridays, with a session — when the Legislature would be in session, and it would last indefinitely. It would be — the cost would be terrific, and you would have the professional legislator — the thing we have talked about eliminating.

I think that there better be some other bounds within this, or it is not very acceptable in the manner in which it is written.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. President.

DELEGATE UNRUH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Unruh — or Delegate Jestrab.

DELEGATE JESTRAB: Mr. Chairman, I would ask — if this is a unicameral legislative body that we end up with, my question would be of no import; but if it is a two-house legislature, what determines whether or not both houses would have to meet at the same time, or could one be in session without the other one being in session?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Will someone answer the question? Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President, to Delegate Jestrab's question: We tried with the last sentence that "No house of the legislature may recess or adjourn for more than three days without the consent of the other house." We felt that that would resolve the problem of one of them going home and the other one working and using up its time. By the way, that language is in the present Constitution, and that is the method by which the present Constitution keeps the Legislature working together as a simultaneous body under our present system.

Now, in response to Delegate Roney's question: I think, conceivably, you're right — they could do that. When we say "not consecutive," that leaves it open; but I would be very, very, very surprised if the Legislature — at least in the foreseeable future that I could see — would ever suggest such an idea, because they're — the legislators in North Dakota are not full-time legislators and they're going to want to get the work done and get home or set it up in a manner that's convenient to them. Our Committee felt we're writing a Constitution, we hope, for a number of years, and we felt that we just — we don't know how to limit it, other than to say that these are our elected representatives; if they horse around here for two years, meeting just on Friday and meeting in committees the other days, I don't think they will be in office very long. Of course they have the power to set their salaries. I would think that the — I would hope, anyway, the constant requirement of facing the electors in elections, the scrutiny of the public on their performance would be a sufficient check and balance on their work, rather than trying to define it in the Constitution.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

I agree somewhat, at least, with Delegate Roney. It might not go to quite the extreme that he mentions, but I feel that the Legislature doesn't need so many days.

Now, I know this will come as a surprise to some of you, but if we have an eighty-day session, I can assure you that we'll do most of the work the last two or three days and nights. All the tough bills, as many of you know — the appropriation bills that are a little bit tough — are held until late in the session. All the deals are made and everything.

Now, I think that sixty-three days would be a good limit. The preliminary session, you want to remember, was okayed by the people when we told them what a deal it was and how it would help us. Now we're eliminating it. Now you can have the days, but this was a good deal and it was one of the few things that we proposed to the people which they approved of. I think it should be retained, and the expenses are considerable, and I haven't had any great swelling from the grassroots telling me that you should meet more down there and you should get up to fifteen thousand a year. I really haven't had many people suggesting that, even though now we are paying expenses. There's some legislators in New York and lately in California, I understand, that have tried to upgrade our legislative pay and other things; but I think the limit — I'm not going to move an amendment, but I'm going to vote against it for the simple reason I think it's too liberal. I don't think the Legislature needs that much time or the people want them to have it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: I hate in a way, by inference, at least, to fix my age, because it's been 35 years ago when I was first in the House of Representatives. In fact, I would feel a little better about it by saying I was only twenty-one years old at the time I was elected. So I'm not as old as I first sound.

I think, in this measure, we are getting at the heart of the need of proper legislative procedure. I am a witness, personally, of the load that the present legislative assemblies in these last recent years are carrying, compared to, say, the 1937, '39 and '41 sessions. The work has quadrupled, at least, and we here as delegates should best appreciate the problem of dealing with approximately fifteen hundred measures in a short legislative period, when we are here meeting as a substantial number of, say, 125, and I think we all here can see mechanically the problems that we are faced with — the problems of study, the problems of research, the problems of judgment, the problems of acceptance by the people.

I personally feel that eighty days is probably a little too short period of time, but in the method of which they have it set up as far as committee work throughout the year, I feel this is very, very appealing. And to those who say that they cannot afford it, cannot spend the time in legislative work, I can appreciate that. I have heard over so many years criticism of the Legislature. I don't know of a group of people who have really sacrificed more for this State than the people who are members of the House and the Senate in the State of North Dakota. We have a pretty good idea insofar as the compensation that we are receiving as we meet here in this body. It's a great sacrifice insofar as time away from their offices, away from their work, and the primary thing is to give them time to properly make a judgment in the many pieces of legislation that are being presented in each session. I certainly hope that this bill receives our approval.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE CART: Mr. President.

My experience goes back, I guess, farther than anyone in the chamber in this legislative field. It was fifty years ago, the last session, that I started my first one, and I've seen a lot of change in that time. We had very little time taken up at that time by the public coming in to be heard and express themselves on matters before the Legislative Assembly. This was because of the difficulty of transportation. You could get from Fargo to Bismarck quite easily and from Beach to Bismarck; but other travel was slow and took quite a lot of time and, consequently, not too many people came. But in that fifty-year period of time, I've seen the good road development, and everything else, and you've got people coming in here and they want to be heard, and they should be; so I agree that there is a very — a great need for the length of the sessions to be stretched out to take care of that factor, whether it's seventy-five or eighty days, I wouldn't even argue; but it does need some fifteen or twenty days of additional time to complete its labors.

But, on the other side of having this session recess and using up maybe a whole year or seven or eight months, you're going to preclude people that have to make a living from some other source from even serving in your Legislature. This Legislative Assembly can certainly do its work and get the session over with, except in the case of an emergency or an impeachment, in some seventy-five-to-eighty days. And even with the — and they talk about the additional workload! In 1923 or 5, along in there, we handled up to 800 items of bills and resolutions without all the equipment you've got here. We didn't have committee rooms in the old Capitol. So, with all this modern equipment, the Legislature can move along more rapidly and handle a little heavier volume of work, and probably some of it might never ought to get on the floor anyway.

Thank you.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Haugen.

DELEGATE HAUGEN: I served five terms in the House of Representatives. Two of them were served at the five-dollar-a-day pay that the Constitution provides; yet I never considered that I was sacrificing any of myself in serving. I thought it was a privilege to serve, and I know that I gained more in education and knowledge in those five years, probably, than I would have in a college education in many ways.

I believe it's an honor and a privilege to serve in this Legislature, and I do believe that we are doing well — I do support the idea of an extended session. I believe we are doing well by including the eighty — providing an eighty-day session and telling the Legislature that they can use that eighty days in the biennium as they wish; but I do think that there are grave chances of misuse of the recess provision in this section.

In order that we may have a vote on that section, Mr. President — and I have not had an opportunity, of course, to present this amendment to the desk — but I do move that — there are no lines in the amendment, but I do move that the next-to-the-last sentence in the amendment be stricken. "The Legislative Assembly may authorize its committees to meet at any time during the biennium."

I move that those words be stricken, and I think that's explained and well-understood. The Legislature will still continue to have its research council and still have an opportunity to perform the studies and committee work on the legislation that it does now.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a motion from Delegate Haugen to Committee Proposal No. 1-37; that it be amended. Do you have the amendment as requested there?

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: On line 18 of the engrossed bill, delete "The Legislative Assembly may authorize its committees".

In line 19, delete "to meet at any time during the biennium."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Now, do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE CART: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Cart.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Baker.

DELEGATE BAKER: Mr. President, I hope the amendment does not prevail, because I feel that it is an integral part of the major improvement that I see in this proposed change.

Am I in order, Mr. President?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: I'm sorry, Delegate Baker. Would you repeat your statement?

DELEGATE BAKER: I was wondering if I was out of order.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, what was your question?

DELEGATE BAKER: I'm speaking on the amendment just voiced by Delegate Haugen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: No. That's fine. That's in order.

DELEGATE BAKER: I'm in order.

I'll repeat then: I hope that the amendment does not prevail. I regard it as an integral part of what I regard as the best features of this proposed change in our Constitution.

One of the things that I've never been satisfied with since its inception in the North Dakota legislative process is the operation of what began as the Legislative Research Committee, and which is now known as the Legislative Council. I'm a little uncomfortable in the company I keep on that subject right now, but those of you who have been in that chamber for some years have heard me make expressions of opinion that were less than flattering about the way that system works, and I see that a very real improvement could be made with this sort of change. I don't know that I would have chosen eighty days. I like the idea of a definite number of 24-hour periods of time. I think that's good — excellent.

The Legislative Council operation, however, the way it is now, is operated under kind of a lame duck situation. A legislature meets, passes what legislation it can, refers questions that it can't resolve to the Legislative Council for study during the interim; the members of that Legislature become members of the study committee, spend a lot of time and a terribly large amount of taxpayers' money in the process, and may not return. It may be a brand new batch — it frequently is — of legislators. And even if a sizeable number of those legislators who work during the interim do come back, as has been pointed out, they quite frequently wind up on committees which are not considering the same material they worked on during the interim. So there's a terrible, terrible waste here. I can see that the operation of a system which would have just as good a theoretical foundation and, in my opinion, a much better chance for practical results, could be built with a recessed session, a session which would meet soon after the election of its members and which would transact the legislative business which needed attention at that time. Then appoint what study committees are needed for a recessed period, and do that committee work during that time. Reconvene even the next year. Why would that be so bad? And consider then in an orderly fashion the material that has been developed by its study committees and pass as a complete unit — that is, sitting as a complete unit — the same legislators who sat before and decided to send this matter for study in the first place — on the outcome of the study, and make the decision at that time. I think that would be a major possibility of improvement. No certainty that it would come about that way; but I would certainly hope so.

There are risks. Of course, there are risks — that that Delegate Roney mentioned being, I suppose, the most ridiculous extension that you could imagine. But, generally, legislators are responsible people. They wouldn't be in the Legislature in the first place if they weren't. And so I don't think there's going to be any great abuse in a change to a system like this. My only concern is that there can be strong enough arguments for a change — a worthwhile change, so that the people will be willing to accept it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath and Delegate Solberg and Delegate Sinner have requested the floor. Now, do your requests pertain to discussion of the amendments or are you on the main question?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: No, Mr. President. No, Mr. President, my discussion wasn't on the amendment. But after this is disposed of, I would like to get the floor.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you.

Now, is there any further discussion on the amendment as offered by Delegate Haugen?

Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, I want to assure the Convention that what Delegate Baker has just pointed out is the key to what the Committee is recommending. The basic philosophy of this proposal comes from, I think, probably several people; but certainly Delegate Hoffner, along with Representative Streibel and many others, have tried to think through some meaningful improvements for the legislative process.

The right of the Legislature to hold official committee meetings while they're not in plenary session, in an effort to replace the not-so-official hearings and consideration of the Legislative Council, is really what's at stake here, so that the committees can work on meaningful pieces of legislation, meaningful bills, actual bills, during the interim, and make their recommendations to the main body from those hearings. I hope that the amendment is defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Delegate Byrne.

DELEGATE BYRNE: I don't want to belabor the question, except for one comment.

I believe that if this amendment is adopted, that you will obviously take the heart out of the whole intent of the proposal. I want to point out to the delegates that there is an acute problem here, as an example of need, for this type of legislation. Every day we are discussing a matter here and in the committee in these areas on reorganization and a change in the Constitution, and the going word around here is that this is a matter that will be taken care of by legislative action. I want to warn you of the need of having the coming legislative sessions elastic enough so that they can do the things that this Convention itself is demanding to put the Constitution in proper shape, and I believe this is the proper method to do it.

I want to warn you, if we are kept the way that we are right now, that it's really a burden that you would be putting on as far as the Legislative Session is concerned.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the amendments as offered by Delegate Haugen. In line 18 "The Legislative Assembly may authorize its committees", and then in line 19, "to meet at any time during the biennium." That is the question before the Convention.

As many as are in favor of the adoption of the amendment will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the amendment lost.

Now we are back on the main question, and the Chair will recognize Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President and delegates to this Convention:

This is good discussion. I'm certainly not opposed to the theory of the design in our subject here today. I would point out, though, by changing the wording from the old Constitution from "the first Monday" to "the first Tuesday" and adding the words "the third day of January," we are delaying the beginning of the session to a later date. There will be some years, of course, that we won't be able to start until the tenth of January. When I say "we," that's for the State. I'm out.

But, anyhow, I suppose the reason they changed that to the third day was that we'd be — so that on some years you wouldn't have to meet the day after New Year's.

But what I'm getting at is it does prolong the session in that respect, somewhat. But I think the whole key, probably, in Delegate Roney's argument is in limiting the recess days. There is — I know that the businessman and the professional man are able to serve in the Legislative Session much easier if he can get home over the week-end. But there is one group in this State of North Dakota that pretty near has got to be back when it gets around the first of April, and you know who I'm speaking about. So I say that the whole key to this thing is to limit the recess days, just like we have in this Convention here.

So I'm going to offer an amendment, Mr. Chairman, in this regard:

At the end of this little amendment slip you have on your desk — and I don't know what number the lines are in your engrossed bill — but I would add these words, Secretary, and I can't give them to you in writing: After the word

“house” insert a comma and insert these words — add these words: “but the total recess days shall not exceed sixteen natural days while meeting in plenary session.”

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: “Sixteen”?

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: “Sixteen.” If I can get a second, why I would explain.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second?

DELEGATE STANTON: I’ll second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I think, Mr. President, that this is probably understandable. I quickly arrived at the word “sixteen” thinking about how long a period of time they would probably be in session, considering holding Fridays out, of course, and — or Saturdays, rather — will take about eight-to-ten days, and then this would give them about six days after the end of the session — or after the organization, take three or four days in most cases. Now, this — maybe sixteen isn’t the right figure. Twenty seems to be a little long. But I arrived at the word “sixteen” in that respect, and I think, if you think about this, there should be a limitation on the recessed days of that plenary session; otherwise, there could be many, many circumstances where each session is going to run too long, and it would be a real hardship on many of the members that we would like to have in this legislature.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: I speak against the amendment. The whole idea of 1-37 is to give the Legislature the tools — procedures to take care of the very thing that he’s — that Delegate Trenbeath is talking about. The Legislature can handle these — not the Constitutional Convention — and I would strongly urge a “no” vote on this amendment.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I now move that we recess until 1:45.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It’s been moved by Delegate Saugstad, and it has been seconded, that the Convention do now recess until 1 — did you say “45” or “25”?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Forty-five.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: 1:45.

You have heard the motion. As many as are in favor of the motion will say “aye;” opposed “no.” The “ayes” have it and we’ll be in recess until 1:45.

Don’t forget the meeting that’s going on at the Town House, where many of the delegates are guests.

(The Session recessed at 12:08 P.M. until 1:45 P.M., the same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

(The following proceedings commenced at 2:00 P.M., the same day:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Trenbeath and seconded by Delegate Stanton.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: At this time, if I could get agreement of my second, I would like to withdraw that amendment and offer a substitute amendment that would do exactly what I was trying to do. It would be much simpler.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath has asked permission to withdraw the amendment. Do we have permission of his second?

DELEGATE STANTON: Yes.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We do. Is there any objection? Any objection from the delegates?

Hearing none, permission is granted.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I would ask that the amendment be read from the desk just as soon as it's typed up.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: The amendment to Committee Proposal 1-37 is as follows:

In line 21 of the engrossed bill, after the period following the word "house" add the following:

"The Plenary Sessions shall be held during the months of December, January, February and March; except for impeachment proceedings or special sessions."

And renumber the lines accordingly.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Now, Mr. Chairman — Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath. Do we have a second to the motion?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sanstead seconds the motion.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President, Delegates:

The way it was worded before, it did prove to be a problem whereby the Legislative Session could meet thirty days in January and recess and then come back into plenary session again, and that's what I was trying to get at. What I was trying to do was pinpoint the time of the plenary sessions, so at least a major segment of our economy and the representatives in North Dakota would — the plenary sessions would end at least by the end of March.

Now, this new amendment simply says the plenary sessions would have to meet at that time. It doesn't preclude that the interim committee staff be working. It doesn't refer to the special sessions, as referred to in the amendment; and, most important of all, it does not define any sixteen-day or twenty-day period for recess time — total time. So it just automatically says that the plenary sessions shall be held during that time — during this period.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion? Any questions?

Delegate John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. President and Delegates:

I agree that the timetable that Mr. — or Delegate Trenbeath has proposed sounds logical to us today. We are writing for the next thirty, forty or maybe even eighty years; that is why the Committee decided that the Legislature has got to control the time to do the job.

Number one, within the next twenty or thirty years, I grant you there is going to be a farmer majority in the Legislature, and they will set the time, and they certainly won't be sitting here in April to handle the business that should have been done in February and March. They've got a job to do back home. I don't think that this does anything but tie the hands of the future, rather than improve the prospects of a good legislative session today. I urge that the original language be retained and the amendment be defeated.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate McIntyre.

DELEGATE McINTYRE: Again, I will have to urge a "no" vote on this amendment, and I disagree with Delegate Trenbeath. We are, again, with this amendment, tying down the Legislature to a question of when they're going to meet. I realize the make-up of this State; but for that very reason I think that we can trust the legislators to handle this situation themselves, and I urge a "no" vote on the amendment.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Hoghaug.

DELEGATE HOGHAUG: Mr. President.

Delegate Trenbeath's amendment or proposed amendment starts out with December. Earlier we speak of the session starting in January. Does that mean, then, that we'd have January, February and March, and then they'd be in recess until the month of December? It appears to me that it would be. I'd have to go along with the Committee and ask that this be rejected.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: No. Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: No, it does not mean that, Delegate Hoghaug, at all. It means the opportunity rests — that in the odd number — in every other year — in between the biennium — let's put it that way — in between the biennium they could, if they wish, meet in the month of December and, also, it could mean that they could meet in the month of December after they're elected to — or organized.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question is on the adoption of the amendment to Committee Proposal No. 1-37 as offered and read from the desk.

Hearing no further discussion, as many as are in favor of the amendments will say "aye;" those opposed say "no." The "noes" have it and the amendment is defeated.

We are now back on Committee Proposal No. 1-37 as amended.

Delegate Hernet.

DELEGATE HERNETT: Mr. President, I just have a couple of questions that I'd like to ask some member of the Committee that bother me a little.

What do you mean by "natural day"? And if you define it as being twenty-four hours, then what is Saturday and Sunday? Are those counted as recess days then? If they are, what happens to your eighty-day session? I'm not satisfied in my mind. I would like to have some member of the Committee spell out exactly on the calendar what would happen and how long this eighty days would be.

I have one other question. If you are going to — if this session would last for an extended period of time over a biennium, I think that certainly, somehow or other, you should limit the type of bills that can be introduced in this session.

Down in South Dakota, they have an annual session. One of them is a shorter session and it's limited entirely to appropriation bills, and the other one is wide open for everything. I think, also, whenever the governor calls in a special session of the Legislature, he has to spell out what type of bills or what shall be up for consideration. I think, if you're going to open this up for a two-year continuous session, you could have — well, now, in the last session, we had about eleven hundred bills or so, with numerous resolutions introduced in that sixty-day period. If you're going to open this up for two years — and I don't think I'm exaggerating when I say that you could very well have a couple thousand bills introduced over a two-year period of time, because I know how a legislator's mind works, to some extent, and they'll think of something and there will be bills in continuously. These kind of limitations, I agree, could be spelled out by the Legislature, and I'm one of the first ones here, I think, to say that I trust the Legislature and I'd like to see them have more powers that they can do these things; but I still question whether you should give them the unlimited power to run the session for two years, which, I think, this is what this would be.

My one question now to somebody is: What is a "natural day" and what are you talking — what is a "recess day"?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President. On what is a "natural day" and a "recessed day": We're not dealing with recessed days because we're saying that the eighty days need not be consecutive; so we're saying that they can meet no more than eighty natural days, meaning eighty 24-hour periods in a biennium. That's the outside limit. That's it. They don't have to be consecutive. They can recess for five days, and that doesn't count.

Now, I think you also asked, Delegate Hernett, if I could tell you how this would work, and we went through this whole process in the Committee and, frankly, I can't. What we're saying with this kind of proposal is that this is a matter that the Legislature should decide.

Now, I would assume that the Legislature would not allow bills to be introduced any time during a two-year period. I would think that they would probably set the initial period something like — like we do now. There is no constitutional statement in our present Constitution saying when bills can be introduced in the sixty days; but the Legislature adopts rules.

It was the feeling of the Committee that we purposely made it in this language so that we would leave the Legislature with a free hand to operate as they should see fit, and we well contemplated that they might operate in a certain manner for the next ten, twenty years. There might be a desire to change it, but our feeling was that this process is really in their domain and that we make a mistake if we address ourselves to specifics, like the old Constitution did.

I think what we're asking of this Convention is to say, "Do we trust the Legislature to act wisely for the people of this State in this regard?" We think there are enough other checks and balances on the abuse of broad power. We think they will act wisely. We're referring all kinds of serious problems to them in this Constitution — laws in this document that we are making here — and I think there's one other area here where we're saying, "Gentlemen, you are the elected representatives of this State. You run that legislature in the best interests of the State." The only limit we felt there — we felt we should put no limit, and we felt we could make a good case for that, but we did decide, as a compromise, that we would put an eighty-day limit, and we felt this was good in the long run.

We would urge that you would trust them to use their good judgment to operate properly within that period.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

Delegate Hernett also asked another question about limiting the subject matter to the first session. Now, a lot of the states have done this, and most of them are going back to having it wide open for introduction of bills, and the deadlines are set in the session.

Now, we talked about this earlier in our deliberations, to limit the subject matter to, say, finances and fiscal matters, and most states that have tried it are going back to the earlier method, and limits would have to be set for introduction. The states that have annual sessions have cut-off dates in their first session and after that they won't allow any bills to be introduced except through the Delayed Bills Committee, and anyone who has ever served knows this is a tough way to get a bill introduced.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Chair will recognize Delegate Rundle.

DELEGATE RUNDLE: Mr. President.

Delegate Kelsch, how about the clock? Would you contemplate quitting at 4:10 in the morning of the seventh or eighth overtime day and calling it one day?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: We went around on that problem, also. We don't know how you could stop any deliberative body from fooling itself and covering the clock. There's no way you could prohibit that.

Now, our hope would be, by extending the time to eighty days, allowing them to split this up so they could do interim work, there would never be a need to cover the clock. But there's always a possibility. I don't know how we could write in the Constitution, "You can't cover the clock." If we want to cover the clock, we may have to consider that problem in this body, and if it happens, I don't know how you could stop it. Who would make them uncover the clock? It's just one of those problems you live with, I guess.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate John Paulson.

DELEGATE PAULSON: Mr. Chairman, I think the delegates should be advised that the existing limit on the legislative session is far broader than what we propose. Section 56 now provides that each session of the Legislative Assembly shall not exceed sixty legislative days except in cases of impeachment, and then it goes on to provide for the organizational session.

Now, what has happened is that there has been a long string of opinions and court decisions that the sixty legislative days must run consecutively, and they finally eliminated Sundays. But there is no way in the world to prevent some future legislature from saying that Saturdays don't count; then holidays don't count; that each legislative day shall begin on Monday and continue for as long as the Legislature so desires.

So, under the existing system, under the existing provisions, the Legislature could stretch their sixty days into a hundred and twenty days, and we have established an eighty-natural-day limit, which is a lot firmer than what is actually in the Constitution today.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: I had forgot to mention, Delegate: The present Constitution, Section 63, which relates to the reading of bills, says in the last sentence: "No legislative day shall be shorter than the natural day." And we're trying to — we are suggesting we repeal that part, because you get into this peculiar anomaly — "what is a legislative day?" So that's why we went to natural days. The purpose, apparently, of that idea was that you would relate to reading the bills, because you couldn't have a day that was ten minutes long and thereby cut off the right to reconsider. But we're trying to stay away from the term "legislative day" in the terms of limitation, because, as Delegate Paulson mentioned, in the old Constitution, "legislative day" could have been not shorter than one natural day; it could have been fifteen days long, and we're repealing that.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Sinner.

DELEGATE SINNER: Mr. President, one other thing that might be pointed out is that we're trying to provide the machinery whereby the Legislature, when it gets to an impasse, if it's either a bicameral or unicameral system, if it gets to a point where it can't come to a decision, if it's got to have a period to think through a situation and work it out, such as happened in Minnesota, that they can recess without sitting and charging the taxpayers a big bill for all the time that they're trying to negotiate a problem. And that's one of the reasons that we think this sort of straightforward freedom is a good thing for the Legislature and for the people.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol, did you wish the floor?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Yes, Mr. President.

I am in general agreement with the provisions of Section 8 of 1-37; however, Delegate Sinner just mentioned something, and earlier Delegate Jestrab mentioned something, and I notice that a proposal of the Legislative Committee that we just passed awhile ago, and this one, also, contains reference to a two-house system. It seems strange to me that a committee that is locked ten-to-ten on unicameral-bicameral would draft its sections in two-house language. Now, as a member of the committee I'm on, I don't like to beat a dead horse; but if the people do accept a one-house system, who corrects the language of the proposals in force with reference to one house and two house?

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: You're thinking! The Legislative Committee realized we were deadlocked, and decided to work up a unicameral draft and a bicameral draft. And when the delegates here voted for a bicameral, then all of the prepared proposals on each house were entered, and if this Convention should decide to submit the unicameral question to the people as an alternate, we also have, then, unicameral proposals that would do the same thing, except the reference to each house would not be in there and it would be just a mechanical deletion and insertion, depending upon how the people voted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question. The question before the Convention is on the first passage of Committee Proposal No. 1-37 as amended. Now, if there's no further discussion, those in favor of adoption will vote "yes;" those opposed will vote "no."

The Clerk will open the key. You may record your vote. Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The key is closed.

The roll call discloses 78 "ayes," 7 "nays," 13 delegates absent and not voting. Committee Proposal No. 1-37 has passed.

Delegate Meidinger.

DELEGATE MEIDINGER: Mr. President. I'm through voting. You can take me off the board!

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Thank you. (Laughter)

Next for consideration is Committee Proposal No. 1-53.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Committee Proposal No. 1-53, introduced by Committee on Preamble, Bill of Rights and Suffrage:

"Be it resolved by the North Dakota Constitutional Convention that section 23 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota be repealed; and that a new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota be created; both of which pertain to freedom to obtain employment.

SECTION 1. REPEAL.) Section 23 of the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby repealed.

"SECTION 2.) A new section to the constitution of the state of North Dakota is hereby created to read as follows:

"There shall be no discrimination against a qualified person's right to practice a trade or profession or to obtain or hold employment because of race, color, sex, creed, or membership or nonmembership in a trade or labor organization or professional group."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge:

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: I believe I have some responsibility to the delegates in making a statement on the matter, because I was on the subcommittee or the committee that put the Minority Report on this thing.

Yesterday, or the day before, we expressed our deep views and considerable feelings on the proposition before us, and this is kind of the "morning after" a little bit, and this is something I was looking for for some time, as I was charged with the responsibility of doing something about this important and controversial issue.

We have before us today the proposition of deciding which proposal we think is the best to do the job that we want done here in preserving the freedoms that we think are important. I'm sure the goal of all of us is a better Constitution for the people of North Dakota, and we want something that people can approve and we want something that we, as delegates, can get together on after we're done.

And so, as I looked at this thing throughout the summer and the fall and have heard the testimony that's been before our Committee and have tried to think of some situation that we could develop here that would cause — that would not cause such a tremendous division between us and the people of the State, I decided that it may be better — that it was better, in fact — to take old Section 23 and do a little rewording on it, and I'd like to explain why this has been done, because I recognize that in the old language there is a certain familiarity. There have been some court decisions on it and there's a conflict in the things that have existed, and I took this into account as I thought of the problems before us. But, first, I recognized that you have before you the old Section 23 for comparison here. I recognized that, in the first place, it really needed kind of a style and drafting treatment, because I don't think, in this day and age, we would say what that says in the manner that it says it. The English and construction is a little different than we presently have. That's a minor matter, of course.

I think, however, that it talks in too harsh a tone. It talks about, for example, "maliciously interfering" — "a malicious intent." I don't think any of us are thinking about a malicious problem here, and you note in the last paragraph, the last phrase that is there — the last part of it — we judge the violation to be a crime. To be sure, it's a misdemeanor; but we're talking about, in old Section 23, a crime, "with malicious intent." It seems to me that our language is too harsh — our dialogue too harsh. We do what we want done. It seems to me, too, that it deals primarily in abuse of one section of our society and, as we heard the other day, great criticisms have developed because of this.

I couldn't help, as I heard discussion the other day, that each of the discussions was really against old Section 23. Much of the opposition — but I am sure that many feel very deeply about this, which I consider to be inclusive of all the power in Section 23, with some additional limit.

Furthermore, the criticism was made that it's legislative in style, and I think we'll have to agree that, to some degree, it is, when you have, for example, a crime on — a penalty for a crime considered as a part of the Constitution.

Furthermore, as I heard testimony all summer on this thing, I was concerned and I listened to what the opposition to Section 23 was saying. They said, "Why pick on us alone?" They said, "This thing isn't so much a matter of principle, if you're dealing only on one segment." So I couldn't help but think that we had some obligation to handle this thing as a matter of principle, and I believe that we have done this in the proposal — the new proposal that is before you. The sheets have been put out to you for some comparison on it.

Now, you will note on the new proposal that it deals with both Labor and Management. I would like to read the proposal that you have before you and, later, would like to move an amendment; but, first, the proposal that you have before you:

"There shall be no discrimination against a qualified person's right to practice a trade or profession or to obtain or hold employment because of race, color, sex, creed, or membership or nonmembership in a trade or labor organization or professional group."

I have capitalized and underlined the words "because of" because I consider them to be key words here and words that I think you should consider in getting the true meaning of this thing. We don't want discrimination in a trade or profession or employment because of a certain race, because of a certain creed, because we belong to a certain church, because you may be a member of an organization. Let's not forget that. It protects the union member from the abuses of many; or, of course, "nonmembership in a trade or labor organization or professional group."

So I think we handle the matter as a matter of principle. We apply it across the board, and I think we can support it on that basis. I think this is important to us — that we have dignity and honesty in our deliberations, and all of us want this, and that is one of the big reasons that I decided that the language was better; that it was not as harsh; that it was more inclusive; that it involved more a matter of principle. And so I think we're talking in fairer, more meaningful terms. I think our tone is more in keeping with our present moods. I think, actually, we're talking about discrimination, really, and I recognize that the old term "right-to-work" sometimes — I don't think it confused the citizens very much, but I think that sometimes it confused the propagandists, if any, because it has — in some minds, the guarantee of work is the connotation. I don't think the citizens have this connotation, but some propagandists have. And, therefore, I feel, too, that the discrimination aspect of the thing is the way to handle it. But, most of all, I think this type of thing looks to the future, because we have seen around us the very faint outline of some fence-building that sometimes goes on in the trades and the professions, as well as in Labor, and we're concerned that eventually it could grow to be something a little more abusive than it is now.

I don't want to overstate the situation. I don't think it's a terribly big problem now; but we've got to look to the future. This Constitution, hopefully, will last for awhile, and I think we have a need for keeping government within the bounds of government.

Now, because of the suggestions that were made the other day on the floor debate and the suggestion that probably there was something meant here that wasn't said here, I can only make this statement:

This is a simple statement from a common delegate of this Convention. It is to speak in common terms to common people. It does not mean things that it does not say, and I wouldn't want it read into it that it means something that it doesn't say.

Now, we talked about the familiarity of court opinions on the old one, and there have been, I note in the book, three court opinions on it. Not a great case-load, really. I have this Attorney General's opinion on the present section (indicating). It deals with many aspects of it. I think I have researched it so that it says what we want it to say and does what we want it to do. I think it retains in full force and effect — the old Section 23 — and it applies it more uniformly across the board to all people involved in this type of problem.

So I would, however, in the — to make absolutely certain that there is no concern about this matter, I would move an amendment, which, I believe, is at the desk, and I would ask the Clerk to read it, please.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Clerk will read the amendment.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to 1-53 reads as follows:

On line 10 of engrossed Committee Proposal 1-53, after the word "qualified" insert the word "natural".

On line 11 of engrossed Committee Proposal 1-53, after the word "or" and before the word "to" insert the words "of a citizen".

And renumber the lines accordingly.

If amended, the suggested suggestion would read as follows:

"There shall be no discrimination against a qualified natural person's right to practice a trade or profession or of a citizen to obtain or hold employment because of race, color, sex, creed, or membership or nonmembership in a trade or labor organization or professional group."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Do we have a second to the proposed amendment?

DELEGATE FALLGATTER: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Seconded by Delegate Fallgatter.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: As you must know, the word "natural" is put there so that we are sure that this is a person, rather than a corporation, or something else. As an amateur, I never, never thought that it was possible that a "person" might mean something else than a live, human being, and the "citizen" was put in to more closely comply with the language of old Section 23, to give it a greater force.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE PETERSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson.

DELEGATE PETERSON: I object to the amendment. I felt the other day, when it was presented, it should have been presented at time in toto, and it was thoroughly discussed, and I understand at that time that they had had professional assistance in preparing it. So, on general principles, I resist the amendment. But, at this time, I would like to ask a question which has to do with the amendment; but, also, with the section itself, and I don't know whether this is in order at this time, sir.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson, if it is pertaining to the amendment, then your question is in order; however, if it is on the body of this proposal, then, if you would hold it until we are through with the disposal of the amendment, and then you may ask your question.

DELEGATE PETERSON: Yes, it is on the body.

DELEGATE VOGEL: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Vogel.

DELEGATE VOGEL: May I ask a question of Mr. Burbidge?

What about the non-citizen's right to obtain or hold employment because of race, color, sex, creed, and so forth?

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Burbidge.

DELEGATE BURBIDGE: We can be, of course, in an endless straddle of words. The old section, as you note on the top of the sheet on your desk, talks about "every citizen." Now, perhaps we could have "every person." Maybe there are some other ways of expressing it. But we have court decisions on this word "every citizen," and I think it has a familiar application.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the amendments as offered by Delegate Burbidge and read at the desk.

No further discussion? As many as are in favor of adopting the amendments will say "aye;" those opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The amendments are adopted.

Now we're back on the motion as — on the Proposal 1-53 as amended.

Now, Delegate Peterson, did you have a question at this time?

DELEGATE PETERSON: Yes, I did. First, though, I wanted to say, in regard to the discussion that Mr. Burbidge presented us with, that I would like to borrow a leaf from my neighbor, Delegate Pearce, and quote Shakespeare: "Methinks he protesteth too much."

But my question is: When we voted the other day — and this is not — does not only pertain to this one, but it probably pertains to the unicameral - bicameral, also, but particularly to this one — if this were going to be a set-aside on the ballots, so that the people can vote on it, also, would it be in three — would it be presented three ways, with Burbidge's, and then the original and then the possibility of deletion, or would the people only have the opportunity to vote either on Burbidge's or deletion, or would they — the people — vote on Burbidge's and the old Constitution? I think this is something that we haven't cleared up, and it isn't clear in my mind. I do feel very strongly that this is an issue that should be presented to the people and that they should have a vote on; but I don't know just how you would do it.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Peterson, if you are directing the question to me, then I would have to say it is something that ultimately will have to be decided by the delegates. But, at the present time, the committee on alternate proposals, to my knowledge, has not met, and this is one of the decisions that committee will have to make recommendations on, and then it will come back to the floor of the Convention, and then the Convention again will have to decide on whether there will be one or two — that they'll receive choices.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Omdahl.

DELEGATE OMDAHL: We've gone over all the arguments relating to 1-53 before. I think that it should be said, however, at this time that while we are talking about it in terms of abstract principles, that we must admit that this principle is going to be applied primarily to one group of people, and when we insert the word "qualified," I suppose we are saying that we are going to impose a principle on those who are classed as unqualified, and place them in a class of their own so that we can impose on them restrictions and regulations affecting the effectiveness of their organizations. I don't think that this is going to hinder in any way any other profession or occupation in the State, except people who are trying to organize and belong to labor unions.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, this is a — this is a serious section that is before us. I don't understand all of the possible ramifications of it. I don't understand, for instance, why the trade and labor terminology — terminologies are classified as “organizations.” The professional people are classified as a “group.” Now, I don’t know what that difference would be in calling trade and labor an “organization” and calling the professionals a “group,” and I also don’t know what the ramifications might be out of adding the word “natural” or adding the words “of a citizen,” and I think Delegate Omdahl brought up a good point about qualified persons and unqualified persons, and this is the last time we’re going to have a chance to work on this thing. I just wonder if it wouldn’t be in order to put it at the end of the calendar and give us more time, because the debate on the main question was really on the high arguments on both sides, one against the other, when Section 23 itself came into play. Now, we haven’t really debated or talked about the application of this language in the Section, and if I were in order, I would move that it be placed at the foot of the calendar.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol moves that Committee Proposal No. 1-53 be placed at the foot of the calendar. Do we have a second? Delegate Hildebrand seconds the motion.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Trenbeath.

DELEGATE TRENBEATH: I just wanted to mention to the Chair that we have amended this now, and it will have to be laid over one Convention day, unless we suspend the rules and put it on the calendar.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Nevertheless, we do have a motion before the Convention that it be placed at the foot of the calendar, and the motion has been seconded.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President, am I correct, then, that it will have to be laid over one Convention day, regardless of the motion to put it at the foot of the calendar?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, not necessarily, Delegate Aubol, because there could be a motion here that the rules be suspended, that this be deemed properly reengrossed, as that motion you’re familiar with; then it would be right back before the Convention for first passage.

DELEGATE AUBOL: Well, I think that the point that Delegate Trenbeath pointed out — it would be placed over —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, it’s well to address the question, if you are not sure; but you asked me if it would be laid over. It would be, on the normal basis; however, if they do move to suspend the rules and place it on the calendar, deem it properly re-engrossed, then, of course, it would be before the Convention.

DELEGATE AUBOL: I would then withdraw my motion and have it laid over in accordance with the prescribed rules.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, Delegate Aubol, I can’t guarantee you that that’s going to happen. You can withdraw your motion. That is perfectly all right, if the second will go along with it. Who seconded it?

DELEGATE HILDEBRAND: I did.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hildebrand seconded your motion. So, if you people wish to withdraw your motion, that is fine; but I can’t guarantee that someone isn’t going to make another motion on the floor.

So now we’re back on discussion on Committee Proposal No. 1-53.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: I have an amendment at the desk, if it’s in order at this time.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Proposed amendment to Committee Proposal 1-53 is as follows:

Delete all of lines 1 through 14 of the engrossed proposal and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"That section 23 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota, which pertains to freedom to obtain employment, be retained in its present form.

"SECTION 1.) Section 23 of the present constitution of the state of North Dakota is retained in its present form and reads as follows:

"Every citizen of this state shall be free to obtain employment wherever possible, and any person, corporation, or agent thereof, maliciously interfering or hindering in any way, any citizen from obtaining or enjoying employment already obtained, from any other corporation or person, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor."

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You have heard the reading of the proposed amendment. Do we have a second?

DELEGATE KWAKO: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It's been seconded by Delegate Kwako. Is there any discussion?

Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE DOBSON: Well, Mr. President, a substantial majority of this Convention has spoken on this issue. The majority wants to retain a right-to-work provision in the Constitution. We have crossed or passed that crossroad. Now we come to another crossroads — whether to retain present Section 23 or substitute the Burbidge proposal. I think we would be wise to stick with the well-defined path of Section 23, rather than go down the road of the Burbidge proposal, which, I fear, may be filled with pitfalls and briar patches.

Now, I have received many letters on this subject, as I'm sure all of you have. Most of the letters I have received have been in favor of a right-to-work provision. All of those letters, except one, said, "Keep Section 23." The exception was from our good friend Delegate Burbidge.

Secondly, I think that by retaining present Section 23, it would probably enhance the chances of ratification of the new Constitution. I think we probably all agree — most of us — that the right-to-work issue should be on the ballot as a separate question. It's quite an emotional issue for most people. The Burbidge proposal would affect far more organizations and people than present Section 23. So far there's only been discussion of the right-to-work aspect of it; but it has quite a broad sweep that hasn't been explored at all here. These organizations which, in their view, would be adversely affected may be inclined to campaign for a "no" vote on the main body of the Constitution. This would insure that they would retain their present status, even if the Burbidge proposal is carried or set aside. Whether we favor or oppose the right-to-work provision in the Constitution, I think nearly all of us agree we don't want this issue to wreck the work of the Convention.

Therefore, I think it would be prudent and practical to stick with the present Section 23.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Decker.

DELEGATE DECKER: Mr. President, being on the same committee that Delegate Burbidge is, we received a lot of testimony during the summer, and one of the main objections that the people who appeared at our committee had was that it was a discriminatory section and they felt that it should include other people, such as the professions, if they were included.

Delegate Burbidge spent an awful lot of time — I think as you people know, in fact — and if it's being held over until next Monday or Tuesday, I wonder if he'll get any sleep this week-end, too. I think that the time that has been spent has been well spent, and you people that have listened to the talks by Delegate Burbidge realize the intent of it, and I think that down the road a long ways, which we have to look, I think it could have a lot of influence and it could mean an awful lot to the people in all associations; that they wouldn't be restricted by a third party in their employment or in earning their livelihood.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Delegate Hubrig.

DELEGATE HUBRIG: Mr. Chairman — Mr. President:

I didn't intend to speak today on the issue, one way or the other; but I do want to speak a couple minutes, probably.

Number one, I think it was yesterday or the day before, about 4:30 in the afternoon, the word was passed to me that an opinion had been obtained from the Attorney General, or a letter, whichever you want to call it, dated the twelfth day of January, 1972. It wanders through my mind why the delegates here were not advised of why this opinion or letter, whichever you want to call it, from the Attorney General's office was not distributed or at least let be known to the Convention delegates. I don't know what the reason was for it. I don't want to make any accusations. I don't want to, but it looks awful funny to me. Probably a lot of the other things do, too.

But, nevertheless, that letter of nine pages tries to spell out what would happen under the Burbidge proposal.

I am beginning to think today that probably, by going back to the old Section 23, or as close to it as Mr. Burbidge would like to come to it, would be something to cradle all organized labor to sleep on, and they probably say, "Well, we didn't make it. We'll buy this." I get serious doubts if the people of the State of North Dakota are going to buy legislation in the Constitution when we've been consistently talking "Let's not put legislation in the Constitution. Let's have a constitution. Leave the legislation to the Legislature." The Legislature has on the statute books a right-to-work law in this State. All we ask for is leave it to the Legislature and not put it in the Constitution.

I don't know how much more organized labor could ask for than to be treated equally. Leave the Legislature handle the matter. We say we trust the Legislature in many other issues. Why not trust them on this one?

Today we were talking about leaving the Legislature set their own time when to call themselves into session, when to retire from session. Regardless of how many trips they make, we're trusting them, aren't we? Let's trust them on this issue, too.

I plead with you again to please reconsider whichever way you voted the other day and vote on the issue here for the deletion completely of Section 23 from the Constitution.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

The question before the Convention is on the amendment as offered by Delegate Dobson.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President. Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: As the delegates know, I'm troubled about this whole matter of Section 23 and the Burbidge proposal as well. I am particularly troubled about one word and that's the "qualified natural person's right" —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Urdahl —

DELEGATE URDAHL: Yes?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have an amendment before the Convention that we are — that we are considering at this time, and I believe your — your question is in the way the amendment or the proposal now reads; so as soon as we dispose of this — of this proposed amendment, then you can have the floor.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Very good, sir. Very good.

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Benson.

DELEGATE BENSON: Mr. Chairman, I speak to the amendment, and I urge its defeat.

I think here that we are talking about a very fundamental right, and it says that nobody has to join any organization as a condition to practice a profession or to hold any type of employment. And for that reason I would say I'm going to vote to defeat this amendment, because we cannot have a constitutional issue which is purely discriminatory. Either it fits everybody or nobody.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question? The question is on the adoption of the amendment as proposed by Delegate Dobson.

No further discussion?

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "noes" have it and the amendment lost.

Now we're back on the question on the adoption of — we're back on the main motion as amended. That's Committee Proposal 1-53. And Delegate Urdahl.

DELEGATE URDAHL: Mr. President, I want to speak to the amendment of Dr. — of Arden Burbidge — Delegate Burbidge — and I say, as I said before, I'm really troubled about this whole matter, because I can see that it is in this convention hall really dividing people; and for that reason, I think it's unfortunate that it comes up again. But there's one word in this one that really bothers me, and that is the word "qualified."

Now I concede that for many of these groups there are those that determine the qualifications; but I'm thinking of a person who is probably labeled as a "common laborer." Who determines his qualifications? And the way I read it, it can't be anybody else than the employer. So he stands before one person to determine whether or not he is qualified.

Then let me — let me say, too, that I feel this is — I will agree with Burbidge, though, on one thing — that it does make the language a little nicer. It isn't quite as harsh, as he said, and I agree with him on that. But I think that it has every — every bit as much discrimination in it, if not more, than old Section 23, and I — I hope that we could resist this proposal.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

DELEGATE AUBOL: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Aubol.

DELEGATE AUBOL: What is the question before us at this point?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question before the Convention at this time is on the first passage of Committee Proposal — no, it is not. We are still on the — this at the present time is right before the Convention, and in the event that nothing happens from here on, this will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch.

DELEGATE KELSCH: Unless there's strong objection, I would ask that we suspend the rules so we can dispose of this, put it on the — have it re-engrossed and put it on the first passage as re-engrossed.

DELEGATE STANTON: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Kelsch moves that the rules be suspended, that Delegate Proposal No. 1-53 be deemed properly re-engrossed, that it be placed on the calendar for first passage as amended.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Am I not right now, it takes two-thirds vote to suspend the rules?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: And if two-thirds vote — if the motion does not receive two-thirds vote, then this proposal would be on the calendar on the tenth order tomorrow — or Monday?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: That is correct.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: Really, I'm a little scared right now. I'm afraid I'm going to upset something here. But there are things about this particular proposal that I said I haven't liked, and I think perhaps one is the fact that it's in the negative.

Now, I don't know if I can move this or not —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hendrickson, I am going to have to rule you out of order.

DELEGATE HENDRICKSON: If I want to propose an amendment, would I be in order?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We have a motion to suspend the rules before the Convention at this time.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: May I speak on the motion?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: You may speak on the motion — the motion to suspend the rules and to have the proposal re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage.

DELEGATE HOFFNER: In view of the fact of the views expressed by Delegate Hendrickson — and I am sure there are many of us in this body that would like to take a closer look at this proposal — that I would hope the delegates resist the motion to suspend the rules.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Any further discussion?

Hearing none, the question before the Convention is on the motion to suspend the rules; that the Committee Proposal be properly re-engrossed and placed on the calendar for first passage.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no."

I doubt very seriously that that had a two-thirds vote. I'm going to rule that the motion lost.

How many request a division? That is a sufficient number. We will have a division.

Now, those in favor of the motion to suspend the rules will vote "aye;" those opposed will vote "no."

The Clerk will open the key and you will record your vote.

Has every delegate voted? Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

Delegate Sanstead, have you voted? Have you voted, Delegate Sanstead?

DELEGATE SANSTEAD: Yes, Mr. President, I have.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: It doesn't light up here, but I guess that's the important board.

Does any delegate wish to change his vote? The vote is closed.

The roll call discloses 42 "ayes" and 43 "nays," with 13 delegates absent. So the motion to suspend the rules failed and Committee Proposal No. 1-53 will be on the tenth order of business on Monday.

Now, fellow delegates, we have arrived at three o'clock and it was sort of a gentleman's agreement that we would call the Convention — we would adjourn the Convention at three o'clock.

Now, there is a question about how the highways are, for those of you that wish to travel.

Now, I do have a highway report here that has just been brought to my desk, and I'm going to ask the Clerk to read the report.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Road Report.

Very icy conditions due to freezing rain exist throughout the south and western parts of the State in the area south and west of the Missouri River and extending eastward to Interstate 94 to the Medina area. A new front is moving into the extreme northwestern corner of the State, in the Crosby-Bowbells area, bringing snow flurries and heavy drifting. This front is expected to move southeastward across the State and will bring strong, gusting winds and snow squalls as it does.

The severe blizzard conditions in the eastern part of the State have abated somewhat. Visibilities there now are in the one-mile range. Winds will pick up again there later in the evening when the new front reaches that area.

At the present time highways in the north central part of the State, roughly the Minot and Devils Lake districts, are in good driving condition.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: How many of our delegates intend to journey? We better adjourn!

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: Mr. Speaker.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad — or Delegate Hoffner?

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I would move that —

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Hoffner, did you have a question?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: Mr. President, I talked to a number of members of the Legislative Functions Committee, and we're going to have a half-hour meeting after the adjournment here, and in that half-hour I think we could put out four committee reports, and it would really help for the Monday activities and give our Clerk a lot of work to do, and I don't know now, in view of your weather report, I don't know if that's going to be possible.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Well, what do you wish to do?

DELEGATE HOFFNER: I'll call a meeting five minutes after adjournment in the Large Hearing Room and promise not to keep you longer than a half-hour.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that the absent delegates be excused, and Delegate Sondreal seconds the motion.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it and the absent delegates are excused.

Delegate Saugstad.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: I now move — is the desk clear?

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The desk is clear.

DELEGATE SAUGSTAD: All right. I now move that we adjourn until 9:00 A.M., January 24th.

DELEGATE LITTEN: Second.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Saugstad moves that we adjourn until 9:00 A.M., January 24.

As many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The Session is now adjourned.

(The Plenary Session adjourned at 3:02 P.M., Friday, January 21, 1972, until 9:00 A.M., Monday, January 24, 1972.)

VOLUME XVI
(January 24, 1972)

MORNING SESSION

(The sixteenth day of the Plenary Session commenced at 9:16 A.M., January 24, 1972, as follows:)

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The Convention will please come to order.

Our Chaplain for this morning is the Reverend Gerald Mertz with Faith Lutheran Church of Bismarck.

REV. GERALD MERTZ: Heavenly Father, we pray for the representatives of this Constitutional Convention. We are thankful for establishing in our midst law-making powers dedicated to upholding order and liberty. Bless this group of people who have been selected to perform these duties. Grant that they may be ever mindful of the welfare of all of the people in North Dakota. Endow them with such wisdom for their duties, that true purpose of government may prevail to the end that we may live soberly and uprightly in Your sight. May we never forget the great privileges that our State gives to its citizens. May we, its citizens, have high regard for all that goes on within these walls. We pray this in the name of Christ Our Lord. Amen.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: We'll be on the third order of business — Roll Call. The Clerk will open the key, you will record your presence.

Has every delegate recorded his presence? The key is closed.

Roll call discloses 93 present, five absent, a quorum is declared.

Be on the fourth order of business — Approval of the Journal.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: Your Committee on Revision and Correction of the Journal has carefully examined the Journal of the 20th day of January, 1972, and finds the same to be correct.

Delegate Simonson, Chairman.

Delegate Dobson moves that the report be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the Committee Report on the Revision and Correction of the Journal. Any discussion?

Hearing none, as many as are in favor of the motion will say "aye;" opposed "no." The "ayes" have it. The report is adopted.

Sixth order — we'll be on the fifth order of business — Reports of Standing Committees.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A majority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-11, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same be amended, and when so amended recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Longmire, Roney, Engelter, Fallgatter, Gipp, Hartl, Hougen, Kessel, Kretschmar, Rundle, Wallin and Warner.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Longmire moves that the report be adopted.

Mr. President: A minority of your Committee on Judicial Functions and Political Subdivisions, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-11, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the report of the majority be amended, and when so amended, recommends the same do pass.

Delegates Aubol, Bassingthwaite and Hoghaug.

Delegate Longmire, Chairman.

Delegate Aubol moves the report of the Minority be adopted.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: The question is on the adoption of the minority report, that it be amended to the majority report.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire.

DELEGATE LONGMIRE: As the President and the delegates will recall, we passed the motion on Friday in order to give the delegates an opportunity to study the different reports that are coming in so that this debate or this discussion on the two reports will be held tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

Now if the President desires that I renew that motion, I will be very glad to do so. But the way the record stands now, we've already passed the motion.

PRESIDENT WENSTROM: Delegate Longmire, I believe there would be no reason for renewing the motion as I understand it.

CHIEF CLERK GILBREATH: Mr. President: A majority of your Committee on Education, Resources and Public Lands, to whom was referred Committee Proposal No. 1-16, has had the same under consideration and recommends that the same do pass.

